"The neighborhood of a Roman Catholic church is a good stand for the saloon business, and this is equally so in every city in America."—Rev. Walter Elliott (R. C.), in the Catholic World.

NUGGETS.

Drink baffles us, confounds us, shames us and mocks us at every point; the public house holds its triumphant course.

I want it distinctly understood that no man can drink intoxicating liquors in public and remain a member of my staff.—Gov. Loundsbury of Connecticut.

Has your boy been betrayed? And would you ask the saloon-keepers to spare his innocent blood? Their answer will be: "What is that to us? See thou to that."

Did you ever hear of a community which enrolled among its substantial and public-spirited citizens the names of its saloon-keepers, with their business occupation affixed?

The horse sheds its coat in the spring till the driver's coat is covered with hair; but the drunkard's wife sheds tears and shivers all winter, that the saloon-keeper's wife may ride forth in the spring clothed in silk and satin.

Supt. Byrnes of the New York police says that the reasons why men are unable to find work are four, viz., incompetency, laziness, intemperance, and last but least, old age and sickness. These account for the crowded cheap lodging-houses.

Could the youth, to whom the flavor of the first wine is delicious, look upon my desolation; could he but feel the body of death with which I cry hourly, it were enough to make him dash the sparkling beverage to the earth in all the pride of its mantling temptation.—Charles Lamb.

Bible Lesson.

STUDIES IN THE EPISTLES.

LESSON IX.—Fourth Quarter, 1893.—November 26.

SUBJECT.—The Christian Home.—Colossians 3: 12-25.

GOLDEN TEXT.—I will behave myself wisely in a perfect way. Oh, when wilt thou come unto me? I will walk within my house with a perfect heart.—Psalm 101: 2.

[Open the Bible and read the lesson.]

COMMENTS BY E. E. FLAGG.

1. The perfect Christian character.—vs. 12–14. The new man must be radically different from the old man, as the elect of God, chosen by him before the foundation of the world, "holy and beloved," the former being the sign that we belong to him, the latter being the result of his fatherly relation to us. "Put on therefore," as the revised version reads, "a heart of compassion," without which there can be no genuine "kindness." "Humbleness of mind" naturally follows. This precludes all envying, all unseemly strife to win a higher place than our fellows. Pride and selfishness go together. One selfish person will spoil the comfort of a home, because he or she, instead of putting on this humbleness of mind, think more of their own feelings and comfort than of the feelings and comfort of others. And, generally, such people are very unconscious that this is the case. Their minds are blinded by their own selfishness. "Meekness, long suffering, forbearing one another in love." Occasions are always arising for the display of these virtues. There are great varieties of opinion, even among good men, and the best people have their weakness and inconsistencies. It is so in the church and in the family. We cannot see the inward springs of action, and will always be misjudging other Christians, unless we are careful to keep our own imperfections in mind, and remember that God has far more to bear with from us than we from the frailest and most imperfect of our brethren in Christ. "But above all these things put on charity." It is like the girdle which binds all the other garments together. It is the one bond which makes the whole character complete.

2. How to attain perfection of character.—vs. 15–17. We have been given the picture of a perfect man in Christ Jesus. The next question is how to attain this perfection. Here we have the answer:—First, "let the peace of God rule in your hearts;"—and not enter occasionally, as a chance guest, but abide as the reigning power, calming all tumult, restraining all passion. What peace is to the individual Christian, it should be to the church collectively. Amid the storm and strife of the world she is to be God's dove of peace, bearing the olive-branch, and with eye fixed on the rainbow of promise. "And be ye thankful." Thankful hearts are always peaceful hearts. "Let the Word of Christ dwell in you richly." The memorizing and personal appropriation to ourselves of the precious truths of God's Word is one of the great sources of peace; and also the open manifestation of our joy to others "in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs." "And whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks." Here we touch bottom. This is the true secret of Christian perfection, for no one can hate, or envy, or overreach another, or live in selfish pleasure, or in any way, by speech or act, belie their profession, and do it in his name.

3. The duties of the family relation.—vs. 18–25. That can be no true home where husbands and wives do not understand or regard the duties implied in their mutual relationship. Children and servants look up to the heads of the household for examples, and if they see bickering, strife, alienation, or even a mere lack of perfect harmony, the spirit of discord is sure to take possession of that family. "In the Lord." They who are one in him, will never quarrel for supremacy. There will be no thought of authority on the one side or subjection on the other, but love will settle every question and reconcile every difference. "Children, obey your parents," etc. The foundation of stable government, as well as of peace and order in society, is laid in the family. The ranks of the law-breakers are recruited either from the neglected children of the street who never know any restraining home influence, or those who refused to submit to parental authority. But fathers, on the other hand, must not provoke acts of disobedience, by unreasonable commands, or constant "nagging," without any seeming appreciation of their children's efforts to please. Masters and servants (see next chapter, 1st verse), have also their mutual duties. The former should remember that they too have a Master to whom they must give account, and do to their servants as they would be done by. This simple rule carried out in shop, and factory, and kitchen, would help greatly to simplify the labor question. On the other hand, servants are to do their every task "heartily, as to the Lord and not unto men;" remembering that while men may not see the unfaithful service, God does. "Knowing that of the Lord ye shall receive the reward of the inheritance." We are building for eternity. The hasty, careless work, the dropped stitches, may not show here, but when the tapestry of our life is enrolled above we shall see with shame the faulty, marred pattern;—faulty and marred because we were too careless, too thoughtless, or too indolent to take pains and do our best. How can we expect a prize for such work? But what an incitement to labor for "the prize of the high calling," when we know that our Judge will have no respect of persons, and that the humblest service faithfully done stands equal chance for winning with the highest.

Literature.

CURRENT PERIODICALS.

The distinctive features of the Cosmopolitan Magazine for November are attractive in the extreme, and the average magazine reader will find much to interest him in its pages. As usual, the fine engravings, which are a specialty in this periodical, are numerous and artistic. The leading papers are as follows; Autobiographical Notes by Franz Von Lenbach, the German artist, illustrated; Busy Days of an Idler in Mexico, by Ellen M. Slayden, illustrated; In Hop-Picking Time, by Minetta Eames, illustrated; The Bolero in Seville, by Geo. W. Edwards, illustrated; Some English (Aristocratic) Forms of Invitation, by Adam Badeau, illustrated; The Esquimau Maiden's Romance, by Mark Twain, illustrated; American Notes, first paper, by Walter Besant, illustrated. Measures of Lawn (with colored engravings), by Mrs. Roger A. Pryor; A Doll-Home, by H. H. Boyesen, illustrated; Dealing in Futures, by Alice W. Rollins, illustrated; Papyrus, the Writing Material of Antiquity, by Geo. Ebers, illustrated, and Mr. Howell's Letters of an Altrurian Traveler. Several Poems, by as many writers, and the departments of Art and Letters, and of The Progress of Science, add to the beauty and worth of this excellent issue. Published in New York City. Price 12½ cents.

A story of the old time regulation Thanksgiving dinner opens the November number of the Cottage Hearth, which is followed by a Provencal Pilgrimage, well written and illustrated. Old slavery days furnish material for a good story, as, also, does New England sixty years ago for A Country Episode. Other stories of interest are Aunt Liz, by Annie J. Edwards; The Thanksgiving Guest, by Nora Perry, and the Conclusion of Trouble in Dark Hollow, by Will Allan Dromgoole. The departments for the mother and the housewife contain carefully prepared articles by specialists, which may be accepted as authoritative. The special feature of this number is the extensive premium list, for the coming year, which will be sent free of charge upon application. The current issue contains an unusual number of handsome engravings. Published by W. A. Wilde & Co., 25 Bromfield street, Boston. Price, 15 cents.

Dr. M. L Holbrook's Journal of Hygiene for November opens with Hygiene and Æsthetics in the Nursery, by Bertha Myers, and is followed by The Effects of Tobacco on Health, by E. L. Hart, either of which papers is worth the price of the magazine. The editor continues his series of Health Notes, relating to everyday conditions and circumstances, and containing much useful information. Jennie Chandler's series of Hygiene for Women is equally suggestive, and helpful. Topics of the Month include notes on the prevention of consumption, Turkish-bath Anniversary, and Immortality and Health. The character of this periodical commends it to every household where health and comfort are prized. New York: Dr. M. L. Holbrook, 46 East 21st street, New York City. Price, 10 cents.

The Social Economist for November deals with important questions that are now exciting public interest, and contains the following papers by able writers: How is Wealth Distributing Itself? The Rights of the Senate; Silver and Gold Fallacies; Currency, Bank Credits and Values; Condition of Bakers, Waiters and Miners; Woman and Child-labor in Germany; Facts About Silver; The Effects of Liberty, and The Quadrennial Raid for Office. The "Editorial Crucible" is replete with note and comment on current topics; and Reviews, etc., complete this instructive and suggestive repertory of social economy. New York: 34 Union Square. Price, 25 cents.

The November number of the Review of Reviews, the popular all-the-world-around magazine, published simultaneously in the United States and Great Britain, as usual, covers a large area in literature and art. The Department of Progress of the World contains notes and comments on twenty-seven current topics, and presents portraits of many individuals prominent in the affairs of the day. The Leading Articles of the Month include forty-two titles on subjects just now affecting public interests. There are, also, papers relating to Possibilities of the Great Northwest, by S. A. Thompson, illustrated; Inland Waterways for the Northwest (with maps), by Emory R. Johnson; The Future of Silver Production, by E. Benjamin Andrews; The Gothenburg System of Liquor Traffic; Lobengula, King of the Matabele, illustrated, Reviews, etc. "Current History in Caricature" is also an amusing feature of this magazine. New York York City: 13 Astor Place. Price, 25 cents.

Religious News.

AMERICAN METHODIST.

—It is reported that a new church, called the American Methodist church, is about to be organized by some white and colored ministers of the South.

AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY.

—During the last six months, to September 1, 1893, 175 colporteurs of the American Tract Society labored in 33 States and Canada. Their combined time equalled 360 months of labor; they visited 78,651 families, in 57,124 of which they engaged the persons in religious conversation or prayer; circulated by sale and grant 53,090 volumes of Christian literature; addressed 2,824 meetings; found 6,035 families destitute of all religious books except the Bible, and 5,195 families without the Bible. They visited 11,892 Roman Catholic families, and found 16,110 Protestant families who rarely ever attended evangelical preaching.

BIBLE DISTRIBUTION.

—The report of the Upper Canada Religious Tract and Book Society is quite encouraging. During the past year 9,000 Bibles in different languages, and 37,000 volumes of religious books and nearly a million pages of tracts have been put in circulation throughout Canada by its agency.

—Of the 700 colporteurs in the employ of the British and Foreign Bible Society, 30 are at work in Italy. During the year 1892 these workers disposed of 7,132 entire Bibles, 15,322 New Testaments, and 140,103 other portions of the Bible—a total of 162,637 volumes. Besides these, the Evangelical Book Concern in Florence publishes and sells its own editions of the Italian Bible.

—At a recent meeting of the National Bible Society of Great Britain it was reported that 110 colporteurs are now actively employed in Japan distributing the Scriptures, and that an evangelist who uses a tricycle had in three months sold 1,300 Bibles and Testaments in Normandy, France.

CONGREGATIONAL.

—Seven Congregationalist missionaries invaded Oklahoma at the opening up of that territory.

—A large percentage of the 818 Congregational ministers in Massachusetts are without charges. Many of them are of more than moderate ability and in good health.

—The Congregationalist announces that as a result of the "Sunday Rest Congress" a pledge is being circulated in Chicago by labor unions and clergymen, whose signers promise not to make purchases on the Sabbath. It is said that merchants are also moving for a city ordinance in defence of their right to rest. This would be supplemental to the imperfect State law.

—The First church of Middletown, Conn., celebrated on Nov. 5 its two hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary. The church was formally organized in 1668, but really dates back to 1651, when the town was settled and the first meeting-house built. The church is one of the oldest in the State.

—The Beneficent church, Providence, R. I., celebrated its one hundred and fiftieth anniversary Oct. 29. The site for the edifice and the original structure were bought for $4,000, the profits from a lottery scheme which was sanctioned by an act of the State Legislature.

—Williams College, at its late centennial, conferred the degree of Doctor of Divinity upon Dr. Briggs, who has carried the honor many years. Presbyterians look upon this act of Williams College as an intentional rebuke of their church for disciplining Dr. Briggs, and many of the alumni of Williams have expressed their dissatisfaction with the course of their alma mater in this matter. Williams is under the control of the Congregational church, but has received a great deal of Presbyterian money during its history of one hundred years.

EVANGELICAL ASSOCIATION.

—Both factions of the Evangelical Association in Pennsylvania have agreed to have their church war in regard to the ownership of the church property settled through a test case. As this one case is decided by the courts, all other cases shall be decided. This is sensible. Still more sensible it would have been for them to adjust their difficulties among themselves without appealing to the courts for a decision.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.

—The Federal Street church, New London, Conn., celebrated its centennial anniversary October 29.

News of the Week.

CHICAGO.

Wisconsin leads the States in the number of medals won at the World's Fair.

The Minnesota State Building, which cost $8,000, was sold to a wrecking company for $295.

Martin Ryerson and John D. Rockefeller again offer aid to the Chicago University. One million is almost in reach.

Editor Stead, of London, addressed the Evanston students and advised them to become helpful leaders of men.

Carter Harrison's will leaves his property to his four children, part to be entailed to the next generation. He had nearly a million in personal and real estate.

Harlow N. Higinbothom has subscribed $100,000 to the Columbian Museum, making the enterprise all but a certainty.

City Councilman George B. Swift (Republican) has been elected mayor pro tem of Chicago, in place of Mayor Carter H. Harrison.

Art gallery statuary and paintings are being sold at good prices. Chicago residents are the principal buyers.

Barns of the North Side Street Car Co., Racine and Clybourn avenues, were destroyed by fire. Loss nearly $100,000.

Judge Tuthill is becoming impatient over the delay in securing jurors to try Dan Coughlin for the Cronin murder.

Thieves raided Mont Clare, a suburb, and took nearly everything portable from some of the houses.

Residents keep sending in their Exposition stock and others are donating liberally to the Columbian Museum.

Editor Stead, of London, urges preservation of the white city as an architectural monument.

Prohibitionists will place a candidate for mayor in the field. J. B. Hobbs declines the honor because of business cares.

Exhibitors may have to wait six months for their medals.

Thirty-five Swedish domestics who believed the end of the world was set for Sunday spent the day in prayer.

Only 945 persons were arrested out of the 22,000,000 visitors, to the Fair, while of the 2,182 articles found 861 were returned to owners.

Sanitary trustees favor deepening the Illinois river and removing the dams. It was decided to sell $3,000.000 more of bonds.

Nearly 1,500,000 persons paid to ride in the Ferris wheel. It earned $150,000 for stockholders above all debts.

A passenger train ran into an accommodation at Eggleston. Six persons were killed and two score injured.

Chicago bankers think they see signs of improvement in general business and a better demand for funds.

COUNTRY.

The Ways and Means Committee in Congress is in favor of an income tax as a means of raising revenue.

Illinois ranks second in postal receipts and third in presidential postoffices, according to the annual report.

Income of the government is constantly falling below the expenditure. The amount is now $28,250,000.

Secretary Greshem is convinced wrong was done Queen Liliuokalani and she will be restored to her Hawaiian throne.

At Toshimingo, Chickasaw Nation, a convention was held in which opposition to Statehood was unanimous.

Feeling that Iron Hall officers will be restored to control of the order is growing in Indianapolis.

By the report of Illinois State banks to the auditor, a big average increase in deposits is shown.

Business agencies report a marked improvement in all lines, principally due to silver repeal.

Five more deaths are reported as the result of the Rock Island wreck at Seventy-first street.

Iowa Prohibitionists are pleased because a majority of the Republicans elected are pledged to the present liquor law.

Methodists at Minneapolis decided upon $1,150,000 for mission work for the ensuing year.

Francis Parkman, the eminent historian, died from peritonitis at Jamaica Plain, Mass. He was 70 years old.

Governor Altgeld has issued a proclamation naming Thursday, Nov. 30, a day of thanksgiving.

Secretary Lovejoy, of the Carnegie company, says the association of steel rail men is not a pool.

Situation of the miners in Iron county, Wisconsin, is said to be deplorable. They have petitioned Governor Peck.

Dispatches received at Key West, Fla., says the Cuban insurrection is under full headway.

Mrs. Lease says the vote in Kansas is a warning to Populists not to fuse with other parties.

Five of the seven men wanted for robbing the Iron Mountain train at Oliphant, Ark., are under arrest.

(Continued on 16th page.)

SUBSCRIPTION LETTERS.

The following have made remittances of money to the Cynosure from Nov. 6 to Nov. 11 :

R T Anderson, F Van Dresar, J Alexder, Rev W H Hammond, S A Vermillion, M Fitch, A Barkley, J J Van Wagnen, J Griffin, J H Gray, Mrs L Greene, J K Ray, R Gardner, Elder Wm Plant, M Bowman.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO.

Wheat—Spring No. 2		96⅛@	62
Winter No. 3		56 @	56⅛
Corn—No. 2		37⅞@	38⅛
Oats—No. 2		29 @	32
Rye—No. 2		46 @	48½
Bran per ton	11 25	@11 75
Hay—Timothy	9 50	@11 00
Butter, medium to best		16 @	25
Cheese		04 @	12
Beans	1 40	@ 1 60
Eggs		20 @	20½
Seeds—Timothy (100 lbs)	2 85	3 25
Flax	1 01	@ 1 02½
Clover (100 lbs.)	8 25	9 25
Broom corn (per ton)	50 00	@60 00
Potatoes, (new, bu.)	43	@ 58
Hides—Green to dry flint	02½@	05¾
Lumber—Common		@15 50
Wool (unwashed)	15	19
Cattle—Choice to extra	4 00	@ 6 00
Common to good	3 30	@ 5 45
Hogs	5 75	@ 6 20
Sheep	2 00	@ 3 62½

NEW YORK.

Wheat No. 2		67 @	68
Corn No 2		46½@	47¾
Oats		35 @	36
Rye		50 @	57
Eggs		19 @	26
Butter		17 @	28
Wool		16 @	25

KANSAS CITY.

Cattle	1 35	@ 5 00
Hogs	5 75	@ 5 85
Sheep	2 00	3 50

PROPHECY:
A STUDY.

BY REV. S. F. PORTER,

A Study of Christ's Comings.

Paper Cover, 100 Pages.

Single copies, postpaid..... 25 cents.
Per 100 copies, postpaid..... $20.00.

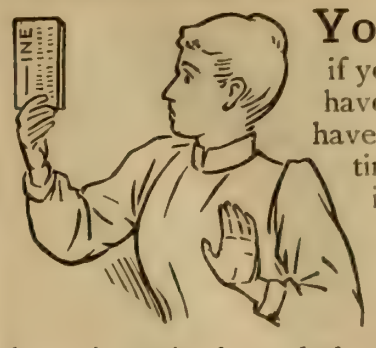
For sale by the

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
WM. I. PHILLIPS, Treasurer,
221 W. Madison St., Chic

THE
Folly, Expense & Danger
OF
SECRET SOCIETIES.
BY
CHARLES A. BLANCHARD.
(President Wheaton College.)

5 Cts per Copy; $3 per Hundred

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.



You Must be Mistaken

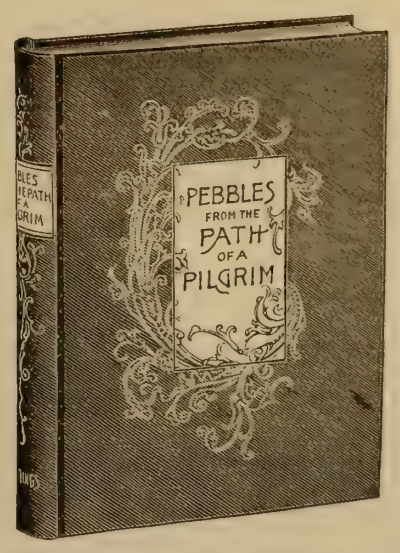
if you think you've used Pearline, and have any fault to find with it. It must have been something else. That sometimes happens. Because Pearline is so well known and so popular, it has become a household name. People say "Pearline" when they mean anything that may claim to help in washing. Perhaps you haven't noticed—and that's just where the trouble is. If you've been using the worthless or dangerous imitations, no wonder you're out of patience. But don't make Pearline suffer for it. Don't give up the good, because your disgusted with the poor.

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 358 JAMES PYLE, New York.

Pebbles from the Path of a Pilgrim.

—BY—

MRS. H. L. HASTINGS.



This remarkable collection of stories from the eventful life of a Green Mountain girl has been pronounced "more fascinating than any romance." A member of Congress writes: "'Pebbles' has been read by me with great interest. The introductory chapter has followed me into dreams. My copy is read to pieces by the family, and borrowed to death by the neighbors." An editor says: "Surely the faith that 'obtained promises, wrought righteousness, and stopped the mouth of lions,' must have been given in large measure to the writer of this truly remarkable book.... No family library should be without it." "'Pebbles,'" says the Christian Cynosure, "is such a book as Christian parents are always glad to put on their center-tables."

"Pebbles from the Path of a Pilgrim" is a large and beautiful book of over 300 pages, printed on heavy book paper, from clear open type, and is profusely illustrated. It is artistically bound in handsome cloth, with fancy panels, and specially attractive side and back cover designs. Price, $1.50.

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison st., Chicago

Sermons of Rev. John McNeill,

12mo. cloth, 416 pages, $1.50.

The fame of this Scottish Spurgeon, as he is very generally called, is becoming as wide-spread as the English tongue. The secret of his power over the masses, has been discussed on both sides of the Atlantic. If one may judge from these printed sermons the secret lies in a homely and pointed putting of the old truths of the Gospel in plain Anglo-saxon. There is evidence of study, but more the study of human nature, and particularly the human heart, than that of books, other than the Book of books—with this volume Mr. McNeill is evidently in love. With unquestioned faith he believes the written word, and preaches with an earnestness born of conviction

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W Madison St. Chicago

THE TWO-FOLD GIFT
of the Holy Ghost,
BY REV. THOS. K. DOTY,
Author of Lessons in Holiness.

240 pp. Price postpaid.....65cts.

The design of this book is, in plain language, to designate the place of the Holy Ghost in both the Godhead and the work of Salvation. Especially to show that Entire Santification is wrought in the heart by the Baptism of Holy Ghost; and that the Epoch of the Baptism is identical with that of his Advent in his Indwelling Personalty. The agency of the Holy Ghost in the Life, and in carrying on the work of the Gospel, is given particular attention.

TITLES TO THE CHAPTERS:

1. A Summary. 2. The Holy Ghost a Person. 3. The New Testament Designating Terms. 4. The Scriptural View. 5. The Holy Ghost is God. 6. Blasphemy Against the Holy Ghost. 7. The Triunity of God. 8. The Apostolic Benediction. 9. The Worship of the Holy Ghost. 10. The Dispensations. 11. The First Dispensation. 12. The Second Dispensation. 13. Holiness—Sinning. 14. "The Sin of the World." 15. Final Deliverance from Sin. 16. The Day of the Holy Ghost. 17. Jesus and the Holy Ghost. 18 and 19. The Epoch of the Holy Ghost. 20. The Anointing. 21. The Baptism of the Holy Ghost. 22. The Baptism of Fire. 23. The Two-Fold Experiences of the Holy Ghost. 24. Fellowship of the Holy Ghost. 25. "In the Spirit." 26. Several Scriptural Terms Considered. 27. Pentecost. 28. Inspiration—Prophecy. 29. Spiritual Leading and Teaching. 30. The Gifts of the Spirit. 31. "Praying in the Holy Ghost." 31 and 32. Power.

This book is creating quite a stir in religious circles. The original, bold and convincing manner of presenting the subject, has forced the press to comment upon the book, either adversely or favorably, generally the latter. We give a few OPINIONS:

Bible Standard and Gospel Record: "This book is very compact, scarcely a superfluous sentence in the whole book. The manner of treating the questions involved is both clear and scriptural. .....The effect of the book will be to deepen thought and increase knowledge and, in the end, deepen piety."

Evangelical Messenger: "Brother Thomas K. Doty has written a book which we take pleasure in commending to all devout readers who enjoy all spiritual things. The subject is so important, and the treatment of it so timely, that we may be pardoned for calling attention to it thus prominently. We, at least have been greatly interested ,and gratefully acknowledge that we have also been decidedly profited by perusing it .....Brother Doty writes with an incisive pen, in a clear, lucid style, often epigrammatical and with great force. He is evidently deeply impressed with the truth of what he writes and demands the respect even where he does not gain the intellectual assent of his readers. Withal the book is written in a kindly, candid spirit, rather didactic than polermical, and is calculated to help the reader and not to rouse his opposition, as is the case with so many books which have been written upon this and kindred subjects. The theological views expressed are orthodox, and in some cases the argument is fresh in matter, and certainly fresh in form throughout."

Christian Cynosure: "His book is one of the most excellent, instructive and practical of any that have come to our knowledge. The exposition of the Scriptures concerning the personality and work of the Spirit is very clear, able and comforting. There is much dogmatizing on these topics by Christians who never fully felt the power of the Spirit's work, or are not living in gracious fellowship with him. To all such and to those who have not yet learned what gifts the Lord is waiting to bestow on his people we heartily commend the careful reading of this volume."

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill

THE IMAGE OF THE BEAST

A Secret Empire;

Or, Freemasonry a Subject of Prophecy.

By Rev. Richard Horton.

Third Edition. 200 pages. Cloth.

Price, 60 cents.

CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

Our High Grade List and Bargain Book sent to any address on receipt of a 2-c stamp.

LORD & THOMAS,
NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING
46 RANDOLPH STREET.
CHICAGO.

HOME AND HEALTH.

KITCHENS AND CELLARS.

"Cleanliness is next to godliness." But in the law of Moses cleanliness was godliness, and sinners were "unclean." Dirt brings death; and death is "the wages of sin." If people would have health they must keep clean. Old dish rags around the sink, sour milk, sour food, decaying substances of any kind, fragments left about the closet to gather in flies and mice, odds and ends of crumbs, crackers, sugar, and all such things help to fill the house with ants, roaches, moth, germs, disease and death. Fevers lurk in dirty dishcloths. Typhoid and malaria rise like spectres from cesspools.

Look carefully to the cellar. Sometimes there is fresco above and fungus beneath; curtains and lambrequins up stairs, and stale cabbages and rotten potatoes down below. Then the doctor's gig stops in front of the big house, and the undertaker follows in due time.

Clean out the decay; see that nothing is allowed to rot on the premises. Ventilate your cellar, fling open the windows, have pure air and pure water; if you have any doubt about your water boil it before you drink it; but do not put something in it that will be worse than the bad water. Study Moses' health laws—obeying them may add years to your life. If a house is kept clean from top to bottom with plenty of lime and whitewash, we may then have more faith to pray for divine protection, and more confidence to trust in the providence of the living God who is our life, and health, and strength.—The Common People.

PETROLEUM IN DIPHTHERIA.

A remarkable remedy for diphtheria is reported in one of the French medical journals. It consists in swabbing the throat with common petroleum, applications being made every hour or two hours according to the thickness of the membranes, which become diluted under the action of the petroleum. The chief care to be exercised is to prevent any drops falling into the respiratory channels. Of forty malignant cases treated in this way all were successful. Diphtheria is much more fatal than smallpox but less contagious. It does not come, like influenza, for instance, in the air, but every case is from a previous case, and the patient should, therefore, be carefully isolated. It is hard to distinguish this dread disease, in its early stage, from an ordinary sore throat, and it should be remembered that children who have nasal catarrh are peculiarly susceptible to infection.—Exchange.

Whiskers that are prematurely gray or faded should be colored to prevent the look of age, and Buckingham's Dye excels all others, in coloring brown or black.

"Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething" softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain and cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

AMERICAN HANDBOOK
AND
CITIZEN MANUAL.
BY
MANLOVE N. BUTLER.

CONTENTS:—Bible and Secretism; Masonic Religion; Masonic Sun Worship; Masonic Government; Unwritten History; Grand Lodge Masonry; Public Opinion; Lodge and Saloon; The American Movement; Real Prohibition; Poor Man's Bible, and All-Around Reformers. Over 200 pages

Paper, single copy 40c.; per doz. 35c.

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
WM. I. PHILLIPS, Treasurer,
221 W. Madison St., Chic

DO YOU WANT

To receive, read, distribute and otherwise aid in the circulation of a large number of Holiness and Reform papers and magazines? If so, send me a SILVER dime, and your name and address will be printed on the Holiness and Reform Mail Exchange List, which is sent to all publishers of holiness and reform literature, who will mail you sample papers and magazines. Write name and address PLAINLY. Address, J. H. PADGETT, Printer. Ennis, Texas.

Mrs. Anna Sutherland

Kalamazoo, Mich., had swellings in the neck, or From her 10th Goitre year, causing 40 Years great suffering. When she caught cold could not walk two blocks without fainting. She took

Hood's Sarsaparilla

And is now free from it all. She has urged many others to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and they have also been cured. It will do you good.

HOOD'S PILLS Cure all Liver Ills, jaundice, sick headache, biliousness, sour stomach, nausea.

SEVEN YEARS AMONG THE FREEDMEN.
Revised and Enlarged.
BY MARIA WATERBURY.

Finely Illustrated 196 Pages.....75cts.

The first edition of this book has "gone like hot cakes," and a second edition with more of the same sort has been loudly called for and is now ready for delivery. The press, the pulpit, the educator, the reformer, the masses, have bidden it welcome and Godspeed. We quote a few good words from sundry sources: EARNEST CHRISTIAN: "Publish the book for the good it will do."

Dr. Talmage, in the Christian Herald and Signs of our Times, for February 11th, says: "A helpful little volume, just out, for the workers is, 'Seven Years among the Freedmen,' by Miss M. Waterbury, Polo, Ill.,—a teacher well known to many in Illinois—detailing the quaint and thrilling scenes of her experience—'truth stranger,' oftimes, 'than fiction. One day the chore-man came to Miss M. Waterbury, to be taught a prayer; all the scholars had a prayer to say and he wanted one. John was past middle life and very ignorant. The teacher began the Lord's Prayer, a sentence at a time, explaining as the lesson progressed. 'Thy kingdom come' was all right. 'Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors.' 'What dat mean?' said he. 'That you must forgive everybody, or God will not forgive you.' 'Stop, teacher, can't do dat,' and he went away. After vacation he appeared, saying: 'Now go on wid de prayer. I dun forgive him. Old massar once gib me five hundred lashes, and hit me wid a crow bar, an' t' row me out fur dead, and I met him down de street, an' wouldn't speak at him, but to-day I met him an' aid 'How d'ye?' Now go on wid dat prayer'!"

Inter Ocean: "A Splendid Book.—Seven Years Among Freedman is a volume of 494 pages by Miss M. Waterbury, of Polo, Ills., who has spent seven years as a teacher among the freedmen in Mississippi and Alabama. It is a series of sketches telling very simply and graphically the life led by Northern teachers in the South. It bears all the evidences of truthfulness and if it fails to impress the reader with the manhood and dignity of the old ruling class of the South, it is perhaps because the whole truth is told. One reading the book will stop to ask, Why not send missionaries to the white people of the South? They seem to need it more than the blacks."

Journal, Freeport, Ills.: "We are indebted to Mrs. Lila L. Buckley, of this city, for a copy of this interesting volume. The efforts made to elevate the freedmen of the South is one of the most important and deserving charities of the present time, far excelling any effort to elevate the heathen of foreign lands, and it should have the aid of all charitable people in this country. ....The proceeds of sales is devoted to the work of elevating the freedmen of the South, and we trust that every one to whom Miss Waterbury applies will purchase a copy of the book, which is in itself fully worth the price.. Miss Waterbury's grandfather, Rev. Calvin Waterbury, was the first Presbyterian minister in Freeport, and it was by his efforts that the First Presbyterian church in Freeport was established.

Polo, (Ills.,) Press: "Seven Years Among the Freedmen.—Our townswoman Miss Maria Waterbury, the past winter, prepared for publication an account of some of her singular experiences in the "sixties" among the freedmen of Mississippi. Miss Waterbury and Miss Ford, both of this place, did grand work in those years and deserve no small mead of praise for their heroic sacrifices.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chica

The Nonesuch Professor,

In his Meridian Splendor. By William Secker (Puritan). With an introduction by Theo. L. Cuyler, D. D. 16 mo, $1.00.

"It is a mine of sparkling gems."—Presbyterian Observer.

"A sheaf of golden grain, ripened by grace, and sweet with the flavor of rare simplicity and holy wisdom."—N. Y. Observer.

"It is a searching book."—Christian Intelligencer.

"This is a wonderful book. At whatever page you open it, your eye lights upon pithy aphorisms that combine the sententiousness of Benjamin Franklin with the sweet, holy savor of Samuel Rutherford. It contains hundreds of bright seed thoughts."—Rev. T. L. Cuyler, D. D.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison St. Chicago.

STANDARD WORKS
—ON—
SECRET SOCIETIES
FOR SALE BY THE
National Christian Association.
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

TERMS:—Cash with order, or if sent by express C. O. D. at least $1.00 must be sent with order as a guaranty that books will be taken. Books at retail prices sent postpaid. Books by Mail are at risk of persons ordering, unless 10 cents extra is sent to pay for registering them, when their safe delivery is guaranteed. Books at retail ordered by express, are sold at 10 per cent discount and delivery guaranteed, but not express paid. Postage stamps taken for small sums. ☞A liberal discount to dealers

Temple of Honor Illustrated. A full and complete illustrated ritual of "The Templars of Honor and Temperance," commonly called the Temple of Honor. By a Templar of Fidelity and Past Worthy Chief Templar. 25cts each.

Five Rituals Bound Together. "Oddfellowship Illustrated" (old work), "Knights of Pythias Illustrated," "Good Templars Illustrated," "Exposition of the Grange," and "Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic," are sold bound together in cloth for $1.00.

Rituals and Secrets Illustrated. Composed of "Temple of Honor Illustrated, "Adoptive Masonry Illustrated," "United Sons of Industry Illustrated," and "Secret Societies Illustrated." $1.00 each.

Finney on Masonry. The character, claims and practical workings of Freemasonry. By Pres. Charles G. Finney, of Oberlin College. President Finney was a "bright Mason," but left the lodge when he became a Christian. This book has opened the eyes of multitudes. In cloth, 75 cents. Paper cover, 35 cents.

Stories of the Gods. By I. R. B. Arnold. Brief sketches from the mythology of Rome, Greece, Egypt, India, Persia, Phrygia, Scandinavia, Africa and America, showing the relations and unity of past and present systems. The idolatrous worship of the Masonic lodge is thus clearly seen and understood. Postpaid, 10 cents.

Judge Whitney's Defense before THE GRAND LODGE OF ILLINOIS. Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the lodge when S. H. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry. 15 cents each.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret SOCIETIES. A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons in the Christian church. 10 cents each.

Masonry a Work of Darkness, adverse to Christianity, and inimical to republican government. By Rev. Lebbeus Armstrong (Presbyterian) a seceding Mason of 21 degrees. 15 cents each.

Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the INITIATE? By Rev. L. A. Post. 5 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. J. Day Brownlee. In reply to a Masonic Oration by Rev. Dr. Mayer, Wellsville, Ohio. 5 cents each.

Masonic Outrages. Compiled by Rev. H. H. Hinman. Showing Masonic assault on lives of seceders, on reputation, and on free speech; its interference with justice in courts, etc. Postpaid, 20 cents.

Sermon on Secret Societies. By Rev. Daniel Dow, Woodstock, Conn. The special object of his sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the character of secret societies, no matter what object such societies profess to have. 5 cents each.

Grand Lodge Masonry. Its relation to civil government and the Christian religion. By Pres. J. Blanchard. The un-Christian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is proved from the highest Masonic authorities. 5 cents each.

The Broken Seal; or Personal Reminiscences of the Abduction and Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan. By Samuel D. Greene. In cloth, 75 cents. Paper covers, 40 cents.

The Mystic Tie, or Freemasonry a LEAGUE WITH THE DEVIL. This is an account of the church trial of Peter Cook and wife, of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a reverend Freemason. 15 cents each.

History of the Abduction and Murder OF CAPT. WM. MORGAN. As prepared by seven committees of citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan. 25 cents each.

Freemasonry Self-Condemned. By Rev. J. W. Bain. A careful and logical statement of reasons why secret orders should not be fellowshiped by the Christian Church. Paper covers, price, 20 cents each.

Secret Societies. A discussion of their character and claims by Rev. David McDill, Pres. J. Blanchard and Rev. Edward Beecher. In cloth, 35cts each; paper covers, 15cts each.

Secret Societies, Ancient and Modern. Table of Contents: The Antiquity of Secret Societies, The Life of Julian, The Eleusinian Mysteries, The Origin of Masonry, Was Washington a Mason? Fillmore and Webster's Deference to Masonry, A Brief Outline of the Progress of Masonry in the United States, The Tammany Ring, Masonic Benevolence, The Uses of Masonry, An Illustration, The Conclusion. 50cts each

Pres. H. H. George on Secret Societies. A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian churches to disfellowship secret societies. 10cts each.

Secrecy vs. the Family, State and CHURCH. By Rev. M. S. Dury. The antagonism of organized secrecy to the welfare of the family, state and church, is clearly shown. 10cts each.

Narratives and Arguments, showing the conflict of secret societies with the Constitution and law of the Union and of the States. By Francis Semple. The fact that secret societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of law is here clearly proved. 15cts each.

The Anti-mason's Scrap-Book, consisting of 53 "Cynosure" tracts. In this book are the views of more than a score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of secret societies. Postpaid. 25 cts.

Reminiscences of Morgan Times. By Elder David Bernard. This is a thrilling narrative of the incidents connected with Bernard's Revelation of Freemasonry 10 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. James Williams, Presiding Elder of Dakota District Northwestern Iowa Conference M. E. Church—a seceding Master Mason. 10 cents each.

Oaths and Penalties of the 33 DEGREES OF FREEMASONRY. To get these thirty-three degrees of Masonic bondage, the candidate takes half-a-million horrible oaths. 15 cents each.

Odd-fellowship Judged by its own utterances; its doctrine and practice examined in the light of God's Word. By Rev. J. H. Brockman. This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. In cloth 50cts; paper covers, 25cts.

Sermon on Odd-fellowship and other secret societies, by Rev. J. Sarver, pastor Evangelical Lutheran church. This is a very clear argument against secretism of all forms, and the duty to disfellowship Odd fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications. 10cts each.

United Sons of Industry ILLUSTRATED. A full and complete illustrated ritual of the secret tradesunion of the above name, giving the signs, grips, passwords etc. 15cts each.

Oaths and Penalties of Freemasonry, as proved in court in the New Berlin trials. The New Berlin trials began in the attempt of Freemasons to prevent public initiations by seceding Masons. These trials were held at New Berlin, Chenango Co., N. Y., April 13 and 14, 1831, and General Augustus C. Welsh, sheriff of the county, and other adhering Freemasons swore to the truthful revelation of the oaths and penalties. 10 cents each.

Anti-masonic Sermons and Addresses. Composed of "Masonry a Work of Darkness;" the Sermons of Messrs. Cross, William M'Nary, Dow and Sarver, the two addresses of President Blanchard, and the addresses of President H. H. George, Prof. J. G. Carson and Rev. M. S. Drury; "Thirteen Reasons Why a Christian cannot be a Freemason," "Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion," and "Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the Initiate?" 287 pages; cloth $1.00.

FARM NOTES.

(From the N. Y. Witness.)

PROFIT IN CHICKEN RAISING.

We were very much interested in the article in last week's Witness entitled: "What to feed fowls," and will give our experience during the last six months.

Our flock consisted of forty Brown Leghorn hens, with a few common fowls for setting.

Here is the laying record from April to the last of September: April 581, May 405, June 381, July 495, August 556 and Sept. 366.

We kept no account of eggs used in the family, but allowing for these, we received for eggs sold, forty-eight dollars and eighty-four cents.

We raised 175 chickens. Our grain bill for the six months was forty dollars and ninety-five cents, leaving a profit of seven dollars and eighty-nine cents in cash and the chickens gratis.

Our table has been liberally supplied with chicken since June and we have about eighty nice young pullets almost ready to lay.

To the laying hens we fed middlings mixed with boiled vegetables, four mornings a week, and on the other three, oats and beef scraps raw, corn for supper and fresh water twice a day. Also plenty of oyster shells. We fed the chickens five times a day, until they were a month old and baked most of their food.—Jessie Henderson.

"DO IT NOW."

I would like to impress upon the minds of farmers the advantage to be gained by the removal this fall of all the summer accumulation of manure from the barnyard. If carted out now and put on the sward to be turned under for next spring, we save all loss from leaching by winter storms, and save valuable time next spring, when we are rushed.

Even if we have a covered yard for our manure pile, the best place for the manure is on the ground. Then every rainstorm adds fertility to the soil, instead of lessening its value by burning. Having no covered yard, I do the next best thing and have in one end of my yard a depression, having no outlet, and here everything that will make compost is put, but no weeds that contain seed. Thus all rainwater that falls on the manure pile, runs into this hollow, and is soaked up by this heap of compost material—which soon rots and goes out with the manure at carting time to help on the soil enriching. I think this is richer than the other manure. All waste is thus stopped and the amount of fertilizing material increased. In closing, I would again urge the advantage of a fall cleaning of the yard. It saves richness, saves time and saves temper.

WORLD'S FAIR ROOMS.

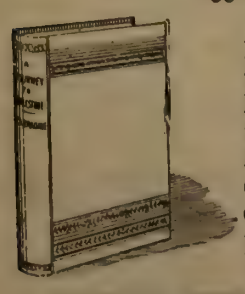
Mrs. Rev. W. M. Howie, of 3557 Prairie avenue, is giving rooms, breakfast and evening dinner for $1.25, $1.50 and $1.75 per day, according to rooms occupied. By the week, $8.00, $10.00, and $12.00. Parlors and bedrooms are all convenient, and furnished for rest and comfort. The residence is four miles from business center, and three from Fair grounds. The Elevated railroad runs to Fair in 20 minutes, and the station is one-third mile distant. Write what rooms you wish and when.

MRS. W. M. HOWIE,
3557 Prairie avenue.

A Journey to Palestine.

BY REV. B. CARRADINE, D. D.

—oo—



Revised and Illustrated Edition. 500 pages. Eighteen beautiful half-tone Engravings, including portrait of Author. Cloth postpaid, $1.50. Address

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill

Tried & True

may well be said of the Superior Medicine, the standard blood-purifier,

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA

Its long record assures you that what has cured others

will cure you

MY EXPERIENCES WITH SECRET SOCIETIES.

BY A TRAVELER.

With a Key to Masonry Illustrated

—o-o—

A new edition, greatly enlarged, has been issued, embracing chapters on the Language of Numbers, Secret Empires, and Good Men, containing more Experiences, and affording a deeper insight into the Hidden Language and Workings of Secret Clans, and of the counterfeit pretences of good men, than ever before published. The Key is an exposition, explanation and verification of modern Baalism, with which all should be thoroughly acquainted. The price of the new edition is

Fifteen Cents,

but copies of the first edition will be forwarded for Ten Cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

MAKE NO MISTAKE NEXT YEAR

Subscribe to HARPER'S PERIODICALS

They "represent the highest types of American Literary and Illustrative work."
—NEW YORK TIMES.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE

35 cents a Copy. $4.00 a Year.

Among the contributors to HARPER'S MAGAZINE for 1894 will be: CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER (The Golden House, a new novel); GEORGE DU MAURIER (Trilby, a new novel); BRANDER MATTHEWS (Vignettes of Manhattan); OWEN WISTER (Stories of the Wild West); EDWIN LORD WEEKS (From the Black Sea to the Persian Gulf by Caravan, also, Sketches of India); ALFRED PARSONS; RICHARD HARDING DAVIS (Parisian Sketches); POULTNEY BIGELOW; FREDERIC REMINGTON (Sierra Madre Mountains in Mexico); JULIAN RALPH, and others (The New South); W. G. TIFFANY and Dr. W. A. BROOKS (on Athletic Sports); R. R BOWKER (editing the series of Great American Industries); WILLIAM SHARP (Rome in Africa); W. D. HOWELLS (Personal Recollections); LAURENCE HUTTON (Literary Landmarks of Jerusalem); WILLIAM MCLENNAN; Rev. HENRY HAYMAN, D.D.; Miss KATHARINE ROWLAND; Miss ELISE ALLEN; CONSTANCE FENIMORE WOOLSON; ST. GEORGE MIVART; WILLIAM HAMILTON GIBSON, SAMUEL SCUDDER; Mr. ABBEY (Illustrations of Shakespeare's Comedies); and others.

HARPER'S WEEKLY

10 cents a Copy. $4.00 a Year.

HARPER'S WEEKLY for 1894 will present, among a brilliant array of the brightest features, a new Serial Story by Miss MARY E. WILKINS; Short Stories by the best-known writers; papers on the Army and Navy, with valuable illustrations; Portraits of distinguished men and women of the time; papers in Special Lines calling for the highest order of talent; accurate descriptions of every Public Event and notable disaster, illustrated by pencil and camera; valuable views of This Busy World; notes on Music and Drama; timely information and comment on all matters pertaining to Amateur Sport; superb illustrations will be presented by such distinguished artists as W. T. SMEDLEY, A. B. FROST, FREDERIC REMINGTON, HOWARD PYLE, C. S. REINHART, ALBERT E. STERNER, T. DE THULSTRUP, W. H. HYDE, R. CATON WOODVILLE, CHARLES GRAHAM, VICTOR PERARD, R. F. ZOGBAUM, P. S. NEWELL, H. M. WILDER, E. W. KEMBLE, together with many other valuable and noteworthy features which will entitle the WEEKLY among periodicals to the world's highest praise.

HARPER'S BAZAR

10 cents a Copy. $4.00 a Year.

HARPER'S BAZAR begins, with the first number for January, 1894, the twenty-seventh volume of the most popular weekly periodical for women. It is as a Fashion Journal that the BAZAR is unsurpassed. The features for 1894 will include, among many others, the beautiful designs of A. SANDOZ, drawn in Paris from Charles F. Worth models; Fortnightly Pattern-sheet Supplements; Serial Stories by WILLIAM BLACK and WALTER BESANT; Short Stories by the brightest writers among women; Essays and Social Chats; Amateur Theatricals; Embroidery and Needlework; Cooking and Serving; Music and Art; Out-door Sports and In-door Games; Answers to Correspondents; Facetiæ, etc., etc.

HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE

5 cents a Copy. $2.00 a Year.

HARPER'S YOUNG PEOPLE is a live journal for live boys and girls. The leading serial for 1894 will be Cadet Days, a story of West Point life, by CAPTAIN CHARLES KING. Other attractive features will be stories by KIRK MUNROE, the author of the popular "Mates" stories; a serial story of a girl's life in Old New Orleans, by RUTH MCENERY STUART; True Tales of Adventure, by CAPTAIN HOWARD PATTERSON, and others; Plays for Amateurs, by JOHN KENDRICK BANGS, and H. G. PAINE; How to Do Things; Every-day Marvels, and many other delightful attractions for the boys and girls of America and the world. Published every week.

Booksellers and Postmasters usually receive subscriptions. Subscriptions sent direct to the Publishers should be accompanied by Post-office Money Order or Draft. Postage Free in the United States, Canada, or Mexico. Subscriptions will begin from the date of the receipt of the order unless otherwise directed.

Franklin Square, HARPER & BROTHERS, New York.

The St. Louis Sermon

Are Secret Societies a Blessing or a Curse?

An Address by Rev. B. Carradine D. D., Pastor of the Centenary M. E. Church, St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 4, 1891.

W. McCoy writes: "That sermon ought to be in the hands of every preacher in this land, and every citizen's too."

A pamphlet of 20 pages and cover.

Sent postpaid 25 copies $1.00. Single copy 5 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W Madison St. Chicago

Eminent Men on Secret Societies. Composed of "Washington Opposed to Secret Societies," "Judge Whitney's Defence," "The Mystic Tie," "Narratives and Arguments," the "Anti-mason's Scrap-Book" and "Oaths and Penalties of Free masonry as Proved in the New Berlin Trials." 336 pages, cloth. $1.00

JONATHAN BLANCHARD'S

—]-oo-[—

SERMONS AND ADDRESSES.

Select discourses of the late editor of the Cynosure and leader in our reform. Lectures, sermons and speeches given from 1834 to 1892 in leading cities of the United States, discussing topics of

LIVING REFORM.

Secret Societies,
The Sabbath,
Temperance,
National Reform,
Christian Education,
Christian Socialism,
The Bible, Etc., Etc.

A BOOK EVERYBODY SHOULD READ

12mo. Fine Photogravure Portrait.

Price, 75 Cents.

CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

Ex-President John Quincy Adams' LETTERS on the Nature of Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties. Price, cloth, $1.00. Paper, 35 cents.

RECENT PUBLICATIONS OF FLEMING H. REVELL.

Modern Ideas of Evolution.

As related to Revelation and Science. By Sir William Dawson, L. L. D., F. R. S., etc. 12 mo, cloth, $1.50.

In popular style, a testing by scientific facts and principles, the validity of that multiform and brilliant philosophy of the universe, which has taken so deep a hold of the science and literature of our times.

The New World of Central Africa

By Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness; with a history of the first Christian mission on the Congo. Maps, Portraits and numerous engravings. 537 pages, 12 mo, $2.00.

This comprehensive volume is as fascinating as the most entertaining romance. Its vivid portrayal of the dark side of African history makes one's blood tingle, while its earnest appeals create an inspiring sympathy with the effort to evangelize its teeming millions.

Power From on High.

By Rev. B. Fay Mills. White vellum paper, 20 cents.

This little work, revised from stenographic notes of Mr. Mills' address before the National Convention of the Y. P. S. C. E., is exceedingly effective.

Matthew Henry's Commentary.

An entirely new large type edition of this inimitable Commentary, in six large 8vo. volumes, fine cloth, $15.00; or, in half Morocco, $18.00.

"Biblical students who are most familiar with the very best commentaries of this generation are most able to appreciate the unfading freshness, the clear analysis, the spiritual force, the quaint humor, and the evangelical richness of Matthew Henry's Exposition of the Old and New Testaments."—New York Observer

"First among the mighty for general usefulness we are bound to mention the man whose name is a household word—MATTHEW HENRY. He is the most pious and pithy, sound and sensible, suggestive and sober, terse and trustworthy."—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

The Present Tenses of the Blessed Life.

By Rev. F. B. Meyer. 32 mo, 50 cents.

"It is sufficient to say its one direct aim is the present enjoyment of the precious promises. Mr. Meyer's earnest and persuasive teaching in this direction is admirably condensed in these brief chapters."

BY THE SAME AUTHOR:

Christian Living. Cloth, 32 mo, 50 cents.

"A more suggestive and helpful volume it would not be easy to name."—Christian Leader.

The Shepherd Psalm. Cloth, 32 mo, 50c.

"This is a gem"—Illustrated Christian Weekly

"It is a little book which hundreds of devout hearts will enjoy,"—Congregationalist.

Power From on High.

By Rev. B. Fay Mills. White vellum paper, 20 cents.

This little work, revised from stenographic notes of Mr. Mills' address before the National Convention of the Y. P. S. C. E., is exceedingly effective.

OTHER WORKS BY C. H. SPURGEON:

Feathers for Arrows; Or, Illustrations for Teachers and Preachers. 12 mo, $1.

"This work covers a wide range of subjects. The metaphors are always striking and frequently brilliant, while the truths that they illustrate are such as have always formed the staple of Mr. Spurgeon's discourses. A choicer collection of illustrations we do not know."—Freeman.

Spurgeon's Gems. Being a selection of brilliants from his discourses. 12 mo, $1.

The Golden Alphabet. Being a Devotional Commentary on the One Hundred and Nineteenth Psalm. 12 mo, $1.00.

"Mr. Spurgeon brings out the truths and beauties of this wonderful Psalm so as to set a rich feast before the reader. As a practical commentator on the Psalms, Spurgeon has no equal."—Presbyterian Banner.

"This commentary is written in quite the happiest vein of its popular author, and the devotional spirit throughout is intense and elevating."—Occident.

Gleanings Among the Sheaves. 18 mo, 60c.

All of Grace. An earnest word with those seeking the way of life. 16 mo, paper, 30 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

According to Promise; Or, the Lord's Dealings with His chosen People. 16 mo, paper, 30 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Christmas Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve New Year Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Sermons on the Resurrection. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth. 50 cents.

"Preachers may get aid in preparing Easter or funeral sermons from this volume. Good to present to those who have lost loved ones."—National Baptist.

Twelve Striking Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Soul-Winning Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Selected by Mr. Spurgeon as the twelve sermons under which there has been the most marked and permanent success.

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison st., Chicago

Royal Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength. — Latest United States Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO.,
106 Wall St., N. Y.

NEWS OF THE WEEK (Continued from 13th page).

Feeling between whites and blacks at Bardstown, Ky., is bitter. In a riot several Negroes were badly beaten.

Ratifications of the treaty with Norway have been exchanged. It is about the same as the treaty with Sweden.

John Dossett, of Guthrie, O. T., is the first man ever sentenced to be hanged in in Oklahoma.

Audrian county, Missouri, farmers want the governor's influence to stay the collection of taxes and debts for a year.

Railway telegraphers at Council Bluffs, Iowa, have triumphed and Grand Chief Ramsey, of the order, will be removed.

In its contest with the people of Minnesota the coal combine has won a victory, its opponents withdrawing.

Of the twenty-eight persons on the steamer John Frazer, burned on Lake Nipissing, only seven were saved.

Ten Russian prisoners, who escaped by sea from Saghalien were picked up by an American whaler after fourteen days of suffering.

Eastern dealers are said to ship oleomargarine to the Northwest and dispose of it as creamery butter.

Jackson's plurality over Boies in Iowa is now put at 25,000. Congressman Gear will probably be Senator Wilson's successor.

Four lives were lost by a collision on the Hocking Valley road near Fostoria, Ohio.

Francis H. Weeks pleaded guilty to embezzlement when arraigned in New York and was sentenced to ten years in prison.

New York-Chicago lines will lengthen the time of their limited passenger trains to twenty-six hours.

At the risk of his own life Engineer Henry Miller saved a child from the carwheels at Beloit, Wis.

Ex-Secretary of Agriculture Rusk has been dangerously ill at his home in Viroqua, Wis., having undergone an operation.

The Ways and Means Committee in Congress will not modify the tariff bill on account of the recent elections.

Mureo Murdoc, proprietor of the Egyptian village at the World's Fair, was robbed of $5,000 at Brooklyn.

FOREIGN.

Admiral Mello, leader of the Brazilian rebels, resumed the bombardment of Rio.

Two bombs were thrown by anarchists from the gallery of a Barcelona opera house. Twenty-three persons were killed.

London anarchists commemorated the hanging of the Chicago reds six years ago. Two fiery speeches were cheered.

Matabele warriors are expected to submit soon to the British troops. They are suffering for food and are disheartened.

India is growing restive under British rule and a spark is all that is needed to start a revolt.

Spain has begun war in earnest upon the Riffians at Melilla and will push matters to the end. Morocco's sultan is said to have sent the Riffians word to cease their hostilities against the Spanish.

Vistula, Russia, residents fought desperately to rescue their priests ordered into exile. Many were killed by the troops.

Unemployed of London shouted for work at the installation of George Robert Tyler, the new lord mayor.

It is announced in the native papers that Japan is preparing for the adoption of a gold standard.

H. E. Taschereau, judge of the supreme court at Quebec, Canada, died in that city. He was born in 1837.

A terrible disaster, which wrecked the port of Santander and destroyed hundreds of lives, sent a thrill of horror throughout Spain. The Cabo Machichaco, a Spanish steamship belonging to Bibao, caught fire Friday afternoon, while the steamer was alongside the quay discharging part of her cargo, which contained 500 cases of dynamite. This exploded, causing immense loss of life and vast damage to property. The force of the explosion caused such a concussion that in addition to shaking hundreds of buildings off their foundations, it actually sank a hundred small craft in the harbor in addition to setting fire to a large number of other vessels, and starting conflagrations upon several of the larger ships. A thousand are reported killed, and many people were so terror-stricken as to become raving maniacs.

The fall of the year is a trying season for elderly people. The many cheerless, dark, dismal days act depressingly, not to say injuriously, on both old and young. Now is the time to re-inforce the vital energies with Ayer's Sarsaparilla —the best of all blood medicines.

LE CARON, THE SPY.

A STARTLING REVELATION.

More enticing than a romance, filled with the strongest evidences of the power and evil of sworn secret societies, and plainly revealing the danger to any government growing out of political conspiracies, is the

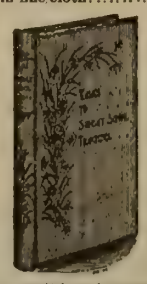
"Autobiography of Henry LeCaron, the Spy."

who was for years a Clan-na-Gael Center, a Fenian Commander, and a Land-League Orator, but always a British Detective. The book covers his twenty-five years' experiences in this secret service, and contains 205 pages.

Price, in paper covers, 50 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221W. Madison St., Chicago

Talks to Sunday-School Teachers.
By Rev. J. G. Terrill. 12mo, 200 pages, bound in fine cloth.....75



This book is the result of twenty-five years of experience in Sunday-school and treats of: 1. The Sunday-school organization and management. 2. Methods of work. 3. Studies in human nature. 4. Rules of interpretation as applied to the Bible. 5. Illustrative exercises for primary classes and children's meetings. In the style of presentation, subject matter and price of the book, the wants of the officers and teachers of the ordinary Sunday-school are kept in view.

S. S. Times:—A very comprehensive book. N. Y. Independent:—A sensible manual for the average Sunday-school teacher. Evan. Mess.:—We have been very favorably impressed with the book, because it is so intensely practical. The subject is systematically treated, and leaders of teacher's meetings can not do better than adopt it as a text-book and devote half an hour of each session to teaching the theory and practice of teaching as here systematized. Christian at Work:—Any school that will adopt this book generally and carry forward its work or doctrines here laid down will not be long in developing into a model school and reaping the harvest of a rich fruitage. Herald and Presbyter:—These Talks are well attested in their profitableness and excellence. Buffalo Advocate:—A plain, practical, common sense book on a very important subject. The author has had wide experience in this field of work. He knows thoroughly the ground over which he would lead others, and possesses the happy faculty of packing a great deal of valuable information as to matter and manner of teaching into this little hand-book. We commend it to the attention of all Sunday-school workers. Religious Telescope:—We are pleased with the plan and treatment of the subjects throughout, and are sure that the diligent Sunday-school teacher who longs for more thorough equipment, will find in this book a helper of great value. Illustrated Christian Weekly:—The author talks from observation and experience, and talks well.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

Freemasonry Exposed. By Capt. William Morgan. The genuine old Morgan book republished. 25 cents each.

Holes

in your lungs are the Homes of Consumption Germs. The diseased spots are wiped out with new tissue made by the Cream of Cod-liver Oil, and hypophosphites. This acts immediately upon the Lungs and makes new tissue there. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.

Scott's Emulsion

Don't be deceived by Substitutes!

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists.

THE GUIDING HAND;

—OR—

PROVIDENTIAL DIRECTION.

—)o(—

Illustrated by authentic instances of Relief and Deliverance in times of Trouble and Perplexity; of Direction through Dreams and Mental Impressions, and of Providential Guidance, resulting in Conversion. Recorded and collected by

H. L. HASTINGS,
(Editor of "The Christian.")

This striking work is divided into three parts as follows:

(1) Providences in Relief and Deliverances. (2) Dreams and Impressions. (3) Conversions.

The "Guiding Hand" contains nearly 400 pages. It is really a handsome book, printed on heavy book paper, from large open type, good for the eyes, and artistically and durably bound in fine cloth, with fancy panels. Price, $1.50.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chica

A BOOKLET.

107 pages, 5x7 inches.

Paper Cover, Postpaid, 15 Cents

—o:o—

The following addresses form part of the contents of this booklet:

THE MARTYR'S OWN MONUMENT, by Rev. J. E. Roy, D. D., Western Secretary of American Missionary Association.

CHRISTIAN POLITICS, by Rev. J. Blanchard, late President Wheaton College, and Editor Christian Cynosure.

THE MYSTERIOUS MACHINE: was it Lawnmower, Town-pump, Balloon, Wheel-barrow,—or what? by Prof. E. D. Bailey of the Civil Service Dept. U. S. Government.

This booklet includes other interesting matter connected with the unveiling of the Morgan monument at Batavia, N. Y. Address

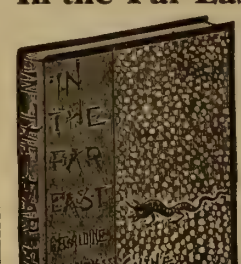
NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.
221 W. Madison St. Chicago.

The New World of Central Africa.

By Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness, with a history of the first Christian mission on the Congo. 12mo., 530 pages with maps, portraits and numerous illustrations. $2.00

"A conscientious piece of work, and gives a very clear account of what has been done by the Protestant missions to evangelize the barbarous races of Central Africa. * * * He who wants to know what missionary effort means in these days may well learn from this volume. * * * The reader who goes carefully through will have a good bird's eye view of recent events in Africa, with all the results of modern travel. * * * The work contains solid information of use to all who are interested in the future of this wonderful country. The many illustrations throw light upon savage customs and costumes."—Graphic.

In the Far East.

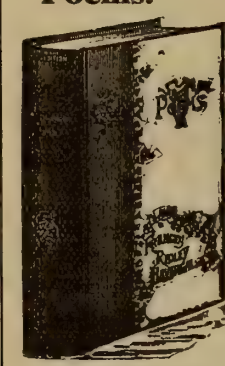


Letters from China by Geraldine Guinness, edited by her sister, with introduction by Rev. J. Hudson Taylor. Very fully illustrated. Quarto cloth, ...$1.50

This book was scarcely written—it was lived; for the breath of life is in it from cover to cover. * * * We have never read so wonderful an account of successful missionary effort.—Presbyterian

We easily understand how this edition is the fifteenth thousand. It is a very remarkable book.—The Golden Rule.

Frances Ridley Havergall's Poems.



Author's edition complete. The only unabridged authorized edition published in America.

1. 12mo., 880 pages, cloth, beveled....2.00
2. Beveled boards, full gilt.....2.50
3. Half white vellum, gilt top, uncut edges, ...2.50
4. French morocco padded, roll red under gold edges...4.00
5. Persian calf, padded and embossed, gilt roll and r. g. 5.00
6. Crushed levant, elegant.....6.00
7. Full German calf, padded, elegant, gilt, rd. cors.....7.50

Miss Havergall stands without peer in the English language in the department of religious poetry.

"The book in paper and binding is all that could be desired."—Publishers' Weekly.

Small Books by Miss Havergall.

Bound in elegant illuminated board covers.

Kept for the Master's Use. 20

My King; Daily Thoughts for the King's Children.....30

Works of Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

Sermon Notes. Covering all the Bible from Genesis to Revelation. 4 vols.....4.00
Feathers for Arrows. A volume of Choice Extracts, 12mo., cloth.....1.00
Twelve Striking Sermons..... 50
Twelve Soul Winning Sermons, ... 50
Twelve Sermons on the Resurrection 50
Twelve New Year Sermons..... 50
Twelve Christmas Sermons..... 50

Notes by C. H. M.

On Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy.

Mr. D. L. Moody says of these books: "They have been to me a very key to the Scriptures."

Deuteronomy is issued in two volumes, the others complete in one volume each.

Separate volumes may be had if desired.

The complete set in six volumes, covering over 2,300 pages, is offered at the reduced price of 75c per vol. or $4.50 per set

A. L. O. E. Intermediate Library.

Selected from the numerous productions of this world-renowned writer as being those of rare merit. 12 vols., 12mo., cloth elegant, each 75c; set.....9.00

An Eden in England.	Life in Eagle's Nest.
Ned Franks.	White Bear's Den.
Sheer Off.	Fairy Spider's Web.
Braid of Chords.	Lake in the Woods.
Silver Keys.	Seven Perils Passed.
Grace Vernon.	Hartley Brothers.

The Jessica Series. By Hesba Stretton. 6 vols., handsome bindings, cloth 50c each, or per set 2.10

Jessica's First Prayer.	Friends till Death.
No Place Like Home.	A Miserable Christmas
Under the Old Roof.	A Night and a Day.

A. L. O. E. Junior Library. Adapted to the young folks. 7 vols., 12mo., cloth, each 60c; the set.....4 20

Claremont Tales.	A Wreath of Smoke.
Christian Conquests.	Pomegranates from
Tales Illustrative of Parables.	Punjab.
The Battle of Life.	Little Bullets from Batala.

The Hesba Stretton Series. 8 vols., elegant cloth bound, per set.....4.80

Cassy.	King's Servant.
Lost Gip.	Alone in London.
Max Kromer.	Little Meg's Children
Storm of Life	Crew of the Dolphin.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Christian Cynosure.

"IN SECRET HAVE I SAID NOTHING."—Jesus Christ.

VOL. XXVI., No. 11. CHICAGO, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1893. WHOLE No. 1,230.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION,

221 West Madison Street, Chicago.

SUBSCRIPTIONS PER YEAR..... $2.00
IF PAID STRICTLY IN ADVANCE..... 1.50

☞No paper discontinued unless so requested by the subscriber, and all arrearages paid.☜

Address all letters for publication to EDITOR CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE, CHICAGO. Writers' names must always be given. No manuscript returned unless requested and postage enclosed.

Make all drafts and money orders payable to the Treasurer, W. I. PHILLIPS, 221 WEST MADISON STREET, CHICAGO. When possible make remittances by express money order. Currency by unregistered letter at sender's risk. When writing to change address on Cynosure list always give the former address.

[Entered at the Postoffice, Chicago, Ill. as Second Class Matter.]

CONTENTS.

EDITORIAL:
Notes and Comments.... 1
The Lessons of the Late Elections..... 8
Experiences with Masons 8
A Change..... 8
CONTRIBUTIONS:
Reformers--Greeting! (Poetry)..... 1
Is War in Harmony with Christian Principles? 1
One of Many.....10
SELECTED:
An Old Mason's Opinions of the Higher Degrees of Masonry..... 2
Bishop Coxe on the Jesuits..... 3
Gladstone on Marriage and Divorce..... 3
The World's Merchant Navy..... 3
LODGE NOTES..... 7
AGENTS AND LECTURERS.... 7
CONVENTIONS:
The New York State Anti-secrecy Convention; The Iowa Anti-secrecy Convention.....4,5
CORRESPONDENCE:
English Labor Problems; Colonization...5,6
REFORM NEWS:
New England Secretary in Canada; From Rev. Wm. Fenton; From the Pacific Coast Agent; University of Kansas.8,9
THE N. C. A..... 7
THE HOME.....10
TEMPERANCE.....11
BIBLE LESSON.....12
RELIGIOUS NEWS.....12
NEWS OF THE WEEK.....13
Secret Societies Condemned.....13
HOME AND HEALTH.....14
FARM NOTES.....15

A note from Bro. I. R. B. Arnold, at Kuttawa, Ky., Nov. 13, states that he is at present abundantly supplied with religious papers for free distribution, and has no need, now, for further contributions of this kind.

Rev. H. H. Hinman, who has been sojourning in Chicago for a few months, has recently gone to Garwin, Tama county, Iowa, where he is for a time to preach, as a supply, from a Seventh-day Baptist pulpit. He takes with him the best wishes of a large circle of friends.

The addresses of Rev. C. D. Trumbull, on "How to Save Young Men from the Lodge," and Rev. L. C. Mendenhall, on "The Work of Reform as it Relates to Individuals and Churches"—both of which were read at the recent Iowa State Anti-secrecy Convention—have been received and will be promptly published, with others from that and the Utica convention, in the Cynosure.

The New York Voice is rejoicing because the latest election returns show good gains for the Prohibitionists in Massachusetts, Maryland, Virginia, Nebraska, Iowa and Kansas, with a slight falling off of the anti-license vote in New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania, while New Jersey shows a fine increase, despite depressing circumstances. New York City, Boston, and Baltimore, where systematic effort was made to reach the masses, show splendid gains in the Prohibition cause.

We give place, this week, to encouraging and interesting reports of work in the anti-secrecy reform—the proceedings, respectively, of the New York and Iowa State Christian Association Conventions, Rev. P. B. Williams' meetings on the Pacific coast, Bro. Porter's success among the colleges, etc.; all of which are incentives to gratitude to God on the approaching national Thanksgiving day. We all have very much to inspire our hearts and tongues with the incense of praise on this our annual social holiday.

The very full reports of the New York and Iowa conventions, with other interesting news from agents in the field, have unavoidably crowded out of our columns this week our New England and Washington Letters, one from Rev. J. P. Stoddard about the Utica convention, one from Rev. W. B. Stoddard relating to the convention of the National Reform Association at Allegheny, on the 14th inst., and other matters, which, however, will not lose their interest and value by the delay.

The Pittsburgh (Pa.) Conference of the Free Methodist church, at its recent session, gave its testimony against the lodge system as follows: "We believe all secret societies to be unscriptural and opposed to just and equal rights between man and man, and that they are being used to corrupt both church and state; therefore we stand opposed to them in all their forms." This is a concise statement of the principles that actuate the N. C. A. in opposing this great evil; and the time is coming when we shall triumpweh over it.

The order of the Knights of Pythias (ostensibly a civil and peaceable society) has enrolled in its Uniform Rank more than 35,000 members bearing arms as a military organization, "under a high state of discipline, officered by commanders of experience," and boasting that "should the necessity ever arise when their services would be needed" they would form "a corps equal in discipline and achievements to any that ever stood in defense of their or any other country." Considering that our country is at peace with all nations, that it has a complete standing army, and an efficient militia in every State, for what purpose or by what legal authority does this secret, formidable, private military organization exist? The people have a right to know.

The two most popular reforms of the day under discussion by the National Reform Association were Sabbath Observance and Easy Divorces. The first was championed, prominently, by Rev. H. H. George; the latter by Rev. T. P. Stevenson. The Christian Nation makes the curious remark that "anti-secrecy appears to be fighting a retreating battle," because "secret societies are multiplying." We do not see it in that light; but if the C. N. is correct, what is the N. R. A. doing, since the World's Fair broke all the Sabbathschools of its existence, except two or three, and easy and rapid divorces are growing more easy and rapid every day? As for a "retreating battle," one of Gen. Sigel's most substantial victories over Confederates was won while he retreated before superior force, with his heavy artillery slaughtering hundreds of his pursuers as they pressed upon him. But we are not on the run. Those that be with us are more than those that be against us.

Notwithstanding the scarcity of money, and the approach of a hard winter, a glance at the columns of this week's Cynosure will convince our readers that the old-time enthusiasm in our work is still manifest throughout the East and West. Yet, while the signs of the times are encouraging in this direction, it is nevertheless equally true that the N. C. A. is decidedly in need of funds for carrying on the work continuously and with the success which should attend it. Will those who have already made donations in behalf of the cause, as well as those who have not done so, make extra exertions to contribute of their substance, to keep our agents busily employed in the propagation of the truth? One agent, who is lecturing earnestly and often against the lodge, finds it extremely difficult to collect sufficient means to defray his traveling expenses. This is not an isolated case, and help is needed for the various departments of our work.

REFORMERS—GREETING!

BY MRS. VICTORIA ALEXANDRA STONE.

Written for the New York State Convention, Utica, Nov. 14, 1893.

Once more we come from hill, from plain,
From Western field and Eastern main,
To meet in brother love again.

Where bright the autumnal harvest shines
With fruitful hills and purple vines,
Where wheat-fields glow in golden lines:

The while the Indian-summer sun
Shines all the smiling hills upon,
We speak of what our toils have won.

But not upon the battle field,
Neath bannered host and blazing shield,
When victors win and foemen yield -

Nay, nobler is the strife of men,
Braver the battle that they win,
Who wage a war 'gainst death and sin.

Brighter than kingly accolade,
No blazons on their shoulders laid,
They tell of fight for freedom made.

Oh, let the heart be fearless, so
The hand be brave to strike the blow,
That smites the hydra-headed foe—

The foe that wheresoe'er we roam
We find in hall and humblest home
Wreathing its somber cloud of gloom.

Now that we meet in peace again,
Each from his bloodless battle plain,
With fruit culled from the latter rain;

We tell of duty wrought the while,
Of weary march o'er many a mile,
With comrades of the rank and file.

No trophies bring we from the wars,
Upon our shoulders gleam no stars,
No silver leaves nor golden bars.

We bring this only: we have stood
Fearless for what was true and good,
For honor, truth and brotherhood;

To smite and crush with blow on blow
The many-headed secret foe,
With strong right hand to lay him low.

We travel on through paths unknown,
And yet we cannot walk alone
With God's breath o'er our spirits blown.

And when at last our own life's sun
Shall set on bloodless battle won,
With our whole duty grandly done;

Although we wear no martyr's crown,
No laureled splendor of renown,
In peace we'll lay our armor down;

Then, brothers in one common creed
Shall we refuse while others plead!
Are we not one in wish and deed!

Like those who on that starry night
Stood with clasped hands on Grutli's height,
With mutual vows for truth and right;

So we, while smiles the autumn sun
On all the pleasant hills upon,
Speak of the peace our arms have won.

And so, we humbly trust and pray
That He who holds the centuries may Roll from their grave the stone away

Steamburgh, N. Y.

IS WAR IN HARMONY WITH CHRISTIAN PRINCIPLES?

BY REV. H. H. HINMAN.

The question is not whether war was permitted under the Mosaic dispensation. We live under the fuller and clearer light of the Gospel. Nor is it whether some modern soldiers were Christians. Many disciples of Christ have had a very poor comprehension of all that he taught.

We do not contend that civil government is unnecessary, or that it may not use force in the execution of its laws. Whether governments may rightfully take human life, and whether the right of self-defence includes this as a personal right, are separate questions not involved in this discussion. So far as this question is concerned, it may be conceded that men found in the act of murder or armed rebellion, or duly convicted in the courts, may be put to death. But this is not war. It may have in it some things in common with war, and yet be essentially different in its character. What is meant by war is the resort to the military system, to the use of armies constituted and conducted on military principles.

There is a marked difference between civil and military law. The first has its basis in justice. This was true of the old Roman jurisprudence. "Whatever is just is always the true law," says Cicero. "The primary object of civil law," says Blackstone, "is to protect men in their natural rights." Our national Constitution was ordained, among other things, to establish justice and secure the blessings of liberty.

An oath to support civil law is an oath to do justly, and need never involve the violation of natural justice. Not so with military law. It is not founded in any regard for justice and mercy; and though its merciless character has been somewhat modified by modern usages, it is always cruel and is conducted on the principle that might makes right. According to Justinian, "in war all law is silent." War never has been, nor ever can be, conducted on Christian principles. But God's law can never be silent. As well declare the principle of gravitation to be inoperative and void, as to hold that God's law of justice and mercy has ceased to be binding on either states or individuals. The idea that divine law ever becomes silent is practical atheism.

Now that every Christian should abstain from war under all circumstances is evident from the following considerations: First, because the oath of a soldier is a repudiation of personal responsibility to God. Every Christian owes supreme allegiance to his Maker. "No oath or covenant of any sort can come between him and his duty to do justly, love mercy and walk humbly before God." But the oath of a soldier binds him to absolute and unquestioning obedience to his commander. This is involved in the very idea of an army. "An army," says Dr. Johnson, "is a body of armed men who are subject to the will of a single person." In taking the military oath there is no reservation of the rights of conscience or of the higher allegiance to our Maker. Should the soldier be commanded to do what is, under any view of the case, an act of manifest wrong and cruelty, such as throwing shells into a city full of non-combatants, he must obey. He cannot resign nor escape; and the penalty of military disobedience is death.

I believe that the military oath always involves a departure from Christian principles, since it binds us not to love our enemies, and not to do good to those who hate us; but, on the other hand, to kill and destroy those who are esteemed to be enemies, though personally they have no ill-will to us or our government. The Apostolic law, "see that no man render evil for evil," is the exact opposite of the requirements of war. It requires us to overcome evil with evil, rather than to "overcome evil with good." If there are any two things that are in their nature unalike and antagonistic, they are the law of love and the laws of war—the spirit of militarism and the Spirit of Christ.

But whether the oath of a soldier always and necessarily involves wrong-doing, it certainly involves the liability to be required to do what God has forbidden, and makes it impossible to escape from the requirement except by the loss of our life. It is this point on which I especially insist, for no man has a right to take such an oath, since he cannot keep it without a denial of his supreme obligation to God. But without such an oath of unconditional obedience, war would be impossible, and armies would be like ropes of sand.

It is sometimes asked if the same is not true of the civil oath and of all oaths. I answer, no; for aside from the question of abstract right to take any oath, there is this difference between the military and all other oaths. The civil officer that finds himself involved in something which he believes to be wrong, may either resign, or refuse to obey and appeal to the courts. No such course is open to the soldier:

> "Not his to ask the reason why,
> But his alone to do or die."

A second reason why Christians ought not to engage in war, is that war as a punishment for wrong-doing purposely inflicts its penalties on the subordinates rather than the principals.

Whatever may have been the wrong, whether on either or on both sides, that has led to an international conflict, such wrong is always the act of the governments or rulers, and not of the individuals who compose their armies. The soldiers are often as ignorant of any just cause of the war as the beasts that draw their artillery. They have had nothing to do with the declaration of hostilities, nor have they aught to do with its prosecution, except to obey their officers. Their moral responsibility for the war, if it exists at all, is very small as compared with their rulers; and yet it is these men, who are relatively innocent, who are doomed to be torn by shot and shell, and whose families are left to sorrow and destitution. The principals in the conflict always escape. In the France and Prussian war the common soldiers had nothing to do with its inception; they had no wrongs on either side to revenge. They owed each other no malice, and yet were sent out to murder and to be murdered. The two persons most to blame were the Emperor and Empress of France. Though defeated, both were treated with the utmost consideration. A system that uniformly works out such results—punishing the innocent and absolving the guilty—must be intrinsically wicked.

A third reason why Christians should abstain from war is, that it involves a violation of the law that "thou shalt not kill." I shall not undertake to show that the taking of human life can never be justified. All that I now insist on, is that men who have not been even charged with crime, and who are as honest and well-intentioned as those who seek to kill them, do not deserve to die, and that to kill such persons, or, worse, to set them to killing each other, is in violation of the command, "thou shalt not kill."

In all wars there is room for difference of opinion as to the provocation on either side. The soldiers of each army may, and generally do, suppose that they are on the side of the right. Take our late war as an example. Whatever may have been the merits of the controversy, as seen from a divine standpoint, it is quite certain that the great mass of the soldiers on either side supposed they were fighting for the right. There were many sincere, though mistaken, Christians in both armies, who, with equal earnestness, invoked God's blessing on the cause they had espoused.

Now, on no principle of Christianity do such people deserve to be put to death. Christians cannot seek to kill their fellow-Christians without sin against Christ, the Elder Brother of us all. "God is not mocked." Whatever may be the consequences of obedience to God, either to individuals or to the state, they will be infinitely better than the results of disobedience.

There are many other reasons why Christians should not engage in war; but I conclude with a consideration of some of the defences of the military system.

(a) The command of our government is sufficient warrant for our conduct. Ans.—It may be so regarded in human tribunals, but not at the bar of God.

(b) We are commanded to obey magistrates, and if they bid us to go to war, we must obey. Ans.—"We ought to obey God rather than man."

(c) We look to our country for protection, and owe to it our allegiance. Ans.—This is true, but that is but half the truth. We owe a far higher allegiance to God, and no duty that we owe to our country can bind us to disobey God's government.

(d) But war is necessary to sustain human government. Ans.—This is a mere begging of the question; for nothing can be shown to be necessary until it is first shown to be right.

(e) If war is always wrong, there is no such thing as the right of revolution. Ans.—The right of revolution by legitimate—that is, by moral methods—is nowise denied; but all appeals to war for the sake of changing the form of government are distinctly forbidden. Paul wrote to the Romans: "Let every soul be subject to the higher powers. He that resisteth, resisteth the ordinances of God." This was said to the subjects of Nero, and covers all cases of rebellion. It is never to be justified.

Chicago, Nov., 1893.

AN OLD MASON'S OPINIONS OF THE HIGHER DEGREES OF MASONRY.

[From the New Orleans Daily Picayune of Nov. 8, 1893.]

MOLINO, Fla., Nov. 7, 1893.

EDITOR PICAYUNE:—An article in your issue of Oct. 26, headed "A Masonic Tribute to the Memory of General Albert Pike and General James Cunningham Batchelor," with several notices, in late issues of your paper, of the proceedings of the Southern Jurisdiction Scottish Rite Masons, lately held at St. Louis, induces me at this time to call attention to what I believe to be a drifting away from the true objects of Masonry by a large percentage of the leading minds of the ancient order.

At the outset I wish to disclaim any desire to arouse controversy. I do desire to awaken Masonic writers and thinkers to a broader view of our course, and I hope that through information gleaned from those able to give information our younger and less experienced brothers will see the way to make the Masonic order more useful to man.

The only possible way to reach the great mass of Masons is through the newspapers of the day. Masonic journals reach but a very small per cent of the order.

I have been a Mason for over thirty-five years. I have been honored with a seat in the East. For years one of my desires as a Mason was to reach up for higher degrees. I took the last—the 33d degree—some years since.

I now want to make the statement of my belief founded on experience and study of Masonic history: All there is in Masonry worthy of study; all there is of the slightest service to man in carrying out the great object—charity; all there is of life, death and resurrection in Masonry, is included in the three degrees known as the Blue Lodge. All above the Blue Lodge is useless. If it were in my power I would wipe out everything but the three degrees. An apprentice should remain an apprentice until he has learned the moral and charitable objects of the order; admitted a fellow-craft when his work was good, and raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason when he was able and willing to direct, to teach and to lead in Masonic work.

What is the object of the higher degrees? That they take, and expend uselessly, a very large per centage of the brains, energy and money of Masons.

I was at the triennial conclave at Chicago, in '81, I think, and several of us undertook to estimate the cost of that meeting to Masons. We made it something over $15,000,000. Think of the vast number of widows and orphans that would have been made happy by the expenditure of this vast sum (backed by the energy and brains necessary to make a success of that show) in true Masonic purposes.

Now as to the Scottish Rite degrees: From their first introduction into this country they have been a source of trouble to Masons. After some thirty years, more or less, of war among Masons over them, they died a death that should never have had an awakening. About 1861 Albert Pike resurrected the old Charleston body, and that was followed by the New York and Boston people breathing life into their defunct bodies; the result has been war ever since. During the past ten years, not satisfied with abusing each other, they have brought down their disagreeable controversies—dragged them into the Blue Lodges—and created no end of un-Masonic feeling in bodies that could not possibly have any Masonic knowledge of the matters in controversy. And to what purpose? What possible Masonic good can come out of all the Scottish Rite degrees? Has there been a Masonic widow, or Masonic orphan, clothed, fed or educated by the vast amount of money and brains expended on, and in, the Scottish Rite degrees?

Albert Pike, the lawyer, poet, soldier; a brainy man; a brilliant man; in all probability the very best posted man in Masonic lore that ever lived—such a man should have left behind him an amount of good done for his fellow-man that would have forever enshrined his name among all good Masons. As a matter of cold fact, what has he left? I suppose many of my brothers will consider it sacrilege for me to tell the truth. I, with others, have derived enjoyment from listening to that patriarch; I have felt the wonderful magnetism of the man as he beautifully word-painted the symbolism of our craft.

But, what of substance has he left? There is the bitter animosities between brethren over rites that had better never have existed. He left us a form of government entirely antagonistic to all our education and ideas of government—the right to rule without the consent of the governed. Is there a widow's or orphan's home that was created by his genius?

Had this man's ability and influence over men been devoted to the true objects of Masonry, he would have left monuments scattered over this broad land that would have been the means of caring for and educating thousands of those who are now left to struggle for bare existence.

The great ability of the man, wonderful force, energy and persistence, was devoted for over thirty years to dragging from its dead past an organization that has never been of any service to man; an organization that, while it absorbed a large amount of Masonic ability and money, since its introduction into this country about the beginning of this century, has been the cause of more strife than any other one thing I know of in Masonry.

Why do I write this? Because I would like to see Masonry stripped of its excrescences, of its gewgaws. I would like to see the brains, the ability, the energy, the money, now frittered away on the so-called higher degrees, expended on true Masonic objects. I would like to see a Master Mason's hall, regalia and paraphernalia, magnificent. I would like to see it as showy and attractive to man as it is possible to make it, but only after all proper Masonic objects had been attended to. I would like that the young man just raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason should feel that he had attained an honor that could not be added to by man, be he prince or potentate. Not as now, when a very considerable number of them feel that the degree is but a stepping-stone to "higher" or more ornamental degrees. "Sublime!" why, at present it is at the bottom. It should not be so. Its symbolism makes it the grandest of all degrees claiming to be Masonry. All real substantial work; all that is Masonry proper, is done by the Blue Lodge Whatever there is of good to be done for others must be, and is, done by the Blue Lodge. The Master's degree should be the head of Masonry, instead of the foot.

The point I would make is, that a very large proportion of the ability and money expended on Masonry at present is lost to the true object by the so-called higher degrees. S. S. Harvey.

COMMENT.

[From Rev. J. Blanchard's Notes on Doesburg's Exposition, pages 601, 02, 03.]

If the reader has carefully analyzed the seven degrees of Freemasonry (Blue Lodge and Chapter) he has seen a mass of superstition, frivolity, absurdity, and falsehood, such as appear in the spirit-worships of all ages, blended with fearful craft, and stupenduous hatred of God in Christ: and if he has studied, in addition to the analysis of the degree, the historic sketches and monitorial notes from lodge authorities, they have seemed to him, as they seem to us, to establish the following inferences and conclusions concerning the one mighty system of which Freemasonry forms but a subordinate part.

He has seen that this dark system is Protean—perpetually shifting its names and shapes, but keeping its nature. Its spirit is discernible in the inflated propositions of the serpent to Eve, the counterfeit rites of Cain, and the religious persecution and murder of Abel; in the religious frolic and extemporized calf-worship at Sinai, and the subsequent night revels of the high places; in the sham "curious arts" by which it antagonized Christianity in the days of the apostles; and, indeed, in all the hollow religious debauchery depicted from the beginning of the Bible to its close. The history of the system since shows the same constant conspiracy to subvert true religion and morality by superstition and sham.

It was the spirit of the Crusades. Its bastard knighthood,—Templars, Knights of Malta and the rest, swearing to fight for Christianity, which Christ forbade his disciples to do—first deceived, then shocked and disgusted the nations of Europe, till they drove them out. Folly, like history, reproduces itself; and this old knighthood, which Europe cast out with loathing for its infamies and crimes, puts on the man millinery gewgaws and titles, and weak and worldly ministers of the Gospel welcome back all of the old dead system revived except its originality, to desecrate their churches, profane the Sabbath and insult the Saviour, by swearing to defend with their swords that Christianity which most of them do not even profess! While city lodges of Jews, who have supposed that they were Masons, and that Masonry was not sectarian, look on this Knight Templar Masonry with astonishment, and hear its preachers boast the exalted purpose of "Sir Knights" to kill the enemies of Christ and Christianity with their swords!

Then comes ordinary Masonry; with its regeneration contrived in a London dram shop; raising the dead by rowdies and ruffians, and sanctifying and saving men by ceremonies without Christ. It crosses the channel into France, invents and catalogues more than three thousand higher degrees in Masonry. By its instinct for despotism, it embraces the cause of popery and the Stuarts, and plots in secret the overthrow of the British Constitution, which sheltered its monstrous birth. It is Protestant with Protestants, Popish among Papists, and Hebrew among Jews. In England it was Protestant; in France, Papist; in the United States, both. It rides all popular virtues, and persecutes unpopular reforms, which yet it adopts as soon as they are carried. It is, by turns, a temperance order and a charity club, to befriend the living and bury the dead. It is a "Union League" for patriots, and a "Golden Circle" for rebels; Mollie Maguires, Ku-klux, Know Nothings, Rifle clubs—as to outward shape and seeming,

"'Tis everything by turns, and nothing long."

But under all its mist and mirage lurks, constantly, the same dark and dreadful nature—"the spirit that worketh in the children of disobedience," the god of secrecy, craft and hate. Setting aside the whole law of God, as condensed and taught by our Saviour—the two pillars in the Temple of Eternal Truth, supreme love to God and equal love to man—it substitutes penalty for justice, ceremonies for the atonement, a modified concubinage for true marriage, lodge despotism for government, legend for history, and, as the climax of conspiracy, Satan for Christ.

BISHOP COXE ON THE JESUITS.

A letter from Rt. Rev. A. Cleveland Coxe, D. D., Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Western New York, to Mgr. Satolli, "the American pope," is as follows:

To Monsignor Satolli, Etc.:—During the last twelve months you have continued to place yourself before the American people in a manner alike aggressive and offensive. Offensive not only to the Protestant convictions of our people, but to the honest citizenship of many who profess the Roman religion. I have hoped that some eminent civilian would feel it his duty to inform you that you are not qualified to expound our constitution to an intelligent people, nor entitled as an alien to lecture us on our duties. You are not only an alien but the emissary of a foreign court, and evidently as ignorant of our institutions as you are of our language. Since you have come to the city where I dwell and where no inconsiderable number of its prominent citizens look to me as their chief pastor, I cannot permit your intrusive and gratuitous teaching to be placed before my people without a courteous but firm rejoinder. My people profess the Catholic religion, but they are proud and happy to be reckoned among their Protestant fellow-citizens in all civil relations. It was to define this fact of brotherhood with the American people and of loyalty to their constitution, which embodied principles that Protestant nations only have ever professed or maintained, that our fathers accepted a local and civil name for our American church. But that name defines our civil estate; the Nicene creed defines our religion. I shall, therefore, express myself as a Christian bishop should, but I shall speak as one jealous of the freedom which it has cost our forefathers so much to purchase and to perpetuate. And I shall say to you nothing but what the noblest oracles of your own religion have said before. Nay, I shall quote the illustrious pontiff, Clement XIV., as fully sustaining my positions. I shall speak for America as Bossuet spoke for France. I shall cite the maxims of Mr. Brownson, the most eminent and respectable convert among American laymen who has ever been led to cast in his lot with your people. In everything I mean to say my fellow-citizens of your persuasion shall find me, not their enemy, but their champion. I make no war upon their right to enjoy their religion, but, like the best and noblest man that for centuries has been reckoned among Roman pontiffs, like him who earned the applause of all nations when he condemned and suppressed the Jesuits, I am the antagonist of that corrupt society. So are thousands of professed Roman Catholics. I trust many of them will aid me to awake my countrymen to the fact that it is a band of secret conspirators against all liberty and all laws. I shall prove that it is the duty of all free people to limit and control, if not to banish, the Jesuits from their coasts. For a few weeks occasion may not permit me to speak to you in another letter, but in a short time you shall hear again, by God's leave, from your Christian brother and sincere friend,

A. Cleveland Coxe,
Bishop of Western New York.

GLADSTONE ON MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

What can be more convincing than the words of that eminent statesman and scholar, Right Hon. William E. Gladstone, who, in answer to the question, "Should divorced people be allowed to marry under any circumstances?" replied:

"The second question deals with what may be called divorce proper. It resolves itself into the lawfulness or unlawfulness of remarriage; and the answer appears to me to be that remarriage is not admissible under any circumstances or conditions whatsoever. Not that the difficulties arising from incongruousmarriage are to be either denied or extenuated. They are indissoluble. But the remedy is worse than the disease.

"These sweeping statements ought, I am aware, to be supported by reasoning and detail, which space does not permit and which I am not qualified adequately to supply. But it seems to me that such reasoning might fall under the following heads:

"That Christian marriage involves a vow before God.

"That no authority has been given to the Christian church to cancel such a vow.

"That it lies beyond the province of the civil legislature, which, from the necessity of things, has a veto power within the limits of reason upon the making of it, but has no competency to annul it when once made.

"That according to the laws of just interpretation, remarriage is forbidden by the text of Holy Scripture.

"While divorce of any kind impairs the integrity of the family, divorce with remarriage destroys it root and branch. The parental and conjugal relations are 'joined together' by the hand of the Almighty, no less than the persons united by the marriage tie to one another. Marriage contemplates not only an absolute identity of interests and affections, but also the creation of new, joint and independent obligations, stretching into the future and limited only by the stroke of death. These obligations, where divorce proper is in force, loose all community, and the obedience reciprocal to them is dislocated and destroyed."

THE WORLD'S MERCHANT NAVY.

The statistics of the shipping of the world, which have just been published by Lloyds, afford interesting reading, especially to the people of the United States. The figures show that there is no nation which has made so rapid an increase in the tonnage of steamers registered during the past twelve months as the United States. At this time last year, remarks the New York Tribune, we had 431 steamers, of an aggregate tonnage of 572,272. We have now 460 steamers, and the tonnage has risen in the twelve months to 630,646. Indeed, our rate of increase for the year in steam shipping is far beyond that of Great Britain. Our sailing vessels, on the other hand, are decreasing. We are, with England and Norway, the only nation in the world that has a carrying capacity of over 1,000,000 tons in sailing ships. A year ago we were second in the list of sailing-ship-owning nations. Now we occupy the third place, having been beaten by Norway. The steady decline in the number of sailing ships is likewise noticeable in Germany and France, both countries, however, showing a large increase in the tonnage of their steam shipping. The returns, it may be added, certainly do not afford any indication that the low freight and decreasing dividends of which the ship owners complain so loudly have exercised any marked effect upon the shipbuilding industry.

NEW YORK STATE ANTI-SECRECY CONVENTION.

UTICA, NOVEMBER 14–15, 1893.

The convention of the New York State Christian Association, opposed to secret societies, assembled at Utica on Tuesday, Nov. 14. The following is the report of its proceedings, as printed in the Utica Morning Press of the 15th and 16th.

The delegates represent branches of the State Asssociation. This organization is not denominational; it includes persons of all Protestant religious sects, and, as one of the speakers remarked, its aim is purely educational.

The opening session was held in the Coke Memorial church yesterday, commencing at 2:30 P. M. The attendance was small. Among those present were Rev. W. H. Clark, of Binghamton, Rev. F. M. Foster, of New York; Rev. Nathaniel Wardner, of Rome; Rev. J. B. Knappenberger and Rev. S. R. Wallace, of Syracuse; Rev. H. L. Kellogg, of Chicago; Rev. J. P. Stoddard, of Boston, and others. A number of additional delegates are expected to-day.

As a fitting opening to the convention, which was presided over by Rev. S. R. Wallace, of Syracuse, brief devotional exercises were held. The leader was Rev. Almiron G. Smith, formerly pastor of the Free Methodist church in this city. The State secretary not being present, Rev. J. B. Knappenberger was elected temporarily to that office. The report of the treasurer, Rev. L. Woodruff, of Binghamton, was presented, and a large number of letters from absent brethren were read.

The introductory address was made by Rev. H. L. Kellogg, of Chicago. Mr. Kellogg is at present engaged in the interest of the association in New York State. The last two weeks he spent in Otsego county, where he made a house to house canvass among the people in the rural districts. With them he found a sentiment very much against secret societies. He said the people of several towns in that county had been treated to several cases where perpetrators of revolting crimes had been lightly dealt with because they belonged to certain secret societies of which members of juries which tried the offenders belonged; also that the churches were practically in the power of the lodges in that vicinity. The speaker said he experienced great difficulty in attempting to preach in one of those churches, and it was only through a piece of good fortune that he was able to do so. He spoke of the Masonic Home; how it was erected at a cost of $2,000 for each inmate (cost $200,000, at present 100 inmates); how its purpose was supposed to be of a benevolent nature.

"I have been told," said Mr. Kellogg, "that this institution was built by levying a tax upon every Masonic lodge in the State. This tax was in a number of instances so heavy that it practically caused the confiscation of some of the poorer lodges. If the churches should resort to such measures we would never hear the last of it." His remarks were directed to secret organizations, from a religious and Christian standpoint, and during the course of his address he scored several good points. Mr. Kellogg will be heard again to-day.

The next speaker was Rev. J. P. Stoddard, of Boston, who has spent many years in the crusade against secret societies, and therefore is well informed on the subject. This year, at the instigation of the National Christian Association, he spent three months at the World's Fair. He had a section in one of the buildings, and here he met and discussed the subject of secret societies with people from all over the world. Yesterday afternoon Mr. Stoddard spoke briefly. He said there were three things a man must do in order to become a Mason. He must pray, pay and swear. Then again there are three things he must relinquish—the right of private judgment, the privilege of speech, and the liberty of the press. He said that while at the Fair he had entered into conversation with many people, and upon questioning them as to the truth of certain forms existing in their respective lodges, they would refuse to answer. Why? They had surrendered the right of private judgment, and the right of speech, and were under penalties of a barbaric nature if they should expose these rites. In conclusion, he said that after his experience he was thoroughly convinced that those against secret societies greatly outnumbered those in favor of them. Less than one-half the members of these organizations attend their lodges.

Committees were then announced as follows:

Resolutions: J. P. Stoddard, A. Smith, F. M. Foster, W. L. Wardner.

Finance and Business: L. Woodruff, N. B. Hoag, H. L. Kellogg.

Enrollment: J. B. Knappenberger, S. Beckwith.

The afternoon session adjourned at 4:30.

When the evening session opened at 7:30 the attendance was considerably in excess of that of the afternoon. Rev. J. B. Knappenberger conducted the devotional exercises, and then Rev. S. R. Wallace, of Syracuse, was introduced as the first speaker of the evening. His remarks were directed to the educational aim of the association. He said in substance: "The association, organized in opposition to secret societies, has no personal feeling against any of the members of such societies. Our aim is chiefly in an educational direction. The authority of God and his teachings are on our side and against institutions and organizations which will crush the liberties he has given us. If we endeavor to teach that these institutions are hostile to the true spirit of Christianity you will at least give us credit for being honest and sincere, and in no way attempting to bear malice against any one. I think I may safely say the great majority of those within these organizations do not know their nature. It is only the few who know the genius and purpose back of them. I believe the Masonic fraternity is contrary to the spirit of liberty which God has given to man. The secrecy of the various organizations is contrary to any law of God. I am honestly opposed to any form of secret organization. They are hostile to the home, the state and the nation. The power of these organizations was back of our rebellion. No agency is as powerful in the aid of the saloon-keeper as that of a secrecy. This agency is back of some of the greatest evils which exist to-day. It is hostile to the great sacred institutions in the country. It is also hostile to and tends to destroy the body of Christ. Various Biblical characters are quoted as belonging to secret organizations, but no one ever said that Jesus Christ had any connection with any such institutions."

The speaker said the rituals taught by secret societies led many of the members to think that being a good Mason, or a good Odd-fellow, or a good Pythian, was essentially the same and equal to being a good Christian. This influence was in itself wrong. Any organization that stands hostile to the body of Christ is destructive to his church. Therefore it was necessary that people should be taught the true condition of affairs existing among the secret societies of America, and this was the main endeavor of the association.

Rev. F. M. Foster, of New York, was the next speaker. He read a lengthy type-written paper on "Masonic Oaths." Mr. Foster's address was mainly a review of the oath used in the different degrees of Freemasonry. The penalties resulting from violation of these oaths were also enumerated, and to quote from the speaker, "they were in most instances no less horrible than some barbaric customs." A resolution to publish the paper in the Christian Cynosure, the organ of the National Christian Association, was adopted.

Mr. Foster here examined the oaths and penalties of Freemasonry, and Rev. Mr. Stoddard gave a description of the various forms of precedure which candidates have to go through when taking certain degrees. Then, by the aid of a chart arranged expressly for this purpose, he depicted the evolution of man from the time of his creation down to the present time; how some had worshiped the true God and others false gods and the final judgment. "When a man crosses the threshold of a Masonic lodge," the speaker said, "he seeks a new religion and worships a new god."

SECOND DAY—NOV. 15.

The second day's session convened at the Coke Memorial church at 9:30, Wednesday morning.

Rev. Nathaniel Wardner, of Rome, conducted the devotional exercises.

The first business meeting was the presentation of the report of the committee on resolutions, which is as follows:

RESOLUTIONS.

WHEREAS, The present has been characterized as an age of lodges; and

WHEREAS, All associations making concealment by an oath or pledge a condition of membership are essentially one in principle; and

WHEREAS, The various orders, such as Jesuitism, Freemasonry, Odd-fellowship, etc., constitute a secret empire with legislative, judicial and executive powers, uncontrolled by the state, assuming to try, condemn and execute citizens guilty of no offense against the civil authority; and

WHEREAS, There is evidence that the power of the secret empire is sometimes employed to defeat the ends of justice in our courts; therefore,

Resolved, That it is the bounden duty of every man and woman in this land to thoroughly investigate the secret orders, that they may be prepared to detect and expose the schemes of secretism, and preserve the family, the state and the church of Christ from its polluting influence.

Resolved, That it is the judgment of this convention, that the time has come when every citizen is called upon to choose between allegiance to the secret or open governments.

Resolved, That we will work for the entire abolition of the manufacture, sale and use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, and we are convinced that the secret lodges protect, promote and perpetuate the drink curse, and render its abolition far more difficult.

Resolved, That this convention earnestly call upon the friends of Christian reform in our State to sustain those papers which bear testimony against the lodge, and especially the national organ of our reform, the Christian Cynosure. We urge that there be self-denial, if need be, to secure the reading of this paper in all our homes, and especially by our young men.

Resolved, That thanks to God should be gratefully given for the opportunities opened for testimony in connection with the World's Fair in an exhibit and a congress; and for his good providence in turning the attention of many of our ablest men and citizens to the evils of secretism.

Resolved, That the citizens of New York have just reason to honor the memories of many noble sons of their State in the past generation, whose testimony against the secret lodge, given in no wavering or ambiguous terms, deserves to be repeated again and again to their children. While the names of William H. Seward, Gerrit Smith, John C. Spencer, Millard Fillmore, Myron Holley, Thurlow Weed, Horace Greeley, Frederick Whittlesey and others, are treasured with an imperishable memory, let their condemnation of secret societies never be forgotten.

Resolved, That we commend to all candid men who wish to know Masonry to study the oaths of the Blue Lodge as published by the Supreme Court of New York, the highest legal authority of the State, in Wendell's Supreme Court reports, volume 13, page 12, case of Purple vs. Horton. That men can take such oaths and call for the infliction upon themselves of such horrible death penalties, and defend them, while professing Christianity, shows the fearful power of Satan, the deceiver and adversary of men.

Resolved, That this convention tender its most sincere thanks to the homes of Utica that have been hospitably opened for the entertainment of delegates, to the press for courteous notices, and to various pulpits that have extended the invitation to the people to be present in the convention.

These resolutions were adopted, as was the financial report which was presented.

The following officers were elected:

President, Rev. S. R. Wallace, of Syracuse.

Secretary, Rev. W. H. Clark, of Binghamton.

Treasurer, Rev. L. Woodruff, of Binghamton.

The Executive Committee comprises these officers and the additional names of Rev. J. B. Knappenberger, of Syracuse, and Rev. Nathaniel Wardner, of R me.

The principal speaker at the afternoon session was Stephen Merritt, of New York. Mr. Merritt was at one time a prominent Mason in that city, and stood high in the order. About a year ago he withdrew from his lodge and is now making a crusade against secret societies. He spoke briefly of his experiences while a member of the lodge.

Rev. Nathaniel Wardner, of Rome, next addressed the convention. Mr. Wardner spoke principally of the impossibility of a man serving two Gods. He cannot serve his church and be a member of a secret organization. If he will study the teachings of the Holy Ghost he will never enter a lodge. If he has been tempted to enter the lodge the Holy Ghost will get him out. The teachings of Jesus Christ do not tolerate secret societies; therefore, the church should not do so.

The speaker read several Scriptural passages from the Masonic monitors, and upon comparing this with the original, it was always found that any reference to the name of Jesus was omitted. In conclusion, he said that the creed of secret organizations was always expounded in secret, and to get this creed one had to pay a good price for it. The Gospel was taught from the housetops, in the hearing of every man, and it was free to those who would accept it.

The next speaker was Rev. J. B. Knappenberger, of Syracuse. His opposition to secret societies was based upon certain conditions. In the first place he said there was not enough of any man so that he might be a member of a secret organization and, at the same time, a Christian. That which is paid into the lodges, many times, is taken away from the church. In this busy age there is not time for a man to devote to lodge and church. The clannishness and selfishness which characterizes the secret organizations are against them. If these organizations are for the purpose of promoting religion among men, they are not needed, as their teachings are not of Jesus Christ. The speaker said that although the number opposing these organizations may yet be small, still their influence is, in a degree, very powerful.

At the conclusion of this address Rev. J. P. Stoddard, the sage of the convention, spent a few minutes discussing the points of Odd-fellowship; the forms of initiation and the pledges. During certain of the degrees the candidates are required to become the chief characters in certain great pastoral scenes. This, he said, was a travesty on the church of Christ.

The closing session of the convention opened at 7:30. The church was filled. Mr. Merritt made another address, which was a resume of that of the afternoon, only enlarged. Peter Cook, an African missionary, spoke for an hour on the subject of foreign missionaries; and then the convention adjourned to meet next year subject to the call of the Executive Committee.

IOWA ANTI-SECRECY REFORMERS.

THE STATE CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION MEETING.

The Iowa Christian Association met in annual convention in the Reformed Presbyterian church of Hopkinton, Iowa, Nov. 14, at 10 A. M., and continued its sessions through two days. In the absence of the president, John Dorcas, J. M. Kent, a veteran in the cause, was called to the chair, and presided throughout the convention.

After devotional exercises, Rev. T. H. Acheson, pastor of the church in which we met, welcomed the convention in well-chosen words. The following are the principal points made by the speaker:

"We welcome you (1) Because we believe you are engaged in a highly important work. It is important because of the character, aims, number and position of secret societies.

"2. Because you are engaged in an unpopular work. It is one of the most unpopular, and thus you will appreciate our welcome all the more.

"3. Because we need your aid. Ours is the only church organization in the neighborhood opposed to secret orders. There are many secret societies here. They are now aroused.

"4. Because we have been praying for you. We feel that the work is God's, and that we should depend upon him. To him we have gone here in our sanctuary."

Impromptu responses were made to the address by the chairman and other members of the convention.

The usual committees on resolutions, enrollment, nominations and finance were appointed.

It was stated that the president of the association had recently suffered sore bereavement in his family, and was also suffering personal affliction, because of which he was unable to be present. A committee was appointed to prepare a letter of sympathy to be sent to Bro. Dorcas. The committee's report was approved and the secretary was instructed to forward the letter.

AFTERNOON SESSION.—The committees not being ready to report, the session was given up to the address of the afternoon by Rev. L. Mendenhall, on "Reform Work as it Relates to Individuals and the Churches," and conference on this and other topics. The address was well received and the speaker was requested to furnish a copy for publication in the Christian Cynosure.

Several questions were asked and answered, so as to give zest to this session of the association. Among the questions were the following:

"Has Freemasonry so changed that it is not what it was as to its essential principles?" The question was answered by reference to the twenty-fifth landmark of Masonry, to the effect that Freemasonry cannot be changed; that nothing can be added to it, and nothing taken from it.

"Is it possible that persons who stand high in the church are, in some cases, spared the most humiliating parts of initiatory ceremonies?" Answered in the negative by an ex-Mason. Rev. W. Fenton told how one who had taken many degrees in the Rite of Memphis had told him that when men were squeamish sometimes, some of the ceremonies were set aside.

In answer to the question no one present had any knowledge that the Freemasons in Mexico had abolished the death penalty.

"Has a voluntary association a right to administer oaths?" was answered in the negative.

EVENING SESSION.—The church was crowded, many of those present being secretists.

The first speaker of the evening, Rev. J. P. Doud, being unavoidably absent, Rev. Wm. Fenton, of St. Paul, Minnesota, occupied the evening in a discussion of the "The Relation of the Bible to the Claims of Freemasonry and other Kindred Societies." He said:

"The Bible speaks of two kinds of worship—the worship of God through Christ, and devil-worship. Devil-worship has been called by different names and has assumed different forms in different ages and lands. In Egypt it took the form of the worship of Osiris; in Phœnicia it took the form of the worship of Tammuz; in Moab the form of the worship of Baal-peor." The speaker related the fables on which these forms of worship were founded, and then, quoting Rebold, showed by that author the connection of Freemasonry with these systems of idolatry and heathenism, and the similarity of the rites of modern Freemasonry to the abominable rites of these ancient mysteries. He set forth the origin of the speculative Freemasonry in an assembly of four lodges of "pot-house companions," as Rebold styles them, in London, in the beginning of the eighteenth century. He then proceeded to describe the initiation and other rites of the three degrees of Blue Lodge Masonry and analyzed their obligations, showing their immoral character. He called on any Mason present to deny, if he could, the truth of any of his statements; but no one responded.

WEDNESDAY MORNING SESSION.—After devotional services, the time was given up to business. The constitution was, according to previous notice, revised and amended, and the treasurer was instructed to have 1,000 copies printed for the use of the association.

The Committee on Nominations reported. The report was amended and adopted and is as follows:

President, Rev. J. A. Greer, Columbus City.

Vice-presidents, Rev. J. B. Jackson, Morning Sun, and Rev. W. N. Coffee, Burlington.

Secretary, Rev. T. H. Acheson, Hopkinton.

Treasurer, Rev. L. Mendenhall, Fairfield.

The Committee on Resolutions reported. The report was amended, discussed, and adopted, and is as follows:

RESOLUTIONS.

WHEREAS, Secret orders are very numerous and very strong in our land; and

WHEREAS, From the publications of the orders and their outward workings, as well as from the testimonies of seceding members, their principles and character may be well known; and

WHEREAS, We believe them to be anti-Christian and anti-republican; therefore,

Resolved, That we lift up our testimony against organized secrecy as wrong in principle, contrary to the Word of God, and in conflict with the example of Him who said, "In secret have I said nothing."

Resolved, That those orders which profess to fit men for a better world, while they reject Jesus Christ and the Gospel plan of salvation, tend to lead men to destruction.

Resolved, That the obligations of secret orders, exacted before the secrets are revealed, are ensnaring to the conscience; and destructive of spiritual freedom.

Resolved, That every man should inform himself as to the character and tendency of these orders.

Resolved, That it is the duty of every minister of the Gospel to bear faithful testimony as to the heathen origin, corrupt character and evil tendency of secret organizations, and to warn men of the sin and danger of connection with them.

Resolved, That inasmuch as we perceive the impracticability of the church being faithful in the matter of caring for the poor while retaining members of secret societies in her fellowship; therefore we call upon all denominations of Christians to withdraw fellowship from all members of secret orders.

WHEREAS, The prohibitory law of the State has been of incalculable and immeasurable benefit, directly conducing to the actual well-being of the State, and indirectly a blessing to the world; therefore

Resolved, That we deeply regret the political movement to set aside the present law and to substitute local option for prohibition.

The afternoon session was given largely to the hearing of addresses.

Rev. J. B. Jackson was on the program to speak on "The Duty of the Church in Respect to Organized Secretism;" but was detained from the convention by sickness in his family.

Rev. J. A. Greer, by invitation, took his place. He said he was opposed to secret orders because they kill a man's spirituality. If you want a man for work in the church, you do not lay your hands on a lodge-man. The speaker was opposed to all secret orders, the minor as well as the major orders. He had satisfactory evidence that the Grand Army of the Republic is an oath-bound order. This was the testimony of one who, having been a member, withdrew from the order and united with his church. The speaker had high respect for old soldiers. The blood of heroes flows in his veins. His father lies among the unknown dead on the battlefield of Gettysburgh, but he would not unite with the Sons of Veterans, or any such order. The attitude of the church should be that of opposition to all secret orders.

The next address was by Rev. C. D. Trumbull, on the subject, "How to Save Young Men from the Lodge."

This was followed by a paper by Rev. W. N. Coffee on "The Nature and Grounds of our Opposition to Secrecy." The writer of the address was not able to be present on account of sickness. His paper was read by Rev. T. H. Acheson. The writers of those two addresses were requested to furnish copies for publication in the Cynosure.

The closing session of the convention was held in Music Hall, which was well filled to hear President C. A. Blanchard discuss the subject, "The Duty of the Hour Respecting Secret Organizations." After introductory remarks, the speaker called on those who belong to secret orders to show where they stand by rising; then on those in doubt; and, last, those opposed to secrecy, and found persons present belonging to each class. The duty of the hour was shown to be:

1. To study the subject.
2. In forming opinions, to see that they are based on the Word of God.
3. Having formed our opinions, to maintain them.

(Continued on 8th page.)

CORRESPONDENCE.

ENGLISH LABOR PROBLEMS.

DERBY, Eng., Nov. 2, 1893.

EDITOR CYNOSURE:—The labor troubles of this country have become very embarrassing and obstructive to progress. At the root of the whole is the present coal strike, which, has now lasted for fourteen weeks. This has affected all other trades, for no extensive industry can be carried on without coal. The dispute between the coal owners and the miners is one which while discreditable to the intelligence of the nineteenth century, is also disastrous to the general interests of the nation.

Between three and four months ago the coal proprietors came to the conclusion that a reduction of 25 per cent in wages was needful in consequence of the conditions of trade, and against this a determined opposition was raised by the men. The masters then offered to submit their case to arbitration, but this was rejected by the Miners' Federation.

In the year 1888 a rate of wages was paid, upon which advances were occasionally made up to August, 1890, when it was found that the increase amounted to 40 per cent above the amount paid in 1888. This advance has been secured mainly as a result of an organization called the Miners' Federation. A counter-organization was formed by the coal owners, and is known as the Coal Owners' Federation. The two federations have been, and still are, in active opposition to each other. The Miners' Federation has hitherto absolutely refused either to accept a reduction or submit the questions in dispute to arbitration. As a result, the various industries of the country have become paralyzed and the loss of millions of money in wages has brought distress and starvation into tens of thousands of homes.

A disastrous outcome of the whole has been the inauguration of a series of riots and disturbances of peace of the country. Such has been the opposition of the Miners' Federation to the getting of coal, that wherever men have gone into the pits to get coal, even for the working of the pumping engines, to keep the pits from being flooded, riots have been raised, and both the men and the property threatened with destruction. The police and military have frequently been called upon to quell the uprising. At Featherstone, near Wakefield, Yorkshire, the most disastrous collision occurred, where, after terrible provocation on the part of the mob, the Riot Act was read, and on the rioters refusing to disperse, six of the soldiers were ordered to fire, when three persons were shot dead and several others were wounded. Two of the men who were killed happened to be merely onlookers, but standing in the line of fire received the bullets which were intended for the rioters. During the week a sort of terrorism had prevailed throughout the locality, while in Wakefield business had to be suspended, as the presence and conduct of the rioters indicated that the town would be sacked. When, however, it was seen that the lives and property of the order-loving citizens must and would be protected, the disturbances gradually subsided. Meeting with some gentlemen from Wakefield, a few days later, in answer to inquiries respecting the conflict at Featherstone, they said that the general opinion of the people living in the locality was, that the firing of the soldiers was an act of "merciful severity," but for which, many other lives and a vast amount of property would have been destroyed.

In order to bring about a settlement of the unhappy disputes, conferences of the opposing parties have been held, but in vain. The mayors of several large towns and cities have met in conference, with a view of mediation, but their efforts, which for a time gave promise of good results, were unsuccessful. Hitherto there has been a mutual distrust of each other, and each party has entered the conferences with the determination of "no surrender." Of course more harm than good has resulted from such a spirit, and both men and masters have left each other with a stronger conviction than ever in the righteousness of their own cause, and in its ultimate triumph. Both parties seem to have improved during the last few days, if we may judge from the tone of their remarks, which leads us to hope that the next united conference, which is appointed to be held in London, will be of a more pacific character. We most heartily hope that it will not disappoint the prayers and expectations of those who are not only anxious for a settlement of the dispute, but are also solicitous that something may be done that will make such disasters impossible in the future. Men who are persuaded of the rectitude of their cause ought not to refuse to submit their case to the judgment of impartial arbitrators.

(Rev.) J. BOYES.

COLONIZATION.

MONTEER, Shannon Co., Mo., Nov, '93.

EDITOR CYNOSURE:—Those who earn their living by the sweat of their face, the majority of whom are tillers of the soil, have undoubtedly been made to feel that to live in close proximity to those who are not identified with any lodges would be more pleasant than otherwise. They would thus have less dealings with those by whom they would otherwise be boycotted while striving to gain a livelihood for themselves and their families. We have here, in this vicinity, splendid opportunities for those to settle in colonies, who are tired of lodge influences, securing cheap farms. Improved farms can be bought at from $10 to $15 per acre, and wild timber lands at from $3 to $6, but are now advancing on account of the immigration. Being interested in having this section settled by those who are free from obligations imposed on them by lodge oaths, I am willing to give descriptions of the country to all such who will enclose a few stamps for postage and stationery. Yours for freedom,

E. UMBRIDGE.

CYNOSURE OFFER!

Any of the Books below with Cynosure subscription at one-fourth off from list price, sent postpaid.

The New Volume of Pen and Pencil Series.

WELSH PICTURES Drawn with Pen and Pencil.

By D. Lewis Jones, Morris Jones, Edward Ffoulkes, H. Elvet Lewis, D. Tyssil Evans, D. Davies and O. M. Edwards. Edited by Richard Lovett, M. A. With many Illustrations. Imperial 8vo, cloth, gilt edges, boxed..... 3.20

"'Welsh pictures' is the work of ten Welshmen, among whom illustrating the beauties of Wales has been parcelled out according to the special familiarity of each. The result is a pleasing volume."—London Times.

THE EARTHLY FOOTPRINTS OF OUR RISEN LORD, Illumined.

A continuous narrative of the Four Gospels according to The Revised Version, with introduction by Rev. John Hall, D. D. Illustrated by 113 full-page half tone re-productions. Small 4to, cloth.....net 1.50
Gilt edge, with silk book mark, boxed.....net 2.00
Full morocco, flexible, gilt edges, round corners, boxed.....net 3.75

Pictures reflecting the best in sacred art from Raphael to the present day are scattered profusely through the book.

"To many the life of the Christ will be a new book in this form. Though beyond the introduction it contains no word except what is found in the four Gospels, yet when read continuously, without the breaks necessarily made by the different stories of the four evangelists, the narrative takes on new force and lifelikeness. The very fact that this is not our usual method of reading the Word will give it a new reality."—Golden Rule.

A GIFT OF LOVE, and Loving Greetings for 365 Days.

By Rose Porter. Long 18mo. Paper-cloth..... 1.00
White cloth, silver top, in box..... 1.25
Decorated silk, silver top, in box..... 1.75

"'A Gift of Love' is the work of a loving heart. It contains a text of Scripture for every day of the year with the addition of an appropriate thought in poetry of prose all bearing on the theme of love. The work must have called for a great amount of patient toil. But it has not been spent in vain, for the volume will prove a blessing to many a soul. To use it day by day for a year thoughtfully and prayerfully, must result in a rich growth in love on the part of the user. The author is well known and esteemed for her previous works' sake."—The N. Y. Observer.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE SERIES.

By Rev. F. B. Meyer, containing CHRISTIAN LIVING, THE PRESENT TENSES OF THE BLESSED LIFE, AND THE SHEPHERD PSALM. 3 vols. in box. 18mo, cloth..... 1.50
White vellum cloth, silver top, in box..... 1.75

D. L. Moody says: "Few books of recent years are better adapted to instruct and help Christians than those of this author. He is a man mighty in the scriptures, saturated with Bible facts and truths."

PRAYERS FROM THE POETS.

By Martha Harger. 16mo, two colored cloth, gilt top..... 1.00
Leatherette, boxed..... 1.50

"This volume is admirable. The Prayer are better suited to some of our moods than formal Litanies and are selected from excellent sources. The book will be a dear treasure to many hearts."—The Churchman.

KIN-DA-SHON'S WIFE.

An Alaskan Story. By Mrs. Eugene S. Willard, Home Missionary of the Presbyterian Board of America to Alaska. With illustrations. 8vo, cloth..... 1.50

"Being a close observer and in deep sympathy with the native population in their struggles towards a Christian Civilization, Mrs. Willard has gained a more intelligent knowledge of their character, of their needs and hindrances, than perhaps any other person."—Dr. Sheldon Jackson.

HEROES OF THE GOODWIN SANDS.

By Rev. Thomas Stanley Treanor. With many illustrations. 8vo, Cloth..... 1.50

"It is a book of most engrossing interest, and as stimulating as it is readable."—The Record.
"The deeds of daring are thrilling in the extreme. Suitable for the public library or for the home."—Times.

THE GREAT LONDON DAILIES.

By H. W. Massingham. Profusely illustrated. 12mo, cloth..... 1.00

Very welcome to all who like to look behind the scenes and see how the great London dailies are worked.

New Editions.

The Prayer Meeting and Its Improvement.

By Rev. LEWIS O. THOMPSON. Eighth edition, cloth, $1.25.

"Most heartily do we wish this work a wide circulation, both among pastors and people, and we hope it may do much toward the lifting of the prayer-meeting into that higher place which it ought to hold among the grand instrumentalities in the kingdom of the Master'—Congregationalist.

"We do not remember to have met with a work so suggestive, and we heartily commend it to both pastors and private members."—Baptist Weekly.

The Crisis of Missions. By Rev. ARTHUR T. PIERSON, D. D. Cloth, $1.25; paper, 35c.

"We do not hesitate to say that this book is the most purposeful, earnest, and intelligent review of the mission work and field which has ever been given to the church."—Christian Statesman.

The Christian's Secret of a Happy Life.

By HANNAH WHITALL SMITH. One hundredth thousand. Issued in fourteen styles, from 50c. to $2.50. Send for circular.

"To commend this work would seem almost superfluous; and yet to young Christians who may not know it, we can not refrain from saying, Buy this book, and keep it with your Bible for constant study, until you have thoroughly mastered, in your own experience, the 'secret' of which it tells. It will transform the dark days of your life, as it has transformed those of thousands before you, into days of heavenly light."—New York Evangelist.

The Topical Text Book. Fourth edition.

16 mo., cloth, 60c.

This little volume is a worker's most useful tool. It collates all Scripture passages under their topical headings, and for this reason proves far more helpful in studying a subject than the best concordance.

"I find one of the very best ways to study the Scripture is to study topically."—D. L. Moody.

Stalker's Life of Christ. Twelfth edition.

Stalker's Life of St. Paul. Fourth edition.

12 mo., cloth, each, 60c.

These works by Professor James Stalker, M. A., are unique in their compact putting of these lives into such condensed form without injurious brevity. They are being taken up as text books by Biblical classes in all parts of the country, thus proving their practical value.

Grace and Truth under Twelve Different Aspects. By W. P. MACKAY, M. A. Paper, 35c.; cloth, 75c. Two hundred and fiftieth thousand.

This remarkable sale can only be attributed to the very practical character of this work as a guide to the inquirer and a work of helpful instruction for the immature Christian. It is of this volume Mr. D. L. Moody said: "I know of no work in print better adapted to place in the hands of the inquirer."

Notes and Suggestions for Bible Readings.

By S. R. BRIGGS. Sixtieth thousand. 8 vo, cloth. $1.00; flexible, 75c.

Edition after edition of this work has been called for until it would seem the demand must be supplied. The sales however, increase rather than otherwise.

Feathers for Arrows. By Rev. C. H. SPURGEON. 16 mo., cloth, $1.00.

Few preachers have made such effective use of pointed illustrations as the well known pastor of the great Metropolitan Tabernacle. Here he has given us a large cluster of his best with liberty to enjoy and employ.

Revell's Record for Church Treasurers.

Size No. 1, $1.50; Size No. 2, $2.00.

Popular because practical—valuable because time saving—the only record for weekly envelope system that reduces the treasurer's work to the minimum.

For sale by the

National Christian Association;

221 West Madison Street, Chicago, Ill.

Lodge Notes.

(From secret society papers.)

MASONIC.

The Grand Lodge of Utah will have nothing to do with Mormons, and shuts the door of Masonry against them.

The first Masonic book published in the United States is said to have been a volume of Masonic constitutions published by Bro. Benjamin Franklin in 1734.

New York has 726 lodges with a membership of 83,287. These lodges seem to be all in a healthy condition, as the Grand Secretary reported all as having made their returns.

Vice-President Stephenson is a member of the Commandery in Bloomington, Ill., and was recently one of the speakers at a banquet given, after conferring the degrees of the order on five postulants.

In presenting a Sir Knight officially to a Commandery he should be introduced as Sir (giving his name) and following with his title prefixed, with Right Eminent, Past Grand Commander, Very Eminent or Eminent, as the case may be.

The Great Commandery of New York, for the first time in its history, bears now upon its roster the names of 10,018 active members, all valiant and magnanimous Knights of the Temple. To this number over 100 have been added since the close of the official year to date.

ODD-FELLOWS.

The man that thinks he is an honor to the order has a better opinion of himself than the 699,999 other members composing the 700,000 membership.

All men are entitled to equal rights in the lodge room. An open and free expression of opinion is a privilege that should be accorded every member.

The maximum membership of lodges in cities need not exceed 300 under ordinary circumstances, while most country lodges with due attention to finances need not exceed 100 to be self-supporting.

One hundred and fifty thousand Odd-fellows have died since 1830, and eight hundred thousand survive—the outcome of that little coterie of five who met in Baltimore three-quarters of a century ago.

Some members are too careless in using the grip; many have a habit of constantly giving it in public and with no regard whether its use is improper. Don't be too anxious to convince your friend of your membership.

The unwritten, or secret work of the order, the signs, grips, colors, tokens, mementoes and pass-words, are designed to speak one universal language to the initiated of every nationality the world over; they are necessary to the well-being of the order and to guard it against impostors and impositions.

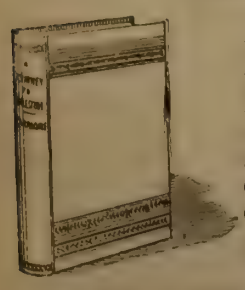
Hood's and Only Hood's.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is carefully prepared from Sarsaparilla, Dandelion, Mandrake, Dock, Pipsissewa, Juniper berries and other well known remedies, by a peculiar combination, proportion and process, giving to Hood's Sarsaparilla curative powers not possessed by other medicines. It effects remarkable cures when other preparations fail. This medicine wins its way into the confidence and friendship of the people, by the good it is constantly doing. Hood's Sarsaparilla demonstrates its peculiar merit whenever fairly tried.

A Journey to Palestine.

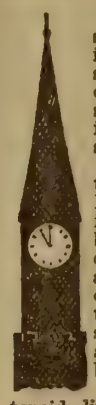
BY REV. B. CARRADINE, D. D.

—oo—



Revised and Illustrated Edition. 500 pages. Eighteen beautiful half-tone Engravings, including portrait of Author. Cloth postpaid, $1.50. Address

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill



IT'S HIGH TIME

something was done, if your blood is impure. You can't mistake the symptoms. Blotches and pimples, or a feeling of languor and depression, are some of them. If you "let it go," you're an easy prey to all sorts of serious ailments.

Now, the best blood-purifier in the world is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Take that, and it will certainly rid you of every blood-taint and disorder. It starts every organ into healthful action, assists all the bodily functions, and cleanses, builds up, and invigorates the whole system. G. M. D. far surpasses nasty Cod Liver Oil and all its filthy compounds as a flesh-builder and strength-restorer.

For every disease caused by a torpid liver or impure blood, Dyspepsia, "Liver Complaint," the most stubborn Skin, Scalp, or Scrofulous affections—even Consumption, or Lung-scrofula, in its earlier stages — it's the only remedy so sure and effective that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Can anything else be "just as good" for you to buy?

WE SEND FREE

with this beautiful Organ an Instruction Book and a handsome, upholstered Stool! The organ has 11 stops, 5 octaves, and is made of Solid Walnut. Warranted by us for 15 years. We only charge $45 for this beautiful instrument. Send to-day for FREE illustrated catalogue. OXFORD MFG. CO Chicago

WHEATON COLLEGE,

WHEATON, ILL.

A School for Men and Women.

WINTER TERM OPENS TUESDAY JANUARY 2ND.

For Catalogue, address

CHAS. A BLANCHARD, Pres.

IF YOU

WANT WORK

that is pleasant and profitable, send us your address immediately. We teach men and women how to earn from $5 per day to $3,000 per year without having had previous experience, and furnish the employment at which they can make that amount. Capital unnecessary. A trial will cost you nothing. Write to-day and address,

E. C. ALLEN & CO.,
Box 1001. Augusta, Me.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained, and all Patent business conducted for Moderate Fees.

Our Office is Opposite U. S. Patent Office, and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A Pamphlet, "How to Obtain Patents," with names of actual clients in your State, county, or town, sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.
Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

The Christian Witness

Is an eight-page undenominational monthly; the official organ of the New Hampshire Christian Association, opposed to secret societies. It advocates Bible Holiness, Church Purity, Sound Morality and Temperance.

Terms: 50 cents a year, or three years for $1.00.

Send stamp for sample copy.

Address S. C. KIMBALL,
Box 277. Newmarket, N. H.

THE

Folly, Expense & Danger

OF

SECRET SOCIETIES.

BY

CHARLES A. BLANCHARD.
(President Wheaton College.)

5 Cts per Copy; $3 per Hundred

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

ANTI-SECRECY TRACTS.

The following numbers are in stock, and can be had at the wholesale price of 25 cents per pound:

1. National Christian Association.
1½. Testimony of Statesmen.
4. Freemasonry in the Family.
7. To the Boys who Hope to be Men.
8. Modern Heathenism.
9. Ministers at Rival Altars.
10. A Pastor's Confession.
15. Secrecy and Sin.
16. Selling Dead Horses.
17. History of Masonry.
19. Freemasonry a Christ-excluding Religion.
22. Extracts from Masonic Oaths and Penalties as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.
28. Dr. Nathaniel Colver on Masonry.
30. Masonic Oaths Null and Void.
37. Why a Christian should not be a Freemason (German).
38. Masonic Oaths and Penalties.
39. Should Freemasons be Admitted to Christian Fellowship?
41. Freemasonry a Religion.
45. Ought a Seceding Mason to Keep his Lodge Oath?

Families, Churches, Senates, Juries and Camps.

The above are the only tracts in stock in large quantities. There are a few of several other numbers. Remember that these are being retailed at wholesale prices—25 cents per pound. Keep a package of Anti-masonic tracts for use in letters.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

AGENTS AND LECTURERS.

NEW ENGLAND DEPARTMENT.—Rev. J. P. Stoddard, Agent, 218 Columbus Ave., Hotel Howland, Boston.

EASTERN DEPARTMENT.—W. B. Stoddard, Agent, No. 215, 4½ St., Washington, D. C.

NORTHERN DEPARTMENT.—Rev. W. Fenton, 74 South Robert St., St. Paul, Minn.

PACIFIC DEPARTMENT.—Rev. P. B. Williams, Philomath, Oregon.

COLLEGE AGENT, Rev. S. F. Porter Cynosure office.

OTHER LECTURERS.

C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
Rev. H. H. Hinman, Oberlin, O.
Nathan Callender Montdale Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
H. A. Day, Brighton, Mich.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
A. Mayn, Bloomington, Ind.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
W. M. Love, Osceola, Mo.
J. K. Glassford, Phoenix, Arizona.
Wm. Fenton, St. Paul, Minn.
J. S. Perry, Thompson, Conn.
Rev. E. Mathews, Ft Wayne, Ind.
E. Barnetson, Haskinville, N. Y.
D. A. Richards, Brighton, Mich.
A. W. Parry, Chicago, Ill.

Disloyal SECRET OATHS

ADDRESS OF

JOSEPH COOK,

OF BOSTON,

AT THE

Conference of Christians

CHICAGO, 1890.

No better document of its size for general distribution has been printed. Joseph Cook's address is a national treatment of a national subject, and very valuable for reference.

Single Copies 5 cents, or 12 copies for 50 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the Initiate. By Rev. L. A. Post. 5 cents each.

THE N. C. A. BUILDING
(The gift of Philo Carpenter)
—AND OFFICE OF—
THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. MADISON STREET, CHICAGO.

The National Christian Association

PRESIDENT—Rev. A. J. Gordon, D.D., Boston, Mass.

VICE PRESIDENT—Charles A. Blanchard, President Wheaton College Ill.

GEN'L SEC'Y and TREASURER—W. I. Phillips, 221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

REC. SECRETARY—Amos Dresser, Jr. Wheaton, Ill., Box 367.

DIRECTORS—T. B. Arnold, C. A. Blanchard, E. A. Cook, J. M. Hitchcock, A. G. Johnson, J. P. Richards, E Whipple, E. R. Worrell, Edgar B. Wylie W. M. Howie, H. F. Kletzing.

The object of this Association is:

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the churches of Christ from being depraved, to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform.

STATE AUXILIARY ASSOCIATIONS

NEW ENGLAND.—Pres., Rev. J. M Foster, Boston, Mass.; Sec'y, Miss E. E Flagg, Wellesley, Mass.; Treas., L. E. Lincoln, Boston,

CONNECTICUT.—Pres., J. A. Conant, Willimantic; Sec., David J. Ellsworth, Windsor; Treas., C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.—Pres., Rev. R. W. Chesnut Marissa; Sec., Rev. J. R. Wylie, Coulterville; Treas., Rev. W. I. Phillips, Cynosure office, Chicago.

IOWA.—Pres., John Dorcas, Tipton; Sec. Rev. T. P. Robb, Linton; Treas., Rev. L. Mendenhall, Fairfield.

KANSAS.—Pres., Rev. C. H. Strong, Lawrence; Vice-Pres., Rev. J. L. Countermine Hiawatha; Sec., Rev. D. H. Coulter, Winchester; Treas., Joseph A. Torrence, Denison.

NEBRASKA.—Pres., Rev. W. I. Brooks Pawnee City; Vice Pres., Rev. C. G. Widen Mead; Sec., Howard P. Young, Wahoo Treas., Rev. T. H. Dabney, Hooper.

MAINE.—Pres., ——— ———, ——— Sec., I. D. Haines, Dexter; Treas., H. W Goddard, West Sidney.

MASSACHUSETTS.—Pres., S. A. Pratt; Worcester.

MICHIGAN.—Pres., D. A. Richards, Brighton; Sec., H. A. Day, Brighton; Treas Geo. Swanson, Jr., Bedford.

MINNESOTA.—Pres., S. B. Sjoblom, Fergus Falls; Cor. Sec., Wm. Fenton, St. Pau Rec. Sec., Mrs. M. F. Morrill, St. Charles Treas. Wm. H. Morrill St. Charles.

MISSOURI.—Pres., J. F. Beauchamp, Dever; Sec., M N Butler, Darlington; Treas. Rev. C. G. Cox, Grant City.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—Pres., Robt. A. Frohock, Alton; Sec., S. C. Kimball, New Market; Treas., James F. French, Canterbury.

NEW YORK.—Pres., Rev. S. R. Wallace Syracuse; Sec., Rev. W. H. Clark, Binghamton; Treas., Lucius Woodruff, Binghamton.

OHIO.—Pres., J. W. Martin, Mt. Perry; Rec. Sec., A. T. Vestal, Senecaville; Cor Sec. and Treas., E. Thomson, Senecaville

OREGON.—Pres., Rev. Wm. Dillon, D D., Salem; Sec., Rev. P B. Williams, Philomath; Treas., Samuel Terry, Canby.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Pres., Samuel S. Collins, Allegheny; Sec., J. S. T. Milligan Beaver; Treas., R. C. Wylie, Wilkinsburg.

WISCONSIN.—Pres., J. B. Galloway, Poynette; Sec., Isaiah Faris, Vernon; Treas. J. W. Wood, Baraboo.

The Christian Cynosure.

HENRY M. HUGUNIN - - - Editor.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1893.

THE LESSONS OF THE LATE ELECTIONS.

The Republican landslide of November 7 was the fitting counterpoise of the Democratic triumph of a year ago. It shows that the people are not so much wedded to parties that they cannot change when any real or fancied interests are menaced by the party in power.

Doubtless the popular mind is often impatient and unreasonable in its demands. Thus, the labor riots of 1892, for which Mr. Harrison was in no way responsible, were among the prominent causes of his defeat.

The financial depression of this year has been the main reason for the reversal of the verdict. It would be hard to tell how Mr. Cleveland or the Democratic party is responsible for it, since nearly all national legislation remains as it was left by the Republican administration.

There are doubtless other causes that have tended to this result. The want of unity and harmony among the Democrats in dealing with the silver problem, the unseemly bickerings and strife in the United States Senate, and the mistakes made in a very needful reform of the pension administration—mistakes which have arrayed against the administration not only those who were getting pensions by fraud, but, also, almost the entire G. A. R., whose half a million of votes are no small factor in determining elections.

The A. P. A. is also beginning to demonstrate its political power. It naturally antagonizes those who are in the administration, whether State or national. It is but a repetition of the Know-Nothing movement of a generation ago, and will doubtless run a similar course. Happy will it be if it does not, as then, result in riots, arson and murder. One thing is certain, the people will not long tolerate a secret political party.

In Iowa there was, besides other causes, the great whisky interest. Heretofore this interest had gravitated towards the Democrats, but now has swung back to the Republicans, and, by the help of the conservative temperance vote, has elected Mr. Jackson.

The probable result seems to be the restoration of the license system, with all that is implied. There is reason to think that the great mass of the people still believe in the principle of prohibition, and will some time rise up and vindicate it.

Looking at the result as a whole, there is a mingled feeling of sadness and satisfaction. Looking at the vote of Iowa, one can hardly regard it except as an afflictive dispensation of Providence, which is among "the all-things that work together for good" to the people of the Lord.

There is some satisfaction in thinking that in the great State of New York, injustice and political trickery have been rebuked.

What the effect will be on next year's Congressional elections, and on the vote of 1896, remains to be seen. Doubtless the Democrats will be put on their good behavior, and national legislation will be of a more conservative character.

EXPERIENCES WITH MASONS.

The following are extracts from private letters received at this office:

"I am no friend to Freemasonry, and, if you desire it, I can give you a short and true history of some of the evil it has done. At present I would like to have you publish the following; but withhold my name, for my life would not be safe were it known that I gave you the information:

"Lebbeus Armstrong (founder of the first temperance society in the United States) was a Presbyterian minister in the town of Edinburgh, Saratoga county, New York, where I was born. He renounced Masonry in the pulpit, and he and my father were friends; and he made known to my father the signs and grips of the fraternity. My mother's brother, a Mason, found this out (through my mother, I suppose), and informed the lodge. They then solicited my father to join the fraternity, but he declined, promising, however, to never expose the secrets which Mr. Armstrong had confided to him. This was unsatisfactory to them; and because he would not become a Mason, they induced my mother to leave him. This was when I was six years old. My mother took me with her into Connecticut and, in the night, left me among entire strangers. She then returned to the State of New York.

"The man with whom I had been left, whipped, pounded and abused me terribly, and I suffered cruelties that a dumb beast ought not to experience.

"After I had been with him about a year, my mother returned, carried me back to New York, and again placed me among strangers. There my father found me, and from then until his death we remained together, notwithstanding the efforts of Masons to separate us.

"My mother was very angry because I would stay with my father. Subsequently she married a wealthy man, who died leaving her in good circumstances. I know that it is through Masonic influence that she has thus misused me."

ANOTHER CASE.

"Several years ago the Masons stole a child from its parents and took her to Eastern Iowa, placing her among the Kinesaw Indians, hoping that she would never learn her name and parentage. When she was twelve years old they compelled her to marry a man forty years old, and an outlaw. They intended that he should be the destroyer of his child-wife, but through the protecting influences of some good women her life was spared. Although he made several attempts to murder her, she was enabled to obtain a divorce from him. Even then he pursued and shot at her through a window.

"After leaving her husband she studied for eighteen months and was taught by an old English lady. After that she attended a seminary at Elgin, Ill.; then learned the trade of a milliner and mantua-maker, as a means of supporting her three little children.

"All her life the Masons had followed her vindictively. On his death-bed her foster-father confessed to all they had done to destroy her life and to rob her of her inheritance. From him, also, she for the first time learned her true maiden name.

"For the past fourteen years the Masons have tried in all possible ways to destroy her, covering up their designs by their silent and brutal methods. At last they attempted to place her in an insane asylum at C———, and she has sturdily resisted them, from the commissioners of insanity of ——— county to the State Supreme Court. They have tried to kidnap her; they have assaulted her with intent to kill; they attempted to hire people to poison her, and these people, not receiving pay for their efforts, gave her their affidavits of this conspiracy. In fact, she has proved herself a heroine, and has written her experiences for publication in a book."

A MASON'S WIFE.

"I had quite an experience with an old Mason about a month ago. I asked him to spare me a little money to help a poor, sick woman, who then had a dead child in her house, with no means to bury it. He replied that he believed in everybody helping themselves, and that I was a fool to help others or to ask help for them. I, knowing that he was a prominent man in Masonic circles—a Knight Templar—asked him if he learned that kind of golden rule in the Masonic lodge-room. He answered that if I could only be down in the lodge-room, some night, I would learn sense there. I told him that I knew all that they do there. To this he replied that maybe some one had been giving me 'a lot of that trash' from Chicago. He also added that some one had given him a lot of it, 'but it is all lies.' I said, 'Oh, no; when these men became Christians, they told all about the lodge business;' but he sneered and replied that they ought to have been sent where Morgan was; that there is no God; that nature is God; and that when he died they might bury him in a dung-hill for all that he cared.

"Another man, whose home is near mine,—a merchant—told his daughter that there was a man came into his store and told him of a strange thing at the World's Fair—a little monument, saying something about a man who was murdered by Masons, with all sorts of lodge things advertised; and a tall man with a long beard had a crowd about him, whom he was telling all about secret societies; and he said that he was more interested in that than in almost anything he met, while the man was telling all about the orders. 'Do you believe he knows?' 'Yes, replied my husband; 'for I have a friend who has the books, and I have seen them.' He asked my husband if he knew the address where the books could be bought, and he told him to send to the National Christian Association, Chicago. The merchant said that he was going to send for them. I suppose that he will have them sent to his office in the city, for if they were sent to his house, the women might be curious."

These are a few of the specimens that come to us by mail. The originals are preserved in this office.

A CHANGE.

The degree of Rebekah, in Odd-fellowship, has long been considered (by the brethren) "the crowning excellence of the order." It originated, at the suggestion of Hon. Schuyler Colfax, who also wrote its ritual, in the Grand Lodge of the United States, in September, 1851, and it went into operation on the first day of January, 1852.

Several special reasons were advanced for this addition to the work of the order. Prominent among these were the following: Its social character promised to increase the resources of subordinate lodges, and to allay any opposition to the order in Odd-fellows' families, owing to the exclusion of women from its meetings. It must be admitted that with these characteristics it became popular, and has flourished exceedingly as a female side-degree.

By recent decisions of the Grand Lodge, however, the Rebekah degree now becomes a separate order, holding the same relation to Odd-fellowship that the Order of the Eastern Star does to Freemasonry. The necessary changes in the constitution and ritual have been made, and the N. C. A. will soon be able to furnish the new and complete work to its patrons. Due notice of its publication will be given in the Cynosure.

IOWA ANTI-SECRECY REFORMERS (Continued from 5th page).

4. In talking over our differences, try to keep sweet tempered.

5. Let us lay the secret society question beside the Word of God and see wherein they differ. The spirit of the Word is openness; the spirit of the lodge is concealment. Secret societies violate the example of Christ. He said nothing in secret. They violate the command of Christ. He said: "Let your light shine."

The lodge system is antagonistic to the church of Christ. It teaches salvation without Christ. It strikes at the root of the family tree.

President Blanchard held his audience for more than an hour and a half, his address being, in spirit and in power, one of the best the writer has ever heard from him or any other on the subject.

In closing this report, we must say that our convention was a success. The attendance from abroad was not all that could be desired, but the local interest was good. The lodge-men were so stirred by the announcement of the convention that they had secured Rev. Mr. Geiger, of Marion, Iowa, to follow, on Friday evening of the week, with a defence of secrecy.

C. D. TRUMBULL, Reporter.

REFORM NEWS.

NEW ENGLAND SECRETARY IN CANADA.

HAMILTON, Ontario, Nov. 13, 1893.

Leaving Chicago on the 9th inst., we have found the promised guidance and protection of our heavenly Father unfailing. Brother and Sister Loveless, committing their daughter Gertrude to Mrs. Stoddard's care, were the last of the many dear friends to say farewell.

Our journey to Detroit was marked by no event unusual in rapid railroad transit. Leaving there at 9:30 P. M., good Sister Carnes assigned us to comfortable quarters, where, oblivious to surroundings, we experienced the blessing of those to whom "He giveth sleep." Sisters Foote and Milton added new zest to our social entertainment at an early hour, and by the wise forethought and kindly ministrations of this trio of "elect ladies," nothing was omitted that could enhance the fellowship and profit of social, intellectual and spiritual enjoyment. After the morning meal and family worship, my time was devoted to business, while the ladies occupied the day in seeing and taking notes of the city. Returning at evening, each brought a good report, and a time of refreshing in social worship was the cheering prelude to dreamless and refreshing slumber.

Reaching Toronto, Canada, at 8:10 P. M., we were soon quartered at the "St. James," where we had excellent service in every particular, at very reasonable rates, although somewhat annoyed by the hilarious demonstrations of the "Ontario Poultry Growers' Association," holding their annual festival in the room directly under our apartment.

The next morning found us knocking at the door of Bro. Wm. Jones, where we met a hearty response, and were right royally entertained by his son, Ruber James, his estimable wife and himself. Here we learned that I had been advertised to speak in the Y. M. C. A. Hall on the previous evening—an arrangement of which I had no positive knowledge, and which, had I known, I could only have reached at a late hour, owing to a collision between our train and a horse and carriage, in which the latter was demolished and the former delayed, though no one was seriously injured.

We were re-inforced at this point by the arrival of Bro. Robert Jones, whose labors have been abundant, and his amiable and accomplished sister Mary, to whose kind and unselfish attention we are indebted for timely encouragement and needed rest.

A second lecture had been announced for Friday evening, at which Bro. Robert Jones presided. On taking the chair, he explained the object of the meeting and the nature and importance of the work in which we are engaged. The attendance was limited, doubtless owing, in part, to the disappointment of the previous evening; but those present gave diligent heed to the things spoken. No one responded when an opportunity was given to reply, and the meeting closed with the benediction. Had it been practicable to continue the effort, this single meeting would undoubtedly have proved a successful introduction, but more is required than a simple newspaper announcement to secure an audience in communities where there is no organized effort, or church that publicly testifies against the lodge iniquity. Many, quietly averse to the lodge, stand aloof from the movement until they are furnished with facts germane to the discussion, and are thus actively enlisted in the conflict. Toronto is, in my judgment, a hopeful field, where a month's judicious, energetic work would result in a permanent anchorage of the anti-lodge reform.

At Toronto our paths diverged, Mrs. Stoddard and Miss Loveless taking a train direct to Boston, via Montreal, and I to Utica, via Niagara Falls—both feeling a sense of relief from the routine of daily duties of the World's Fair, and in the prospect of enjoying exemption from restaurant fare, and a return to the regularity of home-life among old friends at the "Hub."

JAMES P. STODDARD.

FROM REV. WM. FENTON.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 17, 1893.

DEAR CYNOSURE:—We had a very interesting and profitable convention at Hopkinton, Iowa; it seemed quite opportune and providential, on account of the great havoc which the lodges are making with the souls of men in that place, and the great affront they offer to the Almighty by reason of their impious and unblushing idolatry. Surely, as the prophets would say:—"And they will deceive every one his neighbor, and will not speak the truth. They have taught their tongue to speak lies;....through deceit they refuse to know me, saith the Lord. Therefore, thus saith the Lord of hosts, I will melt them, and try them: for how else should I do, because of the daughter of my people? Their tongue is a deadly arrow; it speaketh deceit. One speaketh peaceably to his neighbor with his mouth, but in his heart he layeth wait for him. Shall I not visit them for these things? saith the Lord. Shall not my soul be avenged on such a nation as this?" Jer. 9: 5–9.

The Freemasons of Hopkinton anticipated the State anti-secret convention by advertising a champion of their base idolatry, in the person of one who is both a Freemason and a Congregational pastor, to speak in the town hall on the Friday evening following the convention. But we found many friends of truth in that village, who love the Lord, and therefore hate all secret societies, and will fight against the lodge with their Lord Jesus Christ. They received the convention with great cordiality. Yours truly,

W. FENTON.

FROM THE PACIFIC COAST AGENT.

EDITOR CYNOSURE:—On the 30th of October I left my home in Philomath, Oregon, for a thirty-days' lecture tour in Idaho, Washington and Eastern Oregon.

From Portland I took the Union Pacific to Moscow, Idaho. After leaving Pendleton, Ore., I saw more wheat than in all my former life.

Wheat is the stock in trade. Wheat seems to be about all the people want; and they have wheat enough and to spare this year.

The fall rains sat in early and caught the farmers in various conditions. Only a few had their grain secured. Most of it was in the field, either in sacks, or piled up loose, or stacked in sheaf, or headed and stacked, or still standing in the straw. Not a small amount was in the latter condition. To-day (Nov. 9), thousands of acres stand in the fields unharvested—wheat that will average thirfive bushels per acre. By this time the reader will get the idea that I am in a wheat country.

The sturdy farmers are badly discouraged. This misfortune comes entirely unexpected, and finds many of them in debt, which they expected to pay with their wheat crop. The crop being spoiled, they are disappointed.

One man told me yesterday, that he threshed 12,000 bushels of wheat, and would not have good wheat enough for their family use. I think, with their fine soil, they will "dig out and pull through." Were it not for the hard times and the difficulty of securing loans, they would easily come out all right.

As usual, the present administration is being blamed for our financial troubles. Woe to the President and his party, were they depending on their election this fall!

I landed in Moscow, Idaho, on the 31st of October, in a snow storm. It appeared to me that I was in another world than that of the mild, gentle Willamette valley.

Having been requested to reach Juliaetta, Idaho, by the 31st, I took a local freight train from Moscow, via the Northern Pacific, and ran to Kendrick, within four miles of Juliaetta, that night. As we pulled into Kendrick the engine cut loose from the train, side-tracked, and the train was in the hands of one brakeman. Being on a down grade he failed to manage it, and against the bumpers we went, smashing up about everybody and everthing in the caboose. I picked myself up and out, to find myself very little the worse of the wear; merely minus a small patch of hide and cloth from each knee.

The next morning, at seven, I arrived at Juliaetta, at the home of Rev. J. A. Kenoyer, who took me to Leland, where I spoke to quite a respectable audience on the 1st and 2d, notwithstanding rain, mud and darkness.

During my address on the lodge, I took occasion to remark that the so-called good men of the lodge would falsify every time about the secrecy of the order. After the meeting closed, the owner of the town site met a Christian Mason in the postoffice and asked him if it is true that Boaz, Jachin, Shibboleth, Tubal Cain and Mah-hah-bone are Masonic passwords? He immediately answered "They are not;" whereupon his questioner replied: "The lecturer said to-night that you would deny it." The Mason had business that seemed to demand his attention elsewhere about that time.

Here I secured four Cynosure subscribers, and distributed nearly 100 of the Weed tract.

Next, I went to Bald Mountain church, where I spoke three times, including the Sunday-morning sermon, for Elder Kenoyer, at his quarterly meeting. The services were excellent. I secured four subscribers to the paper here, and about seventy-five signatures to our anti-secrecy constitution.

Next I spoke at Juliaetta, to a good audience, secured one subscription, and passed on to Guy, Wash., where I had a fair attendance, considering the extreme weather. Here I secured two subscribers, distributed quite a number of tracts, and obtained a few signatures to the constitution. I am at present at Pitts school-house where I spoke last night on intemperance, and am to speak to-night on the lodge.

I will say that it has rained every day since I left home; has snowed three nights, one of which it was three inches deep. The weather has been all our enemies could desire; yet the meetings have been attended much better than I had anticipated.

Owing to the extremely hard times the collections have been small—about sufficient to pay expenses on the grounds. I must, therefore, depend on some help elsewhere to pay my fare from and to my home. Let friends pray for our continued success.

Revs. J. A. Kenoyer, John Black, E. Harrow, J. L. Pearson, J. Kenoyer, and M. C. Pearson, whom I met on this trip, are staunch anti-secrecy men.

P. B. WILLIAMS.

UNIVERSITIES OF KANSAS.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Nov. 9, 1893.

DEAR CYNOSURE:—On Tuesday, the 7th inst., I went to Lecompton and visited the United Brethren Institution, called Lane University. It is under the control of that part of the church called the "Liberals," who allow their members to join secret lodges. But there are quite a number here of the other branch of the U. B. church, called "Radicals," who cannot fellowship secret societies. They seem to be prospering, and have built themselves a fine new meeting house. The pastor of the "Liberals" proposed that they should hold a union revival meeting, which they did, but without any conversions resulting.

They received me very cordially, and I spoke a little while in the woman's missionary meeting, which I was invited to visit. Rev. Mr. Hope, who preached for them last year, was an earnest reformer. There are a number who take the Cynosure. I found it in the reading room of the college; also J. Q. Adams on Masonry. Prof. Wm. V. Ingham, the librarian, told me that they would receive our reform books, and place them in the library for the benefit of all. Bro. S. C. Hart entertained me very kindly, and the next day I went on to Ottawa.

The university here is large, and is a Baptist institution. I found the Cynosure on file in the reading room. Prof. Merrill, the librarian, said that he had been in office there so short a time that he would rather I should go to Dr. Colgrove, the president, about the anti-secrecy literature. The president told me to send the books, and that there would be no trouble about them.

I then went on to Baldwin, to visit the Baker University, which belongs to the Methodist Episcopal church. A great crowd of young people were gathered in the large chapel in the morning. They were of both sexes, and seemed like an army who were determined to conquer the field of science.

Prof. Wood, the librarian, took the titles of the reform works which I proposed to place in the library; he said they had none of them, but they would willingly receive and care for our books, and place them where all could read them.

So I went back to Lawrence to make arrangements to go to Topeka and Emporia. Upon the whole, the people of Kansas are well disposed to give the anti-secrecy side a fair hearing; although many public men have been drawn into the lodge, and have sold their birthright of personal freedom for a mess of pottage.

But I must close, hoping to report again in a few days. Yours, S. F. PORTER.

An open letter has been addressed to all friends of the anti-secrecy reform, by a committee of the Michigan conference of the Wesleyan Methodist church, consisting of Rev. S. A. Manwell, Rev. H. A. Day and E. Pennoch, calling for free-will offerings with which to erect a suitable monument in memory of the late Rev. John Levington, the reformer and evangelist. Contributions for this purpose may be sent to Rev. S. A. Manwell, Pittsford, Hillsdale county, Mich. It is desirable that he should receive them at the earliest possible date, that the work on the monument may be commenced by the first of May next. Mr. Levington was an able advocate of our reform.

The Home.

THY WILL BE DONE.

Thy will is to bring the summer
Into the hearts of men—
The singing of birds in the morning hours,
The noontide glory of myriad flowers,
The healing beams, and the rippling streams,
And the Eden life again.

Thy will is to make men holy
With the gift of Christ to all—
Is to banish sin from the weeping earth,
And fill the cities with sweet, true mirth,
And make love king till the world shall sing
In joyous festival.

Thy will is to make men happy
Through the loss of a load of care—
Is to make the lives of the children glad,
While even the aged are not sad,
And to lift hope's light through the darkest night,
And to bring joy everywhere.

Thy will is the world's redemption—
The world to its Saviour given.
O Father! soon may the morning break!
And the prayer be answered for Jesus' sake,
Thy kingdom come, and thy will be done,
On earth, as it is in heaven.

—Marianne Farningham.

ONE OF MANY.

BY MRS. VICTORA ALEXANDRIA STONE.

I was reading, some time ago, an article in a late paper about the persecution of the Christians under Bloody Mary, and the writer coolly remarked: "Doubtless many of the events related never occurred. We can judge whether they were true or not by the exaggeration which prevails now-a-days."

Now we know that thousands of Christians were put to death at the period mentioned, for many instruments with which they were tortured have been preserved and have been seen and handled by people of the present generation. Has the authenticity of Fox's Book of Martyrs ever been disputed? Or the persecution of the Waldenses? But the incident I am about to relate I read in a child's paper when about fifteen years old. It made an indelible impression on my mind, and for many years I could not think of it without a shudder. Even now, after more than thirty years, the scene of that awful tragedy is as vividly impressed on my mind as though I had been present. The writer of the article above referred to might hint that it was not true, but I fear that it is true. Briefly narrated, the story is as follows: Sometime during the reign of Mary Tudor, a company of martyrs were put to death. Among these were a man and his wife. They were the parents of four children, two sons and two daughters; the sons aged respectively, ten and twelve; the daughters, twins, were eight years old. Not long after their death, another company of martyrs were about to be put to death. Among them were those four children. They were led to the place of execution and one by one was killed by the sword. At last all except those four children lay stretched dead upon the greensward. The executioner paused in his bloody work and glanced towards these children. There they stood, pale and clinging, sobbing, to each other. Perhaps a throb of pity stirred in his heart. At all events he paused in his bloody work and rested his dripping sword upon the earth. At last he spoke to the vast concourse of spectator who had assembled to witness the scene and said: "I will spare those children's lives on one condition, that some one will come forward and die in their stead. They are the children of heretics, but their lives shall be spared if some one will take their place." There was a silence like death. The vast assembly stood pale and speechless. The poor children understood and had hushed their sobs, and stood clinging to each other, pale and trembling with anxiety.

Again the executioner spoke: "Will no one come forward and die for the sake of these children? Blood must be shed, and I give you my word of honor that their lives shall be spared. Bonner will make it right with the Queen." Another brief pause, and a young maiden stepped forward. She was not more than twenty and was plainly dressed, showing that she belonged to the humbler class. The executioner looked upon her with surprise. "Art thou a heretic?" he said. "Nay," she replied; "I am one of the faithful, but I will die if thou wilt spare those children; yet who will care for them? I must know that they will be cared for."

At this a sturdy blacksmith stepped forward and said: "I will take the boys. I lost my two boys last winter." He took their hands and led them aside. "But the girls?" the maiden said. Two widow-ladies, sisters, came forward. "We will take the girls," they said. "I have no children, and my sister lost her baby last winter."

The crowd stood in breathless silence. The maiden removed her bonnet, and her long, black hair fell upon her shoulders. She cast a glance at the bright summer sky above her head, another at the green earth beneath her feet, looked longingly toward her home, which was in plain sight, where her father and mother knelt and knew not what their daughter was about to do. Then, with one swift, tender glance towards the children for whom she was about to lay down her young life, she turned fearlessly to the executioner, knelt upon one knee, clasped her hands upon her heart and bowed her head. The next instant the executioner's sword flashed in the sunlight and the maiden's head rolled upon the ground.

I wonder if telling this story my own way has lessened its interest. I was a child when I read it, but I remember the night I read that story as plainly as though I read it yesterday. For years it haunted me, and the impression it made upon my young heart and mind has never left me.

Do you understand the moral of this story, reader? For it contains a moral. If so, my story has fulfilled its mission, and comments are unnecessary.

Steamburgh, N. Y.

HE BELIEVES IN THE BIBLE.

"In reply to your inquiry, 'What book has helped me most?' writes Congressman Elijah A. Morse to the Boston Globe, I have to say that all other books to me may be 10,000 lanterns, but they are not the sun. The book of books that has helped me most is the blessed Bible. I have read it morning, noon and night from my childhood. I once heard a man say, who had committed the book of Proverbs to memory, that he would defy any man to state any circumstance or condition in life that he couldn't fit a proverb to.

"Daniel Webster said of the book: 'It is the book of all others for lawyers as well as divines, and I pity the man who cannot find in it a rich supply of thought and rules for conduct.'

"John Quincy Adams said: 'The first, and almost the only, book deserving universal attention is the Bible, the book of all others to read at all ages, and in all conditions of human life.'

"Thomas Jefferson said: 'It will make better fathers, better husbands.'

"Queen Victoria said to an African prince who inquired the secret of England's greatness and glory: 'Tell the prince that this book is the secret of England's greatness.'"

ANECDOTES OF EMINENT MEN.

Soon after Napoleon's assumption of the imperial purple he chanced to meet his mother in the gardens of St. Cloud. He was surrounded by courtiers, and half-playfully held out his hand for her to kiss. "Not so, my son," she gravely replied, at the same time presenting her hand in return; "it is your duty to kiss the hand of her who gave you life."

As Luther drew near the door which was about to admit him into the presence of his judges (the Diet of Worms), he met a valiant knight, the celebrated George of Treundsburg. The old general, seeing Luther pass, tapped him on the shoulder, and shaking his head, blanched in many battles, said kindly: "Poor monk, poor monk! thou art now going to make a nobler stand than I or any other captain has ever made in the bloodiest of our battles. But if thy cause is just, and thou art sure of it, go forward in God's name, and fear nothing. God will not forsake thee." A noble tribute of respect paid by the courage of the sword to the courage of the mind.—D' Aubigne.

When Daniel Webster first entered Exeter Academy, he was very despondent, because the other boys ridiculed his appearance and manners; but, at the end of the first quarter, Mr. Emery, the principal, transferred young Daniel from the foot to the head of the class. At the end of the second quarter, when the class was mustered, Mr. Emery said, "Daniel Webster, gather up your books and take down your cap." The boy obeyed; and, thinking that he was about to be expelled from school, he was sorely troubled. The teacher soon dispelled the illusion, for he continued, "Now, sir, you will please report yourself to the teacher of the first class. And you, young gentlemen, will take an affectionate leave of your classmate, for you will never see him again." They never did see him in that classroom again; but the day came when the eyes of the nation beheld him.

OLD AND NEW JOHN.

Old John, the fish seller of L———, was a remarkable character, remarkably bad; in fact, so bad that neither God nor man could repair him; he must be made new or be useless; worse than that, lost forever.

He was known as Drunken John, the fish seller. One night he stumbled into a hall where the Gospel was being preached. In bewilderment there he sat, with his big Kilmarnock bonnet on his head. Before long he was surprised to see the speaker come along to where he was sitting, and putting his hand on his shoulder, speak to him kindly. John shrank back and pushed the hand off; not because he was displeased, but he thought it was a little too much for a clean hand to touch his shoulder, which was covered with little more than black rags. But the man of God, with love like that of his Master, looking John full in the face, seeing his misery, wretchedness, and sin, his whole soul was moved with compassion for him. Putting his hand on his shoulder again, he said, "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life."

The truth went home to John's dark heart. "God," he thought, "God—God so loved—the world; then God must have loved poor drunken John, for drunken and guilty as I am, still I am part of the world; there is no mistake about that."

His eyes were opened; he saw the wide arms of God's love embracing him. His heart was melted; large, hot tears washed white gutters down his blackened face.

He saw it all—how that God had loved him; and when broken law demanded his life and for him to be punished, God's Son was punished and died in his stead. Poor old John thus received that Son whom God had given. He was saved. "For as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name."

John went away a new man. For God says, "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature." Full of joy and peace he went home, at least to the miserable cellar he called home. Such a home! We need not describe it.

On entering the wretched place, his wife and only son were in. Addressing her, "Sal, lass," he said, "I have been converted."

They knew as little about conversion as he had known until that night, and so only muttered, "Drunk as usual!" After a little time his wife remarked that it was bedtime. "Oh! but lass," said John, "I have been converted, and before we go to bed we must pray." "Well," thought Sal and her son, "this is a new thing," but they agreed to kneel if he would do the praying.

Down on their knees they went; but now John was stumped. He had never tried to pray before. He knew nothing of prayer, but his heart was full with a new joy which struggled for expression. He remembered how he used to express his worldly joy, if he had any; so taking off his Kilmarnock bonnet he gave it a swing and shouted: "Hurrah for Jesus." This he repeated three times. That was all of John's first prayer. It came from his overflowing heart. Jesus was the beginning, the middle and the end of it, and through Him it went right to the throne of God with acceptance indeed.

The news spread abroad that John was converted, and the women gathered around him in the street: some to buy fish, but more to see what John was like now that he was converted. Sure enough, there was a great change in him. He was not drunk, not swearing, as before. There was old John, with his face shining with joy, selling his fish and telling all, "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son." He could not stop its coming from heart and tongue. Many thought they would watch him and see how long it would last. But it soon became too evident for any to doubt John was a new man.

"Father," said the son one day, "if you are to keep converted it would be well if we could get a better house." John said but little, but shortly after, seeing a nice house to let in a respectable street, he went to the landlord and said: "You have a house to let, sir." "Yes, I have. Who wants it?" "I want it."

"Do you think I would let one of my respectable houses to you?"

"You do not know who I am, sir."

"Oh! yes, I know you too well; you are old Drunken John, the fish seller." "Ah! sir, I thought you were mistaken. Old John is dead; I am new John." Putting his hand in his pocket, he pulled out some sovereigns and said, "If you are afraid, sir, about your rent, I will pay in advance." This was too much for the landlord. John's words and actions went together. He got the house and lived in it for long, telling to all around what great things the Lord had done for his soul.

John would say, "He loved me and gave Himself for me." Won't you receive Jesus now, rejoice in being saved, and live to please your Redeemer?—Tract.

"IF I WERE A BOY."

If I were a boy I should keep my own secrets, except as I revealed them to my father and mother for the sake of securing their advice; I should never speak a word to anyone who might be worried by it, and speak kind words of others, even of enemies, in their absence. I should put no unclean thoughts, pictures, sights, or stories in my memory and imagination, and no foul words on my tongue, give no smiles, but give the rather black frowns and prompt and fierce reproof, to any comrade who dared, in my presence, to utter a filthy speech. I should want to say, as the pure-minded and noble Dr. George H. Whitney, president of Hackettstown (N. J.) College, can say: "I have never pronounced a word which I ought not to speak in the presence of the purest woman in the world."

I sho uld treat my little folks kindly, and not tease them, show respect to servants, be tender toward the unfortunate—and all this I should strive to do for the sake of being a comfort to people, a joy to my parents, a help to the next century, and in the seventh decade of it should hope to be a wise and cheerful old man, who learned, when he was a boy, to govern himself, to be firm in right willing, and to keep up the terraces in God's garden on the hillside.—Dr. J. H. Vincent.

COLORED GLASSES.

"Oh, dear! I do not see why it is," exclaimed Grace.

"And when you are always so ready in every good work," answered her mother.

"What is the matter?" questioned Aunt Mary.

"So many slight me of late, and are so cool when Imeet them."

"Are you sure, dear, that you do not see them through colored glasses?"

"Why, what do you mean, Aunt?"

"Just this. Take a piece of colored glass and look through it, and see how everything has the shade of the glass. Are you not inclined to look on the dark side of things? You imagine people are cool to you because you look through gloomy glasses. They may be preoccupied, or your gloominess repels them. Try a change. Look on the bright side and meet people with a smile and cheery greeting, and see if your colored glasses do not become clear and white."

The next morning Grace came home smiling from a trip down town. "Oh, Aunt Mary, 'tis truly so! I met Mrs. H———, who was so cool, and when I tried your plan she stopped and shook hands, and asked if we were all well. She says they have been so anxious about her brother's illness that she has neglected her friends. I am going to keep it up, and if people do not respond cheerily I am going to think they are worried, or have the blues, and are not thinking of me."

"Well, well," exclaimed her mother; "behold how great a fire a little matter kindleth. Here I have been fighting your battles in the church when there were really none to fight. I thought people slighted you. Mary has given us a lesson."

"Yes, 'tis a remedy I never knew to fail," said Aunt Mary.

If you get the blues, go and do some kind act and they will disappear.

"This world is not so bad a world
As some would like to make it;
But whether good, or whether bad,
Depends on how we take it."

"As one lamp lights another, nor grows less,
So nobleness enkindleth nobleness."

—Herald and Presbyter.

TEMPERANCE.

THREE SCENES.

The groggery lights in splendor shine
Across the spotless snow;
The polished pumps and sparkling wine,
Ah! how they foam and flow.
What merry cheer, what ample grace,
What plenitude of wit;
Time hastens at his swiftest pace,
And who would slacken it?

But here's a spot where Time, alas!
Moves on with slower tread;
No cheerful quip or merry glass
In this—the drunkard's shed.
Exhausted sorrow, wrapt in sleep,
The tear-stained faces still;
God's anger burns, while women weep,
And Satan has his will.

The night winds hurl across the waste
A thousand drifts of snow;
In roaring might and angry haste
The stormy chargers go.
Look! in the ditch beside the road,
A white and silent wreath;
Unmarked of man—observed of God—
A sepulchre of Death.

Your work is done, ye foes of man,
The snow may hide to-night;
But God has seen, nor mountains can Conceal it from his sight.

—G. M. Cox, in the Templar.

TO THE RESCUE OF IOWA.

To All Prohibitionists:—The vote cast on the 7th of November by the Republican and Democratic parties in Iowa is already claimed by the saloon oligarchy as an almost unanimous demand of the people for the repeal of the prohibitory law. If that assumption is not challenged and rebuked in the most emphatic manner, the repeal of the law by the Legislature, which meets early in January, may be confidently predicted.

We positively assert that tens of thousands of men cast their ballots for Jackson or for Boise solely on account of so-called national issues, who would now gladly sign a protest against the repeal of the law. These, if enumerated with the Prohibition and Populist party voters, would comprise a majority of the citizens of the State, who should manfully sustain the weak prohibition majority in one branch of the Legislature. Would not the Prohibition party of Iowa, which has just made a gallant fight and splendid gains, prove recreant to duty if it failed to step to the front and champion the cause of the people as against the saloon forces, who are now glorying over their apparently overwhelming victory?

Iowa Prohibitionists will not falter in this perilous hour—but we dare not hope for success without the aid of our friends abroad.

Repeal prohibition in Iowa and the cause in every State is weakened and the enemy strengthened, and shouts of ribald victory will go up from every saloon and its supporters in the country.

Our purpose is to place several speakers in the State at large and one or more workers in each of our ninety-nine counties, to hold meetings in every village and school district, to arouse the Christian and public conscience, to solicit every voter to sign a protest against repeal, to distribute literature showing the fallacy of local option, license or mulct as a restrictive measure and a step towards prohibition in a prohibition State, of which many of our citizens are not well informed. A few speakers are already engaged and will begin work at once. Many more efficient and consecrated workers are needed.

To meet the great expense of this undertaking we look for help from Prohibitionists in all the States. The perils of delay cannot be written or spoken. Will you not rally to our help and partake with us of the joys of victory? Remittances made to the Treasurer of the State Committee, R. M. Dibel, Washington, Ia., will be promptly acknowledged and the funds honestly and judiciously applied. The press friendly to this movement will please solicit and receive funds for our urgent needs. Hopefully yours,

Isaac T. Gibson, State Chairman.
Salem, Iowa, Nov. 10, 1893.

WOMEN INEBRIATES.

Doctor Hugh Richard Ker, who at one time kept a retreat for women inebriates, also told the committee that the curative process with women is especially difficult. They are very inventive and resourceful in their determination to get something to drink. Dr. Ker is responsible for the illustrative story of the curling tongs. The women in his retreat first got their curling tongs. Then, as curling tongs must be made hot, they got some methylated spirit for the lamp. Next, by various devices, hot water, sugar and lemon juice were obtained from one of the maids. And so out of curling tongs came grog and a state of intoxication shocking and startling to the proprietor of the retreat.

Here a member of the committee recollected that a doctor had told the members of Parliament who inquired into this subject in 1872 of a woman patient who drank blacking because there was alcohol in it rather than not have something alcoholic. "I quite believe it," said Dr. Ker; but surely some one will say that there is too much blacking in this story of woman drunkards. Another Doctor Kerr—Dr. Norman Kerr—referred to cases in his practice of ladies well weaned from alcoholism, and did not argue for the detention of women longer than men. Dr. Street, who has also had experience of women in retreats, accounts for the inequality of men and women in regard to the drinking habit by the fact that the women are screened for a longer time and have become very bad before their cases are brought to the notice of a physician while their cure is more difficult because they have fewer occupations to divert their thoughts than men. This harmonizes with Sir Andrew Clark's view that occupation is a part of the curative process, as the want of it is very often the reason of the disease.—London News

PROHIBITION BUILDS CITIES.

It is sometimes claimed that prohibition retards the growth of cities, and prevents an increase in population. The Muscatine (Ia.) Journal, a Republican paper, has investigated the matter in Iowa and effectually disproves the claim by the following showing:

"The persistent non-enforcement cities increased in population on the following ratios: Dubuque, 36.20; Davenport, 23.09; Burlington, 16.02; Keokuk, 16.37; Council Bluffs, 18.88—total, 110.56. The persistent enforcement city of Des Moines beat all these five cities, having increased 123 55 per cent during the same period. The partial enforcement cities of Clinton, Muscatine, Cedar Rapids and Ottumwa also beat the five persistent non-enforcement cities, viz.: Clinton, 50.45; Cedar Rapids, 78 35; Muscatine, 38.00; and Ottumwa, 85 50—total, 232.38 per cent, or more than double the net per cent of increase in the non-enforcement cities."

And yet the Republican party in Iowa has repudiated the State prohibition law, and surrendered to the law-defying liquor-sellers, whose criminal business has interfered with the growth and prosperity of such cities as Burlington, Keokuk, and Council Bluffs.—The Constitution.

PROHIBITION.

The Ontario government has ordered a plebiscite upon Prohibition. This means merely a vote to test the sentiment of the people, which, if favorable to Prohibition, is supposed to be followed by the enactment of a Prohibition law.

At a recent convention held at Toronto, there were 1,114 accredited delegates in attendance, more than four times as many as ever attended a convention in Canada before. They were in perfect unison as to the necessity and plans for rolling up a huge Prohibition majority, and as unanimous in condemnation of anything that looked like a movement to condone the opposition and vacillation of the old parties. Old party apologists found the temperature for them many degrees below zero. Prohibitionists in Ontario have cut their eye teeth and will stand no more fooling. The country is ripe for all independent political parties, and if their demands for Prohibition are not heeded, let politicians "stand from under."

The Canadian voter contains the right metal, and we advise them to take independent political action at once, before their cause passss through every stage of base betrayal and underhand assassination that Prohibition has in the States.—The Templar, Canada.

BIBLE LESSON.

STUDIES IN THE EPISTLES.

LESSON X.—Fourth Quarter, 1893.—December 3.
SUBJECT.—Grateful Obedience.—James 1: 16-27.
GOLDEN TEXT.—We love him, because he first loved us.—1 John 4: 19.

[Open the Bible and read the lesson.]

COMMENTS BY E. E. FLAGG.

1. All good things come from God.—vs. 16–18. This epistle is a general one, addressed especially to Christian Jews. James, as the head of the church at Jerusalem, would naturally feel a deep inteaest in his brethren "scattered abroad," and subject to great temptations and trials from the heathen Gentiles among whom their lot was cast. After exhorting them to patience and to prayer, he directs them to God as the Giver of all good, telling them not to be deceived in regard to his character, as if he could be the author of sin, or in any way lay temptation before his creatures. Yet when men lay the blame of their sins and follies on circumstance, do they not tacitly say, "I am tempted of God," for those circumstances were of his ordering, who will with the temptation make a way of escape, and give larger supplies of grace and strength to those who feel their weakness, and look to him for aid. He is "the Father of lights," by which very expression we can see how diametrically opposed to his character must be all "the secret works of darkness." "With whom is no variableness," etc. There are times when God seems like the winter sun, cold and far away; but, like the sun, it is not he who has changed. It is we who through sin and unbelief have put ourselves at a distance from him. "Of his own will he begat us." He wills for us not only good, but the highest good. "That we should be a kind of first fruits" of his creatures—sacred to him, and an earnest that all the world will yet be reconciled unto himself.

2. Angry controversy forbidden..—vs. 19–21. The Jews were naturally inclined to religious controversy; but James, while not altogether forbidding such discussions, exhorts them to "be swift to hear" that they may first be sure, before engaging in debate, of their own understanding of the subject. This rule, carried out, would put an end to four-fifths of the theological controversies that are waged to-day, and the next exhortation, "slow to speak," to the remaining fifth. "Slow to wrath." It is a great temptation, especially when debating religious questions, to get heated, and use angry, or at least harsh, words. But this "worketh not the righteousness of God." Some of the bitterest religious disputes have been carried on by those who thought thereby "to vindicate his ways to men." God does not need or wish such vindication. He is dishonored rather than honored thereby, souls are not saved, and unbelief is engendered in the masses who see not so much the earnestness of the combatants as the absurdities of the combat.

3. Hearing and doing the two halves of perfect Christian character.—vs. 22–25. While we are to "receive with meekness the engrafted word," it will not save our souls unless we obey it. To be hearers only is to deceive ourselves. Yet how many flatter themselves that they do all that is required when they go to church and listen to a sermon every Sunday. The world is full of such hearers, who bring forth no fruit—nothing but leaves. "He is like unto a man beholding his natural face in a glass"—literally, "the face he was born with." He "goes his way and forgets what manner of man he was." God's Word is a mirror; but what use is a mirror except to show defects so that we may remedy them?" "But whoso looketh into the perfect law of liberty"—the original means to look closely, in contradistinction from a mere cursory glance—"and continueth therein is blessed in his deed." This is the blessing of them who by patient continuance in well-doing win the crown of life.

4. Pure religion.—vs. 26, 27. "If any man among you seem to be religious." There is too much of seeming religion, which is mere talk and never crystalizes in action. That religion is vain which does not show itself in common conversation. Christ said that by our words we shall be justified, and by our words we shall be condemned. The tongue is a perfect gauge of character. A man may talk a great deal about religion; may preach and pray with great unction, and yet be a hypocrite; but if he habitually bridles his tongue; if at home and in his daily private life his speech is always "with grace seasoned with salt," he gives one of the best possible tests that his religion is genuiue. We have in the Bible no warrant for the monastic rule of silence. We are touse but not abuse this wonderful gift of speech, which is one of the chief points of difference between ourselves and the brute creation. "A word fitly spoken," says the wise king, "is like apples of gold in pictures of silver." If there is sin in indiscreet speech, so there is in cowardly silence. But we are to do as well as talk. "Pure religion and undefiled" must show itself positively by positive acts of benevolence; by visiting the fatherless and widows in their affliction. This differs from lodge religion, for it does not confine itself to the members of its own church or even its own neighborhood. It will embrace even the family of a dead enemy. It "is kind unto the unthankful and to the evil." But it has its negative side. "Pure religion" keeps itself unspotted from the world. But lodge religion, with its dances and Sunday excursions, fails as entirely in this half of Christian duty as in the other. It is of the world, and it wears the colors of the world, of which the Christian is forbidden to have even a spot on his garments. That only is true religion which is all-around religion, which practices what it hears, and acts as well as talks.

RELIGIOUS NEWS.

A CARD FROM MR. MOODY.

—During my six months' labor in the World's Fair evangelistic movement in Chicago, I have been greatly cheered by the sympathy and co-operation of the Christian churches. As the work enlarged upon our hands, and new doors opened, I felt constrained to call upon the churches for financial help to meet the increasing expenses which it involved. I desire herewith gratefully to acknowledge the receipt of an aggregate of $1,264.90 from all the churches that responded, and would assure the givers that the money has been well invested in a work which God has greatly blessed with immediate results, and which gives promise of an hundred-fold increase as the days go by. D. L. MOODY.

Chicago, Nov. 10, 1893.

BAPTIST.

—The conference to be held in the Clarendon street Baptist church in Boston, Nov. 2–6, was most happily carried out under the direction of Rev. A. J. Gordon, D.D., who had with him such eminent co-workers as Dr. A. T. Pierson, of Philadelphia, and Dr. A. B. Simpson, of New York. On the Sunday of this conference every available space in the church, at three services, was taken, and a large overflow meeting was held at the Warren avenue church. The work of the conference was the presentation of these three themes: "The Life of the Church in the Work of the Holy Spirit," "The Hope of the Church in the Coming of the Lord in Glory," and "The Evangelization of the World by Christian Missions." The interest deepened to such a degree that many were led to confess Christ.

CHINESE SABBATH SCHOOLS.

—The secretary of the Chinese Sabbath-school Association of this country has made an effort to secure some accurate statistics of the schools. There are 120,000 Chinese in the United States. Sunday-schools have been established in 36 States, the largest number being in California, 59. It is stated that the number of Chinese converted is larger in proportion than among any other class of immigrants, the percentage of Christians being 32 of those in attendance on the schools. They are extremely liberal in giving to all benevolent purposes. There is a crying need of consecrated men and women teachers and preachers for them.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.

—The Methodists, on a lot 95 feet wide and 155 feet long, in the heart of the city of Rome, right opposite the war department of the kingdom of Italy, are laying the foundations of a building that is to cost $100,000, and in this building they will soon have two or three big power presses at work printing Bibles and Testaments and religious tracts and books by thousands; and they will also have in this building a school for boys and one for girls and a church for the people.

—The General Missionary Committee proposed to transfer the property owned by the Building and Transit society of Bishop Taylor's self-supporting missions in South America to the Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church. The property consists of church and school buildings and real estate in Santiago, Iquique, Coquimbo, and Concepcion, having an aggregate value of over $100,000; and the proposal is to transfer it in fee simple upon condition that the Missionary society will never send a salaried missionary to Chile. The committee accepts the offer of property in Chile, and authorizes a contingent appropriation of $25,000.

—The Italy conference has taken steps to open a conference with other Methodist Episcopal conferences in Europe—Norway, Sweden, Germany and Switzerland—to consider the formation of a European union conference, to meet in 1895.

—The second annual convention of the Epworth leagues of Illinois will be held in the Centenary M. E. church at Jacksonville, Ill., Dec. 1–3, 1893. A program of live topics is in preparation.

PRESBYTERIAN.

—Liberal Presbyterians at Cleveland protested against heresy trials and urged members to stand by the church.

—The case of Prof. Smith was before the late meeting of the Presbyterian Synod of Ohio on appeal from the decision of the presbytery of Cincinnati. He was charged with teaching doctrine fundamentally contrary to the Word of God and to the confession of faith, and was suspended from the ministry. The synod refused to sustain his appeal. The vote on teaching fundamental error stood: to sustain the appeal 46, not to sustain, 76. The vote on suspension was 54 to 76. Whether the case will go to the General Assembly or not is not yet determined. They vote to sustain the Professor was ominously large.

—In commemorating, on Oct. 29, the fortieth anniversary of the Third church of New Albany, and of his work as the organizer and only pastor of it, Rev. Charles Hutchinson gave these interesting statistics: He had preached 5,219 sermons, made 27,520 pastoral visits, officiated at 1,325 funerals, solemnized 900 marriages, administered baptism to 1,109 persons, infants 578, adults, 531, received to church fellowship, by letter, 369, on profession, 1,292, making with the 24 original members an aggregate of 1,685, The present membership is 796.

SALVATION ARMY.

—The Salvation Army held a popular demonstration in Carnegie hall, New York city, last week. The "Columbian Congress" is the name applied to the convention which opened with a parade on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. One thousand staff and field officers took part in the street parades each day during the Congress and 2,000 delegates from all over the country participated in the meetings held each evening while the Congress was in progress.

MISCELLANEOUS.

—By the will of the late Mr. Charles Bathgate Beck, of West Farms, N. Y. Columbia College, the Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian church, the Presbyterian Hospital of New York City, the Society for the Prevention of Crime, and the New York Hospital, are made residuary legatees. It is stated that, as the estate is estimated at nearly $5,000,000, each of these will receive about $700,000.

—After thirteen hundred years Mohammedanism has 200,000,000 adherents, and stretches over a vast region 5,000 by 10,000 miles in extent, even from Gibraltar to the Malay Peninsula and Java, though practically confined to Southern Asia and the northern half of Africa. Christianity after nineteen hundred years has 400,000,000 adherents, is the religion of Europe and the New World, politically is universal ruler except in China and Turkey, and is rapidly spreading its dominion into every region on the face of the earth.

—All the Jews of Jerusalem are to be united in one congregation. Hitherto they have been divided into three sections, a Spanish, a German and a company of poor Jews supported by contributions from abroad. All the Jews of Baron Rothschild's colonies speak Hebrew only. Though these Jews are only a handful of their race, as compared with the "twelve tribes which are of the dispersion," their movements are always of peculiar interest.—Congregationalist.

—The destruction of Father Chiniquy's home at Kankakee, Ill., by the hand of the incendiary, has led some of his friends to make an appeal to Christians on his behalf. An influential committee invite subscriptions, which may be forwarded to the Daily Witness, Montreal, Canada, or to the New York Observer's correspondent, Rev. A. B. Mackay, D. D., 1133 Dorchester street, Montreal. The fund thus created is to be presented to Father Chiniquy in January next. A photograph, cabinet size, of the evangelist will be sent to contributors who give from $1 to $4, and a larger photograph will be sent to donors of $5 or more.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

CHICAGO.

Every person found in the streets between 11 and 5 o'clock is to be stopped by officers in citizens' clothes.

Louis Eiffler and Thomas Curry, Evanston boys, are in jail on a charge of causing twelve or more fires.

Ward's natural science collection at the Fair was sold for the new Columbian Museum at $100,000.

Siam's king is the latest contributor to the Columbian Museum, donating the entire exhibit of his country.

The authorities have decided to let the main buildings at the World's Fair stand next year. No admission fee will be charged to visitors.

In his report Commissioner Grinlinton, of Ceylon, declares the Fair to have been the grandest in history.

The collection of South American Indian portraits exhibited in Uncle Sam's building has been given to the Columbian Museum.

Contractors are stripping the grounds.

Vina Soloman, an insane domestic who wanted to kill Rev. P. S Henson, was arrested after an exciting chase.

Plans for the State industrial home for the blind have been completed and construction will begin at once.

Memorial exercises for Carter H. Harrison were held in the council chamber. Aldermen of both parties eulogized the dead mayor.

Contractor McCormick told a sensational story of being robbed of $7,000. Questioned closely he admitted losing it.

Burglars murdered Thomas Prunty, shot a son Peter and a daughter Sadie and made their escape. Thomas Burke, Fred Hall and Arthur Murray were arrested, suspected of having murdered Thomas Prunty.

Treasurer Drake, of the "Three I's" Railroad, was beaten and robbed of $20,399 at his office in the Rookery.

At the Eggleston wreck inquest the jury held the Rock Island and its employes criminally liable.

In a collision between their buggy and a street car Mrs. Arabella Mollan and Mrs. Emily Hedgeland were fatally injured.

Robert G. H, Huntington, missing secretary, has been indicted for stealing $25,000 of the Home Building and Loan Association.

Health officers are taking precautions against smallpox, several cases of the disease having been discovered.

L. Z. Leiter notified trustees of the Columbian Museum project that he would give $100,000 in cash.

Assaulted by a female footpad, Mrs. C. E. Northup fought the beskirted robber and beat her off with a bone-headed boa.

President Billings, of the Chicago Gas Company, says the consumption is larger than at the same time last year.

D. B. Carson and G. W. Gordon were arrested for using the mails to swindle milliners by a commission scheme.

A displaced manhole cover wrecked a crowded Milwaukee avenue grip car. Fourteen persons were injured.

Republicans and Democrats will hold their conventions to select candidates for mayor on the same day—Dec. 2.

On behalf of 30,000 boys and girls of this and other countries, Anna L. Gordon, of the W. C. T. U., presented the city with a bronze drinking fountain.

Rev. W. W. Totheroh was deposed from the ministry by the presbytery, having been found guilty of improper conduct.

Louis A. Hilliard, ex-cashier of the Tribune, was arrested in New York, on his return from Spain, for embezzling $15,000.

John Connors, for seven years custodian of stolen property, has confessed to embezzling $3,500. His bond has disappeared.

COUNTRY.

United States troops have been ordered to the Mexican border to protect the property and lives of Americans from the revolutionists.

A petition asking arrest of Mexican revolutionists by the United States was filed by Consul Zayos at El Paso, Texas.

Ernest Lacore has been sentenced to be hanged for the murder of Nellie Byron, near Joliet, in August last.

Eddie and Dominick Hogan pleaded guilty at Houghton, Mich., to the robbery of the Mineral Range train.

Centralia, Ill., is experiencing an epidemic of burglaries and robberies. An expert gang seems to be at work.

William Shelles, one of the Lincoln, Ill., train robbers under arrest, is an ex-convict pardoned by Gov. Altgeld.

(Continued on 16th page.)

SUBSCRIPTION LETTERS.

The following have made remittances of money to the Cynosure from Nov. 13 to Nov. 18:

R C Livesay, J M Elliott, Prof S M Mack, Elder A B Lipp, Mrs M J McFarland, J Lantz, E L Dilley, E R Atwood & Sons, Rev L H Norem, Z Foss, Rev W Fenton, Rev C D Trumbull.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO.

Wheat—Spring No. 2	59½@	61
Winter No. 2	59 @	60½
Corn—No. 2	35½@	36½
Oats—No. 2	27 @	30½
Rye—No. 2	46 @	48½
Bran per ton	11 25 @	11 75
Hay—Timothy	9 00 @	10 50
Butter, medium to best	16½@	25
Cheese	08 @	11½
Beans	1 50 @	1 60
Eggs	17 @	21
Seeds—Timothy (100 lbs)	2 00 @	3 10
Flax	1 08 @	1 08½
Clover (100 lbs.)	5 00 @	10 00
Broom corn (per ton)	40 00 @	70 00
Potatoes, (new, bu.)	45 @	63
Hides—Green to dry flint	02½@	05½
Lumber—Common	@	15 50
Wool (unwashed)	15 @	19
Cattle—Choice to extra	4 75 @	5 45
Common to good	3 70 @	4 40
Hogs	5 00 @	5 60
Sheep	2 00 @	4 50

NEW YORK.

Wheat No. 2	65 @	66
Corn No 2	45¼@	45½
Oats	35 @	36
Rye	50 @	57
Eggs	23 @	25½
Butter	17 @	27½
Wool	16 @	25

KANSAS CITY.

Cattle	1 10 @	4 15
Hogs	4 90 @	5 50
Sheep	2 00 @	490

JONATHAN BLANCHARD'S

]-oo-[

SERMONS AND ADDRESSES.

Select discourses of the late editor of the Cynosure and leader in our reform. Lectures, sermons and speeches given from 1834 to 1892 in leading cities of the United States, discussing topics of

LIVING REFORM.

Secret Societies,
The Sabbath,
Temperance,
National Reform,
Christian Education,
Christian Socialism,
The Bible, Etc., Etc.

A BOOK EVERYBODY SHOULD READ

12mo. Fine Photogravure Portrait.

Price, 75 Cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221W. Madison St., Chicago,

DO YOU WANT

To receive, read, distribute and otherwise aid in the circulation of a large number of Holiness and Reform papers and magazines? If so, send me a SILVER dime, and your name and address will be printed on the Holiness and Reform Mail Exchange List, which is sent to all publishers of holiness and reform literature, who will mail you sample papers and magazines. Write name and address PLAINLY. Address, J. H. PADGETT, Printer. Ennis, Texas.

Eminent Men on Secret Societies Composed of "Washington Opposed to Secret Societies," "Judge Whitney's Defence," "The Mystic Tie," "Narratives and Arguments," the "Anti-mason's Scrap-Book" and "Oaths and Penalties of Freemasonry as Proved in the New Berlin Trials" 826 pages cloth. $1.00.

MY EXPERIENCES
WITH
SECRET SOCIETIES.
BY A TRAVELER.
With a Key to Masonry Illustrated

-o-o-

A new edition, greatly enlarged, has been issued, embracing chapters on the Language of Numbers, Secret Empires, and Good Men, containing more Experiences, and affording a deeper insight into the Hidden Language and Workings of Secret Clans, and of the counterfeit pretences of good men, than ever before published. The Key is an exposition, explanation and verification of modern Baalism, with which all should be thoroughly acquainted. The price of the new edition is

Fifteen Cents,

but copies of the first edition will be forwarded for Ten Cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill

"Best" Marriage Certificate. Size 14x 17½. Price postpaid 25 cents; per dozen, $2.50.

This superb certificate meets a popular demand, and is rapidly becoming the favorite. Read what the people say of it: BRO. BEST: My attention having been called to your marriage certificate, I must pronounce it the neatest in design and execution of any I have seen. Rev. E. P. HART. E. C. BEST—Dear Brother: I am well pleased with the specimen copy of your marriage certificate, and shall use them hereafter. They are in good taste, well executed, on good material, and at a very reasonable price. Yours, M. V. CLUTE.

Sunday School Publications.

The Pearl (Mo.)	Pr. Qr. 3c.	Sunshine (Mo.)	Pr. Qr. 3 c.
The Lily "	" 3 "	Pure Words "	3 "
Light & L Scholar's Qrly.	3 "	Light & L Inf Cl. wk.	4 "
" " Teacher's "	5 "	" " Lesson Leaf "	1½ "
Golden Treasures	1 "	L. & L. Primary Qly	4 "

SINGLE SUBSCRIPTIONS.

The Pearl, The Lily, Pure Words, & Sunshine, each Pr. Yr. 25c
The four to one address " 75c
Teacher's Quarterly Pr. Yr. 25c
Scholar's " " 20c
L & L Infant Class, weekly, 25c

Struck by Lightning.

A true and thrilling narrative of one who was struck by lightning; with incidents, experiences and anecdotes for old and young. By Rev. E. Owen.

With Striking Illustrations.

Beautifully bound in cloth, with title stamped in gold on side and back.....50c.
Paper cover.....30c.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

Plan for Evading the Judgment—Request to be Whipped to Death—Learning to Swear—Alarmed by a Rattlesnake—Fall from a Building—Struck by Lightning—Converted—Sanctified—Called to Preach—First Effort—Casting out a Devil—Protracted Meeting on "Satan's Premises"—First Circuit—Revival in "Haying"—S. Hill Revival—Sisters' Quarrel Settled—Accused of Fortune-Telling—Souls Saved—Dreams—Too near Hell to Spend Time with—A Sceptic Awakened—Public Talk with a Universalist—A Chair Thrown at the Minister—Revival in Berlin—A Methodist Church of Baptist Converts—A Noisy Stage Passenger Quieted—Preaching on the Deck of a Steamboat—A Pleasure Trip—Two Overboard—Revival by Torch-light—A Fiddler Saved—A Slanderer Humbled—Bar-room Discussion—Saved by Expulsion from the Church—Dancing with the Devil—Answering a Fool According to his Folly—Raps for Spirit Rappings—Short Debate with a Restorationist—"Open Rebuke"—An Unspeakable Blessing.

COMMENDATIONS.

American Wesleyan: "Thrilling as a romance, and true to the last syllable. No private library or Sunday-school should be without a copy."

Phonographic Monthly, N. Y.: "Calculated to throw light into the dark places of orthodoxy."

Earnest Christian: "A true narrative of instructive events."

Lay Evangelist: "Quite entertaining and neatly gotten up."

Free Methodist: "Meeting with universal favor. Intensely interesting. We have read, laughed and cried, and shall try it again."

Love, the Supreme Gift:

THE GREATEST THING IN THE WORLD.

The Perfected Life;

THE GREATEST NEED IN THE WORLD.

Both by Prof. Henry Drummond. Bound in chaste white vellum paper, each 20 cts.

These are not to be judged by the size, unless rubies are counted for the weight thereof. The first has been very largely circulated, the second is now only just published and deserves the same wide reading—both are gems such as are only found at rare intervals. If you have not read them, do so at once, you will be a better man or woman for the reading.

Sermons of Rev. John McNeill,

12mo. cloth, 416 pages, $1.50.

The fame of this Scottish Spurgeon, as he is very generally called, is becoming as wide-spread as the English tongue. The secret of his power over the masses, has been discussed on both sides of the Atlantic. If one may judge from these printed sermons the secret lies in a homely and pointed putting of the old truths of the Gospel in plain Anglo-saxon. There is evidence of study, but more the study of human nature, and particularly the human heart, than that of books, other than the Book of books—with this volume Mr. McNeill is evidently in love. With unquestioned faith he believes the writen word, and preaches it with an earnestness born of conviction.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Knights of Labor Illustrated. ("ADELPHON KRUPTOS.") The complete illustrated ritual of the order, including the "unwritten work." 25cts each.

SECRET SOCIETIES CONDEMNED.

BY GREAT MEN IN THE STATE.

James Madison: "From the number and character of those who now support the charges against Masonry, I cannot doubt that it is at least susceptible of abuse, outweighing any advantages promised by its patrons."

James G. Birney, candidate of the Liberty party for President, was a Freemason, "but never entered a lodge after he joined the church, and, as his sons grew up, he cautioned them against joining any secret order."—Gen. Wm. Birney.

Hon. Ezra Butler, ex-Governor of Vermont:—One Masonic obligation requires that a Mason shall vote for a brother in preference to any other person of equal qualifications. Is not this political Masonry? The Masons in Vermont are about one-twentieth part of the freemen, and they hold about three-fourths of all the important offices in the State. Is this owing to their superior fitness, or to political Masonry?

Philo Carpenter:—This saint of God (Moses Stuart) like the old prophets, was satisfied with the institutions and ordinances of God's house, and consequently did not give his influence or aid in supplementing the same with human ordinances and worldly alliances; in other words, he was opposed to secret, oath-bound societies, into which many good men, and even clergymen, have been, and are being "ensnared."

Hon. Cadwallader C. Colden, Mayor of New York and M. C.:—It is true that I have been a Mason a great number of years, and that I have held very high Masonic offices and honors. It is equally true that I have for a long time ceased to have any connection with the institution because I have believed, and do now believe, it is productive of much more evil than good. I have long entertained my present opinion, that a man who would eschew all evil should not be a Freemason.

Horace Greeley:—Many persons were brought to trial on account of the murder of Morgan, but no one was judicially found guilty of murder. It was established by seceding Masons that the oaths—at least in some of the highest degrees—that were administered, and taken by those admitted to Masonic lodges, disqualified them from serving as jurors in any case where a brother Mason of like degree was a party, and his antagonist was not.

Hon. Seth M. Gates, ex-Member:—Profoundly convinced by long experience and observation that Freemasonry is an evil and pernicious institution. I wish once more in my advanced age to lift my warning voice publicly against it and all kindred organizations, and to beseech Christian men to have no connection or fellowship with them. Jesus is not, and cannot properly be recognized in Freemasonry. He must be ignored in the lodge-room, in its lectures, instructions, and in its prayers.

Hon. Heman Lincoln, ex-Governor, Mass:—Freemasonry, as a distinct, independent government within our own government, and beyond the control of the laws of the land, by means of its secrecy and the oaths and regulations which its subjects are bound to obey under penalties of death, has occupied much of the attention of the committee. . . . We believe, in the language of the Edinburgh Review, that all secret societies are justly deemed odious, wherever the government is tolerably free, and can only be excused where the existence of arbitrary power, foreign or domestic, leaves no other means of escaping from hopeless slavery.

Gen. Henry Sewall, a companion of Washington:—I was initiated an Entered Apprentice to the Masonic rites in October, 1777, at Albany, soon after the capture of Burgoyne, being then an officer in the American army. . . . I was led by the influence of this "perfect rule of faith and practice," during the year 1784, to view speculative Masonry in a shape still more deformed. Its charity appeared to be selfishness, because restricted to its own members; its religion deism because entirely devoid of the Gospel. Its history appeared fabulous; its claims to antiquity unsustainable; its titles fulsome; its rites barbarous and absurd; its oaths extra-judicial, unlawfully imposed and blindly taken, and the penal sanctions annexed, horrid and impious.

HOME AND HEALTH.

HOW WOMEN INCREASE CARE.

"Oh, woman, if you will have carpets somebody must propel the sweeper; if you must have stuffy curtains and hangings some one must fight the invading moth; if you will make your house an art gallery, a museum of modern curios, a furniture warehouse, a china emporium, a toy-shop and a World's Fair miniature—why, you do make it a dimple of loveliness; but know this, my daughter, and hear it for thy good: she that increaseth bric-a-brac increaseth care, and much bijouterie is a weariness of the flesh," writes Robert J. Burdette in his own inimitable way on "The Taskmistress of Woman." "But all this is your own doing. Wherefore, do not come around the den of a man, wailing that woman's work is never done; that you are tired to death, and that you have no time to read or improve yourself. Go to your mirror and make faces at the responsible party. Of course, the monster enjoys all these things—the exquisite taste and the art and the loveliness in his house. He enjoys all the toothsome breakfast and the dainty china, the elaborate luncheon and the great dinner. But he doesn't really need so much, and I doubt very much if it is good for him; he is always apt to get more than is good for him."

LITTLE THINGS IN THE GARDEN.

We may plan great things for the garden, but we find that the great things to be done there are always made up of little, seemingly unimportant, things. If we neglect these because they seem trivial the great things we planned to do are never accomplished. Therefore, do the little things carefully, and lo! before you know it the end you had in view is attained.—Vick's Magazine.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Those who pride themselves on their housekeeping always have on hand several cans of soup of the best brands, so that in the emergency of unexpected lunchers or diners they may have after 10 minutes' boiling a proper first course.

The tomato is pre-eminently a relish, and in New York restaurants this is a favorite dressing for meats, especially for some of the cheaper sorts. Fortunately it is not easily spoiled in preparation, as its base consists merely of strained tomato, thickened. The flavor may be varied by boiling onion, parsley, etc., with the tomatoes before straining. Butter, salt and pepper are essentials to a good tomato sauce.

To restore gray hair to its natural color as in youth, cause it to grow abundant and strong, there is no better preparation than Hall's Hair Renewer.

"Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething" softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain and cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

The St. Louis Sermon

Are Secret Societies a Blessing or a Curse?

An Address by Rev. B. Carradine D. D., Pastor of the Centenary M. E. Church, St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 4, 1891.

W. McCoy writes: "That sermon ought to be in the hands of every preacher in this land, and every citizen's too."

A pamphlet of 20 pages and cover.

Sent postpaid 25 copies $1.00. Single copy 5 cents.

CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

THE MYSTIC SHRINE

Illustrated.

THE FULL

ILLUSTRATED RITUAL

OF THE

Nobles of the Mystic Shrine

PRICE 15 CENTS, EACH.

For sale by the

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
221 W. Madison St., Chicag su bu bi h

g

Mr. Joseph Hemmerich

An old soldier, came out of the War greatly enfeebled by Typhoid Fever, and after being in various hospitals the doctors discharged him as incurable with Consumption. He has been in poor health since, until he began to take

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Immediately his cough grew looser, night sweats ceased, and he regained good general health. He cordially recommends Hood's Sarsaparilla, especially to comrades in the G. A. R.

HOOD'S PILLS cure Habitual Constipation by restoring peristaltic action of the alimentary canal.

SEVEN YEARS AMONG THE FREEDMEN.
Revised and Enlarged.

BY MARIA WATERBURY.

Finely Illustrated 196 Pages.....75cts.

The first edition of this book has "gone like hot cakes," and a second edition with more of the same sort has been loudly called for and is now ready for delivery. The press, the pulpit, the educator, the reformer, the masses, have bidden it welcome and Godspeed. We quote a few good words from sundry sources: EARNEST CHRISTIAN: "Publish the book for the good it will do."

Dr. Talmage, in the Christian Herald and Signs of our Times, for February 11th, says: "A helpful little volume, just out, for the workers is, 'Seven Years among the Freedmen,' by Miss M. Waterbury, Polo, Ill.,—a teacher well known to many in Illinois—detailing the quaint and thrilling scenes of her experience—'truth stranger,' oftimes, 'than fiction. One day the chore-man came to Miss M. Waterbury, to be taught a prayer; all the scholars had a prayer to say and he wanted one. John was past middle life and very ignorant. The teacher began the Lord's Prayer, a sentence at a time, explaining as the lesson progressed. 'Thy kingdom come' was all right. 'Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors.' 'What dat mean?' said he. 'That you must forgive everybody, or God will not forgive you.' 'Stop, teacher, can't do dat,' and he went away. After vacation he appeared, saying: 'Now go on wid de prayer. I dun forgive him. Old massar once gib me five hundred lashes, and hit me wid a crow bar, an' t' row me out fur dead, and I met him down de street, an' wouldn't speak at him, but to-day I met him an' aid 'How d'ye?' Now go on wid dat prayer'!"

Inter Ocean: "A Splendid Book. Seven Years Among Freedman is a volume of 494 pages by Miss M. Waterbury, of Polo, Ills., who has spent seven years as a teacher among the freedmen in Mississippi and Alabama. It is a series of sketches telling very simply and graphically the life led by Northern teachers in the South. It bears all the evidences of truthfulness and if it fails to impress the reader with the manhood and dignity of the old ruling class of the South, it is perhaps because the whole truth is told. One reading the book will stop to ask, Why not send missionaries to the white people of the South? They seem to need it more than the blacks."

Journal, Freeport, Ills.: "We are indebted to Mrs. Lila L. Buckley, of this city, for a copy of this interesting volume. The efforts made to elevate the freedmen of the South is one of the most important and deserving charities of the present time, far excelling any effort to elevate the heathen of foreign lands and it should have the aid of all charitable people in this country. .....The proceeds of sales is devoted to the work of elevating the freedmen of the South, and we trust that every one to whom Miss Waterbury applies will purchase a copy of the book, which is in itself fully worth the price. Miss Waterbury's grandfather, Rev. Calvin Waterbury, was the first Presbyterian minister in Freeport, and it was by his efforts that the First Presbyterian church in Freeport was established.

Polo, (Ills.,) Press: "Seven Years Among the Freedmen. Our townswoman Miss Maria Waterbury, the past winter, prepared for publication an account of some of her singular experiences in the "sixties" among the freedmen of Mississippi. Miss Waterbury and Miss Ford, both of this place, did grand work in those years and deserve no small mead of praise for their heroic sacrifices.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W Madison St. Chicago

The Nonesuch Professor,

In his Meridian Splendor. By William Secker (Puritan). With an introduction by Theo. L. Cuyler, D. D. 16 mo, $1.00.

"It is a mine of sparkling gems."—Presbyterian Observer.

"A sheaf of golden grain, ripened by grace, and sweet with the flavor of rare simplicity and holy wisdom."—N. Y. Observer.

"It is a searching book."—Christian Intelligencer.

"This is a wonderful book. At whatever page you open it, your eye lights upon pithy aphorisms that combine the sententiousness of Benjamin Franklin with the sweet, holy savor of Samuel Rutherford. It contains hundreds of bright seed thoughts."—Rev. T. L. Cuyler, D. D.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison St. Chicago.

STANDARD WORKS

—ON—

SECRET SOCIETIES

FOR SALE BY THE

National Christian Association.

221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Il.

TERMS:—Cash with order, or if sent by express C. O. D. at least $1.00 must be sent with order as a guaranty that books will be taken. Books at retail prices sent postpaid. Books by Mail are at risk of persons ordering, unless 10 cents extra is sent to pay for registering them, when their safe delivery is guaranteed. Books at retail ordered by express, are sold at 10 per cent discount and delivery guaranteed, but not express paid. Postage stamps taken for small sums. ☞ A liberal discount to dealers

Temple of Honor Illustrated. A full and complete illustrated ritual of "The Templars of Honor and Temperance," commonly called the Temple of Honor. By a Templar of Fidelity and Past Worthy Chief Templar. 25cts each.

Five Rituals Bound Together. "Oddfellowship Illustrated" (old work), "Knights of Pythias Illustrated," "Good Templars Illustrated," "Exposition of the Grange," and "Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic," are sold bound together in cloth for $1.00.

Rituals and Secrets Illustrated. Composed of "Temple of Honor Illustrated, "Adoptive Masonry Illustrated," "United Sons of Industry Illustrated," and "Secret Societies Illustrated." $1.00 each.

Finney on Masonry. The character, claims and practical workings of Freemasonry. By Pres. Charles G. Finney, of Oberlin College. President Finney was a "bright Mason," but left the lodge when he became a Christian. This book has opened the eyes of multitudes. In cloth, 75 cents. Paper cover, 35 cents.

Stories of the Gods. By I. R. B. Arnold. Brief sketches from the mythology of Rome, Greece, Egypt, India, Persia, Phrygia, Scandinavia, Africa and America, showing the relations and unity of past and present systems. The idolatrous worship of the Masonic lodge is thus clearly seen and understood. Postpaid, 10 cents.

Judge Whitney's Defense before THE GRAND LODGE OF ILLINOIS. Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the lodge when S. H. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry. 15 cents each.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret SOCIETIES. A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons in the Christian church. 10 cents each.

Masonry a Work of Darkness, adverse to Christianity, and inimical to republican government. By Rev. Lebbeus Armstrong (Presbyterian) a seceding Mason of 21 degrees. 15 cents each.

Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the INITIATE? By Rev. L. A. Post. 5 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. J. Day Brownlee. In reply to a Masonic Oration by Rev. Dr. Mayer, Wellsville, Ohio. 5 cents each.

Masonic Outrages. Compiled by Rev. H. H. Hinman. Showing Masonic assault on lives of seceders, on reputation, and on free speech; its interference with justice in courts, etc. Postpaid, 20 cents.

Sermon on Secret Societies. By Rev. Daniel Dow, Woodstock, Conn. The special object of his sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the character of secret societies, no matter what object such societies profess to have. 5 cents each.

Grand Lodge Masonry. Its relation to civil government and the Christian religion. By Pres. J. Blanchard. The un-Christian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is proved from the highest Masonic authorities. 5 cents each.

The Broken Seal; or Personal Reminiscences of the Abduction and Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan. By Samuel D. Greene. In cloth, 75 cents. Paper covers, 40 cents.

The Mystic Tie, or Freemasonry a LEAGUE WITH THE DEVIL. This is an account of the church trial of Peter Cook and wife, of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a reverend Freemason. 15 cents each.

History of the Abduction and Murder OF CAPT. WM. MORGAN. As prepared by seven committees of citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan. 25 cents each.

Freemasonry Self-Condemned. By Rev. J. W. Bain. A careful and logical statement of reasons why secret orders should not be fellowshiped by the Christian Church. Paper covers, price, 20 cents each.

Secret Societies. A discussion of their character and claims by Rev. David McDill, Pres. J. Blanchard and Rev. Edward Beecher. In cloth, 35cts each; paper covers, 15cts each.

Secret Societies, Ancient and Modern. Table of Contents: The Antiquity of Secret Societies, The Life of Julian, The Eleusinian Mysteries, The Origin of Masonry, Was Washington a Mason? Fillmore and Webster's Deference to Masonry, A Brief Outline of the Progress of Masonry in the United States, The Tammany Ring, Masonic Benevolence, The Uses of Masonry, An Illustration, The Conclusion. 50cts each.

Pres. H. H. George on Secret Societies. A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian churches to disfellowship secret societies. 10cts each.

Secrecy vs. the Family, State and CHURCH. By Rev. M. S. Dury. The antagonism of organized secrecy to the welfare of the family, state and church, is clearly shown. 10cts each.

Narratives and Arguments, showing the conflict of secret societies with the Constitution and law of the Union and of the States. By Francis Semple. The fact that secret societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of law is here clearly proved. 15cts each.

The Anti-mason's Scrap-Book, consisting of 53 "Cynosure" tracts. In this book are the views of more than a score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of secret societies. Postpaid. 25 cts.

Reminiscences of Morgan Times. By Elder David Bernard. This is a thrilling narrative of the incidents connected with Bernard's Revelation of Freemasonry 10 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. James Williams, Presiding Elder of Dakota District Northwestern Iowa Conference M. E. Church—a seceding Master Mason. 10 cents each.

Oaths and Penalties of the 33 DEGREES OF FREEMASONRY. To get these thirty-three degrees of Masonic bondage, the candidate takes half-a-million horrible oaths. 15 cents each.

Odd-fellowship Judged by its own utterances; its doctrine and practice examined in the light of God's Word. By Rev. J. H. Brockman. This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. In cloth 50cts; paper covers, 25cts.

Sermon on Odd-fellowship and other secret societies, by Rev. J. Sarver, pastor Evangelical Lutheran church. This is a very clear argument against secretism of all forms, and the duty to disfellowship Odd fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications. 10cts each.

United Sons of Industry ILLUSTRATED. A full and complete illustrated ritual of the secret tradesunion of the above name, giving the signs, grips, passwords etc. 15cts each.

Oaths and Penalties of Freemasonry, as proved in court in the New Berlin trials. The New Berlin trials began in the attempt of Freemasons to prevent public initiations by seceding Masons. These trials were held at New Berlin, Chenango Co., N. Y., April 13 and 14, 1831, and General Augustus C. Welsh, sheriff of the county, and other adhering Freemasons swore to the truthful revelation of the oaths and penalties. 10 cents each.

Anti-masonic Sermons and Addresses. Composed of "Masonry a Work of Darkness;" the Sermons of Messrs. Cross, William M'Nary, Dow and Sarver, the two addresses of President Blanchard, and the addresses of President H. H. George, Prof. J. G. Carson and Rev. M. S. Drury; "Thirteen Reasons Why a Christian cannot be a Freemason," "Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion," and "Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the Initiate?" 287 pages; cloth $1.00.

FARM NOTES.

CHEAP GRAPES.

The price of grapes the present season has been the lowest the market has ever reached. The quantity produced is now so great that the grower cannot get the cost of production. In noticing the low prices the Vineyardist says: "Grapes of good quality, packed in baskets, that sell in the cities for less than two cents per pound, return no profit, and are sold at an actual loss to the producer. Four and one-half pound baskets, sold at ten cents each, or $10 for a hundred baskets containing 450 pounds of grapes, would cost, say $2; for transportation about $1.50; commission not less than forty cents; total $3.90, which, deducted from $10, leaves the pitiful sum of $6.10—less than one and a half cents per pound, which means ruin to the producer, as the balance of his crop, if sold at all, for wine, must be 'sold for a song.'"

This statement is all true. The grape growers of this State have been raising their fruit for three years at cost or at a loss, hoping for a turn in the tide. But the amount of new vineyard land coming into bearing each year has swelled the total of production until the markets are overloaded. People have ignorantly imagined that there were great profits in grape growing and have rushed into the business until it is now swamped. The crops cannot now be consumed; in the meantime the vineyards, most of which are more or less mortgaged, are falling into the sheriff's hands and being sold for what they will bring—in all cases for less than their cost. Those who by very hard work and living poorly can manage to still hold on are obliged to see their buildings run down for want of repairs, and to draw from the ground what they can get without supplying it with fertilizers which they are too poor to buy. It is a sad turn in the affairs of what a few years since was a promising industry.—Vick's Magazine.

CHEAP FLOWERS.

The New York Mail and Express gives an account of the success of Joseph Fleischman in selling cut flowers cheaply. He began to sell on Fourteenth street two and a half years ago. Observing the wastage of choice flowers left on jobbers' hands, he persuaded some of these dealers to let him have them at figures that enabled him to sell at half the prices charged in stores or less. He sold bunches of roses at 50 cents and even 25 cents. His sales the first year reached $5,000. The second year he took a small store on Broadway and his receipts reached $100,000.

WORLD'S FAIR ROOMS.

Mrs. Rev. W. M. Howie, of 3557 Prairie avenue, is giving rooms, breakfast and evening dinner for $1.25, $1.50 and $1.75 per day, according to rooms occupied. By the week, $8.00, $10.00, and $12 00. Parlors and bedrooms are all convenient, and furnished for rest and comfort. The residence is four miles from business center, and three from Fair grounds. The Elevated railroad runs to Fair in 20 minutes, and the station is one-third mile distant. Write what rooms you wish and when.

MRS. W. M. HOWIE,
3557 Prairie avenue.

LE CARON, THE SPY.

A STARTLING REVELATION.

More enticing than a romance, filled with the strongest evidences of the power and evil of sworn secret societies, and plainly revealing the danger to any government growing out of political conspiracies, is the

"Autobiography of Henry LeCaron, the Spy."

who was for years a Clan-na-Gael Center, a Fenian Commander, and a Land-League Orator, but always a British Detective. The book covers his twenty-five years' experiences in this secret service, and contains 205 pages.

Price, in paper covers, 50 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

Easy to Take and keep the system in Perfect Order.

AYER'S
CATHARTIC PILLS
A specific for Headache
Constipation, and Dyspepsia.
Every dose
Effective

AMERICAN HANDBOOK
AND
CITIZEN MANUAL.
BY
MANLOVE N. BUTLER.

CONTENTS:—Bible and Secretism; Masonic Religion; Masonic Sun Worship; Masonic Government; Unwritten History; Grand Lodge Masonry; Public Opinion; Lodge and Saloon; The American Movement; Real Prohibition; Poor Man's Bible, and All-Around Reformers. Over 200 pages

Paper, single copy 40c.; per doz. 35c.

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
WM. I. PHILLIPS, Treasurer,
221 W. Madison St., Chic

THE TWO-FOLD GIFT
of the Holy Ghost,
BY REV. THOS. K. DOTY,
Author of Lessons in Holiness.

240 pp. Price postpaid.....65cts.

The design of this book is, in plain language, to designate the place of the Holy Ghost in both the Godhead and the work of Salvation. Especially to show that Entire Santification is wrought in the heart by the Baptism of Holy Ghost; and that the Epoch of the Baptism is identical with that of his Advent in his Indwelling Personalty. The agency of the Holy Ghost in the Life, and in carrying on the work of the Gospel, is given particular attention.

TITLES TO THE CHAPTERS:

1. A Summary. 2. The Holy Ghost a Person. 3. The New Testament Designating Terms. 4. The Scriptural View. 5. The Holy Ghost is God. 6. Blasphemy Against the Holy Ghost. 7. The Triunity of God. 8. The Apostolic Benediction. 9. The Worship of the Holy Ghost. 10. The Dispensations. 11. The First Dispensation. 12. The Second Dispensation. 13. Holiness—Sinning. 14. "The Sin of the World." 15. Final Deliverance from Sin. 16. The Day of the Holy Ghost. 17. Jesus and the Holy Ghost. 18 and 19. The Epoch of the Holy Ghost. 20. The Anointing. 21. The Baptism of the Holy Ghost. 22. The Baptism of Fire. 23. The Two-Fold Experiences of the Holy Ghost. 24. Fellowship of the Holy Ghost. 25. "In the Spirit." 26. Several Scriptural Terms Considered. 27. Pentecost. 28. Inspiration—Prophecy. 29. Spiritual Leading and Teaching. 30. The Gifts of the Spirit. 31. "Praying in the Holy Ghost." 31 and 32. Power.

This book is creating quite a stir in religious circles. The original, bold and convincing manner of presenting the subject, has forced the press to comment upon the book, either adversely or favorably, generally the latter. We give a few OPINIONS:

Bible Standard and Gospel Record: "This book is very compact, scarcely a superfluous sentence in the whole book. The manner of treating the questions involved is both clear and scriptural. .....The effect of the book will be to deepen thought and increase knowledge and, in the end, deepen piety."

Evangelical Messenger: "Brother Thomas K. Doty has written a book which we take pleasure in commending to all devout readers who enjoy all spiritual things. The subject is so important, and the treatment of it so timely, that we may be pardoned for calling attention to it thus prominently. We, at least have been greatly interested, and gratefully acknowledge that we have also been decidedly profited by persuing it .....Brother Doty writes with an incisive pen, in a clear, lucid style, often epigrammatical and with great force. He is evidently deeply impressed with the truth of what he writes and demands the respect even where he does not gain the intellectual assent of his readers." Withal the book is written in a kindly, candid spirit, rather didactic than polermical, and is calculated to help the reader and not to rouse his opposition, as is the case with so many books which have been written upon thic and kindred subjects. The theological views expressed are orthodox, and in some cases the argument is fresh in matter, and certainly fresh in form throughout."

Christian Cynosure: "His book is one of the most excellent, instructive and practical of any that have come to our knowledge. The exposition of the Scriptures concerning the personality and work of the Spirit is very clear, able and comforting. There is much dogmatizing on these topics by Christians who never fully felt the power of the Spirit's work, or are not living in gracious fellowship with him. To all such and to those who have not yet learned what gifts the Lord is waiting to bestow on his people we heartily commend the careful reading of this volume."

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison st., Chicago

RECENT PUBLICATIONS
OF
FLEMING H. REVELL.

Modern Ideas of Evolution.

As related to Revelation and Science. By Sir William Dawson, L. L. D., F. R. S., etc. 12 mo, cloth, $1.50.

In popular style, a testing by scientific facts and principles, the validity of that multiform and brilliant philosophy of the universe, which has taken so deep a hold of the science and literature of our times.

The New World of Central Africa

By Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness; with a history of the first Christian mission on the Congo. Maps, Portraits and numerous engravings. 537 pages, 12 mo, $2.00.

This comprehensive volume is as fascinating as the most entertaining romance. Its vivid portrayal of the dark side of African history makes one's blood tingle, while its earnest appeals create an inspiring sympathy with the effort to evangelize its teeming millions.

Power From on High.

By Rev. B. Fay Mills. White vellum paper, 20 cents.

This little work, revised from stenographic notes of Mr. Mills' address before the National Convention of the Y. P. S. C. E., is exceedingly effective.

Matthew Henry's Commentary.

An entirely new large type edition of this inimitable Commentary, in six large 8vo. volumes, fine cloth, $15.00; or, in half Morocco, $18.00.

"Biblical students who are most familiar with the very best commentaries of this generation are most able to appreciate the unfading freshness, the clear analysis, the spiritual force, the quaint humor, and the evangelical richness of Matthew Henry's Exposition of the Old and New Testaments."—New York Observer

"First among the mighty for general usefulness we are bound to mention the man whose name is a household word—MATTHEW HENRY. He is the most pious and pithy, sound and sensible, suggestive and sober, terse and trust worthy."—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

The Present Tenses of the Blessed Life.

By Rev. F. B. Meyer. 32 mo, 50 cents.

"It is sufficient to say its one direct aim is the present enjoyment of the precious promises. Mr. Meyer's earnest and persuasive teaching in this direction is admirably condensed in these brief chapters."

BY THE SAME AUTHOR:

Christian Living. Cloth, 32 mo, 50 cents.

"A more suggestive and helpful volume it would not be easy to name."—Christian Leader.

The Shepherd Psalm. Cloth, 32 mo, 50c.

"This is a gem."—Illustrated Christian Weekly
"It is a little book which hundreds of devout hearts will enjoy."—Congregationalist.

Power From on High.

By Rev. B. Fay Mills. White vellum paper, 20 cents.

This little work, revised from stenographic notes of Mr. Mills' address before the National Convention of the Y. P. S. C. E., is exceedingly effective.

OTHER WORKS BY C. H. SPURGEON:

Feathers for Arrows; Or, Illustrations for Teachers and Preachers. 12 mo, $1.

"This work covers a wide range of subjects. The metaphors are always striking and frequently brilliant, while the truths that they illustrate are such as have always formed the staple of Mr. Spurgeon's discourses. A choicer collection of illustrations we do not know."—Freeman.

Spurgeon's Gems. Being a selection of brilliants from his discourses. 12 mo, $1.

The Golden Alphabet. Being a Devotional Commentary on the One Hundred and Nineteenth Psalm. 12 mo, $1.00.

"Mr. Spurgeon brings out the truths and beauties of this wonderful Psalm so as to set a rich feast before the reader. As a practical commentator on the Psalms, Spurgeon has no equal."—Presbyterian Banner.

"This commentary is written in quite the happiest vein of its popular author, and the devotional spirit throughout is intense and elevating."—Occident.

Gleanings Among the Sheaves. 18 mo, 60c.

All of Grace. An earnest word with those seeking the way of life. 16 mo, paper, 30 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

According to Promise; Or, the Lord's Dealings with His chosen People. 16 mo, paper, 30 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Christmas Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve New Year Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Sermons on the Resurrection. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth. 50 cents.

"Preachers may get aid in preparing Easter or funeral sermons from this volume. Good to present to those who have lost loved ones."—National Baptist.

Twelve Striking Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Soul-Winning Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Selected by Mr. Spurgeon as the twelve sermons under which there has been the most marked and permanent success.

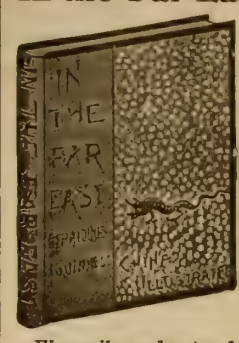
NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

The New World of Central Africa.

By Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness, with a history of the first Christian mission on the Congo. 12mo., 530 pages with maps, portraits and numerous illustrations.$2.00

"A conscientious piece of work, and gives a very clear account of what has been done by the Protestant missions to evangelize the barbarous races of Central Africa. • • • He who wants to know what missionary effort means in these days may well learn from this volume. • • • The reader who goes carefully through will have a good bird's eye view of recent events in Africa, with all the results of modern travel. • • • The work contains solid information of use to all who are interested in the future of this wonderful country. The many illustrations throw light upon savage customs and costumes."—Graphic.

In the Far East.

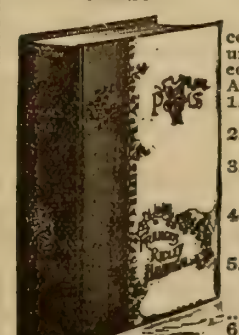


Letters from China by Geraldine Guinness, edited by her sister, with introduction by Rev. J. Hudson Taylor. Very fully illustrated. Quarto cloth, ...$1.50

This book was scarcely written—it was lived; for the breath of life is in it from cover to cover. • • • We have never read so wonderful an account of successful missionary effort.—Presbyterian

We easily understand how this edition is the fifteenth thousand. It is a very remarkable book.—The Golden Rule.

Frances Ridley Havergall's Poems.



Author's edition complete. The only unabridged authorized edition published in America.

1. 12mo., 880 pages, cloth, beveled....2.00
2. Beveled boards, full gilt.....2.50
3. Half white vellum, gilt top, uncutedges, ...2.50
4. French morocco padded, roll red under gold edges...4.00
5. Persian calf, padded and emoossed, gilt roll and r. g. 5.00
6. Crushed levant, elegant.....6.00
7. Full German calf, padded, elegant, gilt, rd.cors.....7.50

Miss Havergall stands without peer in the English language in the department of religious poetry.

"The book in paper and binding is all that could be desired."—Publishers' Weekly.

Small Books by Miss Havergall.

Bound in elegant illuminated board covers.

Kept for the Master's Use. 80

My King; Daily Thoughts for the Children.....50

Works of Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

Sermon Notes. Covering all the Bible from Genesis to Revelation. 4 vols.....4.00
Feathers for Arrows. A volume of Choice Extracts, 12mo., cloth.....1.00
Twelve Striking Sermons..... 50
Twelve Soul Winning Sermons, ... 50
Twelve Sermons on the Resurrection 50
Twelve New Year Sermons..... 50
Twelve Christmas Sermons..... 50

Notes by C. H. M.

On Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy.

Mr. D. L. Moody says of these books: "They have been to me a very key to the Scriptures."

Deuteronomy is issued in two volumes, the others complete in one volume each.

Separate volumes may be had if desired.

The complete set in six volumes, covering over 2,300 pages, is offered at the reduced price of 75c per vol. or $4.50 per set

A. L. O. E. Intermediate Library.

Selected from the numerous productions of this world-renowned writer as being those of rare merit. 12 vols., 12mo., cloth elegant, each 75c; set.....9.00

An Eden in England.	Life in Eagle's Nest.
Ned Franks.	White Bear's Den.
Sheer Off.	Fairy Spider's Web.
Braid of Chords.	Lake in the Woods.
Silver Keys.	Seven Perils Passed.
Grace Vernon.	Hartley Brothers.

The Jessica Series. By Hesba Stretton. 6 vols., handsome bindings, cloth 50c each, or per set 2.10

Jessica's First Prayer.	Friends till Death.
No Place Like Home.	A Miserable Christmas
Under the Old Roof.	A Night and a Day.

A. L. O. E. Junior Library. Adapted to the young folks. 7 vols., 12mo., cloth each 60c; the set. 4 20

Claremont Tales.	A Wreath of Smoke.
Christian Conquests.	Pomegranates from Punjab.
Tales Illustrative of Parables.	Little Bullets from Batala.
The Battle of Life.

The Hesba Stretton Series. 8 vols., elegant cloth bound, per set.....4.80

Cassy.	King's Servant.
Lost Gip.	Alone in London.
Max Kromer.	Little Meg's Children
Storm of Life	Crew of the Dolphin.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Royal Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength. — Latest United States Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO.,
106 Wall St., N. Y.

NEWS OF THE WEEK (Continued from 13th page).

V. Rochon, Norway, Mich., was called away on a false telegram and his safe robbed of $5,700 in his absence.

Secretary Gresham has received advices from Minister Willis that the provisional Hawaiian government will resist its overthrow.

At Deadwood, S. D., Joseph Thas killed his wife, who had left him, and two other persons, then took his own life.

Edgewood Female Seminary, near Madison, Wis., was burned. Maggie Stack and Margia Rice were suffocated in bed.

Lillian Russell's marriage to Edward Solomon was annulled in New York and she was given custody of their 7-year-old child.

Investigation into the affairs of the suspended Indianapolis National Bank was begun by the federal grand jury.

By the shutting down of the iron mines in the Gogebic range 20,000 persons have been reduced to starvation.

The National Plate Glass Company has gone to pieces. It was one of the most formidable trusts in the country.

Life-saving service reports show, with one exception, the assistance for the year was the greatest given.

A balance of trade of $36,000,000 in favor of the United States is shown by the October report.

Walter S. Bridges and Harry M. Westfall, of Illinois, were appointed special pension examiners.

Thousands of World's Fair visitors are said to have been swindled by fly-by-night ticket scalpers.

Judge Shaw, of Peoria, Ill., decided that bondholders of a corporation cannot elect a board of directors.

Executive board of the Knights of Labor is accused of misapplying $30,000 by Secretary-Treasurer Hayes.

In an unofficial trial off Boston, the new cruiser Columbia made the unprecedented speed of 22.87 knots an hour.

Without waiting for a caucus approval the ways and means committee will make public the new tariff bill.

In the presence of many visitors the addition to the Illinois agricultural and manual training school was dedicated.

To aid the unemployed the Illinois Federation of Labor, at Galesburg, urged the pushing of all public improvements.

In connection with Lehigh and Reading the Grand Trunk will inaugurate a Chicago-New York fast train service.

Bishop Spalding, of the Peoria (Ill.) diocese, has started for Rome, where he will remain for a year.

The Grand Trunk was exonerated and Conductor Scott and Engineer Woolley blamed by the Battle Creek wreck jury.

Satisfactory agreement has been reached and the Mitchell bank at Milwaukee, Wis., will resume business.

Women white caps of Osceola, Neb., who flogged several girls three weeks ago, were fined for unlawful assembly.

Masked men took D. T. Nelson, Negro murderer, from the Varner (Ark.) jail, riddled him with bullets and burned his body.

Rev. Dr. Charles F. Deems died in New York.

Mexican revolutionists attacked Las Poloma, sacking the custom-house.

All the trainmen of the Lehigh Valley road are out on a strike.

Mormons of the United States are arranging for the purchase of 3,000,000 acres of land in Chihuahua, Mexico.

A cigar box containing $60,000 was stolen from a clerk of the national bank in the City of Mexico.

Two attempts to burn a church in Toledo, Ohio, are laid at the door of the A. P. A.s by the Catholics.

Professor Elihu Thompson holds lightning is originated by the action of the sun on the clouds.

Test of electricity as a motive power for canal boats was made at Brighton, N. Y., and proved a success.

Organist Porter and Pastor North, of a Buffalo, N. Y., Episcopal church, had a fight. The preacher was whipped.

According to the leading agencies business is steadily gaining. Industries show an improvement.

FOREIGN.

Premier Giollitti, of Italy, denies that affairs of the country or brigandage in Sicily are as bad as represented.

Anarchists at Barcelona, Spain, are still active. An attempt was made to throw a bomb at the troops.

Spanish cruisers threw powerful searchlights around Melilla and cannonaded the Moors, doing great execution.

Twenty-one persons were killed and many injured as the result of an explosion in a chemist's shop in Brest-Litovsk, Poland.

Eugene Turpin, the discoverer of melinite, has invented a machine to combat the effects of tornadoes and cyclones.

In opening the German reichstag Emperor William appealed for funds to carry out the provisions of the army bill.

Efforts to establish the old republican union in France are being made by several parliamentarians.

Robert Grant, United States consul to Desterro, has been arrested by Brazilian revolutionists and imprisoned on a warship.

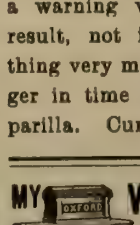
Affairs of Overend, Gurney & Co , a London banking firm which failed in 1866 for £11,000,000, have finally been settled.

Ex-minister Crispi, of Italy, thinks the peace of Europe is compromised by the alliance of France and Russia.

After four months' suffering the English coal miners are to resume work at the old wages.

Admiral Mello has hoisted the imperial flag and declared for Count d'En's son as emperor of Brazil.

The smallest "cat-boil" is large enough to show that the blood needs purifying—a warning which, if unheeded, may result, not in more boils, but in something very much worse. Avert the danger in time by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Cured others, will cure you.



MY WIFE CANNOT SEE HOW YOU DO IT AND PAY FREIGHT.
$10.50 Buy the Oxford Improved SINGER Sewing Machine, with a complete set of attachments and guaranteed for 10 years Shipped anywhere on 30 days' trial. No money required in advance. 75,000 now in use. World's Fair Medal awarded. Buy from factory, save dealers' and agents' profit. Write to-day for our LARGE FREE CATALOGUE. Oxford Mfg. Co., 342 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

PROPHECY:
A STUDY.

BY REV. S. F. PORTER,

A Study of Christ's Comings.

Paper Cover, 100 Pages.
Single copies, postpaid..... 25 cents.
Per 100 copies, postpaid..... $20.00.

For sale by the
NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison st., Chicago

Anæmia
is depleted blood. The blood lacks richness and the cheeks lack color. The whole system lacks the nourishment of the Cream of Cod-liver Oil. This nourishing, palatable food restores a healthy color, enriches the blood and tones up the whole system. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.

Scott's Emulsion

Don't be deceived by Substitutes!
Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All druggists.

THE GUIDING HAND;
—OR—
PROVIDENTIAL DIRECTION.
-——)o(——
Illustrated by authentic instances of Relief and Deliverance in times of Trouble and Perplexity; of Direction through Dreams and Mental Impressions, and of Providential Guidance, resulting in Conversion. Recorded and collected by
H. L. HASTINGS,
(Editor of "The Christian.")

This striking work is divided into three parts as follows:
(1) Providences in Relief and Deliverances. (2) Dreams and Impressions. (3) Conversions.
The "Guiding Hand" contains nearly 400 pages. It is really a handsome book, printed on heavy book paper, from large open type, good for the eyes, and artistically and durably bound in fine cloth, with fancy panels. Price, $1.50.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chica

A BOOKLET.
107 pages, 5x7 inches.
Paper Cover, Postpaid, 15 Cents
—o:o—
The following addresses form part of the contents of this booklet:

THE MARTYR'S OWN MONUMENT, by Rev. J. E. Roy, D. D., Western Secretary of American Missionary Association.

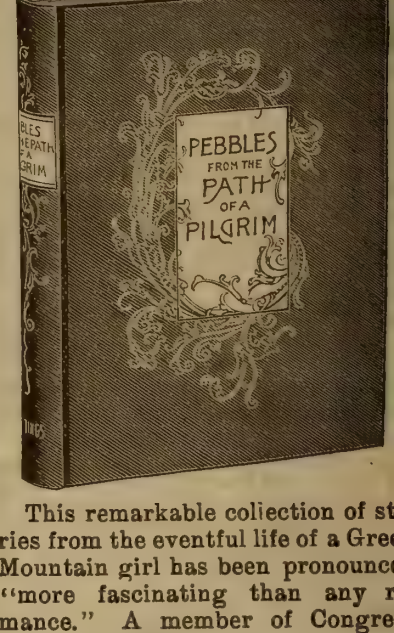
CHRISTIAN POLITICS, by Rev. J. Blanchard, late President Wheaton College, and Editor Christian Cynosure.

THE MYSTERIOUS MACHINE: was it Lawnmower, Town-pump, Balloon, Wheel-barrow,—or what? by Prof. E. D. Bailey of the Civil Service Dept. U. S. Government.

This booklet includes other interesting matter connected with the unveiling of the Morgan monument at Batavia, N. Y. Address

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

Pebbles from the Path of a Pilgrim.
—BY—
MRS. H. L. HASTINGS.

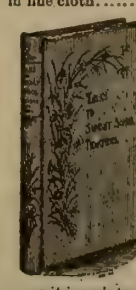


This remarkable collection of st ries from the eventful life of a Gre Mountain girl has been pronounc "more fascinating than any r mance." A member of Congre writes: "'Pebbles' has been re by me with great interest. The i troductory chapter has followed n into dreams. My copy is read pieces by the family, and borrow to death by the neighbors." A editor says: "Surely the faith th 'obtained promises, wrought righ eousness, and stopped the mouth lions,' must have been given large measure to the writer of th truly remarkable book....No fa ly library should be without it "'Pebbles,'" says the Christi Cynosure, "is such a book as Chr tian parents are always glad to p on their center-tables."

"Pebbles from the Path of a P grim" is a large and beautiful bo of over 300 pages, printed on hea book paper, from clear open typ and is profusely illustrated. It artistically bound in handso cloth, with fancy panels, and spe ially attractive side and back cov designs. Price, $1.50.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicag

Talks to Sunday-School Teachers.
By Rev. J. G. Terrill. 12mo, 200 pages, bound in fine cloth.....



This book is the result of twen five years of experience in Sund school and treats of: 1. The Su day-school organization and ma agement. 2. Methods of wo 3. Studies in human nature. Rules of Interpretation as appli to the Bible. 5. Illustrative ex cises for primary classes and ch dren's meetings. In the style presentation, subject matter a price of the book, the wants the officers and teachers of t ordinary Sunday-school are ke in view.

S. S. Times:—A very comp hensive book. N. Y. Independen —A sensible manual for the av age Sunday-school teacher. Eva Mess.:—We have been very fav ably impressed with the book, b cause it is so intensely practical. The subject is a tomatically treated, and leaders of teacher's meetin can not do better than adopt it as a text-book and d vote half an hour of each session to teaching the theo and practice of teaching as here systematized. Chr tian at Work:—Any school that will adopt this bo generally and carry forward its work or doctrines he laid down will not be long in developing into a mod school and reaping the harvest of a rich fruita Herald and Presbyter:—These Talks are all attrac in their profitableness and excellence. Buffalo Adv cate:—A plain, practical, common sense book on a ve important subject. The author has had wide expe ence in this field of work. He knows thoroughly t ground over which he would lead others, and possess the happy faculty of packing a great deal of valuab information as to matter and manner of teaching in this little hand-book. We commend it to the attentio of all Sunday-school workers. Religious Telescope: We are pleased with the plan and treatment of the su jects throughout, and are sure that the diligent Su day-school teacher who longs for more thorough equi ment will find in this book a helper of great valu Illustrated Christian Weekly:—The author talks fro observation and experience, and talks well.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicag

Our High Grade List a Bargain Book sent to any dress on receipt of a 2-c stamp.
LORD & THOMAS,
NEWSPAPER ADVERTISI
45 RANDOLPH STREET,
CHICAGO.

Christian Cynosure.

"IN SECRET HAVE I SAID NOTHING."—Jesus Christ.

VOL. XXVI., No. 12 CHICAGO, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1893. WHOLE No. 1,231.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION,

221 West Madison Street, Chicago.

SUBSCRIPTIONS PER YEAR..... $2.00
IF PAID STRICTLY IN ADVANCE..... 1.50

☞No paper discontinued unless so requested by the subscriber, and all arrearages paid.☜

Address all letters for publication to EDITOR CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE, CHICAGO. Writers' names must always be given. No manuscript returned unless requested and postage enclosed.

Make all drafts and money orders payable to the Treasurer, W. I. PHILLIPS, 221 WEST MADISON STREET, CHICAGO. When possible make remittances by express money order. Currency by unregistered letter at sender's risk. When writing to change address on Cynosure list always give the former address.

[Entered at the Postoffice, Chicago, Ill. as Second Class Matter.]

CONTENTS.

EDITORIAL:
Notes and Comments.... 1
National Reform and Secret Societies..... 8
The Secret Lodge System and Civil Government. 8
The Foe of Liberty and Law.. 8
CONTRIBUTIONS:
How to Save Young Men from the Lodge..... 1
SELECTED:
American Protective Association 3
Masonic Misrepresentation..... 3
Y. M. C. A. World's Conference—1894..... 3
NEW ENGLAND LETTER..... 4
WASHINGTON LETTER..... 4
CORRESPONDENCE:
Notes by the way; Words of Cheer 5,6
LODGE NOTES..... 7
AGENTS AND LECTURERS.... 7
THE Y. M. C. A..... 7
REFORM NEWS:
The Eastern Agent in Pennsylvania; The College Agent in Kansas; From the Field on the Pacific Coast; Summary of the New York Work; Rev. J. P. Stoddard at the New York Convention; The Eastern Secretary at the National Reform Convention 5,9
THE HOME.....10
TEMPERANCE.....11
BIBLE LESSON.....12
LITERATURE.....12
RELIGIOUS NEWS.....12
Thanksgiving Proclamation.....13
NEWS OF THE WEEK... ...13
Secret Societies Condemned.....13
MARKETS 13
HOME AND HEALTH.....14
FARM NOTES.....15

NEW ENGLAND CONVENTION—OFFICIAL CALL.

The annual meeting of the NEW ENGLAND CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION will be held in the Bromfield Street M. E. Church, Boston, Mass., Dec. 20, 21st. Opening session at 2 P. M. Further notice will appear next week. Let all the friends prepare to attend. J. M. FOSTER, President.

It is announced that the Trades and Labor Assembly at St. Louis is threatened with early dissolution, owing to factional disturbances between conservatives and liberals. "The chasm is widening," says a telegram, "and a divided house is almost certain."

The next Cynosure will contain a paper of more than ordinary interest to the friends of our reform, relating, as it does, to the Masonic experiences of Rev. Stephen Merritt of New York, and his salvation from the lodge after he had taken 138 degrees in Freemasonry. It is the substance of the two addresses delivered by Mr. Merritt at the recent New York State Convention in Utica.

Four hundred Masons of the 32d degree partook of the fraternity banquet in the Chicago Temple, forming a part of the thirty-eighth annual reunion and reception of "the postulates of the Sublime Princes of the Royal Secret." Previous to the banquet, Oriental Consistory invested fifteen "postulants" with the following blasphemous and hollow, high-sounding degrees of the Scottish Rite:—Ninteenth, Grand Pontiff; twentieth, Master ad Vitam; twenty-first, Patriarch Noachite; twenty-second, Prince of Libanus; twenty-third, Chief of the Tabernacle; twenty-fourth, Prince of the Tabernacle; twenty-fifth, Knight of the Brazen Serpent; twenty-sixth, Prince of Mercy; twenty-seventh, Commander of the Temple; twenty-eighth, Knight of the Sun; twenty-ninth, Knight of St. Andrew; thirtieth, Grand Elect Knight Kadosh; thirty-first, Grand Inquisitor; thirty-second, Sublime Prince of the Royal Secret. Any person desiring to learn the character and ritual of these degrees, and of the eighteen which precede them, can obtain the complete work at this office for $2 00.

A proposition, originating with the United States authorities, to restore the recently deposed Queen of Hawaii to her throne, naturally met with determined opposition from the civil government of the island, which was instrumental in her removal from power. Since the protest of this party reached Washington, the effort to reenthrone the queen has been (so far as the public is permitted to know) suspended; but an exposition of the situation is promised in the President's forthcoming message to Congress. Until then comment is unnecessary.

At the Standard theater, in this city, under Methodist auspices, an evangelical movement was inaugurated last Sunday, looking to the establishment of a center of moral reform, by utilizing all forms of applied Christianity and bringing all Christian workers into one brotherhood, including, also, those who will give of their substance for its support. It is designed to organize, in this "forward movement" a creche, a kindergarten, an industrial school, a night school, medical attendance, a reading room, lectures, a free dispensary, etc., for the moral and physical needs of the churchless masses. Drs. Gray and Hitchcock are prominent in the proposed reform.

A friend who has opportunities for personally knowing is authority for the statement that the saloon business in the heart of Chicago is just now very dull, and there is a general complaint of want of patronage at these resorts. The financial situation, the lack of employment, and the great amount of destitution among the poorer classes, have wrought dullness in various kinds of traffic, and that in whisky and beer feels the pressure. So far as the saloons are concerned, the situation is cause for rejoicing; but there never were grander opportunities for the exercise of genuine benevolence, for the sufferers are numerous and at our very doors.

A union of chiefs of police of various nations is in progress of formation, with the specific object of stamping out anarchy, which is becoming a dangerous pest in Europe, and threatens to increase unless vigorous measures for its suppression are taken. American cities are to be included in this union. It is not a governmental measure, but a police alliance to promote the best plans for keeping the anarchists of the world under surveillance and mar their nefarious schemes before they can become effective. It promises well. The anarchists are the natural enemy of civilization, and all civilized people are interested in thwarting them.

Contrasts are excellent object lessons. Here is the great Masonic Temple, corner of Randolph and State streets, about to open a new and gorgeous dram-shop. At the West Side Masonic Temple, corner of Halstead and West Randolph streets, the old-established saloon is putting out new attractions to entice the dissipated and unwary. At 100 Van Buren street (Col. George Clarke's mission), the houseless and hungry victims of poverty, for two cents a day are furnished two meals of good soup and bread, and its doors are open day and night to offer free shelter to those who have no money and no other homes. At the same place a benevolent medical mission furnishes for the poor a free dispensary, free baths, a free laundry and free nursing for the sick. This is Christian charity, which, contrasted with Masonic "benevolence," is a far nobler sentiment, and finds divine approval.

The fifth anniversary of the American Sabbath Union will be held in Rev. Dr. D. J. Burrell's church, New York City, December 10–12. The anniversary sermon will be preached by Dr. Burrell on Sunday, December 10th. This is the only National Society in America having for its sole purpose to assist in preserving the Christian Sabbath as a day of rest and worship in the nation. For this purpose it seeks to secure the formation of co-operative Sabbath associations in all the States and Territories of our country; to encourage and aid Sabbath associations already organized; to gather and diffuse information on this subject; to publish Sabbath documents; to use the public press; to cause addresses to be made, and employ such other means as shall be expedient and proper. The office of the union is at 203 Broadway, New York. The Rev. J. H. Knowles, D.D., is the general secretary.

The Indian Rights Association at Philadelphia makes a strong plea for the enforcement of the Federal liquor laws as a necessary protection to the 250,000 Indians in the United States. Of these, the association states, 76 per cent are already self-supporting, while many of the tribes are well-to-do and even rich; but numbers of others have only recently begun to advance toward self-support, and their progress is yet slow, and these are in especial need of encouragement and help in some directions, and of restraint in others. The great obstacle to the improvement of the race is the love of ardent spirits and their incapability, when left to themselves, of resisting temptation to drink, and indulgence brings to them, as to others, the most deplorable results. Most of the Indian agents are indifferent to this evil, or loth to take active measures against it; and the association calls upon the people to exercise their influence for its complete suppression.

HOW TO SAVE YOUNG MEN FROM THE LODGE.

[A paper by Rev. C. D. Trumbull, of Morning Sun, Iowa, read at the Iowa State Anti-secrecy Convention, at Hopkinton, November 15, 1893, and requested by the convention for publication.]

The future of the church and of the world depends on the character, the dispositions and the habits of the young. We, who now, so far as human agency is concerned, hold the helm of affairs, must ere long resign it to our children. We may judge, in large measures, as to the course they will pursue in mature years by the courses they pursue now. It is a common saying, "The child is father of the man." The poet has said:

> "Youth what man's age is like to be doth show;
> We may our ends by our beginnings know."

While this is true, we who are parents are largely responsible for what our children shall prove to be, and for their habits of life in after-years. As they are born into our families and grow up in our homes, they are plastic material. True, they come into the world with corrupt natures; yet if we faithfully do our duty by them, wisely and diligently using the divinely-appointed means for their instruction, and looking to God for his blessing, we have the assurance of his Word that they will walk in the right way. He has said: "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it."

The attitude of our young men to the lodge will depend largely on this influence by which they are surrounded, and the training which they receive. As we view the situation at the present time, the prospect of saving the young men of the rising generation from the lodge is far from hopeful. We are confronted by conditions which make the work very difficult to perform.

Condition 1. Secret lodges are very attractive to the average young man. There is a glamour about secret associations which few other associations possess. The bump of curiosity is well developed in most young men. Persuade them that others have a secret, and that they have an enjoyable time in their secret gatherings, and a very large proportion of young men are filled with a strong desire to share the secret and to share the supposed enjoyments of such assemblies. These are some of the baits which the devil puts on his hook to draw young men into the lodge.

Condition 2. Secret societies are very numerous in some communities, and very popular. In such communities most of the professional men—lawyers, doctors, and even the men who stand in the sacred desk to preach to the people—are members of secret lodges. Then most of the business men and of the politicians are members. Thus

"'tis true, 'tis pity,
And pity 'tis 'tis true,"

that many of the most prominent and most popular men of our day belong to one or more secret orders; hence, young men come to think they must be good institutions.

Condition 3. Direct and constant efforts are being made to draw young men into the lodges. They are told that membership in these orders will be of great advantage; that it will be helpful to them socially and politically; in business and in affliction. Thus, direct appeals are made to the principle of selfishness, which lurks in the hearts of most young men, and in this way many are drawn into the lodge.

Condition 4. The majority of the young men of America are out of Christ. I have seen the statement that this is true of 95 per cent of them. I am not able to affirm that this is the case, yet I am satisfied that a large majority are unconverted, and so have no conscientious scruples about entering the lodge.

Such are the conditions which confront us. They are not hopeful so far as the rising generation is concerned; yet they are not hopeless. So long as God the Father continues the God of grace and of love, and God the Son continues the almighty Saviour, and God the Holy Spirit continues to convince men of sin and to renew their hearts, there is hope. The work of saving young men from the lodge is God's, but he has appointed Christians to be the instruments in the work, and especially those among them who believe the secret lodge to be a snare of the devil to lead men to destruction. What shall we as Christians do to save young men from the lodge? We answer:

1. We should do all we can to lead them to the Saviour. As long as the conditions we have mentioned confront us, there will always be large grists for the lodges. If we can change any one of these conditions, we will do something to bring about the desired end. The most important thing of all is to lead the young men to Christ. The young man, or the old man, who has Christ in his heart, has no heart in the secret lodge. The per cent of lodge members who are Christians is very small. I do not say there are no Christians in the lodges. Of the 2,000,000 or more lodge members in the United States, there are no doubt a large number who are also members of churches; but we venture the assertion that if the lodges of the United States were polled, not more than 25 per cent of all would be found to be professing Christians, and that not 25 per cent of these, if active members of the lodge, are also active members of the church. It is a well-known fact that when lodge members of secret orders are converted to Christ they usually withdraw from active membership in the lodge, and many of them withdraw altogether. The sainted Charles G. Finney was a noteworthy example. He had taken three degrees in Masonry before his conversion. Hear what he says as to his subsequent experience:

"Soon after my conversion, the evening came for attendance on the lodge, I went. They, of course, were aware that I had become a Christian, and the master of the lodge called on me to open the lodge with prayer. I did so, and poured out my heart to the Lord for a blessing upon the lodge. I observe that it created a considerable excitement. The evening passed away, and at the close of the lodge I was requested to pray again. I did so, and retired, but much depressed in spirit. I soon found that I was completely converted from Freemasonry to Christ, and that I could have no fellowship with any of the proceedings of the lodge."

I am deeply impressed with the thought that if we would save young men from the lodge our first effort should be to lead them to the Saviour. Do not understand me as teaching that we can do this of ourselves. No man can do this. The apostle Paul could not of himself lead a soul to Christ; neither can Dwight L. Moody. None are more ready to confess this than such men as these. No man can make a Christian. Christians are "God's workmanship, created anew in Christ Jesus." While this is the case, yet we can use the means to lead others to the Saviour. We can present to them the need of salvation; we can point out the plan and the way; we should be diligent and faithful in exhorting, inviting and entreating sinners to come to Christ. Oh! that there were more among us who realize, as Paul did, that we are ambassadors for Christ; as though God did beseech sinners by us to be reconciled to himself; that there were more among us ready to say with the woman of Samaria, "Come and see a man who told me all that ever I did." Brethren, it is all right to talk anti-secrecy to young men who are out of Christ, but our talk will not avail much until they have been led to renounce the world and the flesh, and accept Christ as their Saviour and their Lord.

2. Sound instruction must be given with reference to the lodge. There are many men in secret societies to-day who are there because they never had any sound instruction on this subject. The bright side of the picture was always held before them and they never knew there was a dark side.

Some of them have been taught to take the Word of God as the rule of faith and of practice, yet they have failed to search the Scriptures so as to apply them to the lodge system, and no one has ever pointed out to them the contrariety. They know some church-members who are members of lodges; probably, also, some ministers of of the Gospel; and they have heard some of these laud the secret societies of which they are members, and so conclude they must be good institutions. Of the real Christians who may be in the lodges, probably nine-tenths are of this class. What these men need is sound instruction on this question. They need to be taught that secret orders are, in principle and practice, anti-scriptural. They need to be taught that the Word of God condemns the practice of secrecy and forbids fellowship with secret orders. They need to be shown the sinfulness of lodge oaths; how that it is wrong to pledge ourselves beforehand to perpetual secrecy as to that of which we have no knowledge whether it is right or wrong; how that it is wrong to pledge ourselves to obedience to unknown commands, or to an unknown code of laws; how that lodge obligations, practically, limit the obligations of the law of God; how that, in some cases, horrible penalties are annexed to the violation of these obligations, penalties which no body of men have a right even to threaten, much less to inflict. They need to be taught that secret orders are made a substitute for the church of Christ; that they have their creeds, and confessions, and religious rites, and teach that by conformity to the teachings of the lodge men make for themselves a sure place in heaven. They need to be taught that the religion of the orders is anti-Christian and idolatrous; that secret orders teach salvation by works and not by faith, through the blood of the Lamb; that they cast Jesus Christ out of the lodge as a sectary. They need to be taught that secret orders are inimical to good government; that they advance their own members to office, so far as they can, regardless of moral or judicial qualifications; that they are sworn to save each other, as far as possible, from the consequences of crime; that sometimes they take the law into their own hands and punish with death those who make known their secrets. There are young men who, converted to Christ and resolved to walk in the light of his Word, when such facts as these are set before them, are ready at once to say: "We will have nothing to do with secret lodges." Such instruction may be given by parents and teachers and by literature on this subject. I may say that it was by instruction given me along this line by parents and religious teachers, and the reading of anti-secrecy literature (I might make special mention of the "History of the Abduction and Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan," read by me when a boy of ten years of age), which led me to take the decided stand I do against secret orders.

Before passing from this point I would mention one thing more which has weight with many in deterring them from entering the lodge; namely this: Membership in secret societies, so far from advancing one's worldly interests, usually entails financial loss. Young men need to be taught that the "benefits," so-called, of lodge membership are a myth; that the returns seldom exceed more than $2 for every $5 paid in. Figures published by the secret orders establish this. For example, I have before me, as I write, a report of a Grand Lodge meeting of Odd-fellows, one of the most benevolent of the secret orders, held in Columbus, Ohio, in 1889, at which it was reported that from 1830 to 1889 there were paid as benefits to members $48,601,862.09; certainly a vast sum of money. The total receipts for the same time were $127,803,298.50. Thus in the Odd-fellow lodges in America the average return in benefits during 59 years was $3 for $7.80 paid in. The Knights of Pythias held a conclave in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1890, at which receipts by subordinate lodges were reported as $261,853 90, and total relief at $57,636.23, or one dollar returned in lodge benefits out of $4 55 paid in. This is in the same line as the testimony of a Mason in Burlington, Iowa, now an aged man. He told me that some time before, his son said to him, "Father, I am thinking of joining the Masons; what do you say about it?" The answer was: "My son, you are of age, and can do as you think best; but let me tell you, it will cost you a good deal, and you will never get anything out of it." There needs to be a great deal of education along all these lines if we would save young men from the lodge. Brethren, our duty is to educate and agitate; educate and agitate; EDUCATE and AGITATE.

3. And lastly, We must pray for the Holy Spirit to accompany our labors, to make them effective. Without this our efforts to lead the youth of the land to Christ, and our efforts to give sound instruction, will be unavailing. This is true of the most gifted and best-qualified servants of Christ, as well as of the most humble. Without the Spirit our labors may be efficient, but they will not be sufficient. The necessity and importance of the Spirit's help is illustrated in Ezekiel's vision of the valley of dry bones. The valley the prophet saw was full of bones, and they were very dry. He was asked: "Son of man, can these bones live?" He answered: "O Lord, thou knowest." The command was given him. "Prophesy to these bones." "He prophesied and there was a shaking among the bones, and bone came to his bone and there was flesh and sinews upon them, but no life in them." This represents the best results of human efforts. God's servants may make sinners tremble by their presentations of truth and arraignment of evil; members of secret lodges have trembled when the truth concerning them has been publicly proclaimed, and yet they have continued in the same secret ways. Some have come out; and what brought them to renounce the hidden works of darkness? Look again at the sacred record. Jehovah said to Ezekiel: "Prophesy to the four winds; come from the four winds, O breath; breathe upon these slain that they may live." Ezekiel prophesied and they arose and stood up an exceeding great army. The Holy Spirit quickens to newness of life. He makes men willing in the day of his power; willing to enlist under the Captain of Salvation, to forsake the service of the prince of darkness, and to put on the armor of light, even the whole armor of God. He leads men to come out of the world and of worldly associations and to consecrate themselves wholly to God and to his service.

Brethren, that which is needed in our work to make it successful in saving young men, and all men, from the lodge is a pentecostal outpouring of the Holy Spirit on the workers and on all flesh. Some of us have been laboring long years in the work, and we see little results of our labors. Indeed, in the country at large, lodges are increasing in numbers and in strength. We have to lament that, Isaiah-like, we have stretched out our "hands all the day long to a disobedient and gainsaying people." Our case may be illustrated by the fable of the bellows and the hearth. "The bellows was heard one day to heave a deep sigh. 'What is the matter, friend bellows,' said the hearth, 'that you sigh so heavily?' The bellows answered, 'I have been blowing and blowing, but I cannot make any flame, and I am discouraged.' 'Perhaps,' said the hearth, 'there is something wanting; simple blowing may else labor unsuccessfully to make a fire.'" We all know what was wanting,—a coal of fire. What we want in our anti-secrecy work is more of the fire of the Holy Spirit in our hearts, and in the hearts of those whom we seek to instruct with reference to these things. When the Spirit is poured out on all flesh, so that we shall speak as we ought to speak, and our young men shall hear as they ought to hear, we shall have no trouble in saving them from the lodge; then they will have no desire to enter secret orders; rather they, will be ready to testify against them.

AMERICAN PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION.

ITS INITIATION CEREMONIES, OBLIGATIONS AND PRINCIPLES.

[From the St. Paul (Minn.) Globe of November 6, 1893.]

The American Protective Association was organized in St. Paul about seven months ago by Thomas Clark, of Duluth, who is the State secretary. Its real purpose is to protect, uphold and employ none but Protestants, and under no circumstances to employ or trade with Roman Catholics where it is possible to do so with Protestants. To become a member of this association you are first approached by a member, who talks very cautiously to you as to your belief, your politics, etc. He then brings about the subject as to how you feel towards Roman Catholics, etc., and if your answers are favorable to the views of the association, he then advises you to submit your name as a candidate for membership. You are then given a yellow card on which to sign your name, also giving your age, residence, occupation, etc. This application must be indorsed by two members of the association in addition to the party who proposes you. This card is known as the "yellow card." This application is then presented to the lodge in open meeting, when a committee is appointed to investigate your character and standing, and your feelings towards Roman Catholics. If it is found that you are too anxious to become a member of the association a suspicion attaches to you, and you are invariably blackballed and kept out; or if they find that any of your associates, relatives or friends are Catholics, you are blackballed; while, on the other hand, if they find that you are opposed to Catholics, and do not associate or mingle with them, and do not trade with them, you are admitted. To make these inquiries may take three or four weeks and sometimes two months, as they are very careful as to who comes into the association, as they believe that there are a great many people who try to get into the association as spies so as to get all the information that can be gathered at their meetings. After you are elected a member you are notified by the member who proposed you to present yourself at a given place on a certain night for initiation. You receive this information on a white card.

THE INITIATION.

Arriving at the place designated for the initiation you are met and detained in the ante-room by the sentinel who guards the outer door. The initiation is then conducted as follows:

President—Sergeant-at-arms, you will ascertain if there are any candidates in waiting.

(Sergeant-at-arms retires with blank scrolls. A table with pen and ink having been already prepared, he will require all applicants to fill in their scrolls and affix their signatures; sergeant-at-arms collects the same and returns to the audience chamber, advances to the altar, and says:)

Sergeant-at-arms—Mr. President, I find —— waiting in in the outer chamber, while I come to you and the friends bearing these scrolls as professions of their faith and nobleness, which, with your permission, I will place in the hands of the council, that final action thereon may be taken.

President—Sergeant-at-arms, it is so ordered.

(After scrolls have been reported on by committee, or otherwise scrutinized.)

President—Sergeant-at-arms, you will now retire and test the fidelity and sincerity of these applicants and report to this council for final instruction.

(Sergeant-at-arms retires, causes applicants to arise and place their right hands over their hearts.)

THE FIRST OATH.

Sergeant-at-arms—You will say I, pronounce your several names in full, and repeat:

I, ———, do most solemnly and sincerely promise and swear, without any mental reservation or evasion, that I will not reveal anything that I have seen or heard to any person; that I will not disclose or in any manner make known the name, person or individuality of any member of this order, either by word, sign or otherwise, whereby the membership of this order may become known to any person not a member of the same, so help me God.

(Applicants are then directed to wait until their vow has been reported and the will of the council ascertained. The sergeant-at-arms enters the audience chamber in the usual manner and advances to the altar.)

Sergeant-at-arms—Mr. President, the test has been applied. I most heartily recommend them to your further consideration.

President—Mr. Vice-president and friends, you have heard the report of our sergeant-at-arms; are you still willing these applicants shall be received? If not, you will now make it known. Silence prevailing, I take it as your desire that they come among us. Sergeant-at-arms, conduct them hither, carefully guarded and clothed, according to our law.

(Sergeant-at-arms retires. Applicants are hoodwinked and conducted to the door by the sergeant-at-arms, who knock ‡‡ ‡‡. Guard answers ‡‡ ‡‡ knocks and opens the wicket.)

Guard—Who approaches this council chamber where justice presides and free men meet for deliberation?

Sergeant-at-arms—True men, who have thus far stood the test, and who are willing to bind themselves still closer with us for the accomplishment of the purposes of our order.

Guard—Do you vouch for them?

Sergeant-at-arms—I do.

Guard—Advance.

(Guard receives the —— from the sergeant-at-arms, and opens wide the door and says:)

Guard—Enter. You have thus far met all the requirements of the order. (Applicants are conducted to and placed in line in front of the president.)

President—Sergeant-at-arms, who have you so fearlessly brought among us to disturb our deliberations? Who are these men?

Sergeant-at-arms—Mr. President, I come believing, trusting and hoping, not knowing, but I most honestly believe, as I have asserted heretofore, that these are some of God's noblemen—honest, conscientious men, who love their fellow-men, who are willing to assist a fallen friend; I mean men in whom you can confide, and in whom you can place the most implicit confidence; I mean such men as will stop and stoop to assist and counsel a fellow-man in distress, and such I believe these persons to be.

President—Sergent-at-arms, I declare you were over-bold to bring these persons here, and they were over-confident to submit so meekly to your guidance. Have a care. You are well aware of the dangers which surround us. Do you know these men sufficiently well to continue this journey and assume the responsibility of so grave a charge.

Sergeant-at-arms—They have been well vouched for and have passed the secret ballot clear. I am willing to assume the responsibility. "As I would that they should do unto me, even so do I unto them." And in my firm belief in their integrity do I again recommend them to your consideration.

President—'Tis well. We accept your plea in their behalf, and vile, indeed, would they be who would betray such confidence as yours. Bring them hither. (To candidates: Place your left hand in that of your guide, your right hand upon your heart, say I, pronounce your name, and repeat after me.)

THE SECOND OATH.

I, ——, do most solemnly promise and vow that I will always deal justly with my fellow-man; that I will measure out to him his equal and just portion of that which belongs to him of right to demand of me; that in the relations of life I will be just and equitable as an employer, or employe, or as a counsel, or as a judge, or as a juryman, or in the capacity of an arbitrator; in any and all of these will I be faithful and do and perform to the utmost of my ability, so help me most merciful God, and may he measure out to me as I do to others, with his keenest vengeance, should I knowingly or wittingly violate this, my solemn obligation. Amen.

President—My friends, this is the department of justice. If there is anything in the proceedings of this order thus far which you do not conscientiously approve, you are at liberty to retire. We feel safe to trust you, for you are surrounded by whom you know not, those who will always be present with you and you know it not; therefore, if you desire, you are at liberty to go. What will you do? Is it your desire to advance? (Candidates answer.) 'Tis well. Go with the sergeant-at-arms to the next department where more and severe pledges will be required of you.

(Candidates are conducted to the secretary of state.)

Sergeant-at-arms—Mr. Secretary of State, I am directed to present these aspirants to you for further consideration and trial.

Secretary of State—My friends, I bid you welcome. But before you can be admitted, I must require you to assume a solemn and binding obligation, such as we have all taken. You will say I, pronounce your name in full, and remain silent.

(To be concluded.)

MASONIC MISREPRESENTATION.

The editor of the Cynosure sends us a clipping from The American Tyler of Detroit, in which we find the following statement:

"Jonathan Blanchard, late president of Oberlin College, was one of these stars with a lost orbit. He was a prominent Mason in his day, but cast aside all moral obligation and became the Anti-masonic apostle of America. The evil he did still lives and finds a weak echo in the so-called Christian Cynosure, of Chicago—a paper he founded, and that we firmly believe gives him but little consolation in his spirit home to-day. For years this apostate Mason labored to cast down the stones he had formerly wrought to put in place; and we fail to see with Judge Parvin, of Iowa, how the mischief wrought by Blanchard brought good to Masonry, although Drummond, of Maine, also thinks so. Their work for good or evil follows them in their memory, but also remains behind them to work evil when the active mind has ceased its clandestine labor."

This extract is a fair sample of the intelligence, truthfulness and critical accuracy of our Masonic brethren. Of course all reasonably well-informed people know that President Jonathan Blanchard was never at tha head of Oberlin College, that he was never a member of any secret society, and that consequently he never labored to pull down what he had first striven to build up. We infer that Judge Parvin, of Iowa, and Mr. Drummond, of Maine, think that his labors were beneficial to the Masonic organization. They certainly were intended to be beneficial to the men connected with the organization and to all other men; for if there ever were human works wrought with a single-hearted desire to do good, they were the life-long, self-sacrificing labors of President Jonathan Blanchard against the secret lodges. How much of good they accomplished is not known to us. It is, however, well known to the Master whom we seek to serve, and we are well content to await his verdict upon them.—Wheaton College Record.

Y. M. C. A. WORLD'S CONFERENCE—1894.

From June 1 to 7 next summer the World's Conference of associations will be in session in London, Eng. The International Committee has again requested State Secretary Hall of New York to take charge of arrangements for an excursion party to London on that occasion. Any association man intending to go abroad next year, or knowing of any association man purposing to go, should send the names to Rev. Geo. A. Hall, 40 E. Twenty-third Street, New York City, and information in regard to the excursion will be sent to the addresses of such names as soon as published.

NEW ENGLAND LETTER.

Parkman, the historian.—Darkest Boston.—An opportunity which the lodges failed to grasp.—Dr. Miner for Mayor.—A Puritan politician.—Mushrooms and beer.—The Keeley Institute.

The familiar saying that "genius is the capacity for hard work," has received another illustration in the life, just ended, of Francis Parkman—Prescott, Motley, Bancroft, Palfrey, Parkman, New England may well be proud of such an array. Both Motley and Parkman wrote unsuccessful novels till they learned that their strength lay in making the past more full of living interest than any page of fiction; all had the sturdy patriotism which characterizes New England's true-born sons, and all had in large measure this "capacity for hard work." Nearly fifty years ago Parkman projected the series of histories which have made him famous; and in order to understand his subject thoroughly, and study savage character by the most intimate association, he lived for weeks among the Indians, of what was then the Far West, laying there the foundations for that weak health and poor eyesight which followed him all through his after-life, so that while not actually blind, like Prescott, he always had to employ an amanuensis. That he left no paper, letter or journal unread which might help him to gain more exact information in even the smallest details, and that his copies of these documents make scores of volumes, give one some idea of the enormous labor which the preparation of his great works cost him.

That was a fascinating period in American history which he has preserved to us with such dramatic action, such life-like coloring, that the actors seem to move and play their parts before us. The era of the commonplace had not then dispelled all the poetry and the grammar of a new age and a new country, when an Indian raid was always a grim possibility; and in a sense most uncomfortably literal, when it might mean the tomahawk, or the stake; no one knew what a day might bring forth. Certainly our ancestors may be pardoned if they took their pleasures seriously—though we really have no proof that they did—under such circumstances.

There is a "Darkest Boston," as well as Darkest London or New York, as one must painfully realize who listens to the stories of workers among its haunts of vice. Recently I heard Miss Lewis, of the Meonah Home, give some details of Christian labor among the unfortunate inmates in these dens of infamy. From twenty to thirty thousand girls and women in the Pilgrim city abandoned to a career of sin! One's eye easily glides over the figures, but try to realize for a moment what they mean. The Home is located at 85 Staniford street, which was formerly a very different locality—Dr. Kirk once resided there; —now it is like a light-house in the moral darkness around it, and is one of the most Christ-like and deserving of Boston's numerous charities, combining as it does preventive with rescue work.

The papers are reporting many sad cases of destitution, the result of the financial stringency. In Waltham, Mass., a Swedish family was found which had been without fuel or food for several days, the husband and father having gone to New Hampshire to search for work. "The church people will look after them in the future, and see that they do not suffer any more hardships," is the way in which the newspaper account ends. But where are the lodges, with all their "benevolence" and "brotherly love," that according to their admirers and apologists "do so much more good than the churches?" There is not a more lodge-ridden city in the whole State than Waltham—and I doubt if any in New England can break its record in this regard; yet with this grand opportunity before them, the lodges all hang modestly back, and allow it to be seized "by the church people." A time like the present, when so many poor are out of employment, and suffering for the necessities of life, is very appropriate for comparing notes on the charity of the church vs. the lodge. They must be blind indeed who cannot see that there is a very radical difference between the charity which pays out one dollar for three received, and that which is now folding under its broad mantle so many unfortunates; feeding, clothing them, and all in the name of Him whom the lodge ignores.

The Prohibitionists of Boston are talking about Dr. Miner for mayor. What a revolution it would make! About equal to having Banks for Governor. With Dr. Miner for mayor, it is safe to say that no prize-fight, such as was held week before last, "under the auspices of a chartered club," would be allowed to disgrace our city. One of the worst things in connection therewith was, that members of the police force were present, "through the courtesy of the club." Of course, Dr. Miner's candidature would raise another hue-and-cry, as in the case of Rev. L. A. Banks against "a minister's going into politics." But why, in the name of logic and reason, should this be so? Mr. Banks had plenty of precedent for his course—if he needed any—in the example of the old Puritan clergy. Do we not read in the pleasant essays of Col. T. W. Higginson, how in the first—I think it must have been the first—gubernatorial contest ever held in New England, in 1637, Rev. John Wilson, minister of the First Church in Boston, and who, the Religious Encyclopedia informs us, "was the most humble, pious and benevolent man of his time," not content with "taking the stump," went a step beyond, and harangued for his favorite candidate from the boughs of a full-grown tree. This fear, on the part of saloon-men and their allies, of mixing up ministers and politics, is a very reasonable one. Taken alone, the two are like harmless chemical elements. Combined, they form a kind of moral dynamite, which I should think would be highly objectionable when viewed from the standpoint of men who are trembling for the safety of some illicit business.

There have been numerous cases, this fall, of fatal poisoning from the eating of mushrooms. Few people know how to distinguish between the poisonous and the wholesome varieties, though I believe that beauty of color is one characteristic of the former, the non-poisonous being a kind of dirty white, and choosing the sunny field for their habitat instead of lurking like the others in low, damp places. By the way, is not here material for an interesting analogy? Goodness does not always have a beautiful outside. Far from it. But it always, and everywhere, has this characteristic to distinguish it from evil. It seeks the light. Apropos of the mushroom subject, a curious story comes from Bridgeport, Conn., that an Irishman, who was one of the victims, was saved by his friends, who, instead of calling in a doctor, filled him full of lager beer. This must have been on the homeopathic principle of one poison driving out another.

It is said, on good authority, that there are over 150,000 Keeley graduates in the country, and that the number is increasing at the rate of 5,000 a month. One can but rejoice if even a small percentage are actually reformed. But it is a question whether it is wise to add to the number of such institutes of, which Massachusetts already has five. It is significant that saloonmen have no word of opposition to Keeley Institutes, and the conclusion is almost irresistible that they consider them no check on their traffic. It is possible that the very knowledge that he can go to a Keeley Institute and be cured, has prevented many a moderate drinker from breaking off the habit until it became fastened on him with a grip of iron. Our W. C. T. U.s are deluged with appeals to use their influence in behalf of these institutions. It would be well for them to prayerfully consider the whole subject in all its bearings before they give them anything more than the most qualified endorsement. Prevention is better than cure; and God's woe against the drunkard is not to be set aside even by modern science.

ELIZABETH E. FLAGG.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22, 1893.

The position of the administration in favor of the restoration of the monarchy in Hawaii continues to be a leading topic of conversation in Washington, and the publication, this week, of the report of Mr. Blount, who was sent to Hawaii by President Cleveland to make an investigation, has added interest to the discussions, even if it has changed nobody's opinion. The general sentiment, even among the personal friends of President Cleveland, is one of regret that he should have decided that the best way to right what he believed to be a wrong was to exert his influence —few believe that he ever contemplated using force—to secure the restoration of what everybody concedes to have been one of the most corrupt and dissolute monarchies of modern times, small and insignificant as it was; and one hears the wish on all sides that some way other than restoring the queen, that will be equally satisfactory to Hawaii, the American people and the administration, will be found out of the present unsatisfactory condition of affairs. It is feared that some bitter wrangling will take place in Congress on account of what has already been done, even if the monarchy is not restored.

The U. S. Supreme Court this week handed down a decision that will necessitate a revision of the definitions given in all the standard dictionaries of the term "high seas." A man who was indicted under the U. S. law providing for the punishment of crimes committed on the high seas, for an assault made on a U. S. vessel in the Detroit river, raised the question of lack of jurisdiction of the U. S. courts, and he was sustained by the lower court, which held that the great lakes were not comprehended within the term "high seas." That decision is now reversed by the Supreme Court, which, in an opinion by Justice Field, holds that there has been an advance and development as respects the doctrine of high seas, and that as used in the act of Congress under which the indictment was found it means waters over which no particular State has jurisdiction. Justices Gray and Brown dissented, each presenting his reasons in an opinion.

Church meetings have, this week, taken up much of the attention of our church-going people. First, there was the annual meeting of the Sunday-school Union of the District of Columbia, which embraces the Sunday-schools of nearly all of our Protestant churches; then followed a very enthusiastic meeting of what is called the preliminary committee of the Christian Endeavorers, which is working to have the international convention of that organization held in Washington in 1896, and yesterday the annual meeting of the Columbia Association of Baptist churches was held; also the annual meeting of the Washington Conference of Congregational Churches. At all these meetings the most encouraging reports of good work done and to be done were made.

If a Washington jury can be had that will perform its plain duty, the druggists of this city who run rum-shops in disguise will soon be taught a most salutary lesson. A druggist who controls three stores has been arrested for selling whisky under the name of "golden tonic," in bottles, in violation of the new law. This druggist violated the law of God, as well as that of man, for he sold the vile stuff on Sunday as well as other days.

In accordance with the request of the Church Temperance Society of New York, temperance sermons were preached in several of the Episcopal churches last Sunday. One of them has attracted much attention. It was preached by Rev. Dr. R. H. McKim, of Epiphany Church, who is personally a believer in the doctrine of total abstinence. He started out by saying that Prohibition had been tried and found wanting, and that while he was a firm believer in local option he thought it had inherent defects. He thinks it is social effort, and not legislation, that will eventually overthrow the liquor power; that temperance people must draw men away from the saloon by providing something better for them. All this was only preparatory to the most striking part of the sermon—his advocacy of the Gothenburg, or Swedish system, under which the State controls the sale of liquor, just as it controls the location of powder magazines and the manufacture of dynamite. He made a strong argument in favor of that system, which must be something like that the Governor of South Carolina is now trying to carry out in that State, but public sentiment, so far as I have come in contact with it, is overwhelmingly against such a system, and with due deference to Dr. McKim, rightly so, I think.

—The manufacture of new degrees in secret lodges amounts to almost a form of insanity, and the spirit of innovation in this direction is by no means confined to any one order. Down in Tennessee it has invaded the Pythian societies, where some one introduced into the sacred "castle" precincts a "side rank." This coming to the ears of the Grand Chancellor, he issued a proclamation recognizing only the customary subordinate Pythian degrees of Page, Esquire and Knight, and condemning all others.

REFORM NEWS.

THE EASTERN AGENT IN PENNSYLVANIA.

HOME HOTEL, PITTSBURGH, PA., Nov. 23, 1893.

DEAR CYNOSURE:—I go this afternoon to Lawrence Co., Pa., where I am to spend Sabbath, addressing a union meeting of the United Presbyterian and Presbyterian churches in New Bedford. Last Sabbath was spent at McKeesport, Pa.

The people of this city are largely dependent for employment upon the great mills erected there. These mills have been closed much of the time during the summer. While they are running at present, it is feared they will soon close again. In that event there will be much suffering. Most of the workmen are not prepared to meet the expense of a severe winter.

Meeting a gentleman formerly employed in the mill, I inquired how he was getting along. "Very well, thank you," was his reply; "I have been out of work for three months, but I have good prospects for work in the near future." He then went on to tell what he had been doing in the past months. Feeling the need of a better education, he had been attending a night-school. Wishing to become a skilled mechanic, he studied with that in view.

When at work, he received as compensation for his labor, $2.25 per day. From this he must pay rent, support a wife and two restless children. He had no capital but muscle and common sense to start with. When the rainy day came he had a little in store to help out. While some of his companions were standing idly squirting tobacco-juice on the corner, running to the saloon, or holding lodge-meetings, arranging to poison those who had been feeding them, he was quietly at home improving his mind, fitting himself to become a capitalist when kind providence should smile. Being a Christian, he understood how to solve "the labor problem."

While in McKeesport I was the guest of Mr. S. O. Lowry, a prosperous business man. Sabbath morning I attended the Presbyterian church with which he is connected, and in response to the pastor's invitation, took part in the service. In the evening I addressed an audience of some two hundred in the Swedish Lutheran church, Rev. O. Strand, pastor. The attention was the best, and the collection showed a willingness to help.

After my lectures in Lawrence county I expect (D. V.) to return home.

Wife writes that there is to be a Thanksgiving dinner, of which I am expected to take part.

Yours in the work, W. B. STODDARD.

THE COLLEGE AGENT IN KANSAS.

TOPEKA, KANS., Nov. 20, 1893.

In pursuance of my reform work among the literary institutions of Kansas, I went on to Topeka. This is the capital of the State, and a beautiful city. The State House is modeled after that of Ohio and other States, with a dome like the Capitol at Washington. Topeka is well supplied with electric street cars; and also with electric lights.

I was received and kindly entertained during my stay by Rev. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Dill. I became acquainted with them a few years ago, at Selma, Ala., while they were laboring as missionaries among the freedmen. Bro. Dill is pastor of the Second Reformed Presbyterian church here; and they are earnest supporters of our reform work.

Washburn College, which is located here, is a Congregational institution, apparently in excellent condition. Pres. Peter McVicar, when I called, took me to the library and reading-room, where I found the Christian Cynosure; and Prof. L. D. Whittemore, the librarian, as well as the president said that they would gladly receive our reform books.

On Sabbath evening I preached for Bro. Dill in the Covenanter church, and introduced some topics of reform which appeared to be well received.

On my way to Sterling, I made a brief stop at Emporia. It is a town of many long streets, but thinly built up as yet, and with small facilities of locomotion in the way of street cars. The college is in the far northern part of the city; and when the distance was overcome, there was no one at home—neither president nor librarian; and after tramping around, back and forth, until I was wearied out, I concluded to go on.

I found the Rev. C. H. Strong, President of the State Association auxiliary to the N. C. A., residing at Sterling. He is pastor of the United Presbyterian church which holds its services in the college chapel. There is also a Reformed Presbyterian church here, whose pastor, Rev. T. J. Allen, is a firm reformer. Cooper Memorial College stands as a light in the midst of this region. Rev. F. M. Spencer, the president, gave me a hearty welcome and introduced me to several classes; and I was present at the recitations and assisted in the chapel exercises.

The lady where I am stopping, Mrs. McCarroll, invited me to attend a Sabbath-school which she has organized among the colored people here. It is a good work; and I addressed them at the close of the school, and urged them to follow Jesus, and to have nothing to do with selfish combinations. In the evening I preached a reform sermon in Bro. Strong's church, to a large and sympathetic audience. S. F. PORTER.

FROM THE FIELD ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

OAKSDALE, WASH., Nov. 20, 1893.

From Guy I went to Pitts schoolhouse. Although the weather was very unfavorable, we had good congregations both evenings. I spoke first on Intemperance, then on the Lodge. About fifteen signed the constitution, and I received two subscriptions to the Cynosure.

Next I went to Gates schoolhouse, where I was well received by a full house. Quite a number signed the consitution, and two more subscribed for the paper.

My next appointment was at South Palouse, where I spoke on Saturday night and preached Sunday morning. Here is an excellent people, three of whom will take the Cynosure for one year, and quite a number signed the constitution. Rev. M. C. Pearson resides at this place, where he has erected a parsonage for the United Brethren (Old Constitution). He is well received by the people, and dearly loved. I preached, at three o'clock, to a large congregation at another schoolhouse, and closed the day with a full house at Elberton.

I lectured at Elberton Monday night and the next night at Garfield. Here we had a large crowd in the Baptist church. They gave good attention. As we poured the hot shot into their ranks, one "Sir Knight" showed the white feather and ran. The lecture was well received by the best thinking men and women of the place. I am informed that I had, to hear me, the very best people of Garfield. Rev. W. R. Lloyd, of the Liberal U. B. church, assured me that he could heartily endorse all I said, but when I cornered him to sign the constitution, he winced and squirmed, but finally came to it and, like a little man, signed it. His wife is more rabid against the lodges, and gave firm testimony against all secret orders.

Our old, staunch friend, Dr. Simpson, resides here. He stands well in the community, notwithstanding his very pronounced views against the secret lodge system. May he live long to be a "thorn in the flesh" of secret societies.

I next went to Cedar Creek United Brethren church, but the community being mostly Liberals, we had a very small audience. I left about one hundred tracts on the seats, secured one subscriber to the Cynosure, and returned next morning to Garfield; from there on to Oaksdale, where I am at present writing.

Owing to the Liberal U. B. annual conference being in session here, I did not put in an appointment, although we had secured the M. E. church for that purpose. I visited the conference on Friday October 17, and was introduced and extended the courtesies of the conference.

Being invited to preach, I gave them to understand that unless they recognized the National Christian Association, in whose employ I am, they need not recognize me. So I did not preach. How different those dear brethren are from our brethren of the Old Constitution. The latter would receive and recognize any man engaged in this reform work, while Liberals seem shy and embarrassed by an agent of moral reform.

No wonder, when we look over their very small company and see the number wearing badges of one kind and another. It is wonderful how the mighty are fallen. Their reports, though in many instances inflated, are yet very meagre. They have utterly failed in reaching and building up in the cities. Instead of lodgemen coming to them, they go to the lodge.

I should love to visit Oaksdale in the near future and enlighten them on the evils of these unholy relations. I have the offer of the United Presbyterian Hall, in case I can get back before returning home. I arose to a question of privilege in the Liberal conference, advertised our work, calling special notice to the Christian Cynosure, and asked them to speak with me if they had any business with the publishing house in Chicago; but they were as silent as the grave. I secured two subscribers in Oaksdale.

I go from here to Latah.

P. B. WILLIAMS.

SUMMARY OF THE NEW YORK WORK.

To those who are familiar with such assemblies the State convention at Utica was an excellent one, with some features of universal interest. But it was much more than that, in the opinion of the average Utican. The Press, the leading daily, of the city, reported it as "an extraordinary convention, presenting an extraordinary issue," and "advanced by extraordinary men." May the final result vindicate this judgment! Under God there shall be a mighty harvest from the precious seed of truth sown with weeping in a stony field. By his grace, a convenient and pleasant church, centrally located, was secured; the prayers of some of the best people in the State, and especially in the city, were enlisted; the papers were favorable in their notices, fair in their reports, and courteous in their editorial criticism. The pastors, though not in all cases approving the meeting, were interested, several attended, and a number more read the invitation to attend to their congregations. One noble young brother at Herkimer said that he would read the notice, though it should lead the lodge members in his church to move for his discharge.

The attendance from the State at large was small. Sickness and unexpected, pressing business prevented Bro. B. H. Roberts of Chesbrough Seminary, Bro. Clark, the secretary, Elder Rathbun and his esteemed wife, Bro. Shaw of Walton, and others from attending. These friends were greatly missed. I cannot say seriously, for no meeting could drag with such men as brethren Wardner, Woodruff, Knappenberger, Smith and others in the front seats; not to speak of President Wallace, whose opening speech made a demand for more, and Bro. Stoddard, who is a convention in himself if the rest of us would get out of his way. It was cause for gratitude to hear

(Continued on 9th page.)

CORRESPONDENCE.

NOTES BY THE WAY.

EAST LYNN, ILL., Nov. 15, 1893.

EDITOR CYNOSURE:—The writer was called, last week, about sixty miles south, by telegram, to the funeral of a friend. We failed to get there in time, but met the relatives of the deceased, a hundred yards from the cemetery, returning from the grave. We went on to the cemetery, however, to see where he had been deposited. We learned, further, that the Masons had honored (?) him with their ceremony at the burial.

The deceased, for perhaps fifteen or twenty years, had had nothing to do with the lodge, and but very few of his neighbors knew anything about his ever having been connected with the order. But after he was dead, the lodge jumped at the chance to advertise itself. Besides, we are quite well satisfied that had it been possible to find out the mind of the deceased, it is likely that he would have revolted at any ceremony except a Christian burial. If the lodge has any one trait above another, it is brass; and we believe they exhibited a little extra amount of this composite metal on this occasion.

As it was late on Saturday evening, we were compelled to remain over Sunday. We improved the time by attending church services on that day. At the Presbyterian Sunday-school we were interested in the exercises, and, stranger as I was here, the writer was treated very kindly by the pastor and others.

A litttle girl of seven summers, with nice curly hair, seeing that I had no singing-book, went past half a dozen seats, and brought me one. She did this so nicely and gracefully that I inquired, after Sunday-school, who she was, and learned that she was an exceptionally fine little girl, whose pet name was "Dot," the daughter of Mr. Young. We hope all the little readers of the Cynosure will be regular attendants at the Sunday-school, and then not only kindly disposed towards each other, but also to the strangers as well, as was this little girl.

After the preaching service, a Mr. Bowers, a banker of the town, took me to his fine mansion, where I was treated royally. He expressed himself as disgusted with the entire business. On the street corner of this town we passed a full half-dozen young men, who, perhaps, had not been to church or Sunday-school, but could, possibly, recite in the lodge its ritual and make the signs of "cutting the throat across," or "swiping" the beard as Odd-fellows, or make the K. P. motions. They know how to gracefully smoke cigars or cigarettes, and, it is likely, know how to dispose of a glass of beer, or whisky, with the drinking swag and swing. They were also spinning ribald yarns, which they had possibly learned in the lodge.

Returning home, we disposed of a Doesburg's exposition to a young man who had just been "entered," "passed," knocked down and "raised" in the devil's college, but who, we think, may yet repent of his lodge folly, and give up the whole thing.

We should manage, for our work, to have a local agent for our paper and publications in every county of all the States in the Union. It would cost something to carry out this suggestion, but it would, no doubt, pay for the outlay.

J. S. HICKMAN.

WORDS OF CHEER.

NEWMARKET, N. H., Nov. 18, 1893.

EDITOR CYNOSURE:—Stephen Merritt's renunciation of Freemasonry is an event of great significance. He professed entire sanctification, and published the King's Messenger, devoted almost wholly to magnifying the influence of the blessed Holy Spirit. No one could doubt his sincerity, and his zeal and good works were unbounded. Yet he himself, up to this time, did not see the horrid iniquity of Freemasonry and paid his lodge dues. In the Lord's good providence he attended Bro. Stoddard's New York convention and made a partial renunciation, but still did not sever his connection with the lodge. Several months afterward, he attended Rev. A. B. Simpson's New York Holiness Convention, and the Holy Spirit impressed upon him, in an especial manner, his duty to return his Masonic jewels to the lodge and sever his connection therewith, which he immediately did. This brother's experience shows how the Lord uses the testimony of his servants to prepare the way for the complete work of the Holy Spirit. No doubt Bro. Merritt's paper and voice will bring many others out of lodge darkness into Gospel light.

Another item of encouragement to Eastern reformers is a new reform paper, the Church and Times, published by a brave young Congregational pastor at Middlefield, Mass. We have now an able force of anti-lodge papers in New England, including Hunter's Plain Truth, Hinsdale, N. H.; Hastings' Christian, of Boston; Hezekiah Davis' Union, New Britain, Ct.; A. A. Hoyt's Independent Christian, Boston; E. B. Pike's Beulah Christian, Morris, Ct.; Mrs. Stoddard's Home Light, and my little Witness. These, with the Christian Cynosure, our national pole star, are pouring the light as never before into every part of the field.

A young man of great promise, and more than local reputation, generally supposed to be an adhering Odd-fellow, recently said to me: "What first led me to hate Odd-fellowship was in the lodge, when the "good of the order" was up, to hear the members rise, one after another, and tell vile stories, evangelical preachers sitting silently by and not rebuking them. This also led me to fear there was something not right about these ministers." That young man will, we trust, soon take his place where he belongs—openly with the reform host.

Let us close up our ranks and press the battle to the gates. The Lord Jehovah is with us, and we march to certain victory. S. C. KIMBALL.

CYNOSURE OFFER!

Any of the Books below with Cynosure subscription at one-fourth off from list price, sent postpaid.

The New Volume of Pen and Pencil Series.

WELSH PICTURES Drawn with Pen and Pencil.

By D. Lewis Jones, Morris Jones, Edward Ffoulkes, H. Elvet Lewis, D. Tyssil Evans, D. Davies and O. M. Edwards. Edited by Richard Lovett, M. A. With many Illustrations.
Imperial 8vo, cloth, gilt edges, boxed..... 3.20

"'Welsh pictures' is the work of ten Welshmen, among whom illustrating the beauties of Wales has been parcelled out according to the special familiarity of each. The result is a pleasing volume."—London Times.

THE EARTHLY FOOTPRINTS OF OUR RISEN LORD, Illumined.

A continuous narrative of the Four Gospels according to The Revised Version, with introduction by Rev. John Hall, D. D. Illustrated by 113 full-page half tone re-productions. Small 4to, cloth.....net 1.50
Gilt edge, with silk book mark, boxed.....net 2.00
Full morocco, flexible, gilt edges, round corners, boxed.....net 3.75

Pictures reflecting the best in sacred art from Raphael to the present day are scattered profusely through the book.

"To many the life of the Christ will be a new book in this form. Though beyond the introduction it contains no word except what is found in the four Gospels, yet when read continuously, without the breaks necessarily made by the different stories of the four evangelists, the narrative takes on new force and lifelikeness. The very fact that this is not our usual method of reading the Word will give it a new reality."—Golden Rule.

A GIFT OF LOVE, and Loving Greetings for 365 Days.

By Rose Porter. Long 18mo. Paper cloth..... 1.00
White cloth, silver top, in box..... 1.25
Decorated silk, silver top, in box..... 1.75

"'A Gift of Love' is the work of a loving heart. It contains a text of Scripture for every day of the year with the addition of an appropriate thought in poetry of prose all bearing on the theme of love. The work must have called for a great amount of patient toil. But it has not been spent in vain, for the volume will prove a blessing to many a soul. To use it day by day for a year thoughtfully and prayerfully, must result in a rich growth in love on the part of the user. The author is well known and esteemed for her previous works' sake."—The N. Y. Observer.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE SERIES.

By Rev. F. B. Meyer, containing CHRISTIAN LIVING, THE PRESENT TENSES OF THE BLESSED LIFE, AND THE SHEPHERD PSALM. 3 vols. in box. 18mo, cloth..... 1.50
White vellum cloth, silver top, in box..... 1.75

D. L. Moody says: "Few books of recent years are better adapted to instruct and help Christians than those of this author. He is a man mighty in the scriptures, saturated with Bible facts and truths."

PRAYERS FROM THE POETS.

By Martha Harger. 16mo, two colored cloth, gilt top..... 1.00
Leatherette, boxed..... 1.50

"This volume is admirable. The Prayer are better suited to some of our moods than formal Litanies and are selected from excellent sources. The book will be a dear treasure to many hearts."—The Churchman.

KIN-DA-SHON'S WIFE.

An Alaskan Story. By Mrs. Eugene S. Willard, Home Missionary of the Presbyterian Board of America to Alaska. With illustrations. 8vo, cloth..... 1.50

"Being a close observer and in deep sympathy with the native population in their struggles towards a Christian Civilization, Mrs. Willard has gained a more intelligent knowledge of their character, of their needs and hindrances, than perhaps any other person."—Dr. Sheldon Jackson.

HEROES OF THE GOODWIN SANDS.

By Rev. Thomas Stanley Treanor. With many illustrations. 8vo, Cloth..... 1.50

"It is a book of most engrossing interest, and as stimulating as it is readable."—The Record.
"The deeds of daring are thrilling in the extreme. Suitable for the public library or for the home."—Times.

THE GREAT LONDON DAILIES.

By H. W. Massingham. Profusely illustrated. 12mo, cloth..... 1.00

Very welcome to all who like to look behind the scenes and see how the great London dailies are worked.

New Editions.

The Prayer Meeting and Its Improvement.

By Rev. LEWIS O. THOMPSON. Eighth edition, cloth, $1.25.

"Most heartily do we wish this work a wide circulation, both among pastors and people, and we hope it may do much toward the lifting of the prayer-meeting into that higher place which it ought to hold among the grand instrumentalities in the kingdom of the Master'—Congregationalist.

"We do not remember to have met with a work so suggestive, and we heartily commend it to both pastors and private members."—Baptist Weekly.

The Crisis of Missions. By Rev. ARTHUR T. PIERSON, D. D.

Cloth, $1.25; paper, 35c.

"We do not hesitate to say that this book is the most purposeful, earnest, and intelligent review of the mission work and field which has ever been given to the church."—Christian Statesman.

The Christian's Secret of a Happy Life.

By HANNAH WHITALL SMITH. One hundredth thousand. Issued in fourteen styles, from 50c. to $2.50. Send for circular.

"To commend this work would seem almost superfluous; and yet to young Christians who may not know it, we cannot refrain from saying, Buy this book, and keep it with your Bible for constant study, until you have thoroughly mastered, in your own experience, the 'secret' of which it tells. It will transform the dark days of your life, as it has transformed those of thousands before you, into days of heavenly light."—New York Evangelist.

The Topical Text Book. Fourth edition.

16 mo., cloth, 60c.

This little volume is a worker's most useful tool. It collates all Scripture passages under their topical headings, and for this reason proves far more helpful in studying a subject than the best concordance.

"I find one of the very best ways to study the Scripture is to study topically."—D. L. Moody.

Stalker's Life of Christ. Twelfth edition.

Stalker's Life of St. Paul. Fourth edition.

12 mo., cloth, each, 60c.

These works by Professor James Stalker, M. A., are unique in their compact putting of these lives into such condensed form without injurious brevity. They are being taken up as text books by Biblical classes in all parts of the country, thus proving their practical value.

Grace and Truth under Twelve Different Aspects.

By W. P. MACKAY, M. A. Paper, 35c.; cloth, 75c. Two hundred and fiftieth thousand.

This remarkable sale can only be attributed to the very practical character of this work as a guide to the inquirer and a work of helpful instruction for the immature Christian. It is of this volume Mr. D. L. Moody said: "I know of no work in print better adapted to place in the hands of the inquirer."

Notes and Suggestions for Bible Readings.

By S. R. BRIGGS. Sixtieth thousand. 8 vo, cloth. $1.00; flexible, 75c.

Edition after edition of this work has been called for until it would seem the demand must be supplied. The sales however, increase rather than otherwise.

Feathers for Arrows. By Rev. C. H. SPURGEON.

16 mo., cloth, $1.00.

Few preachers have made such effective use of pointed illustrations as the well known pastor of the great Metropolitan Tabernacle. Here he has given us a large cluster of his best with liberty to enjoy and employ.

Revell's Record for Church Treasurers.

Size No. 1, $1.50; Size No. 2, $2.00.

Popular because practical—valuable because time saving—the only record for weekly envelope system that reduces the treasurer's work to the minimum.

For sale by the

National Christian Association,

221 West Madison Street, Chicago, Ill.

Lodge Notes.

A. O. UNITED WORKMEN.

The A. O. U. W. was 25 years old on the 27th of October.

The membership of the entire order Sept. 1 was 323,741.

The lodges are scattered all over the United States and Canada. It is hardly possible to find a town of any size where members of the order cannot be found.

KNIGHTS OF THE GOLDEN EAGLE.

Philadelphia has over 60 castles in good standing, and is the banner city of the United States.

Women are now admitted to the temple at the age of 16 instead of the age designated in the constitution.

MASONIC.

There are 1,200 Chinese Masons of various degrees in Chicago.

The expense to the order in New York State for representatives attending grand lodge aggregates about $20,000 annually.

E. Sir Robert Macoy has been elected grand recorder of the grand commandery of New York for the forty-third time. He was deservedly given, wholly unsolicited on his part, an increase in salary to $1,000.

Federal Lodge, Washington, was instituted Sept. 12, 1793, and the first Masonic ceremony participated in by it was the laying of the cornerstone of the national Capitol building on the 18th of that month.

ODD-FELLOWS.

The membership in Australasia is 20-000, and the funds amount to $850,000.

The Sovereign Grand Lodge decided to hold its next annual session at Chattanooga.

In 20 years the order has increased from 385,067 to 747,295 members, a gain of 362,198, nearly doubling itself.

The amount necessary to pay mileage and per diem for the recent session of the Sovereign Grand Lodge was $25,611.-84.

KNIGHTS OF HONOR.

The call for September contained 167 names, of which 11 were accidental deaths, 6 suicides and 3 murders.

The death rate in the order in 1892 was 12 6 per 1,000 as compared with the general death rate of 16.3 per 1,000.

The report of the grand reporters of Wisconsin shows the total number of lodges in the State to be 43, which is an increase of but one since 1891.

No other sarsaparilla has the merit to hold the confidence of entire communities year after year, as has Hood's Sarsaparilla, It possesses curative powers peculiar to itself.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, carefully prepared from the best ingredients. 25 cents.

"Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething" softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain and cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

The St. Louis Sermon

Are Secret Societies a Blessing or a Curse?

An Address by Rev. B. Carradine D. D., Pastor of the Centenary M. E. Church, St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 4, 1891.

W. McCoy writes: "That sermon ought to be in the hands of every preacher in this land, and every citizen's too."

A pamphlet of 20 pages and cover.

Sent postpaid 25 copies $1.00. Single copy 5 cents.

CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

DO YOU WANT

To receive, read, distribute and otherwise aid in the circulation of a large number of Holiness and Reform papers and magazines? If so, send me a SILVER dime, and your name and address will be printed on the Holiness and Reform Mail Exchange List, which is sent to all publishers of holiness and reform literature, who will mail you sample papers and magazines. Write name and address PLAINLY. Address, J. H. PADGETT, Printer. Ennis, Texas.

WITHIN THE REACH of every woman — health and strength. They're brought to you by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Take this medicine, and there's a safe and certain cure for all the chronic weaknesses, derangements, and diseases peculiar to the sex. It will build up, strengthen, and invigorate every "run-down" or delicate woman. It regulates and assists all the natural functions, never conflicts with them, and is perfectly harmless in any condition of the female system.

At some period in her life, a woman requires a general, as well as uterine, tonic and nervine.

If you're a tired or afflicted woman, you can find no other remedy that's guaranteed. If the "Prescription" ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

So small is the chance of failure, with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, that its proprietors are willing to make this promise: "If we can't cure your Catarrh, no matter how bad your case is, we'll pay you $500 in cash."

WHEATON COLLEGE,

WHEATON, ILL.

A School for Men and Women.

WINTER TERM OPENS TUESDAY JANUARY 2ND.

For Catalogue, address

CHAS. A BLANCHARD. Pres.

IF YOU WANT WORK

that is pleasant and profitable, send us your address immediately. We teach men and women how to earn from $5 per day to $3,000 per year without having had previous experience, and furnish the employment at which they can make that amount. Capital unnecessary. A trial will cost you nothing. Write to-day and address,

E. C. ALLEN & CO.,
Box 1001. Augusta, Me.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained, and all Patent business conducted for Moderate Fees.

Our Office is Opposite U. S. Patent Office, and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A Pamphlet, "How to Obtain Patents," with names of actual clients in your State, county, or town, sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.
Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

The Christian Witness

Is an eight-page undenominational monthly; the official organ of the New Hampshire Christian Association, opposed to secret societies. It advocates Bible Holiness, Church Purity, Sound Morality and Temperance.

Terms: 50 cents a year, or three years for $1.00.

Send stamp for sample copy.

Address S. C. KIMBALL,
Box 277. Newmarket, N. H.

JONATHAN BLANCHARD'S

—]-oo-[—

SERMONS AND ADDRESSES.

Select discourses of the late editor of the Cynosure and leader in our reform. Lectures, sermons and speeches given from 1834 to 1892 in leading cities of the United States, discussing topics of

LIVING REFORM.

Secret Societies, The Sabbath, Temperance, National Reform, Christian Education, Christian Socialism, The Bible. Etc., Etc.

A BOOK EVERYBODY SHOULD READ

12mo. Fine Photogravure Portrait.

Price, 75 Cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

ANTI-SECRECY TRACTS.

The following numbers are in stock, and can be had at the wholesale price of 25 cents per pound:

1. National Christian Association.
1½. Testimony of Statesmen.
4. Freemasonry in the Family.
7. To the Boys who Hope to be Men.
8. Modern Heathenism.
9. Ministers at Rival Altars.
10. A Pastor's Confession.
15. Secrecy and Sin.
16. Selling Dead Horses.
17. History of Masonry.
19. Freemasonry a Christ-excluding Religion.
22. Extracts from Masonic Oaths and Penalties as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.
28. Dr. Nathaniel Colver on Masonry.
30. Masonic Oaths Null and Void.
37. Why a Christian should not be a Freemason (German).
38. Masonic Oaths and Penalties.
39. Should Freemasons be Admitted to Christian Fellowship?
41. Freemasonry a Religion.
45. Ought a Seceding Mason to Keep his Lodge Oath?

Families, Churches, Senates, Juries and Camps.

The above are the only tracts in stock in large quantities. There are a few of several other numbers. Remember that these are being retailed at wholesale prices—25 cents per pound. Keep a package of Anti-masonic tracts for use in letters.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

AGENTS AND LECTURERS.

NEW ENGLAND DEPARTMENT.—Rev. J. P. Stoddard, Agent, 218 Columbus Ave., Hotel Howland, Boston.

EASTERN DEPARTMENT.—W. B. Stoddard, Agent, No. 215, 4½ St., Washington, D. C.

NORTHERN DEPARTMENT.—Rev. W. Fenton, 74 South Robert St., St. Paul, Minn.

PACIFIC DEPARTMENT.—Rev. P. B. Williams, Philomath, Oregon.

COLLEGE AGENT, Rev. S. F. Porter Cynosure office.

OTHER LECTURERS.

C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
Rev. H. H. Hinman, Oberlin, O.
Nathan Callender Montdale Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
H. A. Day, Brighton, Mich.
J. M. Bishop. Chambersburg, Pa.
A. Mayn, Bloomington, Ind.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
W. M. Love, Osceola, Mo.
J. K. Glassford, Phoenix, Arizona.
Wm. Fenton, St. Paul, Minn.
J. S. Perry, Thompson, Conn.
Rev. E. Mathews, Ft Wayne, Ind.
E. Barnetson, Haskinville, N. Y.
D. A. Richards, Brighton, Mich.
A. W. Parry, Chicago, Ill.

Disloyal SECRET OATHS

ADDRESS OF

JOSEPH COOK,

OF BOSTON,

AT THE

Conference of Christians

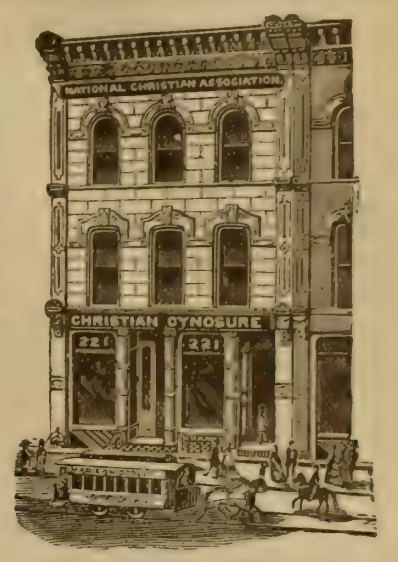
CHICAGO, 1890.

No better document of its size for general distribution has been printed. Joseph Cook's address is a national treatment of a national subject, and very valuable for reference.

Single Copies 5 cents, or 12 copies for 50 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the Initiate. By Rev. L. A. Post. 5 cents each



THE N. C. A. BUILDING
(The gift of Philo Carpenter)
—AND OFFICE OF—
THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. MADISON STREET, CHICAGO.

The National Christian Association

PRESIDENT—Rev. A. J. Gordon, D.D., Boston, Mass.

VICE PRESIDENT—Charles A. Blanchard, President Wheaton College Ill.

GEN'L SEC'Y and TREASURER—W. I. Phillips, 221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

REC. SECRETARY—Amos Dresser, Jr. Wheaton, Ill., Box 367.

DIRECTORS—T. B. Arnold, C. A. Blanchard, E. A. Cook, J. M. Hitchcock, A. G. Johnson, J. P. Richards, E Whipple, E. R. Worrell, Edgar B. Wylie W. M. Howie, H. F. Kletzing.

The object of this Association is:

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the churches of Christ from being depraved, to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform.

STATE AUXILIARY ASSOCIATIONS

NEW ENGLAND.—Pres., Rev. J. M Foster, Boston, Mass.; Sec'y, Miss E. E Flagg, Wellesley, Mass.; Treas., L. E. Lincoln, Boston,

CONNECTICUT.—Pres., J. A. Conant, Willimantic; Sec., David J. Ellsworth, Windsor; Treas., C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.—Pres., Rev. R. W. Chesnut Marissa; Sec., Rev. J. R. Wylie, Coulterville; Treas., Rev. W. I. Phillips, Cynosure office, Chicago.

IOWA.—Pres., Rev. J. A. Greer, Columbus City; Sec., Rev. T. H. Acheson, Hopkinton; Treas., Rev. L. Mendenhall, Fairfield.

KANSAS.—Pres., Rev. C. H. Strong, Lawrence; Vice-Pres., Rev. J. L. Countermine Hiawatha; Sec., Rev. D. H. Coulter, Winchester; Treas., Joseph A. Torrence, Denison.

NEBRASKA.—Pres., Rev. W. I. Brooks Pawnee City; Vice Pres., Rev. C. G. Widen Mead; Sec., Howard P. Young, Wahoo Treas., Rev. T. H. Dabney, Hooper.

MAINE.—Pres., ——— ———, ——— Sec., I. D. Haines, Dexter; Treas., H. W Goddard, West Sidney.

MASSACHUSETTS.—Pres., S. A. Pratt; Worcester.

MICHIGAN.—Pres., D. A. Richards, Brighton; Sec., H. A. Day, Brighton; Treas Geo. Swanson, Jr., Bedford.

MINNESOTA.—Pres., S. B. Sjoblom, Fergus Falls; Cor. Sec., Wm. Fenton, St. Pau Rec. Sec., Mrs. M. F. Morrill, St. Charles Treas. Wm. H. Morrill St. Charles.

MISSOURI.—Pres., J. F. Beauchamp, Denver; Sec., M. N. Butler, Darlington; Treas. Rev. C. G. Cox, Grant City.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—Pres., Robt. A. Frohock, Alton; Sec., S. C. Kimball, New Market; Treas., James F. French, Canterbury.

NEW YORK.—Pres., Rev. S. R. Wallace Syracuse; Sec., Rev. W. H. Clark, Binghamton; Treas., Lucius Woodruff, Binghamton.

OHIO.—Pres., J. W. Martin, Mt. Perry; Rec. Sec., A. T. Vestal, Senecaville; Cor Sec. and Treas., E. Thomson, Senecaville

OREGON.—Pres., Rev. Wm. Dillon, D.D., Salem; Sec., Rev. P. B. Williams, Philomath; Treas., Samuel Terry, Canby.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Pres., Samuel S. Collins, Allegheny; Sec., J. S. T. Milligan Beaver; Treas., R. C. Wylie, Wilkinsburg.

WISCONSIN.—Pres., J. B Galloway, Poynette, Sec., Isaiah Faris, Vernon; Treas. J. W. Wood, Baraboo.

The Christian Cynosure.

HENRY M. HUGUNIN - - Editor.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1893.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE offers to either an old or new subscriber, until the 1st of February, 1894, any book advertised in its columns, at 25 per cent discount from retail rates, when ordered in connection with a yearly or six months' subscription to the Cynosure.

A special offer is made of the Christian Cynosure, one year, and "BETWEEN TWO OPINIONS," by Miss E. E. Flagg, 389 pages, cloth, price $1. The two, worth $2.50, will be sent for only $1.75 and four 2-cent stamps to pay postage on the book.

NATIONAL REFORM AND SECRET SOCIETIES.

Elsewhere in this issue we print a letter from the Eastern Secretary, giving a brief summary of addresses delivered at the National Reform Convention in Allegheny, Pa., November 14–16. Owing to a press of matter relating to the State Anti-secrecy Conventions of New York and Iowa, which were held on the same days, the publication of this letter was unavoidably postponed until now.

The convention which he attended assembled for the discussion of many topics in which the question of reform is paramount, and each subject seems to have been intelligently presented and debated. Some questions arose of vital importance to our religious and social advancement as a nation; indeed, the concensus of opinion seemed to favor genuine reform in everything that prevents the United States from becoming a thoroughly Christian nation. On this line of thought was visible a vague proposal to form a distinctly Christian political party, whose influence should be felt in Congress and in all departments of the goverment, and in which the spirit of Christ should be the prevailing rule of action.

The series of resolutions adopted by the convention would fill nearly two columns of the Cynosure. They cover fifteen distinct sections. For the present we must content ourselves with quoting those which bear directly upon the specific reform advocated by the N. C. A. and the Cynosure. In the second of the series, among the list of the principal reforms deemed necessary for our national peace and safety, prominence is given to "the question of secret orders, with their disloyal oaths," which the convention very properly deprecated as inimical, in the twelfth resolution as follows:

> That the rights of citizens and the welfare and safety of the nation are endangered by any system or organization, whether its supreme head is in a foreign country, or here in our own land, that demands under cover of secrecy a disloyal oath or obligation, subordinating the sovereignty of the nation not to God himself, but to a mere human power, individual or social, and thus setting itself up in rivalry both with the authority of civil government and the authority of the King of kings.

It is to be hoped that the deliberations of this assemblage, so large and influential, may leave a lasting and most salutary impression upon the people, the church and the nation. If the principle evolved could find free course in the bosoms of all Christians only, and be reduced to active and practical Christian practice, it would be a long step in the advancement of the kingdom of God on earth.

THE SECRET LODGE SYSTEM AND CIVIL GOVERNMENT.

No student of social science can have failed to observe that in our nation, and during the last twenty-five years, there has been an alarming growth of crime, and especially of mob-violence, usually taking the form of Lynch-law, and having for its professed object the vindication of justice.

Why the last years of the nineteenth century, which has been so prolific in the growth of science and general education, should be so disfigured by lawlessness and moral degeneracy, is indeed a strange phenomenon.

The efforts made to explain it have been failures. The theory that it has resulted from our great immigration is confronted by the fact that in those parts of our land where crime and mob-violence have been greatest, immigration has been least. It has been ascribed (and with much apparent reason) to the general demoralization induced by the late war; but, sad to say, as we recede from the war, crime does not diminish but increases. The great and growing consumption of alcohol and the enormous development of our cities may have much to do with the growth of crime, but we clearly think that the extensive development of the secret lodge system has had more to do with it than any one influence.

It is not so much that secret societies have been disloyal, or that they were intended to antagonize civil authority, as that they have served to supplant its influence by inspiring confidence in the secret order as a more practical and immediate source of redress and protection, and that the lodge would have respect to personal interests that could not be regarded by the state. These "governments within the state" have been thought more efficient than the more cumbrous system of civil law, and have thus served to supplant its authority and respect.

This disparagement of civil authority has been even more manifest in the lodge influence on religion; for since religion is the basis of morality, and the source from which come all our higher conceptions of obligation, it follows that whatever substitutes another and a lower code, or in anyway diverts public attention from the true source of morals, must undermine the foundations of society. The secret trades unions have had, perhaps, the greatest direct influence in leading to the disregard of civil law. The current teaching in all these unions, and in their public journals, has been that the civil authorities were in the hands of their enemies; that they are arrayed against them, and that their confidence must be in their unity, their secrecy and their combined power, both moral and physical. Such institutions as Freemasonry, Odd-fellowship and Knights of Pythias have had much less direct influence in supplanting the force of law, but, probably, far more in perverting the religious convictions of the people and thus leading to that general condition of society that produces divorces, suicides, and crime in general.

The G. A. R. can hardly be accused of being unpatriotic, or of desiring to subvert civil authority; but manifestly they have cultivated the idea that the main purpose of the national government is to glorify and reward those who have "preserved the Union," and that its obligations to them are paramount to all other considerations. We do not accuse them of being bad citizens, but only of the inevitable egotism that has grown out of their combination and their secrecy. As a "mutual admiration society," they have forgotten all other interests but their own. The latest development of the lodge system is the A. P. A., which, through its agents, is developing great activity and power. With ostensible objects, that are in the main patriotic and commendable, it is, through its agents, manifesting a policy as unscrupulous as that of the Jesuits whom it seeks to oppose.

The outlook is anything but encouraging, but our hope is, that because God reigns he will vindicate the truth and the right.

THE FOE OF LIBERTY AND LAW.

The Roman Catholics teach their children that "Fox's Book of Martyrs is full of lies; to speak modestly there were in them" (Fox's writings) "at least 10,000 notorious lies." So says Rev. Mr. Baddeley (R. C.) in "A Sure Way to Find Out the True Religion."

La Bandera Catolica (R. C.) printed in Spain, July 29, 1893, tells a different story. Speaking of the "Holy Inquisition," it says:

> We judge our esteemed subscribers will read with great pleasure the statistics respecting those who suffered under the holy tribunal from the year 1481 to 1808, when this so venerable an institution was abolished. As our readers will see, it refers to Spain only; we are unable to give the numbers of those who have suffered in other countries. We have believed it right also to publish the names of those holy men under whose hand so many sinners suffered, that good Catholics may venerate their memory: By Torquemada: Men and women burnt alive, 10,220; burnt in effigy, 6,840; condemned to other punishments, 97,371. By Diego Deza: Men and women burnt alive, 2,592; burnt in effigy, 892; condemned to other punishments, 32,952. By Cardinal Jiminez de Cisneros: Men and women burnt alive, 3,564; burnt in effigy, 2,232; condemned to other punishments, 48,059. By Adrian de Florrencia: Men and women burnt alive, 1,620; burnt in effigy, 560; condemned to other punishments, 21,835. This inquisitor established the holy office in America, in 1522, and as a reward for the same, he was elected vicar of Jesus Christ on earth; but so did he love his former ministry that he did not transfer it to another until the second year of his pontificate. He burnt during this time 321 persons, and condemned to various punishments short of death 4,181..... Total number of men and women burnt alive under the ministry of 45 holy inquisitor generals, 35,534; total number burnt in effigy, 18,637; total number condemned to other punishments, 293,533; general total, 347,704."

Evidence is not wanting that the "Holy Inquisition" still exists in every Roman Catholic country, for the punishment of "heretics," and it is stated, with some appearance of truth, that in the United States it is secretly maintained for the condemnation of recreant ecclesiastics.

How soon its terrors may be turned upon other and less offensive troublers of the Roman Catholic church in this country, shrouded in the secrecy of the Jesuits, and manifesting their vindictiveness, we know not. Last week we printed the significant letter of Bishop Coxe to Mgr. Satolli, which will bear a careful perusal. It is a pungent indictment of the papacy and the Jesuits.

—Dan Coughlin, the Cronin suspect, was put on his second trial last Monday, under an order of the Illinois Supreme Court. The new evidence to be introduced is characterized as important and condemnatory.

—"Natives of the kingdom of God" is a quaint designation of Christians, but wonderfully appropriate. They have been born into the kingdom, and adopted into the royal family of heaven. Their heirship is established and their inheritance is sure.

—The new ritual of the changed order of Rebekah (I. O. O. F.), referred to in this paper last week, is for sale at this office. Instead of a side-degree, as formerly, it is now an independent secret society, emulating the Masonic Order of the Eastern Star.

—We undertook, in an item on the first page of last week's issue, to say: "The World's Fair broke all the Sabbaths of its existence;" but the compositor made nonsense of the sentence by making "Sabbath-schools" of "Sabbaths." Probably the intelligent reader supplied the necessary correction mentally; but these heedless errors are very exasperating.

—As this issue of the Cynosure will reach quite a number of our friends before the national Thanksgiving day, would it not be well to remember that it is a good time to exercise "due benevolence" towards the reform in which we, with them, are co-laborers. "It is more blessed to give than to receive," and good works are the fruit of genuine thankfulness.

—The Political Dissenter, published semi-monthly at Pittsburgh and Allegheny, Pa., has changed its title to Christian Reformer and Dissenter, and proposes a weekly issue on and after the beginning of 1894. The Dissenter belongs to the Covenanter branch of Christianity, and is independent in reform, heartily endorsing the work of the National Christian Association, and liberally supporting that, also, of the National Reform Association. It is indeed very frank and earnest in its expressions in behalf "of all Scriptural reforms in both church and state, and of dissent and separation from all that is un-Christian as a means of reformation." The proposed changes indicate a good degree of prosperity, which the paper certainly deserves.

—A correspondent suggests, as an antidote to lodge influence in endowment societies, that the anti-secretists should establish an open benefit association on a financial plan similar (say) to that of the Royal Arcanum, stripped of its secrecy and lodge rites and paraphernalia. Such an organization, he thinks, could successfully compete with the endowment orders, and even excel them in laudable inducements to unite with it. We doubt it. The spiritual fascination of these societies consists in their secret work, their social element, the obligations, grips and passwords that separate them from the mass of mankind. Take these from any "mutual benefit" order, and its influence would be materially lessened. Persons who are indifferent to the best interests of communities, will unite with a lodge because it offers these very inducements with the financial feature thrown in.

—Among the reminders that the year is growing old and will soon vanish like a summer cloud, is the weekly Bible Lesson. The Sabbaths come and go, the lessons are studied and pass away, one by one, yet their fruit remains. How many souls have been enlightened and helped by these little Gospel messages! And this week's lesson is a delightful one to all believers —the eleventh of the series for the fourth quarter of the year—for December 10, "The Heavenly Inheritance," found in the first Epistle of Peter 1:1–12. The Golden Text is Colossians 1:12. The persons addressed in the lesson are Christians scattered throughout Asia Minor, strangers on earth, chosen by God, cleansed by the blood of Christ, and sanctified by the Holy Spirit—to whom the heavenly inheritance is promised. Verses 3 to 5 relate to the hope of the inheritance—a living hope, and one to be thankful for. The Father bestows the hope as well as the inheritance. The children—all Christians—derive the source of their hope from the resurrection of Christ, and through him, also, their inheritance and safety is assured. Verses 6–12 indicate the value of the hope; it gives joy in affliction; it supports under trials; trials strengthen the Christian faith in an unseen Saviour; it fills the soul with confidence; it exalts the Christian above the prophets, for he better understands the prophecy than did the prophets. Our faith is an object of interest to the angels.—its trial more precious than gold.

REFORM NEWS (Continued from 5th page.)

Bro. Wardner's trumpet-tones again, and to shake hands with Rev. S. Wilder, who did not speak, but renewed his early and unflagging interest in the reform.

The addresses of Stephen Merritt were the remarkable part of the meeting. Well and widely known in business, in city missions, and in church circles, his testimony had the weight of experience and success to add to its momentum. But the fact that this was his first public appearance since shaking off the last viper of secretism, gave the deepest interest. The best report of it that could be made under the circumstances will be given to the Cynosure next week. That, with the unanswerable argument of Rev. F. M. Foster, will give all readers some idea of the power of the meeting.

During the discussion of the resolutions, an interesting statement was made by one of the speakers in reference to a secret anti-Romanist society known as the American Protective League, which had gained a foothold in some parts of New York as an open society, but soon appeared in its true Jesuitical character. Yet because of its ostensible purpose to oppose Romanism, some who by church profession are against all secretism are led into the inconsistency of supporting this lodge, by speaking publicly for it and by membership. This League has also undertaken to oppose the prohibitory movement in politics, and it is believed intends to suppress it.

The convention was a surprise to the ordinary Uticans. They did not believe a church could be found for the meeting, except the Free Methodist, which was refused. Some did not think a man personally safe in openly opposing the lodge. Some believed the ministers generally belonged to one or more of the orders, or supported them. Everybody, whatever their opinion, felt the heavy weight of the great Masonic "Home." Few could realize that $200,000 spent in a building for one hundred inmates was not an advertisement more than a charity. The papers were more sensitive to any criticism of this pride of New York Freemasons than to any exposure of the hidden wickednesss of the lodge.

With this meeting closed my special work in New York. In some respects it was most difficult and discouraging, but in the review these features seem to be lost in the hopeful fact that the masses are not swallowed up of secretism, but wait the call of God to side with him against this greatest peril of our day.

HENRY L. KELLOGG.

REV. J. P. STODDARD AT THE NEW YORK CONVENTION.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 16, 1893.

EDITOR CYNOSURE:—A word from me on the Utica convention may be acceptable. The successful issue of this annual gathering was the result of God's blessing upon the arduous and persevering labors of Bro. Kellogg, who gave no quarter to difficulties or discouragements by which he was confronted at the beginning. The assistance and co-operation so confidently expected from the Free Methodists, like the ashen "apples of Sodom," proved fallacious and deceptive. My information may be prejudiced, and the inference unwarranted, but it looks like a desertion of the church's standard on secret societies, for which Elder Owen is largely responsible. If I am not in error, we may note this as another instance in which the judgment of a trusted leader has been warped by connection with a movement to checkmate the papacy, and defeat the devil by employing his own pet methods of division and secretism against him. Christ, however, who is "stronger than the strong man armed," interposed in answer to prayer and moved upon the hearts of some of the pastors to quietly encourage the work and attend the meeting, but notably to enlist the godly women of the "Christian Alliance," who espoused the cause and rendered every assistance in their power. The "elect ladies" of Utica are, under God, entitled to the credit of having made the convention possible in that stronghold of opposition and of the success in which it resulted. Verily, they shall not fail to receive their reward.

It was truly encouraging, after the closing session, to hear so many ask, "When are you going to hold another convention in Utica? It has been a real blessing to my soul; I didn't understand your work; I wish you would stay a week; we want to know more about the lodges and how to deal with them," etc., etc.

The addresses and prayer-meetings were thoroughly pervaded by the Spirit, and the testimony of Bro. Stephen Merritt, who had taken 138 degrees, and who had at one time been the youngest "Worshipful Master," while presiding over the largest lodge in the State, but whose eyes had been opened, and whom "the Son had made free indeed," carried conviction and gave hope to many hearts. There were others present whom "One greater than Moses" had led out of the Egyptian bondage of oath-bound secrecy, but I will forbear further detail, least I trench upon the report of the secretary and of Bro. Kellogg, whose facile pen will convey to your readers a meed of the joyous enthusiasm which shone in his face as he saw the victory for which he had no earnestly prayed and untiringly labored.

As our train is delayed for an hour, waiting for a western express, I will add that while some were missing whom I had confidently hoped to meet, it was a real benediction to look once more into the faces and hear again the manly utterances of veterans like Bro. Wardner, Bro. Woodruff, and Bro. Wallace, and to welcome new recruits or old friends of the cause who, like Bro. Smith, Bro. Merritt, Bro. Foster, and Bro. Knappenberger, are "coming up to the help of the Lord" against this mighty foe of the family, the church and the state. J. P. STODDARD.

THE EASTERN SECRETARY AT THE NATIONAL REFORM CONVENTION.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 17, 1893.

DEAR CYNOSURE:—The annual convention held under the auspices of the National Reform Association in the First U. P. church, Allegheny, for the past three days, closed with last evening's session. From the beginning it was evident there was to be a great gathering, but the manifest interest exceeded expectations.

Under the Divine moving power, several causes combined to make it what it has been, a grand success. There is, perhaps, no city in the United that to the square foot contains more National Reformers than the one chosen for this gathering. The leaders had secured speakers of national reputation, and told the people what to expect. Every detail of the program had been carefully prepared. How could Christian people, viewing the terrible corruptions of church and state, high and low politics, do otherwise than arise as one man, if possible, to stem this ever-increasing tide that every day threatens the destruction of all that is dear to the child of God? That something must be done, and done quickly, is so apparent that only the hoodwinked do not see.

The crowding of this great church edifice with thoughtful, earnest Christian men and women, to listen to a discussion of great issues pressing upon the Christian people of America, is but one of the evidences of the unrest in our body politic.

People don't know where to go, or what to do. Politicians tell them it is the tariff that's wrong, or the silver needs adjustment; and so they vote them up, and vote them down, in the vain hope that possibly some party may strike it right; but as the cloud grows blacker and more dense, seeing no ray of light, they turn in disgust, almost in despair, and inquire what can we do? It is the mission of the National Reform Association to point them to the only sure remedy. The King of Judah, the Jehovah of God, is the only source of authority. Happiness and prosperity attend every nation that obeys his laws; destruction and death those who do not. Will the people hear? Will they turn before it is too late?

Time and space forbid more than a mention of a few of the good things spread before us at this feast of thought.

We were all made to feel more than welcome by the addresses of Dr. W. J. Robinson. His setting forth of the basis on which the National Reform structure rests was clear and concise.

President S. F. Scovil, of Wooster University, in answering the objection: "You can't make men moral by law," showed that the law was for the creation of morality in the individual and state. Men can be made bad by law; why not moral?

The aims of the convention were set forth by Dr. H. H. George. To his untiring efforts, the success of this gathering is largely due.

There was no more interested person present than John Alexander, of Philadelphia. The burden of years was made lighter as he saw the views which he had advocated during a long life so generally adopted by the people. The historical paper which he presented will be printed and read with interest, doubtless, by generations to come.

Dr. W. F. Oldham's paper on "The Sunday Newspaper" presented a concise summary of alarming facts as to the spread and result of this evil.

Rev. J. H. Leiper called attention to the fact than an army of boys and girls were being educated, by the sale of these papers on the Sabbath, to violate the law and become anarchists.

Special mention should be made of the address of H. L. Hastings, whose anti-infidel tracts are printed in all languages and sent the world around. This venerable father in Israel took the house by storm. His thrilling address was opened with the statement: "The fool who in the Psalmist's days said in his heart, 'there is no God,' has grown bolder and says it to-day out loud."

The drink traffic, as presented by Dr. J. T. McCrory, appeared to be the sum of all villainies. The writer could not agree with the doctor in his statement that it is the greatest evil of our times. From the setting up of the first false worship by Cain, to this day, false worship has been the greatest evil. Bacchus is but one of the satellites of Satan.

Rev. R. C. Wylie proved that "the labor problem could be solved only by the law of Christ."

Guy Maine, of New York, in a masterly manner, depicted the great wrong done to Chinamen by the notorious Geary act.

Rev. Dr. Asbury, presiding elder of the A. M. E. church, asked leave to change his subject, "The Race Problem," to "The Negro Problem," and added: "There is but one race—the human race." The advancement of the Negro, as shown by the doctor, has been marvelous.

Hon. L. S. Coffin, of railroad notoriety, spoke of the needlessness of running Sunday trains. In his opinion, there was no excuse for such Sabbath desecration.

Anthony Comstock, who needs no introduction to an American audience, held the undivided attention of this already tired assemblage for two hours, until 10:30. As he pictured the sweet innocence of the babe in the cradle, and then the terrible death-traps set in secret for its unwary feet, more than one shed tears, and resolved down deep in their hearts to help what they could in crushing out this monster.

So might I write on; but I must not. I trust the Cynosure may find space to print the excellent resolutions passed, and some of the briefs from the Commercial Gazette which I send herewith.

Nearly the amount (one thousand dollars) asked of the convention to push forward the work of National Reform was received in cash and pledges.

I remain in this section for a time, having appointments in New Bedford, Lawrence county, for Nov. 26 and after. Friends wishing lectures can address me at Home Hotel, Pittsburgh.

W. B. STODDARD.

THE HOME.

A THANKSGIVING PSALM.

(Psalm 67.)

Shine, Mighty God, on Zion shine,
With beams of heavenly grace;
Reveal thy power through all our coasts,
And show thy smiling face.

When shall thy name from shore to shore
Sound all the earth abroad,
And distant nations know and love
Their Saviour and their God?

Sing to the Lord, ye distant lands,
Sing loud, with solemn voice;
Let every tongue exalt his praise,
And every heart rejoice.

He, the great Lord, the sovereign Judge,
That sit enthroned above,
In wisdom rules the worlds he made,
And bids them taste his love.

Earth shall obey his high command,
And yield a full increase;
Our God will crown his chosen land
With fruitfulness and peace.

God, the Redeemer, scatters round
His choicest favors here,
While the creation's utmost bound
Shall see, adore, and fear.

—Isaac Watts.

THE GIRL WHO CLEANED THE STEPS.

Thomas Champness, in an address at Exeter Hall, while speaking of the young servant girls in the west end of London, said, "I am the son of a household servant. My mother was a London servant maid, and I love these peasant women and poor farmers' daughters who come to London. We see the mothers coming to the station to see them off, and we know something of what they feel. Early in my ministry a gentleman said of me, 'His preaching is only fit for servant maids.' I have learned this lesson: that if there are no servant girls in the congregation it is a poor quarterly collection!

"We find that a girl who comes from the country knows when there is a preacher who is alive, and a congregation that can pray and sing. You have thousands of young girls who are doing service in the west end, for whom you should care. They make some of the grandest women in the world. I am proud that my mother was of that class. I want to tell you a story. I find folks remember my stories even when they forget my sermons. I do not have to go to books for them. I meet them in my daily walks.

"Some years ago there was in the North of England a family of farmers well-to-do. They came down in the world, as many farmers have done in recent years. The sons emigrated, but the girl said she would not emigrate, she would go out and seek a situation; and she became, not a governess, not a 'companion,' but just a straightforward servant girl. This girl did a nobler thing to come and work in a big town and earn wages as a servant girl, than to idle at home.

"One day when she was cleaning the steps, a brick-layer came by. He saw this nice girl cleaning the steps, and he said, 'I will see her again.' So he managed to find out what place of worship she went to, and it turned out to be a Methodist chapel. So he said, "I will go there." And when he went there for something he liked, he got something he did not like; he found out he was a sinner and needed a Saviour; and moreover, he found out that Mary would have nothing to say to him so long as he was unconverted. He gave himself to Jesus Christ, and then he asked her if he might come and see her a bit. And so they 'made it up;'—you understand what I mean—they got married.

"He worked at his trade some time, and kept on saving money, till by and by he said, 'I shall build a house for myself.' His ambition was to build a house fit to receive the Methodist preachers. He built his house, and when it was finished he took his wife and children in a sort of little procession from the old house to the new. When they got to the front door, he said to his wife:

"'Dost thou see those steps, Mary?'

"'Ay, surely!' said she.

"'Well, Mary, them was the steps thou wast cleaning when I first saw thee, lass.' The master's house was pulled down, and I went to the auction and bought the steps. I said, 'When thee has a house of thy own those steps shall be in the front for thee to walk over.'

"And up those steps have walked Dr. Newton, Dr. Bunting, and the great and mighty men of the Methodist past.

"It is too long a story to tell now. Her son went into business with his father—a smart Methodist lad, a local preacher, and he said one day to his father,

"'We must not always be working like this; we must make some more money. Why should we not buy a clay field and make our own bricks?' The father said, 'Well;' so they bought the field, and it turned out to be a field of gold. Some of the best bricks in England were made there. It made their fortunes; and the son of the woman who cleaned the steps, when I saw him last, was living in a villa of his own, a rich man, and a great blessing to Methodism in his time; and my feeling is that Methodism must 'take care of the girls that clean the steps.'"—Anonymous.

INFIDELITY CURED.

A young man was inclined toward infidelity, and like others of his age who have imbibed such notions, he was more or less proud of his advanced ideas. He took occasion one day to go to the study of a minister of his acquaintance and state to him his doubts and disbelief in Christianity. He expected, of course, that the minister would undertake an elaborate argument to prove the truth of the Scriptures and the reality of the religion founded on them. This would give him just what he wanted, the opportunity to argue and combat. But the pastor, with the wisdom not born of earth, after listening till he had concluded his harangue, said quietly, "Let us tell Jesus about it," and dropped on his knees. The young would-be-infidel was surprised into following his example. As the two knelt side by side, the man of God poured out his petition from a full heart for the young man beside him, but without any allusion to his condition of skeptical unbelief. He simply pleaded for him as a sinner needing salvation. The prayer was answered. Before he arose from his knees the doubter doubted no longer. Instead, he was convinced and converted and ready to ask with Paul: "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?" The answer came, and that young man now preaches the Gospel he once sought to destroy with his infidel arguments. That quiet "Let us tell Jesus," followed by the simple earnest prayer, did what argument would have failed to do.

There is the lesson. Will soul-winners learn it? Go and tell Jesus—alone, if need be; with those you would win, if you can—but tell Jesus and ask of him the needed grace. It is not argument with man that is needed so much as telling Jesus. Take him at his word: "Ask what ye will and it shall be done unto you." Go and tell Jesus!—Mid-Continent.

CHILDREN AT TABLE AND TABLE TALK.

Brilliant Savarin, in his book entitled "Physiologie du Gout," says what, rendered into English, reads thus: "A fine dinner without old cheese is like a pretty woman who lacks one eye." Confessing a weakness for old cheese, I should change the simile thus: "A fine dinner without children at table is like the same woman lacking both eyes." English children, as a rule, are not allowed at table with their parents before they are 12 years old. In this country, however, as soon as the little tot can feed himself, he is generally admitted—sometimes to receive careful training from judicious parents, and sometimes to train injudicious parents after his own sweet will. To my mind a parent loses much that would add to the cheer and beauty of family life, as well as a golden opportunity for training and culture, by keeping the children at a separate table. Let the little fellow come with you, and try and avoid two extremes—that of allowing him to monopolize the conversation, or of training him in such a manner that the table will be to him only a place where he may, under the most absolute restraint, satisfy his hunger. Bring everything that you have gathered during the day of cheer and brightness to your table. If you have read anything of special interest, or made a pleasant visit, or have a sweet surprise for any one, mention it there.

If the little one asks a question (and he certainly will) take time to answer him (if you can), always teaching him to wait until others have finished speaking. But let him feel that he has a place there. Do not silence him, for a child is often more sensitive than you know, and one who is continually silenced and made to feel that he has no definite place will rarely feel at ease as he grows older, or develop into a good conversationalist when you may greatly desire it. If you see him with flushed cheeks and flashing eyes, under the inspiration of an audience, trying to tell of something that interests him, do not crush him by telling him that "little children should be seen and not heard." Who was the author of that outrageous remark? Was it Benjamin Franklin?

Discuss the current events of the day, and let the child feel that the table is a place where he may learn something. But above all things, put far from you, for the time being, anything that tends to annoy. Let not the jar of the domestic machinery—should there be any—be heard at the table. Even should you be compelled to reprove, do it so carefully that if possible none but the offender shall hear, leaving all severity of discipline, or even moral reflections concerning his conduct, until you have him alone.

All this table training will require a deal of thought and care; call it trouble, if you will, but the labor of training children—or of one child even—in any direction is no sinecure. Judicious direction will do more than constant repression. They do not care particularly to be "seen," but they do want to be "heard" sometimes. Therefore let them be heard, teaching them, out of a large patience, good behaviour at table; and the eyes that see them and the ears that hear them shall be blessed.—Mrs. N. K. Bradford.

A PEN PICTURE.

Let us see how a Japanese woman keeps house. If she has been out-of-doors, before entering her house she takes off her sandals, pushes aside the sliding doors of paper, and enters in her stocking feet. The rooms are softly matted, but contain little furniture. In the kitchen is a large stone box with ashes and burning coals in it; this is called the hibachi, and over it the rice is cooked. There is no chimney, but the smoke goes out through a hole in the roof, or through the broad open doors. After the rice is cooked, it is put in a small unpainted wooden tub. At dinner time the mother brings out a little table, two feet square and one foot high, with dishes and food upon it. The family sit on the floor on the mats, the tub of rice in the center, and each one dips out sufficient for himself in a small bowl. They often pour tea over their rice, and always eat it with chopsticks. Fish, sweet potatoes, and a pickle are sometimes served with the rice.

Each person lays his head, in sleeping, on a little pillow stuffed with straw till it is as hard as wood, and with a hollow place in which the head may rest. In some room in the house is a closet containing a shelf for the gods, and upon this shelf stand all the household idols which have come down as heirlooms. One of the best tests of the Christian convert is the willingness to put away these idols.

So widely varied are the habits and customs of the different nations of the earth; yet as "face answereth to face in water, so the heart of man to man." If the mothers of America could meet in friendly converse with the mothers of Japan, they would find each in the other the same love and pride, the same anxieties, and the same planning for their children, only manifesting itself in different ways. The one sad difference is that the Japanese mother cannot tell her children of Jesus' love and power, for, alas! she does not know of Jesus. Thank God, some do now know, not only by hearing, but in their hearts. Pray earnestly, and work while you pray, that soon every Japanese mother may know that Jesus loves and "saves to the uttermost."

Some one has said that the religion of Christ may be well summed up in these three simple utterances of the Master; Come, Do, Go,—"Come unto me. Do this in remembrance of me. Go, make disciples of all nations." In one of the beautiful legends of the old ages, St. Christopher wished to serve the most powerful of all masters. Finding that Satan, whom he thought unconquered, turned aside and quailed at the sight of one hanging on a cross, St. Christopher found a last in Jesus the source of strength and power. "He is the same yesterday, to-day and forever." Let us follow him closely in daily, loving service. Life is real, our spiritual life is real, missionary life is real, our enemies are real, and so is our God.—M. M. Stone, in Missionary Link.

IF I WERE A GIRL.

I would take care of my health by living out doors as much as possible, and taking long walks in the sunshine. English girls understand how necessary this is for good complexions and cheerful spirits. Wear simple clothing, that you may climb mountains and breathe freely.

I would secure the best education. Go to college by all means if it were possible. Read good books, and thereby become intelligent.

I would cultivate cheerfulness. Discontent soon shows itself in the face. If you have disappointments, so do others. If you are cramped for money, be thankful that your lot is no worse than it is. Learn to make the best of things. An unhappy woman is a perpetual club in the home. A fretful girl has few friends, and the number lessens year by year.

I would say kind things of others, especially of the girls. A girl who makes unkind remarks about other girls would better be avoided by young men. She will not make an agreeable companion for life.

I would learn to be self-supporting. Especially in this country, where fortunes change, it is wise for a woman to be able to care for berself. Helpless women are not a comfort to others, and usually not to themselves.

I would try to be polite everywhere. True courtesy is more winsome than a pretty face and fine dress. Loud talk or loud dress does not betoken the lady. Be appreciative and sympathetic, and you have the two keys which will unlock almost all hearts.

I would learn self-control. To know when to speak and when to be silent; have hateful things said about you and to be able to answer pleasantly; to have people confide in you and be wise enough to keep it locked in your heart; to be in poverty and not be soured by it; to meet temptation and be strong before it; to be strong enough to perform any labor or duty that needs to be done—all this shows a noble mastery over self.

I would be punctual. Being late at meals, late at church, or late in meeting engagements makes unnecessary friction in families. If we are unwilling to lose valuable time, we have no right to make others lose it.

The golden rule of doing good unto others as we would that they should do unto us is especially applicable here.—Exchange.

BRUCE'S BOARDERS.

Mrs. Foster was busy dusting her dining-room. She had a white cap over her hair, and wore a long blue apron. Knock, knock, knock, went somebody's fingers on the door, and before she could whisk off her cap or say, "Come in!" the door opened slowly and cautiously.

"Who can be coming to see me so early?" thought Mrs. Foster. "Oh," as a fair, curly head presented itself, "it's Bruce Pettigrew! Well, Bruce, what can I do for you to-day?"

"Mrs. Foster," said the child, bringing in a small tin plate, "won't you please, ma'am, save me your crumbs and apple cores for my boarders?"

"Your boarders?" cried Mrs. Foster.

"Yes, ma'am—the birds, you know. So many of them come now since the snow, that I don't have enough to give them, so I thought I'd bring over my plate and get you to help me. I'll come back for it after dinner," and the little boy was gone without waiting for any promise.

So day after day the little boy and the little tin plate traveled backward and forward, and the birds flocked more and more to the snow-covered ledge of that third-story window. But Bruce's plan did more than feed the birds—more than he knew of, as is the case with most plans for good.

"That baby has the right idea of helping," thought busy Mrs. Foster; "he gives all he can himself, and then he takes the trouble to get other people to help. Now there's Mrs. Irwin, she has enough cast-offs to set the poor O'Connors up in comfort. I'll just step over and ask for them."

"An old dress!" said Mrs. Irwin, in a friendly tone; "why, to be sure, if you think that red dress that Mary has just laid aside would do any good;" and before the visit was over Mrs. Foster had more than she could carry home—enough to make the whole O'Connor family happy.

It gave the Irwins a new interest in the O'Connors, too, and in all those poor people in that alley.—Sunbeam.

MY FATHER'S CARE.

There is in store for me, to-day,
Just what my Father wills;
If rough or smooth shall be my way,
It but His plan fulfills.
Each moment I shall find my need
By his own hand supplied.
My soul with manna shall He feed.
I shall be satisfied.

With joyful heart, I forth shall go,
My daily task to meet.
No fear or doubting shall I know,
My rest of soul complete.
Though storms may rage and tempests roar,
My heart, still trusting Him,
Shall eagle-like, above them soar,
While peace abides within.

I'll look for glad surprises too,
Of gifts beyond my need.
His love is not content to do,
What need alone can plead.
He loves to give me happiness,
My cup, with joy he fills,
And giveth glory, with His grace,
'Till all my being thrills.

—Theophilus.

TEMPERANCE.

FIGHTING SALOONS.

"I don't believe saloons have to be endured. I do believe a Christian ought to be a fighter. I do believe that the kingdom of Jesus is and is to be in this world—though not originally of it, having come from above, the source of every good and perfect gift. I expect to see the Christian men and women of America crush the liquor traffic, but it can't be done by songs. I have lately been to hear 'The Messiah.' It was very finely rendered—everybody said so, but it did not appeal to me in the least. The singers surely did their best and were, I should think, very artistic in method; they got their breath in the right place apparently—at times I hoped they wouldn't get it at all—but they took so long to get anywhere, and my deliberate verdict is that I never heard so much fuss to as small amount of letter-press as there was in the libretto. The bass repeated, say seven times, the question 'why—y—y—y do the heathen ra—a—a—a—ge,' etc., and intimated by his manner that he knew very well why it was, but in fact he stopped without throwing a ray of light on the subject of foreign missions. Now oratorio is all right for some people and some places, but won't do at all for campaigns where there is fighting to be done. What we want in our Christianity is a brass band movement. 'Lift up your voice like a trumpet,' 'Let God arise, let his enemies be scattered.' "—John E. Wooley, in Rest Islander.

THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC AT WASHINGTON.

[From a recent Washington Letter.]

It seems strange, in view of the large number of deaths caused directly thereby, that everybody has not long ago become convinced that alcoholic liquor in certain quantities is just as deadly poison to the human system as strychnine or arsenic. Having a doubt about its poisonous qualities cost an ignorant colored man his life, one day this week. He made a wager with a man as ignorant as himself, in the presence of the keeper of one of those dives which thrive by the sale of liquor to the poorest and most ignorant of our population, that he could, without removing the bottle from his mouth, drink a quart of whisky; and the keeper of that dive sold the poor colored man the quart of whisky, knowing what use he proposed to make of it. He drank it, and in five minutes was unconscious, in which state he remained until he died. The coroner, when notified of the manner in which the man came to his death, decided that an inquest was unnecessary. With all due respect to the coroner, I venture to entertain the opinion that an inquest should have been held upon this case, and, further, that its finding should have been that the deceased died from the effect of poison administered by the man who sold him the liquor. It was little short of downright murder for that dive-keeper to have sold the man the quart of whisky, after hearing him say that he intended drinking it all at once, and if there be no law under which he can be punished it is high time that steps should be taken towards getting one.

How much mistaken those were who argued that high license would restrict the retail liquor traffic in Washington is shown by the number of applications for retail licenses at $400 each, which have up to the present time been made, as compared with the number of retail licenses granted at $100 each last year. Last year there were 638 retail licenses granted, and there have been 609 applications for retail licenses already made for this license year. The increase of the wholesale liquor license from $25 to $250 a year has apparently acted better. Last year there were 462 wholesale licenses granted, while this year only 181 applications have been made for wholesale licenses. A considerable percentage of this decrease, however, is owing to the drug stores not being required under the new law to procure liquor licenses, not being allowed to sell liquor except as a medicine and upon a physician's prescription; last year they had wholesale licenses, at least many of them did. The Anti-Saloon League has procured evidence which its members believe will result in the rejection of many of the applications that have been made for retail licenses.

THE RESPONSIBILITY.

The following letter, addressed to Dr. Munhall, during one of his evangelistic campaigns in a Western city, contains so much truth that we publish it in full for careful and thoughtful study.

Dear Sir:—I attended your meeting last night, and I think you were, to say the least, unfair in your denunciation of the saloon-keepers. I differ with you as to their having no conscience. I am an ex-saloon-keeper. I kept a "respectable place." Besides that, I rented my place of a deacon in a Baptist church. My bondsmen were one a Methodist, the other a Presbyterian. The officers, whose signatures were affixed to the document which gave me the right to sell, both belonged to "my church." On the day of election, Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians, Congregationalists, Episcopalians, Lutherans, Catholics, Spiritualists, Universalists, infidels, atheists, saloon-keepers and highway robbers, all voted for a license to grant me the privilege to damn the souls you are trying to save: and let me prophesy now that many who arose last night to be counted as members of some evangelical church will this fall cast their vote for a license to sell liquid damnation.

It is strange that the evangelists are whipping the saloon-keeper with a lash that ought to be used upon the backs of the professed Christians, who use their prayers to mock God and their votes to build the kingdom of the devil. You quoted Scripture last night to prove that saloon-keepers inherit the abode of the damned, but no reference was made to the final summing up of the hypocrites. Let me give you a few quotations from the Scripture "Woe unto you, hypocrites, who under the cloak of the church sell your principle for a price, who pave your streets with human souls, and paint your asylums with the blood of the innocent victims of your legalized rum." "Woe unto you who stand in the synagogue and pray God to drive intemperance from our land, and stand at the exit with your vote to drive it back. For in the last day you will be cast into a lake of whisky set on fire by the demons of hell."

A saloon-keeper is not a hypocrite; a Christian man of brains who votes for a license is. And if I understand the Bible right God hates a hypocrite worse than the devil hates a saint. Deal fairly with all and we sinners will find no fault.

An Ex Saloon Keeper.

P. S.—I am so ashamed that I was ever engaged in the satanic business of selling the devil's tea that I will not give my name. Hoping the church may be converted and saloon-keepers driven from their legalized dens, I quit.—The Christian Reporter.

BIBLE LESSON.

STUDIES IN THE EPISTLES.

LESSON XI.—Fourth Quarter, 1893.—December 10.

SUBJECT.—The Heavenly Inheritance.—1 Peter 1: 1-12.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Giving thanks unto the Father, which hath made us meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the saints in light.—Colossians 1: 12.

[Open the Bible and read the lesson.]

COMMENTS BY E. E. FLAGG.

1. Peter's greeting.—vs. 1, 2. Like the epistle of James, this letter of Peter's is a general one, but addressed especially to Christian Jews, who were in a literal sense "strangers" or foreigners in the countries over which they were dispersed. It applies spiritually to every one who has renounced the world, and whose citizenship is in heaven. A foreigner has different habits and manners, and speaks another language from the people with whom he lives. Nor, if his stay is but temporary, will he seek to become the owners of houses and lands, or any treasure which he cannot take away with him, and the possession of which would hamper and delay his return to his own country. It is the great trouble with Christians to-day, that they forget their heavenly citizenship, and live as if this world was their native home and abiding place. "Elect according to the foreknowledge of God the Father." He chooses us to this inheritance of eternal glory, but our own free will must ratify the choice through "sanctification," by allowing his blessed Spirit to work in and by us, and through "obedience" to all holy commands.

2. The Christian's inheritance.—vs. 3–7. We note (1) The Christian receives his inheritance, not by works, but through an act of divine mercy. (2) Flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God, so that our only hope isthrough the resurrection of Christ as the promise and pledge of our own. (3) It is not a dead but a living hope influencing all our lives and causing us to shape every action, not in accordance with the standards of the low earthly sphere which we now occupy but the higher one to which we look forward; just as an heir of royalty, though not yet invested with his crown, would be expected to demean himself in a manner consistent with the exalted station he expects to fill. (4) It is an incorruptible inheritance. It cannot be destroyed, or decay through age. It will be as glorious when millions of years have passed as when we first entered on its possesion. (5) It has been held in reservation for us from all eternity. What must be the grandeur of such an inheritance, and how worthy of any sacrifice or self-denial here in order to attain it. (6) It is for them who are kept by the power of God. This keeping power is for all who will seek it. God has no favored children, or if he can be said to have any they are those who feel their weakness most and cling the closer to him. (7) This inheritance should be a cause for continual rejoicing, and the most when we are in the midst of the severest trials. Peter wrote in the time of the first great persecution, when Christians in every corner of the empire were "in heaviness through manifold"—or various—"temptations." The trials of a Christian are not all of a kind. Usually they include a great variety, and it is by reason of this variety that all our weak points are strengthened, and we attain at last what is much more precious than gold which perisheth, a well-rounded Christian charcter. God has but one end in trying us, and that is to perfect us and make us worthy of this heavenly inheritance.

3. The invisible yet present Christ.—vs. 8, 9. "Whom not having seen ye love." The Christians to whom Peter wrote had to accept the truths of the Gospel on the same evidences that we do. They had never seen their Lord in the flesh, yet he was to them an ever-present Saviour. Had they thought of him as far away or had they accepted with half-hearted faith what was told them about him how could they ever have endured the pangs of martyrdom, or the worse pang of giving up their nearest and dearest for Christ's sake? Such a faith brings "joy unspeakable," and the end of it is our salvation. "For by faith are ye saved."

4. Salvation prophesied of old.—vs. 10–12. From the time of man's fall, there had always been elect souls who had prophesied of the grace that was to come and restore our lost humanity to a better Paradise than Adam forfeited. Isaiah in terms of wonderful vividness "testified beforehand the sufferings of Christ and the glory that should follow." "Not unto themselves but unto us they did minister." The prophets died without a sight of the glory they foretold. Nothing is more pathetic than the thought of the multitudes of noble and inspired souls who have dreamed dreams for others to realize, and made themselves the ministers—or servants—of future generations who enter into their labors and reap unthinking the harvest they sowed in tears. "Which things the angels desire to look into." This would seem to imply that there are mysteries of salvation that even angelic intelligences cannot understand. How much less can we in our finite state expect to fathom them. Their desire to look into them is not mere curiosity. The whole universe is concerned in the success of God's great plan for the salvation of humanity, and has a stake in the result. Who knows what may hinge on our daily battles with evil that we think are so small and commonplace. Let us be faithful, and thus win the glorious inheritance—immortal life.

LITERATURE.

PELOUBET'S SELECT NOTES: A Commentary on the Sunday-School Lessons for 1894, by Rev. F. N. Peloubet, D. D., and M. A. Peloubet. 356 pp. Illustrated, $1.25. W. A. Wilde & Co., 25 Bromfield St., Boston, Mass.

It has been said "there was only one best," and among all the many helps for teachers of the International Lessons the "one best" is surely Peloubet's Notes.

There are many helps that partially cover the lesson-subject, but for a complete understanding of the text from every standpoint the teacher should have this book at hand for weekly reference in studying the lessons.

It will be a peculiar help during 1894, because the first six months' lessons, being from the earlier books of the Old Testament, introduce many perplexing questions that must be squarely answered, and Dr. Peloubet has been extremely wise and judicious in so presenting these controversial subjects that they become incidental rather than prominent, and thus do not obscure or tend to lead away from the main teachings of the lesson.

In handling the lesson on the life of Christ for the last half of the year, the author has drawn from his incomparable store of past study and thought the brightest, most trenchant expressions and teachings of the world's students.

The notes are simply complete in every respect, and even a captious critic would have to scan close to take exception to them.

The text is illustrated with abundant original engravings, which illuminate many otherwise dark passages; and, as a whole, in its mechanical as well as literary make-up, the book will at once interest and instruct any teacher of the Word.

It is published in one volume, uniform with its nineteen annual predecessors, and is a rare reference book for one's library, even after the year's study is completed.

CURRENT PERIODICALS.

Our Day for November has a variety of articles, the interest of which hinges largely upon the recent events that inspired them: The Southern Problem and its Solution, by Lewis H. Blair; Christianity as Seen in a Tour of the World, by Rev. F. E. Clark (founder of Christian Endeavor societies), with a fine portrait of the author; Two Boston Monday Lectures—Shall the United States Annex the Sandwich Islands? and What is Sunday Worth to Labor? and a Boston Hymn—The Soul's Outcry—all by Joseph Cook; Joseph Cook and Dr. Pentecost on the World's Parliament of Religions, and numerous minor comments and editorial notes, make up an attractive number of this excellent magazine. Published at 28 Beacon street, Boston, and the Woman's Temple, Chicago. Price, 25 cents.

Worthington's Magazine has now been published one year, and has given great satisfaction to its growing list of patrons, while the press of the country has been lavish of deserved commendation of this new venture, which seems now to have won a permanent existence and an enviable position among its older competitors. The December number contains the following illustrated and other papers: The Life-saving Service of the United States, by S. G. W. Benjamin, fully illustrated; One of the Forty-niners, a pioneer story of California, by Mrs. Mary A. Livermore; Brian Boru, a Rocky Mountain Sketch, by Anna Fuller; A Day with the Pueblos (Indians) of Nambe, illustrated; Melinda Robbins, Legatee, a story, by Edith E. Stowe; Can Love Survive Pinching Poverty? by Junius Henri Browne; Only a Country Girl, a story, by Margaret V. F. Livingston; An Old-Fashioned Love-Match—the story of Gov. John Winthrop, by Helen Campbell; A Curious Fallacy, by Kate Sanborn, and the usually well-filled household departments. These constitute a favorite and cheerful feature of this excellent magazine. Published at Hartford, Conn., by A. D. Worthington & Co. Price, 25 cents.

MUSIC.

The following new holiday music has been received from J. Fischer & Bro., publishers and importers, 7 Bible House, New York: "Hail to the Day," solo and chorus anthem, by A. Diabelli. "Praise ye the Lord," a solo and chorus, and "Angel Bands in Strains Sweet Sounding," also a solo and chorus. Both of these last named are by J. Wiegand, the noted composer, and all three are worthy of consideration by professional and amateur singers. Their prices, respectively, are 20, 25, and 35 cents.

Other seasonable music, as follows, comes to us, through S. Brainard's Sons, Chicago: "Columbia's Christmas Chimes, a National Sunday-school Exercise for Children," in 21 parts—anthems, chorus, recitations, etc., by J. B. Herbert. Another is: "The Joyful Story," a new musical entertainment (in 22 parts) for Sunday-schools, by the same composer. The price of each, complete, is 5 cents.

RELIGIOUS NEWS.

CONGREGATIONALIST.

—A memorial meeting for Mr. James W. Scoville, who died at Pasedena, Cal., Nov. 2, was held in the chapel of the Theological Seminary, Chicago, on Friday. Pres. F. W. Fisk, D. D., presided, and addresses were made by Rev. G. S. F. Savage, Mr. James H. Pearson and Mr. E. W. Blatchford. Mr. Scoville was for fifteen years officially connected with the Seminary as director and chairman of the executive committee, and was one of the largest donors to its funds.

—Dr. and Mrs. G. S. F. Savage have left Chicago for a winter's sojourn in Southern California. Their post-office address will be Pasedena, Cal.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.

—Sunday, Nov. 26, was the time, and the "Standard theater," on the west side, the place, for inaugurating a Methodist movement in the interest of the workingman and the poorer classes in Chicago. The Standard theater is located in probably the most needy and thickly settled part of the city. The saloon and its accompaniments now dominate.

—Hemenway Methodist church, Evanston, has adopted the free pew system.

—Rev. Hugh Price Hughes' freinds are becoming anxious in regard to his health, which is being imperiled by overwork.

—Messrs. Anderson Fowler and Richard Grant have presented to the Methodist church a group of valuable property in different cities in Chile, which is worth from $200,000 to $250,000. This large sum represents actual dollars given to the work, allowing something, perhaps, for the accretion in values in that land.

—When the subject of appropriations for mission work in India was before the general Missionary Committee of the M. E. Church, at their meeting in Minneapolis, Minn., last week, Bishop Mallalieu said that if it were possible to put $100,000 and fifty missionaries in the field, they would have 15,000,000 converts in India in a very few years. Other bishops, as reported, told of the great work that was being accomplished. Natives were being converted and baptized by the tens of thousands. In one place 10,000 people were waiting to be received into the church.

PRESBYTERIAN.

—Rev. Dr. John Chester, pastor of the Metropolitan church, at Washington, D. C., announced on Nov. 12 his intention of retiring next April, when he will have completed thirty years of service as pastor of the church. Dr. Chester was called to the church in April, 1864, from Burlington, N. J., and is the only pastor the church has ever had. Through his faithful labors it has grown from a small handful of worshipers, holding services in a school room, to a congregation of six hundred communicants, owning church property, unincumbered, and worth $60.000.

—Advices from Chefoo, China, received Nov. 19, by steamer, give details of the sudden death of Rev. J. L. Nevius, of the American Presbyterian mission. He was widely known in China, and it was mainly through his efforts that the Chinese around Chefoo have developed the culture of foreign fruits.

—Mr. Alexander Montgomery, a Scotch Presbyterian, lately deceased in San Francisco and one of the pioneers of the State, has left, by his will, the Pacific Theological Seminary (Presbyterian) his residuary legatee. His estate is valued at from two to three milions, and his other bequests are not over $1,600,000. He had given the Seminary $500,000 during his lifetime.

MISCELLANEOUS.

—A Baltimore paper reports on "The Church in Iceland" that the inhabitants in that cold region are all members of the Lutheran church under one bishop and 140 clergy. Five years ago two Jesuit English fathers visited the island and found but one Roman Catholic among a population of 71,000 souls.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

By the President of the United States of America—a proclamation: While the American people should every day remember, by praise and thanksgiving, the divine goodness and mercy which have followed them since their beginning as a nation, it is fitting that one day in each year should be especially devoted to the contemplation of the blessing we have received from the hand of God, and to the grateful acknowledgment of his loving kindness:

Therefore, I, Grover Cleveland, President of the United States, do hereby designate and set apart Thursday, the 30th day of the present month of November, as a day of thanksgiving and praise, to be kept and observed by all the people of our land. On that day let us forego our ordinary work and employments and assemble in our usual places of worship, where we may recall all that God has done for us and where from grateful hearts our united tribute of praise and song may reach the throne of grace. Let the reunion of kindred and the social meeting of friends lend cheer and enjoyment to the day, and let generous gifts of charity for the relief of the poor and needy prove the sincerity of our thanksgiving.

Witness my hand and the seal of the United States I have caused to be hereto affixed. Done at the city of Washington on the third day of November, in the year of our Lord eighteen hundred and ninety-three, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and eighteenth. GROVER CLEVELAND.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

CHICAGO.

Julius Maas, once a prosperous merchant, was found dead in an attic. It is thought he starved to death.

Louis A. Hiliard, embezzling Tribune employe, was sentenced to four years in Chester prison by Judge Brentano.

Steel rail, structural iron and armor plate manufacture is declared to be in the hands of a gigantic combine.

Evidence will be introduced in the Cronin trial showing that Dan Coughlin was in the wagon containing the trunk.

Banks in Chicago are complaining about accumulation of money and the slack demand there is for it.

A. J. Rosenthal, son of a well-known stock-broker, is charged with forging his father's name to checks for various amounts.

Pretending to be a gas inspector, a thief was admitted to William Armour's house. He secured $2,000 worth of jewelry.

Demand for money shows little change. Bank deposits at Chicago continue to increase at a rapid rate.

Legal objections to Manufactures' building going to the lake front have been found by Assistant Corporation Counsel Zeisler.

Directors are in a hurry to finish and hope to wind up the affairs of the exposition by New Years' Day.

Electric motor cars began running on Twenty-second street, from Ashland avenue west, and Lawndale residents are gleeful.

The Guaranty Investment Company was declared a lottery and four of its officers were convicted of illegal use of the mails.

Judge Kohlsaat will investigate the methods by which Father Clancy, of Woodstock, gained possession of John Flusky's property.

Sensational testimony is promised in the trial of Dan Coughlin. The assassins are said to have dug a grave for Dr. Cronin.

Physicians will be employed by the board of education to visit the schools and vaccinate all pupils without certificates.

Denmark's collection of Thorwaldsen relics was presented to the Columbian Museum by Commissioner Meyer.

Thomas McNally, Charles Kurth and Edward Warren were held by the coroner's jury for the murder of Thomas Prunty.

A. S. Trude has been retained by the Harrisons to assist in the prosecution of Prendergast. The trial began on Monday.

Corporations insured in the failed American Casualty Company will lose premiums paid as well as reimbursements.

New proof is said to be at hand which will show Dan Coughlin's true connection with the murder of Dr. Cronin.

Government's new hydrographic station is now in operation.

It is believed the history of the Fair will make twenty-five volumes. An outline of the work has been completed,

Main Fair buildings will be allowed to stand next year. No admission will be charged to the park.

COUNTRY.

Recent decline in the U. S. treasury balance was arrested and a gain of nearly $1,000,000 is reported.

Receiver Deane, of the Union Pacific, has returned to Chicago. He thinks the road will liquidate its indebtedness.

Sheriff Powell, of Bradford county, Pennsylvania, has asked the government for aid to cope with Lehigh strikers.

General Jeremiah M. Rusk was buried at Viroqua, Wis. A great gathering attended the services.

Rival Evangelical factions at Sterling, Ill., are at bitter warfare over possession of the church.

Milwaukee shipped a car load of provisions and clothing to Hurley for the relief of the starving Gogebic miners.

Grip is epidemicin the Ohio State prison. Forty per cent of the convicts are suffering from the disease.

Logging operations in the Wisconsin lumber regions are going on upon a great scale.

Malicious persons at Markham, Ill., a village near Jacksonville, blew up the schoolhouse with dynamite.

The Risden artesian well, near Huron, S. D., has been throwing a six-inch column of water seventy feet into the air, damaging seriously the low land.

(Continued on 16th page.)

SUBSCRIPTION LETTERS.

The following have made remittances of money to the Cynosure from Nov. 20 to Nov. 25:

S. Dubois, J. Chestnut, J. C. Heywood, J. F. French, Rev. A. Curtis, J. C. Yoder, Will Tucker, J. W. Suidter, Rev. E. Martem, F. Doolittle, S. H. Moore, J. H. Field, Mrs. W. Jenks, N. Silvins, Mrs. E. D. Taggart, A. Steel, J. P. Thomas, W. E. Killips, J. Morris, Mrs. M. McCollum, N. Whipple, J. Leeper, A. C. Jennings, A. J. Rodell, S. C. Hart.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO.

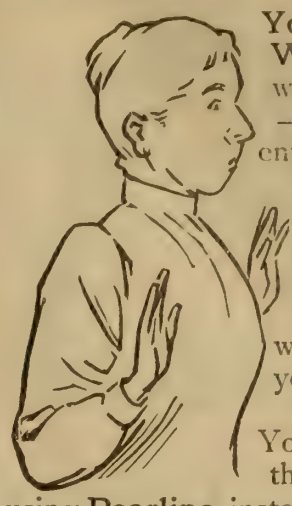
Wheat—Spring No. 2	62⅛@	63⅛
Winter No. 2	62⅛@	63¼
Corn—No. 2	35⅛@	35¼
Oats—No. 2	27⅛@	30⅛
Rye—No. 2	46 @	48⅛
Bran per ton	12 00 @	11 75
Hay—Timothy	9 00 @	10 50
Butter, medium to best	16⅛@	25
Cheese	08 @	11⅛
Beans	1 50 @	1 60
Eggs	16 @	23
Seeds—Timothy (100 lbs)		3 15
Flax	1 12¼@	1 14⅛
Clover (100 lbs.)	8 75	9 25
Broom corn (per ton)	30 00 @	75 00
Potatoes, (new, bu.)	52 @	60
Hides—Green to dry flint	02¼@	05⅛
Lumber—Common	@	15 50
Wool (unwashed)	15	19
Cattle—Choice to extra	4 65 @	6 00
Common to good	3 70 @	4 30
Hogs	5 10 @	5 70
Sheep	2 00 @	4 50

NEW YORK.

Wheat No. 2	67¾@	68¾
Corn No 2	44¾@	44¾
Oats	34¼@	36¼
Rye	50 @	57
Eggs	24⅛@	26
Butter	17 @	27⅛
Wool	16 @	25

KANSAS CITY.

Cattle	1 25 @	4 15
Hogs	5 00 @	5 45
Sheer	1 00	3 75



You Wonder why Mrs. ——— is so enthusiastic about Washing Compounds? You wouldn't, if you knew the facts. You'll find that she is using Pearline, instead of the poor and perhaps dangerous imitation of it that you are trying to wash with. You mustn't think that all Washing Compounds are alike. Pearline is the original and the best. Millions know it. So does every peddler, though to sell you his stuff he tells you that it's the "same as" Pearline.

Beware of imitations 345 JAMES PYLE, N. Y.

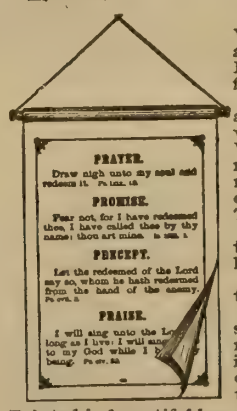
The Blue Bell.

The Mountain Daisy.

Daily Text books for a year. Dainty little souvenirs, only 1½ inches square, elegantly and neatly bound in leather, with silk marker, gilt edges, round corners, each net 25
Illuminated paper covers, each 10

Birthday Memorial Text-Book. An Autograph Text-book. Text for each day and space for autographs. 32mo., Cloth 25

Daily Comfort in Four Fold Links.



The most popular Wall Roll published, and deservedly so. Every page is an effective sermon.

The striking character and particular value of this new Wall Roll is in the remarkable arrangement and selection of the Scripture Texts.

A constant monitor in the Christian household.

A silent teacher for the school.

A comforting messenger for the sick-room, as well as being suitable for the office, the store or the shop.

Printed in beautiful large, clear letters, easily discernible at a distance of 10 to 15 feet. Mounted on rollers, with cord, to hang up in usual style. 31 pages, size 14x22 in. 75

The Secret of Success; or

Finger Posts on the Highway of Life, by John T. Dale; introduction by Hon. John V. Farwell. 416 pages, 12mo., full cloth $1.50

A book for the aspiring. Written in a fascinating style and full of incidents and illustrations which hold the interest of the reader spell-bound.

"It may be true, as has been said, that 'books are sold, not bought;' but this, at any rate, is a book which, if brought to one's attention, he will wish to own. * * * Such a book in every intelligent family in the land—how much (in showing so clearly, so wisely, so persuasively the secret of success,) it might do toward helping to solve the countless aching, burning questions of the time."—The Advance.

Prof. Henry Drummond's Booklets.

The Perfected Life. (The greatest need of the world.) Bound in chaste style, vellum paper 20

Love the Supreme Gift. (The greatest thing in the world.) Uniform with Perfected Life. 20

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
931 W Madison St., Chicago

 Our High Grade List and Bargain Book sent to any address on receipt of a 2-c stamp.

LORD & THOMAS,
NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING
45 RANDOLPH STREET,
CHICAGO

SECRET SOCIETIES CONDEMNED

BY EMINENT EDUCATORS.

PRESIDENT F. H. M. HENDERSON Bowdon College, Ga.:—I regard all secret societies as extremely liable to be perverted.

PRESIDENT NOAH PORTER, Yale College:—That there are serious evils connected with them cannot be questioned; that they accomplish some good is equally clear.

PRESIDENT HITCHCOCK, Amherst College:—These, at different periods, have been fruitful sources of excitement, jealousy, and heart burning among the students.

JOSEPH MOORE, President Earlham College:—The fact that Freemasonry often thwarts every effort to enforce the law against an offender who is of the fraternity, shows it to be an obstacle to moral and civil progress.

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D., Chancellor University, New York:—Thirty years ago I was a member of a college secret society, and while I had upright fellow-members, and we encouraged literary culture, I found the association was chiefly a temptation to vice.

PROF. J. R. JACQUES, Illinois Wesleyan University:—Among college students, at an age when most susceptible, secret societies tend to breed that secretive disposition which is the very opposite of the truly candid, generous, and magnanimous character.

DR BEYSCHLAG, Professor in the University of Halle:—Never entertain the idea to join the lodge for popularity's sake. It is utterly degrading to imagine pastors, men who have to deal with Christianity, the most universal and open thing in the world, wrapped up in the mummeries of Freemasonry.

PRES. J. BLANCHARD:—There have been civil and ecclesiastical pests ever since there was a government and religion; and Freemasonry is one of those pests. The Cains of humanity have rejected Christ and worshiped nature, and Nimrods have denied justice and practiced oppression, But both are combined in the lodge.

PROF. J. R. W. SLOANE, D. D., Reformed Presbyterian Theological Seminary:—But my strongest opposition to Masonry is because of its rivalry with religion. It steps in before the church, and is a false, an idolatrous religion, a religion without a Saviour and, therefore, a delusion and a snare to all who engage in it, or rest their hope upon it.

PROF. BURT G. WILDER, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.:—I am willing to hazard my position....upon the truth of the proposition that secret societies are unknown in heaven, but that they form a prominent and essential feature of life in the other locality. Light versus darkness; openness versus mystery; mutual confidence versus suspicion and distrust.

PROF. S. C. BARTLETT, D. D., Chicago Theological Seminary:—There are certain other wide spread organizations, such as Freemasonry, which, we suppose, are in their nature hostile to good citizenship and true religion, because they exact initiatory oaths of blind compliance and concealment, incompatible with the claims of equal justice toward man and a good conscience toward God.

PROF. J. G. CARSON, D. D., Xenia, Ohio:—These associations are inconsistent with the genius of Christianity, because the secrecy which they affect, and to which they bind their members by promise or oath, is unnecessary and so unwarrantable, dangerous, and ensnaring to the conscience, and, therefore, utterly opposed to that openness and publicity which Christ enjoins on his disciples both by example and precept.

PRESIDENT C. G. FINNEY, of Oberlin, 1868:—We have, then, the implied testimony of Freemasons themselves, that the Christian church ought to have no fellowship with Freemasonry as thus revealed, and that those who adhere intelligently and determinedly to such an institution have no right to be in the Christian church. In our judgment we are forced to the same conclusion, we cannot escape from it, we wish it were otherwise, we therefore sorrowfully but solemnly pronounce this judgment."

HOME AND HEALTH.

AIR THE BEDROOM AND BEDDING.

Beds should be aired daily and carefully. Remove every covering and double over the mattress so that the air can have free access for one hour at least; otherwise the effluvia thrown off by the body during the night cannot properly be removed. Of course at such times the fresh air should have free access to the rooms. In this connection it may be well to remember that it is always unwise for any one to sleep in the same room with a person suffering from disease, especially from the throat, lungs or mouth. Physicians who have made especial study of these diseases consider them directly contagious by what is thrown off from the affected surfaces. For sanitary reasons it would also seem better to adopt the European custom of separate beds and separate rooms for each individual. Care should be exercised that the walls of the bed-rooms be so fashioned that they can be easily cleaned. Hard-finished walls and ceiling plain or simply painted in oil best meet this requirement.

Finally, leave the windows wide open in bed-rooms during the day and wide enough open at night to give plenty of pure air, guarded from unnecessary drafts.—Herald of Health.

HOW SHE KEEPS WELL.

I have no time to be ill, so I take time for the little precautions which keep one well. I am always rather hurried in the morning, but not enough to omit my bath and take cold. If, unfortunately, I have taken cold, I know I shall have no time to coddle influenza or bronchitis, so I make myself a hot lemonade, and put on an extra covering on the bed at night. Then in the morning I throw off coverings gradually, until I am cool enough to venture to rise and take the cold bath. That is nearly sure to arm me against further damage. Then, too, I can't give up a day every week or fortnight to nervous headache, so I must give an hour every day to walking in the open air. I try to keep small belongings in order, and put each thing back in the place I took it from, so I don't wear out my nerves hunting for the button hook or hair curler. I can't stop the machinery, so I try to keep it in running order.

It is well to know, however, that a cold bath in the morning may benefit a young and strong constitution, but is injurious to weak persons and the aged.—Selected.

If the hair has been made to grow a natural color on bald heads in thousands of cases, by using Hall's Hair Renewer, why will it not in your case?

PROPHECY:
A STUDY.

BY REV. S. F. PORTER,

A Study of Christ's Comings.

Paper Cover, 100 Pages.

Single copies, postpaid..... 25 cents.
Per 100 copies, postpaid..... $20.00.

For sale by the

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison St. Chicago.

LE CARON, THE SPY.

A STARTLING REVELATION.

More enticing than a romance, filled with the strongest evidences of the power and evil of sworn secret societies, and plainly revealing the danger to any government growing out of political conspiracies, is the

"Autobiography of Henry LeCaron, the Spy."

who was for years a Clan-na-Gael Center, a Fenian Commander, and a Land-League Orator, but always a British Detective. The book covers his twenty-five years' experiences in this secret service, and contains 205 pages.

Price, in paper covers, 50 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W Madison St. Chicago

Willie Tillbrook
Son of

Mayor Tillbrook

of McKeesport, Pa., had a Scrofula bunch under one ear which the physican lanced and then it became a running sore, and was followed by erysipelas. Mrs. Tillbrook gave him the sore healed up, he became perfectly well and is now a lively, robust boy. Other parents whose children suffer from impure blood should profit by this example.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

HOOD'S PILLS cure Habitual Constipation by restoring peristaltic action of the alimentary canal.

SEVEN YEARS AMONG THE FREEDMEN.
Revised and Enlarged.

BY MARIA WATERBURY.

Finely Illustrated 196 Pages.....75cts.

The first edition of this book has "gone like hot cakes," and a second edition with more of the same sort has been loudly called for and is now ready for delivery. The press, the pulpit, the educator, the reformer, the masses, have bidden it welcome and Godspeed. We quote a few good words from sundry sources: EARNEST CHRISTIAN: "Publish the book for the good it will do."

Dr. Talmage, in the Christian Herald and Signs of our Times, for February 11th, says: "A helpful little volume, just out, for the workers is, 'Seven Years among the Freedmen,' by Miss M. Waterbury, Polo, Ill.,—a teacher well known to many in Illinois—detailing the quaint and thrilling scenes of her experience—'truth stranger,' oftimes, 'than fiction. One day the chore-man came to Miss M. Waterbury, to be taught a prayer; all the scholars had a prayer to say and he wan ed one. John was past middle life and very ignorant. The teacher began the Lord's Prayer, a sentence at a time, explaining as the lesson progressed. 'Thy kingdom come' was all right. 'Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors.' 'What dat mean?' said he. 'That you must forgive everybody, or God will not forgive you.' 'Stop, teacher, can't do dat,' and he went away. After vacation he appeare i, saying: 'Now go on wid de prayer. I dun 'orgive him. Old massar once gib me five hundred lashes, and hit me wid a crow bar, an' t' row me out fur dead, and I met him down de street, an' wouldn't speak at him, but to-day I met him an' aid 'How d'ye?' Now go on wid dat prayer'!"

Inter Ocean: 'A Splendid Book. Seven Years Among Freedman is a volume of 494 pages by Miss M. Waterbury, of Polo, Ills., who has spent seven years as a teacher among the freedmen in Mississippi and Alabama. It is a series of sketches telling very simply and graphically the life led by Northern teachers in the South. It bears all the evidences of truthfulness and if it fails to impress the reader with the manhood an i dignity of the old ruling class of the South, it is perhaps because the whole truth is told. One reading the book will stop to ask, Why not send missionaries to the white people of the South? They seem to need it more than the blacks."

Journal, Freeport, Ills.: "We are indebted to Mrs. Lila L. Buckley, of this city, for a copy of this interesting volume. The efforts made to elevate the freedmen of the South is one of the most important and deserving charities of the present time, far excelling any effort to elevate the heathen of foreign lands and it should have the aid of all charitable people in this country. ....The proceeds of sales is devoted to the work of elevating the freedmen of the South, and we trust that every one to whom Miss Waterbury applies will purchase a copy of the book, which is in itself fully worth the price.. Miss Waterbury's grandfather, Rev. Calvin Waterbury, was the first Presbyterian minister in Freeport, and it was by his efforts that the First Presbyterian church in Freeport was established.

Polo, (Ills.,) Press: "Seven Years Among the Freedmen. Our townswoman Miss Maria Waterbury, the past winter, prepared for publication an account of some of her singular experiences in the "sixties" among the freedmen of Mississippi. Miss Waterbury and Miss Ford, both of this place, did grand work in those years and deserve no small mead of praise for their heroic sacrifices.

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison st., Chicago

The Nonesuch Professor,

In his Meridian Splendor. By William Secker (Puritan). With an introduction by Theo. L. Cuyler, D. D. 16 mo, $1.00.

"It is a mine of sparkling gems."—Presbyterian Observer.

"A sheaf of golden grain, ripened by grace, and sweet with the flavor of rare simplicity and holy wisdom."—N. Y. Observer.

"It is a searching book."—Christian Intelligencer.

"This is a wonderful book. At whatever page you open it, your eye lights upon pithy aphorisms that combine the sententiousness of Benjamin Franklin with the sweet, holy savor of Samuel Rutherford. It contains hundreds of bright seed thoughts."—Rev. T. L. Cuyler, D. D.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

STANDARD WORKS
—ON—
SECRET SOCIETIES
FOR SALE BY THE
National Christian Association.
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

TERMS:—Cash with order, or if sent by express C. O. D. at least $1.00 must be sent with order as a guaranty that books will be taken. Books at retail prices sent postpaid. Books by Mail are at risk of persons ordering, unless 10 cents extra is sent to pay for registering them, when their safe delivery is guaranteed. Books at retail ordered by express, are sold at 10 per cent discount and delivery guaranteed, but not express paid. Postage stamps taken for small sums. ☞A liberal discount to dealers

Temple of Honor Illustrated. A full and complete illustrated ritual of "The Templars of Honor and Temperance," commonly called the Temple of Honor. By a Templar of Fidelity and Past Worthy Chief Templar. 25cts each.

Five Rituals Bound Together. "Odd-fellowship Illustrated" (old work), "Knights of Pythias Illustrated," "Good Templars Illustrated," "Exposition of the Grange," and "Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic," are sold bound together in cloth for $1.00.

Rituals and Secrets Illustrated. Composed of "Temple of Honor Illustrated, "Adoptive Masonry Illustrated," "United Sons of Industry Illustrated," and "Secret Societies Illustrated." $1.00 each.

Finney on Masonry. The character, claims and practical workings of Freemasonry. By Pres. Charles G. Finney, of Oberlin College. President Finney was a "bright Mason," but left the lodge when he became a Christian. This book has opened the eyes of multitudes. In cloth, 75 cents. Paper cover, 35 cents.

Stories of the Gods. By I. R. B. Arnold. Brief sketches from the mythology of Rome, Greece, Egypt, India, Persia, Phrygia, Scandinavia, Africa and America, showing the relations and unity of past and present systems. The idolatrous worship of the Masonic lodge is thus clearly seen and understood. Postpaid, 10 cents.

Judge Whitney's Defense before THE GRAND LODGE OF ILLINOIS. Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the lodge when S. H. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry. 15 cents each.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret SOCIETIES. A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons in the Christian church. 10 cents each.

Masonry a Work of Darkness, adverse to Christianity, and inimical to republican government. By Rev. Lebbeus Armstrong (Presbyterian) a seceding Mason of 21 degrees. 15 cents each.

Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the INITIATE? By Rev. L. A. Post. 5 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. J. Day Brownlee. In reply to a Masonic Oration by Rev. Dr. Mayer, Wellsville, Ohio. 5 cents each.

Masonic Outrages. Compiled by Rev. H. H. Hinman. Showing Masonic assault on lives of seceders, on reputation, and on free speech; its interference with justice in courts, etc. Postpaid, 20 cents.

Sermon on Secret Societies. By Rev. Daniel Dow, Woodstock, Conn. The special object of his sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the character of secret societies, no matter what object such societies profess to have. 5 cents each.

Grand Lodge Masonry. Its relation to civil government and the Christian religion. By Pres. J. Blanchard. The un-Christian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is proved from the highest Masonic authorities. 5 cents each.

The Broken Seal; or Personal Reminiscences of the Abduction and Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan. By Samuel D. Greene. In cloth, 75 cents. Paper covers, 40 cents.

The Mystic Tie, or Freemasonry a LEAGUE WITH THE DEVIL. This is an account of the church trial of Peter Cook and wife, of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a reverend Freemason. 15 cents each.

History of the Abduction and MurDER OF CAPT. WM. MORGAN. As prepared by seven committees of citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan. 25 cents each.

Freemasonry Self-Condemned. By Rev. J. W. Bain. A careful and logical statement of reasons why secret orders should not be fellowshiped by the Christian Church. Paper covers, price, 20 cents each.

Secret Societies. A discussion of their character and claims by Rev. David McDill, Pres. J. Blanchard and Rev. Edward Beecher. In cloth, 35cts each; paper covers, 15cts each.

Secret Societies, Ancient and ModERN. Table of Contents: The Antiquity of Secret Societies, The Life of Julian, The Eleusinian Mysteries, The Origin of Masonry, Was Washington a Mason? Fillmore and Webster's Deference to Masonry, A Brief Outline of the Progress of Masonry in the United States, The Tammany Ring, Masonic Benevolence, The Uses of Masonry, An Illustration, The Conclusion. 50cts each.

Pres. H. H. George on Secret SocieTIES. A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian churches to disfellowship secret societies. 10cts each.

Secrecy vs. the Family, State and CHURCH. By Rev. M. S. Dury. The antagonism of organized secrecy to the welfare of the family, state and church, is clearly shown. 10cts each.

Narratives and Arguments, showing the conflict of secret societies with the Constitution and law of the Union and of the States. By Francis Semple. The fact that secret societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of law is here clearly proved. 15cts each.

The Anti-mason's Scrap-Book, consisting of 53 "Cynosure" tracts. In this book are the views of more than a score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of secret societies. Postpaid. 25 cts.

Reminiscences of Morgan Times. By Elder David Bernard. This is a thrilling narrative of the incidents connected with Bernard's Revelation of Freemasonry 10 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. James Williams, Presiding Elder of Dakota District Northwestern Iowa Conference M. E. Church—a seceding Master Mason. 10 cents each.

Oaths and Penalties of the 33 DeGREES OF FREEMASONRY. To get these thirty-three degrees of Masonic bondage, the candidate takes half-a-million horrible oaths. 15 cents each.

Odd-fellowship Judged by its own utterances; its doctrine and practice examined in the light of God's Word. By Rev. J. H. Brockman. This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. In cloth 50cts; paper covers, 25cts.

Sermon on Odd-fellowship and other secret societies, by Rev. J. Sarver, pastor Evangelical Lutheran church. This is a very clear argument against secretism of all forms, and the duty to disfellowship Odd fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications. 10cts each.

United Sons of Industry IllusTRATED. A full and complete illustrated ritual of the secret tradesunion of the above name, giving the signs, grips, passwords etc. 15cts each.

Oaths and Penalties of FreemasonRY, as proved in court in the New Berlin trials. The New Berlin trials began in the attempt of Freemasons to prevent public initiations by seceding Masons. These trials were held at New Berlin, Chenango Co., N. Y., April 13 and 14, 1831, and General Augustus C. Welsh, sheriff of the county, and other adhering Freemasons swore to the truthful revelation of the oaths and penalties. 10 cents each.

Anti-masonic Sermons and AdDRESSES. Composed of "Masonry a Work of Darkness;" the Sermons of Messrs. Cross, William M'Nary, Dow and Sarver, the two addresses of President Blanchard, and the addresses of President H. H. George, Prof. J. G. Carson and Rev. M. S. Drury; "Thirteen Reasons Why a Christian cannot be a Freemason," "Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion," and "Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the Initiate?" 287 pages; cloth $1.00

FARM NOTES.

The plum curculio has been very destructive in many parts of Western New York.

An Indiana farmer reports that he reaped 7,000 bushels of wheat off 100 acres of land this season.

The number of sheep in the United States is about 45,000,000, and the amount of wool produced about 2,888,000,000 pounds.

Exports of wheat are now averaging about 5,000,000 bushels per week and shipments are more likely to increase rather than diminish.

It is said that some poultrymen in England feed horse-chestnuts to their poultry. The nuts are first steeped in lime water, then well washed, and boiled to a paste. So prepared they are very fattening.

An exchange asks: "What would you think of a farmer who purchased his milk, butter, eggs, poultry, pork, etc., because he didn't have time to attend to his cows, chickens and pigs?" But some farmers are just as short-sighted and foolish as this.

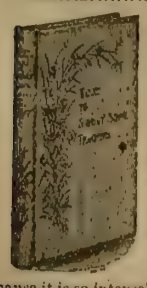
Do not put off till spring any work which can be done now. The spring is always a busy season, and you will be in a hurry to get crops in and to do the things that must be done to make the year's work go smoothly. If there are tiles to lay, or repairs to make, better do that work now.

There are a good many ways in which grain may be spoiled for seed. One of the commonest of these is by heating, because of the moisture when in bulk. Another is by getting wet, and then freezing and thawing. Better test all seed before using, and so be sure you are on the safe side.

When the oats are drawn from the field to put in the barn they are run through a feed cutter, cut in about inch lengths, heads and all. The crop is run into the bay, or, if into a scaffold, the front is boarded up to hold it. The following advantages are claimed; Economy of space; readiness at all times for feeding, and, above all, freedom from mice. It is said that mice cannot work in a mass of finely cut straw.—Hoard's Dairyman.

Talks to Sunday-School Teachers.

By Rev. J. G. Torrill. 12mo, 200 pages, bound in fine cloth..... .75



This book is the result of twenty-five years of experience in Sunday-school and treats of: 1. The Sunday-school organization and management. 2. Methods of work. 3. Studies in human nature. 4. Rules of Interpretation as applied to the Bible. 5. Illustrative exercises for primary classes and children's meetings. In the style of presentation, subject matter and price of the book, the wants of the officers and teachers of the ordinary Sunday-school are kept in view.

S. S. Times:—A very comprehensive book. N. Y. Independent:—A sensible manual for the average Sunday-school teacher. Evan. Mess.:—We have been very favorably impressed with the book, because it is so intensely practical. The subject is systematically treated, and leaders of teacher's meetings can not do better than adopt it as a text-book and devote half an hour of each session to teaching the theory and practice of teaching as here systematized. Christian at Work:—Any school that will adopt this book generally and carry forward its work or doctrines here laid down will not be long in developing into a model school and reaping the harvest of a rich fruitage. Herald and Presbyter:—These Talks are well attested in their profitableness and excellence. Buffalo Advocate:—A plain, practical, common sense book on a very important subject. The author has had wide experience in this field of work. He knows thoroughly the ground over which he would lead others, and possesses the happy faculty of packing a great deal of valuable information as to matter and manner of teaching into this little hand-book. We commend it to the attention of all Sunday-school workers. Religious Telescope:—We are pleased with the plan and treatment of the subjects throughout, and are sure that the diligent Sunday-school teacher who longs for more thorough equipment will find in this book a helper of great value. Illustrated Christian Weekly:—The author talks from observation and experience, and talks well.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chica

THE
Folly, Expense & Danger
OF
SECRET SOCIETIES.
BY
CHARLES A. BLANCHARD.
(President Wheaton College.)

5 Cts per Copy; $3 per Hundred

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
221 W. Madison St., Chicag

For Colds,
Coughs,
Croup, Influenza, and Bronchitis, use
AYER'S
CHERRY PECTORAL
the best
of all anodyne
expectorants.
Prompt to act,
Sure to Cure

AMERICAN HANDBOOK
AND
CITIZEN MANUAL.
BY
MANLOVE N. BUTLER.

CONTENTS:—Bible and Secretism; Masonic Religion; Masonic Sun Worship; Masonic Government; Unwritten History; Grand Lodge Masonry; Public Opinion; Lodge and Saloon; The American Movement; Real Prohibition; Poor Man's Bible, and All-Around Reformers. Over 200 pages

Paper, single copy 40c.; per doz. 35c.

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
WM. I. PHILLIPS, Treasurer,
221 W. Madison St., Chic

THE TWO-FOLD GIFT
of the Holy Ghost,
BY REV. THOS. K. DOTY,
Author of Lessons in Holiness.

240 pp. Price postpaid.....65cts.

The design of this book is, in plain language, to designate the place of the Holy Ghost in both the Godhead and the work of Salvation. Especially to show that Entire Santification is wrought in the heart by the Baptism of Holy Ghost; and that the Epoch of the Baptism is identical with that of his Advent in his Indwelling Personalty. The agency of the Holy Ghost in the Life, and in carrying on the work of the Gospel, is given particular attention.

TITLES TO THE CHAPTERS:

1. A Summary. 2. The Holy Ghost a Person. 3. The New Testament Designating Terms. 4. The Scriptural View. 5. The Holy Ghost is God. 6. Blasphemy Against the Holy Ghost. 7. The Triunity of God. 8. The Apostolic Benediction. 9. The Worship of the Holy Ghost. 10. The Dispensations. 11. The First Dispensation. 12. The Second Dispensation. 13. Holiness—Sinning. 14. "The Sin of the World." 15. Final Deliverance from Sin. 16. The Day of the Holy Ghost. 17. Jesus and the Holy Ghost. 18 and 19. The Epoch of the Holy Ghost. 20. The Anointing. 21. The Baptism of the Holy Ghost. 22. The Baptism of Fire. 23. The Two-Fold Experiences of the Holy Ghost. 24. Fellowship of the Holy Ghost. 25. "In the Spirit." 26. Several Scriptural Terms Considered. 27. Pentecost. 28. Inspiration—Prophecy. 29. Spiritual Leading and Teaching. 30. The Gifts of the Soirit. 31. "Praying in the Holy Ghost." 31 and 32. Power.

This book is creating quite a stir in religious circles. The original, bold and convincing manner of presenting the subject, has forced the press to comment upon the book, either adversely or favorably, generally the latter. We give a few OPINIONS:

Bible Standard and Gospel Record: "This book is very compact, scarcely a superfluous sentence in the whole book. The manner of treating the questions involved is both clear and scriptural. .....The effect of the book will be to deepen thought and increase knowledge and, in the end, deepen piety."

Evangelical Messenger: "Brother Thomas K. Doty has written a book which we take pleasure in commending to all devout readers who enjoy all spiritual things. The subject is so important, and the treatment of it so timely, that we may be pardoned for calling attention to it thus prominently. We, at least have been greatly interested, and gratefully acknowledge that we have also been decidedly profited by persuing it .....Brother Doty writes with an incisive pen, in a clear, lucid style, often epigrammatical and with great force. He is evidently deeply impressed with the truth of what he writes and demands the respect even where he does not gain the intellectual assent of his readers. Withal the book is written in a kindly, candid spirit, rather didactic than polermical, and is calculated to help the reader and not to rouse his opposition, as is the case with so many books which have been written upon this and kindred subjects. The theological views expressed are orthodox, and in some cases the argument is fresh in matter, and certainly fresh in form throughout."

Christian Cynosure: "His book is one of the most excellent, instructive and practical of any that have come to our knowledge. The exposition of the Scriptures concerning the personality and work of the Spirit is very clear, able and comforting. There is much dogmatizing on these topics by Christians who never fully felt the power of the Spirit's work, or are not living in gracious fellowship with him. To all such and to those who have not yet learned what gifts the Lord is waiting to bestow on his people we heartily commend the careful reading of this volume."

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

RECENT PUBLICATIONS
OF
FLEMING H. REVELL.

Modern Ideas of Evolution.

As related to Revelation and Science. By Sir William Dawson, L. L. D., F. R. S., etc. 12 mo, cloth, $1.50.

In popular style, a testing by scientific facts and principles, the validity of that multiform and brilliant philosophy of the universe, which has taken so deep a hold of the science and literature of our times.

The New World of Central Africa

By Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness; with a history of the first Christian mission on the Congo. Maps, Portraits and numerous engravings. 537 pages, 12 mo, $2.00.

This comprehensive volume is as fascinating as the most entertaining romance. Its vivid portrayal of the dark side of African history makes one's blood tingle, while its earnest appeals create an inspiring sympathy with the effort to evangelize its teeming millions.

Power From on High.

By Rev. B. Fay Mills. White vellum paper, 20 cents.

This little work, revised from stenographic notes of Mr. Mills' address before the National Convention of the Y. P. S. C. E., is exceedingly effective.

Matthew Henry's Commentary.

An entirely new large type edition of this inimitable Commentary, in six large 8vo. volumes, fine cloth, $15.00; or, in half Morocco, $18.00.

"Biblical students who are most familiar with the very best commentaries of this generation are most able to appreciate the unfading freshness, the clear analysis, the spiritual force, the quaint humor, and the evangelical richness of Matthew Henry's Exposition of the Old and New Testaments."—New York Observer

"First among the mighty for general usefulness we are bound to mention the man whose name is a household word—MATTHEW HENRY. He is the most pious and pithy, sound and sensible, suggestive and sober, terse and trust worthy."—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

The Present Tenses of the Blessed Life.

By Rev. F. B. Meyer. 32 mo, 50 cents.

"It is sufficient to say its one direct aim is the present enjoyment of the precious promises. Mr. Meyer's earnest and persuasive teaching in this direction is admirably condensed in these brief chapters."

BY THE SAME AUTHOR:

Christian Living. Cloth, 32 mo, 50 cents.

"A more suggestive and helpful volume it would not be easy to name."—Christian Leader.

The Shepherd Psalm. Cloth, 32 mo, 50c.

"This is a gem"—Illustrated Christian Weekly

"It is a little book which hundreds of devout hearts will enjoy,"—Congregationalist.

Power From on High.

By Rev. B. Fay Mills. White vellum paper, 20 cents.

This little work, revised from stenographic notes of Mr. Mills' address before the National Convention of the Y. P. S. C. E., is exceedingly effective.

OTHER WORKS BY C. H. SPURGEON:

Feathers for Arrows; Or, Illustrations for Teachers and Preachers. 12 mo, $1.

"This work covers a wide range of subjects. The metaphors are always striking and frequently brilliant, while the truths that they illustrate are such as have always formed the staple of Mr. Spurgeon's discourses. A choicer collection of illustrations we do not know."—Freeman.

Spurgeon's Gems. Being a selection of brilliants from his discourses. 12 mo, $1.

The Golden Alphabet. Being a Devotional Commentary on the One Hundred and Nineteenth Psalm. 12 mo, $1.00.

"Mr. Spurgeon brings out the truths and beauties of this wonderful Psalm so as to set a rich feast before the reader. As a practical commentator on the Psalms, Spurgeon has no equal."—Presbyterian Banner.

"This commentary is written in quite the happiest vein of its popular author, and the devotional spirit throughout is intense and elevating."—Occident.

Gleanings Among the Sheaves. 18 mo, 60c.

All of Grace. An earnest word with those seeking the way of life. 16 mo, paper, 30 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

According to Promise; Or, the Lord's Dealings with His chosen People. 16 mo, paper, 30 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Christmas Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve New Year Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Sermons on the Resurrection. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth. 50 cents.

"Preachers may get aid in preparing Easter or funeral sermons from this volume. Good to present to those who have lost loved ones."—National Baptist.

Twelve Striking Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Soul-Winning Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Selected by Mr. Spurgeon as the twelve sermons under which there has been the most marked and permanent success.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill

The New World of Central Africa.

By Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness, with a history of the first Christian mission on the Congo. 12mo., 530 pages with maps, portraits and numerous illustrations.$2.00

"A conscientious piece of work, and gives a very clear account of what has been done by the Protestant missions to evangelize the barbarous races of Central Africa. • • • He who wants to know what missionary effort means in these days may well learn from this volume. • • • The reader who goes carefully through will have a good bird's eye view of recent events in Africa, with all the results of modern travel. • • • The work contains solid information of use to all who are interested in the future of this wonderful country. The many illustrations throw light upon savage customs and costumes."—Graphic.

...n the Far East.

Letters from China by Geraldine Guinness, edited by her sister, with introduction by Rev. J. Hudson Taylor. Very fully illustrated. Quarto cloth, ...$1.50

This book was scarcely written—it was lived; for the breath of life is in it from cover to cover. • • • We have never read so wonderful an account of successful missionary effort.—Presbyterian

We easily understand how this edition is the fifteenth thousand. It is a very remarkable book.—The Golden Rule.

Frances Ridley Havergall's Poems.

Author's edition complete. The only unabridged authorized edition published in America.

1. 12mo., 880 pages, cloth, beveled....2.00
2. Beveled boards, full gilt.....2.50
3. Half white vellum, gilt top, uncut edges, ...2.50
4. French morocco padded, roll red under gold edges...4.00
5. Persian calf, padded and emoossed, gilt roll and r. g. 5.00
6. Crushed levant, elegant.....6.00
7. Full German calf, padded, elegant, gilt, rd. cors.....7.50

Miss Havergall stands without peer in the English language in the department of religious poetry.

"The book in paper and binding is all that could be desired."—Publishers' Weekly.

Small Books by Miss Havergall.

Bound in elegant illuminated board covers.

Kept for the Master's Use. $0

My King; Daily Thoughts for the King's Children.....$0

Works of Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

Sermon Notes. Covering all the Bible from Genesis to Revelation. 4 vols.....4.00
Feathers for Arrows. A volume of Choice Extracts, 12mo., cloth.....1.00
Twelve Striking Sermons...... 50
Twelve Soul Winning Sermons, ... 50
Twelve Sermons on the Resurrection 50
Twelve New Year Sermons..... 50
Twelve Christmas Sermons..... 30

Notes by C. H. M.

On Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy.

Mr. D. L. Moody says of these books: "They have been to me a very key to the Scriptures."

Deuteronomy is issued in two volumes, the others complete in one volume each.

Separate volumes may be had if desired.

The complete set in six volumes, covering over 2,300 pages, is offered at the reduced price of 75c per vol. or $4.50 per set

A. L. O. E. Intermediate Library.

Selected from the numerous productions of this world-renowned writer as being those of rare merit. 12 vols., 12mo., cloth elegant, each 75c; set.....9.00

An Eden in England.	Life in Eagle's Nest.
Ned Franks.	White Bear's Den.
Sheer Off.	Fairy Spider's Web.
Braid of Chords.	Lake in the Woods.
Silver Keys.	Seven Perils Passed.
Grace Vernon.	Hartley Brothers.

The Jessica Series. By Hesba Stretton. 6 vols., handsome bindings, cloth 50c each, or per set 2.10

Jessica's First Prayer.	Friends till Death.
No Place Like Home.	A Miserable Christmas
Under the Old Roof.	A Night and a Day.

A. L. O. E. Junior Library. Adapted to the young folks. 7 vols., 12mo., cloth each 60c; the set. 4 20

Claremont Tales.	A Wreath of Smoke.
Christian Conquests.	Pomegranates from
Tales Illustrative of Parables.	Punjab.
The Battle of Life.	Little Bullets from Batala.

The Hesba Stretton Series. 8 vols., elegant cloth bound, per set.....4 80

Cassy.	King's Servant.
Lost Gip.	Alone in London.
Max Kromer.	Little Meg's Children
Storm of Life	Crew of the Dolphin.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Royal Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength. — Latest United States Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO.,
106 Wall St., N. Y.

NEWS OF THE WEEK (Continued from 13th page).

Father Ahern, of Flandreau, S. D., has been suspended for making public accusations against Bishop Marty.

As the result of the trial at Monmouth, Ill., Pastor Stewart is deposed for his faith cure teachings by the U. S. church.

Since April there have been more than five hundred cases of fever in Ironwood, Mich. More than one hundred have died.

School Director Resser, of Des Moines, Iowa, has been arrested for burglary, A jealous wife gave the information.

The Illinois Steel Mills, located at Joliet, Illinois, resumed work on Monday, giving employment to about 1,000 men.

The governor of Wisconsin has issued a call for relief for the starving miners at Hurley—food and clothing. 800 people need immediate assistance.

A Chicago firm first answered the call for donations in aid of starving miners. Headquarters were opened in Milwaukee.

Going insane over religion, Farmer Truhn killed his wife and one of his children near Perham, Minn.

A loss of upward of $2,000,000 was caused by Tuesday night's conflagration in the business center of Springfield, Mass.

Professor Bemis raised a row in a fraternal congress by the statement that such societies are conducted on a wrong principle.

Powderly triumphed in the general assembly of the Knights of Labor. He was re-elected by a vote of 26 to 20.

A barrel which contained 200 pounds of dynamite was found buried by hunters on Grand Island, in Niagara River.

A syndicate which includes J. W. Ellsworth, of Chicago, will develop 25,000 acres of coal and timber lands in West Virginia.

Directors of the failed Farmers' and Merchants' Bank of Minneapolis have been indicted for fraudulent practices.

Sabbatarians demand the impeachment of the Minneapolis mayor because he allows saloon back doors open on Sunday.

Three persons are certainly dead and four others probably lost their lives by an $800,000 blaze at Detroit.

In a suit against directors of the Northwestern Guaranty Loan Company it is alleged $2,800,000 was raised on the worthless notes.

On the 21st, at his home in Viroqua, Wis., died Jeremiah M. Rusk, for seven years Governor of Wisconsin, and Secretary of Agriculture at Washington in Harrison's administration. He was greatly respected.

President Haughey of bank notoriety, appealed to the Indiana Odd-fellows in session in Indianapolis for leniency.

Lord Somerset and party were lost in the Canadian Rockies while hunting, and lived for two weeks on horse meat.

Rev. Dr. C. F. Deems, since 1866 pastor of the Church of the Strangers in New York City, founder of the American Institute of Christian Philosophy, and a popular writer on religious and philosophical topics, died Nov. 18, aged seventy-three.

Professor F. P. St. Clair, president of Christian College, died at Columbia, Mo. He was 40 years old.

FOREIGN.

Europe was swept by a furious gale last week which did immense damage to shipping and caused the loss of hundreds of lives. Forty persons who lost their lives in the great English storm have been picked up at Calais.

An Italian ministerial crisis is thought to be inevitable.

Scotch miners have decided to strike unless the mine owners agree to advance wages a shilling a day.

Dispatches from Meshed tell of the destruction of the populous town of Kuchan by an earthquake.

The revolutionists are very active in the Northern states of Mexico.

The Austrian reichsrath was formally opened. Electoral reform will be the first measure introduced.

IntheEnglish commons it was reported than 237 lives were lost in the big storm and 607 saved.

Frank May, whose actions as Bank of England cashier caused criticism, has resigned with the directors' sanction.

War in Matebela land is said to be over. King Lobengula has fled northward toward the Zambesi river.

Thirty Spanish convicts have distinguished themselves in the fighting at Melilla. Effort is being made to secure their pardon.

The Brazilian legation in London received dispatches announcing the sinking of Mellos' war-ship, Javary, with all on board.

Mail dspatches from the Congo Free State bring details of Capt. Dhanish's victory over the Arabs, and also confirm the reports of the death of Emin Pasha.

As a result of Lord Roseberry's conference between the mine owners and their striking employes, there is a victory for the miners, who resume work at their old rate of wages.

Prince Alexander, of Battenberg, the former ruler of Bulgaria, is dead at the age of thirty-six.

Cuba's latest uprising is at an end.

In opening the Reichstag Emperor William appealed for funds to carry out the provisions of the army bill.

Gen. Mathelin's residence at Marseilles, France, was wrecked by the explosion of a bomb supposed to have been placed by anarchists.

It is strange that some people will suffer for years from rheumatism rather than try such an approved standard remedy as Ayer's Sarsaparilla; and that, too, in spite of the assurance that it has cured so many others who were similarly afflicted. Give it a trial.

United Presbyterians among our readers will be glad to learn that the Midland of Omaha is about to remove to Chicago. This will answer the most common and seemingly only objection to it—"too far west." The Midland is newsy, spicy and sound, liberal and loyal and patriotic and progressive; it excels in giving the news of its own denomination, in supporting the reforms of the day and in advocating home missions. Send for a free sample copy. Address the Midland Publishing Co. Its regular price is $1.50, but to one of our old subscribers who becomes a new subscriber to the Midland, both papers will be sent by us for $2.50. To one who becomes a new subscriber to both, the Cynosure and Midland, the papers will cost for one year only $2.00. Address, Christian Cynosure, 221 W. Madison street.

Freemasonry a Fourfold Conspiracy. Address of Pres. J. Blanchard. This is a most convincing argument against the lodge. 5 cents each.

Tempt Not a Cough with a Weak System, Consumption with Weak Lungs, or Disease with Loss of Flesh. Take

Scott's Emulsion

the Cream of Cod-liver Oil, for any ailment resulting from poor nourishment. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.

Don't be deceived by Substitutes!

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists.

THE GUIDING HAND;

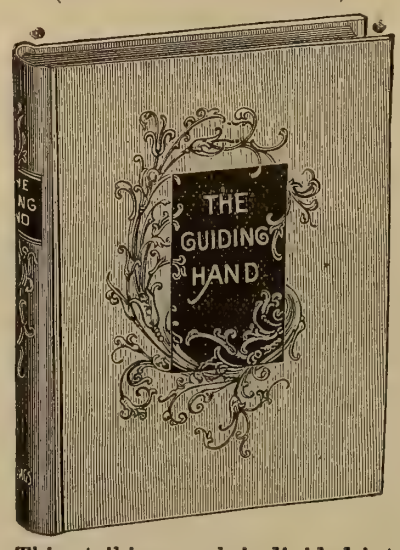
—OR—

PROVIDENTIAL DIRECTION.

—)o(—

Illustrated by authentic instances of Relief and Deliverance in times of Trouble and Perplexity; of Direction through Dreams and Mental Impressions, and of Providential Guidance, resulting in Conversion. Recorded and collected by

H. L. HASTINGS,
(Editor of "The Christian.")



This striking work is divided into three parts as follows:

(1) Providences in Relief and Deliverances. (2) Dreams and Impressions. (3) Conversions.

The "Guiding Hand" contains nearly 400 pages. It is really a handsome book, printed on heavy book paper, from large open type, good for the eyes, and artistically and durably bound in fine cloth, with fancy panels. Price, $1.50.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill

A BOOKLET.

107 pages, 5x7 inches.

Paper Cover, Postpaid, 15 Cents

—o:o—

The following addresses form part of the contents of this booklet:

THE MARTYR'S OWN MONUMENT, by Rev. J. E. Roy, D. D., Western Secretary of American Missionary Association.

CHRISTIAN POLITICS, by Rev. J. Blanchard, late President Wheaton College, and Editor Christian Cynosure.

THE MYSTERIOUS MACHINE: was it Lawnmower, Town-pump, Balloon, Wheel-barrow,—or what? by Prof. E. D. Bailey of the Civil Service Dept. U. S. Government.

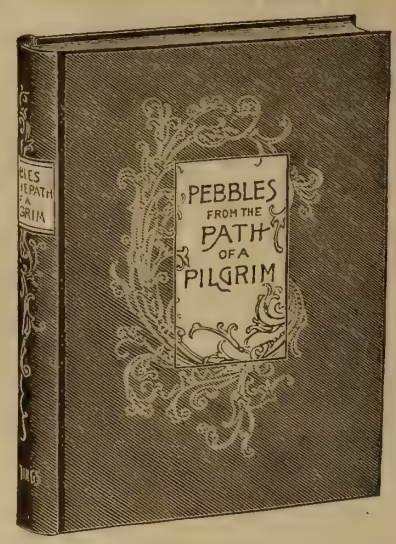
This booklet includes other interesting matter connected with the unveiling of the Morgan monument at Batavia, N. Y. Address

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

Pebbles from the Path of a Pilgrim.

—BY—

MRS. H. L. HASTINGS.



This remarkable collection of stories from the eventful life of a Green Mountain girl has been pronounced "more fascinating than any romance." A member of Congress writes: "'Pebbles' has been read by me with great interest. The introductory chapter has followed me into dreams. My copy is read to pieces by the family, and borrowed to death by the neighbors." An editor says: "Surely the faith that 'obtained promises, wrought righteousness, and stopped the mouth of lions,' must have been given in large measure to the writer of this truly remarkable book.... No family library should be without it." "'Pebbles,'" says the Christian Cynosure, "is such a book as Christian parents are always glad to put on their center-tables."

"Pebbles from the Path of a Pilgrim" is a large and beautiful book of over 300 pages, printed on heavy book paper, from clear open type, and is profusely illustrated. It is artistically bound in handsome cloth, with fancy panels, and specially attractive side and back cover designs. Price, $1.50.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

MY EXPERIENCES

WITH

SECRET SOCIETIES.

BY A TRAVELER.

With a Key to Masonry Illustrated

—o-o—

A new edition, greatly enlarged, has been issued, embracing chapters on the Language of Numbers, Secret Empires, and Good Men, containing more Experiences, and affording a deeper insight into the Hidden Language and Workings of Secret Clans, and of the counterfeit pretences of good men, than ever before published. The Key is an exposition, explanation and verification of modern Baalism, with which all should be thoroughly acquainted. The price of the new edition is

Fifteen Cents,

but copies of the first edition will be forwarded for Ten Cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

THE MYSTIC SHRINE

Illustrated.

THE FULL

ILLUSTRATED RITUAL

OF THE

Nobles of the Mystic Shrine

PRICE 15 CENTS, EACH.

For sale by the

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Christian Cynosure.

"IN SECRET HAVE I SAID NOTHING."—Jesus Christ.

VOL. XXVI., No. 13. CHICAGO, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1893. WHOLE No. 1,232.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION,

221 West Madison Street, Chicago.

SUBSCRIPTIONS PER YEAR..... $2.00
IF PAID STRICTLY IN ADVANCE..... 1.50

☞No paper discontinued unless so requested by the subscriber, and all arrearages paid.☜

Address all letters for publication to EDITOR CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE, CHICAGO. Writers' names must always be given. No manuscript returned unless requested and postage enclosed.

Make all drafts and money orders payable to the Treasurer, W. I. PHILLIPS, 221 WEST MADISON STREET, CHICAGO. When possible make remittances by express money order. Currency by unregistered letter at sender's risk. When writing to change address on Cynosure list always give the former address.

[Entered at the Postoffice, Chicago, Ill. as Second Class Matter.]

CONTENTS.

EDITORIAL:
Notes and Comments.... 1
Revival of the Cronin Murder..... 8
Is it Wrong to Rebuke Sin?..... 8
The Missionary Element Hawaii..... 8
Bishop Coxe Writes to Satolli Again..... 9
CONTRIBUTIONS:
That Wedge of Gold..... 1
From Bombali Mission.. 2
SELECTED:
American Protective Association (Concluded). 2
Wm. H. Seward on the Know-Knothings..... 3
Death in the Lodge..... 3
NEW ENGLAND LETTER..... 4
WASHINGTON LETTER..... 4
REFORM NEWS:
The New England Secretary and the A. P. A.; From the Front on the Pacific; The Eastern Agent at Home; The Lodge in Indiana....4,5,9
CORRESPONDENCE:
Wheaton College..... 5
LODGE NOTES..... 7
AGENTS AND LECTURERS.... 7
THE N. C. A..... 7
THE HOME.....10
TEMPERANCE.....11
BIBLE LESSON.....12
LITERATURE.....12
RELIGIOUS NEWS.....12
NEWS OF THE WEEK.....13
MARKETS.....13
HOME AND HEALTH.....14
FARM NOTES.....15

NEW ENGLAND CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

CALL FOR THE ANNUAL CONVENTION.

The Annual Convention of the New England Christian Association opposed to secret societies will be held in the Bromfield M. E. Church, Boston, beginning Dec. 20, at 2 P. M., and continuing through the following day and evening.

The program will be given later.

Let every friend of the cause in New England make an effort to be present.

J. M. FOSTER, Pres.

E. E. FLAGG, Sec.

Our friends at Wheaton College are promised a rare treat on Tuesday next, December 12, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon, in the lecture before the college of Rev. C. R. Hunt, Ph. D., pastor of the Presbyterian church of Keota, Iowa. His subject will be: "The Voices of Creation and Revelation."

The public school system of the United States was one of the direct fruits of the European Reformation, and was introduced into this country by Protestant Christians. It is the outgrowth and representative of freedom and intelligence, and no sectarian influence has a right to control it. It is an institution of the whole people, established by the people, for the benefit of all people.

At the recent gathering of the Knights of Labor, Terence V. Powderly was chosen Grand Master Workman; but such was the disposition of the order toward his policy and administration that he resigned his office. James R. Sovereign, the Labor Commisionor of Iowa, was elected his successor. Mr. Powderly seems to be a much better man than the rank and file of the order, and we have wondered if opposition to the following sentiments, uttered by him, had not much to do with his unpopularity among them. "I believe," he said, "that in five years the sun will shine on a country whose saloons will be closed on Sunday; and if I had my way they would remain closed until the next Sunday." This is stronger meat than beer-swigging labor organizations care to swallow.

The Catholic parochial school is no portion of a republican system of government. It represents a selfih and bigoted phase of a sectarian hierachy. It does not represent religious or personal freedom. To ask Protestant State governments to appropriate public funds for the support of these schools is a piece of impudence worthy of its Jesuitical origin. Yet in Maryland and New York it is the question of the hour.

Congress met on Monday of this week, and the President's message will be looked for with some curiosity, as embodying his sentiments respecting the new tariff bill to be presented by the Committee of Ways and Means. Its provisions have been before the public for a week, and viewed with varying scrutiny. It tends to promote a large share of free trade, and consequently is not favorably received by the supporters of the present law.

Postmaster-General Bissell has made a postadecision that rumples the feathers of the secret fraternities. He rules that papers and periodil cals published regularly by the different orders cannot be handled as second-class mail-matter. Each paper sent out, therefore, has to be separately prepaid with a postage stamp. This is a remarkable circumstance; and as there seems to be no good reason for such a distinction, the fraternities are bitterly protesting against it.

"The Order of Orders and Fraternity of Fraternities," composed of fraternal benefit societies, recently held its annual session at Cincinnati, and called it "the National Fraternal Congress." Several hundred delegates, from all parts of the Union, were present. The president's address indicated the progress of the institution. The recent financial embarrassment did not appreciably affect the order. During seven years there have been but two withdrawals. The union includes to-day about 1,500,000 men, and pays out about $28,000,000. Legislation has been urged with good result in five States. The balance in the treasury of the congress Nov. 16, 1893, was $2,255.87. The number of members of the order Dec. 31, 1892, was 1,363,877. The amount of benefits paid for deaths and disability loss, $28,812,975.87. But little of this institution seems to be known to the public. It embraces, however, a great variety of assessment societies, and appears to be principally devoted to the regulation of their insurance features. Of course, secrecy and silence are its principal jewels.

A clergyman of the Methodist Episcopal church writes words of encouragement to the N. C. A. and gives thanks for the Cynosure which, he says, has made a thorough anti-secretist of his son. How many are planning to give a year's subscription for the Cynosure to their friends as a holiday present? How does this suggestion strike you? Try it. There are some 5,000 county superintendents and principals of public schools to whom might be sent a special number of this paper containing scores of testimonies against the lodge from eminent educators, statesmen, and divines. The cost can be easily met by our readers. A few foreign missionaries now receive the Cynosure. To send it to more in far-off lands is another door of privilege now standing wide open. The increasing demand for N. C. A. literature in Africa and India is an indication that the missionaries should be its recipients. There are college and Y. M. C. A. reading-rooms unsupplied with our publications. A membership secretary of the Chicago Y. M. C. A. states that almost daily do young men come to him for counsel about joining secret societies. Shall the Cynosure be sent to their reading-rooms by your holiday contribution?

Last week the German parliament, by a small majority, voted to re-admit the Jesuits to the empire; but a correspondent of the London Times, writing from Berlin, says: "The ultramontanes and their allies affect to regard the battle for the re-admission of the Jesuits into Germany as definitely won, but their pæan of victory is pitched in so shrill a key as to inspire doubts as to the genuineness of the confidence that they so loudly profess." Germany knows what a curse the Jesuits are to any country, and sober second-thought will probably relegate them to other climes before they can gain a foothold in the empire.

Socialists and anarchists, in large numbers, assembled in Trafalgar Square, London, last Sunday. The Home Secretary of the Kingdom, Mr. Asquith, forbade their gathering, and the police were on the alert and out in force. Among the "reds" were noticed many of the lower class of foreigners, French, Germans, Russians, Spaniards, and Italians, many of them wearing slouch hats and red neckties, thus causing considerable excitement in the neighborhood. The police kept those in the square on the move, and whenever any number of them collected to hold a meeting, they were at once dispersed; yet the "reds" were very hostile and determined. The crowd was finally routed, after being roughly handled. They then attempted to make a foray upon Scotland Yard, the police headquarters, the force there being very light; but here again they were thwarted by a force of mounted police who forestalled them. Many arrests were made, the police and their prisoners being followed to the stations by gangs of howling and vindictive anarchists. The British government is not in a mood to dally with these secret and murderous foes of liberty and law.

THAT WEDGE OF GOLD.

ADDRESS OF STEPHEN MERRITT AT THE NEW YORK STATE CONVENTION, UTICA, NOV. 15, 1893.

[Mr. Merritt spoke both in the afternoon and evening. The following report is a summary of the two addresses. Mr. Merritt is a well-known undertaker of New York. To this business he adds the ministry of the Word, the management of a large mission for the poor and outcast, publishes and edits the King's Messenger, and answers frequent calls for special addresses.—H. L. K.]

The company I am addressing here has a different appearance from that I associate with every day. It is cleaner, more wholesome, more intelligent than the dirty, unconverted ragged waifs and tramps that gather at 5:30 every morning to get something to eat and have a meeting at our mission. But I am not with them all the while. I am a busy man. Besides carrying on my regular business, I have built three churches; have been a preacher for twenty-five years and get no salary. I give $3,000 a year for the privilege of preaching, and would give $5,000 rather than not have that pleasure. I realize to-day, more than ever, that God wants a peculiar people. God has led me out of darkness into light. I never felt freer in my life than to-day, though I never was much afraid of anybody.

In what we call our "Traveler's Club," among our mission tramps, I often have men give me the grip of a Mason out of their rags and dirt. Masonry did not save them from their wretched condition. On the other hand, the tendency of Masonry is downward, not heavenward. Men go into the lodge for help in business. It is generally a hindrance. It costs more than they ever get out of it. Ministers of the Gospel are sometimes members, but, as a rule they don't frequent the lodge. But they keep up some sort of an ornamental relation. They think they can get hold of men, and be more useful as preachers. It is a mistaken idea. They are doing evil that good may come. It is like the Romish Jesuit: If the motive be right, everything will be right. I am glad that not many ministers are regular attendants on the lodge. There is no Christianity in the Blue Lodge. I used to pray in the name of Jesus in their meetings. But the Jews said: No Jesus! Jews, deists, free-thinkers fill the lodges. Christ has no part or lot among them. They don't do good as he commanded. Their own goodness is all that is required in the order. A Musselman is as good a Mason as anybody else. What this brother [J. P. Stoddard] tells you about Masonry I want to vouch for. I am astonished as his knowledge of the system. And he has it right. I can endorse his account of the lodge, and you must learn it of him. There is no true idea of Christianity. I say, in the lodge. Some writers make it appear that there is. They say much about Christ outside, but not when inside. Rob Morris was one of these. I can't understand how such men as he get confused. They carry water on both shoulders.

When I was yet in Masonry I preached Christ to all men. For some time I was only a nominal Mason. I paid my dues, but did not attend, only at special or public meetings. That was a mistake. I ought to have stopped it all. We must cut off a right hand, if necessary. I thank those who helped to lead me out from that darkness into light. They say we come to the lodge-door seeking light. But it is not light. But I will stop there. You must ask Bro. Stoddard for the rest. He can tell it all, and do it better than I. But it is enough to know that "the secret of the Lord is with them that fear him." He wants us to come and learn it all of him. He takes us by the hand to lead us into the secret of his presence. That is not the lodge. I cannot serve two masters—God and mammon. I cannot walk with the world and with God at the same time. "Come out from among them and be ye separate." We must leave everything to follow God—leave friends and loved ones, to follow his command. We must all do this, Masons or Anti-masons. If those who oppose the lodge do so from selfish motives, and not for Christ—why, they are just as bad as the men they condemn. Anti-masons must trust the Holy Ghost. They must obey him, and walk with him, or they rebuke themselves. I am thankful to them for helping me to the light. I pray God will give them a message to the people, to give them his blessing in their difficult work. My work must be among the poor, and wretched, and outcast. We have great blessings in the Tabernacle, where we meet these poor people. Some of them you would not pick up with tongs. I have 31,000 of them for my mission field.

When I tried to get into the lodge first, I was black-balled. But I tried again, and was received, and became very enthusiastic in Masonry. I was made Master, and had the biggest lodge in New York, and was the youngest Master. That was away back in war-time. I made more Masons than any other Master of that day, and in Grand Lodge was proud that I could cast seven votes,—more than any one else—our lodge was so strong. We had 300 men at our regular meetings. I formed a strong chapter of Royal Arch Masons; took the Rose Croix degrees, and on through the Scotch Rite. At that time there were only nine who had the 33d, or last degree, of that rite. We had a meeting to enlarge that number, and insisted that it be done. But when it was agreed upon, I remembered that one of the oaths swore me about limiting the number. There was some disagreement about this matter and I was left out of the select 33d degree few. Then I went into the Rite of Memphis, where they have ninty-six degrees, and took them all. I used to be called their pastor in the lodge, because I was called on so often for some kind of special religious service. But I found the tendency of the whole thing evil, and only evil, continually. So I protested and left, but still I paid dues and attended funerals. I was a very dull scholar.

One incident helped to open my eyes. I have always preached that there is no other name but Christ by which we can be saved. But again and again I found Masons dying without God and without hope. I was called to the bedside of one member of my lodge who was thought to be dying. He gave me the grip as I sat down by him. He said he was dying and was in great distress for his soul. I tried to have him look to Christ. But he reproached me, saying I had led him astray. I had told him in the lodge, as Master, that a moral life was enough. He said: "You told me then that it was all right if I was an upright man, and obeyed the precepts of the lodge, but I am leaning on a broked reed; and now I am dying without God. I lay this to your charge, Worshipful Master. You never told me the way by Christ. I leaned on you, and now I am dying."

I groaned in agony, and fell on my knees and cried to God to spare the man's life. My heart was almost broken. I promised that I would preach Christ, and tell all men that they could be saved through him alone. God heard, and spared the man, but he has since died a Christian. He was converted, and told me that I must get out of the lodge; that I could not be consistent as a Christian and a Mason. But I did not see it. Ministers and other good men are in the lodge. They help make it a delusion and a snare. The times of such ignorance God winked at, but now every man is commanded to repent of lodge folly.

Yet I kept up a sort of connection with the order, paying my dues but refusing to attend meetings. Masons came to remonstrate with me and urge me to return. They held up numerous advantages, but I kept away. But about a month ago there was a precious meeting in the Tabernacle with our poor people. There came a great hush upon the congregation. The Holy Spirit was there in power, as we talked of him. It was a solemn time. I felt subdued and close to God, and said: "I am thine; I am altogether thine, Lord." But the Holy Ghost said: "That wedge of gold!" I said: "All is thine. There is nothing between me and thee." He only said: "That wedge of gold!" Then I remembered under the floor of my tent, oh, I had hidden a wedge of gold! I had kept a beautiful jewel which was a present from the lodge and worth $250, or more, made of gold, with a diamond suspended in it. I had made more Masons than any other Master, and they gave me that jewel.

One summer I spent in the country and had the jewel with me. I had a beautiful gold watch also, the gift of a church, all inscribed. One night a gentlemau called on me. He did not take pains to wake me up, but he came into my room and borrowed my clothes from a chair; and when I wanted them in a hurry to get to a train in the morning—alas! where were they? My friend took them into the basement and took my gold watch and all the money. Then he unpinned the lodge jewel and folded the clothes nicely on a chair and put the jewel on top carefully! Don't you see what happens to you if you are a Mason? [Applause and laughter, and a voice: "He didn't belong to the church, did he?"]

Well, I made up my mind to get rid of that jewel, and asked my wife for it. She said: "Why, you gave that to me. What are you going to do with it?" "Send it back." And so I did. I wrote a letter to Temple Lodge, No. 203, and told them God had told me to sever all connection with Masonry forever. Then I enclosed the jewel and sent it. The members of the lodge came to talk with me. I was told it would ruin my business; that it would hurt me in a thousand ways. "Don't break off" they pleaded. They wanted me to keep the jewel. They said: "We don't know what to do with it." I told them I would not give it house-room. They might melt it up and give it to the poor if they wanted to. It was a wedge of gold in my tent and I would have it there no longer.

This was only about a month ago. It was the last link that bound me to the world. Now I am free. I will not have anything between Jesus and my soul. In this convention I am standing for the first time a free man! For whom the Son makes free, he is free indeed. I never had such a blessed deliverance. This is my first speech on this question since I left the lodge wholly. I feel somewhat embarrassed,—as if I was talking like a child. But I thank God the seal of the Spirit is on me; that I am walking in the light. They used to lead me about, blindfolded, in the lodge. It was the blind leading the blind into the ditch. We must get out of that mire, and put our feet on the solid foundation, the Rock Christ Jesus. There only are we safe.

FROM BOMBALI MISSION.

BY H. W. JOHNSTON.

Away off here in Africa the writer has noted with considerable surprise the frequent mention in American papers of Mohammedanism in America and of Mr. Webb's work in connection with the propagation of the doctrines of the Koran. It has seemed to me that an unreasonable amount of attention is given that gentleman by the secular press, and I have wondered how much the oaths of the Mystic Shrine have had to do with it.

I also note that Alexander Russell Webb is expected to speak in behalf of Mohammedanism at the Chicago Pantheon. I have no objection to that, since that is part of the show; but I have wondered whether he would advocate the same doctrines on a Chicago platform that the disciples of Mohammed are teaching to the benighted Africans of Bombali land.

Will he teach that ordinary Chicagoans can be allowed four wives, and specially rich ones, and men of high standing allowed an unlimited number? Will he advocate slavery, wars against infidels, and the potency of charms and amulets? Will he introduce sacrifices and the annual fast which is claimed to atone for the sins of the year? Will he put women in the outer courts of God's temples, and will he teach the difference in the moral law as respects the faithful and the infidels? Even Christianity has its faulty members, but the conduct of individuals is not the system. The things referred to above are the accepted doctrines of West African Moslemism, and I would like to know if Mohammed Alexander Russell Webb has carried the same kind to America.

However, West African Mohammedanism is not as bigoted as in some other parts of the world, and at the present time we have three children in our mission school of Mohammedan parentage, and one old priest of that system is quite a regular attendant at our services.

It has been claimed by the apostle of Mohammed in England that the system has no priests—meaning to convey the impression that there is equality of the faithful, and no orders among them; but the statement is not true of West African Mohammedanism, for here there are several orders.

I will add, by way of missionary news, that we recently organized a little church here with seven full members and some on trial. We have ten regular pupils in our school; have an average attendance of about thirty in our Sunday-school. We have not kindled a very big blaze of light as yet, but it is growing, and we are claiming this beautiful land for Christ.

Rokunso, West Africa, Oct. 17, 1893.

AMERICAN PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION.

ITS INITIATION CEREMONIES, OBLIGATIONS AND PRINCIPLES.

[From the St. Paul (Minn.) Globe of Nov. 6, 1893.]

[Concluded.]

THE THIRD OATH.

I, ——, do most solemnly promise and vow that I will not make known to any one in the world anything that I may hear, see or discover in this order, unless directed by proper authority to confer this degree or communicate this work to a regularly organized and recognized body of the Americans, and neither to any of them unless duly advised of the genuineness of the body to be so instructed.

That I will, to the best of my ability, preserve the purity of the ballot at any and all elections; that I will discountenance frauds and impositions by arts and tricks upon the people; that I will maintain a rigid inforcement of the principles of honor and honesty against political usurpation and oppression; that I will maintain and defend the government of the United States and the government of the State in which I live against foreign invasion, against a foreign foe, national or ecclesiastical, against rebellion, treason or the foes of good government. That I will forever renounce and abjure any foreign power, king, prince, potentate or ecclesiastical power whereby the same may in any way conflict with my rights as a citizen, or my rights of conscience, and, if need be, I will take up arms, and by opposing, end them. I furthermore promise and swear, I will ever make it the aim of my life to keep the church separate and distinct from the state. (Candidate repeats.) To all of which I do most solemnly promise and swear, so help me God. Amen.

My friends, if there is anything in these proceedings inconsistent with your conscientious belief as Christians, or as citizens, or as honest men, you are at liberty now to retire, but remembering the obligation you have taken. What will you do? Do you still desire to advance? It is well. You will now be conducted to the chaplain for further trial.

(Are taken to chaplain on right of president.)

Sergeant-at-arms—Worthy chaplain, I come to you for counsel, bringing with me —— friends, in whom I have great confidence, and I feel will find favor in your sight, and that you will deal by them only as you have by us.

Chaplain—Sergeant-at-arms, I am pleased to hear so favorable a report, and the confidence with which you make it.

THE CULMINATING OATH.

(To candidate.) Place your right hand on your heart, repeat your name and remain silent.

I do most solemnly promise and swear that I will not allow any one a member of the Roman Catholic church to become a member of this order, I knowing him to be such; that I will use my influence to promote the interests of all Protestants, everywhere in the world; that I will not employ a Roman Catholic in any capacity, if I can procure the service of a Protestant; that I will not aid in building, or in maintaining, by my resources, any Roman Catholic church or institution of their sect or creed whatsoever, but will do all in my power to retard and break down the power of the Pope; that I will not enter into any controversy with a Roman Catholic upon the subject of this order, nor will I enter into any agreement with a Roman Catholic to strike or create a disturbance, whereby the Roman Catholic employes may undermine and substitute the Protestants; that in all grievances I will seek only Protestants, and counsel with them, to the exclusion of all Roman Catholics, and will not make known to them anything of any nature matured at such conferences; that I will not countenance the nomination, in any caucus or convention, of a Roman Catholic for any office in the gift of the American people, and that I will not vote for, nor counsel others to vote for, any Roman Catholic, but will vote only for a Protestant; that I will endeavor at all times to place political positions of this government in the hands of Protestants. (Repeat.) To all of which I do most solemnly promise and swear, so help me God. Amen.

Chaplain—Sergeant-at-arms, you will now conduct them to the vice-president.

Sergeant-at-arms—Mr. Vice-President, I present to you these friends, to receive from you instructions as to the necessities and purposes of our order.

Vice-President—Now let the darkness be dispelled. Remove the cloud, that the light of reason may dawn on their vision. (Hoodwinks removed from candidates). Behold, how glorious it is to be relieved from the pressure of a mental darkness, groping we know not whither! My friends, it is one of the purposes of this order to awaken the citizens of this country to the fact that they are blindly allowing the papal power to gain absolute control of our educational institutions and State and national government. Even now we are in bondage through the terrible influence which the Roman church wields over this continent. Let it be your duty to assist us in bringing all to a knowledge of the danger which menaces our free institutions.

(Candidates facing vice-president. Here may follow extempore speech by the vice-president).

Vice-President—Sergeant-at-arms, you will present these friends to the president for final est and instructions in the covered work of this order.

(Here the altar service is first given).

DENOUNCING THE CATHOLICS.

President—Place your right hand on the assumed emblem of the Roman Catholic church, your left hand upon the book of your faith, and repeat after me: I hereby denounce Roman Catholicism; I hereby denounce the Pope, sitting at Rome, or elsewhere; I denounce his priests and emissaries and the diabolical work of the Roman Catholic church, and I hereby pledge myself to the cause of Protestantism to the end that there may be no interference with the discharge of the duties of the citizenship, and I solemnly bind myself to protect at all times, and with all means in my power, the good name of the order and its members, so help me God. Amen.

INSTRUCTIONS.

To gain admission during the session of a council you will approach the outer door and alarm the sentinel; to him you will give the term word, which is ——; you will then approach the inner door and give —— raps, which will be answered from within by the same; then, if in order, the wicket will open, and to the person in charge you will give the permanent word, which is ——, and means ——; for whatsoever measure you mete shall be measured to you again; being admitted, you will approach the altar, and, facing the president, will give this sign ——; he will respond thus ——; then facing about you will give the vice-president the response, and he will give you the sign thus ——, when you will be seated. If you should desire to retire during the session, ask permission, and, as on entering, give the sign; if responded to you may then retire. Voting sign is thus ——. The grip is made with the hand thus ——. You will now be seated.

CLOSING THE LODGE.

President—Secretary of state, what tidings have you from the department of state?

Secretary of State—Mr. President, the state has suffered at the hands of dishonest and disreputable men who have attained their high position by imposing upon the credulity of a trusting people, but they are becoming aroused to the fact, and now the halls of the state are becoming purified and the unworthy law-makers are being set aside by the great will of the people; but still we want more honor, honesty and manhood in the high positions of state.

President—Chaplain, what cheer from the church?

Chaplain—The light of the dawn has begun to beam upon the children of men, and my brethren can now see more clearly through the darkness that has enfolded their vision as in a cloud; error and blind superstition are being scattered by intelligence, and a knowledge of the light that illumines the pathway of the truth is fast leading to a full understanding of the symbols, dogmas and the creeds of an ancient mythology. Rome no longer, as of old, in the new world controls the free action of mind and conscience; but the fettered intellect is casting off its shackles and declares a freedom to live with God, and not an oppresive and arrogant priesthood.

President—All hail the glad tidings! And so goes on the reformation. Justice, too, is asserting itself. Though blinded these long years, she now casts aside the hoodwink and looks upon the wrongs to right them; stretches forth the sword to protect the weak and the innocent; to sustain in the right the downtrodden; elevating and ennobling the principles of the first of these to all justice. It grinds exceedingly slow, but the final product is sure, and by the law shall the people be made to rejoice rather than go about mourning all their days because they sought and found it not perfect. Mr. Vice-president, heard you not the glad tidings from state, church and the place of justice? What will you that we do to show our appreciation of these fast coming changes?

Vice-president—Mr. President, wisdom suggests that we be not flattered by the outward show of a reformation; and being instrumental in bringing it about, we feel a pride, and it puffs us up and we become vain. Let us commune with Deity, and ask guidance, light and protection.

President—To your devotion, friends.

Chaplain—Most Wise Designer and Maker of all that is, give us wisdom to understand aright the things we should do; guide us by thy silent council as we go forth from this place to mingle with the pretenders of thy love; protect us from the evil influences of our inborn passions; give us light to discern the true method to acquire that which we seek; be ever present with us in our daily walk and place thy finger as a lock to secrecy upon our lips, that no word may escape us to the injury of the cause we have so earnestly espoused; ever guide our footsteps by the pillar of honest thought, and our actions by the knowledge of our best sober judgment, and may all our lives be an honor to this cause and acceptable to thee, and manifested by thy approving smile of success. Amen.

President—You are at liberty to depart and go whereso'er you will over this broad land. Remember your vows, your American home, and peace go with you.

WM. H. SEWARD ON THE KNOW-NOTHINGS.

In 1856 Hon. Wm. H. Seward made the following reference to the Know-Nothing party of that day, of which the A. P. A. of to-day is a supplement and duplicate:

"I am not allowed, sir, to reach the merits of the question before the Senate without alluding to the body of men who bear the name of 'Know-Nothings.' They are said to have contrived their disguise with so much ingenuity that even a person who is not a novitiate cannot disclaim a knowledge of their ceremonies and principles, without implying his communion and membership with them. Nevertheless, sir, I must be permitted to deny all connection with this new order. I am under no responsibility for its doings, and I have not the least sympathy with its principles or sentiments.

"I belong to one voluntary association of men; one which has to do with spiritual affairs—it is a branch of the Christian church. That association is an open one; it performs all its rites and gives all its instructions with publicity; it invites every man to come in and partake of its privileges. I belong to one temporal society of men, and that is the political party which embodies most fully and truly, according to my notions, though I confess, very inadequately, the principles of the Declaration of Independence and of the Constitution of the United States. This also is an open association. All its transactions are conducted in broad daylight; and it invites all citizens to co-operate with it in maintaining good government and advancing the cause of human nature.

"These two are the only voluntary associations of men to which I shall ever suffer myself to belong.

"Secret societies, sir! Before I would place my hand between the hands of other men in a secret lodge, order, class or council, and, bending my knee before them, enter into combination with them for any object, personal or political, good or bad, I would pray to God that that hand and that knee might be paralyzed, and that I might become an object of the pity, and even of the mockery, of my fellow-men. Swear, sir—I, a man, an American citizen, a Christian, swear to submit myself to the guidance and direction of other men, surrendering my own judgment to their judgment, and my own conscience to their keeping? No, sir, no!

"Proscribe a man, sir, because he was not born in the same town, or country, in which I was born. No! Mr. President, you know now the length and the breadth of my connection with the new and mysterious order of patriots, the Know-Nothings!"

DEATH IN THE LODGE.

A Springfield (Ill.) telegram of November 24th appeared in the daily press: "Charlie Willis, twelve years old, was shot and killed last night while being initiated into a secret society composed of youngsters whose ages run from twelve to fifteen years. The society was called the 'S. S. S. S.,' the letters standing for Seven Secrets' Silent Shades. The boys' minds had evidently become inflamed by blood and thunder literature, and had a cave in the outskirts of the city, the walls of the retreat being hung with pistols, old muskets, a few swords and other warlike arrangements.

"The entire S. S. S. S. was arrested, but most of them declined to say anything concerning the killing, as to do so was contrary to their oaths. Some of them, however, were frightened into telling enough of the occurrence to enable the coronor's jury to bring in a verdict of accidental death."

NEW ENGLAND LETTER.

The Japanese chrysanthemum.—Thanksgiving.—Wellesley College for woman suffrage.—A new non-partisan league.—Child brides in Massachusetts.—The American Board.

Doesn't it look as if there must be something artificial in our social life when anything so pre-eminently artificial as the Japanese chrysanthemum, which looks as if it was made of paper, fringed out with the scissors, and would rustle if you touched it, rides on the top wave of popular favor, decorating buttonholes and jardinieres, queening it over all the sweet old-time favorites at every flower-show, and rapturously admired by the unreasoning crowds who admire in most cases for no other reason than because everybody else does. The old-fashioned English chrysanthemum—the Christ-flower of the Middle Ages—the favorite of our grandmothers, has a sweet naturalness of its own, and lends itself gracefully to sentiment; but the very look of this Japanese monstrosity, which has usurped its place, is enough to kill all sentiment dead on the spot.

Again our New England "feast of ingathering," with its annual sacrifice of roast turkey and general atmosphere of good cheer, has come round. The first Thanksgiving, in 1621, fell during a season of phenomenal mildness, the mellow Indian summer, and was literally a feast of tabernacles, being held out-of-doors, the only banqueting hall large enough to accommodate Massasoit and his ninety Indians, whom the Pilgrims entertained for three days in such royal style. Our Pilgrim foremothers, if they sometimes looked back longingly to the plum-puddings and parties of Old England, must have found a compensation in the pleasure of trying their ingenuity on the novel dainties of the new world; and when success failed to crown their efforts, which must have happened very often—for even English cooks at the present day fail on cranberry pie because ignorant of the fact that cranberries must be stewed beforehand—seeking to some dusky squaw to be initiated into the mysteries of succotash, johnny-cake, Indian pudding, and that triumph of Yankee culinary genius, baked beans. This is the source, according to tradition, from which all these indigenous dishes originated, and I imagine that the viands they prepared under the tutelage of their Indian instructresses were as toothsome and not near so apt to induce dyspepsia as those which their fair descendants concoct who attend a fashionable cooking-class with Miss Parloa, Mrs. Lincoln, or some other renowned cuisine at its head.

A canvass of Wellesley College was recently made to learn how the members stood in regard to the political enfranchisement of women, with this result: That out of the 622 members interviewed, 506 declared themselves in favor of the movement. Accordingly the secretary of the Woman Suffrage Association received a telegram to the effect that "five hundred Wellesley women rejoice in the granting of suffrage to the women of Colorado."

A new municipal league has been formed in Boston, headed by one of its most patriotic citizens, S. B. Capen, in order to fight corruption in the city government, and prevent the election of unfit men to her places of trust. It is non-partisan, and anti-caste, ignoring all differences of color, race or creed in its membership, and so stands a better chance of success than if formed on a less catholic basis. But at best it can only be a partial success. Boston will continue to be ruled on the spoils system by ignorant, rum-selling foreigners, until her pure and good women are allowed their political say. Mr. Capen, in his remarks before the Congregational Club, recently, told of a contest in one of the city wards where the rum-power won the victory by a single vote, while across the way a temperance meeting was in full swing. As he very truly said, what did the liquor men care for all their temperance enthusiasm and cold water songs? One vote cast in the interests of righteousness and purity would have outweighed them all. Will Massachusetts continue to deny to her white-ribbon women, her college-bred girls, her intelligent, Christian wives and mothers, the privilege of casting the deciding vote which will mean salvation from rum-rule? The coming winter will tell the story, whether she shall stay another year behind even New Zealand, or step into the ranks with Colorado.

The new warden of the State's prison at Charlestown, Bridges, is credited with saying that "it is vastly more difficult to take care of the Boston press than the State's prison." This is very likely; but this may be said of it, that if it burrows rather deep in the mud sometimes in order to fish up sensational things to report and sell their papers, there is another and a brighter side, for it often brings abuses to the surface of which the public would otherwise always remain in ignorance. The hearts of many Christian people have been deeply stirred over the wrongs of the child-wives of India, without the faintest suspicion that Massachusetts law allows the same enormity. According to one of our best conducted and trustworthy Boston dailies, a decision which has never been reversed declares marriages between males above fourteen and females above twelve to be valid without the consent of their parents and guardians, while at the same time, so confused and contradictory is the law on this subject, there are statutes prohibiting the solemnizing of marriages where the contracting parties are below eighteen and twenty-one, respectively, unless such consent has been obtained. Americans seldom marry below these ages, but the Italians, Hebrews, Poles, Syrians and Arabs (for Boston is getting to be quite cosmopolitan in its sprinkling of different nationalities) are the chief offenders. Used to such marriages in their own country, they have little knowledge or regard for American customs in this matter, and freely consent to the marriage of their daughters, when mere children, usually to men double their age. Here is an abuse which should be rectified by our next legislature, and without any needless delay.

Over a hundred Boston policemen were detailed to Springfield as preservers of peace and order at the late foot-ball match, to which, be it said in passing, tickets were sold at a premium as high as four dollars. Evidently there are some people whose pockets, where a popular amusement is concerned, never seem to feel the financial stringency. Yet I imagine that these same parties would grudge so much money spent on a useful book or a good engraving, or a course of scientific lectures. The question arises, whether a game which requires as large a police force as it would take to quell a riot, can be an unmixed moral good in any community; and whether our colleges would not stand higher in public estimation if athletics were relegated to their proper and subordinate place, and mentaletics correspondingly elevated.

An advance of $5,345 in donations during September and October is recorded by the American Board. Large returns may be looked for, now that the unfortunate controversy which has caused so much alienation and bitternesshas been brought to a peaceful ending.

ELIZABETH E. FLAGG.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 29, 1893.

This has been an unusually busy week in church and temperance circles. Although the winter has scarcely begun, there is much suffering among the poor—more than usually exists during the last half of a hard winter. Although much of this suffering can, as usual, be traced to intemperance, it exists even among those who are temperate and willing to work, could work be had. The financial distress through which the country has been passing (and let us all hope has now almost passed) is largely the cause of the suffering among the poor in Washington. For a number of years there has been much building going on in this city, practically all the year. This year there has been much less than usual, even during the summer, and now there is very little. In consequence, the thousands of mechanics and laborers who are dependent upon the various branches of that trade are out of employment and unless they have laid by something are in want. The distress is by no means confined to one line of business—it extends to all, and there are few business establishments which have not been compelled to reduce their force of employes; even the big retail stores, which usually put on at this season hundreds of extra clerks for the holiday trade, are now reducing their help—the largest in the city dismissed one hundred clerks last Saturday night, many of them being the sole supports of families.

The church and temperance people are giving to all an object-lesson in practical Christianity by their herculean labors to provide for those unable to provide for themselves, and the aid they are extending to the families of those men who are in want because of their own indulgence in intoxicating liquor when they had work, cannot fail to touch the hearts of many and make better men of them. Besides looking after the needy in their own congregations, our churches are all aiding the Central Union Mission to care for those outside of the churches. The mission to-day sent to 500 families a Thanksgiving Day basket of provisions, and needed articles of clothing were in many of the baskets. The following extract is from the last issue of the Mission Bulletin:

"The preparations for this great annual outpouring for the poor are going forward enthusiastically. Nearly 300 men and women, the cream of the city, are gathering the resources. Money, food, clothing, medicine, fuel and little luxuries for the sick are being collected from thousands of homes. It is a magnificent spectacle—the spontaneous uprising of the rich and well-to-do in behalf of the poor and needy." In each of the 500 baskets sent out was a copy of the following letter: "Please accept this basket of food as a present from the good Christian people of this city, given in the name of Jesus Christ. It is a small gift, but 500 others are sent out at the same time, and altogether they will cost $1,000, more or less. We sympathize with your hard struggle. We know the bitterness of the fight for daily bread. We love the fathers and mothers and children where these gifts are sent. Be not discouraged. Some day you will see better circumstances if you are true to God." Printed upon the tags attached to each basket was the 33d verse of the sixth chapter of St Matthew.

The attention of official circles has been largely given this week to the new tariff bill, just made public, the annual departmental reports, and the proposed new treaty with China, which, according to current report, will give American missionaries the right to live and work in all parts of China.

Society women are not all mere giddy butterflies of fashion. They maintain a number of the most deserving charities in town, to say nothing of a number of helpful institutions that do not strictly speaking come under that head. Among the latter is the Home for Working Girls, a place where honest, respectable girls may when at work obtain good food and comfortable lodging for a nominal sum, and where they can get the same gratis, if unable to pay for it, while looking for work. The old home is too small to accommodate all who wish to avail themselves of its shelter, and recently a noble and warm-hearted Washington woman gave a new building for the purpose. Yesterday afternoon a tea and bazaar was held at a private residence to raise the money to furnish one floor of the new home, and it was attended by a large number of those who are most prominent in society. It was a success and the floor will be immediately furnished. Charity, as the Master truly said, covereth a multitude of sins. *

REFORM NEWS.

NEW ENGLAND SECRETARY AND THE A. P. A.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 29, 1893.

I am told that Romanism has been secretly organizing her forces in this country for years, which is doubtless true. I am told that with a hidden hand she is reaching out to grasp the helm of state and the scepter of civil power—a grave charge, indeed, but confirmed by ample testimony. I am told that her movements are centered at the Vatican, and that the actors are the sworn agents of an absolutism, which makes them the tools of the papal hierarchy, which no well-informed person can sincerely question.

I am told that a cardinal factor in the Romish creed is, "The end justifies the means," and that in harmony with this tenet of her faith, she employs methods that are secret, selfish and corrupt, to which charges we are compelled to give assent. I am further told that if we would contend successfully against Jesuitical aggression, and save our government and public school system from the grasp of this wily foe, we must adopt, at least in part, their methods.

While giving hearty assent to the charges brought against Romanism, I am not prepared to accept the proposed remedy, unchallenged. I recognize but one Master of my conscience or conduct, and it is my business to follow where he leads, and not to wander off into the vagaries of even well-meaning men. He came to overthrow existing systems and to establish a brotherhood of men upon their ruins. He was met at the very outset with a fierce and unscrupulous opposition, which pursued him unto death; but I fail to find a single instance in which he organized, or directed his followers to form, secret societies to counteract the opposition.

On the other hand, he declared, "I ever spake openly to the world;" and when instructing his disciples, he said, "What ye hear in the ear, that preach ye upon the housetops;" and then, broadening the commission to include all his followers, he affirmed, "Ye are the light of the world;" and, as if that were not sufficient, he added, "No man, when he hath lighted a candle, covereth it with a vessel, or putteth it under a bed." There is no vagueness, or things "hard to be understood," in either the example or the instructions of our Lord, nor is there a field outside this broad commandment that can be occupied by would-be reformers without sacrificing that true manhood to which Christ gave a complete and perfected expression in his incarnation. Matthew 10 contains the names and commission of the "twelve apostles" whom Jesus sent forth, not to organize in secret to defeat the plots of the enemy, but to "preach:" "As ye go, preach." All except "Judas Iscariot, who also betrayed him," appear to have obeyed his instructions. Judas, alone, of the chosen twelve, dishonored the Master by disobeying instructions, and adopting the secret methods of conspirators.

Luke 10 gives an account of "other seventy also," whom "the Lord appointed and sent them two and two before his face into every city and place whither he himself would come." The commission of the seventy was not unlike to that of the twelve, and their instructions, though less in detail, are in perfect accord. Not the slightest intimation crops out anywhere that they were to organize secretly or employ the tactics of their adversaries as heralds of their coming victorious Lord. They were to prepare the way for his coming, not by binding them in bundles, or drilling them in military evolutions, or proffering great worldly advantages, or even by victory over their enemies, but by preaching and teaching the people. Knowing the treachery of the human heart, and to fortify his disciples against the blandishments of their adversaries, he warned them not to follow their ways into the desert, or into the secret chamber, for the journey would end in a delusion and a snare. "The light of the world" was not there.

I have recently been invited by very estimable friends, whose wishes it would give me great pleasure to gratify, to unite with the "American Protective Association." These repeated invitations have led me to scrutinize most carefully the grounds upon which I have stood aloof from all secret societies. I find that many who oppose the older orders are seriously questioning whether or not this vigorous, young, professed opponent of Rome, and champion of patriotism, is not to be excepted from the general rule. I have been unable to find any warrant which would justify me in making such an exception; but my convictions are strengthened by every review of my position. We have, first, the presumption that the truthful and the honest are children of the light, and that only the false, the treacherous, and the wicked, seek the shelter of darkness to cover their deformity. Second, we have the example of Christ and his specific instructions to his disciples condemning secret methods and warning them against adopting the devices of their adversaries. When I learned of a patriotic meeting to be held in this city, I attempted to gain admission, but failed for want of a password. I was informed that it was a meeting of the A.·. P.·. A.·., to form a new political party, and not having passed the ordeal of their catechism and assumed the vows of secrecy and obedience to unknown leaders, I could not be trusted with their secrets. This struck me as not simply un-American, but as positively anti-American. I cannot conceive why any worthy citizen needs to adopt measures that will not endure the light, or why he needs a mantle of darkness to cover his patriotism; nor is it altogether safe to trust our government in the hands of men pledged to keep each other's secrets, and keep all outsiders in the dark as to their movements. Even admitting that a temporary advantage might be gained, will it pay in the end? There is a future as well as a present to be considered—a far-sight beyond the near-sight—which must be taken into account. It is not the mastery of to-day that is of highest importance, but a radical and permanent enthronement of loyalty in the seat of power, which is in the hearts of the people.

A victory on election-day in Detroit, St. Louis, Providence, or Boston, if worthily won, should not be lightly esteemed. It is, however, the precursor of another contest, possibly more fierce and desperate. Every good citizen rejoices when iniquity is rebuked at the ballot-box. But a single triumph, or a series of victories, does not clear the vision or purify the brain or heart of the nation. The very means employed to achieve success may, and often does, induce corruption and degeneracy. A single glass of grog has been known to change a man's vote. Yet, if it were possible to so control the elections of our country, by making the voters drunken, that an overwhelming majority should favor free government, popular education and equal civil rights for all, a temporary gain by such means would result in great loss and disgrace. It would be the Romanists' plea: "The end justifies the means," which will never stand the test of Scripture, or of reason. The whole head and heart of the nation is debased by the drunkenness which carries the election and wins the victory over a dangerous rival.

Now substitute the principle of secrecy for liquor, and employ foresworn or pledged concealment and obedience to political leaders as the means to a desirable end, and you have retrograded rather than advanced a single step towards a permanent cure of the evil, when the election is carried by such a device. Secrecy tends to clannishness and trickery in politics, or out of it, and makes the Jesuitical schemes of Rome possible, but it never did, and it never will, produce a frank, generous, honorable nature in any individual or party or nation of people. Its tendency is downward as steadily and as surely as the attraction of gravitation, and as certainly, if not as speedily, will it end in failure as the reform that compasses its ends by making its votaries drunken with strong drink. If our beloved land is saved from the curse of rum, Romanism and the secret lodges, it will be under God, not by copying after these enemies of righteousness and conspirators against men, but by open, honorable methods, such as will bear the light, and for which we have Christ's example.

JAMES P. STODDARD.

FROM THE FRONT ON THE PACIFIC.

WESTON, Ore., Nov. 25, 1893.

From Oaksdale I went to Lone Pine, near Latah, where I stopped with David Bridgeman and family. They are staunch anti-secrecy people, who are neither ashamed or afraid to let their position be known. They have the best improved farm and finest home I have seen in the West.

While everybody else is thinking of nothing but wheat, this brother turns his attention to fruit as well. He has four beautiful orchards of well-selected varieties, and is selling his apples at 3 cents per pound. This beats wheat at 35 cents per bushel. They subscribed for the Cynosure, promising to renew at the end of the year.

I spoke at Lone Pine on Sabbath morning. There I secured four more subscriptions.

Then I took the train at Latah for Dayton, where I spoke on Monday and Tuesday nights, to fair crowds. The night I spoke on the lodge I had a good audience. One Mason lost his jewel after services closed, and concluded to enlighten the whole audience. He started in by saying: "The lecturer puts us on a level with Pagans and Mohammedans." He was answered that Masonry does that itself. A question or two sufficed to wilt the fellow, causing him to leave unceremoniously. Here I secured a subscription and promises of more soon. Quite a number signed the constitution. Mrs. M. B. Bridgeman, who spent several years in Africa as a missionary, has charge of the U. B. church in Dayton. She has a good influence wherever she goes.

I stopped with R. H. Denius while in Dayton. He pounds iron, studies and preaches phrenology, and is a good Christian gentleman, with a model family of three daughters and two sons. The wife and mother has gone to the better land.

From here I went to Huntsville, named for B. J. Hunt, who donated eighty acres of land to the Washington Seminary, which gift built up the institution, and now the Liberals are suing for its possession. The court has left the house in the hands of the Radicals, but has placed the endowment funds in the hands of a receiver. I am informed that Father Hunt, in order to save litigation, offered the Liberals every cent they had in the institution, with interest from the time it was paid, but they saw, in that case, they would only get about $1.00 with interest; and if they can get it all they will get thousands. How people professing Christianity can pursue such a course I cannot see.

I lectured two nights, and had fair audiences. I received quite a number of signatures to the constitution, and secured three subscriptions to the Cynosure. Rev. J. A. Crom is the pastor here. He is a young minister, but firm for the right. An Odd-fellow, who is only pin-feathered, came in, sat down, and threw back the lapel of his coat so as to be sure and expose his three links; but before we had spoken fifteen minutes, his links were out of sight. When we called on some one to pass the hat for a contribution, our "O. F." man was on hand.

I came to Walla Walla and Weston, to find arrangements for lectures foiled. The Liberal United Brethren, who are in possession of the church at Weston, promised brother Pruett the use of the house for the lectures. The house was

(Continued on 9th page.)

CORRESPONDENCE.

WHEATON COLLEGE.

WHEATON, Ill., November, 1893.

EDITOR CYNOSURE:—The various reform movements which have blessed the world have usually been intimately connected with schools of learning. The Protestant Reformation of the sixteenth century began in the fifteenth, when Huss and Jerome Prague taught dependence on God and his Word, and independence of priests and popes. They were connected with Prague University, the first "high school" founded in Germany. Luther, who rekindled the torch of religious liberty in 1517, was a university professor; so, also, were his coadjutors in translating the Bible and teaching it to the German people. John Wesley, who began the new reformation in England, and whose memory even devout members of the Church of England, like Gladstone, delight to honor, was a Fellow of Oxford University. Clarkson was a student in Cambridge University when he wrote his essay on the subject, "Is it right to make men slaves against their will?" thus initiating the movement that struck the shackles from four million black slaves in this country alone.

So the important reform in which the readers of the Cynosure are specially interested owes much to the Christian college. President J. Blanchard, its first editor, was a man of broad learning as well as deep piety. He had been president of one college and was at the head of another, when the National Christian Association was organized largely by his labors. During the years that intervened between that time and the present, I recall names of active laborers in this reform from the following colleges: Oberlin, Monmouth, Geneva, Westfield, Northwestern (Naperville), Amity, Otterbein, Berea and Wheaton. I write the above list from memory, and may have failed to give credit where it is due. If so, I trust friends interested will rectify my unintentional omissions; for if my feelings are shared by other readers of the Cynosure, I am sure they are glad to read of schools where students learn the difference between Abel's altar and Cain's—between the worship of the true God through Jesus Christ and the worships practiced in the secret lodges. It is this feeling that prompts me to write, as I have done before, about Wheaton College, which has sent so many prominent workers into the field to strive for the overthrow of the secret lodge system; and that causes me to plead for a continued interest in the college on the part of all who love the religion of our Lord Jesus Christ.

As many of the readers of the Cynosure are aware, an effort was begun, a little over a year ago, to place this college on a firmer financial basis by raising one hundred thousand dollars, mostly for building and endowment purposes. During the first eight or nine months forty thousand dollars of this sum was pledged and partly paid; then came the financial stringency, and the Board of Trustees, at their June meeting, thought it wise to extend the time for raising the whole sum, as it seemed impossible to do much during the business depression. It was feared, too, that the attendance of students would be much diminished by the hard times. In this we have been happily disappointed; for nearly as many students have registered to date as during the first term of any preceding year, and in the four college classes more students are enrolled than ever before at the same time of the year. This shows that the field of influence of the college is not to be diminished, but that it will doubtless be increased. Let the prayers of God's people go up to the throne of grace, that, as in the past, so in the future, only more abundantly, the influence of the college on these students may be in favor of truth and righteousness.

It is gratifying, too, to write that since the fall term has opened, friends of the college have given it substantial aid financially. One reader of the Cynosure wished to do something for Christian education, and for his gift sent, as an abiding testimony against lodge idolatry, $1,000 to the Jonathan Blanchard Memorial Fund. Another brother, who had previously pledged the same sum, paid it by giving an interest-bearing note. Others paid their pledges or made new donations in cash or by note in sums ranging from $1 to $2,500, so that the total additions to resources of the college by donations, since the 1st of September, 1893, amount to nearly $6,000.

On another page will be found a detailed statement of the pledges and donations made to the Jonathan Blanchard Memorial Fund since the last report was published. It is commended to the attention of all who read this, in the hope that some of them will feel moved to add their pledges to the $6,485 now on the books. Payment may be made in cash or in endowment notes drawing six per cent interest, payable annually; the principal being payable any time during the next twenty years, either at one payment or in installments. If any who read this would like to help in this way, they are requested to correspond with the undersigned, stating what they wish to do, and blank notes, properly filled out, will be sent to them for their signatures.

A number of kind letters have been received in response to circulars sent out, calling attention to the Memorial Fund. One brother writes: "May the dear Master hasten the destruction of this kingdom of Satan, the lodge power. God bless you in your work for Wheaton College.....I am wonderfully interested in 'Memorial Volume.' Expect to be more, as I continue to read and study his 'Sermons and Addresses.' Surely a great man in Israel has fallen." A sister writes concerning her mother: "At the time the 'Appeal' came, my mother was very sick. She passed to her rest June 8th. Before she died she expressed her desire that $25 might be sent in answer to your call." This amount has since been received, and has a peculiar value, coming, as it seems, from the pearly gates. A brother writes: "I heartily wish I had more to-day for the grand cause of Christian education. Enclosed find draft for $25, for the Jonathan Blanchard Memorial Fund." Another brother, whose name is familiar to readers of the Cynosure, regrets that at present necessary family expenses forbid his assisting financially in this work, but explains that he expects a change in his circumstances, and adds: "Then I shall not forget Wheaton College and what it stands for."

The book to which reference is made in the first letter quoted will be sent to all subscribers to this fund from a supply donated for this purpose by Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Kellogg. It is a collection of "Sermons and Addresses by Jonathan Blanchard," and will be valuable not only for the important truths it teaches, but also, in future years, as a memento of the interest which the persons to whom it is sent took in the various Christian reforms advocated in these sermons and addresses.

Wishing the blessing of God on all readers of the Cynosure, and on the cause which it represents, I remain your co-laborer,

H. A. FISCHER.

CYNOSURE OFFER!

Any of the Books advertised in this paper, ordered, with subscription to the Cynosure, at one-fourth off from list price, sent postpaid.

The New Volume of Pen and Pencil Series.

WELSH PICTURES Drawn with Pen and Pencil.

By D. Lewis Jones, Morris Jones, Edward Ffoulkes, H. Elvet Lewis, D. Tyssil Evans, D. Davies and O. M. Edwards. Edited by Richard Lovett, M. A. With many Illustrations. Imperial 8vo, cloth, gilt edges, boxed..... 3.20

"'Welsh pictures' is the work of ten Welshmen, among whom illustrating the beauties of Wales has been parcelled out according to the special familiarity of each. The result is a pleasing volume."—London Times.

THE EARTHLY FOOTPRINTS OF OUR RISEN LORD, Illumined.

A continuous narrative of the Four Gospels according to The Revised Version, with introduction by Rev. John Hall, D. D. Illustrated by 113 full-page half tone re-productions. Small 4to, cloth.....net 1.50
Gilt edge, with silk book mark, boxed.....net 2.00
Full morocco, flexible, gilt edges, round corners, boxed.....net 3.75

Pictures reflecting the best in sacred art from Raphael to the present day are scattered profusely through the book.

"To many the life of the Christ will be a new book in this form. Though beyond the introduction it contains no word except what is found in the four Gospels, yet when read continuously, without the breaks necessarily made by the different stories of the four evangelists, the narrative takes on new force and lifelikeness. The very fact that this is not our usual method of reading the Word will give it a new reality."—Golden Rule.

A GIFT OF LOVE, and Loving Greetings for 365 Days.

By Rose Porter. Long 18mo. Parr-cloth..... 1.00
White cloth, silver top, in box..... 1.25
Decorated silk, silver top, in box..... 1.75

"'A Gift of Love' is the work of a loving heart. It contains a text of Scripture for every day of the year with the addition of an appropriate thought in poetry of prose all bearing on the theme of love. The work must have called for a great amount of patient toil. But it has not been spent in vain, for the volume will prove a blessing to many a soul. To use it day by day for a year thoughtfully and prayerfully, must result in a rich growth in love on the part of the user. The author is well known and esteemed for her previous works' sake."—The N. Y. Observer.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE SERIES.

By Rev. F. B. Meyer, containing CHRISTIAN LIVING, THE PRESENT TENSES OF THE BLESSED LIFE, AND THE SHEPHERD PSALM. 3 vols. in box. 18mo, cloth..... 1.50
White vellum cloth, silver top, in box..... 1.75

D. L. Moody says: "Few books of recent years are better adapted to instruct and help Christians than those of this author. He is a man mighty in the scriptures, saturated with Bible facts and truths."

PRAYERS FROM THE POETS.

By Martha Harger. 16mo, two colored cloth, gilt top..... 1.00
Leatherette, boxed..... 1.50

"This volume is admirable. The Prayer are better suited to some of our moods than formal Litanies and are selected from excellent sources. The book will be a dear treasure to many hearts."—The Churchman.

KIN-DA-SHON'S WIFE.

An Alaskan Story. By Mrs. Eugene S. Willard, Home Missionary of the Presbyterian Board of America to Alaska. With illustrations. 8vo, cloth..... 1.50

"Being a close observer and in deep sympathy with the native population in their struggles towards a Christian Civilization, Mrs. Willard has gained a more intelligent knowledge of their character, of their needs and hindrances, than perhaps any other person."—Dr. Sheldon Jackson.

HEROES OF THE GOODWIN SANDS.

By Rev. Thomas Stanley Treanor. With many illustrations. 8vo, Cloth..... 1.50

"It is a book of most engrossing interest, and as stimulating as it is readable."—The Record.
"The deeds of daring are thrilling in the extreme. Suitable for the public library or for the home."—Times.

THE GREAT LONDON DAILIES.

By H. W. Massingham. Profusely illustrated. 12mo, cloth..... 1.00

Very welcome to all who like to look behind the scenes and see how the great London dailies are worked.

New Editions.

The Prayer Meeting and Its Improvement.

By Rev. LEWIS O. THOMPSON. Eighth edition, cloth, $1.25.

"Most heartily do we wish this work a wide circulation, both among pastors and people, and we hope it may do much toward the lifting of the prayer-meeting into that higher place which it ought to hold among the grand instrumentalities in the kingdom of the Master."—Congregationalist.

"We do not remember to have met with a work so suggestive, and we heartily commend it to both pastors and private members."—Baptist Weekly.

The Crisis of Missions. By Rev. ARTHUR T. PIERSON, D. D. Cloth, $1.25; paper, 35c.

"We do not hesitate to say that this book is the most purposeful, earnest, and intelligent review of the mission work and field which has ever been given to the church."—Christian Statesman.

The Christian's Secret of a Happy Life.

By HANNAH WHITALL SMITH. One hundredth thousand. Issued in fourteen styles, from 50c. to $2.50. Send for circular.

"To commend this work would seem almost superfluous; and yet to young Christians who may not know it, we cannot refrain from saying, Buy this book, and keep it with your Bible for constant study, until you have thoroughly mastered, in your own experience, the 'secret' of which it tells. It will transform the dark days of your life, as it has transformed those of thousands before you, into days of heavenly light."—New York Evangelist.

The Topical Text Book. Fourth edition.

16 mo., cloth, 60c.

This little volume is a worker's most useful tool. It collates all Scripture passages under their topical headings, and for this reason proves far more helpful in studying a subject than the best concordance.

"I find one of the very best ways to study the Scripture is to study topically."—D. L. Moody.

Stalker's Life of Christ. Twelfth edition.

Stalker's Life of St. Paul. Fourth edition.

12 mo., cloth, each, 60c.

These works by Professor James Stalker, M. A., are unique in their compact putting of these lives into such condensed form without injurious brevity. They are being taken up as text books by Biblical classes in all parts of the country, thus proving their practical value.

Grace and Truth under Twelve Different Aspects.

By W. P. MACKAY, M. A. Paper, 35c.; cloth, 75c. Two hundred and fiftieth thousand.

This remarkable sale can only be attributed to the very practical character of this work as a guide to the inquirer and a work of helpful instruction for the immature Christian. It is of this volume Mr. D. L. Moody said: "I know of no work in print better adapted to place in the hands of the inquirer."

Notes and Suggestions for Bible Readings.

By S. R. BRIGGS. Sixtieth thousand. 8 vo, cloth. $1.00; flexible, 75c.

Edition after edition of this work has been called for until it would seem the demand must be supplied. The sales however, increase rather than otherwise.

Feathers for Arrows. By Rev. C. H. SPURGEON. 16 mo., cloth, $1.00.

Few preachers have made such effective use of pointed illustrations as the well known pastor of the great Metropolitan Tabernacle. Here he has given us a large cluster of his best with liberty to enjoy and employ.

Revell's Record for Church Treasurers.

Size No. 1, $1.50; Size No. 2, $2.00.

Popular because practical—valuable because time saving—the only record for weekly envelope system that reduces the treasurer's work to the minimum.

For sale by the

National Christian Association,

221 West Madison Street, Chicago, Ill.

LODGE NOTES.

MASONIC FACTS AND FIGURES.

Masonic Bro. Bromwell, of Denver, in a letter to the American Tyler, asserts that the American Indians confer the secrets of medicine-man in three degrees, and they are substantially the same as Masonry, and yet cannot have come from white Masonry. The fact that it is in three degrees would indicate that it did; because if the connections dated back more than 200 years, it would be in one degree.

A bronze statue of the late Albert Pike, the eminent Freemason, has been promised to the Southern Supreme Council of the Scottish Rite Masons, by Mrs. Vinnie Ream Hoxie, in Newport, Vermont. The gift is made an expression of her personal admiration for Bro. Pike.

It is owing to the liberal views of the late President Juarez that Masonry exists to-day in the republic of Mexico, and now there are thousands of Masons with Juarez's successor, President Diaz, at their head.

Some months ago Governor William McKinley, of Ohio, took his maiden course ride and crossed the burning sands of the Mystic Shrine, in Cleveland, Ohio.

It is estimated that the fees and dues received by the various Masonic lodges in North America for each year exceed $4,500,000.

Of the 10,448 members in the jurisdiction of Alabama, 604 are clergymen, being one for every seventeen Masons.

It is said that for every eighty-seven of the white population in the U. S., one is a Master Mason.

The Royal and Select Masters of the U. S. number 28,000.

Do not put off taking a medicine. Numerous little ailments, if neglected, will soon break up the system. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla now, to expel disease, give strength and appetite.

Hood's Pills cure constipation by restoring the peristaltic action of the alimentary canal.

"Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething" softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain and cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

JONATHAN BLANCHARD'S

]-oo-[

SERMONS AND ADDRESSES.

Select discourses of the late editor of the Cynosure and leader in our reform. Lectures, sermons and speeches given from 1884 to 1892 in leading cities of the United States, discussing topics of

LIVING REFORM.

Secret Societies,
The Sabbath,
Temperance,
National Reform,
Christian Education,
Christian Socialism,
The Bible, Etc., Etc.

A BOOK EVERYBODY SHOULD READ

12mo. Fine Photogravure Portrait.

Price, 75 Cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W Madison St. Chicago

The St. Louis Sermon

Are Secret Societies a Blessing or a Curse?

An Address by Rev. B. Carradine D. D., Pastor of the Centenary M. E. Church, St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 4, 1891.

W. McCoy writes: "That sermon ought to be in the hands of every preacher in this land, and every citizen's too."

A pamphlet of 20 pages and cover.

Sent postpaid 25 copies $1.00. Single copy 5 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Our High Grade List and Bargain Book sent to any address on receipt of a 2-c stamp.

LORD & THOMAS,
NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING
45 RANDOLPH STREET,
CHICAGO.

VIOLENCE.

That is what the ordinary pills and bowel medicines depend upon. That explains why your system is in a worse condition afterward than before. And that is the reason why Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best things in the world for every stomach and bowel trouble. There's no disturbance, no reaction afterward, and their help lasts. They absolutely and permanently cure Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, Sick and Bilious Headaches. One tiny, sugar-coated granule is a gentle laxative or regulator; three are cathartic.

They're the smallest, the easiest to take—and the cheapest, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned.

Buy of reliable dealers. With any others, something else that pays them better will probably be urged as "just as good." Perhaps it is, for them; but it can't be, for you.

For a perfect and permanent cure of Catarrh, take Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

DROPSY TREATED FREE Positively CURED with Vegetable Remedies. Have cured many thousand cases called hopeless. From first dose symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed. BOOK of testimonials of miraculous cures sent FREE. 10 DAYS TREATMENT FREE by mail. DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS, Specialists, ATLANTA, GA.

MY WIFE CANNOT SEE HOW YOU DO IT AND PAY FREIGHT.

$10.50 Buy the Oxford Improved SINGER Sewing Machine, with a complete set of attachments and guaranteed for 10 years. Shipped anywhere on 30 days' trial. No money required in advance. 75,000 now in use. World's Fair Medal awarded. Buy from factory, save dealers' and agents' profit. Write to-day for our LARGE FREE CATALOGUE. Oxford Mfg. Co., 342 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WHEATON COLLEGE,

WHEATON, ILL.

A School for Men and Women.

WINTER TERM OPENS TUESDAY JANUARY 2ND.

For Catalogue, address

CHAS. A BLANCHARD, Pres.

IF YOU
WANT WORK

that is pleasant and profitable, send us your address immediately. We teach men and women how to earn from $5 per day to $3,000 per year without having had previous experience, and furnish the employment at which they can make that amount. Capital unnecessary. A trial will cost you nothing. Write to-day and address,

E. C. ALLEN & CO.,
Box 1001. Augusta, Me.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained, and all Patent business conducted for Moderate Fees.

Our Office is Opposite U. S. Patent Office, and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A Pamphlet, "How to Obtain Patents," with names of actual clients in your State, county, or town, sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.
Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

THE IMAGE OF THE BEAST

A Secret Empire;

Or, Freemasonry a Subject of Prophecy.

By Rev. Richard Horton.

Third Edition. 200 pages. Cloth.

Price, 60 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

THE

Folly, Expense & Danger

OF

SECRET SOCIETIES.

BY

CHARLES A. BLANCHARD.
(President Wheaton College.)

5 Cts per Copy; $3 per Hundred

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chica

ANTI-SECRECY TRACTS.

The following numbers are in stock, and can be had at the wholesale price of 25 cents per pound:

1. National Christian Association.
1½. Testimony of Statesmen.
4. Freemasonry in the Family.
7. To the Boys who Hope to be Men.
8. Modern Heathenism.
9. Ministers at Rival Altars.
10. A Pastor's Confession.
15. Secrecy and Sin.
16. Selling Dead Horses.
17. History of Masonry.
19. Freemasonry a Christ-excluding Religion.
22. Extracts from Masonic Oaths and Penalties as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.
28. Dr. Nathaniel Colver on Masonry.
30. Masonic Oaths Null and Void.
37. Why a Christian should not be a Freemason (German).
38. Masonic Oaths and Penalties.
39. Should Freemasons be Admitted to Christian Fellowship?
41. Freemasonry a Religion.
45. Ought a Seceding Mason to Keep his Lodge Oath?

Families, Churches, Senates, Juries and Camps.

The above are the only tracts in stock in large quantities. There are a few of several other numbers. Remember that these are being retailed at wholesale prices—25 cents per pound. Keep a package of Anti-masonic tracts for use in letters.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

AGENTS AND LECTURERS.

NEW ENGLAND DEPARTMENT.—Rev. J. P. Stoddard, Agent, 218 Columbus Ave., Hotel Howland, Boston.

EASTERN DEPARTMENT.—W. B. Stoddard, Agent, No. 215, 4½ St., Washington, D. C.

NORTHERN DEPARTMENT.—Rev. W. Fenton, 74 South Robert St., St. Paul, Minn.

PACIFIC DEPARTMENT.—Rev. P. B. Williams, Philomath, Oregon.

COLLEGE AGENT, Rev. S. F. Porter Cynosure office.

OTHER LECTURERS.

C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
Rev. H. H. Hinman, Oberlin, O.
Nathan Callender Montdale Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
H. A. Day, Brighton, Mich.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
A. Mayn, Bloomington, Ind.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
W. M. Love, Osceola, Mo.
J. K. Glassford, Phoenix, Arizona.
Wm. Fenton, St. Paul, Minn.
J. S. Perry, Thompson, Conn.
Rev. E. Mathews, Ft Wayne, Ind.
E. Barnetson, Haskinville, N. Y.
D. A. Richards, Brighton, Mich.
A. W. Parry, Chicago, Ill.

Disloyal
SECRET OATHS
ADDRESS OF
JOSEPH COOK,
OF BOSTON,
AT THE
Conference of Christians
CHICAGO, 1890.

No better document of its size for general distribution has been printed. Joseph Cook's address is a national treatment of a national subject, and very valuable for reference.

Single Copies 5 cents, or 12 copies for 50 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the Initiate. By Rev. L. A. Post. 5 cents each.

THE N. C. A. BUILDING
(The gift of Philo Carpenter)
—AND OFFICE OF—
THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. MADISON STREET, CHICAGO.

The National Christian Association

PRESIDENT—Rev. A. J. Gordon, D. D., Boston, Mass.

VICE PRESIDENT—Charles A. Blanchard, President Wheaton College Ill.

GEN'L SEC'Y and TREASURER—W. I. Phillips, 221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

REC. SECRETARY—Amos Dresser, Jr. Wheaton, Ill., Box 367.

DIRECTORS—T. B. Arnold, C. A. Blanchard, E. A. Cook, J. M. Hitchcock, A. G. Johnson, J. P. Richards, E Whipple, E. R. Worrell, Edgar B. Wylie W. M. Howie, H. F. Kletzing.

The object of this Association is:

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the churches of Christ from being depraved, to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform.

STATE AUXILIARY ASSOCIATIONS

NEW ENGLAND.—Pres., Rev. J. M Foster, Boston, Mass.; Sec'y, Miss E. E Flagg, Wellesley, Mass.; Treas., L. E. Lincoln, Boston,

CONNECTICUT.—Pres., J. A. Conant, Willimantic; Sec., David J. Ellsworth, Windsor; Treas., C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.—Pres., Rev. R. W. Chesnut Marissa; Sec., Rev. J. R. Wylie, Coulterville; Treas., Rev. W. I. Phillips, Cynosure office, Chicago.

IOWA.—Pres., Rev. J. A. Greer, Columbus City; Sec., Rev. T. H. Acheson, Hopkinton; Treas., Rev. L. Mendenhall, Fairfield.

KANSAS.—Pres., Rev. C. H. Strong, Lawrence; Vice-Pres., Rev. J. L. Countermine Hiawatha; Sec., Rev. D. H. Coulter, Winchester; Treas., Joseph A. Torrence, Denison.

NEBRASKA.—Pres., Rev. W. I. Brooks Pawnee City; Vice Pres., Rev. C. G. Widen Mead; Sec., Howard P. Young, Wahoo Treas., Rev. T. H. Dabney, Hooper.

MAINE.—Pres., ——, ——, Sec., I. D. Haines, Dexter; Treas., H. W Goddard, West Sidney.

MASSACHUSETTS.—Pres., S. A. Pratt; Worcester.

MICHIGAN.—Pres., D. A. Richards, Brighton; Sec., H. A. Day, Brighton; Treas Geo. Swanson, Jr., Bedford.

MINNESOTA.—Pres., S. B. Sjoblom, Fergus Falls; Cor. Sec., Wm. Fenton, St. Paul Rec. Sec., Mrs. M. F. Morrill, St. Charles Treas. Wm. H. Morrill St. Charles.

MISSOURI.—Pres., J. F. Beauchamp, Denver; Sec., M. N. Butler, Darlington; Treas. Rev. C. G. Cox, Grant City.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—Pres., Robt. A. Frohock, Alton; Sec., S. C. Kimball, New Market; Treas., James F. French, Canterbury.

NEW YORK.—Pres., Rev. S. R. Wallace Syracuse; Sec., Rev. W. H. Clark, Binghamton; Treas., Lucius Woodruff, Binghamton.

OHIO.—Pres., J. W. Martin, Mt. Perry; Rec. Sec., A. T. Vestal, Senecaville; Cor Sec. and Treas., E. Thomson, Senecaville

OREGON.—Pres., Rev. Wm. Dillon, D.D., Salem; Sec., Rev. P. B. Williams, Philomath; Treas., Samuel Terry, Canby.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Pres., Samuel S. Collins, Allegheny; Sec., J. S. T. Milligan Beaver; Treas., R. C. Wylie, Wilkinsburg.

WISCONSIN.—Pres., J. B. Galloway, Poynette; Sec., Isaiah Faris, Vernon; Treas. J. W. Wood, Baraboo.

The Christian Cynosure.

HENRY M. HUGUNIN - - Editor.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1893.

REVIVAL OF THE CRONIN MURDER.

Dan Coughlin was one of the men implicated in the murder of Dr. Patrick H. Cronin, practicing physician of Chicago, May 4, 1889. With others he was tried for this offence, convicted asd sentenced to imprisonment for life in the Illinois penitentiary. After serving the State as a prisoner for two years or more, the Illinois State Supreme Court declared his trial defective, and remanded his case to the Chicago court. His second trial began about a month ago, by the selection of a jury that should be free from prejudice either for or against the prisoner. Hundreds of citizens were examined, and it was with a great difficulty that twelve men were finally empannelled. Just as the attorneys were about to open the case, two of the jurors were discovered to be incompetent for the position. These were S. L. Gates and George C. Wilson. Rumors were rife that bribery had been resorted to, to secure their places on the jury; but evidence in this direction was wanting. That there was roguery in their selection, however, was indicated in the venire cards, where the name of a juror had been erased, and that of Wilson inserted. Investigation failed to fix this misdemeanor upon the guilty party, but it was shown that both Gates and Wilson had served on other juries within a year, and so were legally incompetent to serve in the Coughlin case. They were therefore dismissed from the jury, and a new venire was issued for 100 more candidates for jury service.

Other sensational features began early to appear in connection with the new trial. One was the story that prior to the Cronin murder, a grave had been dug for his reception in a lonely spot near the junction of North Western and Graceland Avenues; that Mrs. Andrew Foy had valuable and convicting evidence against prominent members of the Clan-na-Gael, whom she implicated in the conspiracy to murder the doctor. Another woman comes forward and says that she is the possessor of similar testimony that will throw new and important light upon the murder. This is Mrs. Foy, whose statement, printed in the Herald, has such an appearance of truth as well as corroborative incident that we shall give it room next week.

Such is the situation at this writing.

Dr. Cronin and his murderers, at the time of his assassination, were members of "Camp 20" of the "United Brotherhood," an Irish Catholic secret society, better known as the "Clan na-Gael," and sometimes as the "Irish Protective Brotherhood." One of its objects was to operate secretly and murderously against the British Government as a foe to the political freedom of Ireland, and by its operations to establish a Republican rule in that portion of the British empire. This conspiracy is vouched for by the following form of the oath administered to all members of the Clan-na-Gael:

I (name in full) do solemnly swear in the presence of Almighty God, that I will labor, while life is left me, to establish and defend a republican form of government in (cipher) Ireland. That I will keep strictly secret the name and everything connected with this (cipher) society from all not entitled to know such secrets. That I will obey and comply with the constitution and laws of the (cipher) society, and that I will faithfully preserve the funds of the (cipher) society for the cause of (cipher) Irish revolution alone, as specified in the constitution. That I will deem it my special duty and mission to promote and foster sentiments of union, brotherly love and nationality among all (cipher) Irishmen. That I take this obligation without any mental reservation, holding the same forever binding upon me, and that any violation thereof or desertion of my duty to the B'd is infamous, and merits the severest punishment. So help me God.

Directly after taking this obligation the candidate is brought before the Commander, when the brothers present raise their right hands and say to the candidate:

"We are witnesses to the obligation you have taken."

Commander (to candidate): "Keep it as you value your life."

Junior Guardian (to candidate): "Keep it at the hazard of your life."

Such was the obligation of Dr. Cronin to the society.

So far as is known concerning Dr. Cronin's offense, it was opposition to the rascality of the society manifested in its operations.

The supreme power of the Clan-na-Gael is established in three men, forming the H. E., or Head of the Executive, concerning which we append some particulars from the Inter Ocean. Often during the first trial we heard much of the dreaded "triangle." It was by the orders of this "triangle" that Dr. Cronin was doomed, and his executioners chosen. We know how faithfully they obeyed the mandate of this tribunal, at the hazard of their own lives, to destroy that of Dr. Cronin, and how they expiated their cowardly crime, as set forth in the records of their first trial and conviction.

The details of the assassination at the Carlson cottage, the removal of the remains in a trunk to a catch basin in Lake View, and their discovery by a laborer, need not be repeated here.

The trial of the conspirators was long, and the testimony on most points very clear and startling. It was also very convincing to the public mind, and the conclusion reached was that the guilty parties, with the exception of the "triangle," had been secured.

When the case was given to the jury, the panel stood unanimously in the belief of the guilt of all the prisoners. When the question of their punishment came up for consideration, the obstinacy of one juror, who opposed the death penalty, compelled them to return a compromise verdict, in which they recommended that the punishment should be imprisonment for life. In pursuance of this verdict Coughlin and his fellow convicts were sent to Joliet prison.

There all died but Coughlin, in whose case the Supreme Court interfered.

Such is a summary of the Cronin murder, preliminary to the new trial.

THE "TRIANGLE" OF THE CLAN-NA-GAEL.

At the time when the Cronin murder filled the press with the details of that terrible affair, we heard much of the "triangle," of which the Inter Ocean gave publicity to the following sketch:

"It would be useless to try and estimate the strength of the Clan-na-Gael. Its name is legion. The controlling of the order throughout the entire world is vested in the H. E. (the Head of the Executive), which consists of three men. Of these three officers at present in charge of the destinies of the organization, one is a friend of the late Dr. Cronin, while the other two are enemies of his. Politics has, of course, entered into the election of these officers, and it may yet be shown that the same power that elected two of the three heads of the order is responsible for the death of Dr. Cronin.....Each camp, or lodge, has the power, under orders, to form a trial committee for the trial of traitors to the cause they uphold. The manner in which these trial committees are formed is as follows: Reports are made to the Head of the Executive that so-and-so of a certain camp is a traitor. The H. E. then sends a communication to the S. G. (the Senior Guardian), or commanding officer of the camp that a committee is to be appointed. The S. G. can make that committee either five, seven, nine or any number he wants, according to the circumstances and the difficulty of dealing with the traitor. This committee is chosen by secret ballot, the members of the camp not knowing which of their fellows have been selected. The S. G. alone knows, and he quietly notifies the chosen members to meet at a certain place. When they so meet they constitute the trial committee, and they are then notified by the H. E. to 'try' so-and-so for treason. All the evidence is furnished them by the H. E. They hear no witnesses, but simply review what has been accumulated and sent to the H. E. In reality, the formation of a trial committee is a farce. The 'traitor' has already been tried by the H. E, and the committee is simply called together to indorse what has been done already. The decision of the trial committee, which, it can be readily understood, is always an endorsement of what has been done by the H. E., is then sent to the three—the supreme power—who then notify the camp of which the 'traitor' is a member to carry out the finding of the trial committee."

CRIMES OF SECRET SOCIETIES.

When the Cronin murder began to be fathomed, several weeks after the assassination, the Cynosure said:

"To understand the Cronin case, we must recall the methods of the European societies—the Carbonari of Italy, the Nihilists of Russia, the Black Hand of Spain, the Invincibles of Ireland, and the International of all Europe. These lodges swear the death penalty upon all members who fail to keep their oaths, and disobedience to the commands of unknown superiors is as great a crime as the exposure of their secrets. When a 'removal' has been determined by any 'group,' or local lodge, the work of murder is not undertaken by those immediately interested. By no means; suspicion would too quickly lead to detection and arrest. Through the grand masters, or central committee, a distant lodge is called upon to furnish one man for the work; another furnishes a second; and at the appointed rendezvous these sworn assassins must receive their instruction and proceed to their work, understanding that if they falter the dagger is at their own backs. On this principle the Mollie Maguires operated in Pennsylvania fifteen years ago or more, and from this fact they became a terror. The hand that struck the blow was perfectly concealed."

IS IT WRONG TO REBUKE SIN?

There is no more beautiful conception of practical Christian life than that set forth in the International Sunday-school lesson for November 26. Taken as it stands in the authorized version, without note or comment, it is in perfect harmony with the teachings of Jesus in the Gospels, and easily comprehended by even an ordinary youthful mind. Yet the "sociological" commentator of the old and long-time favorite Sunday-school Times, with bad taste and worse theology, remarks:

"The method of Christianity in dealing with social evils is to enunciate the principles with which they are inconsistent, and to leave these to do their work, while avoiding the waste of spiritual force which would have been involved in a direct attack. It forbids neither slavery nor polygamy, and yet makes each impossible, IN THE LONG RUN, to Christians."

Not so did our Saviour teach. Turn to John 8: 44, 55 and Matt. 23: 13–36, and see what stirring rebukes of sin he uttered; and he constantly and openly denounced sin whenever it came in his way. Yet our commentator would have us believe that we ought not to speak reprehensibly of sin in those around us, but should merely enunciate the virtues which the Bible commands us to practice; and then he smilingly tells us that if Paul were writing to the churches of England and America, in our century, he would give his lessons a different application and more adequate expression! What is this but wresting the Scriptures to the destruction of Christian truth as taught by the Lord and his chosen ministers? "In the long run," unrebuked sinners will be lost forever, and at whose doors will their destruction be laid?

Are we to ignore God's judgments against our social sins? God forbid! Are we to hold our peace about the wickedness of the saloon, the secret lodge, the gambling shop and the house of the strange woman, and never speak of them to ears polite lest we offend some sinner? What says Hosea? "The Lord hath a controversy with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth, nor mercy, nor knowledge of God in the land. By swearing, and lying, and killing, and stealing, and committing adultery, they break out and blood toucheth blood." (Hosea 4: 1, 2.) Has mankind changed since the days of Hosea, that ministers and teachers should always speak "smooth words" and never denounce the sins of the people? What are the imprecatory psalms of David but the voice of God rebuking sin? What about the curses of God against sinners at Mount Ebal? (Deut. 27.) Let us not mislead our children to think lightly of sin, but warn them intelligently and earnestly to avoid it.

THE MISSIONARY ELEMENT IN HAWAII.

An intelligent correspondent at Washington, referring to the wordy dispute among government officials in that city over the proposed restoration of the deposed Queen of Hawaii, feels called upon, and with reason, to resent the imputations which have been cast upon what is contemptuously spoken of as the "missionary element" in Hawaii, because they never hesitated to express their opinions of the outrageous acts of the hangers-on of this queen before she was dethroned. "It seems to me," he writes, "that the man who charges the 'missionary element' in Hawaii with being at the root of all the troubles there has been on the islands must either be very ignorant or very forgetful. What was Hawaii before it was visited by the 'missionary element'? Unless grossly misrepresented by those who went there, its inhabitants were among the most savage and barbarous on earth, not excepting the cannibals of the South Sea Islands. To-day its inhabitants are at least civilized, if not entirely Christianized. Who brought about this change? 'The missionary element.' And that is by no means all. The 'missionary element' not only looked after the spiritual welfare of the natives of the islands, but taught them the commercial value of their products and how to take the first steps towards making a commercial city of Honolulu. Upon second thoughts, I am willing to concede that the 'missionary element' has been at the root of all the trouble in Hawaii, but, it was for the purpose of destroying the root, and not in the sense charged by their traducers."

BISHOP COXE WRITES TO SATOLLI AGAIN.

A second letter from Rt. Rev. A. Cleveland Coxe, Bishop of Buffalo, N. Y., to Mgr. Satolli (the papal delegate at Washington) has been made public. The first letter of the Bishop, recently printed in the Cynosure, created a sensation, and received much adverse comment in the Roman Catholic papers. In his latest letter the Bishop criticizes Satolli's program. Among other things, he says:

"I have reminded you that the aggressive position you have assumed toward us is offensive. The Father of his country dwelt on this point of foreign influence as perilous. Even as an accredited diplomat it would have rendered you a persona non grata. Sackville West had claims to personal respect, but for the mistake of a moment he was very summarily furnished with his passports. Yours, however, is a deliberate invasion of our capital, and a practical intermeddling with our most delicate domestic affairs, which you threaten to make permanent. Our system of education and our common schools are as the apple of the eye of every true American, whether of your own religion or otherwise. As Americans, it is the right of your coreligionists to settle their relations with their fellow-citizens without any alien interference. May they not be trusted to understand their own interests? Are they not sufficiently intelligent to accommodate themselves to the laws of the land and to gain from their neighbors all the freedoms which are consistent with our Constitution? If they are not Americans at heart they have no more right to vote or to take part in our affairs than you have. If they are one with us in the love of American liberties they will soon find out what rights they have been deprived of by Jesuit craft."

—Referring to an item in the Cynosure of Nov. 16, credited to "Work With Prayer," in which it was stated that the word "girl" is found but once in the Bible, a correspondent at Stewartville, Tenn., calls our attention to Joel 3: 3 and Zechariah 8: 5 for a correction of the statement.

—In Prof. Fischer's letter, on pages 5 and 6 of this issue of the Cynosure, he requests parties who desire to contribute to the Memorial Fund of Wheaton College to write to him for the requisite blanks, etc. A later note from the Professor asks that all such applications may be sent to Pres. Chas. A. Blanchard, at Wheaton, instead of himself. Friends of the enterprise will therefore please govern themselves accordingly.

—We make room, this week, for an extended article on the Clan-na-Gael, which is coming into prominence again through the second trial of Dan Coughlin for his participation in the murder of Dr. Cronin, in 1889. In addition to the two jurors who were summarily dismissed for technical incompetency, one or two more are under surveillance for this or a worse offense. When the jury has been thoroughly sifted, the trial will undoubtedly proceed, and its progress will possess much of interest, since new developments of a sensational character are expected.

—Independent evangelical and reform work receives a severe blow from the present school law of Ohio, whereby the number of directors in each school district has been reduced from three to one. This centralization of power in one individual is attributed to Roman Catholic influence, and has had the effect to make the one director feel a heavier responsibility for the care of the district schoolhouse and paraphernalia than when there were three directors. In case he should be a Roman Catholic, he becomes also an autocrat, and can officially refuse the use of the premises for evangelical or other Protestant meetings. If he is a lodge-man, he can close the doors of the schoolhouse against anti-secrecy lectures. If he is a sectarian bigot of the Protestant stripe, he may successfully play the tyrant and make others uncomfortable by his antics. The good sense of the people of Ohio should remove this stumbling-block in the way of religious liberty and progress from its statutes.

REFORM NEWS (Continued from 5th page.)

not opened and I was informed that they afterward refused to open the house for the lecture. The Congregational pastor invited me to stay and preach for him on Sunday, but I cannot afford to pay hotel bills for the honor.

I visited the M. E. prayer-meeting last night. I think there were a dozen persons, all told. The pastor had forgotten my lecture, and said they were getting along nicely at Weston; had a Sons of Temperance lodge in his church, a W. C. T. U. organization in the town, and, from what I could learn, they felt about competent to manage the saloon element of Weston. So I shake off the dust (mud) from my feet and start for home this morning at 11:30.

I have spoken twenty-five times since I left home. Will send a full report later.

HOME AGAIN.—I left Weston, Oregon, on Nov. 25, at 5 P. M., for Portland, where I arrived in time for the quarterly meeting communion services at the U. B. mission in which we hold membership. Rev. E. C. Wyatt, the presiding elder, preached an excellent discourse from the text: "Be filled with the Spirit." It was in striking contrast with that dead formality attending much of the preaching of to-day. The elder is truly a man of God, filled with the divine Spirit.

In the evening it was my privilege to listen to a discourse at the First Baptist church, by the pastor, Rev. Roland D. Grant, D. D. He took for his text: "Neither is there salvation in any other; for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." Acts 4: 12. As a preacher, Dr. Grant is plain, earnest, practical and very fearless.

Among other things he said: "The great meeting at the World's Fair represented many names. None of them, save this, suggested salvation for the soul. Buddha could not save a soul; Mohammed does not suggest salvation; but Christ saves from sin here, and from all its consequences in the life to come."

He gave an illustration, showing the worthlessness of certain names. He lost an article in his travels in the East, and he waited on an official of a railroad to make inquiry about it, but was treated in a gruff manner. Then he showed a letter of recommendation from a high official of the road. Then the man said: "Yes, yes; we will be pleased to look after it for you." The article was found and forwarded free of charge. The charm was in the name.

He spoke of being on a train, when in came a stranger, who passed compliments concerning the weather. The stranger took out a New Testament and began to read about Christ; then, said the doctor, "I took him by the hand as a Christian brother. An electric current seemed to flow between us; I needed no certain grip, sign, or password. Christ's name and spirit is sufficient."

At the close of the discourse an earnest appeal was made to sinners to accept of Jesus as their personal Saviour. One person arose for prayers.

A blessed influence must radiate from such preaching, and such a pastor. May God bless them and make them potent agencies for good in the wicked city of Portland.

On Monday morning I left Portland for my home in Philomath, where I arrived at 1:30 P. M., after twenty-eight days of active work, without any rest. Home is a haven in which one may repose for awhile. More anon. P. B. WILLIAMS.

THE EASTERN AGENT AT HOME.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 1, 1893.

DEAR CYNOSURE:—I heard a sermon yesterday by Rev. Hugh Johnston, pastor of the Metropolitan M. E. Church of this city. In speaking of things for which we should give thanks, he alluded to the advance of reform, and rejoiced that so many were awaking to the needs of the hour. The "Black Pope" and all his Jesuitical host was portrayed, that we might see the attack he is making on our beloved institutions. May God forbid that this secret power, which has cursed every country over which it has gained control, shall hold sway in this country. That this is its purpose is not questioned. That it is making advancement in many localities any reader of the daily papers may see.

The Washington Star of Nov. 29 states that the Catholic church is asking State aid for her parochial schools in Maryland. Yesterday's Star gives over a column to a report of the address delivered in Italian by Mgr. Satolli at the reception tendered him by the faculty and students of Gonzaga College. In this address I note the following significant remark:

We may be sure of this, that all the Americans (of whatever church they may be members, even if of none) recognize the value of the Catholic school; they are interested in it; they honor it; they wish it to continue and progress; they have learned by experience that citizens educated in these schools do not fall short in knowledge and in love of the American Constitution; that they do not lag behind the most progressive of the American people; that they are endowed with steadiness of character, with constancy of right purpose; that they are just, active, charitable and generous unto sacrifice.

If this poor dupe, who has but landed on our shores, thinks he represents the American people in such babblings; if he thinks we know nothing of history or the deluded children being turned out of Catholic schools to-day as educated, he will doubtless find himself greatly mistaken when he learns to read and speak the English tongue.

My meetings in New Bedford, Pa., were a success. The weather was good, the roads good, the people were generally trying to be good and do good, and so, of course, we had a good time. The pastors of the Presbyterian and United Presbyterian churches were exceedingly kind, caring for my every need and conveying me in their carriages to secure Cynosure subscriptions. I shall hope to comply with the invitations to return.

Rev. G. W. Brownell, pastor of the West Middlesex R. P. church, drove six miles through the darkness to attend the union meeting in the U. P. church on Sabbath evening. He is a fearless advocate of reform.

My next trip will probably be Philadelphia-way. Yours for victory, W. B. STODDARD.

THE LODGE IN INDIANA.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Nov. 29, 1893.

DEAR CYNOSURE:—Joseph Cook lectured in the college chapel here, last night, to a large audience—the largest of the season so far. His lecture was "Does death end all?" He was in his best vein, and held the audience closely till half past 10 o'clock. I got two of the boys to stand at the doors and hand to each one of the audience one of Mr. Cook's lectures on "Secret Oaths" as they were passing out. Mr. Cook was delighted, and said: "I am glad you are putting that into the hands of the people."

Last September we made an effort to get an Anti-secret State Convention to meet here. Our congregation cheerfully offered our church, but we found that neither of the other churches would co-operate, and none of the pastors were disposed to take part. All the secret orders are strongly represented and college secret societies are popular with the students. I asked President Swain, yesterday, if we could use the chapel for Pres. C. A. Blanchard to lecture on College Secret Societies? He said that while he was connected with no fraternity, yet as the University was a State institution, he did not feel at liberty to allow the chapel to be used for the agitation of such a mooted question as anti-secrecy. He attends the U. P. church regularly, though he is not a member. Nearly all the professors are connected with one or another of the churches, and the influence of the University is decidedly on the side of Christianity. M. A. GAULT.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE offers to either an old or new subscriber, until the 1st of February, 1894, any book advertised in its columns, at 25 per cent discount from retail rates, when ordered in connection with a yearly or six months' subscription to the Cynosure.

A special offer is made of the Christian Cynosure, one year, and "BETWEEN TWO OPINIONS," by Miss E. E. Flagg, 389 pages, cloth, price $1. The two, worth $2.50, will be sent for only $1.75 and four 2-cent stamps to pay postage on the book.

The Home.

BE OF GOOD CHEER.

When thou art sick and sore distressed,
When foes against thee hard are pressed,
When mortal aid affords no rest,
And thou art in despair,
Receive the Saviour as thy guest,
With joy obey each sweet behest,
That in thy soul thou mayst be blest,
By faith in God through prayer.

Think not that thy believing cry,
Unheard can pass thy Father by.
But unto him for refuge fly,
As to a parent dear.
On his omnipotence rely,
To guard thee when temptation's nigh,
In death to bear thy soul on high,
Whose love removeth fear.

So in thy direst stress of woe,
When sorrows and afflictions go
Like billows o'er thy soul, still know
That Jesus lives for you.
Oh, yield in love the heart you owe
To him Christ gladly hastes to show
God's mercies swift, his anger slow,
His judgments pure and true.

—Robert F. Drabble.

TO CHRISTIAN MOTHERS.

I have a little message for you, a leaf from my own experience, that I hope may help and encourage you.

Looking back to your own childhood's home with its never-to-be-forgotten experiences, you recall with special vividness the time in the morning when father, mother, brother and sister read in turn the verses of the chosen chapter, and then father offered thanks for a heavenly Father's protection and asked guidance and care for the day. And again at evening when all gathered after the varied pursuits of the day, and the evening hymn was sung and again father's voice commended us to the throne of grace.

You, the mother I am writing to, have married a man that does not have these memories, or has allowed lack of interest in them and the pressure of business cares to crowd them out. You and I know there are many homes without a family altar. And now that your own little ones are filling your home with the sweetest earthly music, and also with many a discord, you are wondering how they are to have the Christian training and nurture which are so precious a part of your own life, without the help, sympathy and co-operation of the dear husband who will not, perhaps as yet cannot, feel as you do about it.

The Sunday-school helps, but how little it can take the place of the home influence you know full well. Of course you have taught your little ones their nightly prayer and precious Bible verses and hymns which they will recall many years hence. And on Sunday afternoons you have read them the Bible-story book. If you haven't it do get it. And many times you have prayed with them—have you not?—asking for the special blessing in such earnestness that the little one will say, as my boy has often said when childish trouble weighed heavily upon his heart, "You pray about it, mamma."

Do you remember when your father's or mother's prayers seemed to bring the answer from heaven when your own died on your lips? What a blessing to be a like comfort to our children.

But even this is not enough; they and you need the Bible daily. I think few realize that little children can understand and even enjoy a daily, systematic reading of the Bible. My own little ones, a boy and two girls, were from six to ten years of age when, feeling all that I have tried to express, I began reading the Bible with them. We took first the Psalms. After breakfast was over and the father gone for the day, while the morning work waited, as it did in my childhood, we sat down, each with our own Bible, and read in turn; even the youngest slowly and with a good deal of help; and finding one verse to talk about and mark lightly with a pencil, each child watching every verse in order to help select the one to be marked. The children are quick to see and appropriate the beautiful similes, and ask questions that will show you that your effort is not in vain.

This takes a little time; yes, but not so much as you would expect; and no more than other essential things that are always done each day; and the heart-rest and sweet influence of the Psalmist will go with you all day, putting a song in your heart and making other burdens light. Try it, dear mothers, not for one day, or one week, but for this coming winter, and start now, to-day, or to-morrow morning. Don't wait until you and the little ones are tired at night. You will also be more subject to interruption then. Then, don't omit it for any light occasion; but if now and then necessarily omitted, do not be discouraged but begin again.

Shall I tell you how with us this became one of the helps toward greater results than we had dared to hope? When Sunday morning came I said, "The children and I have been reading a Psalm every morning lately. Would you like to read with us?" And the father said sometimes, "I'll hear you read;" sometimes, "Yes, if you wish." Then for variety we would read the Sunday-school lesson and perhaps some passage which had been otherwise suggested. Our interest in it all constantly increased, and Sunday afternoons would find us reading an entire book or story in which we had become interested.

Then, when after some months, sickness and death came to us, the father could say, "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble;" and "For I am persuaded that nothing can separate us from the love of God;" and, "I give myself to Him for life or death."

Then, during the weeks that followed, how near God was to us, as morning after morning it seemed as though the Psalmist had written to express our own thoughts, desires and need; and we found comfort and help in sorrow, "for this God is our God forever and ever."—J. A. Kelley, in the Advance.

THE BELOVED DISCIPLE.

St. John was called the "beloved disciple." The Lord Jesus loved all "his own," but John seems to have been very near to his heart. Once, at the table, where the disciples were at supper with the Lord, John leaned upon his bosom, and was so sure of the love of Jesus that he was not afraid to ask him any question. How delightful to be so near to him as this!

John showed his love for Jesus when he was sent to the lonely island of Patmos, and would not deny his faith in him. Christians suffered a great deal for Jesus' sake in those days, but "they rejoiced that they were counted worthy to suffer shame for his name."

On Patmos, where perhaps no sound was heard but the sea waves dashing on the rocks, John says he was "in the Spirit on the Lord's day." It may be that he had a feeling of loneliness on the Lord's day morning. When the sun rose perhaps he looked with great longing over the waters toward his home and friends. It would have comforted him then to have talked with them of many things Jesus had said when he was present with them.

But the Lord would not let this true friend of his continue in loneliness. He wanted him to know, what is true now, that Jesus is never far away from those who truly love him and are ready to suffer for his sake. John says: "I heard behind me a voice." It was the same voice that had spoken softly to him when he leaned upon Jesus' bosom years before. Now it was loud and full of strength. At first John was afraid. His eyes and ears were not used to the glory of the other world. He says: "I fell at his feet as dead. And he laid his right hand upon me, saying unto me, fear not." Then John knew he was the gentle Saviour, "the same yesterday, to-day, and forever," and he was no more afraid.

No longer lonely now, he sits under the shade of the rock, listening intently to hear what the Lord would say, so that he may write it for us to read. Wonderful things he wrote! They teach us that if we truly love Jesus, as long as we live in this world we shall have to suffer for his sake.

They tell us that Satan makes war with Christ, and tries to get his people away from him, and that wicked people plot mischief against those who try to do good. But over all this dark picture the face of God shines "like the sun in his strength." John saw beyond the clouds into the very midst of heaven, and he heard the angels and the people redeemed from the earth singing and chanting victory.

Over and over again it was said, "Blessed is he that overcometh,"—that is, who gets the victory over sin. Listen: "Him that overcometh will I make a pillar in the temple of my God, and he shall go no more out; and I will write upon him * * * the name of the city of my God,* * * and I will write upon him my new name." How blessed to have God's name written upon us, so that everybody knows as soon as they see us, that we belong to him. If John had not been "in the Spirit" on the Lord's day, he would never have heard these "blessed and true sayings." And we will miss much that God would say to us if we are careless and forgetful of his worship on the day which he has especially set apart for himself.—Anonymous.

A TALK WITH OLD JOEY.

Old Joey was as much a feature of the quaint little fishing hamlet, Seaker, as the high hill terminating one end of the bay. Laid aside from active work by rheumatism and age, a widower, and childless old man, with just enough money to help him in a humble fashion, he mostly spent the long summer afternoons on a bench overlooking the beach.

One glorious afternoon in August he was looking at the putting out of the herring fleet. An animated scene it made, with the ruddy-faced, vigorous fishermen, awaiting splashing, curling, surf-laden waves to break; then with vigorous pushes of boats, over wooden staves, launching away with receding water out to the dancing, glittering pathway with which the setting sun was gilding the boisterous sea.

Joey had watched it all many a time before, but that did not prevent present interest nor yet the tendency to bring a longing look on the worn face, as he thought of when he too had been as these men and shared a congenial toil. At least that was the expression which a pleasant-faced, middle-aged lady—an afternoon visitor from fashionable Baithe—seemed to read there as she took in the observer's garb, age, and straining eyes.

"Ah, now," said she, seating herself by him, "I believe you are wishing yourself one of those hardy, active fellows below."

With a start Joey faced his questioner, but her kind face and the Seaker folks' proverbial friendliness made him frankly reply:

"Well, now, ma'am, p'raps I were envyin' 'em, but I do try i' these days to keep it down and to mak' t' best o' a bad job. There was a time, what wi' rheumatiz, my old woman's death, and havin' no children, I got into a reg'lar way o' grumbling and feeling ill-used, but one day a parson said, 'at God mean't every one to do summat, and it stuck i' my head, and sez I to mysel':

" 'Now I'm nobbut a poor old, laid-aside 'un, so I can't do much; but for sure God didn't spare me to do naught but grumble, so, sez I, I'll just look round and see if that parson were i' the right.'

"And sure enough, I've found a power o' things, if nobbut small. Eh! t' folks oft' say, 'We shall miss old Joey when he's took!' And that's summat to mak' one feel a bit o' use, ain't it?"

"That it is," began the lady heartily, but with saddening face and lowering tone, as she continued; "it is more than I can feel, though having greater advantage than you, I ought to be able to feel so in a greater degree. But tell me," she said earnestly, "what do you do?"

"Why, you see, it needs a bit o' thought, ma'am, for if your mind ain' t there, you oft let slip an opportunity, and then ther's t' rheumatiz, too, that tries, at times, to get all t' thought, and I've to say, 'Now, Joey, is it going to be thought for others, or yoursel'?' and then I up and begins again, and 'appen find I can tak' one o' t' babbies out o' its mammy's way for a spell, or mak' a toy for a child, or go a seeking 'em some pretty shells, and i' winter I allus looks to t' birds, and bless you, naught comes amiss; but," in a humble tone, "it don't beseem me to tell of 't small things I do, and I'm sure I ax your pardon for taking up time talking o' such trifles."

"It is not the size of the fruits God looks at," said the lady solemnly, "but the spirit of a life. You make me ashamed of my recently wasted one. Being, like you, bereaved of a dear partner and children, I have been no good to either myself or anyone else ever since. But, please God, I'll be very different in the future, and when by prayer and thought I have found ways to serve Him you shall know what results your words, through his love, have brought to me and others."

That she kept her vow was shown by many schemes for the poor; though Joey, humanly speaking, never knew of them, for he died that summer, and it was not until the following year that one was commenced that would have interested him greatly.

The lady took a large, old-fashioned sea-side house, at which, all through the summer, were received, for different lengths of time, numbers of old and poor towns-folk. As all, at leaving, told her of the good done to body and heart by her kindness, and said how the dark days of winter even would be brightened by remembrance of the treat, she would tell them how Joey's earnest efforts to keep his thoughts for others had brought it about; and no doubt as they returned to the struggling lives in dirty manufacturing towns, and remembered the little tale, many a kind deed, word, and thought might have been traced back to it.—Buds and Blossoms.

"IN A MINUTE."

"Don't fret. I'll be there in a minute." But, my friend, a minute means a good deal, notwithstanding you affect to hold it of no consequence. Did you ever stop to think what may happen in a minute? No? Well, while you are murdering a minute for yourself and one for me, before we get ready for the business we have in hand, I will amuse you by telling you some things that will happen meantime.

In a minute we shall be whirled around on the outside of the earth by its diurnal motion a distance of thirteen miles. At the same time we shall have gone along with the earth on its grand journey around the sun 1,080 miles. Pretty quick traveling you say? Why, that is slow work compared with the rate of travel of that ray of light which was just now reflected from that mirror. A minute ago that ray was 11,160,000 miles away.

In a minute, all over the world, about eighty new-born infants have each raised a wail of protest as if against thrusting existence upon them; while as many more human beings, weary with the struggle of life, have opened their lips to utter the last sigh.

In a minute the lowest sound your ear can catch has been made by 690 vibrations, while the highest tone reached you after making 2,228,000 vibrations.

In a minute an express train goes a mile, and a street-car thirty-two rods, the fastest trotting horse 148 rods, and an average pedestrian has got over sixteen rods.

Each minute, night and day, by the official reports, the United States collects $639 and spends $461. The interest on the public debt was $96 a minute last year, or just exactly equal to the amount of silver mined in that time. The telephone is used 136 times. Of tobacco, 925 pounds are raised, and part of it has been used in making 6,763 cigars and some more of it has gone up in the smoke of 2,292 cigarettes. But I am afraid you will forget that we talking about a minute, sixty seconds of time. No? Well, then, every minute 600 pounds of wool grow in this country, and we have to dig 61 tons of anthracite coal and 200 tons of bituminous coal, while of pig iron we turn out 11 tons, and of steel rails 3 tons. In this minute you have kept me waiting 15 kegs of nails have been made, 12 bales of cotton have been taken from the fields, and 36 bushels of grain have gone into 149 gallons of spirits, while $66 of gold have been dug from the earth. In the same time the United States mints turned out coin to the value of $121, and forty-two acres of the public domain have been sold or given away.—Cleveland Press.

MUSICAL HORSES.

This little incident happened above the clouds on one Sunday morning, several summers ago, on the very tiptop of beautiful Roan Mountain in North Carolina.

A small circle, numbering not more than about a dozen people, were seated about on the smooth rocks, or on the springy cushions of beautiful mountain heather with which nature has upholstered most inviting seats in this beautiful land of clouds.

One of the company, a clergyman, was conducting an informal religious service. Having finished his short sermon, he announced a hymn. As there were no books, his selection was necessarily something familiar to all, and presently there arose from this small congregation a strong and hearty chorus. So intent were the singers upon their simple service, in which minister and all joined with equal spirit, that no one noticed, until a horse's face was thrust forward between two of the congregation, that a drove of horses, evidently attracted by the voices, had gradually approached, until a second circle was formed outside the worshipers. The discovery was so startling that for a moment even the minister forgot his clerical dignity and burst out laughing, and all the voices broke down.

At this the uninvited horses fell back in some confusion and apparent embarrassment.

In a few seconds, however, the singers recovered themselves, and with really creditable self-control sang the entire hymn, and as there were several stanzas, the outer circle of horses, which had soon closed in again, thrust forward more than one equine head among the worshipers before a final "Amen" sent them off once more in a scamper.

Again and again, as other hymns were sung, the song-loving horses came back, their long, serious faces seeming to wear almost pious expressions as they listened attentively, and dashed away at the end of the performance.

The minister on this occasion was a well-known and popular clergyman.

No doubt he had addressed audiences of almost every conceivable character during his ministry, and felt his risibles proof against any ordinary surprise, but this sudden apparition of eager horse faces was too much for even his self-control. —Harper's Young People.

GIVE THANKS.

For all that God in mercy sends,
For health and children, home and friends,
For comfort in the time of need,
For every kindly word and deed,
For happy thoughts and holy talk,
For guidance in our daily walk,
For everything give thanks!

For beauty in this world of ours,
For verdant grass and lovely flowers,
For song of birds and hum of bees,
For the refreshing summer breeze,
For hill and plain, for stream and wood,
For the grest ocean's mighty flood,
For everything give thanks!

For the sweet sleep that comes with night,
For the returning morning's light,
For the bright sun that shines on high,
For the stars glittering in the sky,
For these and everything we see,
O Lord! our hearts we lift to thee,
For everything give thanks!

—Church News.

TEMPERANCE.

WHAT A YOUNG MAN CAN DO.

It is a very common error to suppose that the temperance cause has relation only to those who have been made wretched by drink and that temperance workers are of little account unless they have been drunkards.

The fact is that the influence of a young man who in cool blood chooses the right, on the bare-hand sense of it, is many fold greater on boys and men of his own age than is that of a man who having gone through the saloon and "got the worst of it," comes out against drink.

It is a splendid thing to be saved from drunkenness, but infinitely more splendid to have been clean always. The men who lead in all professions, who weather the panics and fires and floods in mercantile pursuits, who sway the world by voice and pen, are, as a rule, those who have been clean from boyhood; and that if a redeemed drunkard sometimes makes his mark in the world, it is a mark much lower than he could have made under conditions of abstinence from the beginning. Sometimes a rescued drunkard prizes opportunity more and works harder than he would have done otherwise, but in the whole range of silliness the climacteric imbecile is the young man who thinks it "smart" to drink. So, then, I should say a young man can do everything for the temperance cause.

On the political side the temperance cause is a young man's affair; old men will not change easily; their eyes are to the rear. If the question of prohibition were now presented to the Christian men of America as a new thing unentangled with party loyalty, prejudice and habit, every man of them would be an ultra Prohibitionist. As Democrats and Republicans, they have drifted into license and other dilatory policies askance from the view of real merit, and now they will drift on to the end, captive to a name, a tradition or a theory. If I were a young man I would keep clean, and that is the first thing for any man to do for any cause. Paul did his best for Timothy when he wrote to him, keep thyself pure.—John G. Woolley, in Rest Islander.

A TEMPERANCE ANECDOTE.

John Jones began at the age of fifteen to build a monument and finished it at fifty. He worked night and day, often all night long, and on the Sabbath. He seemed to be in a great hurry to get it done. He spent all the money be earned upon it—some say $50,000. Then he borrowed all he could; and when no one would loan him any more he would take his wife's dresses and the bed clothes and many other valuable things in his home, and sell them to get more money to finish that monument.

They say he came home one day and was about to take the blankets that lay over his sleeping baby to keep it warm, and his wife tried to stop him; but he drew back his fist and knocked her down, and then went away with the blankets and never brought them back, and the poor baby sickened and died from the exposure. At last there was not anything left in the house. The poor, broken-hearted wife soon followed the baby to the grave. Yet John Jones kept working all the more at the monument. I saw him when he was about fifty years old. The monument was nearly done; but he had worked so hard at it that I hardly knew him, he was so worn; his clothes were all tattered, and his hands and face, indeed, his whole body, were covered with scars which he got in laying up some of the stones. And the wretched man had been so little in good society all the while that he was building, that he had forgotten how to use the English language; his tongue had somehow become very thick, and when he tried to speak, out would come an oath.

That may seem strange, but I have found out that all who build such monuments as John's, prefer oaths to any other word!

Now, come with me, and I will show you John's monument. It stands in a beautiful part of the city where five streets meet. Most men put such things in a cemetery. But John had his own way and put it on one of the finest lots to be found.

"Does it look like Bunker Hill monument?" asked little Amy Arlott by my side.

Not at all. John didn't want to be remembered that way. He might have taken that $50,000 and built an asylum for poor little children that have no home, and people would have called the asylum his monument.

But here we are at the front door. It is a grand house! It is high and large, with great halls and towers, and velvet carpets, elegant mirrors and a piano, and I know not what all; so rich and grand.

This is John Jones' monument, and the man who sold John nearly all the whisky he drank lives here with his family, and they all dress in the richest and finest clothes.

Do you understand it?

A BOY'S WORTH.

If you want to find out what a boy is worth, go and ask his mother. By the time she goes into the jaws of death to give him birth, and then puts into him her days of love and her nights of ease, and he stands before her strong, and clean, and tall, at twenty-one, she can tell you what he is worth from the crown of his head to the soles of his feet; and when the legalized dram-shop takes hold of him, tears him down fibre by fibre, and puts oaths on the lips she used to kiss, and crushes out his mother's hopes, it is no wonder she makes outcry. If you want to know what home is worth, go and ask a loving woman who has kept herself as pure as the lilies for her marriage day, when with a great shine in her eyes, she puts herself over into the hands of one man, for better or for worse, for richer or for poorer, until life's end. And when the dram-shop with its fearful curse crosses the threshold of the home they build together, and takes down her strong tower of hope, stone by stone, and degrades the father of her children, it is no wonder she makes outcry.—Selected.

BIBLE LESSON.

STUDIES IN THE EPISTLES.

LESSON XII.—Fourth Quarter, 1893.—December 17.

SUBJECT.—The Glorified Saviour.—Revelation 1:9-20.

GOLDEN TEXT.—Wherefore God also hath highly exalted him, and given him a name which is above every name.—Phil. 2:9.

| Open the Bible and read the lesson. |

COMMENTS BY E. E. FLAGG.

1. The manner of the revelation.—vs. 9–11. "I, John, who also am your brother and companion in tribulation." How this greeting from the beloved and venerated apostle must have touched the hearts of the suffering Christians who were then passing through the fiery trial of the first great persecution. Should it not be a source of strength to us when beset by trials, or persecuted by those who do not sympathize with our principles or comprehend our motives, to feel that we are not alone in this experience;—that a countless multitude are our companions in tribulation? And, in a higher and deeper sense, should it not cheer our hearts and give us fortitude to endure when we think of Jesus, who, by virtue of his sufferings when he wore the veil of humanity, and his sympathetic understanding of all our human weakness, is both our brother and companion in tribulation? "For the Word of God and the testimony of Jesus Christ." John had been exiled to Patmos for his faithful witness-bearing, but it was in this forced retirement that he wrote the Revelation. So John Bunyan dreamed out his wonderful allegory in Bedford jail, and Luther translated the Bible into German while shut up in the Wartburg. The greatest and most enduring work for God has often been done in solitude and silence. We note among other suggestions, (1) that we can only have revealings of divine things when we are in the spirit. (2) Though God has all times and seasons at his command, there is no day so favorable for learning of himself and his will toward us as the Lord's day, for no other has such sacred associations; such an immunity from the worldly sights and sounds which distract thought and retard devotion. (3) By his judgments, by the fulfillment of prophecy, by the swift march of events which show his near approach, Christ is speaking to us "with a great voice as of a trumpet." (4) His message is to all the churches, to rouse every individual believer from the slumber of slothful indifference, and bid him arm for the great warfare already on us. God's watchmen, devout men, who have made prophecy a special study, though they may disagree in minor details, are united on one point: That the Lord's coming is very near, and that it behooves all who bear his name to be awake and watching.

2. The glorified Saviour.—vs. 12–16. Hearing generally comes before seeing. We must hear the Voice that speaks to us, and turn from our business, our pleasure, our cares, before we can "see Jesus." The seven golden candlesticks are symbolic of the church, essentially one, but divided on points of doctrine, ritual and government. This suggests (1) that the church is the great light-bearer of the world; and (2) every individual branch, that is, every believer, is a candle lighted by God, and fed from the same divine source; and his chief duty is always and everywhere to shine. The long garment with which he is clothed, and the golden girdle about the breasts, denote both priesthood and kingship; the white hairs the eternity of his existence; the flaming eyes his indignation against evil, and his power as the divine Judge and searcher of hearts to detect it under every guise. "His feet as fine brass." "This grand and terrible image," says Trench, "sets forth to us Christ in his power to tread down his enemies; at once to tread down and consume them." "His voice as the sound of many waters," denotes power to command, the capacity to be heard at a great distance, and variety of tone;—as Peloubet suggests, musical and sweet to those who obey it, but awful with the thunders of judgment to those who will not. "In his right hand seven stars." These are explained in the last verse of the lesson as the angels or pastors of the seven churches. They may symbolize all who are called of God to responsible places in the church. They are stars, not candles. The under-shepherd must reflect, in his character, the devoted zeal, the tender compassion, and the unspotted life of the chief Shepherd. "And out of his mouth went a sharp, two-edged sword." This refers to the truth to which he came to bear witness; that truth which sends conviction into the hearts of sinners, and "pierces even to the dividing asunder of joints and marrow." "And his countenance was as the sun shineth in his strength." So he appeared to Saul of Tarsus in a glory above that of the noonday sun.

3. The charge to John.—vs. 17–20. At the sight of his glorified Saviour, standing before him in such awful majesty, even the beloved John fell at his feet as dead. Would it not help us in holy living if we oftener reverted in thought to this sublime image? Would it not tend to give us more reverent fear, and a grander courage; for with such a Saviour ought we not to be strong to bear all things and endure all things in the hope of being one day made like him? When Jesus laid his right hand upon him, doubtless there was something in the pressure of that hand by which John recognized him as the same Saviour on whose bosom he had leaned in other days. "I am the first and the last," etc.; that is, existent from and to all eternity. "And have the keys of hell and of death." Neither St. Peter, nor he who calls himself his representative, holds these keys, but the hands once pierced for us. "Write the things thou hast seen." Let all who would write, or teach, or preach, first experience the truth they would impart to others. This, and this alone, will give it vital, living force. "The things which are, and the things which shall be hereafter;"—a history of all that relates to the church, her dangers, her trials and her triumphs, down to the closing up of time.

LITERATURE.

CURRENT PERIODICALS.

The Century for December, in its holiday dress and rich accumulations of art and literary treasures, deserves the praise which it is sure to receive. Its wealth of engravings of rare beauty, covering many full pages, and including reproductions of the works of famous painters, will commend it at sight to art-lovers. The letter-press has also an original fund of attraction. Its principal contributions are as follows: Old Dutch Masters—Rembrandt, by Mrs. Van Renssaler, with many choice illustrations; A Christmas Sermon, by Phillips Brooks; Chats with Famous Painters, by Wallace Wood; Fleur-de-Lis, by Kate D. Wiggins; Baader (Artists' Adventures Series), by F. Hopkinson Smith; A Set of Sketches, by Howard Pyle; The Curious Vehicle, A Midnight Story, by Alex W. Drake; The Five Indispensable Authors, by James Russell Lowell; The Singular Cleverness of Toby Van Loo, by Anna E. King; Pudd'nhead Wilson—the beginning of Mark Twain's new serial, with a portrait; Memories and Letters of Edwin Booth; By the Waters of Chesapeake, by John W. Palmer; The Casting Vote, by Chas. E. Craddock; The Gentler Side of Two Great Southerners, by Geo. W. Cable; "Texas," by Nellie Mackubin, etc. There are also poems by Richard H. Stoddard and others of the Century's poets, with well-filled editorial and gossipy departments for holiday reading. New York: The Century Co. Price, 35 cents.

With justifiable pride the publishers call particular attention to the December, or holiday, number of St. Nicholas for Young Folks, which they claim—and the public may easily believe—is the most beautiful number of a juvenile magazine ever issued. It is printed on heavy paper throughout, has a new cover, comes to us in an enlarged form, and is brimfull of attractions. Rudyard Kipling's story of Toomai of the Elephants is esteemed as one of his greatest efforts. Tom Sawyer Abroad, by Mark Twain, is continued; General Sherman's Bear, Recollections of the Wild Life, and Helen Keller's Visit to the World's Fair—Helen is deaf and dumb, yet she greatly enjoyed the Exposition—are of a character to interest older readers; while the shorter stories, sketches and verses, with their quaint illustrations, afford a world of amusement for the younger ones. Now that Wide Awake is merged in St. Nicholas, the latter becomes, without doubt the best of the boys' and girls' monthlies. Published in New York City; price, 25 cents.

Scribner's Magazine for December—the "Christmas" number—is not only seasonable, but contains much of permanent interest. The Bachelor's Christmas, by Robert Grant, and How the Captain Made Christmas, by Thos. N. Page, will "satisfy the sentiment" of the holidays in the "lighter vein;" while A Search for Della Rabbia Monuments in Italy, by Allan Marquand; Constantinople, by F. Marion Crawford; Private Letters of King James' Reign (now first published), by Sir Walter Scott, and An Artist Among Animals, by F. S. Church (illustrated by the author), appeal to those who admire the truthful and beautiful in the realities of life. Thomas Bailey Aldrich, Richard Henry Stoddard, Graham R. Tomson, Edith M. Thomas, W. W. Gilchrist, and Edith Wharton, supply the poetry of the number. The Source, by Henry Van Dyke, and the Semaphore, by Herbert D. Ward, also possess interest. The illustrations, as usual, are excellent and numerous. New York: Published by Chas Scribner's Sons. Price, 25 cents.

The Review of Reviews for December has a fine portrait of Gladstone and little Dorothy Drew; Current History in Caricature—a new installment of laughable conceits; A Talk to Young Men on Education; six character sketches, with portraits, of notable men: Two Experiments, and Some Prospective Pilgrimages, carefully illustrated. In departments this magazine is especially attractive. The Progress of the World contains a review of twenty-nine prominent events of the day, with a profuse portraiture of the men of the time; Leading Articles of the Month, from current periodicals, embody thirty-three topics of general interest, including a bird's-eye view of the California Midwinter Fair, Reviews of Books and Periodicals, etc. The range of subjects, and the excellent manner in which they are presented from month to month, make this one of the most desirable of cheap current magazines. Published in New York City; price, 25 cents.

MUSICAL.

From S. Brainard's Sons, Chicago, we have received a comely collection of religious words and music, entitled: "The Revival Helper, and Songs for All," by Charles Walker Ray. One volume, pp. 224. The lady organist of a neighboring church to whom we referred it for examination, thus expresses her approval: "It is a bright and helpful collection of songs and hymns suitable for revival or Gospel meetings, both the hymns and music being well-written and chosen. It will tend to spiritually uplift such gatherings."

RELIGIOUS NEWS.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

—The next International Christian Endeavor convention will be held at Cleveland, July 11–15, 1894. Accommodations will be made for 30,000 delegates. The convention goes to San Francisco in 1895.

—There are now 28,360 societies of Christian Endeavor in the world. Nearly two thousand new societies have been reported since the Montreal International convention.

—A Floating Society of Christian Endeavor was formed on a Japanese man-of-war that anchored near Tokyo. The ship sailed away with thirteen members and returned six months later with a membership of thirty.

—There are now over five thousand Junior Christian Endeavor Societies.

—England has over 800 Christian Endeavor Societies.

—Philadelphia now has 338 Christian Endeavor Societies.

LUTHERAN.

—The venerable Dr. Morris of Baltimore, Md., has issued a circular letter in which he proposes the organization of a society to be known as "The Acadamy of Lutheran Church History in America." The aim of the society is to be the gathering and preservation of historical material. The first meeting will most likely be held in Baltimore, beginning on Tuesday night, December 26, for the purpose of effecting an organization.

—The "Stadtkirche" of Wittenberg, in which Luther preached some of his most powerful sermons, is sadly in need of repairs. An entire reconstruction may become necessary.

—The corner-stone of the new church at Jerusalem was laid on October 31st. The architect will be Groth, the same who supervised the reconstruction and renovation of the Castle church in Wittenberg.

—The Wurtemberg Bible Society distributed during the past year 36,370 Bibles, 50,970, New Testaments, 11,559 parts of the Bible; 1,391 books for the blind. During the 81 years of the existence of the society 2,154,068 sacred writings were distributed. The sale of books has not been confined to Wurtemberg, but includes Baden, the country of the Rhine, Westphalia, Saxony, Alsatia and the Palatinate.

MISCELLANEOUS.

—The report of the Upper Canada Religious Tract and Book Society is quite encouraging. During the past year 9,000 Bibles in different languages, and 37,000 volumes of religious books and nearly a million of pages of tracts have been put in circulation throughout Canada by its agency.

—Father Kolasinski, a Catholic Polish priest of Detroit, Mich., who has been in rebellion against his bishop, is now reported to have joined the Old Catholic organization in Wisconsin. Kolasinski is said to have 18,000 followers. He would not submit to Satolli.

—The various Christian societies of Kansas City, Mo., have decided upon a Sunday crusade under the auspices of the Sunday Rest Association.

Royal Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength. — Latest United States Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO.,
106 Wall St., N. Y.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

CHICAGO.

Thomas Hennessy was found guilty of killing Michael O'Brien, and sentenced to twenty-five years' imprisonment.

Solon L. Gates and G. C. Wilson were removed from the Coughlin jury and Clerk Flynn was suspended for alleged corruption.

Pretending to be an express delivery man, Alfred Lauterbach secured valuable furs from Wolf & Periolat and pawned them.

As a Thanksgiving offering from Chicago's school children nearly $1,000 was contributed to aid needy and deserving pupils.

As the result of a practical joke, John Brown, a Hungarian laborer, is dead and his tormentors are in jail.

Nearly a thousand employes—guards, gate-keepers, clerks and freight handlers—were dropped from the Fair's pay-rolls.

A Chicagoan has purchased the casts of statuary exhibited by Greece at the Fair, and presented them to Beloit College.

Two thousand persons living in or near the Polish settlement were vaccinated by health department physicians.

Thomas Higgins was found guilty by a jury of murdering Peter Cooey, and sentenced to be hanged.

Dugald Stewart, an Illinois pioneer, and at one time a wealthy and prominent man, died in Chicago from paralysis.

Nine cases of smallpox, under treatment as measles, were discovered in the Polish district on the South Side.

Sneak thieves reaped a harvest in Chicago University. Wearing apparel, ornaments and jewelry were stolen.

Lincoln Park commissioners rescinded their action changing the name of Lake Shore drive to Palmer boulevard.

Taxpayers are said to be unjustly assessed for public improvements. An investigation by Mayor Swift's expert is in progress.

As a result of a mass-meeting of workingmen the relief measures inaugurated by the citizens' committee are to be continued.

Indiana block coal has been cornered, a city company having purchased the output for the year.

COUNTRY.

In his report Secretary of War Lamont suggests concentration of the army on seacoast and frontier.

Receivers of the Northern Pacific claim the lease of the Wisconsin Central was illegal, and will fight payment of rental.

Thirteen prisoners in the United States stockade, Muskogee, I. T., tunneled their way out and escaped.

Of the grand jury which recently adjourned at Columbia, Mo., three members are dead and another is ill.

At the meeting of the F. M. B. A. at Indianapolis steps were taken looking to the union of the various farmers' societies.

Contributions for the relief of destitute Gogebic miners are pouring into Milwaukee headquarters, many coming from Chicago.

Advices have been received that Chile has resolved upon a national line of steamers between that country and Europe.

Secretary Herbert in his annual report says there are forty-one war vessels, and more should be added.

Employes of the Northern Pacific all along the line threaten a revolt against the order reducing salaries.

Winter in earnest is reported from a number of interior points. The fall of snow is general.

Episcopal Bishop Paret, of Maryland, objects to the proposed legislative aid for the Catholic parochial schools.

Officials of the Lehigh Valley expect the big strike to be declared off. The men deny the probability.

Protesting his innocence of wife murder, Van Baker died in the West Virginia penitentiary at Moundsville.

Mennonites contemplate establishing a colony in Fayette county, Illinois. Negotiations for a tract of land are in progress.

Reports to the State department are that Guatemala's coffee crop is short. Most of it is sent to America.

Miss Edith Erskine, of Pleasureridge Park, Ky., won fifteen barrels of whisky by guessing on World's Fair attendance.

The reorganization committee of the Union Pacific railway was completed and Calvin S. Brice was elected chairman.

President Blaut, ex-President Cryder and six directors were indicted for wrecking the Madison Square Bank of New York.

Six members of the opium and Chinese smuggling ring at Portland, Oregon, have pleaded guilty.

Ex-Banker W. H. Schuerman, of Normal, Ill., pleaded guilty to embezzlement, and was sentenced to a year's imprisonment.

Kansas Populists are already preparing for next year's campaign. A meeting of the Farmers' Alliance has been called.

An earthquake shock which lasted several seconds caused consternation in Montreal and at other points in Canada.

After voting and holding office in Indiana for twenty-five years, Michael J. Boland has discovered he is not a citizen.

Governor Altgeld has appointed twenty-eight delegates to represent Illinois in the Farmers' Congress.

A party of Mormon colonists are said to have been ambushed by Indians in Mexico, but drove off their assailants.

Milwaukee's city council having voted to accept the compromise proposition, resumption of Mitchell's bank is assured.

A gas well near Greenfield, Ind., became uncontrollable and tore up everything in the vicinity. No person was hurt.

Christian Scientist parents of Portland, Oregon, starved their children through religious fervor. The courts took them away.

FOREIGN.

Emperor William does not identify France with the attempt on his life. He says it was the work of a madman.

In a collision between passenger and freight trains in Italy twenty persons were killed and many injured.

Snowstorms have added to the misery of survivors at Kuchan. A hundred and sixty earthquake shocks were felt.

Von Caprivi declared that the socialists in assailing the army were seeking to undermine Germany's existence.

Twenty-one persons were killed in a fight to prevent troops closing a Catholic church at Krosche, Russia.

Credit Mobilier, of Rome, has supended payment. Many other failures are expected to follow the big concern.

King Lobengula has been captured by British South African forces, according to reports received at London.

Admiral Stanton has reached the United States. He declares the outcome of the Brazilian revolution is a doubtful matter.

JONATHAN BLANCHARD MEMORIAL FUND SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Mrs. A. F. Rider, $100; Mrs. E. L. Phelps, $100; Mrs. K. I. Moore, $5; Mr. Charles Follett, $30; Mr. A. A. Johnston, $25; Mr. S. P. Bushnell, $25; Rev. W. O. Dinius, $25; Dr. H. T. Cheever, $25; Mrs. Sarah Beach, $100; Mrs. C. A. Goodwin, $25; Mr. C. W. Sterry, $1,000; A Friend (additional), $800; M. W. Beden, $2; In memory of an old friend of Pres. Jonathan Blanchard, $2,500. Total, $4,762; previously reported, $723; total subscriptions to date (Nov. 13th, 1893), $5,485.

SUBSCRIPTION LETTERS.

The following have made remittances of money to the Cynosure from Nov. 27 to Dec. 2:

J J McClurkin, Rev E G Cooper, W S Johnson, L E Bartlett, David Logan, W H Sawyer, Rev S Studebaker, Mrs J Putman, B Bond, R P Downing, S Blanchard, W Crawford, T G Morrow, J F Helin.

For pity's sake, don't growl and grumble because you are troubled with indigestion. No good was ever effected by snarling and fretting. Be a man (unless you happen to be a woman), and take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which will relieve you, whether man or woman.

United Presbyterians among our readers will be glad to learn that the Midland of Omaha is about to remove to Chicago. This will answer the most common and seemingly only objection to it—"too far west." The Midland is newsy, spicy and sound, liberal and loyal and patriotic and progressive; it excels in giving the news of its own denomination, in supporting the reforms of the day and in advocating home missions. Send for a free sample copy. Address the Midland Publishing Co. Its regular price is $1.50, but to one of our old subscribers who becomes a new subscriber to the Midland, both papers will be sent by us for $2.50. To one who becomes a new subscriber to both, the Cynosure and Midland, the papers will cost for one year only $2.00. Address, Christian Cynosure, 221 W. Madison street.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO.

Wheat—Spring No. 3	56¾	@	57
Winter No. 2	60¼	@	63⅛
Corn—No. 2	34¾	@	35
Oats—No. 2	28½	@	31
Rye—No. 2	46¼	@	47
Bran per ton	11 50	@	12 25
Hay—Timothy	9 50	@	10 25
Butter, medium to best	16	@	26¼
Cheese	08	@	11⅛
Beans	1 30	@	1 55
Eggs	22½	@	23⅛
Seeds—Timothy (100 lbs)	3 10	@	3 50
Flax	1 16½	@	1 18
Clover (100 lbs.)	7 00	@	9 65
Broom corn (per ton)	30 00	@	75 00
Potatoes, (new, bu.)	40	@	60
Hides—Green to dry flint	02¾	@	05½
Lumber—Common		@	15 50
Wool (unwashed)	15		19
Cattle—Choice to extra	4 85	@	5 45
Common to good	3 75	@	4 40
Hogs	5 15	@	5 60
Sheep	2 25	@	3 60

NEW YORK.

Wheat No. 2	67¾	@	60¼
Corn No 2	44⅝	@	45⅝
Oats	84¼	@	36¼
Rye	50	@	57
Eggs	19	@	25½
Butter	17	@	27½
Wool	16½	@	27½

KANSAS CITY.

Cattle	1 50	@	5 65
Hogs	5 10	@	5 40
Sheep	1 00	@	3 75

Scrofula

is Disease Germs living in the Blood and feeding upon its Life. Overcome these germs with

Scott's Emulsion

the Cream of Cod-liver Oil, and make your blood healthy, skin pure and system strong. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.

Don't be deceived by Substitutes!

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists.

The Prince of India for 5 cents only, for two days' reading, proportionately for longer time, through your Bookseller, country Postmaster or direct. Deposit the price ($2.50) and on return get any book you want to borrow or want to buy, of the same value.

Books sold at the lowest prices ever known. Any book supplied. Catalogue, 160 pages, 2 cents.

Address JOHN B. ALDEN, Manager,
Mention this paper. 57 Rose St., New York.

MY EXPERIENCES
WITH
SECRET SOCIETIES.
BY A TRAVELER.
With a Key to Masonry Illustrated

A new edition, greatly enlarged, has been issued, embracing chapters on the Language of Numbers, Secret Empires, and Good Men, containing more Experiences, and affording a deeper insight into the Hidden Language and Workings of Secret Clans, and of the counterfeit pretences of good men, than ever before published. The Key is an exposition, explanation and verification of modern Baalism, with which all should be thoroughly acquainted. The price of the new edition is

Fifteen Cents,

but copies of the first edition will be forwarded for Ten Cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison St. Chicago.

A BOOKLET.
107 pages, 5x7 inches.
Paper Cover, Postpaid, 15 Cents

The following addresses form part of the contents of this booklet:

THE MARTYR'S OWN MONUMENT, by Rev. J. E. Roy, D. D., Western Secretary of American Missionary Association.

CHRISTIAN POLITICS, by Rev. J. Blanchard, late President Wheaton College, and Editor Christian Cynosure.

THE MYSTERIOUS MACHINE: was it Lawnmower, Town-pump, Balloon, Wheel-barrow,—or what? by Prof. E. D. Bailey of the Civil Service Dept. U. S. Government.

This booklet includes other interesting matter connected with the unveiling of the Morgan monument at Batavia, N. Y. Address

CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

DO YOU WANT

To receive, read, distribute and otherwise aid in the circulation of a large number of Holiness and Reform papers and magazines? If so, send me a SILVER dime, and your name and address will be printed on the Holiness and Reform Mail Exchange List, which is sent to all publishers of holiness and reform literature, who will mail you sample papers and magazines. Write name and address PLAINLY. Address, J. H. PADGETT, Printer. Ennis, Texas.

HOME AND HEALTH.

(From the Vanguard, St. Louis.)

It has been decided by high medical authority that consumption is a contagious disease; that is, that it can be contracted by association with persons suffering from the disease. Never sleep with a consumptive. Avoid breathing the odor which comes from a consumptive person. Great care should be taken of the spittoons or anything in which the matter raised from the diseased lung is deposited. Disinfectants, much fresh air, good ventilation and perfect cleanliness will enable one to care for consumptives without danger.

It will be well to remember that the skins of fruit are a ready receptacle for disease germs of every kind. The skins are a protection to the fruit, keeping it from contamination. If the skins are eaten the fruit should be first very carefully washed and rinsed. In the case of tomatoes it is said that the skins not only contain germs, but that they also are dangerous because of the way in which they roll up making a sharp substance which has been known to pierce the intestines, causing death.

We reiterate that there can be no vigorous health without pure air. Everybody should take out-of-door exercise daily, and especially if their employment is confining. Fresh, pure air gives life and color to the blood. Children reared in tenement houses always look bloodless and unwholesome. Mothers should send them to the parks as often as possible. In country towns there is no excuse for lack of fresh air, but ignorance or carelessness.

The first sin that was committed came through giving up to the pleasure of taste and sight, and it was followed by such awful retribution that it should be a warning to the whole human race. Most of our trouble and diseases still come through the lust of the eyes or ungoverned appetites.

Baldness is often preceded or accompanied by grayness of the hair. To prevent both baldness and grayness, use Hall's Hair Renewer, an honest remedy.

PROPHECY:
A STUDY.

BY REV. S. F. PORTER,

A Study of Christ's Comings.

Paper Cover, 100 Pages.

Single copies, postpaid..... 25 cents.
Per 100 copies, postpaid..... $20.00.

For sale by the

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Struck by Lightning.

A true and thrilling narrative of one who was struck by lightning; with incidents, experiences and anecdotes for old and young. By Rev. E. Owen.

With Striking Illustrations.

Beautifully bound in cloth, with title stamped in gold on side and back.....50c.
Paper cover.....30c.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

Plan for Evading the Judgment—Request to be Whipped to Death—Learning to Swear—Alarmed by a Rattlesnake—Fall from a Building—Struck by Lightning—Converted—Sanctified—Called to Preach—First Effort—Casting out a Devil—Protracted Meeting on "Satan's Premises"—First Circuit—Revival in "Haying"—S. Hill Revival—Sisters' Quarrel Settled—Accused of Fortune-Telling—Souls Saved—Dreams—Too near Hell to Spend Time with—A Sceptic Awakened—Public Talk with a Universalist—A Chair Thrown at the Minister—Revival in Berlin—A Methodist Church of Baptist Converts—A Noisy Stage Passenger Quieted—Preaching on the Deck of a Steamboat—A Pleasure Trip—Two Overboard—Revival by Torch-light—A Fiddler Saved—A Slanderer Humbled—Bar-room Discussion—Saved by Expulsion from the Church—Dancing with the Devil—Answering a Fool According to his Folly—Raps for Spirit Rappings—Short Debate with a Restorationist—"Open Rebuke"—An Unspeakable Blessing.

COMMENDATIONS.

American Wesleyan: "Thrilling as a romance, and true to the last syllable. No private library or Sunday-school should be without a copy."

Phonographic Monthly, N. Y.: "Calculated to throw light into the dark places of orthodoxy."

Earnest Christian: "A true narrative of instructive events."

Lay Evangelist: "Quite entertaining and neatly gotten up."

Free Methodist: "Meeting with universal favor. Intensely interesting. We have read, laughed and cried, and shall try it again."

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill

Mrs. Amanda Paisley

For many years an esteemed communicant of Trinity Episcopal church, Newburgh, N. Y., always says "Thank You" to Hood's Sarsaparilla. She suffered for years from Eczema and Scrofula sores on her face, head and ears, making her deaf nearly a year, and affecting her sight. To the surprise of her friends

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Has effected a cure and she can now hear and see as well as ever. For full particulars of her case send to C. I. HOOD & Co., Lowell, Mass.

HOOD'S PILLS are hand made, and are perfect in condition, proportion and appearance.

SEVEN YEARS AMONG THE FREEDMEN.
Revised and Enlarged.

BY MARIA WATERBURY.

Finely Illustrated 196 Pages.....75cts.

The first edition of this book has "gone like hot cakes," and a second edition with more of the same sort has been loudly called for and is now ready for delivery. The press, the pulpit, the educator, the reformer, the masses, have bidden it welcome and Godspeed. We quote a few good words from sundry sources: EARNEST CHRISTIAN: "Publish the book for the good it will do."

Dr. Talmage, in the Christian Herald and Signs of our Times, for February 11th, says: "A helpful little volume, just out, for the workers is, 'Seven Years among the Freedmen,' by Miss M. Waterbury, Polo, Ill.,—a teacher well known to many in Illinois—detailing the quaint and thrilling scenes of her experience—'truth stranger,' oftimes, 'than fiction. One day the chore-man came to Miss M. Waterbury, to be taught a prayer; all the scholars had a prayer to say and he wanted one. John was past middle life and very ignorant. The teacher began the Lord's Prayer, a sentence at a time, explaining as the lesson progressed. 'Thy kingdom come' was all right. 'Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors.' 'What dat mean?' said he. 'That you must forgive everybody, or God will not forgive you.' 'Stop, teacher, can't do dat,' and he went away. After vacation he appeared, saying: 'Now go on wid de prayer. I dun forgive him. Old massar once gib me five hundred lashes, and hit me wid a crow bar, an' t' row me out fur dead, and I met him down de street, an' wouldn't speak at him, but to-day I met h'm an' aid 'How d'ye?' Now go on wid dat prayer'!"

Inter Ocean: 'A Splendid Book. Seven Years Among Freedman is a volume of 494 pages by Miss M. Waterbury, of Polo, Ills., who has spent seven years as a teacher among the freedmen in Mississippi and Alabama. It is a series of sketches telling very simply and graphically the life led by Northern teachers in the South. It bears all the evidences of truthfulness and if it fails to impress the reader with the manhood and dignity of the old ruling class of the South, it is perhaps because the whole truth is told. One reading the book will stop to ask, Why not send missionaries to the white people of the South? They seem to need it more than the blacks."

Journal, Freeport, Ills.: "We are indebted to Mrs. Lila L. Buckley, of this city, for a copy of this interesting volume. The efforts made to elevate the freedmen of the South is one of the most important and deserving charities of the present time, far excelling any effort to elevate the heathen of foreign lands, and it should have the aid of all charitable people in this country. ....The proceeds of sales is devoted to the work of elevating the freedmen of the South, and we trust that every one to whom Miss Waterbury applies will purchase a copy of the book, which is in itself fully worth the price. Miss Waterbury's grandfather, Rev. Calvin Waterbury, was the first Presbyterian minister in Freeport, and it was by his efforts that the First Presbyterian church in Freeport was established.

Polo, (Ills.,) Press: "Seven Years Among the Freedmen. Our townswoman Miss Maria Waterbury, the past winter, prepared for publication an account of some of her singular experiences in the "sixties" among the freedmen of Mississippi. Miss Waterbury and Miss Ford, both of this place, did grand work in those years and deserve no small mead of praise for their heroic sacrifices.

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison st., Chicago

The Nonesuch Professor,

In his Meridian Splendor. By William Secker (Puritan). With an introduction by Theo. L. Cuyler, D. D. 16 mo, $1.00.

"It is a mine of sparkling gems."—Presbyterian Observer.

"A sheaf of golden grain, ripened by grace, and sweet with the flavor of rare simplicity and holy wisdom."—N. Y. Observer.

"It is a searching book."—Christian Intelligencer.

"This is a wonderful book. At whatever page you open it, your eye lights upon pithy aphorisms that combine the sententiousness of Benjamin Franklin with the sweet, holy savor of Samuel Rutherford. It contains hundreds of bright seed thoughts."—Rev. T. L. Cuyler, D. D.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
221 W. Madison St., Chicag

STANDARD WORKS
—ON—
SECRET SOCIETIES
FOR SALE BY THE
National Christian Association.
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

TERMS:—Cash with order, or if sent by express C. O. D. at least $1.00 must be sent with order as a guaranty that books will be taken. Books at retail prices sent postpaid. Books by Mail are at risk of persons ordering, unless 10 cents extra is sent to pay for registering them, when their safe delivery is guaranteed. Books at retail ordered by express, are sold at 10 per cent discount and delivery guaranteed, but not express paid. Postage stamps taken for small sums. ☞ A liberal discount to dealers

Temple of Honor Illustrated. A full and complete illustrated ritual of "The Templars of Honor and Temperance," commonly called the Temple of Honor. By a Templar of Fidelity and Past Worthy Chief Templar. 25cts each.

Five Rituals Bound Together. "Odd-fellowship Illustrated" (old work), "Knights of Pythias Illustrated," "Good Templars Illustrated," "Exposition of the Grange," and "Ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic," are sold bound together in cloth for $1.00.

Rituals and Secrets Illustrated. Composed of "Temple of Honor Illustrated, "Adoptive Masonry Illustrated," "United Sons of Industry Illustrated," and "Secret Societies Illustrated." $1.00 each.

Finney on Masonry. The character, claims and practical workings of Freemasonry. By Pres. Charles G. Finney, of Oberlin College. President Finney was a "bright Mason," but left the lodge when he became a Christian. This book has opened the eyes of multitudes. In cloth, 75 cents. Paper cover, 35 cents.

Stories of the Gods. By I. R. B. Arnold. Brief sketches from the mythology of Rome, Greece, Egypt, India, Persia, Phrygia, Scandinavia, Africa and America, showing the relations and unity of past and present systems. The idolatrous worship of the Masonic lodge is thus clearly seen and understood. Postpaid, 10 cents.

Judge Whitney's Defense before THE GRAND LODGE OF ILLINOIS. Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the lodge when S. H. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry. 15 cents each.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret SOCIETIES. A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons in the Christian church. 10 cents each.

Masonry a Work of Darkness, adverse to Christianity, and inimical to republican government. By Rev. Lebbeus Armstrong (Presbyterian) a seceding Mason of 21 degrees. 15 cents each.

Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the INITIATE? By Rev. L. A. Post. 5 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. J. Day Brownlee. In reply to a Masonic Oration by Rev. Dr. Mayer, Wellsville, Ohio. 5 cents each.

Masonic Outrages. Compiled by Rev. H. H. Hinman. Showing Masonic assault on lives of seceders, on reputation, and on free speech; its interference with justice in courts, etc. Postpaid, 20 cents.

Sermon on Secret Societies. By Rev. Daniel Dow, Woodstock, Conn. The special object of his sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the character of secret societies, no matter what object such societies profess to have. 5 cents each.

Grand Lodge Masonry. Its relation to civil government and the Christian religion. By Pres. J. Blanchard. The un-Christian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is proved from the highest Masonic authorities. 5 cents each.

The Broken Seal; or Personal Reminiscences of the Abduction and Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan. By Samuel D. Greene. In cloth, 75 cents. Paper covers, 40 cents.

The Mystic Tie, or Freemasonry a LEAGUE WITH THE DEVIL. This is an account of the church trial of Peter Cook and wife, of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a reverend Freemason. 15 cents each.

History of the Abduction and Murder OF CAPT. WM. MORGAN. As prepared by seven committees of citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan. 25 cents each.

Freemasonry Self-Condemned. By Rev. J. W. Bain. A careful and logical statement of reasons why secret orders should not be fellowshiped by the Christian Church. Paper covers, price, 20 cents each.

Secret Societies. A discussion of their character and claims by Rev. David McDill, Pres. J. Blanchard and Rev. Edward Beecher. In cloth, 35cts each; paper covers, 15cts each.

Secret Societies, Ancient and Modern. Table of Contents: The Antiquity of Secret Societies, The Life of Julian, The Eleusinian Mysteries, The Origin of Masonry, Was Washington a Mason? Fillmore and Webster's Deference to Masonry, A Brief Outline of the Progress of Masonry in the United States, The Tammany Ring, Masonic Benevolence, The Uses of Masonry, An Illustration, The Conclusion. 50cts each.

Pres. H. H. George on Secret Societies. A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian churches to disfellowship secret societies. 10cts each.

Secrecy vs. the Family, State and CHURCH. By Rev. M. S. Dury. The antagonism of organized secrecy to the welfare of the family, state and church, is clearly shown. 10cts each.

Narratives and Arguments, showing the conflict of secret societies with the Constitution and law of the Union and of the States. By Francis Semple. The fact that secret societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of law is here clearly proved. 15cts each.

The Anti-mason's Scrap-Book, consisting of 53 "Cynosure" tracts. In this book are the views of more than a score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of secret societies. Postpaid. 25 cts.

Reminiscences of Morgan Times. By Elder David Bernard. This is a thrilling narrative of the incidents connected with Bernard's Revelation of Freemasonry 10 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. James Williams, Presiding Elder of Dakota District Northwestern Iowa Conference M. E. Church—a seceding Master Mason. 10 cents each.

Oaths and Penalties of the 33 DEGREES OF FREEMASONRY. To get these thirty-three degrees of Masonic bondage, the candidate takes half-a-million horrible oaths. 15 cents each.

Odd-fellowship Judged by its own utterances; its doctrine and practice examined in the light of God's Word. By Rev. J. H. Brockman. This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. In cloth 50cts; paper covers, 25cts.

Sermon on Odd-fellowship and other secret societies, by Rev. J. Sarver, pastor Evangelical Lutheran church. This is a very clear argument against secretism of all forms, and the duty to disfellowship Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications. 10cts each.

United Sons of Industry Illustrated. A full and complete illustrated ritual of the secret tradesunion of the above name, giving the signs, grips, passwords etc. 15cts each.

Oaths and Penalties of Freemasonry, as proved in court in the New Berlin trials. The New Berlin trials began in the attempt of Freemasons to prevent public initiations by seceding Masons. These trials were held at New Berlin, Chenango Co., N. Y., April 13 and 14, 1831, and General Augustus C. Welsh, sheriff of the county, and other adhering Freemasons, swore to the truthful revelation of the oaths and penalties. 10 cents each.

Anti-masonic Sermons and Addresses. Composed of "Masonry a Work of Darkness;" the Sermons of Messrs. Cross, William M'Nary, Dow and Sarver, the two addresses of President Blanchard, and the addresses of President H. H. George, Prof. J. G. Carson and Rev. M. S. Drury; "Thirteen Reasons Why a Christian cannot be a Freemason," "Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion," and "Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the Initiate?" 287 pages; cloth $1.00.

FARM NOTES.

SORGHUM GROWING.

For two years in Oklahoma we have been paying from forty-five to fifty-five cents for Tennessee sorghum syrup. This was to the advantage of growers there, but when it can be grown at home it will be better for the new Territory. So it is with satisfaction we notice a half-dozen or more portable evaporators at work this year in sight of our home, and your correspondent, G. T. Pettit, of Kansas, speaks highly of our sorghum exhibit at the World's Fair.

This is undoubtedly the home of all kinds of sorghums, both saccharine and non-saccharine, for two or three reasons. The climate and soil are adapted to their growth and take the place of corn, which cannot be certainly depended upon in all parts of the Territory.

We delivered five and one-half loads of Folger's early sorghum to a local evaporator and received 112 gallons of fair syrup. This, we think, with the seed that is easily saved and the blades that might be, certainly makes a paying crop.

What is needed is better facilities for manufacturing, that it may be put upon the market in better condition.

If the farmers of each section would only try to grow that for which their climate and soil is specially adapted, there would not be so many crop failures and useless competitions.

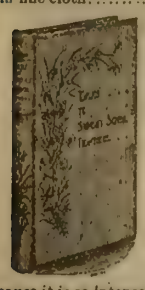
Out of the hundreds of varieties of sorghum there is much of mixture which has detracted in many cases from their value. Desiring pure seed we sent to the Government Experiment Station, Garden City, and secured seed of Folger's Early, Collier, McLean, Link's Hybrid and 289. . . . . .

The superiority of these for syrups over those commonly grown shows that it pays to get good seed of good varieties. We had previously written to the sugar factories to get their opinion as to the best varieties.

In such work as this, is the great value of our experiment stations. Out of 155 kinds tested, this station had selected eleven varieties to be specially commended. Now it remains for experimental farmers to test for their special localities and then for the mass of farmers to follow these leadings.—J. M. Rice, in Farm, Field and Fireside.

Talks to Sunday School Teachers.

By Rev. J. G. Torrill. 12mo, 200 pages, bound in fine cloth..... .75



This book is the result of twenty-five years of experience in Sunday-school and treats of: 1. The Sunday-school organization and management. 2. Methods of work. 3. Studies in human nature. 4. Rules of Interpretation as applied to the Bible. 5. Illustrative exercises for primary classes and children's meetings. In the style of presentation, subject matter and price of the book, the wants of the officers and teachers of the ordinary Sunday-school are kept in view.

S. S. Times:—A very comprehensive book. N. Y. Independent:—A sensible manual for the average Sunday-school teacher. Evan. Mess.:—We have been very favorably impressed with the book, because it is so intensely practical. The subject is systematically treated, and leaders of teacher's meetings can not do better than adopt it as a text-book and devote half an hour of each session to teaching the theory and practice of teaching as here systematized. Christian at Work:—Any school that will adopt this book generally and carry forward its work or doctrines here laid down will not be long in developing into a model school and reaping the harvest of a rich fruitage. Herald and Presbyter:—These Talks are well attested in their profitableness and excellence. Buffalo Advocate:—A plain, practical, common sense book on a very important subject. The author has had wide experience in this field of work. He knows thoroughly the ground over which he would lead others, and possesses the happy faculty of packing a great deal of valuable information as to matter and manner of teaching into this little hand-book. We commend it to the attention of all Sunday-school workers. Religious Telescope:—We are pleased with the plan and treatment of the subjects throughout, and are sure that the diligent Sunday-school teacher who longs for more thorough equipment will find in this book a helper of great value. Illustrated Christian Weekly:—The author talks from observation and experience, and talks well.

CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

Sermons of Rev. John McNeill,

12mo. cloth, 416 pages, $1.50.

The fame of this Scottish Spurgeon, as he is very generally called, is becoming as wide-spread as the English tongue. The secret of his power over the masses, has been discussed on both sides of the Atlantic. If one may judge from these printed sermons the secret lies in a homely and pointed putting of the old truths of the Gospel in plain Anglo-saxon. There is evidence of study, but more the study of human nature, and particularly the human heart, than that of books, other than the Book of books—with this volume Mr. McNeill is evidently in love. With unquestioned faith he believes the writen word, and preaches with an earnestness born of conviction.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

If You Have

Scrofula,
Sores, Boils, or any other skin disease,
take

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA

the Superior
Blood-Purifier
and Spring Medicine.
Cures others,

will cure you

AMERICAN HANDBOOK
AND
CITIZEN MANUAL.
BY
MANLOVE N. BUTLER.

CONTENTS:—Bible and Secretism; Masonic Religion; Masonic Sun Worship; Masonic Government; Unwritten History; Grand Lodge Masonry; Public Opinion; Lodge and Saloon; The American Movement; Real Prohibition; Poor Man's Bible, and All-Around Reformers. Over 200 pages

Paper, single copy 40c.; per doz. 35c.

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
WM. I. PHILLIPS, Treasurer,
221 W. Madison St., Chic

THE TWO-FOLD GIFT
of the Holy Ghost,
BY REV. THOS. K. DOTY,
Author of Lessons in Holiness.

240 pp. Price postpaid.....65cts.

The design of this book is, in plain language, to designate the place of the Holy Ghost in both the Godhead and the work of Salvation. Especially to show that Entire Santification is wrought in the heart by the Baptism of Holy Ghost; and that the Epoch of the Baptism is identical with that of his Advent in his Indwelling Personalty. The agency of the Holy Ghost in the Life, and in carrying on the work of the Gospel, is given particular attention.

TITLES TO THE CHAPTERS:

1. A Summary. 2. The Holy Ghost a Person. 3. The New Testament Designating Terms. 4. The Scriptural View. 5. The Holy Ghost is God. 6. Blasphemy Against the Holy Ghost. 7. The Triunity of God. 8. The Apostolic Benediction. 9. The Worship of the Holy Ghost. 10. The Dispensations. 11. The First Dispensation. 12. The Second Dispensation. 13. Holiness—Sinning. 14. "The Sin of the World." 15. Final Deliverance from Sin. 16. The Day of the Holy Ghost. 17. Jesus and the Holy Ghost. 18 and 19. The Epoch of the Holy Ghost. 20. The Anointing. 21. The Baptism of the Holy Ghost. 22. The Baptism of Fire. 23. The Two-Fold Experiences of the Holy Ghost. 24. Fellowship of the Holy Ghost. 25. "In the Spirit." 26. Several Scriptural Terms Considered. 27. Pentecost. 28. Inspiration—Prophecy. 29. Spiritual Leading and Teaching. 30. The Gifts of the Spirit. 31. "Praying in the Holy Ghost." 31 and 32. Power.

This book is creating quite a stir in religious circles. The original, bold and convincing manner of presenting the subject, has forced the press to comment upon the book, either adversely or favorably, generally the latter. We give a few OPINIONS:

Bible Standard and Gospel Record: "This book is very compact, scarcely a superfluous sentence in the whole book. The manner of treating the questions involved is both clear and scriptural. .....The effect of the book will be to deepen thought and increase knowledge and, in the end, deepen piety."

Evangelical Messenger: "Brother Thomas K. Doty has written a book which we take pleasure in commending to all devout readers who enjoy all spiritual things. The subject is so important, and the treatment of it so timely, that we may be pardoned for calling attention to it thus prominently. We, at least have been greatly interested, and gratefully acknowledge that we have also been decidedly profited by persuing it .....Brother Doty writes with an incisive pen, in a clear, lucid style, often epigrammatical and with great force. He is evidently deeply impressed with the truth of what he writes and demands the respect even where he does not gain the intellectual assent of his readers. Withal the book is written in a kindly, candid spirit, rather didactic than polemical, and is calculated to help the reader and not to rouse his opposition, as is the case with so many books which have been written upon this and kindred subjects. The theological views expressed are orthodox, and in some cases the argument is fresh in matter, and certainly fresh in form throughout."

Christian Cynosure: "His book is one of the most excellent, instructive and practical of any that have come to our knowledge. The exposition of the Scriptures concerning the personality and work of the Spirit is very clear, able and comforting. There is much dogmatizing on these topics by Christians who never fully felt the power of the Spirit's work, or are not living in gracious fellowship with him. To all such and to those who have not yet learned what gifts the Lord is waiting to bestow on his people we heartily commend the careful reading of this volume."

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

Standard Works
—ON—
SECRET SOCIETIES
FOR SALE BY THE
National Christian Associat'n
221 West Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois.

TERMS:—Cash with order, or if sent by express C. O. D. at least $1.00 must be sent with order as a guaranty that books will be taken. Books at retail prices sent postpaid. Books by Mail are at risk of persons ordering, unless 10 cents extra is sent to pay for registering them, when their safe delivery is guaranteed. Books at retail ordered by express, are sold at 10 per cent discount and delivery guaranteed, but not express paid. Postage stamps taken for small sums. ☞ A liberal discount to dealers.

Freemasonry Illustrated. A complete exposition of the seven degrees of the Blue Lodge and Chapter. Profusely illustrated. Complete work of 640 pages, in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 75 cents. First three degrees (376 pages), in cloth, 75 cents. Paper covers, 40 cents.

Knight Templarism Illustrated. A full illustrated ritual of the six degrees of the Council and Commandery. A book of 341 pages. In cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.

Scotch Rite Masonry Illustrated. The complete illustrated ritual of the entire Scottish Rite, in two volumes, comprising all the Masonic degrees from 3rd to 33rd inclusive. The first three degrees are common to all the Masonic Rites, and are fully and accurately given in "Freemasonry Illustrated." Vol. I. of "Scotch Rite Masonry Illustrated" comprises the degrees from 3rd to 18th inclusive. Vol. II. of "Scotch Rite Masonry Illustrated" comprised the degrees from 19th to 33rd inclusive, with the signs, grips, tokens and passwords from 1st to 33rd degree inclusive. Price per volume, paper cover, 65 cents each. In cloth, $1.00 each.

Hand-Book of Freemasonry. By E. Ronayne, Past Master of Keystone Lodge No. 639, Chicago. Gives the complete standard ritual of the first three degrees of Freemasonry. New edition, 274 pages. Bound flexible cloth covers. 50 cents.

The Master's Carpet, or Masonry and Baal Worship Identical, explains the true source and meaning of every ceremony and symbol of the lodge. Bound in fine cloth, 420 pages, 75 cents.

Hon. Thurlow Weed on the Morgan ABDUCTION. This is the legally attested statement of this eminent Christian journalist and statesman concerning the unlawful seizure and confinement of Capt. Morgan in Canandaigua jail, his removal to Fort Niagara and subsequent drowning in Lake Ontario. 5 cents each.

Masonic Oaths Null and Void: OR FREEMASONRY SELF-CONVICTED. This is a book for the times. The design of the author is to refute the arguments of those who claim that the oaths of Freemasonry are binding upon those who take them. 207 pages. Postpaid, 40 cents each.

Revised Odd-fellowship Illustrated. The complete revised ritual of the Lodge, Encampment and Rebekah (ladies) degrees, profusely illustrated, and guaranteed to be strictly accurate; with a sketch of the origin, history and character of the order, over one hundred foot-note quotations from standard authorities, showing the character and teachings of the order, and an analysis of each degree by ex-President J. Blanchard. This ritual corresponds exactly with the "Charge Books" furnished by the Sovereign Grand Lodge. In cloth, $1.00; paper cover. 50cts.

General Washington Opposed to SECRET SOCIETIES. This is a re-publication of Governor Joseph Ritner's "Vindication of General Washington from the Stigma of Adherence to Secret Societies," communicated to the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania, March 8, 1837, at their special request. To this is added the fact that three high Masons were the only persons who opposed a vote of thanks to Washington on his retirement to private life—undoubtedly because they considered him a seceding Freemason. 10cts each.

Secret Societies Illustrated. Containing the signs, grips, passwords, emblems, etc., of Freemasonry (Blue Lodge and to the fourteenth degree of the York rite), Adoptive Masonry, Revised Odd-fellowship, Good Templarism, the Temple of Honor, the United Sons of Industry, Knights of Pythias and the Grange, with affidavits, etc. Over 250 cuts, 99 pages, paper cover. 25cts each.

Sermon on Secretism. By Rev. Theo. Cross, pastor Congregational church Hamilton, N. Y. This is a very clear arraignment of the objections to all secret societies, and to Masonry especially, that are apparent to all. 5cts each.

Between Two Opinions: OR THE QUESTION OF THE HOUR. By Miss E. E. Flagg author of "Little People," "A Sunny Life," etc., etc. Everyone who loves to read a good story, chaste and elegant in expression, pure in thought, interesting in narrative, should read this book upon the power of secret societies in politics, and the remedy. 389 pages; cloth, postpaid, $1.00.

RECENT PUBLICATIONS
OF
FLEMING H. REVELL.

Modern Ideas of Evolution.

As related to Revelation and Science. By Sir William Dawson, L. L. D., F. R. S., etc. 12 mo, cloth, $1.50.

In popular style, a testing by scientific facts and principles, the validity of that multiform and brilliant philosophy of the universe, which has taken so deep a hold of the science and literature of our times.

The New World of Central Africa

By Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness; with a history of the first Christian mission on the Congo. Maps, Portraits and numerous engravings. 537 pages, 12 mo, $2.00.

This comprehensive volume is as fascinating as the most entertaining romance. Its vivid portrayal of the dark side of African history makes one's blood tingle, while its earnest appeals create an inspiring sympathy with the effort to evangelize its teeming millions.

Power From on High.

By Rev. B. Fay Mills. White vellum paper, 20 cents.

This little work, revised from stenographic notes of Mr. Mills' address before the National Convention of the Y. P. S. C. E., is exceedingly effective.

Matthew Henry's Commentary.

An entirely new large type edition of this inimitable Commentary, in six large 8vo. volumes, fine cloth, $15.00; or, in half Morocco, $18.00.

"Biblical students who are most familiar with the very best commentaries of this generation are most able to appreciate the unfading freshness, the clear analysis, the spiritual force, the quaint humor, and the evangelical richness of Matthew Henry's Exposition of the Old and New Testaments."—New York Observer

"First among the mighty for general usefulness we are bound to mention the man whose name is a household word—MATTHEW HENRY. He is the most pious and pithy, sound and sensible, suggestive and sober, terse and trust worthy."—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

The Present Tenses of the Blessed Life.

By Rev. F. B. Meyer. 32 mo, 50 cents.

"It is sufficient to say its one direct aim is the present enjoyment of the precious promises. Mr. Meyer's earnest and persuasive teaching in this direction is admirably condensed in these brief chapters."

BY THE SAME AUTHOR:

Christian Living. Cloth, 32 mo, 50 cents.

"A more suggestive and helpful volume it would not be easy to name."—Christian Leader.

The Shepherd Psalm. Cloth, 32 mo, 50c.

"This is a gem."—Illustrated Christian Weekly

"It is a little book which hundreds of devout hearts will enjoy."—Congregationalist.

Power From on High.

By Rev. B. Fay Mills. White vellum paper, 20 cents.

This little work, revised from stenographic notes of Mr. Mills' address before the National Convention of the Y. P. S. C. E., is exceedingly effective.

OTHER WORKS BY C. H. SPURGEON:

Feathers for Arrows; Or, Illustrations for Teachers and Preachers. 12 mo, $1.

"This work covers a wide range of subjects. The metaphors are always striking and frequently brilliant, while the truths that they illustrate are such as have always formed the staple of Mr. Spurgeon's discourses. A choicer collection of illustrations we do not know."—Freeman.

Spurgeon's Gems. Being a selection of brilliants from his discourses. 12 mo, $1.

The Golden Alphabet. Being a Devotional Commentary on the One Hundred and Nineteenth Psalm. 12 mo, $1.00.

"Mr. Spurgeon brings out the truths and beauties of this wonderful Psalm so as to set a rich feast before the reader. As a practical commentator on the Psalms, Spurgeon has no equal."—Presbyterian Banner.

"This commentary is written in quite the happiest vein of its popular author, and the devotional spirit throughout is intense and elevating."—Occident.

Gleanings Among the Sheaves. 18 mo, 60c.

All of Grace. An earnest word with those seeking the way of life. 16 mo, paper, 30 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

According to Promise; Or, the Lord's Dealings with His chosen People. 16 mo, paper, 30 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Christmas Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve New Year Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Sermons on the Resurrection. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth. 50 cents.

"Preachers may get aid in preparing Easter or funeral sermons from this volume. Good to present to those who have lost loved ones."—National Baptist.

Twelve Striking Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Soul-Winning Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Selected by Mr. Spurgeon as the twelve sermons under which there has been the most marked and permanent success.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.
221 W. Madison St. Chicago.

Secret of Dr. Talmage's Success.

THAT Dr. Talmage is one of the most successful men of the 19th century is a generally accepted fact. As a preacher, in point of popularity he stands to-day without a rival in this or any other country. His reputation practically extends from the rising to the setting of the sun, and when he speaks, his audience is numbered by millions. Of course, those who personally hear him constitute but a very minute percentage of those actually reached by his sermons, and yet his audiences are the largest, in point of number, that gather anywhere on the face of the earth, at regular stated intervals, for the purpose of listening to the same voice again and again.

* * * * * *

His sermons, which crowd the Brooklyn Tabernacle, the largest Protestant church in America, from street to pulpit and from floor to gallery, are eagerly read week after week by the readers of upward of 2500 American journals, 400 of which are dailies, and among these the most prominent in the country. Just to think of it! Three columns of 400 leading dailies given up every Monday morning to Dr. Talmage's sermons, and the same space in over 2000 weeklies devoted to the same purpose. Then he has millions of readers in England, the leading religious journals of that country trying to outdo each other, in point of time, in the presentation to their readers of Dr. Talmage's marvelous pulpit utterances. Germany reads them regularly; so does Hungary, and so does France, and when, three years ago, Dr. Talmage met the Queen of Greece, she was not ashamed to acknowledge that she read, week after week, Dr. Talmage's sermons in modern Greek.

* * * * *

As a lecturer, it has been said time and again that when others have failed to draw houses, and have entailed financial losses in a lecture course, Dr. Talmage is always sure to crowd the house and net a profit sufficient to offset the unfortunate experiences of others. Hence he is in greater demand than any other lecturer of the day.

* * * * *

And as a newspaper editor, he is fully as much of a success as in the fields already mentioned. Becoming identified with THE CHRISTIAN HERALD about three years ago, when its circulation ranked second or third, in less than three years he has brought it out ahead of all competitors, and to-day there is a difference of nearly 100,000 between it and the second best on the list.

* * * * *

When we hear these things, and when we see how Dr. Talmage continuously and securely maintains the ascendency, the questions that naturally suggest themselves are, "What is the secret of his success? How is it to be accounted for?" Those who know him best say hard work does it all. Dr. Talmage is an indefatigable worker and a brilliant speaker. He successfully combines the two. He neither suffers the sublimest oratory to take the place of actual knowledge, nor the possession of such knowledge to cloud the charms and brilliancy of his marvelous rhetoric. When he talks, he throws more light on a given point and gives more positive information than any other man alive. He is a methodical man, who diligently applies himself to the work in hand, and never rests until he has accomplished that which he has set out to do. When he opens his mouth he always says something worth listening to and worth remembering, and when he has nothing to say, he knows how to keep silent. Consequently, when people go to hear Dr. Talmage, they know beforehand that they are going to be repaid for their effort. His mind is a vast mine of information, covering nearly every conceivable subject, of which he has become possessed through careful research and almost heroic powers of concentration and application. Then he is full of sympathy, and above all an optimist. He sees the brightest side of things, and when other people feel like giving up and getting out from under, Dr. Talmage can find enough inducement to continue and succeed. Hence, to sum up, we find Dr. Talmage industrious, thorough, sympathetic and hopeful, and that explains it all.

* * * * *

As an editor, Dr. Talmage knows how to make the brightest and best paper, and knowing it, he does it. THE CHRISTIAN HERALD, from a mechanical standpoint, takes the lead among the religious papers of the country, and it has an abundance of pictures, attractive, artistic, and expressive, and far above the average. In the matter of literary contents, THE CHRISTIAN HERALD has no competitor in its field. It stands alone. It is as unique as the preaching of Dr. Talmage in the pulpit. Others may try to imitate it, but it proves a hopeless task. Then, Dr. Talmage has a peculiarly liberal way of doing things by which he manages to keep matters moving continually. He knows that he supplies the best paper of its kind, full of interest to every member of any family, even though it embrace three or four generations. He also knows that people who do not see or read THE CHRISTIAN HERALD cannot know what he is doing in that line. Hence, he baits his hook with premium offers so liberal that other newspaper men stand aghast and wonder how it is possible.

* * * * *

This year he gives to every subscriber for the small sum of $2 THE CHRISTIAN HERALD for one whole year, 52 issues, and an exceptionally handsome copy of his latest and greatest work, entitled, "From Manger to Throne," embracing 544 pages and containing over 200 illustrations, all beautifully bound in cloth, and just the thing for a holiday present; or, if preferred, a superb ruby Teacher's Bible, with red under gold edges, containing Concordance and all the Helps and elegantly bound in soft, flexible leather, with overlapping edges. Neither of these books has ever been offered at less than $3.75; but owing to the enormous quantities which Dr. Talmage purchases (at least 100,000 at a time), he can make these marvelous offers, and by pursuing this generous plan, he expects by January 1st to reach a circulation for THE CHRISTIAN HERALD exceeding a quarter of a million copies weekly, and thus achieve a triumph in religious journalism without a parallel in this or any country. His address is 545 to 548 Bible House, New York, and any of our readers who desire to avail themselves of this exceptional opportunity will do well not to hesitate, but to write the genial Doctor to-day concerning their wishes.

CHRISTIAN HERALD

AND SIGNS OF OUR TIMES

FULL OF PICTURES. 52 TIMES A YEAR.

Published Every Wednesday, 52 Times a Year, at the Bible House, New York City. Louis Klopsch, Publisher.

A Beautiful Present from Dr. Talmage.

THE CHRISTIAN HERALD is always Bright, always Breezy, always Cheerful, always FULL OF PICTURES, always Printed on excellent Paper, Issued Fifty-two Times a Year and sure of a Hearty Welcome wherever it goes. It is First, Last, and all the time a Family Paper, and always Interests both Old and Young. DR. TALMAGE edits it in his Happiest Vein, and every number is Beautifully and Profusely Illustrated. You may have a really Happy Home, and yet without THE CHRISTIAN HERALD something is Lacking, for no Home is complete without it.

T. DeWitt Talmage

As to Attractive Features, there are so many that a few only can be mentioned here. NAPOLEON SARONY, of world-wide Fame, Contributes a series of peerless Illustrations. MARION HARLAND, whose pen has charmed multitudes, has written, for the Exclusive Use of THE CHRISTIAN HERALD, a NEW SERIAL Story that every man, woman and child should read. IRA D. SANKEY, whose name is a household word, contributes a CHARMING PIECE OF MUSIC to each issue. DR. TALMAGE'S SERMONS, and his stirring EDITORIALS, command the attention of the enlightened world. C. H. MEAD'S unequalled CHARACTER SKETCHES are so full of pathos and humor that they cause tears and laughter at the same time. DR. A. J. GORDON and DR. R. S. MAC ARTHUR are contributors who at once edify, entertain and instruct.

Marion Harland

In order to convince you that THE CHRISTIAN HERALD is the BRIGHTEST AND BEST PAPER, if you will send $2.00 TO-DAY, Dr. Talmage will send THE CHRISTIAN HERALD for ONE WHOLE YEAR, and a beautiful Cloth and Gilt Copy of

HIS LATEST AND GREATEST BOOK FREE!

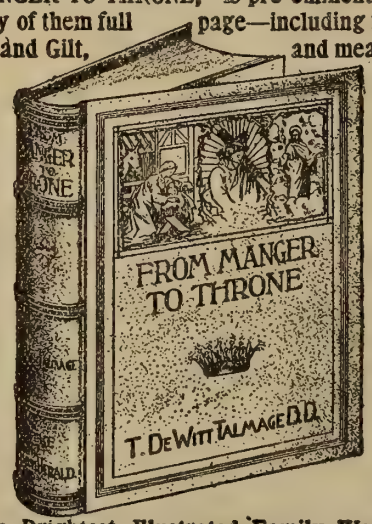
This Wonderful Book, entitled, "FROM MANGER TO THRONE," is pre-eminently THE Book of the Century. It Contains 544 large pages, with over 200 ENGRAVINGS, many of them full page—including full Half-tone Portrait of Dr. Talmage as he NOW looks. It is substantially Bound in Rich Cloth and Gilt, and measures, when open, from tip to tip 9 x 15 INCHES.

"FROM MANGER TO THRONE."

From Cover to Cover, this most Remarkable Book is a VERITABLE PICTURE GALLERY, full of delightful surprises. It is Printed from LARGE TYPE on Toned Paper and Handsomely Bound in CLOTH and GILT. It has heretofore never been offered at less than $3.75.

Besides being a New Life of the Saviour, it contains Dr. Talmage's vivid Account of his Journey "TO, THROUGH, AND FROM THE HOLY LAND," in which he practically brings Palestine to the Doors of Multitudes who may never see the CHRIST-LAND in any other way.

Many of the Illustrations contained in this great work are from Photographs taken on the spot by Dr. Talmage's party. One of these represents Dr. Talmage Baptizing a Candidate in the Jordan, another shows him Tasting the Waters of the Dead Sea, and in still another we see him on the back of a huge Camel traveling in Egypt.



MARION HARLAND

HAS GONE TO THE HOLY LAND for THE CHRISTIAN HERALD to study HOME LIFE in PALESTINE and Syria. Her Journey covers over 20,000 MILES.

She will write on this subject EXCLUSIVELY for THE CHRISTIAN HERALD, and every line will be protected by Copyright. She will describe a CHRISTMAS in BETHLEHEM, a WEDDING at CANA, HOUSEKEEPING in BETHANY, a SAIL on LAKE GALILEE, a WEEK in NAZARETH, a FUNERAL at NAIN, a WOMAN'S LIFE in PALESTINE from the day she is BORN to the day of her Death, including both of these important events.

These articles will be graphically Illustrated by PHOTO-TYPES, taken by Marion Harland herself, with the aid of a special PHOTOGRAPHIC OUTFIT.

What a privilege it will be to read all this from the pen of OUR OWN, ever popular MARION HARLAND!

Remember THE CHRISTIAN HERALD, the Brightest Illustrated Family Weekly in the World, and "FROM MANGER TO THRONE," the most wonderful Book of the Century, may EACH BE SENT TO SEPARATE ADDRESSES. "FROM MANGER TO THRONE" was never sold for less than $3.75, and as WE PRE-PAY Full Express Charges in every instance, we are Offering you

Sarony

TWO BEAUTIFUL PRESENTS WORTH $5.50 FOR $2.

You cannot invest $2 anywhere to better advantage. THE CHRISTIAN HERALD always makes Friends wherever it goes. It Endears itself to the Hearts of the People. It brings Sunshine and Happiness to every Home it Enters. Its Weekly Visits are Occasions for Family Rejoicing. Try it Just Once, and Next Year you will need no Coaxing. When you write, Address

T. DeWitt Talmage

545 to 548 Bible House, New York City

MONEY REFUNDED IF TOO LATE FOR this wonderful PREMIUM.

Ira D. Sankey

Christian Cynosure.

"IN SECRET HAVE I SAID NOTHING."—Jesus Christ.

VOL. XXVI., No. 14 CHICAGO, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1893. WHOLE No. 1,233.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION,

221 West Madison Street, Chicago.

SUBSCRIPTIONS PER YEAR..... $2.00
IF PAID STRICTLY IN ADVANCE..... 1.50

☞ No paper discontinued unless so requested by the subscriber, and all arrearages paid. ☜

Address all letters for publication to EDITOR CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE, CHICAGO. Writers' names must always be given. No manuscript returned unless requested and postage enclosed.

Make all drafts and money orders payable to the Treasurer, W. I. PHILLIPS, 221 WEST MADISON STREET, CHICAGO. When possible make remittances by express money order. Currency by unregistered letter at sender's risk. When writing to change address on Cynosure list always give the former address.

[Entered at the Postoffice, Chicago, Ill. as Second Class Matter.]

CONTENTS.

EDITORIAL:
Notes and Comments.... 1
New Testimony in the Cronin Murder Case... 8
The Trend of Politics ... 8
Masonic Misrepresentations Corrected..... 8
The Hawaii Affair..... 8
Notes and News from Business Letters 9
Drawing the Lines..... 9
CONTRIBUTIONS:
Lines on my Birthday (Poetry) 1
The Work of Reform as it Relates to Individuals and Churches..... 1
Christ the King 3
NEW ENGLAND LETTER..... 4
WASHINGTON LETTER..... 4
SELECTED:
Public Free Schools Defended 3
REFORM NEWS:
From the New England Secretary 5
CORRESPONDENCE:
The Kingdoms of Cæsar and Christ Contrasted. 5
IN BRIEF..... 7
AGENTS AND LECTURERS.... 7
THE N. C. A..... 7
THE HOME.....10
TEMPERANCE.....11
BIBLE LESSON.....12
LITERATURE.....12
RELIGIOUS NEWS.....12
NEWS OF THE WEEK.....13
HOME AND HEALTH.....14
FARM NOTES.....15

NEW ENGLAND CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

CALL FOR THE ANNUAL CONVENTION.

The Annual Convention of the New England Christian Association opposed to secret societies will be held in the Bromfield M. E. Church, Boston, beginning Dec. 20, at 2 P. M., and continuing through the following day and evening.

The program will be given later.

Let every friend of the cause in New England make an effort to be present.

J. M. FOSTER, Pres.

E. E. FLAGG, Sec.

A note from Pres. J. M. Foster, Boston, December 5, speaking of the approaching New England Christian Association's convention, states that they are doing all they can to make it a success. This is good news.

The Treasurer of the N. C. A. returns appreciative thanks to those patrons of the Cynosure who, in response to his recent appeals, have promptly liquidated their indebtedness, and hopes that others who are still in arrears may exhibit equal promptitude by forwarding remittances at once. The exigencies of the times require the collection of every cent that is due us.

Last week, after the summary dismissal of another incompetent juror, the trial of Coughlin proceeded. The presentation of the case by the State's Attorney was a scorching condemnation of the evidence with which the prisoner will be confronted. Following the prosecution, attorney for the defense dwelt long upon the worthlessness of circumstantial evidence. In the course of his address to the jury, however, he made an admission that Dr. Cronin was murdered. Heretofore this has been denied. The admission will save the prosecution unnecessary trouble in proving the crime. As to the murderers, their identity seems assured.

The United States Postoffice authorities, believing that the numerous "bond and investment companies" in the Western States and Territories, and in other places, are as fraudulent institutions as lotteries (as they hold out "chance" inducements to their patrons), have determined to suppress them; and orders have been issued to prevent these concerns from either sending or receiving letters, circulars, prospectuses, etc., through the mails. The government's "black list" covers fifty-two of these companies. We shall have more to say upon this subject next week.

Anarchism, during the past week, has been obtrusively demonstrated in Spain, France and England, and several persons have been severely injured by the throwing of dynamite bombs. Arrests have followed. The general tenor of feeling is that these demonstrations of Anarchists and Socialists have only an ephemeral holding, and little fear is expressed of anything more than incidental hostilities. An alliance of European nations for the suppression of anarchism would soon stamp it out. But these irregularities serve to indicate how subtle and dangerous are secret organizations in any country.

That the country needs a new general law regulating bankruptcies—one that shall be equitable alike to bankrupts and their creditors—is patent to every business man; but it seems impossible to get such a bill before Congress with any probability of its passage. The "Torrey bill," which has been under consideration for one or more sessions, has just been defeated in the House, whose members, it is reported, feared that it opened a door for frauds. No such bill should be tolerated, of course. Now let one be framed that will wisely meet all the requirements of an honest debtor and no other.

We have seldom seen a better exemplification of the boasted "benevolence" of Freemasonry than the following, which refers to the new and "grand" Masonic Home at Utica, N. Y., of which city it is the towering pride. We copy it from a recent issue of the Richfield Springs (N. Y.) Mercury:

The following strict requirements are enforced when a candidate for admission to the Masonic Home appears: A widow whose husband was a member of a lodge in this jurisdiction, and in good standing at the time of his death, in destitute circumstances, unable to earn a livelihood, of good character, free from insanity, epilepsy, paralysis, scrofula, phthisis or other forms of disease requiring special medical treatment or a constant attendant, of temperate habits, not addicted to the use of narcotics, and without relatives who by process of law can be compelled to contribute to her support, will be admitted to the Home. If admitted she must agree to comply with the regulations and perform such duties as may be assigned for her own and the comfort of other inmates.

Those persons who are tempted to believe that "the lodge is more charitable than the churches" should use this item as an object-lesson of rare discrimination. The same paper notes that "the Richfield Springs orchestra has been engaged to furnish music for a series of eight parties, to be given by the Bridgewater Masonic lodge." The destitute widow of the Masonic Home will not be invited to attend.

Since the story of Mrs. Foy's connection with the Cronin murder as a witness, as related in another column, some other particulars, the whole covering nine and a half columns of last Monday's Herald, have been given to the public—including, it is claimed, all her knowledge of the case. Among the additional essential facts developed are the connection of Coughlin with the murder; the important parts played by him, Cooney "the Fox," and Burke, together with the production of a letter ordering the "removal" of Cronin—the handwriting of which she readily recognized as that of one whose name is withheld from the printed statement. Mrs. Foy is described as "a bright, intelligent woman, respectable and refined," but who, through the connivance of her husband with the enemies of Dr. Cronin, was brought into intimate acquaintance with the facts which she relates. We shall endeavor to print the more salient points of her new testimony, which is likely to lead to a full exposition of the crime and its perpetrators.

The great strike on the Lehigh system of railroads embraced thousands of train and track men, obliging the company to supply their places with non-union and incompetent employes. The result proved disastrous, inasmuch as the Wyoming division, it was stated, was strewn with disabled engines and wrecks of cars, while losses of lives and limbs along the line added to the discouragements of the situation. The strikers, also, succeeded in inducing many of the new men to leave the company while it was thus sadly crippled. But the strike was finally settled, and it has been declared off, and the union men have returned to work. The question is, who is responsible for all this trouble, waste and loss? If there were no secret labor unions, whose principles and practices are tyrannical and barbarous, possessing power to cripple great corporations; if non-union laborers could enjoy, as they should, the advantages which are usurped by the unions; if the unions did not in many ways invade the personal rights of other men; if they did not destroy the right of private judgment in their own members and rule them with an iron rod; if they were conciliatory rather than aggressive; if capitalists had any rights which the unions were bound to respect, the country would be saved the miserable spectacle which the Lehigh system recently presented.

LINES ON MY BIRTHDAY.

BY THOMAS HENRY.

Through many changes spared to see
This year of mercy, ninety-three,
My day of birth returns once more,
The seventh of August, as before;
Three circling years would bring four-score.
Truly indeed the Scriptures say
'Tis weary labor every day;
In climbing up the hill of life,
Youth bravely faces toil and strife;
Descending to the shadowy vale
The heart and flesh are like to fail;
But hope affords a cheering ray,
Chasing foreboding fears away.
Peace doth the upright soul befriend;
He knows his sorrows soon will end.
Good works imperfect are indeed
To lean upon—a broken reed.
Happy the man—'tis on record—
Whose hope alone is in the Lord.

London, Eng.

THE WORK OF REFORM AS IT RELATES TO INDIVIDUALS AND THE CHURCHES.

[Address of Rev. L. Mendenhall at the Hopkinton Convention of the Iowa State Christian Association, Nov. 14, 1893. Published by request of the society.]

No person is properly qualified to be a reformer until he is reformed himself. "Physician, heal thyself" is no less a proverb now than it was in the days of Christ. The remedy by which he was healed can best be recommended by his own cure. To be spiritual oculists, we must first have our own vision restored. "First cast out the beam out of thine own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye." If we live in glass-houses and throw stones, our adversaries will certainly demolish our dwellings. The Apostle Paul could appeal to God and man as to the genuineness of his reformation. He labored earnestly in behalf of the Thessalonians, and he said to them, "Ye are witnesses, and God also, how holily, and justly, and unblamably we behaved ourselves among you that believed."

The great agency that God has ordained for the reformation of individuals is the Gospel of Jesus Christ. The command is to go into all the world and preach it to every creature. The obligation is to preach it to that creature that is the lowest down in the scale of humanity, as well as to the one that is the highest up.

This agency never has failed, and never will, if properly used. Through the preaching of the Gospel on the day of Pentecost three thousand souls were converted to God. The power of Spirit-baptized truth, on this occasion, proved its sufficiency to overcome the most formidable prejudice that could ever oppose it. The Apostle Peter preached the Gospel of a Christ who had been condemned and executed by the Roman government. His crucifixion, as a malefactor between two thieves, was well known in all Jerusalem. It was here that the Gospel of Christ won its first grand victory after the descent of the Holy Spirit. This victory did not end with the day of Pentecost, but "the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved."

Under the apostle's sermon, at the time just stated, the Jews who had "by wicked hands .... crucified and slain" Jesus, were "pricked in their hearts," and said, "Men and brethren, what shall we do?" Is it not possible in this age of the world with the same Gospel to prick in the heart those who have crucified our Lord in the secret lodge?

In the preaching of the Gospel the apostles were eminently successful as reformers. When certain of them came to Thessalonica and commenced to preach, a mob was raised that cried: "These that have turned the world upside down are come hither also." They had heard, no doubt, of the wonderful reformation that was taking place wherever they labored. Their conception of this reformation was the turning of the world "upside down,"—the truth being that they were turning it back to its right position.

The moral forces that are revolutionizing the world have been set in motion by the Gospel. This is the radiating center, and its circumference embraces every individual that may hear its glad tidings. The Apostle Paul felt inspired with confidence when he preached it in Rome. He had felt its power on his own heart, who had been according to his testimony the "chief" of sinners, and at one time breathed out "threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord." All the science and philosophy he had learned at the feet of his noted instructor, he knew, could not have effected the great change wrought in him by this wonderful Gospel. The ethics of the philosophers, in this place, had signally failed to save men from the bad impulses of their nature. These philosophers had good reason to be ashamed of the weakness of their philosophy when brought to a practical test. Paul knew the Gospel could accomplish the full purpose of its mission. It was this confidence that caused him to say: "I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." There could be no failure in this scheme of reformation. He recognized the omnipotent power engaged to make it a success. The potency it possessed nearly nineteen centuries ago has not weakened through the lapse of time. Then it was tested by a man in his last moments while suffering the extreme penalty of the Roman law. Wholly unfit for the society of the good on earth, he was much less qualified for a place among the saints in light. He had no time for a gradual reformation; if reformed at all it must be done in a brief space of time. With a penitent heart and faith in the power of Christ he prayed: "Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom." The answer was not delayed, but immediately the dying Saviour said: "To-day shalt thou be with me in paradise." What a wonderful change in so short a time! A few hours before, an outlaw, a thief,—not deserving a place in respectable society; now assured that the day would not expire before he would be with Christ "in paradise."

The reformatory power of the Gospel has been tested by untold numbers. Its triumphs date back to its first promulgation, and reach down through all the ages; and will move on to the end of the dispensation of grace. The Apostle Paul, in his first letter to the Corinthians, pays a high eulogy to its reformatory power. He says to them that "thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners shall inherit the kingdom of God;" and yet he declares to them: "And such were some of you; but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified in the name of the Lord Jesus, and by the Spirit of our God."

We will now consider reform work as it relates to the churches.

Every branch of the church of Christ should uncompromisingly oppose what is condemned by the Word of God. This should be the basis as far as church discipline relates to moral conduct and religious belief. The rules of conduct ought not to be confined to the letter of the Word, but to whatever is enjoined or condemned by its Spirit. Wherever moral principles can be traced, church discipline should enforce the right.

All persons admitted into church-fellowship should be previously examined as to their willingness to be governed by the rules of the church. It is not safe to admit persons who are not in harmony with the church government; or who hold erroneous views; or who hold entangling alliances which may prove subversive of the spiritual welfare of themselves or of the church of God. To "keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace" it is necessary to "be of one mind." Christian fellowship can only exist according to to the well-known law governing affinities. How can he that believes in Christ have fellowship with infidels, and institutions that ignore his name, and profess to have no need of his grace, but by other agencies can erect in their hearts "a spiritual temple (fit) for the indwelling of God?" Should the church of Christ receive such persons into its fellowship? Certainly the terms of admission ought to bar them from membership. That church is fallen and needs to be reformed which, in violation of the Word of God and its own rules, will join hands with the "throne of iniquity" and "have fellowship" with those "which frame mischief by law." I have been informed within the last year by a member of a church that has a rule barring from membership all persons connected with secret societies, that such persons were being received into the society where he belonged. He also stated that he did not believe their church could be secured for the purpose of lecturing against the lodge. A prominent member of the same church told me a few weeks ago that in a conversation, while on a journey with one of their ministers, this minister's attitude toward the secret lodge could not be ascertained. I am credibly informed of another case where a minister of the same denomination went out of his way to invite a noted secretist to the sacrament of the Lord's table. Is it not true that he that is not for this system of iniquity is against it? It is an indisputable fact that some of our churches are letting down the bars and members of the secret fraternities are jumping into the sheep-fold. Wherever they have crept in as wolves in sheep's clothing, they ought, as soon as detected, to be cast out of the fold. If a member like "the sow that was washed" return to "his wallowing in the mire" of secretism let him be promptly ejected.

Ananias and Sapphira joined the early Christian church. It was not long till they entered into a secret compact to "conceal and never reveal." To keep their obligation they lied to God and man. The Lord saved the church the trouble of expelling them from membership by striking them dead in the act of keeping their obligation. The doors of our churches are not guarded by the flaming sword of death to strike down vile intruders; but God's ministers are the sentinels to guard the sacred inclosure, and if the wolf enter and destroy the sheep their blood will be required at the ministers' hands.

The fallen church of Ephesus excluded false apostles; it "tried them that say they are apostles, and are not," and "found them liars." It is not improbable that these lying apostles taught secretly the doctrines of the Nicolaitans; who taught that adultery and fornication "were things indifferent, that eating meats offered to idols was quite lawful, and mixed several pagan rites with the Christian ceremonies." There is a striking analogy between their teaching and practice and that of some of the modern secret orders. Are not adultery and fornication taught to be things indifferent by that institution which swears its members not to violate the chastity of each other's wives and daughters, but seemingly excuses this offence if done through ignorance? Has not the same institution mixed heathen rites with Christian ceremonies, as it claims to have borrowed much from the ancient mysteries? The church of Ephesus, after it had left its "first love," would not tolerate within its pale the adherents of such a corrupt system.

The churches of Pergamos and Thyatira had fallen so low as to retain in their membership those who held "the doctrine of Balaam," and taught the people "to eat things sacrificed to idols." They were no more deeply fallen into disfavor with God than are those churches that now have a membership that, in part at least, worship at rival altars, and drink wine out of a human skull.

Think of a church entering into partnership with a system of religion that would have men believe that without Christ they may by their rites "grow still more wise into salvation." That when duly initiated, according to its teaching, the person becomes "a divine spiritual man," and is taught that "on the night of his initiation he commences the great task, which is never in his future life to be discontinued, of erecting in his heart a spiritual temple for the indwelling of God." Such a church has entered into league with the enemies of Christ; laying another foundation for salvation than the one he has laid; opening another door to heaven than the one he has opened, and thus becoming thieves and robbers of his glory.

Christ's church is the light of the world, and the salt of the earth. The secret lodge system is the putrefying element of society, and the outer darkness of perdition that is blinding the minds of men. In the true church of God the Son receives equal honor with the Father; so that institution which "honoreth not the Son, honoreth not the Father which hath sent him."

The lapse of churches has necessitated from time to time the organization of reformed ones. The Jewish church was divinely instituted, and yet it fell into gross idolatry. When the Saviour came into the world he found it much needed a reformation. The doctors of the law were blind leaders of the blind. Possibly they had been hoodwinked in some secret lodge. The hypocritical Pharisees blew a trumpet before them when they gave alms; just as secret society men do when they make a show of beneficence. They profaned the temple of the Lord with merchandise, and by the tradition of the elders had set aside the law of God. Secretists do not hesitate to profane God's house by an array of battle-axes and swords, and symbols of pagan rites; and by their teaching make void the Word of God which commands us "to do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith." Jesus taught the brotherhood of mankind, as is illustrated in the Good Samaritan who so tenderly cared for the man who had been beaten and robbed by thieves; while he condemned the inhumanity of those members of the Jewish church that passed on either side of him and would not lend a helping hand because the poor victim was not an adherent of their order. Jesus so changed the order of things that they charged him with "perverting the nation."

Churches that have been organized under the Christian dispensation, as we have seen, have needed to be reformed.

Martin Luther and a host of others have been God's appointed agents to lead them out of the darkness which came upon them.

The indications now are that the majority of the churches of our nation are controlled by the secret lodge. How many pulpits dare enter a protest against the encroachments of this secret empire? Churches that have in the past borne testimony against this work of darkness, and refused to receive its adherents into church fellowship, are being brought under the power of this wicked system. If the churches to which we belong still stand firm in their testimony and discipline against secretism, it is no time to sleep. It was while men slept that the enemy sowed tares. We must uncompromisingly declare against this evil from our pulpits. We must zealously guard our church doors against the admission of this wolf among the flock of Christ.

The purity of the individual membership is the only guarantee against spiritual declension and the withdrawal of the divine presence on account of having fellowship with the works of darkness. The apostolic injunction, "Keep thyself pure," has its application individually and collectively. The governmental department of the church is important and has its place; but when it stands alone, without a holy membership, or the overshadowing presence of the Almighty, it is empty ritualism, or "as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal."

The highest ideal expressed in the Scriptures is that of "a glorious church" not having "spot or wrinkle, or any such thing, but.....holy and without blemish." It was for this purpose that Christ "gave himself" that he might "purify unto himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works." "Unto him be glory in the church..... throughout all ages, world without end. Amen."

Fairfield, Iowa.

CHRIST THE KING.

BY REV. J. M. FOSTER.

The Scriptures exalt Christ as King. In the garden of Eden he was revealed as a conqueror trampling upon the neck of his enemy. In Melchisedek he was set forth as a Priest-King upon his throne. His coming was in his regal character. "Go forth, O daughter of Zion, and behold King Solomon with the crown wherewith his mother crowned him in the day of his espousals." He was born "King of the Jews." He entered Jerusalem as King, meek and lowly, and sitting upon an ass. He was tried before Pilate as King. He suffered upon the cross as King. He ascended to heaven and was exalted to the throne of universal dominion, angels and authorities and powers being made subject to him.

I. His investiture with regal authority and powers. In the councils of eternity he was appointed King. "I have appointed unto you a kingdom, as my Father hath appointed me." "The goings forth" of the King were from of old, from everlasting. "I was set up—appointed—from the beginning." In the fullness of time his appointment was publicly acknowledged in the unction of the Holy Spirit. "God, even thy God, hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows." The authority with which he was invested made all his garments to "smell of myrrh and aloes, and cassia, out of the ivory palaces." But it was at his coronation that his regal power was openly and formally acknowledged. Then "he sat down on the right hand of the majesty on high," "far above all principality and power, might and dominion, and every name that is named, not only in this world, but in that which is to come;" "a sceptre of righteousness" was placed in his right hand, "a crown of pure gold" was set upon his brow, "thousands and thousands ministered unto him, and ten thousand times ten thousand stood before him." His chariots were twenty thousand, even thousands of angels;" on his vesture and on his thigh a name was written: "King of kings and Lord of lords," and the whole universe was made to ring with the loud acclaim: "Worthy is the Lamb."

II. The character and essence of the meditorial dominion. It is not an earthly and temporal, but a spiritual and eternal, kingdom. "My kingdom is not of this world." It is spiritual in its origin, "the kingdom of heaven;" in its subjects, "ye are not of this world;" in its laws, "the law is spiritual;" in its end, "the kingdom of God is not meat and drink, but righteousness and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost;" and in its administration, "it is not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord." Its officers are spiritual, for they are clothed, not with magistratical, but ministerial, authority. They bear, not the "sword," but "the keys of the kingdom of heaven." Its army is spiritual, "good soldiers of the cross of Christ." Its weapons of warfare, offensive and defensive, are spiritual: the Bible, the sharp two-edged sword, which proceedeth out of his mouth, who is Alpha and Omega, the arrows of the King which pierce the hearts of the King's enemies; the cross, "the power of God and the wisdom of God;" and the immaculate life of him whose meat and whose drink it was "to do the will of him that sent him." "The weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but they are mighty through God to the pulling down of strongholds." And its sphere is the heart and conscience; "the kingdom of God is within you."

We are not to suppose, however, that the dominion of the reigning Mediator is limited to his covenant people. His kingdom is in the world, though not of it, and is capable of being affected favorably or unfavorably by earthly and temporal powers; therefore he has been made "head over all things to his church." The purpose for which this universal power is exercised determines its character. Its object is spritual, "to his church." It follows then that his unlimited dominion is spiritual. This is apparent. "He was put to death in the flesh; he was quickened by the Spirit." That seems to mean this: He was put to a violent death. As a reward for his suffering, he received the Holy Ghost. He was quickened spiritually. He was made a quickening spirit. He received the resources and energy of the Holy Ghost. Accordingly he said: "If I go not away the Comforter will not come. But if I depart, I will send him unto you." And on the day of Pentecost, Peter quoted Joel's prophecy and said: "Christ hath shed forth this." All the resources, energy and operations of the Holy Spirit are subject to Christ, the mediatorial King. The operations of the Spirit are two-fold: common and gracious. The first is universal, the second is limited to the covenant people of God. The Spirit brooded upon the waters, reducing the chaos to the cosmos. The Spirit moulded and beautified this world and garnished the heavens. He gathered the sea in its bounds and cut out the channels for the rivers. He produced the trees and flowers and grain, and beasts and birds and fishes. He breathed into man's nostrils the breath of life. He gives to men genius and wisdom and understanding. He gave Bezaleel wisdom to devise all manner of cunning work in gold and silver and brass. The genius of the poet, the wisdom of the philosopher, the statesman, the general, the mechanic, the historian, the scientist, come from the Spirit. The political and social, civil and national order, are the work of the Spirit. He leads men to discover the resources of the earth, gold, and silver, and brass, and iron, coal, oil and gas. The invention of the mariner's compass, of printing, of the steam-engine, the electric dynamo, telegraph and telephone, are the operation of the Spirit. The abundant harvest is his blessing. The famine is the withdrawal of his energy. The pestilence, the plague, the tornado, earthquake, fire and war, are due to the withdrawal of his almighty restraining power, allowing the forces of the evil to work their work for a time. Every thing good is produced by the Spirit. All evil is the result of his saving, protecting, quickening power being temporarily and partially stayed. But all these operations of the Spirit are subject to the authority of the King of kings. So it is apparent that his dominion is spiritual.

III. The unlimited extent of his mediatorial dominion. In the second chapter of Hebrews, Paul quotes the eighth Psalm, then proves that David referred to Christ. "Thou madest him a little lower than the angels; thou crownedst him with glory and honor, and didst set him over the work of thy hands; thou hast put all things in subjection under his feet." This language cannot refer to man in his fallen state, for as a matter of fact all things are not subject to him. "We see not yet all things put under him. But we see Jesus, who for the suffering of death was crowned with glory and honor." "All things are delivered unto me of my Father." "All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth." "And hath put all things under his feet and gave him to be head over all things to his church." "The head of all principality and power." The words "delivered," "put," "gave," "given," mark this as mediatorial power; and "all," "all things," "all power," express its universality in the largest sense. His dominion extends from the roofless heavens to the bottomless pit.

IV. The endless duration of the mediatorial dominion. Paul's declaration that in the end he shall deliver up the kingdom unto the Father, seems to put a period upon it. But that passage must interpret itself. In the same connection it is said: "Then shall the Son also himself be subject to him that put all things under him, that God may be all in all." It is only in his mediatorial character that the Son can be subject to the Father. He must, then, continue to be mediator through all eternity. But he cannot be mediator without retaining his mediatorial offices. Eternally he will make fresh revelations of the Father's glory to his people. Eternally he will be the medium of communication between the Father and his people. Eternally he will receive the homage of the redeemed as King. "Delivering up the kingdom," therefore, according to the best critics, means bringing it to completion and exhibiting it before the Father in the report of his perfect work. He will appear before the Father with his bride to have the nuptials celebrated. "Rejoice and be exceeding glad, for the marriage supper of the Lamb is come, and his wife hath made herself ready."

"She cometh to the king, in robes with needle wrought;
The virgins that do follow her shall unto thee be brought."

The fact is, Christ must reign to the judgment to put his enemies beneath his feet, and then he must reign through all eternity to keep them there. He must reign till the end to bring his people to glory, and then he must reign through all eternity, as the medium of their approach to the Father, the source of their holiness and blessedness, and as the reward of his completed work. "Thy throne, O God, is forever and ever." "Thy kingdom is an everlasting kingdom."

Boston, Mass.

PUBLIC FREE-SCHOOLS DEFENDED.

An appeal to American citizens by the "National League for the Protection of American Institutions" in behalf of the American free common school system, has been issued and given to the press. It is as follows:

"The practice of nations in the support of schools where the union of church and state prevails furnishes no precedent for the United States. We are not looking to monarchies for instruction concerning the best training of youth to fit them for citizenship in this republic.

"Popular suffrage here rests for its safe exercise upon the character and intelligence of all classes of the people. The republic, for its own preservation, has established and must insist upon maintaining a free common-school system of education.

"It must be maintained without compromise. It is the only institution capable of converting the dangerously heterogeneous elements of our population into a safely homogeneous citizenship. The tax for the maintenance of public schools, levied upon all citizens, whether they have children to educate or not, is for the public good and not for private benefit. The state opens its schools with equal advantages to the children of all its citizens. Its laws make no distinction as to the creed of the individual in the choice of its teachers.

"The state does not deny the right to parents, organizations or churches, to establish and maintain private or parochial schools at their own expense.

"A movement, however, with audacious commands and spacious claims, has been initiated in the State of New York for the division of the public-school funds on sectarian lines, and it is announced that the same program is proposed for all the States. That this has mainly in view selfish and not public ends is shown by the fact that the movement is being pushed almost exclusively by a single denomination, which for many years, by its chief authorities, has been assaulting the public-school system. A few of its more liberal representatives have tolerated the system and have sought in many ways to control it. Every compromise, however, between sectarian and public schools, which has previously been tried, has invariably resulted in the humiliating surrender of some vital principle of public-school education.

"It is undoubtedly true that a majority of the citizens of even the denomination making these demands prefer the public schools for their children and patronize them whenever free to do so. It is unquestionably true that a full proportion of the teachers in these public schools are attached to the church which by many of its officials antagonizes this common-school system.

"We appeal to all loyal American citizens to cooperate in every feasible way in the defense of the American free, public-school system, on which the safety of the republic and the peace and prosperity of the citizens so largely depend.

NEW ENGLAND LETTER.

A liturgy for Unitarians —A Laodicean church.—The Nathan Hale statue.—Harvard and the Annex.—Remarkable utterances of President Eliot.—Protestant churches and Rome.

It was said of the speakers at a recent theosophic convention, that "they seemed to fight shy of definitions of all sorts." It is remarkable that just in proportion as people drift away from truth it becomes almost impossible to get them to define their belief with any exactness, though they are free enough to tell us what they don't believe. They are always at the negative, never at the positive, end of the pole. Our forefathers, on the contrary, never "fought shy of definitions." They may have often held erroneous theories; they were often harsh, unjust, intolerant, but at least they knew what they believed; they had a firm foothold on the bed-rock of eternal truth, and never drifted aimlessly about like so many of their descendants who cannot tell where the boundaries of their religious faith begin or end. Many of the most prominent leaders among the Unitarians are beginning to see that here their weakness as a denomination lies, and, in consequence, are agitating the question whether they shall adopt a liturgy. A meeting was recently held to debate the expediency of this new departure, but the result seemed to prove that New England Unitarians are not quite ready for the step, and that, in fact, it would be nearly if not quite impossible to compile a liturgy which would suit all the members, some of whom stand at the farthest limit of the most advanced liberalism, while others could hardly be distinguished from the most orthodox Congregationalist.

But is this movement towards written prayers, and responsive readings, a part of the same great current which is so powerfully affecting our own Congregational churches in the direction of a more elaborate ritual; and does it proceed, in both cases, from a lack of that spiritual inspiration without which all worship must necessarily run to forms? Perhaps it may be apropos in this connection to write of a first-class church social, lately held in the Garden City of New England (Newton), which opened with an amateur play in the church parlors, followed by a collation, and the whole concluding with a dance, of which a regular printed order was furnished; —certainly a very striking picture of the old Laodicean church revived, and coquetting with the world, while the world says all manner of flattering things about her to her face, while holding her up to the ridicule of her enemies behind her back.

If our heroes and great men sometimes have to wait a long time for their statues, they generally get a tardy recognition at last, like the young patriot and martyr, Nathan Hale. Though his death occurred within the limits of New York, he was a New Englander, born in Connecticut, and a graduate of Yale. Had he not been so mercilessly cut off in the morning of his days, and had his life been lengthened out to threescore and ten, how much good the brave, earnest soul of the young divinity student might have accomplished. That is our human way of thinking. At the same time, as a country minister, his name would have gone down on the tide of oblivion, unremembered among the vast majority to whom posterity erects no statue. None of our great men so honored have been more fortunate than he in having such a kinsman as Rev. Edward Everett Hale to be the spokesman of the occasion; —a man who shares with Dr. Holmes the reputation of being the best-beloved man of letters in New England. I remember, many years ago, receiving from him a note of kindly appreciation, and still more kindly criticism, which few in the heighth of their reputation, and with unlimited pressure of calls on his time and pen, would have taken the trouble to write to a young and unknown author. The best part of his "Ten Times One is Ten" is that he himself is a living illustration of the famous motto of the Harry Wadsworth Club: "To look up and not down, forward and not back, and to lend a hand." There is plenty of opportunity to make use of this motto at the present time, when it is estimated that there are about forty thousand persons in Boston alone out of employment. A Napoleon would project public works on a gigantic scale, and tax the rich to pay for them. The great sociological problem, how to give work to the unemployed in times like the present, only grows harder, and sterner, and grimmer with every financial crisis.

Speaking of statues, the silver statue of Justice, which was Montana's chief exhibit at the World's Fair, is now in Boston. But the question must arise in the minds of many who go to view it, whether this modern conception of Justice, who seems to think of nothing higher than to weigh gold and silver in a balance, is not a rather material kind of a goddess, whose attitude is unpleasantly suggestive of bribe-taking; and also why an actress should have been chosen for the model instead of one of the many representative American woman whose features would have served the purpose just as well?

The endowment fund of $250,000, which the Harvard overseers made the condition of incorporating the Annex with the University, has been raised, and henceforth the young women-students can share collegiate honors with their brothers; in which respect Harvard will be ahead of Oxford in England, where the lady-students must still be satisfied with a diploma and no degrees.

It is a pity that the President of Harvard College should have allowed himself to be over-persuaded, and against his own inclinations—for so he told the assembled thousands—attended the annual No-license meeting in Cambridge. He is reported as saying: "I am a moderate drinker. I do not believe in prohibition. I am neither a prohibitionist nor total-abstainer. Moreover, I do not believe it a sin to drink alcohol in any form." While President Eliot is certainly to be commended for thus openly and frankly stating his views, what an example for the young men who look up to him as their instructor and guide! No wonder there is so much conviviality among a certain class of Harvard students; no wonder that so many who come from pure country homes, where the use of liquor except for medicinal purposes is unknown, should be tempted and fall. If President Eliot sees no harm in a social glass, why should they set up any higher moral standard for themselves? The wonder rather is that there are so many total-abstainers in Harvard, and that the success of the no-license movement in Cambridge is largely due, according to one of the speakers, to the efforts of men educated within her walls. One is tempted to wonder, in view of President Eliot's own confession, whether his Mormon speech, to say nothing of other almost equally remarkable utterances, was not an after-dinner effort, and inspired by the fumes of the wine-cup, in which, unlike a wiser than he, he seems to see no lurking serpent. It is simply lamentable.

The papers tell of a Greek priest who has been lately imprisoned in Constantinople for the dreadful crime of having in his possession a book which stated that when that city was taken by the Turks they treated the Christian inhabitants with great barbarity. Histories that tell the truth, it seems, are not more popular with "the unspeakable Turk" than with the Jesuit fathers of Boston. But isn't it time that while relaxing none of our efforts to save "the little red schoolhouse" from the clutch of Rome we should work and pray for the deliverance of our Protestant churches which are more deeply in her toils than is pleasant to think of. The churches in Lawrence have refused the use of their vestries for anti-Romanist lectures, a proceeding which has been duplicated by other cities and towns in New England, while the young people's societies have passed resolutions condemning in strong terms a certain temperance lecturer, who took occasion in the course of his address to tell some offensive truths about Rome and the rum traffic. Yet these churches were founded by men who bore witness against Rome in the face of the dungeon and the stake. Where is the old martyr spirit, or are we Pro*test*ants—we should think oftener what that word meant if we always let the emphasis rest on the second syllable—only in name?

"The fact is," says an exchaage, "there is a growing conviction that Rome has spies among all secret and fraternal orders, and many of these spies are on the Romanized press." This confession shows how futile are secret signs and grips to keep out the enemy. When will anti-Romanists learn, as so many Prohibitionists have had to by sad experience, that the only way to fight successfully the works of darkness is with light, turning it on in a brighter and brighter blaze as the conflict deepens?

ELIZABETH E. FLAGG.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6, 1893.

Those interested in the continued increase and maintenance of American missionaries in foreign countries were greatly relieved when President Cleveland's message to Congress was made public. It had been reported in the secular press that Secretary Gresham had expressed the opinion that Americans who went as missionaries to foreign countries should be made to look out for themselves, and not be given the protection of the United States government. Those who knew Mr. Cleveland were loth to believe that he entertained any such sentiments as those attributed to his Secretary of State; but in the absence of actual knowledge they could not help being more or less apprehensive. Except where it refers to Hawaii, the part of the President's message relating to foreign countries is in word and spirit all that the well-wishers of foreign missionary work could have asked it to be, and by making plain the intention of the administration to protect Americans engaged in missionary work it will doubtless cheer the hearts, as well as remove many obstacles from the pathway, of those who are abroad laboring in His Name.

The new tariff bill is the subject most discussed in Washington since the convening of Congress. The bill is not yet ready to be reported to the House of Representatives, and probably will not be until the middle of next week. It is considered probable that there will be two bills, one dealing with customs, which has already been made public, and one with internal revenue, which has not yet been announced by the Ways and Means committee. It is the latter which will include the "small tax upon incomes derived from certain corporate investments" mentioned in the President's message. It was at first thought strange that President Cleveland should have officially mentioned this tax in advance of the making public of the entire bill, and there was a general disposition to criticise his action; but it is now stated that he was informed that the majority of the committee had formally agreed upon that portion of the bill, and that when the information was given him the majority of the committee expected to have had the entire bill completed simultaneously with the publication of the President's message. On Monday, when the estimates of the Treasury department were submitted to the committee, it was seen that more revenue would have to be provided for than had been anticipated, and that necessitated changes in the internal revenue bill; hence, the delay. The country is to be congratulated upon the decision of the Republican Senators not to adopt fillibustering tactics to prevent a vote on the tariff bill when it reaches the Senate. A tariff dead-lock, similar to that upon the silver appeal bill at the extra session, would necessarily be disastrous to the business and industrial interests of the country in their present condition.

All-day dedicatory services were held last Sunday in the handsome new church edifice erected by the congregation of the Second Baptist church, and, like most undertakings of that enterprising denomination, they were successful and interesting.

Mrs. W. J. Weaver, one of the lecturers at the Lucy Webb Hayes Bible and Training School of Washington, who is widely known as "The Quaker Evangelist," is conducting a series of successful revival meetings at the Metropolitan M. E. Church. She holds two meetings a day, one in the afternoon and one in the evening.

The Woman's National Indian Association is holding its annual meeting here. The first session was held to-day; and to-night a public meeting is to be held to discuss the question of taking the Indian out of politics.

Rev. Dr. George Edward Reed, president of Dickinson College in Pennsylvania, preached an old-time Methodist sermon, last Sunday, at McKendree church, on "The Value and Power of Enthusiasm," his text being from Corinthians 5: 13, 14. He was especially bitter in condemnation of "those cold-blooded critics watching for grammatical blunders and inelegancies of manner, who," he said, "were throwing a damper over the more natural enthusiasts." "I would," he said, "that the Methodist church might have more of the shouting, exhorting, eager cohorts with which she has marched down the ages. Personally I admire the Salvation Army. Tambourines, drums, untuned fiddles, red waistcoats, marching bands—I honor the whole thing. I take off my hat to it on the streets. Say what you will of its grotesqueness, it is a great saving element for the dregs of society, which have seemed to be out of the reach of the churches in late years. By and by they will become proud and stiff as the Methodists they have succeeded; then there must be some other band for saving the outcasts of the world." *

FREEMASONRY ANALYZED BY PAPISTS.

"Satan and Company" is the title of a scathing review of Freemasonry, written in Spanish by Roman Catholics (one of whom at least—Paul Rosen—is said to be a Jesuit), for circulation in European and South American countries in which Freemasonry is gaining the ascendancy.

An American Masonic journal devotes about five columns of a recent issue to a partial translation of this remarkable book, which is more severe upon the Morgan-murdering fraternity than the Cynosure is apt to be. From this summary we have only room this week to give the "doctrine" of Freemasonry as developed in its official rituals: It is a glorification of vice; a glorification of atheism and anarchy; a glorification of vengeance; a glorification of evil; a glorification of all corruption; a glorification of perversity; a glorification of naturalism; a glorification of hypocrisy, and a glorification of Satan. Blue Lodge Masonry—Entered Apprentice, Fellow Craft and Master—shows a gradation in perversion—vicious representation of curiosity; vicious representation of ambition; vicious representation of pride—the whole a gradation in infamy. The initiation of the 33d degree (Scottish Rite) is thus classified: Part 1. Drama; 2. Giving of words; 3. Satan opening; 4. Satan teaching; 5. Satan directing; 6. Satan deified. The 31st degree is characterized as a vilification of justice; the 32d as a vilification of legality." The conclusions reached in this category of crimes is thus stated: "Freemasonry is a universal association which proposes the destruction of social order, realizing revolution by corruption. No danger so great has ever menaced the civilized world....Never has so great a number of conspirators guarded so well its secret, and never have we met with such great indifference among honorable people, who will be themselves the first victims of Freemasonry."

Remembering that this denunciation emanates from a papist and Jesuitical source, we should like to know the writer's opinion of the Society of Jesus, which has a character quite as uncanny as that here bestowed upon Masonry.

Taken altogether—what is here presented and that which we have omitted—this analyzation is a severe arraignment of the mystic fraternity. But is it any too severe?

GENERAL GRANT AND THE "KNOW-NOTHINGS."

In his "Memoirs" the General tells of his brief connection with a Know-Nothing lodge:

"Most of my neighbors in Galena, Ill., had known me as an officer in the army with Whig proclivities. They had been on the same side, and on the death of their party many had become Know-Nothings, or members of the American party. Their lodge was near by my new home, and I was invited to join it. I accepted the invitation. I attended a meeting just one week later, and never went to another afterwards....But all secret, oathbound political parties are dangerous to any nation, no matter how pure or how patriotic the motives and principles which first bring them together." Secrecy is no credit to any partisan or sectarian association; and the party which adopts secret methods to secure its ends is unworthy of the confidence of those whose patriotism burns quite as brightly, and whose ballots are cast openly in the interest of their country.

"Of Freemasons a Cynosurean says: 'What a fraudulent claim is theirs, that such a system can be a substitute for the pure Gospel of Christ!' Freemasonry makes no such claim."—Voice of Masonry.

No; Mackey's "Encyclopædia of Freemasonry" says (page 641): "Freemasonry is not Christianity, nor a substitute for it.." Christianity teaches that God alone has the power to destroy human life, or to permit its destruction by lawfully constituted public authorities. Masonry (a self-constituted, illegal authority) teaches that it has a right to murder its recalcitrant members, and does so at will. Christianity teaches that the power of the resurrection of the dead is vested alone in Christ. Masonry, in the third degree of the Blue Lodge, demonstrates that by "the strong grip of a Master Mason, or lion's paw," it can raise a dead man who has been buried fourteen days! If Masonry is not Christianity, its Master Mason's initiation ceremony is a miserable caricature of Christ and Christianity, and a blasphemous assumption of divine power.

REFORM NEWS.

FROM THE NEW ENGLAND SECRETARY.

BOSTON, Dec. 8, 1893.

The New England Christian Association's annual meeting, on the 20th and 21st inst, has special and general claims upon the attention and prayers of the friends in the West, as well as in the East. As many can testify, it has been a time of financial depression, from which, as yet, the relief is only partial, and not only the anti-secrecy, but every good cause, is struggling and appealing for aid; but we can say in New England, "hitherto the Lord hath helped us." That the enemy has been on the alert is evident from the aggressive movements of Jesuitism, the liquor oligarchy, the shameless prostitution of politics to partisan ends, the open traffic in the ballot, and multiplied wrecks of poverty, dissipation and crime, chronicled in the press and scattered, a moral pestilence, everywhere. The old Gospel landmarks of self-denial, repentance, new heart and simple, pure and practical godliness, seem to be historic and absolete, while the trend of the superficial masses is towards sports, games, festivals, entertainments, lotteries and what not, which receive large and ample support in patronage and money. This is doubtless a spasm, since "the Lord reigneth," and the deeper currents of thought and conscience will ultimately prevail. Multitudes, disappointed and dissatisfied with the "pleasures of sin," are turning away in disgust, to find in Christ the Saviour, the Reformer, and the only hope of the world—the poor and the rich alike—what the soul desireth.

Following that wonderful campaign of the Holy Spirit, under the generalship of Mr. Moody at the World's Fair, is an unwonted activity in evangelistic work, resulting in new hopes and the severing of old associations—the breaking of old yokes, and the putting on of new armor. This is notably true in the increased numbers who are obeying the royal proclamation, "come out from among them and be ye separate, and touch not the unclean thing, and I will receive you." The party, the priest and the lodge are losing their power to intimidate those who were once in dread of their secret vengeance, and it is more than a wild fancy to accept the present as the dawn of an emancipation era from that cringing "fear of man which bringeth a snare." Let us hope that the day is near when intelligent citizens will not tamely submit to foreign and priestly dictation, or calmly surrender their constitutional rights of private jndgment, free speech and the liberty of the press, at the behest of any lodge or party in the "secret empire of Freemasonry, or conclave of political bosses," or to any usurper sitting in "Satan's seat" at Rome or in America. Who, among the unwilling slaves of secret societies, is ready to trust in the God of Jacob, and follow Christ out of the lodge, as Bros. McIntire, Stephen Merritt, A. L. Curtis and a host of others have done, and come to the convention on the 20th and 21st inst, and encourage others by their testimony to "do likewise?" Surely no "lover of the Lord" is afraid, nor is he unwilling to make some sacrifice for the honor of his Master and his bride, the church.

An encourging feature is found in the attitude taken by leaders in religious thought and work. These pious men are grieved with the shifting, unstable tendency in church and state and studying the cause and remedy. There are some whose vision is clouded—"blinded by the god of this world;" others who, like Bro. Stephen Merritt, before his eyes were anointed, only "see men as trees walking;" and still others, who see the "mystery of iniquity," but are in doubt as to the best means to meet and overcome it; while, towering above expediency and personal consideration, away up in the mount of "faith in God," are heard warnings and entreaties from Joseph Cook, Dr. A. J. Gordon, James M. Gray, Benj. F. Trueblood, Rev. J. M. Foster, H. L. Hastings, and less public, but no less pointed, protests from Dr. I. J. Lansing, Dr. Addison P. Foster and Rev. M. D. Kneeland, who have set up their banner in the "name of the Lord of hosts" and cheering the armies on to victory. Surprises sometimes come to such men that provoke investigation, and when they find the key to the sanctuary held by a "hidden hand," and the church door opened or closed at the dictation of an insignificant minority, they naturally inquire what power is behind this minority giving it such assurance and boldness in the face of an overwhelming majority. Pastors who are "filled with the Spirit" will emulate the "patient man of Uz," who declared: "The cause which I knew not I searched out," and know whether or not the "Grand Masonic East" in the temple on the corner of Tremont and Boylston streets has its agents stationed at strategetic points to control in both church and state. Mercenaries and hirelings might passively assent to such a mixing of clay and brass, but the true Shepherd will give faithful warning "when he seeth the wolf coming," and will demonstrate that the old Gospel of Paul's day is still the wisdom and power of God, and that the "Word" is still the "sword of the Spirit."

When Moses came down from Mount Sinai, he found the "chosen people" engaged in "manly sports," dancing around a "golden calf" in the similitude of Egyptian worship. The shepherd of Horeb and prophet of Sinai did not stop to inquire about gate-fees or the repletion of the "Lord's treasury." Neither did he take a vote to learn the wish of a majority. He rebuked them sharply for their impiety, and put the question of loyalty on a straight test, "Who is on the Lord's side, let him come unto me." Our time is not wholly unlike to the time of Moses, and God is testing the people to show who is for his Son and who is against him. Aaron was a popular leader, but Moses was a true servant of God. Both are represented on the world's battlefield to-day. There are many test-questions and testing times, and may the Lord help us to stand true in every one of them; but I ask every friend of our dear, loving Lord whom the lodge neglects and rejects, and who can, to stand on the Lord's side and show your colors at Bromfield street church on the 20th and 21st inst. JAMES P. STODDARD.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE KINGDOMS OF CÆSAR AND CHRIST CONTRASTED.

ROGERS PARK, Ill., Dec. 4, 1893.

EDITOR CYNOSURE:—Not often in the past years of your welcome weekly visits has my indignation been so much aroused as it was on reading the quotations in the evidently deliberate falsehoods (from the American Tyler) regarding your highly esteemed founder, whose memory is so dear to all who ever breathed in his atmosphere. In his lifetime he had had much experience of evil-speaking against him in his dovotion to righteousness and his opposition to vice and wrong-doing.

Jesus suffered death by false accusers. If he was charged falsely as disloyal to Cæsar, why should we be surprised when the pure and precious memory of an honored chieftain like Jonathan Blanchard is falsely aspersed as a traitor to the lodge and its works of darkness? Note the difference in this case. Jesus was loyal to Cæsar as the civic ruler of state affairs, and told his disciples to pay their taxes to his collector. But President Blanchard was never a member of the lodge, nor could he ever be loyal to its rulers or members in any other sense than that of a doctor to a patient, or doing the work of a Good Samaritan by relieving them because they were his wounded "neighbors." (Luke 10: 25–37.)

Against the lodge he had fought the good fight of faith, in the divine armor, girt with truth, shod with the preparation of the Gospel, and bearing also the apostolic sword and shield—the only sword ever to be used in behalf of the kingdom. Such men are the true noblemen of this great American nation, and are worthy of far higher honors than the civil powers of the world can bestow. Such men inspire their own and future generations with the purest patriotism and loyalty to "the higher law." So, also, do the martyred Lovejoy, Lincoln and Garfield, with the successful warrior-presidents, Grant and Washington. How brilliant are such names when compared with the French Napoleons, who gloried in vain ambitions, and in great destruction of human life by war! What legacy of blessing to the world did the first Napoleon leave—"wading through slaughter to a throne?" Great as were his victories until his overthrow at Waterloo, even little Scotland and her Wallace left far nobler inspiration for struggling humanity—an inspiration made world-wide by her loved plowman, Robbie Burns, in his heart-stirring song—

"Scots wha hae with Wallace bled—
.....Welcome to your gory bed,
Or to victory!"

These few words tell the story—liberty or death.

But there is a "higher law" than love of country. As every man differs in figure and features from his neighbor, so do men differ in opinions. The same food and lessons result in differences of persons and ideas. Thus the Cynosure and I may have differences, while we are one in obedience to the divine injunction—"Have no fellowship with the unfruitful"—much less with the fruitful—"works of darkness." The Christian's first duty is obedience to the New Testament Christ; and next, to family, neighbors and society. The civil power should punish evil-doers, and praise well-doers. But Jesus, neither before nor after his resurrection, gave any civil power the right to interfere in the affairs of his kingdom, which is not of this world while in it.

There is a grand difference between the two kingdoms. One we may call Cæsar's—the other, that of the risen Christ. The first is secular, the other spiritual. The one is under God in Providence, the other, under God in Christ. The one is law, the other is grace and truth. The one rules by force and penalty, the other by love and pardon. The one uses the sword of steel, the other the sword of the Spirit. The one takes the life of a sorrowful culprit, the other pardons a repentant sinner and gives him eternal life. Cæsar is dead, and pagan Rome extinct. Jesus is he who was dead, but is now alive forevermore. Jesus, on earth and in heaven—waiting to receive his kingdom—is the example for his people (1 Peter 2: 21), and he shall be King of kings and Lord of lords forever and ever. (Rev. 19: 16.)

How strange to the expectant Jews was it that their promised Messiah, whom they fondly hoped would subdue their oppressors, should have allowed himself to be falsely accused and crucified, when he could have had more than twelve legions of angels to rescue him and exterminate the soldiers of Cæsar! But so had it to be. Now, as then, his people are slow of heart to believe what is written of him. They are prone, now as then, to misinterpret the Scriptures. They need more faith in what is written, and grace to repudiate "the traditions of men," which now, as then, "make void" the divine commands for the present dispensation. The Jews were types of merely professing Christians.

As our Southern neighbors changed the "stars and stripes" to "stars and bars," to justify their system of slavery, so has the papacy displaced the bread and wine in our holy communion by a wafer, to justify her usurpation of the supreme authority over the visible kingdom of Christ, thus, as a consequence, showing her disregard of the example and instructions of the Son of God in the symbolic observance of the glorious truth that he died for our sins, and that we spiritually live by faith, being fed by his "words," which, as he said, are "spirit and life." (John 6: 63.)

Wake up! wake up, ye soldiers of the cross! Arise!—stand! "Put on the whole armor of God." (Eph. 6: 10–18). The "Captain of salvation" leads, and victory is certain. Conquering man's great enemy, death, he "brought life and immortality to light" by his glorious resurrection, without which there is no Gospel. (1 Cor. 15: 17.) The second Adam defeated Satan. His righteousness extends as far as the first Adam's sin (Rom. 5: 18), and thus the Edenic innocence is preserved by the gift of his righteousness, which also "saves to the uttermost" all who "come to God by him." Hallelujah! Let us rejoice forevermore!

T. H.

CYNOSURE OFFER!

Any of the Books advertised in this paper, ordered, with subscription to the Cynosure, at one-fourth off from list price, sent postpaid.

The New Volume of Pen and Pencil Series.

WELSH PICTURES Drawn with Pen and Pencil.

By D. Lewis Jones, Morris Jones, Edward Ffoulkes, H. Elvet Lewis, D. Tyssil Evans, D. Davies and O. M. Edwards. Edited by Richard Lovett, M. A. With many Illustrations.
Imperial 8vo, cloth, gilt edges, boxed..... 3.20

"'Welsh pictures' is the work of ten Welshmen, among whom illustrating the beauties of Wales has been parcelled out according to the special familiarity of each. The result is a pleasing volume."—London Times.

THE EARTHLY FOOTPRINTS OF OUR RISEN LORD, Illumined.

A continuous narrative of the Four Gospels according to The Revised Version, with introduction by Rev. John Hall, D. D. Illustrated by 113 full-page half tone re-productions. Small 4to, cloth.....net 1.50
Gilt edge, with silk book mark, boxed.....net 2.00
Full morocco, flexible, gilt edges, round corners, boxed.....net 3.75

Pictures reflecting the best in sacred art from Raphael to the present day are scattered profusely through the book.

"To many the life of the Christ will be a new book in this form. Though beyond the introduction it contains no word except what is found in the four Gospels, yet when read continuously, without the breaks necessarily made by the different stories of the four evangelists, the narrative takes on new force and lifelikeness. The very fact that this is not our usual method of reading the Word will give it a new reality."—Golden Rule.

A GIFT OF LOVE, and Loving Greetings for 365 Days.

By Rose Porter. Long 18mo. Paper cloth..... 1.00
White cloth, silver top, in box..... 1.25
Decorated silk, silver top, in box..... 1.75

"'A Gift of Love' is the work of a loving heart. It contains a text of Scripture for every day of the year with the addition of an appropriate thought in poetry of prose all bearing on the theme of love. The work must have called for a great amount of patient toil. But it has not been spent in vain, for the volume will prove a blessing to many a soul. To use it day by day for a year thoughtfully and prayerfully, must result in a rich growth in love on the part of the user. The author is well known and esteemed for her previous works' sake."—The N. Y. Observer.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE SERIES.

By Rev. F. B. Meyer, containing CHRISTIAN LIVING, THE PRESENT TENSES OF THE BLESSED LIFE, AND THE SHEPHERD PSALM. 3 vols. in box. 18mo, cloth..... 1.50
White vellum cloth, silver top, in box..... 1.75

D. L. Moody says: "Few books of recent years are better adapted to instruct and help Christians than those of this author. He is a man mighty in the scriptures, saturated with Bible facts and truths."

PRAYERS FROM THE POETS.

By Martha Harger. 16mo, two colored cloth, gilt top..... 1.00
Leatherette, boxed..... 1.50

"This volume is admirable. The Prayer are better suited to some of our moods than formal Litanies and are selected from excellent sources. The book will be a dear treasure to many hearts."—The Churchman.

KIN-DA-SHON'S WIFE.

An Alaskan Story. By Mrs. Eugene S. Willard, Home Missionary of the Presbyterian Board of America to Alaska. With illustrations. 8vo, cloth..... 1.50

"Being a close observer and in deep sympathy with the native population in their struggles towards a Christian Civilization, Mrs. Willard has gained more intelligent knowledge of their character, of their needs and hindrances, than perhaps any other person."—Dr. Sheldon Jackson.

HEROES OF THE GOODWIN SANDS.

By Rev. Thomas Stanley Treanor. With many illustrations. 8vo, Cloth..... 1.50

"It is a book of most engrossing interest, and as stimulating as it is readable."—The Record.
"The deeds of daring are thrilling in the extreme. Suitable for the public library or for the home."—Times.

THE GREAT LONDON DAILIES.

By H. W. Massingham. Profusely illustrated. 12mo, cloth..... 1.00
Very welcome to all who like to look behind the scenes and see how the great London dailies are worked.

New Editions.

The Prayer Meeting and Its Improvement.

By Rev. LEWIS O. THOMPSON. Eighth edition, cloth, $1.25.

"Most heartily do we wish this work a wide circulation, both among pastors and people, and we hope it may do much toward the lifting of the prayer-meeting into that higher place which it ought to hold among the grand instrumentalities in the kingdom of the Master."—Congregationalist.

"We do not remember to have met with a work so suggestive, and we heartily commend it to both pastors and private members."—Baptist Weekly.

The Crisis of Missions. By Rev. ARTHUR T. PIERSON, D. D.

Cloth, $1.25; paper, 35c.

"We do not hesitate to say that this book is the most purposeful, earnest, and intelligent review of the mission work and field which has ever been given to the church."—Christian Statesman.

The Christian's Secret of a Happy Life.

By HANNAH WHITALL SMITH. One hundredth thousand. Issued in fourteen styles, from 50c. to $2.50. Send for circular.

"To commend this work would seem almost superfluous; and yet to young Christians who may not know it, we cannot refrain from saying, Buy this book, and keep it with your Bible for constant study, until you have thoroughly mastered, in your own experience, the 'secret' of which it tells. It will transform the dark days of your life, as it has transformed those of thousands before you, into days of heavenly light."—New York Evangelist.

The Topical Text Book. Fourth edition.

16 mo., cloth, 60c.

This little volume is a worker's most useful tool. It collates all Scripture passages under their topical headings, and for this reason proves far more helpful in studying a subject than the best concordance.

"I find one of the very best ways to study the Scripture is to study topically."—D. L. Moody.

Stalker's Life of Christ. Twelfth edition.

Stalker's Life of St. Paul. Fourth edition.

12 mo., cloth, each, 60c.

These works by Professor James Stalker, M. A., are unique in their compact putting of these lives into such condensed form without injurious brevity. They are being taken up as text books by Biblical classes in all parts of the country, thus proving their practical value.

Grace and Truth under Twelve Different Aspects.

By W. P. MACKAY, M. A. Paper, 35c.; cloth, 75c. Two hundred and fiftieth thousand.

This remarkable sale can only be attributed to the very practical character of this work as a guide to the inquirer and a work of helpful instruction for the immature Christian. It is of this volume Mr. D. L. Moody said: "I know of no work in print better adapted to place in the hands of the inquirer."

Notes and Suggestions for Bible Readings.

By S. R. BRIGGS. Sixtieth thousand. 8 vo, cloth. $1.00; flexible, 75c.

Edition after edition of this work has been called for until it would seem the demand must be supplied. The sales however, increase rather than otherwise.

Feathers for Arrows. By Rev. C. H. SPURGEON.

16 mo., cloth, $1.00.

Few preachers have made such effective use of pointed illustrations as the well known pastor of the great Metropolitan Tabernacle. Here he has given us a large cluster of his best with liberty to enjoy and employ.

Revell's Record for Church Treasurers.

Size No. 1, $1.50; Size No. 2, $2.00.

Popular because practical—valuable because time saving—the only record for weekly envelope system that reduces the treasurer's work to the minimum.

For sale by the

National Christian Association,

221 West Madison Street, Chicago, Ill.

IN BRIEF.

This year a large part of the crop of Florida oranges has been ruined by the severe storms. The California crop is larger than ever before, but affords not more than enough for home consumption.

The number of patents granted during the last fiscal year, including reissues and designs, was 23,471; trade marks issued, 1,884. The number of patents during the year, 13,672. The total receipts for the year from all sources, $1,288,809; expenditures, $1,111,444; leaving a surplus of $177,365. The total balance now in the Treasury to the credit of the Patent Office is $4,279,805.

The national observance of Thanksgiving day was brought about by a woman. Mrs. Sarah J. Hale, of Philadelphia, began about 1844 to urge, through the magazine of which she had charge, and by personal correspondence with the governors of States and with presidents of the United States, that Thanksgiving day should be made a national festival, and be held on the same day throughout the country.

The total revenue of the Postoffice Department for the past fiscal year is stated at $75,896,933, being an increase of $4,966,457, or 7 per cent. The First Assistant P. M. General is of the opinion that an appropriation of $17,250,000 will be required to compensate postmasters for the coming fiscal year. This is an increase of $1,650,000. The appropriation for clerks in postoffices for the current fiscal year is $8,810,000, which is an increase of $450,000 as compared with the appropriation for the past fiscal year.

The whaling industry has fallen off so much as to play but a small part in the world's commerce. The latest figures obtainable show the production to average between 15,000 and 20,000 tuns of 252 gallons each per year. There are two kinds of whale oil, the sperm, taken from the head of the cachalot or sperm whale, and train oil, which is derived from the common whale, or as it is more commonly known, the right whale. Sperm oil is worth from $450 to $500 per tun, and the ordinary train oil about $200.

The tortures of dyspepsia, the sufferings of scrofula, the agonizing itch and pain of salt rheum, the disagreeable symptoms of catarrh, are removed by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Hood's Pills are the best after-dinner pills, assist digestion, prevent constipation.

"Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething" softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain and cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

Alcott's Little Women only 4 cents

for three days' reading, proportionately for longer time, through your Bookseller, country Postmaster or direct. Deposit the price ($1.35) and on return get any book you want to borrow or want to buy, of the same value.

Books sold at the lowest prices ever known. Any book supplied. Catalogue, 160 pages, 2 cents.

Address JOHN B. ALDEN, Manager,
Mention this paper. 57 Rose St., New York.

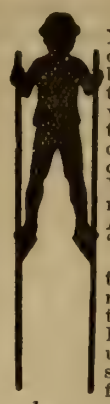
A Journey to Palestine.

BY REV. B. CARRADINE, D. D.

—oo—

Revised and Illustrated Edition. 500 pages. Eighteen beautiful half-tone Engravings, including portrait of Author. Cloth postpaid, $1.50. Address

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
221 W. Madison St., Chicag



ABOVE ALL OTHERS, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the medicine for the blood. You'll be willing to believe this, perhaps, if you think of the way it's sold to you. On trial—that's what it amounts to. In any case where it fails to benefit or cure, your money is returned. With any doubtful or ordinary medicine, this couldn't be done. And it isn't done, except with the "Discovery."

In every disease caused by a torpid liver or impure blood, this medicine will certainly cure. For the most stubborn Skin and Scalp Diseases; the worst forms of Scrofula, even Consumption (or Lung-scrofula) in its earlier stages; and for Dyspepsia, "Liver Complaint," and every kindred ailment, nothing approaches it as a remedy.

Nothing else, at any price, is really as cheap. You pay only for the good you get.

It's more than mere relief—it's a perfect and permanent cure, that you get with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. The proprietors offer $500 reward for any incurable case of Catarrh.

MY WIFE CANNOT SEE HOW YOU DO IT AND PAY FREIGHT.

$10.50 Buy the Oxford Improved SINGER Sewing Machine, with a complete set of attachments and guaranteed for 10 years. Shipped anywhere on 30 days' trial. No money required in advance. 75,000 now in use. World's Fair Medal awarded. Buy from factory, save dealers' and agents' profit. Write to-day for our LARGE FREE CATALOGUE.
Oxford Mfg. Co., 342 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WHEATON COLLEGE,

WHEATON, ILL.

A School for Men and Women.

WINTER TERM OPENS TUESDAY JANUARY 2ND.

For Catalogue, address

CHAS. A BLANCHARD, Pres.

IF YOU WANT WORK

that is pleasant and profitable, send us your address immediately. We teach men and women how to earn from $5 per day to $3,000 per year without having had previous experience, and furnish the employment at which they can make that amount. Capital unnecessary. A trial will cost you nothing. Write to-day and address,

E. C. ALLEN & CO.,
Box 1001. Augusta, Me.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained, and all Patent business conducted for Moderate Fees.
Our Office is Opposite U. S. Patent Office, and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A Pamphlet, "How to Obtain Patents," with names of actual clients in your State, county, or town, sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.
Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

PROPHECY: A STUDY.

BY REV. S. F. PORTER,

A Study of Christ's Comings.

Paper Cover, 100 Pages.

Single copies, postpaid..... 25 cents.
Per 100 copies, postpaid..... $20.00.

For sale by the

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

The St. Louis Sermon

Are Secret Societies a Blessing or a Curse?

An Address by Rev. B. Carradine D. D., Pastor of the Centenary M. E. Church, St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 4, 1891.

W. McCoy writes: "That sermon ought to be in the hands of every preacher in this land, and every citizen's too."

A pamphlet of 20 pages and cover.

Sent postpaid 25 copies $1.00. Single copy 5 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

ANTI-SECRECY TRACTS.

The following numbers are in stock, and can be had at the wholesale price of 25 cents per pound:

1. National Christian Association.
1½. Testimony of Statesmen.
4. Freemasonry in the Family.
7. To the Boys who Hope to be Men.
8. Modern Heathenism.
9. Ministers at Rival Altars.
10. A Pastor's Confession.
15. Secrecy and Sin.
16. Selling Dead Horses.
17. History of Masonry.
19. Freemasonry a Christ-excluding Religion.
22. Extracts from Masonic Oaths and Penalties as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.
28. Dr. Nathaniel Colver on Masonry.
30. Masonic Oaths Null and Void.
37. Why a Christian should not be a Freemason (German).
38. Masonic Oaths and Penalties.
39. Should Freemasons be Admitted to Christian Fellowship?
41. Freemasonry a Religion.
45. Ought a Seceding Mason to Keep his Lodge Oath?

Families, Churches, Senates, Juries and Camps.

The above are the only tracts in stock in large quantities. There are a few of several other numbers. Remember that these are being retailed at wholesale prices—25 cents per pound. Keep a package of Anti-masonic tracts for use in letters.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

AGENTS AND LECTURERS.

NEW ENGLAND DEPARTMENT.—Rev. J. P. Stoddard, Agent, 218 Columbus Ave., Hotel Howland, Boston.

EASTERN DEPARTMENT.—W. B. Stoddard, Agent, No. 215, 4½ St., Washington, D. C.

NORTHERN DEPARTMENT.—Rev. W. Fenton, 74 South Robert St., St. Paul, Minn.

PACIFIC DEPARTMENT.—Rev. P. B. Williams, Philomath, Oregon.

COLLEGE AGENT, Rev. S. F. Porter Cynosure office.

OTHER LECTURERS.

C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
Rev. H. H. Hinman, Oberlin, O.
Nathan Callender Montdale Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
H. A. Day, Brighton, Mich.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
A. Mayn, Bloomington, Ind.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
W. M. Love, Osceola, Mo.
J. K. Glassford, Phoenix, Arizona.
Wm. Fenton, St. Paul, Minn.
J. S. Perry, Thompson, Conn.
Rev. E. Mathews, Ft. Wayne, Ind.
E. Barnetson, Haskinville, N. Y.
D. A. Richards, Brighton, Mich.
A. W. Parry, Chicago, Ill.

Disloyal SECRET OATHS

ADDRESS OF

JOSEPH COOK,

OF BOSTON,

AT THE

Conference of Christians

CHICAGO, 1890.

No better document of its size for general distribution has been printed. Joseph Cook's address is a national treatment of a national subject, and very valuable for reference.

Single Copies 5 cents, or 12 copies for 50 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the Initiate. By Rev. L. A. Post. 5 cents each

THE N. C. A. BUILDING
(The gift of Philo Carpenter)
—AND OFFICE OF—
THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. MADISON STREET, CHICAGO.

The National Christian Association

PRESIDENT—Rev. A. J. Gordon, D.D., Boston, Mass.

VICE PRESIDENT—Charles A. Blanchard, President Wheaton College Ill.

GEN'L SEC'Y and TREASURER—W. I. Phillips, 221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

REC. SECRETARY—Amos Dresser, Jr. Wheaton, Ill., Box 367.

DIRECTORS—T. B. Arnold, C. A. Blanchard, E. A. Cook, J. M. Hitchcock, A. G. Johnson, J. P. Richards, E Whipple, E. R. Worrell, Edgar B. Wylie W. M. Howie, H. F. Kletzing.

The object of this Association is:

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the churches of Christ from being depraved, to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform.

STATE AUXILIARY ASSOCIATIONS

NEW ENGLAND.—Pres., Rev. J. M Foster, Boston, Mass.; Sec'y, Miss E. E Flagg, Wellesley, Mass.; Treas., L. E. Lincoln, Boston.

CONNECTICUT.—Pres., J. A. Conant, Willimantic; Sec., David J. Ellsworth, Windsor; Treas., C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.—Pres., Rev. R. W. Chesnut Marissa; Sec., Rev. J. R. Wylie, Coulterville; Treas., Rev. W. I. Phillips, Cynosure office, Chicago.

IOWA.—Pres., Rev. J. A. Greer, Columbus City; Sec., Rev. T. H. Acheson, Hopkinton; Treas., Rev. L. Mendenhall, Fairfield.

KANSAS.—Pres., Rev. C. H. Strong, Lawrence; Vice-Pres., Rev. J. L. Countermine Hiawatha; Sec., Rev. D. H. Coulter, Winchester; Treas., Joseph A. Torrence, Denison.

NEBRASKA.—Pres., Rev. W. I. Brooks Pawnee City; Vice Pres., Rev. C. G. Widen Mead; Sec., Howard P. Young, Wahoo Treas., Rev. T. H. Dabney, Hooper.

MAINE.—Pres., ——— ———, ——— Sec., I. D. Haines, Dexter; Treas., H. W Goddard, West Sidney.

MASSACHUSETTS.—Pres., S. A. Pratt; Worcester.

MICHIGAN.—Pres., D. A. Richards, Brighton; Sec., H. A. Day, Brighton; Treas Geo. Swanson, Jr., Bedford.

MINNESOTA.—Pres., S. B. Sjoblom, Fergus Falls; Cor. Sec., Wm. Fenton, St. Paul Rec. Sec., Mrs. M. F. Morrill, St. Charles Treas. Wm. H. Morrill St. Charles.

MISSOURI.—Pres., J. F. Beauchamp, Denver; Sec., M. N. Butler, Darlington; Treas. Rev. C. G. Cox, Grant City.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—Pres., Robt. A. Frohock, Alton; Sec., S. C. Kimball, New Market; Treas., James F. French, Canterbury.

NEW YORK.—Pres., Rev. S. R. Wallace Syracuse; Sec., Rev. W. H. Clark, Binghamton; Treas., Lucius Woodruff, Binghamton.

OHIO.—Pres., J. W. Martin, Mt. Perry; Rec. Sec., A. T. Vestal, Senecaville; Cor Sec. and Treas., E. Thomson, Senecaville

OREGON.—Pres., Rev. Wm. Dillon, D.D., Salem; Sec., Rev. P. B. Williams, Philomath; Treas., Samuel Terry, Canby.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Pres., Samuel S. Collins, Allegheny; Sec., J. S. T. Milligan Beaver; Treas., R. C. Wylie, Wilkinsburg.

WISCONSIN.—Pres., J. B. Galloway, Poynette; Sec., Isaiah Faris, Vernon; Treas. J. W. Wood, Baraboo.

The Christian Cynosure.

HENRY M. HUGUNIN - - - - Editor.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 14, 1893.

NEW TESTIMONY IN THE CRONIN MURDER CASE.

Reference was made in last week's Cynosure to the voluntary statement of Mrs. Andrew Foy, which she left in the hands of the State Attorney, and which Judge Tuthill ruled might be told to the jury before whom the trial of Dan Coughlin was in progress. Mrs. Foy, under the influence of a conscience burdened with a secret knowledge of the terrible crime, could no longer withhold its divulgence. She said:

Secret meetings began to be held in the Foy residence in the early part of 1889, the year of the murder. These secret conferences were continued up to the time of the butchering in the Carlson cottage, and were kept up after the murder until the hunt for the murderers of Cronin started "Cooney the Fox" into a run to parts unknown and Martin Burke into a flight to Winnipeg. What Mrs. Foy overheard during these stealthy conclaves added to what was later related to her by her husband when a feeling of remorse overcame him—remorse born largely of the conviction that he had been humbugged into believing Cronin a spy—help in lifting the veil from the ghastly scene of which the Carlson cottage was the theater on that starry night in May four years ago and in exposing the identity of the actors in the awful drama. These, according to Mrs. Foy, were Daniel Coughlin, Martin Burke, Patrick O'Sullivan, James Cunnen, Patrick Cooney, Martin Dawn, Joseph McKenna, Andrew Foy and three other men, two of whom are still in Chicago, and one in Hancock, Mich., the home of Daniel Coughlin.

Mrs. Foy's story of the actual killing and what immediately led to it is to this effect:

In the Carlson cottage on the night of May 4 were Martin Burke, Patrick Cooney and one of the men now in Chicago who is to be arrested when a jury will have been secured. In the rear of the cottage, on guard, was O'Sullivan, the iceman. These four arrived at the cottage at 6 o'clock in the evening, and awaited the development of the scheme, which included the hiring of Pat Dinan's horse by Dan Coughlin and the conveyance to the cottage of Cronin by Dawn—the man "Smith," whom Coughlin subsequently said he hired the horse for. Dawn came from Hancock and was brought from outside for the very good reason that only an outsider could be successful in luring Cronin away from his office, all the others mentioned as in the conspiracy being known to the doctor as his avowed enemies.

It was dark when Dawn, driving Dinan's white horse, arrived at the cottage with his victim. Through a few broken slats in the shutters of one of the windows a light gleamed.

"In there," said Dawn, "is your patient, doctor."

The unsuspecting physician rushed up the steps and was quickly admitted by the man who is now under surveillance and who is marked for arrest. This man pointed toward the back room, which was dimly lighted and in which were Burke and Cooney ready for the butchery. Taking off his overcoat as he approached, the doctor walked toward where the two awaited him and saying: "Good evening, gentlemen," proceeded to lay his coat on a chair. While the doctor was bending down Cooney, with the peculiar chisel which has been so much spoken of, dealt him a swinging blow on the back of the head; at the same moment Burke grappled with Cronin, whose desperate struggle was plainly visible in the broken chairs and washstand which were upset while he fought for his life in the grasp of Burke, with Cooney raining down blows on his head with a chisel.

When Cronin was first struck by Cooney he exclaimed: "My God! is this what you brought me here for?" And as he was sinking to the floor, hacked almost to death, he exclaimed:

"Oh, Jesus, Mary, have mercy on me!"

The disclosure (says the Chicago Herald, to which we are indebted for it) goes on to show how O'Sullivan, who was growing impatient on the outside and disturbed at the noise of the struggle, rushed into the cottage from the rear just as Daniel Coughlin had come in from the front. Coughlin is represented as having rushed toward the body of Cronin, which was writhing in agony on the floor, and kicked the dying doctor in the face, saying:

"—— you, you wont tell any more tales."

This led to an angry protest from the iceman, who pulled a revolver which he leveled at Coughlin, and threatened to shoot the detective if he repeated his exhibition of brutality.

"Ain't you satisfied with killing the man?" demanded the iceman; "what more do you want? Kick him again and I'll put a bullet through you."

The attempt to dispose of the corpse in the grave dug in the lonely wood near Graceland Cemetery is dealt with, as is the stripping of the body, and the horror of Burke at the sight of the religious emblem which Cronin wore around his neck.

The man Cunnin, mentioned by Mrs. Foy, is he who personated J. B. Simonds and bought the furniture at Revell's, which was subsequently taken to the room rented at 117 Clark street and finally carted to the Carlson cottage. McKenna brought from the South Side the wagon that hauled the trunk from the cottage.

Foy figures in the case as the the man who drove Coughlin to the cottage after the doctor reached there. In the last trial the prosecution tried to establish that the driver was little Kunze. It was Foy's chisel, too, that "Cooney the Fox" hacked the doctor's head with.

THE TREND OF POLITICS.

A new feature in politics is gradually developing itself, with a prospect of assuming grave importance in local and State government, and it may, sooner or later involve our national issues. Last week we printed a portion of Bishop Coxe's (P. E.) letter to Mgr. Satolli, in which the bishop charges directly the assumption of political power in this country by the church of Rome. Later, another phase, corroborative of Bishop Coxe's charge, develops itself in the Roman Catholic petition to the New York State Legislature, asking for an appropriation for the support of its sectarian parochial schools. This aggressive step on the part of the Catholics led Rev. Dr. Robert S. MacArthur, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, in New York city, in his Thanksgiving-day sermon, to discuss "the criminal rule of the bosses" in that metropolis, and also to refer to "the Catholic parochial school question." The house was crowded.

After censuring the city government severely, he took up the parochial school question as follows, according to the newspaper reports:

The Romanists had taken an aggressive attitude in asking public moneys for their schools. He declared a Roman Catholic could not consistently observe the principles of the American Constitution. There were many true Americans who were professed Romanists, he said, but they maintained American ideas at the expense of their religion, and added:

"Let the Catholic church beware and stop the introduction of the bill now in course of preparation providing that public funds be given their schools. A protest will go up when it is introduced that will shake the Catholic church in this country to its very foundations."

Here Dr. MacArthur read the platform of the "A. P. A." He said over a million voters supported the "A. P. A." principles and would make things interesting for Romanism when the bill was introduced. He declared religious political issues all wrong. Ecclesiasticism should not enter into politics. The question of church and state should not come up under a republican form of government.

MASONIC MISREPRESENTATIONS CORRECTED.

We received, sometime since, a copy of the American Tyler, published weekly in Detroit, Mich. It contains a leading editorial entitled, "Planets out of Place." The drift of the article is that some Masons who have received the honors of the order, afterward have left it; at times assailing it, and at other times seeking to sell its degrees clandestinely.

Among those who are reported as "wandering stars," we find the name of Pres. J. Blanchard. He is said to have been president of Oberlin College and a prominent Mason in his day, but one, who, casting aside all moral obligations, became the Anti-masonic apostle of America."

We really supposed that even a Masonic editor would have known the difference between Oberlin College, Ohio, and Knox and Wheaton colleges, Illinois; that he would never have mixed up Pres. Blanchard, who spent forty-six years in educational service in Illinois, and who was never a member of any secret society, with Pres. Chas. G. Finney of Oberlin, who was for a short time before his conversion a member of the Masonic order. It is evident, however, that we were mistaken, and so we must let that pass.

We should like to inquire, however, why it is so wrong for one who has become convinced that Freemasonry is injurious to society to abandon it and seek to warn his fellows against it. There is no claim set up in the article to which we refer that there was any insincerity on the part of Pres. J. Blanchard in leaving the lodge and seeking to prevent its growth. Suppose that he had been an eminent Mason, or had been even a Blue Lodge Mason, as Pres. Finney was; and suppose that he had become satisfied that the institution was working harm, what wrong would there have been in his doing all that the Tyler claims that he did? Must one who has joined the Masonic organization stand by it, or be silent regarding it forever thereafter, whatever he believes it to be? This is a claim which is made by Antimasons, but it is usually denied by members of the craft. Or, once more, if it is all right for lodges to sell Masonic degrees for money, why is it wrong for individual Masons to do so? They can communicate degrees as fully in private as in the lodge; the degrees will furnish a person who receives them as much intellectual and moral light conferred in one way as in the other. The grips, signs, passwords, etc., can be learned as readily from one individual as from a number of individuals; in fact, it would seem to avoid the necessity of a vast deal of worrying reiteration.

Is not the real trouble to be found in the fact that Freemasonry itself is wrong, and that, being wrong, it is impossible to justify it on any rational ground, or to condemn those who oppose it without writing arrant nonsense?

The fact is, that secret societies are organized selfishness; the greater orders, like Freemasonry, are more than this; they are organized paganism in Christian lands.

The only duty which those who have unfortunately become connected with such an organization owe to society is to come out from it and testify against it, that those who are willing to believe the truth may be warned and saved from connection with it.

THE HAWAII AFFAIR.

The President's message to Congress, last week, contrary to expectation, throws but little light upon the Hawaii affair. At last accounts from Honolulu, the native queen had not been restored to her throne, as President Cleveland proposed, and the citizens', or "provisional," government remained in power. Diplomacy is proverbially slow, and, as in this case, often tends to delay justice.

If we have read the history of the dethronement of the queen aright, the whole affair is discreditable to the "provisional" government and the representatives of our own nation sojourning at Honolulu. It appears to have been maneuvered by the white natives, subjects of the Queen of Hawaii—descendants of former citizens of the United States—and by actual citizens of this country who for several years have been engaged in money-making pursuits in Hawaii—men like Claus Spreckles of California, the sugar manufacturer, whose cane-plantation in the island is one of remarkable magnitude and among the most prolific enterprises, if not the most commanding, in the kingdom. These men seeming to have been imbued with the Yankee spirit of subjecting all things to their control, especially those that hindered rather than promoted their business interests.

To remove the queen and her advisers from power, and to tender the rule of the island to our government, was a stroke of policy and of unauthorized aggression. It made them, for the time, monarchs of all they surveyed—a position that promised to last until the authorities at Washington were ready to accept the proposition to annex the island to the United States. But our government was wary and in no hurry to avail itself of a palpable usurpation of the rights of the native monarchy.

The annexation of the island, with the idea of making it a naval supply-station of the United States had a plausible air; but as an excuse for national injustice it was very lame. For more than a century our country has existed very creditably without a coaling-station in the South Pacific Ocean, and it is difficult to see the necessity for one within the next hundred years, especially if it is to be obtained by oppression or unfairness. If the regal power of the island should be fully restored, as proposed by the President, and we should be invited to establish a naval depot there, with all needful accommodations, well and good; but to annex the entire kingdom to our national domain, without the consent of the rightful government thereof, would be disgraceful and criminal.

We care not how dissolute are the queen and her court;—if they are even worse than the published evidence would have us believe, they form a distinct government whose rights we are bound to respect.

President Cleveland's message gives no intimation that usurpation or fraud enters into the policy of this government.

NOTES AND NEWS FROM BUSINESS LETTERS.

"The Iowa Christian Association's Convention has come and gone, and was a grand affair. I attended every session, and was well paid. Please send me the old Cynosure; we cannot get along without it."—Peter Guthrie, Hopkinton, Iowa.

"It grieves me that I can do so little in these pressing times, especially when God is so blessing our cause and opening so many avenues to our reform. The Lord has done great things for us in the last year, whereof we are glad praise his holy name!"—James Matthews, Houston, Ill.

"Some months ago a very worthy English gentleman was led to renounce the lodges by reading some of your leaflets, which I had enclosed in a letter to his wife. He is very intelligently opposing them now, in the town where he lives, as he has sent for and keeps on hand a good supply of your literature. He is a Christian and a leading business man. Friends of the cause, send out these leaves everywhere—they are for the healing of the nations."—Mrs. L. H. Wylie, Dayton, N. Dakota.

These are very encouraging words, since they confirm the usefulness as well as the righteousness of our work. Every word spoken, every leaflet mailed or given away, every anti-secrecy book read, leaves its impress upon some mind and heart. "Let us not be weary in well-doing; for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not."

DRAWING THE LINES.

In recent issues of the Cynosure we printed what we have reason to believe is the genuine ritual of initiation into the so-called "patriotic" order of the American Protective Association, with its solemn oaths and the careful espionage which every applicant for membership must undergo for weeks and months before he can be admitted. It might be possible for a Roman Catholic to join the order, notwithstanding this searching ordeal, but not probable, and if he did, and identified himself with its secret work, if he was not killed or maimed by those whom he had deceived, he would be entitled to a good liberal "indulgence" from his church for risking his treacherous body among her enemies, and taking their horrible oaths upon his conscience.

Glancing over our Roman Catholic exchanges, we find the most bitter denunciation of the A. P. A., and an evident fear that its opposition to the Church of Rome will result in political if not physical injury to the "faithful." Possibly the fear of such an outcome may not be without foundation; for the fanaticism of religion and politics, in the face of opposition, is apt to manifest itself in recklessness.

But the position of the Roman Catholic church toward secret societies is by no means praiseworthy, or free from righteous censure. It opposes Freemasonry and Orangeism, and forbids its adherents uniting with them; but there is no other secret society (excepting the A. P. A.) whose members may not simultaneously belong to their lodges and commune at the Roman Catholic altar with impunity. The opposition to Freemasonry and Orangeism has this basis and no other. Says Father Lavelle, of St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York: "The Catholic church has disapproved of secret orders because the members bind themselves by oath to do whatever is commanded, and decline to divulge the purpose of their society to the proper ecclesiastical authorities."

Thus the hierarchy has drawn the line between the church and the lodge only from interested motives. It professes to abhor the works of darkness in the lodge, yet its own membership is honeycombed with secret societies—the Clan-na-Gael, the Jesuits, the United Hibernians, the Catholic Foresters, the Molly Maguires, the labor unions, etc., which are not a whit better morally, or socially, or politically, than the orders which its ecclesiastics have condemned.

It is this very fostering of these wicked Roman Catholic societies that maintains and increases the Orangemen, the A. P. A., and the other so-called "patriotic" orders. Let the Roman Catholic church be honest and consistent with its religious pretensions and root out all these secret foes of the Redeemer whom it professes to worship, and who set his face as a flint against every form of secret sin, and who would not for one moment tolerate the principles upon which any secret lodge is built.

The Roman Catholics, while professing to oppose secret societies (with the evasions which we have pointed out), has no fellowship with the work of the N. C. A. or the Cynosure, and it must be confessed that we have little sympathy with the murderous clans whose secrecy it encourages, and around whom it throws "the magic circle" of its protection. If we oppose Freemasonry, it is on the same grounds for which we antagonize the Jesuits and the Clan-na-Gael. If we oppose the Odd-fellows and the Pythian Knights. it is for the same reason that we denounce the United Hibernians and tyrannical labor unions—simply because they form no part of Christianity, and stand the confessed enemies of our homes, our churches and our government.

"The American Tyler charges two men, high up in Masonic degrees, with being so low down in moral principle as not to pay a just and honest debt.

"A man who owes a just and honest debt, and willfully refuses to pay it, is untrue to all honest and honorable men, whether they are, or are not, Masons."—Voice of Masonry.

"Owe no man anything."—Paul. Especially allegiance to an oath-bound secret society that depends on its obligations to promote honesty among its members.

—It is noticeable that the Northwestern Christian Advocate, which has always been extremely courteous in its mention of a certain class of prelates whose prayers and oratory have been prominent features in recent public religious gatherings, has suddenly and energetically arrayed itself against them and their church. The cause of this remarkable change of front is the movement by these prelates to secure State support for their denominational schools. It looks as if the Methodists propose to "stand by the little red schoolhouse" with great unanimity and vigor.

—The Voice of Masonry accuses the Ant-imasons of claiming to "know more of Freemasonry than Freemasons ever knew, or can know, of it." The justice of this claim is founded on the knowledge of "bright" Masons, who, under better and higher influences, deem it a duty to expose all the weaknesses which they encountered in the fraternity during their connection with it. They also had the same opportunities as other Masons, while in the lodge, to gain equal information concerning it, and are thus enabled to "speak by the card." But there are plenty of Masons in good standing who know comparatively little about Freemasonry.

—Archbishop Katzer (R. C.) refuses to let members of his diocese unite with the secret order of Good Templars. His refusal grew out of the application of Grand Chief Templar Frazer, of Wisconsin, which was made in pursuance of action by the order at its London convention, as follows: Permitting Catholics to join the Good Templar lodges, with leave to reveal the secrets of the fraternity to their confessors. But even on these terms the Archbishop refused to comply. The refusal, notwithstanding this concession, undoubtedly springs from the fact that Good Templarism, like Freemasonry, is deism, and is not particular as to the character of its adherents.

—A special to the New York World, from Madison, Ind., Dec. 4, reports the following remarkable case: "One man here, whose pension was suspended pending an examination, has been restored to the rolls. The man was drafted during the war, but got the certificate of two physicians that he was insane. Despite this he was sworn in, but feigning insanity he was confined in an asylum and there kept for ninety-two days, when he was honorably discharged. The examiner decided that there was nothing left but to recommend the pension be resumed, as the law requires only a service of ninety days, an honorable discharge, and that the cause for pension shall not be the result of any vicious habit."

—Highbinders are charged with the assassination of Fon Sing Suey, a well-known Chinese doctor, who was found dead in his room at San Francisco, Cal., last Thursday. He had been frightfully stabbed, and his murderers had robbed the place of everything of value. The family of the doctor are in China. There was, at last accounts, no clew to the assassins. Like most of the startling crimes of the day in the United States, this is attributed to parties of foreign birth. It is a peculiar feature of our liberal invitations to all people of all nations to make their homes with us, that sufficient care is not taken to discriminate between honest persons and the worst elements of foreign society. Shall we ever learn this lesson?

—Respecting the Masonic letter "G," which is prominently emblazoned over the chair of the Worshipful Master in the lodge-room, the "lecture" in the Fellow Craft's degree informs the candidate that it is "the initial of Geometry." Other authorities would have us believe that it stands for the "Grand Architect of the Universe," the deity of Freemasonry. A writer in the Voice of Masonry for December reconciles this apparent discrepancy by saying that "G" is one of the three greater lights of Masonry—"the light of the Divine Geometry, or Divine Science, whose author is God, and whom the Masons call the Grand Architect and Supreme Ruler of the Universe." So Geometry and God are synonomous in Masonry, and "G" stands interchangeably for both in the lodge.

—Mr. B. B. Blachly, the agent of the American Bible Society for the distribution of the Scriptures in Mexico, whose letters relating to his work, as printed in the Cynosure, have been replete with interest, has recently closed a vacation visit in this city. Like all who endeavor to carry the Gospel to the blind and ignorant in Roman Catholic countries, he has been arrested and persecuted by the priesthood, but will continue his work there bravely and earnestly. The following proclamation, issued by the bishop of Leon, Mexico, will testify to the kind of opposition to which true Protestant missionaries are subjected in that country: "Attention, Catholics! The wolf of Protestantism has found its way into the Catholic flock. A minister of the sect of Luther and Voltaire is in Leon, accompanied by various mercenaries, who are busy selling in the streets Protestant Bibles and a false book of the Gospels. Do not buy these books, Christians! Scorn these propagandists of a sect divorced from the Catholic Church of Jesus Christ, divorced from the truth, and which is resolved on depriving us of the most precious legacy received from our forefathers! Do not allow your religion to be harmed by these knight-errants of evil. Let us hurl them away. No law authorizes their coming here to de-Christianize us. Liberty of worship does not exist here, and these peddlers of adulterated Bibles and Gospels are of a foreign flock. Nicaragua belongs to God; Protestantism, to the devil. Away with them!"

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE offers to either an old or new subscriber, until the 1st of February, 1894, any book for sale by the National Christian Association at 25 per cent discount from retail rates, when ordered in connection with a yearly or six months' subscription to the Cynosure.

A special offer is made of the Christian Cynosure, one year, and "BETWEEN TWO OPINIONS," by Miss E. E. Flagg, 389 pages, cloth, price $1. The two, worth $2.50, will be sent for only $1.75 and four 2-cent stamps to pay postage on the book.

THE HOME.

BUILD WELL.

High on the granite wall the builders, toiling,
Heaved up the massive blocks and slabs to place,
With swart and streaming brows and straining sinews,
Under the summer's blaze.

And higher yet, amid the chills of autumn
Tier upon tier and arch upon arch arose;
And still crept upward, coldly, wearily,
'Mid winter's sifting snows.

From stage to stage upsprings the master-builder,
Instructing, cheering, chiding here and there,
Scanning, with scrutiny severe and rigid,
Each lusty laborer's share.

Anon his voice to those most distant shouting
Through the hoarse trumpet, makes his orders swell;
Or utters words like these to rouse and hearten—
"Build well, my men, build well!

"The ropes are strong, and new and sound the pulleys;
The derrick's beams are equal to the strain;
Unerring are the level, line, and plummet;
Let naught be done in vain!

"Build that these walls to coming generations
Your skill, your strength, your faithfulness shall tell;
That all may say, as forms and centuries test them,
'The men of old built well!'"

And ever thus speaks the Great Master-Builder
To us, where'er our "journey work" may be;
"Whate'er the toil, the season, or the structure, Build well—build worthily!"

—Christian at Work.

MAKING LIFE A SONG.

A perfectly holy life would be a perfect song. At the best on the earth, our lives are imperfect in their harmonies; but if we are Christ's disciples, we are learning to sing while here, and some day the music will be perfect. It grows in sweetness here just as we learn to do God's will on earth as it is done in heaven.

Only the Master's hand can bring out of our souls the music that slumbers in them. A violin lies on the table silent and without beauty. One picks it up and draws the bow across the strings, but it yields only wailing discords. Then a master comes and takes it up, and he brings from the little instrument the most marvelous music. Other men touch our lives and draw from them only jangled notes. Christ takes them, and when he has put the chords in tune, he brings from them the music of love, and joy, and peace. It is said that once Mendelssohn came to see the great Freiburg organ. The old custodian refused him permission to play upon the instrument, not knowing who he was. At length, however, he granted him leave to play a few notes. Mendelssohn took his seat, and soon the most wonderful music was breaking forth from the organ. The custodian was spell-bound. At length he came up beside the great musician and asked his name. Learning it, he stood humiliated, self-condemned, saying: "And I refused you permission to play upon my organ." There comes One to us, and desires to take our lives and play upon them. But we withhold ourselves from him, and refuse him permission, when if we would but yield ourselves to him, he would bring from our souls heavenly music.

We are but organs mute, till a Master touches the keys—
Verily, vessels of earth into which God poureth the wine;
Harps are we, silent harps that have hung in the willow trees,
Dumb till our heart strings swell ard break with a pulse divine.

It is often in sorrow that our lives are taught their sweetest songs. There is a story of a German baron who stretched wires from tower to tower of his castle to make an Æolian harp. Then he waited to hear the music from it. For a time the air was still, and no sound was heard. Afterward gentle breezes blew, and the harp sang softly. At length came the winter winds, strong and stormlike in their force; then the wires gave out majestic music which was heard through all the castle. There are human lives that never yield the music that is in them in the calm of quiet days; but when the winds of trial sweep over them, they give out murmurings of song; and when the storms of adversity blow upon them, they answer in notes of victory. It takes trouble to bring out the best that is in them.

Come what may, we should make our lives songs. We have no right to add to the world's discords, or to sing any but sweet strains in the ears of others. We should start no note of sadness in this world, which is already so full of sadness. We should add something every day to the stock of the world's happiness. If we are truly Christ's, and walk with him, we cannot but sing.

BEWARE OF SATAN'S DEVICES.

The unregenerate heart is opposed to the Gospel plan of salvation. It prefers an easier, a more self-indulgent way. "The carnal mind is enmity against God: it is not subject to the law of God, neither indeed can be." Rom. 8: 7.

To conform to the law of God in matters of apparel, self-denial, cross-bearing and separation from the world, is very humiliating and repulsive to the natural heart. Only a pure people, a people who are willing to be regarded "peculiar," can reasonably be expected to adhere strictly to the Bible standard of practical Christian life. Christian reforms cannot be promoted successfully in the absence of a Christ-like spirit. As soon as the spiritual life of a church becomes extinct, disciplinary rules of a restrictive character will be disregarded, and the spirit, the attire and the demeanor of the membership will indicate a dangerous departure from the "old landmark." As the Christ-spirit departs, the world-spirit creeps in, and the scholarly essay is preferred to the pure Gospel, the social to the prayer-meeting, fashionable attire to "modest apparel," the theatre to the means of grace. Through covetousness many become practical idolaters, and the god of this world succeeds in blinding their eyes to the extent that ministers and people together flatter themselves that they are journeying heavenward while in the open road to hell.

This departure from primitive simplicity and purity and power is a gradual process. It is seldom that an individual or a church passes from a state of purity and conformity to the will of God to a state of pollution and conformity to the world at a single step. The departure is usually gradual. Duty is neglected, light rejected, convictions stifled, Satan's suggestions entertained, human reasoning substituted for "thus saith the Lord," until issues and principles once held as vital are regarded as of little or no consequence.

"Remove not the ancient landmark" comes echoing down the ages and falls with all the weight of inspiration upon the ears and consciences of the church of the nineteenth century. Will the counsel be heeded? Satan is determined that it shall not. How the world crowds in! Many well-meaning persons, yea, whole churches have been swallowed up by the mighty tide of worldliness, pride, covetousness and vain ambition that has swept over them. A reign of formality has supplanted the simplicity and power that once characterized their movements.

There is need of watchfulness, "lest by any means, as the serpent beguiled Eve through his subtilty, so our minds should be corrupted from the simplicity that is in Christ." 2 Cor. 11: 3. Give heed to the "little things" which involve such tremendous consequences. A little leak unnoticed will, in time, sink the vessel. A little speck unremoved from the eye will destroy the sight. A little worm boring into the heart of a tree causes its death. A little sin unrestrained and unrepented of will damn the soul. Beware of Satan's devices.—Free Methodist.

COMMON-SENSE VIEW OF "HIGHER CRITICISM."

A correspondent in one of our exchanges gives the following as an illustration of the tendency of the "new theology":

"Suppose a traveler passing through the town of Andover, Mass., should stop at the door of the theological seminary in the town to inquire about the most direct and safest road to Boston, what answer would he be likely to get? Possibly it might be as follows:

"Well, sir, that road (pointing to the old turnpike) has, in the past, generally been called the safest and best way; but, my good sir, a syndicate of far-seeing, enterprising men, who have been looking into the matter, decided two or three years ago that a far more attractive route could be found than the old turnpike, and they at once looked into the matter again, when they concluded to construct a new road or highway directly over the mountains—fine scenery there—then they courageously followed a new survey which led from thence straight to Boston via Cambridge. That new road, or avenue, it should be called, beats the old turnpike all to pieces, and I advise you to go that way. I admit, sir, that there are some dark passages over the mountains on this new route, but the syndicate has secured lights of a new fashion to be placed all along the avenue, so that there will be little or no danger in taking that road."

"Has the whole route all the way through to the very end, been surveyed?" anxiously inquired the traveler.

"No, not exactly," was the reply, "but the syndicate assures us that all who go that way will surely get there."

"Do you know of any one who ever went that way and got there—to Boston, I mean—that's what I want to know?"

"No—I don't for certain," was the hesitating reply; "but most of the directors, including the chief engineer, talk that way, and they ought to know."

"Well," says the traveler, "I think I will take the old turnpike this time, as I want to be sure I am right. Good morning."

He got there!

HEART WARMERS.

My neighbor has sent me the daintiest little tray, with a new kind of cake on her best hand-painted plate, covered with a drawn-work napkin. There is a bunch of rosebuds on the tray, and a tiny "cocked-hat" note; and I shall eat the cake, and put the roses in my belt, and the note in my pocket, and have a warm feeling in my heart all day.

There is another neighbor who has prettier plates and napkins, and makes delicious cake, but she never thinks to send me any. I suppose it is because she knows that I make good cake myself, and she thinks I do not care. But I do. That "sunshine cake" tasted better than anything I know how to make, and the flowers seemed sweeter than any of those that grow in my own patio, and, though I knew she loved me, it made the happy tears come to have her "say it again."

I wonder why we don't oftener say that we love each other, we staid, middle-aged people, I mean. Of course, we speak from the heart's depths in the great crisis of life, when we first find that we love each other, or when some sickness or sorrow comes; but these times are often very far apart, and everyday love is so sweet and satisfying.

There are plenty of friends to sympathize when you have a broken arm or a typhoid fever; but what an unspeakable comfort it is when the friend drops in at the close of a busy day who sees that you are all tired out, and that your burned finger that you haven't had time to tie up is aching miserably, and that the "world is a wail." You know she won't tell that you weren't "self-reliant" for a few minutes, and you do enjoy having her tuck you up on the lounge for a little rest while she smooths out the wrinkle with tender touch, and ties up your finger, and "kisses the place to make it well." Some people think that only babies like these things, but big ones often need them far more. Isn't it pathetic where Mrs. Whitney makes one of her strong, self-reliant people say that when she gets to heaven the thing she wants most is to be "babied" a little while; and does it not hint of a truth that we are too apt to forget in this matter-of-fact world?

What is the part of our friend's letter that we like best, that makes us like to carry it in our pocket, and give it a loving pat now and then, as we are about our work? It is not where she tells about her visit to the fair, or the funny speeches of the children, or the new summer dresses, or the new dresses, or the last book she has read, though you heartily enjoy her bright way of putting things. It is where she says, "I have been thinking all day how dear you are to me, and I want you to know that I love you with all my heart, and I thank my Heavenly Father for such a sweet, true friend." Maybe she thinks you are better than you really are—you know that well enough—but it is you she loves, and, if she thinks you are good, you will try not to disappoint her.

We know that many a letter signed only "yours truly" comes from a heart overflowing with repressed affection, and that it is not always those who say most who feel most; but is it not true that if we would train our lips to say and our pen to write the loving words that come into our hearts, and that we crush back for fear of being gushing, it would make many another heart warm for days together?

I think we are often mistaken in our treatment of invalids in failing to express our real sympathy, under the mistaken idea that we are helping them to "bear up." All the sick people like to have Mrs. Lovewell come in when they are sick, and I have always wondered why, for she is not especially lively, yet she knows how to cheer up the gloomiest invalids in town. I asked her the other day how she does it, and she smiled and said: "The other day I went to see a dear friend, confined to the house with torturing neuralgia. Her mother and sisters are perfectly devoted to her, and have racked their brains to relieve the pain, but they are so afraid she will 'lose control of herself.' As I went in her sister said: 'Oh, Alice has had such a hard night—never slept a moment! Do see if you can cheer her up, but don't say anything about her sickness or she will give way.' So I went in, and another sister was there and told all the funny things she could think of, and still Alice turned her head wearily on the pillow and laughed without a particle of merriment. I was so glad when her sister was called out and left me free to run over to the bed and take her in my arms and say, 'My darling, the pain is so hard to bear, isn't it? I know just how you are suffering and am so sorry.' Then I let her cry five minutes and kissed away the tears, and when her sister came back the cloud was gone, and the pain was easier to bear because somebody knew just how she felt."

We can't all do just like Mrs. Lovewell, for she has had such long practice in loving that it comes right from the heart when she does a thing like that. But we all have ways of showing our sympathy, if we would only let ourselves do it; and I do believe that many sick people are all worn out with being "cheerful" and "bearing up," and that it would be a real relief to let them have a good cry sometime, in the arms of somebody who understands.

A young mother was standing by the coffin of her baby girl when a neighbor came in to comfort her. She stood a moment looking at the tiny figure and then said: "My dear, you don't know what sorrow is. I have lost my husband and a beautiful grown daughter, and that is real sorrow." True enough; but was that the time to say it to the heart-broken mother, whose first taste of sorrow seemed so bitter? Far better to do as did another lady, a perfect stranger, who heard of the baby's death and came in and took the mother in her arms and said: "I know just how hard it is. I lost my own first little baby, and your baby was so lovely." She did not mention then that her home had been many times desolated; she only thought of comforting the one who felt in that hour that all her own life had gone out with that of her baby.

We hear much of the need of tact to say the right word or do the right thing, but it is real sympathy that is the heart warmer, love that, with a fine instinct higher than tact, will see and know, and understand the true way to reach the hearts of those who need us. Try it, everybody. Let the loving thought find expression in a word, a look, a letter; let the generous impulse remain unchecked; let your eye be practiced in reading troubled faces and the Lord will give you more and more of his own blessed sunshine.—Congregationalist.

A BLESSED LADY.

What we are and do often means more than what we say. And little eyes can see more than words can tell. In an article in Childhood, Louise Chandler Moulton tells this story of an early lesson from one who "went about doing good."

"There were no factories in the place where I lived, no crowded tenements, no starving poor, but there was a certain amount of poverty and of ignorance; and there was in this place a lady—the richest lady in all the country, so I heard the people say—and I watched her comings and goings with a sort of romantic eagerness. She used to drive about, all over the big, sparsely-settled township, in a little open wagon, and in that wagon were books for children who had no home libraries, dainties for sick people, toys for fretful babies, whose mothers had their own housework to do. And this rich lady—who seemed to my childish eyes a sort of goddess of good fortune—never indulged herself in any luxury. Fashion for her was as if it did not exist. She wore a simple cotton gown in summer, an equally simple woolen one in winter, and she went on her errands of mercy with a sun-bonnet shading her sweet face from the hot suns of June, or a warm hood protecting her ears from the blasts of January. I don't know that I ever said to myself, 'of such is the kingdom of heaven,' but I surely felt it.

"One day I was sent to her house on a slight commission for my mother. She was out, as usual, but her housekeeper, discerning, I suppose, in my face something of the reverence with which I regarded her mistress, asked me suddenly: 'Do you want to see where she prays?' and thereupon opened the door of a room almost as austerely simple as a monk's, and pointed to a couch where I could see the impression of a head bowed in prayer. 'There,' she said, 'is where she kneels.' The housekeeper was called away, and shyly and almost as if it were a sacrilege I was committing, I kneeled in the spot where the Lady of Heaven, as I called her in my thoughts, was wont to pray, and I said a hurried prayer that I might, with God's help, walk in the holy way she trod. I had been taken to church all my life, I had heard prayers enough and sermons enough, but I do not remember that any one of them had ever moved me to a single thrill of spiritual longing and aspiration such as I experienced in that hushed room where she was wont to kneel, whose daily life seemed to me more than prayer or sermon. There is no truth in the world more solemn than that our lives are the gospel of our children, a gospel that outweighs a thousandfold any teaching with which our lips contradict it. Put on what deft disguises we may, the thing we are is apparent to the young eyes that watch us so unceasingly."

THE THREE LESSONS.

There are three lessons I would write—
Three words, as with a burning pen,
In tracings of eternal light,
Upon the hearts of men.

Have Faith. Where'er thy barque is driven—
The calm's disport, the tempest's mirth—
Know this—God rules the host of heaven,
The inhabitants of earth.

Have Hope. Though clouds environ now,
And gladness hides her face in scorn,
Put thou the shadow from thy brow—
No night but hath its morn.

Have Love. Not love alone for one,
But man as man thy brother call,
And scatter, like the circling sun,
Thy charities on all.

Thus grave these lessons on thy soul—
Faith, Hope and Love—and thou shalt find
Strength when life's surges rudest roll,
Light when thou else wert blind.

—Schiller.

TEMPERANCE.

HENRY WARD BEECHER'S TESTIMONY.

Let us have firm courage, kindness of temper, willingness to make concessions in things of mere policy, but no concession of principles, no yielding of moral convictions, no paltering with consciences. Thirty pieces of silver bought Christ and hung Judas. If you sell your convictions to Fear, you give yourself to a vagabond. If you sell your conscience to Interest, you traffic with a fiend. The fear of doing right is the grand treason in times of danger. When you consent to give up your convictions of justice, humanity and liberty for the sake of tranquillity, you are like men who buy a treacherous truce of tyrants by giving up their weapons of war. Cowards are the food of despots.

When a storm is on the deep, and the ship labors, men throw over the deck-load; they cast forth the heavy freight, and ride easier as their merchandise grows less. But in our time men propose to throw overboard the compass, the charts, the chronometers and sextant, but to keep the freight!

For the sake of a principle our fathers dared to defy the proudest nation on the globe. They suffered. They conquered. We are never tired of praising them. But when we are called to stand firm for a principle, we tremble, we whine, we evade duty, we shuffle up a compromise by which we may sell our conscience and save our pocket.—Henry Ward Beecher, Nov. 29, 1860.

FROM A CATHOLIC VIEW.

We commend the following from Griffin's Journal (Catholic) to a few Protestant churches for fair consideration:

"It is difficult to understand why so many Irish Catholics are engaged in a business that not only impoverishes but oftentimes brings down to the lowest depths of degradation their own fellow-countrymen. And the heartlessness of those saloon-keepers!"—Index.

Ask them and you will find it is not "difficult to understand."

They will tell you: "It is to make money."

So why shouldn't they be in the business even if the church did say she wanted pastors to tell them to "abandon" it.

Don't they make money? Don't that gain them the favor of priests and people? Is there anything of greater import than getting money?

Why shouldn't they go into a business their religious teachers want licensed and not prohibited by law? Why shouldn't they go into a business the official papers of their own prelates advertises?

Why shouldn't they go into a business few pastors want excluded from their parishes if it is kept from their doors and put next the doors of the other people?

If the Index will look around it will find that our religious people prefer the rum-seller to "temperance cranks."

They pay the State for license to do the business. They give the churches and papers money and so license themselves. They may get the money by bringing others to degradation, but they get the money, don't they? What more is needed? That gets all else.

A TOWN BOYCOTTED BY LIQUOR DEALERS.

The temperance people of Puyallup, Wash., have been trying for many years to carry the town elections and inaugurate a prohibition regime. Recently they succeeded; the city council has refused to renew liquor licenses, and most of the saloons have been closed up. But the mainstay of the town and the chief support of its people is the hop industry of Puyallup valley.

The State Liquor Dealers' Association has taken an interest in the situation, and the result is a boycott by the brewers on Puyallup hops. Brewers have refused to buy Puyallup hops offered for sale in Tacoma and other cities of the State. The peculiar battle has just begun and the result is looked for with great interest by both sides.

TEMPERANCE SENTIMENT.

There are men who starve their children to help the brewer fatten their horses.—Ram's Horn.

You can scarcely name a vice that is not a friend of the saloon.—Colorado Springs (Col.) Plaindealer.

Every soul that staggers into hell through the saloon goes along a highway paved with church ballots.—Nashville (Tenn.) Issue.

All cannot be speakers, but thousands can do effective work for prohibition by doing just a little work in their line.—Southern Journal.

There are enough to apologize for the liquor traffic. What we need is more with courage to denounce it.—Bozeman (Mont.) New Issue.

Make no compromise with our political enemies; all they want is the office which your vote might help them secure.—Wooster (O.) Herald.

We think the party shows greater activity in getting out their spring tickets this year than usual. It is a good omen.—Lima (O.) Clipper.

The devil doesn't stand much in fear of a preacher, a deacon, or a church member, who votes with a license party.—Westerly (R. I.) Daily Tribune.

The administration at Washington has changed hands, but so far as the drink evil is concerned it has not changed heart.—New York Voice.

BIBLE LESSON.

LESSON XIII.—Fourth Quarter, 1893.—December 24.
SUBJECT.—The Birth of Jesus.—Matthew 2: 1-11.
GOLDEN TEXT.—Thou shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save his people from their sins.—Matt. 1: 21.

Open the Bible and read the lesson.

DAILY READINGS.—M.—Matt. 2: 1-11. T. Matt. 2: 12-18. W.—Luke 2: 8-18. T.—Luke 2: 25-38. F.—John 1: 1-14. S.- Isa. 9: 1-7. S.—Heb. 2: 14-18.

COMMENTS BY E. E. FLAGG.

1. The inquiry of the wise men.—vs. 1, 2. Tradition tells us far more about the Magi than Scripture does. All that we know with certainty is that they came from Persia and were of the priestly caste. That they were of kingly rank is improbable. The simplicity with which they pursued their inquiries does not argue any familiarity with courts, but rather the contrary. Nor, it would seem, did they come with any retinue, as would have been the case had they been royal personages. Balaam, who came from the East, prophesied of the Star that should arise out of Jacob, and the Jews, dispersed into every land, have carried with them their Old Testament writings. So it is easy to see how the Magi were started on their quest by the sight of this wondrous star. "When the Messiah is to be revealed," says one of their sacred books," a star will rise in the East, which is the star of the Messiah, and will remain in the east fifteen days." The study of the heavens was almost the only science known to the people of the East, which was another reason why it attracted at once the attention of the Magi. Doubtless there were other wise men in Persia who saw the star, but they alone had the faith to undertake a long and dangerous journey to find Him of whom it was the herald. Though not personally mentioned in the 11th chapter of Hebrews, they have a right to a place in the list of those who "through faith wrought righteousness and obtained promises." We find here two important suggestions. (1.) Great scholars are never so great as when they lay their treasures of wisdom and learning at the feet of Christ. (2.) True science, properly pursued, will never be an ignes fatui, leading us into the morasses of delusion and error, but a star guiding us to the manger.

2. How the tidings were received.—vs. 3–6. It was natural that Herod should be troubled. He was an Idumean, with no claim to the throne save that of possession. He was a hateful, hating and hated tyrant, who had not scrupled to murder his wife and sons; a monster of cruelty, and a prey to restless suspicion which is the fate of tyrants. It was natural, also, that all Jerusalem, from the court to the common people, should share his uneasiness, though for a different reason. They dreaded the turmoil and bloodshed which would be likely to attend the overthrow of one dynasty and the setting up of another, and they preferred that things should remain as they were. Their state of mind has a striking parallel at the present day in the fear and dread with which many persons—even Christians—regard Christ's second coming. They prefer not to hear about it. They are troubled, as was Jerusalem at his first coming. Yet, even among the Jews, a devout few waited for the consolation of Israel, just as the Christian church in its periods of greatest darkness has never lacked its wise virgins, who, with their lamps trimmed and burning, have watched and waited for the Bridegroom's coming. Herod, being a foreigner, was not conversant with the prophecies. He, therefore, at this crisis summoned what may be called a cabinet meeting, to make inquiries when Christ should be born. So explicitly had the place of his birth been foretold, that the chief priests and scribes, thus hastily summoned, answered the king without any hesitation, quoting the exact passage in Micah. If Christ's first coming was prophesied of in such terms that even the Jews, prone as they were to false interpretations of prophecy, could make no mistake, how strong is the proof that our Lord's second coming must be foretold with equal exactness? Bethlehem, though small and obscure, was the birthplace not only of Judah's royal line, but of him in whom it was to have its perfect flowering; whose only rule over his people would be that of a Shepherd, feeding and defending his flock. In Herod's ears, conscious that his cruelties had made him universally loathed by his subjects, this must have had an ominous sound, and increased still further his fears of a revolt in favor of the new and rightful king. Those truths in which God's people take the greatest comfort are the greatest source of terror to the wicked. Thus we can see how God can be love and at the same time a consuming fire.

3. Herod's plot against Christ.—vs. 7, 8, 12. The Magi seem to have no idea of Herod's real purpose in calling them back, and his suddeniy expressed desire to become with them a worshiper of the infant Christ. Simple and guileless themselves, they did not suspect the existence of guile in others. The star, which seems to have vanished for a time, reappeared, and brought them to the very house where the young child was. "And they rejoiced with exceeding great joy." There is no joy that can come into the human heart like this—of finding the Saviour. The lesson would be more complete had verse twelve been included. The simple-minded Magi would have returned to Herod at once, if the Lord had not warned them, in a dream, of Herod's base purpose. The wicked man may plot, but God rules.

4. The gifts of the wise men.—v. 11. The Magi were a type of the ends of the world, who, it was prophesied, should "see the salvation of our God." They did not come with the empty homage of the knees—but with gifts fit for royalty;—the most precious treasures their country afforded, gold and myrrh and frankincense. So we should worship Christ by giving to him of our richest and best; our bodies and souls; our property and our talents. It was probably by means of the Magi's gifts that Joseph and Mary were sustained in Egypt. As God took care of his Son, so he will take care of us in every strait, who through faith in Christ have become his sons and daughters.

LITERATURE.

CURRENT PERIODICALS.

The Preacher's Magazine for December, edited by Revs. Mark Guy Pearse and Arthur E. Gregory, completes the third volume. This excellent magazine is a thoroughly homiletical one, and does not take up the more intricate questions of the day, leaving that department for the reviews. It is a help for the working clergyman or Bible student. Among the articles of this number is an excellent sermon entitled A Gospel that is No Gospel, by Rev. Robert F. Horton. The Rev. Robert A. Watson continues his able articles on The Apostolic Churches: Their Doctrine and Fellowship, as does the senior editor his Life of Moses, treating in this number The Angel and the Way. The Homiletical Department contains outline sermons, among them The Living Past, by Rev. Joseph Bush, and The Supreme Change, by Rev. Julius Brigg. There are also other outlines by prominent clergymen, and a Children's Sermon, by Rev. T. D. Hyde. The notes on the International Sunday-school Lessons, and Outline Addresses on the Golden Texts, are treated in a competent manner by the editors. The Rev. John Edwards, under the subject heading, How Men Get Their Sermons, writes about Bishop Wilberforce. The magazine is published monthly at $1.50 per year, and we would advise our readers to send 15 cents for sample copy to Wilbur B. Ketcham, publisher, 2 Cooper Union, New York.

As usual, the Journal of Hygiene for December (edited and published by Dr. M. L. Holbrook, 46 East 21st street, New York City) is replete with valuable information for doctors, nurses and households. Dr. Chas. H. Shepard reviews the rise and progress of the Turkish bath in a memorial address; W. E. Pabor advocates the Pineapple as a Food and Medicine; Edward A. Pennock describes New Ways of Serving Bananas; the editor continues his analysis of the Perfect Man, and writes, also, of Consumption in Infancy, Healing Wounds by Mental Suggestion, Overwork Rarely Kills, Acidity of the Stomach, the Solar Cautery, and Exercise for Middle-Aged Men whose Lives are Sedentary. Jenhie Chandler treats of Disease from Imagination, and commends the cooking of onions with potatoes and beans, and, likewise, bean broth. The editorial department is rich in timely notes and comments. Price, 10 cents, or $1.00 a year.

The Arena for December maintains its high literary standard and contains the following papers: The Ascent of Life—a hypnotic revelation, by Stinson Jarvis, with a portrait of the author; Aims and Methods of the Higher Criticism, by Prof. Wm. Sanday, A. M., D. D., Ph. D.; The Bank of Venice, by Hon. John Davis, M. C.; The Wonders of Hindoo Magic, by Dr. Heinrich Hensoldt, Ph. D.; Can the United States Restore the Bimetallic Standard of Money? by Dr. Geo. C. Douglas; The Practical Application of Hypnotism in Modern Medicine, by Dr. James R. Cocke; Rent—Its Essence and Place in the Distribution of Wealth; Freedom's Reveille (poem), by James G. Clark; Realism in Literature and Art, by Clarence S. Darrow; To Robert G. Ingersoll (poem), by Edgar Fawcett (fudge!) A Southern View of the Financial Situation, by George C. Kelley; A Human Habitation (poem), by Hamlin Garland; On a Barn Roof—a character-sketch, by Julie A. Herne; The Hour is Near (poem), by W. Jackson Armstrong; Gerald Massey—Prophet and Reformer, by B. O. Flower. Boston: The Arena Publishing Co. Price, 50 cents.

PAMPHLETS.

The Indian Rights Association, 1305 Arch street, Philadelphia, sends out a warning pamphlet—"A Dangerous Assault upon the Integrity of the Civil Service Law in the Indian Service," severely criticising a recent recommendation by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs. In substance, "he asks that in the case of bonded superintendents of Government Indian schools the newly extended Civil Service rules, requiring a competitive examination before appointment, be abolished. The reason advanced for asking the abrogation of the rules in reference to bonded superintendents is that more suitable appointments could be made under the old system, which permitted the appointing officer to make selections without any of the limitations now imposed by the rules The effect of this recommendation, if it is obtained, will be a reversal to the spoils systems—first, in the case of bonded superintendents, and step by step in the case of all other positions which are now protected by the rules. Appointments will then be made by an appointing officer who, in the great majority of cases, will inevitably make his selections under the importunities of Congressmen and other politicians who wish to use the offices in the Indian Service not primarily for the benefit of that Service, or for the good of the Indians, but for the advantage of their party or gifts to their personal friends..... We see in this recommendation the first step toward the destruction of what has been accomplished with so much effort and at so much cost. If this step be taken, a complete abrogation of the Civil Service Law in the Indian Service will be its logical sequence, and the good work of eleven years among the Indians will be endangered."

Bulletins Nos. 20 and 21 of the Agricultural Experiment Station of Nevada (University of Nevada), at Reno, are devoted, respectively, to the experimental culture of potatoes and tobacco, and a description of weeds in that State. The latter not only contains pictorial illustrations of several native weeds, but dried specimens of the weeds, presenting a very practical catalogue. Persons desiring these pamphlets can obtain them by addressing Dr. S. A. Jones, director of the station, at Reno.

RELIGIOUS NEWS.

BAPTIST.

—The educational movement of the Baptist Young People's Union, which is represented by the Christian culture classes, is progressing. At the New York State convention recently held it was laid down as necessary that in order to derive the benefit of the religious and educational work two meetings weekly must be held, the prayer meeting and the class meeting.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

—The Aubert Place Congregational Society of St. Louis have recently organized a mission Sunday-school which is conducted and supported by that society, with a prospect of it developing into a church at an early date.

—General Secretary John Willis Baer announces that on the first of November the Christian Endeavorers passed the 28,000 line, having now 28,071 societies enrolled, with a total membership of 1,684,260.

CONGREGATIONAL.

—The American Board of Foreign Missions has received a letter asking for the return of missionaries to Bulgaria, as their good influence has been stamped upon that country's history, literature, politics and religion.

LUTHERAN.

—The Lutherans carry on mission work in Utah in five different languages—English, German, Swedish, Norwegian and Icelandic.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.

—The General Missionary Committee decided upon the sum of $1,150,000 as the total to be appropriated for the work of domestic and foreign missions for the ensuing fiscal year. The financial report submitted by Rev. Dr. Sandford Hunt showed the gross receipts for the year to have decreased nearly $61,000. The balance of $44,000 which stood to the credit of the committee on November 1 last year has been wiped out, and in its place is a treasury debt of $109,263. Adding to this an outstanding bill of exchange of $78,943 makes a total indebtedness of $188,206. The total expenditures of the year were $1,350,245.

PRESBYTERIAN.

—On the third inst., Presbyterians at Galesburgh, Ill., dedicated a new church, which cost them $61,000. It is stated that the congregation is out of debt, but it is also criticised for accepting contributions from saloon-keepers to pay the indebtedness on the church.

PROTESTANT EPISCOPAL.

—The expenditures for missions by the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States the past year were: Domestic missions, $126,540.01; Indian missions, $44,277.62; colored missions, $52,741 71; foreign missions, $172,896.19; total, $396,455.53.—Christian Guardian.

Only a Step

from Weak Lungs to Consumption. from Depleted Blood to Anæmia, from Diseased Blood to Scrofula, from Loss of Flesh to Illness.

Scott's Emulsion

the Cream of Cod-liver Oil, prevents this step from being taken and restores Health. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.

Don't be deceived by Substitutes!

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

CHICAGO.

The disrupted James H. Walker wholesale and retail concerns were sold to William A. Mason for $015,000 cash by Judge McConnell.

Ministers of the North Chicago Union have organized for the relief of the shelterless and foodless.

F. J. V. Skiff has been selected to at once install the exhibits of the Field Columbian Museum.

General managers of western lines decided to put their agreement to restrict passes into effect Jan. 1.

Fully 10,000 persons were vaccinated within five days by physicians of the health department.

Fires, believed to be of incendiary origin, were discovered in confessionals in Holy Cross and St. Elizabeth churches.

A committee to further the plan to place Manufactures Building on the lake front was appointed by the Real Estate Board.

Specie is increasing, from which it is argued interest will be lower and speculative buying stimulated.

Lake reports for the season show 123 lives lost, fifty-three boats worth $1,040,000 out of existence, and total losses $2,112,588.

There is great delay in securing the right kind of jurors in the trial of Prendergast for the murder of Mayor Harrison.

World's Fair directors gave the South Park board $200,000 and the buildings at Jackson Park, settling their differences.

Nearly 500 permits were issued to poor persons for loads of kindling from the World's Fair grounds.

City council will be asked to take action looking to the relief of the army of unemployed.

An epoch in American art was marked in the dedication of the great institute on the lake front.

COUNTRY.

Three men seized the Luzerne, Iowa, depot, robbed every person who came along, and imprisoned them in the freightroom.

Another wholesale reduction in freight rates to the east has been announced by the Erie Line.

As a result of the hint in the President's message a corporation tax is likely to be made a feature of the tariff bill.

Secretary Carlisle asks an appropriation for the treasury department for the next fiscal year of $411,879,041.

For subduing a noisy youth at his church Elder Disney was fined $32 in Clay county, Indiana.

Overseers of Harvard decided to call the annex Radcliffe College, and to bestow degrees on girl graduates.

The "dance of the wind," one of the Egyptian attractions at the Midway Plaisance, last summer, was denounced as vile by New York City police justices, and the dancing girls were fined $50 each.

Wholesale expulsions of students from Des Moines College are promised as the result of investigation of acts of vandalism.

Among the nominations sent to the Senate was that of Joseph B. Doe, of Wisconsin, to be assistant secretary of war.

Henry Goebel, who invented the incandescent electric lamp, died of pneumonia, in New York, aged 75 years.

Thomas Axworthy died in exile at Hamilton, Ont. He was treasurer of Cleveland and in 1886 decamped with $500,000.

One of the crew reached shore from the wreck of the British ship Jaxon at Boston. Twenty-six were lost.

A canal which will irrigate 1,200,000 acres of land in the Salton Desert is projected by a number of Denver capitalists.

(Continued on 16th page.)

SUBSCRIPTION LETTERS.

The following have made remittances of money to the Cynosure from Dec. 4 to Dec. 9:

Mrs A Lewis, G S Peck, S B French, E Thompson, O M Lewis, Rev A Mayn, G S Carlisle, Rev J W Fified, L Gishwiller, J A Laird, J Mathews, C A Brownlee, J B Dodds, J F Ames, B Perrine, J Kurtz, J Osgood, Rev R P McElester, S Dresser Jr, T Keppel, S R Mitchell, S S Arthur, T O Patterson, G S Marcy, O C Blanchard, A Bergmann, J D Smith, J G Stauffer, R Hembrough.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO.

Wheat—Spring No. 2		62½@	57
Winter No. 2		60½@	63¾
Corn—No. 2		35¼@	36½
Oats—No. 2		28¼@	30¾
Rye—No. 2		46 @	47½
Bran per ton	12 00	@13	25
Hay—Timothy	10 50	@11	50
Butter, medium to best		16 @	27
Cheese		08 @	11½
Beans	1 30	@ 1	50
Eggs		23 @	24
Seeds—Timothy (100 lbs)	285	3	75
Flax	1 21	@ 1	22½
Clover (100 lbs.)	9 70	10	15
Broom corn (per ton)	30 00	@75	00
Potatoes, (new, bu.)	40	@ 60
Hides—Green to dry flint	02¾@	05	1½
Lumber—Common		@15	50
Wool (unwashed)	15		19
Cattle—Choice to extra	4 45	@ 5	15
Common to good	3 60	@ 4	15
Hogs	4 95	@ 5	45
Sheep	1 00	@ 3	75

NEW YORK.

Wheat No. 2	68	@	69¼
Corn No 2	47⅝	@	46½
Oats	38¾	@	40½
Rye	50	@	57
Eggs	20	@	26
Butter	17	@	28½
Wool	09	@	25

KANSAS CITY.

Cattle	1 45	@ 4	55
Hogs	5 10	@ 5	25
Sheep	1 00	3	75

THE MYSTIC SHRINE

Illustrated.

THE FULL

ILLUSTRATED RITUAL OF THE

Nobles of the Mystic Shrine

PRICE 15 CENTS, EACH.

For sale by the

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

DO YOU WANT

To receive, read, distribute and otherwise aid in the circulation of a large number of Holiness and Reform papers and magazines? If so, send me a SILVER dime, and your name and address will be printed on the Holiness and Reform Mail Exchange List, which is sent to all publishers of holiness and reform literature, who will mail you sample papers and magazines. Write name and address PLAINLY. Address, J. H. PADGETT, Printer. Ennis, Texas.

"Samantha at the World's Fair"

Josiah Allen's Wife's New Book

JUST OUT. Over 100 illustrations by C. De Grimm. Everybody sure to want to read it.

With its 700 pages and handsome binding it settles the puzzling question of selecting a present, and makes just the

IDEAL BOOK FOR A CHRISTMAS GIFT.

AGENTS WANTED. Read what is said by one or two: "Eight orders on my way home—about 3 squares." "It goes like hot cakes. Took six orders this morning." "Nineteen names taken to-day." "I started out a little while on Saturday and this morning have twenty orders." The book sells itself. Every one wants it. Prices, by mail, or through agents, Cloth, $2 50. Half Russia, $4 00. Handsome prospectus and outfit for agents. Half a million copies sure to be sold. Write at once for terms to agents. $250 can be easily earned by Christmas.

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY, Publishers, 18-20 Astor Place, New York. Samantha Meets the Duke of Veragua.

MY EXPERIENCES WITH SECRET SOCIETIES.

BY A TRAVELER.

With a Key to Masonry Illustrated

A new edition, greatly enlarged, has been issued, embracing chapters on the Language of Numbers, Secret Empires, and Good Men, containing more Experiences, and affording a deeper insight into the Hidden Language and Workings of Secret Clans, and of the counterfeit pretences of good men, than ever before published. The Key is an exposition, explanation and verification of modern Baalism, with which all should be thoroughly acquainted. The price of the new edition is

Fifteen Cents,

but copies of the first edition will be forwarded for Ten Cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison St. Chicago.

The Christian Witness

Is an eight-page undenominational monthly; the official organ of the New Hampshire Christian Association, opposed to secret societies. It advocates Bible Holiness, Church Purity, Sound Morality and Temperance.

Terms: 50 cents a year, or three years for $1.00.

Send stamp for sample copy.

Address S. C. KIMBALL,
Box 277. Newmarket, N. H.

THE

Folly, Expense & Danger

OF

SECRET SOCIETIES.

BY

CHARLES A. BLANCHARD.
(President Wheaton College.)

5 Cts per Copy; $3 per Hundred

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
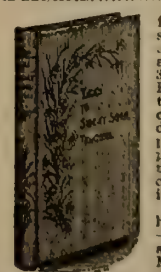
221 W. Madison St., Chica

Talks to Sunday School Teachers.

By Rev. J. G. Terrill. 12mo, 200 pages, bound in fine cloth..... .75



This book is the result of twenty-five years of experience in Sunday-school and treats of: 1. The Sunday-school organization and management. 2. Methods of work. 3. Studies in human nature. 4. Rules of Interpretation as applied to the Bible. 5. Illustrative exercises for primary classes and children's meetings. In the style of presentation, subject matter and price of the book, the wants of the officers and teachers of the ordinary Sunday-school are kept in view.

S. S. Times:—A very comprehensive book. N. Y. Independent:—A sensible manual for the average Sunday-school teacher. Evan. Mess.:—We have been very favorably impressed with the book, because it is so intensely practical. The subject is systematically treated, and leaders of teacher's meetings can not do better than adopt it as a text-book and devote half an hour of each session to teaching the theory and practice of teaching as here systematized. Christian at Work:—Any school that will adopt this book generally and carry forward its work or doctrines here laid down will not be long in developing into a model school and reaping the harvest of a rich fruitage. Herald and Presbyter:—These Talks are well attested in their profitableness and excellence. Buffalo Advocate:—A plain, practical, common sense book on a very important subject. The author has had wide experience in this field of work. He knows thoroughly the ground over which he would lead others, and possesses the happy faculty of packing a great deal of valuable information as to matter and manner of teaching into this little hand-book. We commend it to the attention of all Sunday-school workers. Religious Telescope:—We are pleased with the plan and treatment of the subjects throughout, and are sure that the diligent Sunday-school teacher who longs for more thorough equipment, will find in this book a helper of great value. Illustrated Christian Weekly:—The author talks from observation and experience, and talks well.

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison st., Chicago

Ex-President John Quincy Adams' LETTERS on the Nature of Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties. Price, cloth, $1.00. Paper, 35 cents.

Standard Works

—ON—

SECRET SOCIETIES

FOR SALE BY THE

National Christian Associat'n

221 West Indiana Street, Chicago Illinois

TERMS:—Cash with order, or if sent by express C. O. D. at least $1.00 must be sent with order as a guaranty that books will be taken. Books at retail prices sent postpaid. Books by Mail are at risk of persons ordering, unless 10 cents extra is sent to pay for registering them, when their safe delivery is guaranteed. Books at retail ordered by express, are sold at 10 per cent discount and delivery guaranteed, but not express paid. Postage stamps taken for small sums. ☞A liberal discount to dealers.

Freemasonry Illustrated. A complete exposition of the seven degrees of the Blue Lodge and Chapter. Profusely illustrated. Complete work of 640 pages, in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 75 cents. First three degrees (376 pages), in cloth, 75 cents. Paper covers, 40 cents.

Knight Templarism Illustrated. A full illustrated ritual of the six degrees of the Council and Commandery. A book of 341 pages. In cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.

Scotch Rite Masonry Illustrated. The complete illustrated ritual of the entire Scottish Rite, in two volumes, comprising all the Masonic degrees from 3rd to 33rd inclusive. The first three degrees are common to all the Masonic Rites, and are fully and accurately given in "Freemasonry Illustrated." Vol. I. of "Scotch Rite Masonry Illustrated" comprises the degrees from 3rd to 18th inclusive. Vol. II. of "Scotch Rite Masonry Illustrated" comprised the degrees from 19th to 33rd inclusive, with the signs, grips, tokens and passwords from 1st to 33rd degree inclusive. Price per volume, paper cover, 65 cents each. In cloth, $1.00 each.

Hand-Book of Freemasonry. By E. Ronayne, Past Master of Keystone Lodge No. 639, Chicago. Gives the complete standard ritual of the first three degrees of Freemasonry. New edition, 274 pages. Bound flexible cloth covers. 50 cents.

The Master's Carpet, or Masonry and Baal Worship Identical, explains the true source and meaning of every ceremony and symbol of the lodge. Bound in fine cloth, 420 pages, 75 cents.

Hon. Thurlow Weed on the Morgan ABDUCTION. This is the legally attested statement of this eminent Christian journalist and statesman concerning the unlawful seizure and confinement of Capt. Morgan in Canandaigua jail, his removal to Fort Niagara and subsequent drowning in Lake Ontario. 5 cents each.

Masonic Oaths Null and Void: OR FREEMASONRY SELF-CONVICTED. This is a book for the times. The design of the author is to refute the arguments of those who claim that the oaths of Freemasonry are binding upon those who take them. 207 pages. Postpaid, 40 cents each.

Revised Odd-fellowship Illustrated. The complete revised ritual of the Lodge, Encampment and Rebekah (ladies) degrees, profusely illustrated, and guaranteed to be strictly accurate; with a sketch of the origin, history and character of the order, over one hundred foot-note quotations from standard authorities, showing the character and teachings of the order, and an analysis of each degree by ex-President J. Blanchard. This ritual corresponds exactly with the "Charge Books" furnished by the Sovereign Grand Lodge. In cloth, $1.00; paper cover, 50cts.

Are Secret Societies a Blessing? An address by Rev. B. Carradine, D. D., pastor of the Centenary M. E church, St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 4, 1891. W. McCoy writes: "That sermon ought to be in the hands of every preacher in this land and every citizen's, too." A pamphlet of 20 pages and cover. Postpaid, 5 cents.

Between Two Opinions: OR THE QUESTION OF THE HOUR. By Miss E. E. Flagg author of "Little People," "A Sunny Life," etc., etc. Everyone who loves to read a good story, chaste and elegant in expression, pure in thought, interesting in narrative, should read this book upon the power of secret societies in politics, and the remedy. 389 pages; cloth, postpaid, $1.00.

HOME AND HEALTH.

PEANUTS AS FOOD.

Peanuts have a food value which is not generally appreciated. For the most part they are considered indigestible, but properly prepared and eaten at the regular meal times they ought to hold high rank as a pure and nourishing article of diet.

According to chemical analysis peanuts contain 28.3 per cent of nitrogenous material, and therefore excel all other food substance, either animal or vegetable, in the element of nutrition. The objection on the score of digestibility is easily removed by thorough mastication, reducing them to a creamy consistency in the mouth before swallowing.

Vegetarians are already making considerable use of peanut meal. After the nuts are shelled, and the red skins are removed, they are roasted and ground like coffee and the flour is used to advantage in cake, bread, pastry, and soups, the nature of the nut making it an excellent substitute for butter or more unwholesome shortening.

Salted peanuts now often take the place of the higher priced almonds. If the unparched or green nuts are used they are usually parboiled, the skins are rubbed off, and while the nuts are wet, they are salted, spread in a tin pan and browned for half an hour in the oven. If the nuts have been roasted they would of course need no parboiling.

Peanut coffee is made from the ground and roasted nuts in the same way that other coffee is prepared.

A contemporary gives a recipe for baking peanuts like beans. Put a pint of shelled nuts in a bean pot with two quarts of water, heat to boiling and cook for nine or ten hours in a slow oven. "They should be soft, mealy and rich with juice," says Good Health, from which the recipe is taken. No seasoning except a little salt will be required.

Nut meal of various kinds is probably destined to become better known to the housekeeper, for its sweet, spicy flavor will be found an attractive as well as nutritious addition in the preparation of food.

The peanut belongs to the legumes, the pecan and the pea family; it originated in Africa and was probably introduced into America with the slaves.—Laws of Life.

To prevent the hardening of the subcutaneous tissues of the scalp and the obliteration of the hair follicles, which cause baldness, use Hall's Hair Renewer.

Ben Hur by Lew Wallace only 4 cents

for three days' reading, proportionately for longer time, through your Bookseller, country Postmaster or direct. Deposit the price ($1.35) and on return get any book you want to borrow or want to buy, of the same value.

Books sold at the lowest prices ever known. Any book supplied. Catalogue, 160 pages, 2 cents.

Address JOHN B. ALDEN, Manager,
Mention this paper. 57 Rose St., New York.

LE CARON, THE SPY.

A STARTLING REVELATION.

More enticing than a romance, filled with the strongest evidences of the power and evil of sworn secret societies, and plainly revealing the danger to any government growing out of political conspiracies, is the

"Autobiography of Henry LeCaron, the Spy."

who was for years a Clan-na-Gael Center, a Fenian Commander, and a Land-League Orator, but always a British Detective. The book covers his twenty-five years' experiences in this secret service, and contains 205 pages.

Price, in paper covers, 50 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison St. .Chicago, Ill

Patrolman Julius Zeidler

Of the Brooklyn, N. Y., Police Force, gladly testifies to the merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla. His wife takes it for dizziness and indigestion and it works charmingly. "The children also take it with great benefit. It is without doubt a most excellent thing for That Tired Feeling. I cheerfully recommend and Hood's Pills to every one who wishes to have health and comfort." Get HOOD'S.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

HOOD'S PILLS cure liver ills, constipation, biliousness, jaundice, and sick headache.

SEVEN YEARS AMONG THE FREEDMEN.
Revised and Enlarged.

BY MARIA WATERBURY.

Finely Illustrated 196 Pages.....75cts.

The first edition of this book has "gone like hot cakes," and a second edition with more of the same sort has been loudly called for and is now ready for delivery. The press, the pulpit, the educator, the reformer, the masses, have bidden it welcome and Godspeed. We quote a few good words from sundry sources: EARNEST CHRISTIAN: "Publish the book for the good it will do."

Dr. Talmage, in the Christian Herald and Signs of our Times, for February 11th, says: "A helpful little volume, just out, for the workers is, 'Seven Years among the Freedmen,' by Miss M. Waterbury, Polo, Ill.,—a teacher well known to many in Illinois—detailing the quaint and thrilling scenes of her experience—'truth stranger,' oftimes, 'than fiction. One day the chore-man came to Miss M. Waterbury, to be taught a prayer; all the scholars had a prayer to say and he wanted one. John was past middle life and very ignorant. The teacher began the Lord's Prayer, a sentence at a time, explaining as the lesson progressed. 'Thy kingdom come' was all right. 'Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors.' 'What dat mean?' said he. 'That you must forgive everybody, or God will not forgive you.' 'Stop, teacher, can't do dat,' and he went away. After vacation he appeared, saying: 'Now go on wid de prayer. I dun forgive him. Old massar once gib me five hundred lashes, and hit me wid a crow bar, an' t' row me out fur dead, and I met him down de street, an' wouldn't speak at him, but to-day I met him an' aid 'How d'ye?' Now go on wid dat prayer' "

Inter Ocean: "A Splendid Book. Seven Years among Freedman is a volume of 494 pages by Miss M. Waterbury, of Polo, Ills., who has spent seven years as a teacher among the freedmen in Mississippi and Alabama. It is a series of sketches telling very simply and graphically the life led by Northern teachers in the South. It bears all the evidences of truthfulness and if it fails to impress the reader with the manhood and dignity of the old ruling class of the South, it is perhaps because the whole truth is told. One reading the book will stop to ask, Why not send missionaries to the white people of the South? They seem to need it more than the blacks."

Journal, Freeport, Ills.: "We are indebted to Mrs. Lila L. Buckley, of this city, for a copy of this interesting volume. The efforts made to elevate the freedmen of the South is one of the most important and deserving charities of the present time, far excelling any effort to elevate the heathen of foreign lands, and it should have the aid of all charitable people in this country. ....The proceeds of sales is devoted to the work of elevating the freedmen of the South, and we trust that every one to whom Miss Waterbury applies will purchase a copy of the book, which is in itself fully worth the price. Miss Waterbury's grandfather, Rev. Calvin Waterbury, was the first Presbyterian minister in Freeport, and it was by his efforts that the First Presbyterian church in Freeport was established.

Polo, (Ills.,) Press: "Seven Years Among the Freedmen. Our townswoman Miss Maria Waterbury, the past winter, prepared for publication an account of some of her singular experiences in the "sixties" among the freedmen of Mississippi. Miss Waterbury and Miss Ford, both of this place, did grand work in those years and deserve no small mead of praise for their heroic sacrifices.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

The Nonesuch Professor,

In his Meridian Splendor. By William Secker (Puritan). With an introduction by Theo. L. Cuyler, D. D. 16 mo, $1.00.

"It is a mine of sparkling gems."—Presbyterian Observer.

"A sheaf of golden grain, ripened by grace, and sweet with the flavor of rare simplicity and holy wisdom."—N. Y. Observer.

"It is a searching book."—Christian Intelligencer.

"This is a wonderful book. At whatever page you open it, your eye lights upon pithy aphorisms that combine the sententiousness of Benjamin Franklin with the sweet, holy savor of Samuel Rutherford. It contains hundreds of bright seed thoughts."—Rev. T. L. Cuyler, D. D.

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
231 W. Madison st., Chicago

STANDARD WORKS
—ON—
SECRET SOCIETIES
FOR SALE BY THE
National Christian Association.
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

TERMS:—Cash with order, or if sent by express C. O. D. at least $1.00 must be sent with order as a guaranty that books will be taken. Books at retail prices sent postpaid. Books by Mail are at risk of persons ordering, unless 10 cents extra is sent to pay for registering them, when their safe delivery is guaranteed. Books at retail ordered by express, are sold at 10 per cent discount and delivery guaranteed, but not express paid. Postage stamps taken for small sums. ☞ A liberal discount to dealers

Temple of Honor Illustrated. A full and complete illustrated ritual of "The Templars of Honor and Temperance," commonly called the Temple of Honor. By a Templar of Fidelity and Past Worthy Chief Templar. 25cts each.

Rituals and Secrets Illustrated. Composed of "Temple of Honor Illustrated, "Adoptive Masonry Illustrated," "United Sons of Industry Illustrated," and "Secret Societies Illustrated." $1.00 each.

Finney on Masonry. The character, claims and practical workings of Freemasonry. By Pres. Charles G. Finney, of Oberlin College. President Finney was a "bright Mason," but left the lodge when he became a Christian. This book has opened the eyes of multitudes. In cloth, 75 cents. Paper cover, 35 cents.

Stories of the Gods. By I. R. B. Arnold. Brief sketches from the mythology of Rome, Greece, Egypt, India, Persia, Phrygia, Scandinavia, Africa and America, showing the relations and unity of past and present systems. The idolatrous worship of the Masonic lodge is thus clearly seen and understood. Postpaid, 10 cents.

Judge Whitney's Defense before THE GRAND LODGE OF ILLINOIS. Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the lodge when S. H. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry. 15 cents each.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret SOCIETIES. A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons in the Christian church. 10 cents each.

Masonry a Work of Darkness, adverse to Christianity, and inimical to republican government. By Rev. Lebbeus Armstrong (Presbyterian) a seceding Mason of 21 degrees. 15 cents each.

Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the INITIATE? By Rev. L. A. Post. 5 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. J. Day Brownlee. In reply to a Masonic Oration by Rev. Dr. Mayer, Wellsville, Ohio. 5 cents each.

Masonic Outrages. Compiled by Rev. H. H. Hinman. Showing Masonic assault on lives of seceders, on reputation, and on free speech; its interference with justice in courts, etc. Postpaid, 20 cents.

Sermon on Secret Societies. By Rev. Daniel Dow, Woodstock, Conn. The special object of his sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the character of secret societies, no matter what object such societies profess to have. 5 cents each.

Grand Lodge Masonry. Its relation to civil government and the Christian religion. By Pres. J. Blanchard. The un-Christian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is proved from the highest Masonic authorities. 5 cents each.

The Broken Seal; or Personal Reminiscences of the Abduction and Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan. By Samuel D. Greene. In cloth, 75 cents. Paper covers, 40 cents.

The Mystic Tie, or Freemasonry a LEAGUE WITH THE DEVIL. This is an account of the church trial of Peter Cook and wife, of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a reverend Freemason. 15 cents each.

History of the Abduction and MurDER OF CAPT. WM. MORGAN. As prepared by seven committees of citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan. 25 cents each.

Freemasonry Self-Condemned. By Rev. J. W. Bain. A careful and logical statement of reasons why secret orders should not be fellowshiped by the Christian Church. Paper covers, price, 20 cents each.

Holden with Cords. OR THE POWER OF THE SECRET EMPIRE. By E. E. Flagg, author of "A Sunny Life," etc. This is a thrillingly interesting story, accurately true to life because mainly a narration of historical facts. In cloth, $1.00; in paper, 50 cents.

Secret Societies. A discussion of their character and claims by Rev. David McDill, Pres. J. Blanchard and Rev. Edward Beecher. In cloth, 35cts each; paper covers, 15cts each.

Secret Societies, Ancient and ModERN. Table of Contents: The Antiquity of Secret Societies, The Life of Julian, The Eleusinian Mysteries, The Origin of Masonry, Was Washington a Mason? Fillmore and Webster's Deference to Masonry, A Brief Outline of the Progress of Masonry in the United States, The Tammany Ring, Masonic Benevolence, The Uses of Masonry, An Illustration, The Conclusion. 50cts each.

Pres. H. H. George on Secret SocieTIES. A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian churches to disfellowship secret societies. 10cts each.

Secrecy vs. the Family, State and CHURCH. By Rev. M. S. Dury. The antagonism of organized secrecy to the welfare of the family, state and church, is clearly shown. 10cts each.

Narratives and Arguments, showing the conflict of secret societies with the Constitution and law of the Union and of the States. By Francis Semple. The fact that secret societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of law is here clearly proved. 15cts each.

The Anti-mason's Scrap-Book, consisting of 53 "Cynosure" tracts. In this book are the views of more than a score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of secret societies. Postpaid. 25 cts.

Reminiscences of Morgan Times. By Elder David Bernard. This is a thrilling narrative of the incidents connected with Bernard's Revelation of Freemasonry 10 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. James Williams, Presiding Elder of Dakota District Northwestern Iowa Conference M. E. Church—a seceding Master Mason. 10 cents each.

Oaths and Penalties of the 33 DeGREES OF FREEMASONRY. To get these thirty-three degrees of Masonic bondage, the candidate takes half-a-million horrible oaths. 15 cents each.

Odd-fellowship Judged by its own utterances; its doctrine and practice examined in the light of God's Word. By Rev. J. H. Brockman. This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. In cloth 50cts; paper covers, 25cts.

Sermon on Odd-fellowship and other secret societies, by Rev. J. Sarver, pastor Evangelical Lutheran church. This is a very clear argument against secretism of all forms, and the duty to disfellowship Odd-fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications. 10cts each.

United Sons of Industry IllusTRATED. A full and complete illustrated ritual of the secret tradesunion of the above name, giving the signs, grips, passwords &c. 15cts each.

Oaths and Penalties of FreemasonRY, as proved in court in the New Berlin trials. The New Berlin trials began in the attempt of Freemasons to prevent public initiations by seceding Masons. These trials were held at New Berlin, Chenango Co., N. Y., April 13 and 14, 1831, and General Augustus C. Welsh, sheriff of the county, and other adhering Freemasons swore to the truthful revelation of the oaths and penalties. 10 cents each.

Anti-masonic Sermons and AdDRESSES. Composed of "Masonry a Work of Darkness;" the Sermons of Messrs. Cross, William M'Nary, Dow and Sarver, the two addresses of President Blanchard, and the addresses of President H. H. George, Prof. J. G. Carson and Rev. M. S. Drury; "Thirteen Reasons Why a Christian cannot be a Freemason," "Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion," and "Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the Initiate?" 287 pages; cloth $1.00

FARM NOTES.

CARE OF CHICKENS.

MR. EDITOR:—Seeing many opinions in your paper relating to the profits of different kinds of poultry, I thought I would give mine also. I have the best results with brown Leghorns, because of their giving more eggs and requiring a far less amount of food. In winter they must have warm quarters and also be fed warm food at least once a day, to get good returns for one's care and labor, I think they are good setters and good mothers, and still easy to break up if not wanted to set. I have good luck as a general rule raising the chicks, and from those hatched in May or the first part of June I scarcely ever lose any, except when they are attacked with cholera. Last year I only saved three out of a brood of twenty-two, but this year I did not lose any.

When they were affected I fed them a ration twice a day for one week of one-half pint of corn meal scalded, into which I mixed one heaping tablespoonful of black pepper to every twenty chicks. And if very bad, double the amount of pepper. I dusted thick under the coops and all around where they run with good wood ashes several times, and gave plenty of good fresh water. I think the reason I lost them last year was because I did not use enough pepper. Of course I gave them other food, but not so much but what they would be hungry enough to eat all the meal and pepper. A quantity of scraps of tallow, fed occasionally, will be beneficial to both hens and chicks, both to keep them healthy and as an egg producer. A number of years ago we lost nearly all our flock of hens, some of their combs turning a mud color, some dark, while in a day or two they would die. I was told to feed them fresh grease of any kind, and, of course, tallow being so much cheaper and just as good as far as I could see, I used it. I have not lost a single fowl since I began feeding it, and I have had some pretty sick ones.

On an average, I keep about twenty hens, and raise from fifty to sixty chicks each year; and in some years have sold enough eggs and chicks to average $2.25 a hen, profit, besides all the chickens and eggs that we used, which was no small item.—A Farmer's Wife in the New York Witness.

United Presbyterians among our readers will be glad to learn that the Midland of Omaha is about to remove to Chicago. This will answer the most common and seemingly only objection to it—"too far west." The Midland is newsy, spicy and sound, liberal and loyal and patriotic and progressive; it excels in giving the news of its own denomination, in supporting the reforms of the day and in advocating home missions. Send for a free sample copy. Address the Midland Publishing Co. Its regular price is $1.50, but to one of our old subscribers who becomes a new subscriber to the Midland, both papers will be sent by us for $2.50. To one who becomes a new subscriber to both, the Cynosure and Midland, the papers will cost for one year only $2.00. Address, Christian Cynosure, 221 W. Madison street.

A BOOKLET.

107 pages, 5x7 inches.

Paper Cover, Postpaid, 15 Cents

—0:0—

The following addresses form part of the contents of this booklet:

THE MARTYR'S OWN MONUMENT, by Rev. J. E. Roy, D. D., Western Secretary of American Missionary Association.

CHRISTIAN POLITICS, by Rev. J. Blanchard, late President Wheaton College, and Editor Christian Cynosure.

THE MYSTERIOUS MACHINE: was it Lawnmower, Town-pump, Balloon, Wheel-barrow,—or what? by Prof. E. D. Bailey of the Civil Service Dept. U. S. Government.

This booklet includes other interesting matter connected with the unveiling of the Morgan monument at Batavia, N. Y. Address

CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

Your Family

should be provided with the well-known emergency medicine,

AYER'S

CHERRY PECTORAL

The best remedy for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. Prompt to act,

Sure to Cure

AMERICAN HANDBOOK

AND

CITIZEN MANUAL.

BY

MANLOVE N. BUTLER.

CONTENTS:—Bible and Secretism; Masonic Religion; Masonic Sun Worship; Masonic Government; Unwritten History; Grand Lodge Masonry; Public Opinion; Lodge and Saloon; The American Movement; Real Prohibition; Poor Man's Bible, and All-Around Reformers. Over 200 pages

Paper, single copy 40c.; per doz. 35c.

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
WM. I. PHILLIPS, Treasurer,
221 W. Madison St., Chic

THE TWO-FOLD GIFT of the Holy Ghost,

BY REV. THOS. K. DOTY,
Author of Lessons in Holiness.

240 pp. Price postpaid.....65cts.

The design of this book is, in plain language, to designate the place of the Holy Ghost in both the Godhead and the work of Salvation. Especially to show that Entire Santification is wrought in the heart by the Baptism of Holy Ghost; and that the Epoch of the Baptism is identical with that of his Advent in his Indwelling Personalty. The agency of the Holy Ghost in the Life, and in carrying on the work of the Gospel, is given particular attention.

TITLES TO THE CHAPTERS:

1. A Summary. 2. The Holy Ghost a Person. 3. The New Testament Designating Terms. 4. The Scriptural View. 5. The Holy Ghost is God. 6. Blasphemy Against the Holy Ghost. 7. The Triunity of God. 8. The Apostolic Benediction. 9. The Worship of the Holy Ghost. 10. The Dispensations. 11. The First Dispensation. 12. The Second Dispensation. 13. Holiness—Sinning. 14. "The Sin of the World." 15. Final Deliverance from Sin. 16. The Day of the Holy Ghost. 17. Jesus and the Holy Ghost. 18 and 19. The Epoch of the Holy Ghost. 20. The Anointing. 21. The Baptism of the Holy Ghost. 22. The Baptism of Fire. 23. The Two-Fold Experiences of the Holy Ghost. 24. Fellowship of the Holy Ghost. 25. "In the Spirit." 26. Several Scriptural Terms Considered. 27. Pentecost. 28. Inspiration—Prophecy. 29. Spiritual Leading and Teaching. 30. The Gifts of the Soirit. 31. "Praying in the Holy Ghost." 31 and 32. Power.

This book is creating quite a stir in religious circles. The original, bold and convincing manner of presenting the subject, has forced the press to comment upon the book, either adversely or favorably, generally the latter. We give a few OPINIONS:

Bible Standard and Gospel Record: "This book is very compact, scarcely a superfluous sentence in the whole book. The manner of treating the questions involved is both clear and scriptural. .....The effect of the book will be to deepen thought and increase knowledge and, in the end, deepen piety."

Evangelical Messenger: "Brother Thomas K. Doty has written a book which we take pleasure in commending to all devout readers who enjoy all spiritual things. The subject is so important, and the treatment of it so timely, that we may be pardoned for calling attention to it thus prominently. We, at least have been greatly interested, and gratefully acknowledge that we have also been decidedly profited by persuing it .....Brother Doty writes with an incisive pen, in a clear, lucid style, often epigrammatical and with great force. He is evidently deeply impressed with the truth of what he writes and demands the respect even where he does not gain the intellectual assent of his readers. Withal the book is written in a kindly, candid spirit, rather didactic than polermical, and is calculated to help the reader and not to rouse his opposition, as is the case with so many books which have been written upon this and kindred subjects. The theological views expressed are orthodox, and in some cases the argument is fresh in matter, and certainly fresh in form throughout."

Christian Cynosure: "His book is one of the most excellent, instructive and practical of any that have come to our knowledge. The exposition of the Scriptures concerning the personality and work of the Spirit is very clear, able and comforting. There is much dogmatizing on these topics by Christians who never fully felt the power of the Spirit's work, or are not living in gracious fellowship with him. To all such and to those who have not yet learned what gifts the Lord is waiting to bestow on his people we heartily commend the careful reading of this volume."

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221W. Madison St., Chicago

RECENT PUBLICATIONS OF

FLEMING H. REVELL.

Modern Ideas of Evolution.

As related to Revelation and Science. By Sir William Dawson, L. L. D., F. R. S., etc. 12 mo, cloth, $1.50.

In popular style, a testing by scientific facts and principles, the validity of that multiform and brilliant philosophy of the universe, which has taken so deep a hold of the science and literature of our times.

The New World of Central Africa

By Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness; with a history of the first Christian mission on the Congo. Maps, Portraits and numerous engravings. 537 pages, 12 mo, $2.00.

This comprehensive volume is as fascinating as the most entertaining romance. Its vivid portrayal of the dark side of African history makes one's blood tingle, while its earnest appeals create an inspiring sympathy with the effort to evangelize its teeming millions.

Power From on High.

By Rev. B. Fay Mills. White vellum paper, 20 cents.

This little work, revised from stenographic notes of Mr. Mills' address before the National Convention of the Y. P. S. C. E., is exceedingly effective.

Matthew Henry's Commentary.

An entirely new large type edition of this inimitable Commentary, in six large 8vo. volumes, fine cloth, $15.00; or, in half Morocco, $18.00.

"Biblical students who are most familiar with the very best commentaries of this generation are most able to appreciate the unfading freshness, the clear analysis, the spiritual force, the quaint humor, and the evangelical richness of Matthew Henry's Exposition of the Old and New Testaments."—New York Observer

"First among the mighty for general usefulness we are bound to mention the man whose name is a household word—MATTHEW HENRY. He is the most pious and pithy, sound and sensible, suggestive and sober, terse and trust worthy."—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

The Present Tenses of the Blessed Life.

By Rev. F. B. Meyer. 32 mo, 50 cents.

"It is sufficient to say its one direct aim is the present enjoyment of the precious promises. Mr. Meyer's earnest and persuasive teaching in this direction is admirably condensed in these brief chapters."

BY THE SAME AUTHOR:

Christian Living. Cloth, 32 mo, 50 cents.

"A more suggestive and helpful volume it would not be easy to name."—Christian Leader.

The Shepherd Psalm. Cloth, 32 mo, 50c.

"This is a gem."—Illustrated Christian Weekly

"It is a little book which hundreds of devout hearts will enjoy,"—Congregationalist.

Power From on High.

By Rev. B. Fay Mills. White vellum paper, 20 cents.

This little work, revised from stenographic notes of Mr. Mills' address before the National Convention of the Y. P. S. C. E., is exceedingly effective.

OTHER WORKS BY C. H. SPURGEON:

Feathers for Arrows; Or, Illustrations for Teachers and Preachers. 12 mo, $1.

"This work covers a wide range of subjects. The metaphors are always striking and frequently brilliant, while the truths that they illustrate are such as have always formed the staple of Mr. Spurgeon's discourses. A choicer collection of illustrations we do not know."—Freeman.

Spurgeon's Gems. Being a selection of brilliants from his discourses. 12 mo, $1.

The Golden Alphabet. Being a Devotional Commentary on the One Hundred and Nineteenth Psalm. 12 mo, $1.00.

"Mr. Spurgeon brings out the truths and beauties of this w onderful Psalm so as to set a rich feast before the reader. As a practical commentator on the Psalms, Spurgeon has no equal."—Presbyterian Banner.

"This commentary is written in quite the happiest vein of its popular author, and the devotional spirit throughout is intense and elevating."—Occident.

Gleanings Among the Sheaves. 18 mo, 60c.

All of Grace. An earnest word with those seeking the way of life. 16 mo, paper, 30 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

According to Promise; Or, the Lord's Dealings with His chosen People. 16 mo, paper, 30 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Christmas Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve New Year Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Sermons on the Resurrection. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth. 50 cents.

"Preachers may get aid in preparing Easter or funeral sermons from this volume. Good to present to those who have lost loved ones."—National Baptist.

Twelve Striking Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Soul-Winning Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Selected by Mr. Spurgeon as the twelve sermons under which there has been the most marked and permanent success.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W Madison St. Chicago

The New World of Central Africa.

By Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness, with a history of the first Christian mission on the Congo. 12mo., 530 pages with maps, portraits and numerous illustrations.$2.00

"A conscientious piece of work, and gives a very clear account of what has been done by the Protestant missions to evangelize the barbarous races of Central Africa. • • • He who wants to know what missionary effort means in these days may well learn from this volume. • • • The reader who goes carefully through will have a good bird's eye view of recent events in Africa, with all the results of modern travel. • • The work contains solid information of use to all who are interested in the future of this wonderful country. The many illustrations throw light upon savage customs and costumes."—Graphic.

In the Far East.

Letters from China by Geraldine Guinness, edited by her sister, with introduction by Rev. J. Hudson Taylor. Very fully illustrated. Quarto cloth, ...$1.50

This book was scarcely written—it was lived; for the breath of life is in it from cover to cover. • • • We have never read so wonderful an account of successful missionary effort.—Presbyterian

We easily understand how this edition is the fifteenth thousand. It is a very remarkable book.—The Golden Rule.

Frances Ridley Havergall's Poems.

Author's edition complete. The only unabridged authorized edition published in America.

1. 12mo., 880 pages, cloth, beveled....2.00
2. Beveled boards, full gilt.....2.50
3. Half white vellum, gilt top, uncut edges, ...2.50
4. French morocco padded, roll red under gold edges...4.00
5. Persian calf, padded and embossed, gilt roll and r. g. 5.00
6. Crushed levant, elegant.....6.00
7. Full German calf, padded, elegant, gilt, rd. cors.....7.50

Miss Havergall stands without peer in the English language in the department of religious poetry.

"The book in paper and binding is all that could be desired."—Publishers' Weekly.

Small Books by Miss Havergall.

Bound in elegant illuminated board covers.

Kept for the Master's Use. 20

My King; Daily Thoughts for the King's Children.....30

Works of Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

Sermon Notes. Covering all the Bible from Genesis to Revelation. 4 vols.....4.00

Feathers for Arrows. A volume of Choice Extracts, 12mo., cloth.....1.00

Twelve Striking Sermons..... 50

Twelve Soul Winning Sermons, ... 50

Twelve Sermons on the Resurrection 50

Twelve New Year Sermons..... 50

Twelve Christmas Sermons..... 30

Notes by C. H. M.

On Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy.

Mr. D. L. Moody says of these books: "They have been to me a very key to the Scriptures."

Deuteronomy is issued in two volumes, the others complete in one volume each.

Separate volumes may be had if desired.

The complete set in six volumes, covering over 2,300 pages, is offered at the reduced price of 75c per vol. or $4.50 per set

A. L. O. E. Intermediate Library.

Selected from the numerous productions of this world-renowned writer as being those of rare merit. 12 vols., 12mo., cloth elegant, each 75c; set.....9.00

An Eden in England.	Life in Eagle's Nest.
Ned Franks.	White Bear's Den.
Sheer Off.	Fairy Spider's Web.
Braid of Chords.	Lake in the Woods.
Silver Keys.	Seven Perils Passed.
Grace Vernon.	Hartley Brothers.

The Jessica Series. By Hesba Stretton. 6 vols., handsome bindings, cloth 50c each, or per set 2.10

Jessica's First Prayer.	Friends till Death.
No Place Like Home.	A Miserable Christmas
Under the Old Roof.	A Night and a Day.

A. L. O. E. Junior Library. Adapted to the young folks. 7 vols., 12mo., cloth each 60c; the set. 4.20

Claremont Tales.	A Wreath of Smoke.
Christian Conquests.	Pomegranates from
Tales Illustrative of Parables.	Punjab.
The Battle of Life.	Little Bullets from Batala.

The Hesba Stretton Series. 8 vols., elegant cloth bound, per set.....4.80

Cassy.	King's Servant.
Lost Gip.	Alone in London.
Max Kromer.	Little Meg's Children
Storm of Life	Crew of the Dolphin.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

Royal Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength. — Latest United States Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO.,
106 Wall St., N. Y.

NEWS OF THE WEEK (Continued from 13th page).

Another great coast storm is reported from England. It is feared the loss of life will be heavy.

Minister Mendonca says the defeat of Mello is only a question of time, and then Brazilian revolution will collapse.

Plans for the reorganization of the Union Pacific are under consideration which involve government control of all roads.

Gov. Rich of Michigan will issue another proclamation calling for help for the suffering miners.

For stealing cattle to feed starving families, six men received a one-year sentence at Cheyenne, Wyo., the lowest penalty.

At the request of the miners' convention Gov. Waite has decided to call an extra session of the Colorado legislature.

Anti-saloon residents of Ossian, Ind., are under suspicion of using dynamite and blowing up a storeroom.

A solitary thief entered the South Bend (Ind.) National Bank at the noon hour and snatching $15,900, escaped.

Fire in the navyyard at Norfolk, Va., did damage of nearly $300,000. It originated in cotton waste.

Minnesota courts decided ex-Governor Pillsbury and partner must pay the State for timber illegally obtained.

Danbury, Conn., hatters packed a town meeting and adopted a resolution appropriating $50,000 to aid the unemployed.

The Pan-American bureau is tottering. With its fall the last vestige of Mr. Blaine's scheme will disappear.

Gov. Waite may be indicted as a result of the trouble over the wardenship of Colorado's penitentiary.

Armed thieves forced the station agent at Howard, Kan., to open the Santa Fe safe. They secured $40.

A deal has been arranged whereby the Toledo, Peoria & Western Line will pass into the control of the Pennsylvania.

Harvey Pate and Frank Stiers were hanged at Danville, Ill., for the murder of Henry Helmick in August.

In Marion Township, Mercer county, Ohio, it is found public school children are receiving sectarian instruction,

Charged with converting money of the county to their own use, Oregon National Bank officers at Portland were indicted.

FOREIGN.

The celebrated Manchester (Eng.) ship canal, began three years or more ago, is now ready for navigation and will be opened for traffic Jan. 1, 1894.

In opening the agricultural congress at London the Earl of Winchelsea drew a dark picture of the situation in England.

Report of the committee to investigate military attacks on the striking English miners says blood was needlessly shed.

Canada's new tariff measure will discriminate against the United States and in favor of Great Britain.

Prof. John Tyndall, LL. D., the eminent scientist and author, died at Haslemere, Surrey, England. He was 73 years old. His death was caused by an overdose of chloral given by his wife in mistake.

King Humbert has refused to prorogue the Italian parliament, which is interpreted to mean distrust of the cabinet.

Influenza is spreading in London. Seventy-four deaths were attributed to the disease within a week.

Admiral Mello, the Brazilian rebel leader, has again appeared off Rio Janeiro in his flag ship.

Five foreign anarchists were arrested at Barcelona, Spain. One kept a beer shop where others congregated.

German agitation against the Russian and other commercial treaties is increasing, and also against Caprivi personally.

Austrian Socialists have decided to inaugurate a universal strike as a protest against the army bill now before the reichsrath.

A total general loss of £33,231,215 was caused by the sixteen-weeks' strike of English coal miners.

About 100,000 Scotch coal miners are now on a strike and 17,000 others may be called out.

M. Dupuy was elected president of the French chamber of deputies over M. Brison by 38 votes.

King Humbert has signed a decree appointing Crispi, the ex-premier, to form a new Italian cabinet.

George Bunn, American artist, was sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment at Brussels for the murder of Anna Hoffman.

Spanish police have secured evidences of anarchist conspiracy by a raid upon suspected houses at Mesina du Rio Seco.

Mexican rebels attacked the government troops near Ascension and killed one of the officers. Twenty-five soldiers deserted.

"When your heart is bad, and your head is bad, and you are bad clean through, what is needed?" asked a Sunday-school teacher of her class. "I know—Ayer's Sarsaparilla," spoke up a little girl, whose mother had recently been restored to health by that medicine.

CLUBBING RATES.

Your attention is called to the reading notice in another column of the the Midland, (U. P.) Chicago and Omaha.

The Christian Cynosure and The Cosmopolitan magazine, New York, each one year, for only $2.50. Any paper or magazine furnished in connection with the Cynosure at a rate that may save you money. Send in the list of papers and magazines that you wish to take for 1894, and we will give you their cost including the Cynosure for one year.

JONATHAN BLANCHARD'S

—]-oo-[—

SERMONS AND ADDRESSES.

Select discourses of the late editor of the Cynosure and leader in our reform. Lectures, sermons and speeches given from 1834 to 1892 in leading cities of the United States, discussing topics of

LIVING REFORM.

Secret Societies,
The Sabbath,
Temperance,
National Reform,
Christian Education,
Christian Socialism,
The Bible, Etc., Etc.

A BOOK EVERYBODY SHOULD READ

12mo. Fine Photogravure Portrait.

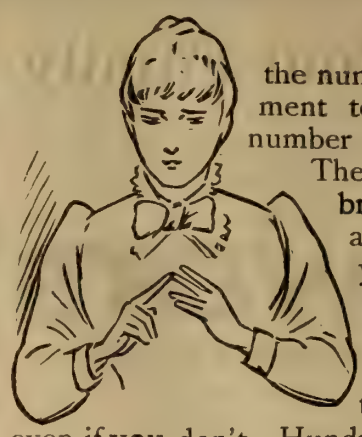
Price, 75 Cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

Our High Grade List and Bargain Book sent to any address on receipt of a 2-c stamp.

LORD & THOMAS,
NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING
45 RANDOLPH STREET,
CHICAGO.

Count Up



the number of times you have to rub a garment to get it clean; multiply it by the number of garments washed in a year.

Then you can see just how many back-breaking rubs Pearline will save you, annually. You don't do the washing yourself? That doesn't make any difference. You need Pearline just the same. Every one of these tiresome rubs is wear and tear on the things that are washed. They suffer, even if you don't. Hundreds of millions of packages of Pearline have been consumed. Think of the number of useless and harmful rubs that have been saved to the women of America.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you, "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled. if your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—send it back. 364 JAMES PYLE, New York.

You can't Escape them

The Holidays are bearing down upon you. Possibly you are not impatient for their coming, but this doesn't count. They will come just the same.

$1.00 will do it. One dollar will let you out. It will buy a year's subscription to MUNSEY'S MAGAZINE, and we will venture to say that you may ransack New York and all her big sister cities—you may think till you are upon the verge of insanity—you may search from one end of the continent to the other, and you cannot buy for one dollar anything that would give your wife or relatives or friends, rich or poor, so much satisfaction, so many hours of pleasure, as can be had from a year's subscription to MUNSEY'S MAGAZINE.

Munsey's

is the best and handsomest magazine in the world and it sells for 10 cents.

Only $1.00 by the year; about eight cents per copy.

FRANK A. MUNSEY & COMPANY,
Madison Square, New York.

THE GUIDING HAND;

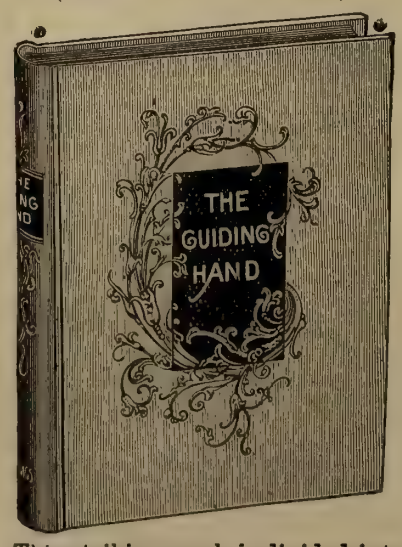
—OR—

PROVIDENTIAL DIRECTION.

-——)o(——

Illustrated by authentic instances of Relief and Deliverance in times of Trouble and Perplexity; of Direction through Dreams and Mental Impressions, and of Providential Guidance, resulting in Conversion. Recorded and collected by

H. L. HASTINGS,
(Editor of "The Christian.")



This striking work is divided into three parts as follows:

(1) Providences in Relief and Deliverances. (2) Dreams and Impressions. (3) Conversions.

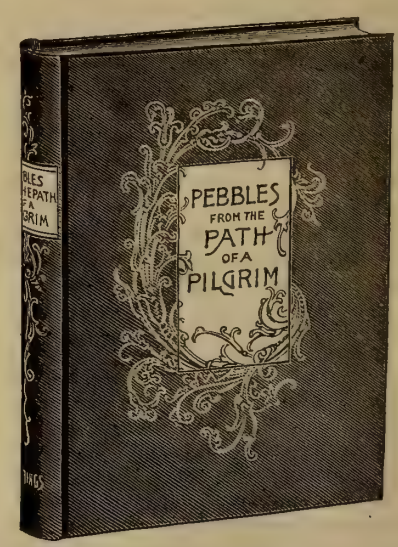
The "Guiding Hand" contains nearly 400 pages. It is really a handsome book, printed on heavy book paper, from large open type, good for the eyes, and artistically and durably bound in fine cloth, with fancy panels. Price, $1.50.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
221 W. Madison St., Chicag

Pebbles from the Path of a Pilgrim.

—BY—

MRS. H. L. HASTINGS.



This remarkable collection of stories from the eventful life of a Green Mountain girl has been pronounced "more fascinating than any romance." A member of Congress writes: "'Pebbles' has been read by me with great interest. The introductory chapter has followed me into dreams. My copy is read to pieces by the family, and borrowed to death by the neighbors." An editor says: "Surely the faith that 'obtained promises, wrought righteousness, and stopped the mouth of lions,' must have been given in large measure to the writer of this truly remarkable book....No family library should be without it." "'Pebbles,'" says the Christian Cynosure, "is such a book as Christian parents are always glad to put on their center-tables."

"Pebbles from the Path of a Pilgrim" is a large and beautiful book of over 300 pages, printed on heavy book paper, from clear open type, and is profusely illustrated. It is artistically bound in handsome cloth, with fancy panels, and specially attractive side and back cover designs. Price, $1.50.

CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

THE IMAGE OF THE BEAST

A Secret Empire;

Or, Freemasonry a Subject of Prophecy.

By Rev. Richard Horton.

Third Edition. 200 pages. Cloth.

Price, 60 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W Madison St. Chicago.

Freemasonry Exposed. By Capt. William Morgan. The genuine old Morgan book republished. 25 cents each.

Christian Cynosure.

"IN SECRET HAVE I SAID NOTHING."—Jesus Christ.

VOL. XXVI., No. 15. CHICAGO, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1893. WHOLE No. 1,234.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION,

221 West Madison Street, Chicago.

SUBSCRIPTIONS PER YEAR..... $2.00
IF PAID STRICTLY IN ADVANCE..... 1.50

☞No paper discontinued unless so requested by the subscriber, and all arrearages paid.☜

Address all letters for publication to EDITOR CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE, CHICAGO. Writers' names must always be given. No manuscript returned unless requested and postage enclosed.

Make all drafts and money orders payable to the Treasurer, W. I. PHILLIPS, 221 WEST MADISON STREET, CHICAGO. When possible make remittances by express money order. Currency by unregistered letter at sender's risk. When writing to change address on Cynosure list always give the former address.

[Entered at the Postoffice, Chicago, Ill. as Second Class Matter.]

CONTENTS.

EDITORIAL:
Notes and Comments.... 1
Masonic Persecution Rebuked..... 8
The Lawless One 8
Destruction, Not Mitigation..... 8
"The Deceivableness of Unrighteousness."..... 8
Notes and News from Business Letters 8
CONTRIBUTIONS:
"Cynosure" Voices (Poetry)..... 1
The Nature and Grounds of our Opposition to Secrecy..... 1
Loyalty to Christ..... 2
SELECTED:
Christians Ought to Rebuke Sin..... 3
NEW ENGLAND LETTER..... 4
WASHINGTON LETTER..... 4
REFORM NEWS:
The Eastern Agent in Pennsylvania; The College Agent on the Pacific Coast; A Masonic Minister Routed; From Rev. Wm. Fenton.....5,9
CORRESPONDENCE:
An Explanation; The Lodge Superseding the Church 5
LODGE NOTES..... 7
AGENTS AND LECTURERS.... 7
THE N. C. A..... 7
THE HOME.....10
TEMPERANCE.....11
BIBLE LESSON.....12
LITERATURE.....12
HOME AND HEALTH.....14
FARM NOTES.....15
NEWS OF THE WEEK.....16

The past week, in the new trial of Dan Coughlin for participation in the murder of Dr. Cronin, brought forth considerable testimony in support of the evidence taken in the first trial, so far as details of the assassination were investigated. No new or startling evidence was produced; but the admission of the defense that Dr. Cronin was murdered is an important incident. The trial is likely to continue for at least a month longer.

One gratifying result of the present stringency and the want of employment is felt in its effects upon the drinking-saloons in Chicago. The report that 500 of these "gates of hell" have had to close their doors for want of patronage since the 1st of November, and that some 1,200 others will soon be driven to the wall for the same reason, indicates that men are buying bread for themselves and their families, instead of "spending money for that which is not bread." (Isaiah 55: 2.) The license fees for the last quarter of the year (mostly $1.25 each) from each of the saloons, under the circumstances, is an onerous burden to those from whom it is due; but the prohibitionists are not worrying over the situation.

Measures for the relief of the thousands of unemployed and destitute persons in this city are being liberally promoted by well-to-do and charitable citizens. Lodging-rooms and soup-houses are provided by private and corporate benevolence, and the work of charity is shared alike by secular and religious enterprise. One remarkable effect of this general liberality (but one that might have been expected), has been the influx of many tramps from other parts of the country in search of food and lodging; and so threatening did this feature of the hard winter become that it had to be promptly resisted. Chicago could not feed all the unfortunates who thus endeavored to tax her benevolence. Another notable feature was the fact that so many of these destitute men actually shirked proffered employment, and preferred dependence upon public and private charity. But it is gratifying to believe that no worthy person, entitled to charitable consideration, will be allowed to suffer from hunger or lack of shelter and clothing.

The new proposed tariff law, now before Congress, has been variously interpreted at home and abroad. Protectionists believe (or profess to) that it will ruin our trade and commerce if it becomes a law. On the other hand, advocates of free trade consider its reductions of duties on foreign products with great complacency, as a means to a more healthy and extended traffic with our transatlantic neighbors. In a general sense, it is designed as a measure for creating revenue rather than securing protection for home producers. The Chicago Tribune thinks that its sweeping reductions will fail to provide sufficient income to meet the current expenses of the government. The Tribune is, or has been hitherto, a competent free trade authority, and is entitled to respect for its opinions.

Rev. Dr. Parkhurst's heroic methods of dealing with social vices in New York City are creating a commotion and a probable reform in the practices of the guardians of the law. Recently he compelled the police to close all the disorderly houses, and constrained the officials who had persistently denied his charges and assertions to acknowledge their truth. The police could find these dens of vice under his pressure, and did so. Then, through his influence, he had thirteen police captains transferred from certain stations to others, the better to enforce his plans; and it is evident that he will labor to cast out all the social dregs that have so long been a stench in that city. Similar energy needs to be applied with equal fervency and effect to the slums of Chicago and other metropoles.

The members of the "provisional government" at Honolulu are still persistent in holding the island and its affairs in their grasp, by fortifying the "castle" and preparing to resist the restoration of the queen. Their position has reduced them to the level of armed revolutionists, without the plea of patriotism to support them in their rebellion against the native government. Besides this, they are endeavoring to create new sympathy for themselves by recklessly alleging that England is trying to gain control of the island if the United States rejects annexation. Another "fake," originating with the revolutionists, is that President Cleveland will unite with England in restoring the deposed queen by force, and then exercise a joint protectorate there. As the Federal Constitution will not permit the President to take this step, this theory is void; and, even if he could, he tells us in his message that President Harrison was greatly at fault in entering upon a coalition with European powers to maintain the native king of Samoa. But a poor excuse is better than none where greed and injustice are the ruling motives of action.

A very fair specimen of the material of which the city council of Chicago is composed was exhibited at its last week's session. When it was proposed in the council to do something for the relief of the hungry and shelterless workmen out of work, one of the members said: "The council can do nothing. We haven't power to appropriate $1 for charity. I am sorry to say it, but it is true. We haven't $1 for the purpose. We are $1,500,000 in debt." And yet at that meeting another aldermen introduced a resolution, which was adopted, to appropriate $1,000 for the entertainment of delegates to the convention of the Federation of Labor. A delegate to the convention, however, says that under no circumstances will it accept the entertainment offered. He adds: "In this instance we feel that we would be doing the people of Chicago an injustice in accepting the offer of a banquet to be paid for out of the city funds when the city has no money to expend in feeding the poor and unemployed." This species of "benevolence" has a strong flavor of Masonic charity—nothing for the poor, but $1,000 for a debauch.

CYNOSURE VOICES.

BY EDWARD BRAKEMAN.

"Thus saith the Lord God:
The refuge of lies shall the hail sweep away,
The waters your hiding-place overflow;
Disannulled shall be your covenant with death,
Nor with hell shall your agreement stand,"

—Isa. 28.

Thus sang the bard whose prophet-ken
Swept adown time's vista far;
And so believe God's stalwart men
Who champion truth, on wrong make war.
Oracular, in glowing verse
They chant e'en now the lofty song
That shall truth's triumph grand rehearse,
While years eternal roll along.
There is a voice that speaks, in them,
A language to the false unknown:
"Be brave for God, his truth defend"—
Heard in the soul of faith alone.
The winged winds, bid them to sleep;
Hush by a word the sounding main,
Arrest the lightning's downward leap—
Niagara's thundering flood enchain;
But think not silence to impose
On men that heavenly truth inspires,
Within whose fearless bosom glows
The God-sent pentecostal fires.
Not falsehood in such hearts can live;
Not theirs the sin-concealing chain;
Not words of whispering fear they give,
But trumpet-voiced the truth proclaim.
Though men be leagued with devils damned,
Hidden by hell's profoundest shade,
In fortressed, secret falsehood stand,
They dare the infernal gates invade.
Though curses hot as damn the dead,
From wrathful foes on them be hurled,
Hope's crested helmet guards their head;
Truth's banner high they wave unfurled.
Jehovah is their sun and shield,
Their God and their defender he;
To him both earth and hell must yield,
In time or in the world to be.
Then let your ensign skyward float;
Each fold with radiance, bye-and-bye,
Above the rolling battle-smoke
Shall final victory glorify.

Geneva. O., Dec., 1893.

THE NATURE AND GROUNDS OF OUR OPPOSITION TO SECRECY.

BY WILBUR N. COFFEE.

[The following paper was read before the Iowa State Christian Association, at its annual convention, held at Hopkinton, Iowa, Nov. 14, 15, and was ordered sent to the Cynosure for publication.]

Men are often found to be in opposition to an established order of things. Their opposition may be founded upon moral principles, or it may be founded in selfishness.

It has been the seeming misfortune of most reform movements to be persistently, if not willfully, misunderstood; hence the necessity for repeated explanations of the positions taken by reform-workers. Whether this is a real misfortune or not remains to be seen. It is quite certain, however, that the information upon any subject would not be very considerable were it not for this call from all quarters for re-statement and explanation.

We find ourselves, to-day, in opposition to an institution which has an almost universal existence. Its prestige is great; its sceptre is extended over almost every branch of human industry. The professions, sciences, trades, and commerce, all bow to it. Acknowledgment of its force is made in the church, in society and in the home. Its influence is felt in both public and private life; and not only by those who choose to have it so, but also by those who do not so choose.

Now we are misunderstood in our opposition to this formidable institution; not by all, but by some; chiefly by those who are allied to secrecy. It must be said, also, that some sympathizers with the anti-secrecy movement misunderstand the opposition which we offer, and hesitate to enlist in the ranks, because opposition to so gigantic an institution as secrecy appears to them like the sacrifice of human life beneath the car of Juggernaut. It becomes eminently proper, therefore, to speak of the nature and grounds of our opposition to secrecy.

1. First let me say that it is manly opposition. (1) It is not that kind of opposition which waits for the sanction of a majority. It does not ask what course others will pursue, but is determined to stand independently for the right. Those who engage with us are they who have learned that majorities are not always right. Were they always right, the moral element of the State of Iowa would have no reason to feel aggrieved over the success of a party that will stand upon a "rotten plank," because, thus reasoning, a majority has proven it to be right. If right inheres with the majority, even sin itself were right: its votataries compose the major part of mankind. If the divine plan of human redemption had waited for the sanction of the majority to determine its righteousness, it would have remained inoperative to this day, for the majority has ever rejected it. We do not allow for a moment that the attribute of infallibility lingers about the majority. We remember what it thought of the sewing-machine and Elias Howe, of the steamboat and Robert Fulton, of Columbus and his voyage of discovery, of the great question of slavery, and we are all painfully cognizant of its present attitude toward the great curse of nations, the liquor traffic. We divorce ourselves from the majority, as a mere majority, when she has become a prostitute. We prefer to maintain our manhood. Did the majority follow Christ? Has it followed his apostles? Therefore, do we cultivate an independence of the majority when considering questions of reform? Goethe, a German philosopher and poet, said: "Nothing is more abhorrent to a reasonable man than an appeal to a majority; for it consists of a few strong men who lead, of knaves who temporize, of the feeble who are hangers-on, and of the multitude who follow without the least idea of what they want." Our opposition has been manly in this respect. Let it so continue. (2) It is open opposition. We do not draw the curtain when we assemble at our meetings. There is no covert design in our conventions. There is no scheming against the interests of men whom we have previously marked. We frankly say that we are opposed to secrecy, and show our reason for it, and all our steps are taken in the light. All our course in opposing this evil is open to examination. We invite the people to listen to our speeches, read our articles for the press, and try them by the truth, and by the light of reason, and point out their fallacies and inconsistencies, if there be any. We do not seek to gain supremacy by insinuating our men into the standing army, as do the Jesuits, nor do we pack juries, or control the police force, but we do desire to publicly discuss this great question.

2. We oppose the institution. We offer no personal opposition to individual members of the lodge. We are not the enemies of lodge members. On the contrary, as Superintendent Roberts once said, while speaking upon this point: "We are their true friends," and I believe we all feel that he was right. I judge that we are in meekness instructing those that oppose themselves.

There are those, however, who are so closely allied to secrecy that when you touch the institution you touch them, and at once they have a personal grievance.

In the nineteenth chapter of the Acts, we read: "And the same time there arose no small stir about that way, for a certain man named Demetrius, a silversmith, which made shrines for Diana, brought no small gain unto the craftsmen, whom he called together with the workmen of like occupation, and said: Sirs, ye know that by this craft we have our wealth." Notice that Demetrius, in his heat, states the real reason first and follows it with a pretended reason, in such a way as to make the false reason appear to be the true reason, and a religious one at that. Human nature has been ever the same, and we have now and then a Demetrius to-day. But let us hear him through: "Moreover, ye see and hear that not alone at Ephesus, but almost throughout all Asia, this Paul hath persuaded and turned away much people, saying that they be no gods which are made with hands; so that not only this our craft is in danger to be set at naught, but also that the temple of the great goddess Diana should be despised, and her magnificence should be destroyed, whom all Asia and the world worshipeth. And when they heard these sayings, they were full of wrath, and cried out, Great is Diana of the Ephesians, and the whole city was filled with confusion." Here was a man who accepted as a personal affront the opposition offered to an institution to which he belonged.

If you will analyze his proceedings, you will find the key to that acute sensitiveness so frequently found in secret society men, and called, when found in sick people, hyperasthesia.

I take it that in two places in his discourse to his fellowcrafts, Demetrius spoke in italics. First when he said, "Sirs, ye know that by this craft we have our wealth;" and, again, when he said, "Our craft is in danger." Here is where he placed the emphasis; and the way in which he said it made it equivalent to the modern "grand hailing sign of distress." Here is where the liquor men place the stress in their plea for the saloon. Here is where secret society men lay the stress when they become sensitive over the truth.

But notice the shrewdness of Demetrius. Had he lived to-day, he could not have escaped the honors of being a political "boss." He had the essential qualifications. He could lay all the stress upon one thing, and at the same time create a great ado over another. Ostensibly Demetrius and his fellowcrafts did a very religious thing, but he who reads between the lines understands that they enacted a high-protection measure.

So of those who always feel hurt when you speak of the evils of secrecy. They purport to plead for an unmolested right to dispense benevolences, but if you ever were at the keyhole, you would hear this: "Sirs, ye know that by this craft we have our wealth;" and that other talisman: "Our craft is in danger."

Some who make no pretensions to piety have owned that it was selfishness that was hurt when secrecy is opposed, and no one would make any other claim except those who profess better principles than selfishness and are, perforce, bound to do so. But we claim to be the friend of the lodge-member. We have no personal hatred toward him. We deal with him, neighbor with him, visit him; and they who know us and our position best reciprocate our friendship. One of the warmest friends I have is a Mason. We have talked this matter over until we understand each other thoroughly. I esteem him as a personal friend, but I oppose the institution to which he belongs. "But," some one says, "why do you oppose the institution to which he belongs when you find him such a fine man? Is not this inconsistent?" Not at all. Let me illustrate: Several years ago, in traveling over the prairies of Dakota, we came upon a little log-house in the timber at the foot of some hills. It was almost nightfall, and we liked the appearance of the ranchman, and so we camped upon his grounds. He was kind, gentlemanly and hospitable, but at that same time he was an outlaw, a great cattle-thief, and was diligently prosecuting his business. Should we forbear to oppose his occupation because he was capable of being kind?

(To be continued.)

LOYALTY TO CHRIST.

BY REV. J. M. FOSTER.

"Hold fast that which thou hast."

I. We are to keep the Word of God. The Scriptures emphasize this. Moses charged Israel to preserve and observe the testimony of the Lord, to bind them on their hands, to have them as frontlets on their eyes, to write them on their door-posts, to talk of them in the house and by the way. The prophet Isaiah said, "Bind up the testimony, seal the law among my disciples." The Saviour said, "Search the Scriptures." The apostle said, "We have also a more sure word of prophecy, whereto ye do well that ye take heed." The Saviour added, "The words that I speak unto you they are spirit and they are life." "If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you." And the seer of Patmos affirmed, "Whosoever shall add unto the words....God shall add unto him the plagues; and whosoever shall take away.... God shall take away his part out of the book of life."

II. We are to keep the church's form of sound words. Christians differ as to the meaning of the Word. An Episcopal bishop recently delivered an address before New York clergy on "Church Parity," in which he set forth that all must accept "the historic order," and accept ordination from the bishops before there can be union. Some months ago, Rev. Dr. McArthur of New York, a Baptist, contributed an article to a monthly magazine, in which he affirmed that all must be immersed before there can be unity. The Psalm-singers think that all will accept the book of Psalms as the exclusive manual of praise before there is union. And Covenanters believe that the doctrine of Christ's crown-rights and royal prerogatives must be ackowledged, as the sine qua non of church unity—that he must be King in our hearts, in our homes, in our markets, in our schools, in our counting-rooms, in our banks, in our courts, in our legislatures and Congress, in the Cabinet and Presidential chair.

Hence a creed becomes a necessity. Paul prepared a creed for Timothy: "Hold fast the form of sound words which thou hast heard of me, in faith and love which is in Christ Jesus. That good thing which was committed unto thee keep by the Holy Ghost which dwelleth in us." Presbyterians hold the confession of faith and the catechism larger and shorter. I received a letter from my brother recently, in which he referred to our old home in Ohio. This recalled the hickory tree back of the church, where our carriage and horses stood every Sabbath-day, cold or hot, rain or shine; we were all at church. And then, Sabbath evening, we all were gathered around the fire and recited the shorter and larger catechism. That was keeping the form of sound words.

III. We are to keep the church's government. How can that be a means of grace? An old philosopher said, "Man holds communion with God in property." In acquiring and using property according to God's law, he learned the lesson of obedience. You see an elder, and you reflect, "Here is a man who has been chosen to rule, because he has the traits of Christian character that fit him for being an ensample to the flock. He has been clothed with authority by the laying on of hands, and represents the authority of Christ in his house. In honoring him as Christ's representative, you honor him. He watches for your souls as one that must give account." You see a deacon, and you reflect, "Here is a man who has charge of the financial interests of the church, appointed according to the divine Word. He has the qualifications that fit him for standing before the people and enjoying their confidence. He represents Christ." You think of church courts, and reflect, "These are constituted in the name and by the authority of the Lord Jesus Christ, Zion's only King and Head. In them Christ presides. They have the authority of Christ. To them he has committed the keys of the kingdom of heaven. When they open the door of admission according to the divine Word, no man can shut it. When they shut the doors in the exercise of discipline, no man can open them. Paul charged the Corinthians to deliver the incestuous person over to Satan, for the destruction of the flesh, that the spirit may be saved. Paul gave Hymeneus and Philetus, who had made shipwreck of their faith, over to Satan, "that they might learn not to blaspheme."

The worship of God is to be according to divine appointment. The Episcopalians will not use the ritual of the Church of Rome. The Congregationalists will not use the Episcopal service. Psalm-singers are persuaded that singing an inspired Psalmody is true praise. Much has been said and written lately on Paul's words, "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom, singing and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody in your hearts unto the Lord." "The word of Christ" is evidently the inspired word.

"If my words abide in you," said the Saviour. "The words that I speak unto you, they are spirit and they are life." It is this inspired word that reveals the "wisdom." The "wisdom" that was hidden from the ages is revealed. "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither hath it entered into the heart of man, the things that God hath prepared for them that love him; but God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit." Then Paul specifies three classes of poetic composition included in Christ's word: Psalms, hymns and spiritual songs. They are all found in the book of Psalms, and there is the church's Manual of Praise.

IV. We are to keep the covenants. A vow is a solemn promise to God that we will perform our duty. An oath is a solemn appeal to God for the truth of what we say. A religious covenant is a mutual, solemn engagement with God. The covenant of works was made with Adam. In it he was constituted the head representative of the race. By his disobedience all the human family were involved in the curse. The covenant of grace was made between the Father and Son. In it Christ voluntarily became the representative of his people. Their sins were laid on him, his righteousness was imputed to them. "As in Adam all die, so in Christ shall all be made alive." It is only through covenant that God's people can approach him. From the days of Abraham, when God took him into covenant and made him the father of the faithful, God's people have been wont to enter into public social covenants. Churches and nations covenant with God. Israel at Sinai, as a church, and as a nation, entered into covenant with God. Scotland, England and Ireland, and the churches signed and swore the covenants, of a national and solemn league, in the seventeenth century. In 1871, the Reformed Presbyterian church of America entered into a public covenant, a prelude of that day when all nations and a united church "shall join themselves to the Lord in a covenant that shall not be forgotten."

V. We are to keep the church's testimony. "Bind up the testimony, seal the law among my disciples." In the 11th chapter of Hebrews we have a long list of the faithful witnesses in Old Testament times. Then, in the 12th chapter, Paul begins, "Therefore, seeing we are compassed about by so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight and the sin that doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us." Our position is similar. We have Luther, Calvin, Zwingli, Bradford, Ridley, Latimer, Cranmer, Knox, Melville, Henderson, Renwick, Rutherford, Guthery, Cameron, Hamilton, McAle, Mrs. Harvey, Mrs. McGlaughlan and Miss Willson. "Wherefore, seeing we are compassed about by so great a cloud of witnesses," "let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering."

VI. We are to keep our dissent from all evil in church or state. The National Christian Association dissents from the evils of the lodge and separates from them. This leads to separation from the churches which corrupt the worship of God and permit her ordinances to be administered by and to the polluted members of secret, oath-bound societies. For this we have Scripture example. When Moses came down from the mount, he found the people had turned aside and were adoring the golden calf. He prays for Israel most importunately. But God hears not, nor regards, so long as he remained identified with Israel, and he was regarded as a party to the apostasy. But when he removed the tabernacle from the camp and set it up in the wilderness, thus separating himself from this organic apostasy, then the cloud covered the tent and God communed with Moses. Separation from the camp that had corrupted God's worship and polluted themselves with an idol, was necessary before God would hear. The churches have corrupted the worship of God by forms and customs that have not been appointed in God's Word, and they are polluted by the presence of the members of the lodges. Separation from them is essential on the part of God's witnesses.

Prohibitionists separate from the Republican party because it sanctions high-license, and from the Democratic party because it adopts low-license. Covenanters separate from the voting society or political body in this land because it has adopted as its supreme law a compact of government that ignores the claims of King Jesus. So all anti-secret witnesses should separate from the governing body that legalizes the lodge and grants them charters on the same terms as any legitimate enterprise. For this we have Scripture example. Moses sent twelve men to spy out the promised land. After their return ten of these raised false reports and began organizing the people to return to Egypt. But two of these, Caleb and Joshua, protested and refused to have anything to do with their organized rebellion. And after Moses had delivered God's message that the people must return to the wilderness for forty years, these ten rebels persuaded the people to go up against the Canaanites. Moses, Caleb and Joshua dissented and refused to go with them. In this we have authority for separating from every corrupt political organization. "Come out from among them, and be ye separate." The National Christian Association should make it a condition of membership that we refuse to commune in any church that fellowships the members of the lodge, and refuse to vote, or hold office, in the political body that legalizes the lodge and administers God's ordinance of civil government according to the terms of a secular constitution. But dissent is more far-reaching. Paul said, "Be not unequally yoked with unbelievers." This is generally taken as referring to marriage. But that is too limited an interpretation. It means that Christians cannot be yoked with unbelievers in business firms; that Christians cannot hold stock in, or be members of, Sabbath-breaking corporations, such as Sunday newspapers, Sunday trains, etc.; that they must separate from all secret, oath-bound fraternities, and from the political society that dishonors the King of kings, by ignoring his authority and law in their constitution. The apostle confirms this view by the questions that he asks, "What fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? What communion hath light with darkness? What concord hath Christ with devils? What part hath a believer with an infidel? What agreement hath the temple of God with idols?" Here are five different words used in so many questions, each one indicating that entire separation from all evil is essential on the part of Christ's children. "I pray not that thou shouldest take them out of the world, but that thou shouldest keep them from the evil." "Keep yourselves unspotted from the world." "Little children, keep yourselves from idols."

VII. We are to keep ourselves pure. "Take heed unto thyself and unto the doctrine." "He that hath this hope in him purifieth himself." "Teaching us, that denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously and godly in this present evil world." "Strive to be blameless and harmless, the sons of God without rebuke, in the midst of a crooked and perverse nation where ye dwell." Cæsar's wife must be without suspicion. A witness whose character is impeached finds his testimony discounted. Christ's witnesses must be pure.

VIII. We must keep Christ's regal claims. There are two conditions of success in the church's world-wide mission: 1. She must be purged of all Sabbath-breakers, personal or representative, all supporters of the liquor traffic, all lodgeites and all political traitors to the divine law and authority. 2. She must proclaim a perfect Gospel. Publishing Christ as Prophet and Priest to the world is not enough. It is the Gospel of the kingdom that she is to preach. The kingly office of Christ must be magnified. He must be King in our hearts and lives, in the family, the church and the state, in the railroad corporation, the trust, the syndicate, the caucus, the convention, the congress, the voting society, everywhere and always. Christ's authority and law must be recognized as supreme. He is King of saints. He is King of nations. He is a great King over all the earth. "Let the children of Zion be joyful in their King and triumphantly exclaim, the Lord is our Lawgiver, the Lord is our Judge, the Lord is our King, he will save us!" We conceive that the church has failed, during the four hundred years of Reformation period, to evangelize the world, chiefly because God will not have the heathen world hear of a Saviour who is not also announced as King. It is true that the low grade of morals and spiritual attainments in the home church is one cause. But the leading cause must be found in the church's effort to proclaim a non-regal gospel. To attempt to save individual souls without bringing the social and political orders into allegiance to Christ the King is a dishonor to the Author of Christianity which cannot prosper. Let Christ be proclaimed King.

Boston, Mass.

CHRISTIANS OUGHT TO REBUKE SIN.

It being the duty of those who are called to preach the Word of God, to use plainness and point out the errors of the faithful, they must not be offended or grieved when they are told of their faults. Many at this day think the Gospel is not well preached unless they are flattered; that is, they think men do not preach the Word of God unless they cover their sins and endeavor to please them; but we here see another kind of divinity. Ministers, when they see any kind of wickedness among those who are committed to their charge, must not conceal it; it must be made known. It is better to put those to shame who have been negligent and sleepy, than to hoodwink them that they may become more blind. The surgeon who hath a wound to heal cutteth away all the rotten flesh, or if there be any apostume (pustule) he purgeth it to the quick, to take away all the infection and corruption; so must the ministers of the Word of God do, if they wish to discharge their duty faithfully towards those committed to their care; and those of the faithful must bear such correction patiently, knowing that it is necessary that they should be thus handled. They must not murmur against those who thus seek their salvation; for what shall it profit us to be honorable in the eyes of the world, if in the meantime God abhorreth us? But there are many who are displeased if they are told of their faults. If he who hath the authority to teach point out the wickedness that reigneth among them, they will be displeased with him and mock him. We see how justice is corrupted, and what favors are granted; men speak of wickedness in their houses, in their shops, in the streets, and in the market-place; but if it be mentioned in the pulpit, if wickedness be made known by the preaching of the Word of God, we see them displeased and full of malice. There is no man but what can say, "such a sin is common; such a man hath done such a fault." Every one may see what sins reign among the people, and yet those who are appointed to watch over them dare not reprove them, although their office requireth it of them. It is said the Word of God is like a two-edged sword, which pierceth the most secret thoughts, separating joint and marrow; yea, it reacheth even to the bottom of the heart, and maketh known whatever sins lurk within us. If we wish to be taken for Christians, we must have quiet and contented minds, and not be angry when we are reproved for our faults.....It is said by our Lord Jesus Christ that he will send the Comforter; "and when he is come he will reprove the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment." Therefore, if we will not bow down our necks, and receive God's yoke; that is to say, if we do not condemn ourselves, and suffer him to exercise spiritual jurisdiction over us by those whom he hath appointed to preach his Word, we shall be condemned.....When our faults are made known to us, we must confess them. We are commanded throughout the Scripture to reprove the wicked; but it is a common practice, in these times, for men to cast off all correction and take free liberty in all manner of sin and iniquity, being under no subjection. But those who wish to pass for Christians must not behave themselves in this manner. St. Paul saith, "admonish one another," and, again, "reprove sin." To whom doth the Holy Ghost speak in these two places? To all the faithful without exception. For although God hath chosen some to whom he hath given a special charge to admonish, exhort and reprove those that do amiss, yet he chargeth every man to set himself against sin and wickedness. If this be lawful for those who have no public charge, what must the minister do whom God hath expressly charged to fill this office? There are bastard Christians among us at this day, who know not God nor obey his Word; therefore they will not bear correction. St. Paul reproveth the Cretians by putting them in mind of the witness of their own prophet, and saith "The Cretians are always liars, evil beasts," etc. When God maketh known our faults and reproveth us, he doth it for our salvation; we ought, therefore, to be displeased with ourselves, and confess our sins with the deepest humility. We gain nothing by being stubborn. It is of no use; for if we will not bow, God will break us in pieces. —John Calvin's Sermon on Titus 1: 10–12.

NEW ENGLAND LETTER.

The problem of the unemployed.—The recent elections.—A little story for Harvard's President.—The bells of Boston.—The Grip.—Our N. E. Convention.

Fine sleighing and below zero-weather before Christmas must be rather discomforting to the prophets who, a few weeks ago, were prophesying smooth things, and predicting a mild winter. But the crispness of the tingling air, and the snow with its myriad diamond-points glistening in the sun, marks what is traditionally accepted as "good, healthy weather." So it may be for those who are in possession of all those fireside comforts which make December, in spite of its inclemency, the month for good cheer, rather than June; but how about the great army of the homeless and the unemployed? Even in prosperous times the poor are ever with us, but it takes a crisis like the present to make us realize the duty of facing the sociological problems involved in having these hungry and desperate masses crowded into our great cities. The Boston Evangelical Alliance recently held a meeting to consider this subject. Dr. P. S. Moxon urged their employment by the city on public works, and the duty of capitalists to take less profits, or forego their profits entirely, in order to keep their help at work, citing as an instance of the opposite spirit the West End Railroad, which is paying ten per cent dividend by cutting down its help and reducing the number of its trips in bad weather. For this great consolidated monopoly, that rakes in its millions without paying a cent into the city's treasury, cares as little that its patrons catch grip or pneumonia, waiting at the crossings in stormy weather for a car, as it does for its discharged employes.

Superintendent Roberts, of the Industrial Home, suggested the propriety of opening the churches of Boston to the homeless, as has been done in your own city of Chicago. This would certainly be a better sermon on applied Christianity than any that these same poor will ever be likely to hear from their pulpits.

A writer in the Nineteenth Century points out the fact that the eight-hour-system, if adopted by English railroads alone, would give employment to one hundred thousand men who now stand idle. Take America, with her thousands of miles of railroad, and these numbers could be multiplied. Yet the city of Boston, to save a little extra expense, allows her firemen only one day in twelve to spend with their families. Municipalities are sometimes as short-sighted and soulless as corporations.

Boston has once more voted to keep King Alcohol on his throne. As the Transcript—the literary, high-toned, aristocratic Transcript—was not ashamed to say, "a No vote would cut off $1,000,000 revenue; therefore vote Yes." And so Mammon and Moloch strike hands in an unholy covenant of blood. Tuesday was a cold, disagreeable day, and its threatening aspect—so newspaper reports of the election say—kept many people away from the polls who would have exercised their right of suffrage had the day been warm and sunny. Any man, not aged, infirm, or an invalid, who can stay away from the polls for any such reason should have the right of franchise taken away from him till he can learn better to appreciate a freeman's privilege. It is the native American, shame to say, who allows himself to be kept at home by the weather, while ignorant foreigners crowd to the polls. More women registered in Boston than in any previous year, and but few that registered failed to put in their vote, being evidently made of sterner stuff than some of their male compeers.

Cambridge and Everett, Lynn and Salem, voted for No license; but Worcester and Lowell, the two New England cities which rank next to Boston, followed her bad example. One of the curiosities of Massachusetts law, by the way, is that a married woman, though she be a resident of Boston, is not allowed to register if her husband resides in another place. There have been several cases of self-supporting women, separated from drinking husbands, who could not register on this account. Why this should be so, the corporate council, in the astuteness of wisdom, know best. But, as an exchange very pertinently asks: "Must women remain single or lose their identity?"

President Eliot's remarkable utterances in favor of moderate drinking have not been allowed to pass unrebuked. Rev. L. E. Banks, in his pulpit last Sunday, handled the subject without fear or favor, and charged, as most candid people must have felt with truth, the drinking habits of Harvard students to the unworthy attitude assumed by their president. For my part, I should like to recommend to that gentleman's serious attention the following explanation, by a precocious little ten-year-old, of that passage in Job: "The naughty man speaketh with his feet." "If any one walked in the wrong path," said this keen little dialectician to his brother, who could not comprehend how any one could talk with his pedal extremities, "and made some one else do the same, he would be speaking with his feet." But usually, as with President Eliot, the silent speech of a bad example is reinforced and confirmed by unwise utterances of the tongue.

The Annex is now Radcliffe College, in honor of Anna Radcliffe, who gave a hundred pounds to the college in its young and struggling days. For euphony's sake it ought to bear her sweet old English Christian name as well. Speaking of names, Smith College has 68 students by the name of Mary, and 27 who are named Alice. One of the results of the higher education, I hope and trust, will be the eschewing by all sensible women of Frenchified terminations, and a return to the plain, sweet, womanly old-time favorites of which we can no more tire than we can of the scent of a violet or the song of a robin.

Boston, as well as London, has its celebrated bells, and an effort is now being made to have them put in order, so that instead of "sweet bells jangled," they may ring out in time and tune, as originally intended. Success to Miss Hawes, the lady whose musical enthusiasm has made her a leader in this revival of an old English fashion, which our forefathers brought from their homes across the sea. I think in one of Edward Garrett's books, a poor homeless wanderer is represented as being comforted and pointed heavenward by the bells of a church near by, ringing out the tune of Keble's beautiful hymn:

> "If some poor wandering child of thine
> Have spurned to-day the Voice divine."

Zoar, a little hamlet in western Massachusetts, is wild with excitement over the discovery of a supposed gold mine; but the old Bay State has got used to the periodical recurrence of these bubbles, which look so magnificent until they burst, and the pulse of her people, as a whole, does not beat any quicker in consequence.

The grip is raging in various places, especially in New London, Conn., where it has made its appearance on the vessels in the harbor, seeming to make itself as disagreeably at home on water as on land. This unpleasant visitor from Russian marshes we can neither bar out nor send back, and it looks as if he intended to become naturalized without the ceremony of taking out naturalization papers.

My next letter will contain (D. V.) a report of our convention, for which Bro. Stoddard and his noble helpmate have been working unceasingly since their return from the World's Fair. Everything looks encouraging for a grand meeting, which will tell for God and truth against the secret works of darkness. ELIZABETH E. FLAGG.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 13, 1893.

The public school controversy now going on in several States between the prelates of the Roman Catholic church and the guardians of public school funds has served to arouse Congressional interest in the proposed sixteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which the National League for the Protection of American Institutions was organized for the special purpose of securing. Nothwithstanding the tariff, the Hawaiian question and others of more or less importance, the timely sermon on "Church and State," delivered last Sunday by Rev. Dr. T. S. Hamlin, has been talked about by Congressmen, and it has apparently had the effect of turning their attention to the importance of an amendment to the Constitution that will more clearly define the line between church and state, and forever end such controversies. Dr. Hamlin's remarks were so thoroughly in keeping with that conservatism and toleration which is so characteristic of the American people as a whole that I regret the lack of space which prevents the reproduction of the entire sermon, and quote only a portion it:

"Our Roman Catholic friends insist that education in religion is essential. We assent most heartily. But we say, such education is the work of the home and the church. The state cannot give it without making choice between different denominations; that is, without practically setting up a state church. If any citizens feel that the primary schools must share with the home and the church the work of religious education, let them maintain such schools at their own cost. But, they say, this is a grievance and unjust burden; we are taxed to support schools that our conscientious convictions will not allow us to patronize. We concede the burden, but deny the injustice. All childless citizens bear the same burden. So do all parents who send their children to private schools. And they bear it cheerfully for the public good, that all children of the nation may become intelligent freemen. . . . We would resist as strenuously the proposition to intrust public education to the Presbyterian church as we do to intrust it to the Catholic church. . . I am not alleging any lack of patriotism on the part of Catholics. I believe there is no such lack. . . . Our Catholic friends make a fatal mistake, then, when they plead for a division of the school fund, as Dr. Walsh does for the New York bill, on the ground that it is approved at Rome by the cardinals and clergy, and by the leading prelates of England, Ireland, France and Germany. These are doubtless excellent men and devout Christians; but they cannot be expected to understand our institutions or our wishes. Archbishop Satolli has shown, on the whole, a remarkable appreciation of American ideas, and has uttered many sentiments that every American can applaud; but on the vital question of the public schools he is far astray, and is leading his church towards bottomless quicksands. For the American people will never consent to the diversion of one dollar of the school fund into sectarian channels. This is not a new issue. It has often been raised locally and has always been met promptly and adversely to the Catholic church. For one, I am thankful that it is now clearly raised before all our people. We must not imagine that the whole Catholic church is on one side and all the rest of the nation on the other. There are some priests and very many laymen as loyal to the public schools as any Protestant can be. The movement has its seat and force distinctively in the hierarchy."

The Judiciary Committee of the House of Representative has decided to report favorably Representative Bailey's bankruptcy bill. This bill differs from the bankruptcy bill of Representative Oates, which was defeated a few days ago, in that it provides only for voluntary bankruptcy. Mr. Bailey thinks it will for that reason receive the votes of many members who voted against the other bill on account of its compulsory features.

There are three gentlemen from Hawaii at present in Washington, who will give valuable testimony before the Foreign Committees of the Senate and House, when Congress takes up the Hawaiian matter, as it is expected to do soon after President Cleveland's special message, together with the information asked for by the recently adopted Senate resolution, is sent in, and that may be any day. They are Rev. Mr. Emerson, Dr. Thos. L. Gulick and his brother. These gentlemen were in Hawaii when the queen was dethroned. They gave their version of the peaceful revolution to a meeting of Presbyterian ministers this week. They think that President Cleveland and Secretary Gresham have been imposed upon by designing men, and are strong in their denunciation of the character of the ex-queen.

Present indications are that the House of Representatives will not begin the tariff debate until after the Christmas recess. *

A congregation at Bovina Center, N. Y., probably Reformed Presbyterian, gives an excellent example to all our churches, in taking a collection for the promotion of the reform against the false religion of the lodge. The amount, $3.92, has just been reported and applied on the New York State work.

REFORM NEWS.

THE EASTERN AGENT IN PENNSYLVANIA.

QUAKERTOWN, Pa., Dec. 14, 1893.

DEAR CYNOSURE:—Pressure of work is my excuse for not reporting last week. Three hours from home brought me to Philadelphia. The often-tried hospitality of friend Edwin Sellew proved as cordial as ever. I regretted to find Sister Sellew's mother in very poor health. Little hope was entertained for her recovery. She has for years watched with interest the conflict with the powers of darkness, and encouraged her devoted husband as he has from the sacred desk proclaimed unpopular truths. Bro. Hausman, who has encountered much opposition in the church of his choice (M. E.), ordered a large supply of Cynosure, that he may thus drive the battle on. Other friends appeared in good heart.

En-route for Reading, I stopped off one train at Conshohocken and Pottstown. A very pleasant hour was spent with Bro. John Harley. He contributed, as heretofore, to send the Cynosure to a Y. M. C. A. reading-room, that young men might thus receive the light.

My stay in Reading was necessarily brief. Accompanied by Bro. J. W. Morrison, I visited many who gave expressions of sympathy, and subscriptions to our paper. Though quite weary, I went to Bro. Wright's mission in the evening. I was made to feel at home at once, and was told that it was the custom of all the preachers coming to the mission to work. No excuse would be accepted—I must talk. Bro. Wright has the kind of religion that makes a man happy. He wears a continual smile.

Allentown, Pa., has a population of about 40,000. The people are largely German. One who cannot speak that language finds himself working at a disadvantage. The churches welcoming my work were the Mennonite and Free Methodist. A revival meeting was in progress in the former. Bro. Hillegass, pastor in charge, invited your agent to preach Sabbath morning and evening. An afternoon service was held at the home of Bro. Boyer. This brother has been exceedingly afflicted. In addition to being confined to his bed for twenty-eight years, he is also blind. By his quiet, uncomplaining Christian life, he is testifying to all who are fortunate enough to know him, of the power of the Christian religion to keep happy under the most trying circumstances. My subject on Sabbath evening was the Necessity of Separation from the world and worldly institutions, and to lead a Christian life. The unholy character of the lodge was presented. The divine convicting power of the Holy Spirit was very manifest, and when the invitation was extended, two came forward seeking salvation. This is another evidence of what I have believed—that a proper presentation of the iniquity of the lodge in the midst of a revival need not interfere. Revivals that do not cause men to give up their sins are good for nothing. The house would not hold the people who desired to attend this service. It was supposed that as many went away who were unable to gain admittance, as there were accommodated.

A goodly number gathered to hear me in the Free Methodist church on Monday evening. Bro. Cameron, who has recently come to this field of labor, speaks out in no uncertain way against the lodge evil. Rev. A. B. Gehret, pastor of the Mennonite church, Bethlehem, Pa., was also in the midst of a protracted meeting, but his invitation brought me a large hearing of the people on Tuesday evening. God is honoring his efforts in the salvation of souls. Bro. Geo. E. Teel, of Edalmans, Pa., stayed two days in Bethlehem, that he might listen to my address. He desires that I shall hold a series of meetings in Pen Argyle, Pa. I have agreed to go next Sabbath, if he can arrange as he hoped.

Last night I spoke in Coopersburg, to an attentive audience. To-night I am invited to preach in Hatfield, Pa. Bro. Zinner is in the midst of a revival meeting there. He is anxious that the lodge sinners get saved, and so extends the invitation.

To-morrow evening I am billed to speak in the largest hall in this town. The local paper is giving a good notice. Bills will be posted through the town to-morrow. There are said to be 4,000 people here, and more than a dozen lodges. The anti-secrecy sentiment is also considerable. I am the guest of John G. Stauffer. This brother will largely bear the expense and labor of arranging for my meeting, which we are praying may be greatly blessed of God in the salvation of souls. In the name of our God we may "mount on wings as eagles, run and not be weary, walk and not faint." There is victory on this line. Let us begin to look forward to the next Pennsylvania State convention, which we hope to hold in Philadelphia some time during February.

W. B. STODDARD.

THE COLLEGE AGENT ON THE PACIFIC COAST

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec., 1893.

DEAR CYNOSURE:—Being greatly prostrated by a cold and cough, I concluded to pass on westward, at once, towards a milder climate and warmer skies.

I was greatly surprised, in passing through the Rocky Mountain region, at the wide, extensive and continuous desert of America. There were hundreds of miles of valley, hill and plain, covered with sand, gravel and cobble-stone, with a multitude of winrows of volcanic rock, piled along the way. And all, apparently, utterly barren of any vegetation except a plant resembling the "tumble-weed." These the wind has lately piled up like great snow-banks at certain convenient points. Thus it was nearly all the way from Western Kansas to Eastern California. I was greatly disappointed, as I had expected to see brush and trees in the valleys and canyons all through the mountains. But it appeared to be about as dry and unproductive as the desert of Sahara for a thousand miles from Coolidge, Kan., to Barstow, Southern California.

But the scene changed wonderfully as we approached Los Angeles. Palms, with many other varieties of Oriental trees, appeared on every side, all "dressed in living green." Orange and other tropical trees, scattered around, loaded with their yellow fruit, and a great variety of flowers in full bloom. It seemed like fairy land; the summer sun shining out with full power the first week in December; but so it was when I arrived in Southern California. And I am rapidly recovering my normal condition under its influence.

Last Sabbath I attended the Free Methodist quarterly conference in the city, and was kindly received; and by invitation I assisted in the celebration of the Lord's Supper. As the congregation dispersed I scattered some reform tracts among them.

On the 6th inst. I visited the University of Los Angeles. This is a Methodist Episcopal institution, and appears to be well-endowed. It is situated on the far southern border, which is a lovely part of the city. I called on the dean, Rev. W. S. Matthew, D. D., and presented to him a list of our anti-secrecy books, for the library. He said, for himself, he would willingly receive the books; but there were Masons among the faculty, and Masons among the trustees; and it would be needful to consult the board first; and then he would inform me of the result.

The Rev. and Mrs. E. Hildreth, who are residing in Los Angeles, are not unknown to our friends in Chicago. They have been very helpful and kind to me and my work during my stay in the city; and may the Lord reward them abundantly for their labor of love. S. F. PORTER.

A MASONIC MINISTER ROUTED.

HOPKINTON, Iowa, Dec. 16, 1893.

An address on secret societies was delivered by Rev. T. H. Acheson in the R. P. church, December 10, at 7 P. M. Its principal object was the refutation of a Masonic lecture given here recently by a high Mason and Congregational minister, Rev. J. W. Geiger, of Marion, Iowa. All unprejudiced persons who heard both agree that it thoroughly accomplished its object. Rev. Mr. Geiger's points were taken up and proved to be foundationless and false. Mr. Geiger defended Masonry principally on three points: Masonry not a secret society; is not, and does not pretend to be, a religion; that it is not inimical to, or does not overstep the prerogative of, the Christian church; is a benevolent institution.

Rev. Mr. Acheson overthrew the first claim: First, by the fact of the existence of its fearful oaths to prevent revelation. Second, by the testimony of the highest Masonic authority which explicitly states that secrecy is an element.

He proved that Masonry both is, and claims to be, a religion, by the following points: First, because its initiatory services have reference to things purely religious, and claims that upon entering the lodge the candidate is regenerated. Second, because the lodge, with its Bible, altar, chaplain, and religious services, teaches religion, Third, because the highest Masonic authorities claim that Masonry is a religion. Fourth, because many men in the lodge believe it to be a religion, and such an idea must have been derived from the teachings of the lodge.

He stated, further, that the lodge does over-

(Continued on 9th page.)

CORRESPONDENCE.

AN EXPLANATION.

Two or three references have recently been made in the Cynosure to the fact that the Free Methodists of Utica refused to open their church to the New York State Convention of the N. C. A., and that the responsibility of such action rested upon Bro. O. M. Owen. I wish to correct this mistake. The official board of our society, for reasons which were considered sufficient, thought best not to have the convention in the church at that time. Bro. Owen and myself were made a committee to inform Bro. Kellogg of that fact. This we did as a committee. We supposed we could for sufficient reasons refuse the church for said convention without a desertion of the church's standard on secret societies. If, however, any of the readers of the Cynosure, because of recently unguarded references, honestly think that the Free Methodists of Utica are compromising their former position on this reform, I would simply say, you are mistaken.

M. H. KENDRICK, Pastor

AN EXPLANATION WHICH DOES NOT EXPLAIN.

What mistake is to be corrected?

1. Thursday evening, Oct. 12, before Bro. Kendrick had set foot in Utica, the official board of the Free Methodist church agreed, so far as they were concerned, to give the use of their house for the State convention.

2. Oct. 17, Brethren Owen and Kendrick wrote, as a committee, to inform me that the church was refused. The only reason given was the quarterly conference, which was appointed for the week after convention.

3. Personally neither of these brethren manifested sympathy with the convention. Bro. Owen said: "Why don't you go to your own church? We have done our share" etc. Bro. Kendrick wrote, Nov. 4, after having, without assigning a reason, refused to lead a sitting of the convention in devotional exercises: "I have not assumed and shall not assume a hostile attitude toward your work, unless further reasons develop."

4. No other brethren of the Free Methodist church withheld sympathy and encouragement so far as I am aware.

Such are facts which answer the question. It is a mere personal matter. The Free Methodist brethren in Utica and throughout New York as a body need fear no complaint. They are true, I believe, to God and the testimony of the church.

HENRY L. KELLOGG.

LODGES SUPERSEDING THE CHURCHES.

DORCHESTER, Mass., Nov. 23, 1893.

EDITOR CYNOSURE:—Though not a subscriber to your valuable weekly visitor, which reaches so many homes to instruct and cheer the inmates, I am a constant reader of it; very thankful that it is fulfilling its own important mission, and proving to be an inestimable blessing to a great number of people.

I have long watched the working of secret societies and marked their detrimental influence upon the cause of Christ. The change which has taken place in the lives of many who were formerly active, useful Christians, after uniting with the lodge, has been too great and unfavorable to leave any room for doubt or question. In my own ministry, converts baptized into the church have thereafter been drawn into some secret society—the Good Templars, for instance—and from that time their interest, means and time were divided, so that they were of far less use in the church than before. Such, from the very nature of the case, must be the result in all like instances.

I am now pastor of a young church in a town of some five thousand inhabitants, in the vicinity of Boston. There are five churches in the place besides the Catholic and Salvtaton Army; seven religious organizations. There are three times that number of secret societies, and three lodge gatherings every week night of the year. When either one of these unholy institutions holds a public entertainment, makes a feast, or runs a "fair," it draws a crowd of people and secures a round sum of money. They are widely advertised and extensively patronized. But alas! in the midst of such surroundings and influences, how do the churches fare? Which have the larger following, receive the greater attention, and secure the most support? No one can be at a loss for an answer. Is it not a sad spectacle—most unfavorable to either the institutions of light or of darkness, when many more join the lodges than are gathered into the churches? Of course, or as a matter of fact, most of those who are members of both a church and a lodge count the lodge the most important, give it the preference when the interests of the two conflict, and attend the meetings of their lodge instead of those of the church to which they belong, when they both occur at the same time. The propagation of the Gospel of Christ encounters many serious difficulties in such a place; evangelistic work is done in the face of hindrances and opposing forces, and limited results follow. But little revival interest has been witnessed for many years; the churches appear to have small spiritual power for the accomplishment of their all-important mission—the extension of the kingdom of heaven, and making the Zion of God a beauty and praise in the community. It is very difficult to reach the people with the messages of the Gospel, especially the men.

The M. E. church has 350 members, and one of them told me that there were but two young men in it. One of the Congregational pastors is an Odd-fellow, who openly commends the secret orders, occasionally with sounding trumpet, invites his own lodge, the "Red Men," and those of like kin to attend his services in a body, when he expatiates upon the beauties of their crafts and the benefits of belonging to them. The fear is that he gives them very little Gospel teaching, nor warns them to flee from the wrath to come; little if any more than when he preaches upon "The Legends of Heart-Break Hill," and kindred subjects which are foreign to the Gospel of Christ. I recently gave him a tract which proved his order to be a Christless institution, asking him to read it and then tell me if it was true. He glanced at the heading and said: "No, it is not true." Since then he has not mentioned the subject to me, nor given me a chance to mention it to him.

Most of the lodges are strong and quite extensively patronized, as is true of the Red Men, who wield a wide influence, but it is feared not one favorable to Christianity or temperance. Recently they had a great gathering in the town, some twelve hundred being in the ranks as they paraded in the streets. It is said, and no doubt with truth, that the selection of the place was because these saloons were licensed, while in the other towns around there are no such accursed drunkard-making mills carried on and protected by legal authority. And such a time there was; profanity, drunkenness, fighting,—a grand debauch! Two places at least were extensively patronized—the saloons and the "lock-up." The former always has "room for more," for they can turn out their customers, well-finished, as fast as more come in. But it was not so with the cells that received their dismissed subjects—legitimate fruit of saloon tutlage; they were filled long before the supply was exhausted, and new quarters had to be improvised. A poor day indeed it was for the dupes of rum and greed; but a rich one for the heartless inhumans who robbed them of their money and made them drunken. One of them is reported to have boasted that his profits that day were seven hundred dollars! What secret orders are there which do not indulge in dissipation and consume a large quantity of liquor whenever they have a grand "blow-out" such as here described?

May the time soon come when secret societies, saloons and all of their kind shall give way to the good and the true.

D. B. GUNN.

CYNOSURE OFFER!

Any of the Books sold by the N. C. A. in this paper, ordered, with subscription to the Cynosure, at one-fourth off from list price, sent postpaid.

The New Volume of Pen and Pencil Series.

WELSH PICTURES Drawn with Pen and Pencil.

By D. Lewis Jones, Morris Jones, Edward Ffoulkes, H. Elvet Lewis, D. Tyssil Evans, D. Davies and O. M. Edwards. Edited by Richard Lovett, M. A. With many Illustrations. Imperial 8vo, cloth, gilt edges, boxed..... 3.20

"'Welsh pictures' is the work of ten Welshmen, among whom illustrating the beauties of Wales has been parcelled out according to the special familiarity of each. The result is a pleasing volume."—London Times.

THE EARTHLY FOOTPRINTS OF OUR RISEN LORD, Illumined.

A continuous narrative of the Four Gospels according to The Revised Version, with introduction by Rev. John Hall, D. D. Illustrated by 113 full-page half tone re-productions. Small 4to, cloth.....net 1.50
Gilt edge, with silk book mark, boxed.....net 2.00
Full morocco, flexible, gilt edges, round corners, boxed.....net 3.75

Pictures reflecting the best in sacred art from Raphael to the present day are scattered profusely through the book.

"To many the life of the Christ will be a new book in this form. Though beyond the introduction it contains no word except what is found in the four Gospels, yet when read continuously, without the breaks necessarily made by the different stories of the four evangelists, the narrative takes on new force and lifelikeness. The very fact that this is not our usual method of reading the Word will give it a new reality."—Golden Rule.

A GIFT OF LOVE, and Loving Greetings for 365 Days.

By Rose Porter. Long 18mo. Paper cloth..... 1.00
White cloth, silver top, in box..... 1.25
Decorated silk, silver top, in box..... 1.75

"'A Gift of Love' is the work of a loving heart. It contains a text of Scripture for every day of the year with the addition of an appropriate thought in poetry of prose all bearing on the theme of love. The work must have called for a great amount of patient toil. But it has not been spent in vain, for the volume will prove a blessing to many a soul. To use it day by day for a year thoughtfully and prayerfully, must result in a rich growth in love on the part of the user. The author is well known and esteemed for her previous works' sake."—The N. Y. Observer.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE SERIES.

By Rev. F. B. Meyer, containing CHRISTIAN LIVING, THE PRESENT TENSES OF THE BLESSED LIFE, AND THE SHEPHERD PSALM. 3 vols. in box. 18mo, cloth..... 1.50
White vellum cloth, silver top, in box..... 1.75

D. L. Moody says: "Few books of recent years are better adapted to instruct and help Christians than those of this author. He is a man mighty in the scriptures, saturated with Bible facts and truths."

PRAYERS FROM THE POETS.

By Martha Harger. 16mo, two colored cloth, gilt top..... 1.00
Leatherette, boxed..... 1.50

"This volume is admirable. The Prayer are better suited to some of our moods than formal Litanies and are selected from excellent sources. The book will be a dear treasure to many hearts."—The Churchman.

KIN-DA-SHON'S WIFE.

An Alaskan Story. By Mrs. Eugene S. Willard, Home Missionary of the Presbyterian Board of America to Alaska. With illustrations. 8vo, cloth..... 1.50

"Being a close observer and in deep sympathy with the native population in their struggles towards a Christian Civilization, Mrs. Willard has gained a more intelligent knowledge of their character, of their needs and hindrances, than perhaps any other person."—Dr. Sheldon Jackson.

HEROES OF THE GOODWIN SANDS.

By Rev. Thomas Stanley Treanor. With many illustrations. 8vo, Cloth..... 1.50

"It is a book of most engrossing interest, and as stimulating as it is readable."—The Record.
"The deeds of daring are thrilling in the extreme. Suitable for the public library or for the home."—Times.

THE GREAT LONDON DAILIES.

By H. W. Massingham. Profusely illustrated. 12mo, cloth..... 1.00

Very welcome to all who like to look behind the scenes and see how the great London dailies are worked.

New Editions.

The Prayer Meeting and Its Improvement.

By Rev. LEWIS O. THOMPSON. Eighth edition, cloth, $1.25.

"Most heartily do we wish this work a wide circulation, both among pastors and people, and we hope it may do much toward the lifting of the prayer-meeting into that higher place which it ought to hold among the grand instrumentalities in the kingdom of the Master."—Congregationalist.

"We do not remember to have met with a work so suggestive, and we heartily commend it to both pastors and private members."—Baptist Weekly.

The Crisis of Missions. By Rev. ARTHUR T. PIERSON, D. D.

Cloth, $1.25; paper, 35c.

"We do not hesitate to say that this book is the most purposeful, earnest, and intelligent review of the mission work and field which has ever been given to the church."—Christian Statesman.

The Christian's Secret of a Happy Life.

By HANNAH WHITALL SMITH. One hundredth thousand. Issued in fourteen styles, from 50c. to $2.50. Send for circular.

"To commend this work would seem almost superfluous; and yet to young Christians who may not know it, we cannot refrain from saying, Buy this book, and keep it with your Bible for constant study, until you have thoroughly mastered, in your own experience, the 'secret' of which it tells. It will transform the dark days of your life, as it has transformed those of thousands before you, into days of heavenly light."—New York Evangelist.

The Topical Text Book. Fourth edition.

16 mo., cloth, 60c.

This little volume is a worker's most useful tool. It collates all Scripture passages under their topical headings, and for this reason proves far more helpful in studying a subject than the best concordance.

"I find one of the very best ways to study the Scripture is to study topically."—D. L. Moody.

Stalker's Life of Christ. Twelfth edition.

Stalker's Life of St. Paul. Fourth edition.

12 mo., cloth, each, 60c.

These works by Professor James Stalker, M. A., are unique in their compact putting of these lives into such condensed form without injurious brevity. They are being taken up as text books by Biblical classes in all parts of the country, thus proving their practical value.

Grace and Truth under Twelve Different Aspects.

By W. P. MACKAY, M. A. Paper, 35c.; cloth, 75c. Two hundred and fiftieth thousand.

This remarkable sale can only be attributed to the very practical character of this work as a guide to the inquirer and a work of helpful instruction for the immature Christian. It is of this volume Mr. D. L. Moody said: "I know of no work in print better adapted to place in the hands of the inquirer."

Notes and Suggestions for Bible Readings.

By S. R. BRIGGS. Sixtieth thousand. 8 vo, cloth. $1.00; flexible, 75c.

Edition after edition of this work has been called for until it would seem the demand must be supplied. The sales however, increase rather than otherwise.

Feathers for Arrows. By Rev. C. H. SPURGEON.

16 mo., cloth, $1.00.

Few preachers have made such effective use of pointed illustrations as the well known pastor of the great Metropolitan Tabernacle. Here he has given us a large cluster of his best with liberty to enjoy and employ.

Revell's Record for Church Treasurers.

Size No. 1, $1.50; Size No. 2, $2.00.

Popular because practical—valuable because time saving—the only record for weekly envelope system that reduces the treasurer's work to the minimum.

For sale by the

National Christian Association;

221 West Madison Street, Chicago, Ill.

LODGE NOTES.

A MASONIC "KICK."

Masonic exchanges from the West cite the fact that an innovation is in order, the holding of religious services in Masonic temples, under Masonic control, on Sunday evenings. Several of the Masonic journals emphatically pronounce against such acts, and The Square and Compass alligns itself promptly with them.

It has been to the glory and honor of Masonry that the question of religion and religious belief has never been permitted or tolerated in Masonry. Within the hallowed sanctuary dedicated to the great Jehovah, every Mason, be he prince or pauper, meets upon the level. An acknowledgment of his belief in the Great Architect of the Universe, his privilege to seek light and perfection, no question of creed or screed being a prerequisite aside from the mysteries of concordant degrees.

Masonry is no religion, yet a religion grander than founders of schism and creeds ever comprehended; a religion that, under the guidance of unerring humanity, recognizing the latent good in all mankind; gives freely—not advice, but succor to the unfortunate, food to the hungry, tears to the distressed, and the tribute man owes to man beside the grave.

We deprecate a unity of religious services with Masonry. They are incompatible. The innovators would recognize Sunday, the Lord's day, in the face of our Hebrew and Baptist brethren, who revere the seventh day, the Sabbath of divine origin. Under Masonic control such services would antagonize the Christian church. If the church-going members are desirous to attend services, according to their belief, they will attend and ignore the Masonic services, and very properly.

Masonry has, in the past, been a bone of contention in religious agitations, and has come again and again unscathed from the onslaught of its detractors. It is not Christianity, nor Judaism, nor Mohammedism, but Masonry, the tie that binds man to man, and requires naught to make it perfect.

Let Masons, as individuals, be guided in religious matters by their opinions, the lessons inculcated at their mother's knee, but, as Masons, deprecate religious services foreign to their ethics and ritual. —Square and Compass.

The earlier symptoms of dyspepsia, such as distress after eating, heartburn, and occasional headaches, should not be neglected. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla and be cured.

Hood's Pills are the best family cathartic and liver medicine. Harmless, reliable, sure.

"Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething" softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain and cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

THE MYSTIC SHRINE
Illustrated.
THE FULL
ILLUSTRATED RITUAL
OF THE
Nobles of the Mystic Shrine
PRICE 15 CENTS, EACH.
For sale by the
NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

The Christian Witness
Is an eight-page undenominational monthly; the official organ of the New Hampshire Christian Association, opposed to secret societies. It advocates Bible Holiness, Church Purity, Sound Morality and Temperance.
Terms: 50 cents a year, or three years for $1.00.
Send stamp for sample copy.
Address S. C. KIMBALL,
Box 277. Newmarket, N. H.

NOTHING STANDS AS HIGH, as a remedy for every womanly ailment, as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Here is the proof. It's the only medicine for women so certain in its effects that it can be guaranteed. In every case, if it doesn't benefit or cure, your money is returned. Can anything else, though it may be better for a tricky dealer to sell, be "just as good" for you to buy? "Favorite Prescription" is an invigorating, restorative tonic, a soothing and strengthening nervine, and a complete cure for all the functional derangements, painful disorders, and chronic weaknesses peculiar to the sex.

For young girls just entering womanhood; for women at the critical "change of life"; for women approaching confinement; nursing mothers; and every woman who is "run-down," tired, or overworked—it is a special, safe, and certain help.

If you have an incurable case of Catarrh, the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy will pay you $500 cash. They believe that they can cure you.

MY WIFE CANNOT SEE HOW YOU DO IT AND PAY FREIGHT.
$10.50 Buy the Oxford Improved SINGER Sewing Machine, with a complete set of attachments and guaranteed for 10 years. Shipped anywhere on 30 days' trial. No money required in advance. 75,000 now in use. World's Fair Medal awarded. Buy from factory, save dealers' and agents' profit. Write to-day for our LARGE FREE CATALOGUE.
Oxford Mfg. Co., 342 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WHEATON COLLEGE,
WHEATON, ILL.
A School for Men and Women.
WINTER TERM OPENS TUESDAY JANUARY 2ND.
For Catalogue, address
CHAS. A BLANCHARD, Pres.

IF YOU
WANT WORK
that is pleasant and profitable, send us your address immediately. We teach men and women how to earn from $5 per day to $3,000 per year without having had previous experience, and furnish the employment at which they can make that amount. Capital unnecessary. A trial will cost you nothing. Write to-day and address,
E. C. ALLEN & CO.,
Box 1001. Augusta, Me.

PATENTS
Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained, and all Patent business conducted for Moderate Fees.
Our Office is Opposite U. S. Patent Office, and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.
Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.
A Pamphlet, "How to Obtain Patents," with names of actual clients in your State, county, or town, sent free. Address,
C. A. SNOW & CO.
Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

PROPHECY:
A STUDY.
BY REV. S. F. PORTER,
A Study of Christ's Comings.
Paper Cover, 100 Pages.
Single copies, postpaid..... 25 cents.
Per 100 copies, postpaid..... $20.00.
For sale by the
NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

The St. Louis Sermon
Are Secret Societies a Blessing or a Curse?
An Address by Rev. B. Carradine D. D., Pastor of the Centenary M. E. Church, St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 4, 1891.
W. McCoy writes: "That sermon ought to be in the hands of every preacher in this land, and every citizen's too."
A pamphlet of 20 pages and cover.
Sent postpaid 25 copies $1.00. Single copy 5 cents.
NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

ANTI-SECRECY TRACTS.

The following numbers are in stock, and can be had at the wholesale price of 25 cents per pound:

1. National Christian Association.
1½. Testimony of Statesmen.
4. Freemasonry in the Family.
7. To the Boys who Hope to be Men.
8. Modern Heathenism.
9. Ministers at Rival Altars.
10. A Pastor's Confession.
15. Secrecy and Sin.
16. Selling Dead Horses.
17. History of Masonry.
19. Freemasonry a Christ-excluding Religion.
22. Extracts from Masonic Oaths and Penalties as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.
28. Dr. Nathaniel Colver on Masonry.
30. Masonic Oaths Null and Void.
37. Why a Christian should not be a Freemason (German).
38. Masonic Oaths and Penalties.
39. Should Freemasons be Admitted to Christian Fellowship?
41. Freemasonry a Religion.
45. Ought a Seceding Mason to Keep his Lodge Oath?

Families, Churches, Senates, Juries and Camps.

The above are the only tracts in stock in large quantities. There are a few of several other numbers. Remember that these are being retailed at wholesale prices—25 cents per pound. Keep a package of Anti-masonic tracts for use in letters.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

AGENTS AND LECTURERS.

NEW ENGLAND DEPARTMENT.—Rev. J. P. Stoddard, Agent, 218 Columbus Ave., Hotel Howland, Boston.

EASTERN DEPARTMENT.—W. B. Stoddard, Agent, No. 215, 4½ St., Washington, D. C.

NORTHERN DEPARTMENT.—Rev. W. Fenton, 74 South Robert St., St. Paul, Minn.

PACIFIC DEPARTMENT.—Rev. P. B. Williams, Philomath, Oregon.

COLLEGE AGENT, Rev. S. F. Porter Cynosure office.

OTHER LECTURERS.

C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
Rev. H. H. Hinman, Oberlin, O.
Nathan Callender Montdale Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
H. A. Day, Brighton, Mich.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
A. Mayn, Bloomington, Ind.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
W. M. Love, Osceola, Mo.
J. K. Glassford, Phoenix, Arizona.
Wm. Fenton, St. Paul, Minn.
J. S. Perry, Thompson, Conn.
Rev. E. Mathews, Ft Wayne, Ind.
E. Barnetson, Haskinville, N. Y.
D. A. Richards, Brighton, Mich.
A. W. Parry, Chicago, Ill.

Disloyal
SECRET OATHS
ADDRESS OF
JOSEPH COOK,
OF BOSTON,
AT THE
Conference of Christians
CHICAGO, 1890.
No better document of its size for general distribution has been printed. Joseph Cook's address is a national treatment of a national subject, and very valuable for reference.
Single Copies 5 cents, or 12 copies for 50 cents.
NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the Initiate. By Rev. L. A. Post. 5 cents each

THE N. C. A. BUILDING
(The gift of Philo Carpenter)
—AND OFFICE OF—
THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. MADISON STREET, CHICAGO.

The National Christian Association

PRESIDENT—Rev. A. J. Gordon, D.D., Boston, Mass.

VICE PRESIDENT—Charles A. Blanchard, President Wheaton College Ill.

GEN'L SEC'Y and TREASURER—W. I. Phillips, 221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

REC. SECRETARY—Amos Dresser, Jr. Wheaton, Ill., Box 367.

DIRECTORS—T. B. Arnold, C. A. Blanchard, E. A. Cook, J. M. Hitchcock, A. G. Johnson, J. P. Richards, E Whipple, E. R. Worrell, Edgar B. Wylie W. M. Howie, H. F. Kletzing.

The object of this Association is:

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the churches of Christ from being depraved, to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform.

STATE AUXILIARY ASSOCIATIONS

NEW ENGLAND.—Pres., Rev. J. M Foster, Boston, Mass.; Sec'y, Miss E. E Flagg, Wellesley, Mass.; Treas., L. E. Lincoln, Boston,

CONNECTICUT.—Pres., J. A. Conant, Willimantic; Sec., David J. Ellsworth, Windsor; Treas., C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.—Pres., Rev. R. W. Chesnut Marissa; Sec., Rev. J. R. Wylie, Coulterville; Treas., Rev. W. I. Phillips, Cynosure office, Chicago.

IOWA.—Pres., Rev. J. A. Greer, Columbus City; Sec., Rev. T. H. Acheson, Hopkinton; Treas., Rev. L. Mendenhall, Fairfield.

KANSAS.—Pres., Rev. C. H. Strong, Lawrence; Vice-Pres., Rev. J. L. Countermine Hiawatha; Sec., Rev. D. H. Coulter, Winchester; Treas., Joseph A. Torrence, Denison.

NEBRASKA.—Pres., Rev. W. I. Brooks Pawnee City; Vice Pres., Rev. C. G. Widen Mead; Sec., Howard P. Young, Wahoo Treas., Rev. T. H. Dabney, Hooper.

MAINE.—Pres., ——, ——, Sec., I. D. Haines, Dexter; Treas., H. W Goddard, West Sidney.

MASSACHUSETTS.—Pres., S. A. Pratt; Worcester.

MICHIGAN.—Pres., D. A. Richards, Brighton; Sec., H. A. Day, Brighton; Treas Geo. Swanson, Jr., Bedford.

MINNESOTA.—Pres., S. B. Sjoblom, Fergus Falls; Cor. Sec., Wm. Fenton, St. Paul Rec. Sec., Mrs. M. F. Morrill, St. Charles Treas. Wm. H. Morrill St. Charles.

MISSOURI.—Pres., J. F. Beauchamp, Denver; Sec., M. N. Butler, Darlington; Treas. Rev. C. G. Cox, Grant City.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—Pres., Robt. A. Frohock, Alton; Sec., S. C. Kimball, New Market; Treas., James F. French, Canterbury.

NEW YORK.—Pres., Rev. S. R. Wallace Syracuse; Sec., Rev. W. H. Clark, Binghamton; Treas., Lucius Woodruff, Binghamton.

OHIO.—Pres., J. W. Martin, Mt. Perry; Rec. Sec., A. T. Vestal, Senecaville; Cor Sec. and Treas., E. Thomson, Senecaville

OREGON.—Pres., Rev. Wm. Dillon, D.D., Salem; Sec., Rev. P. B. Williams, Philomath; Treas., Samuel Terry, Canby.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Pres., Samuel S. Collins, Allegheny; Sec., J. S. T. Milligan Beaver; Treas., R. C. Wylie, Wilkinsburg.

WISCONSIN.—Pres., J. B. Galloway, Poynette; Sec., Isaiah Faris, Vernon; Treas. J. W. Wood, Baraboo.

The Christian Cynosure.

HENRY M. HUGUNIN - - - - Editor.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 21, 1893.

MASONIC PERSECUTION REBUKED.

The story of the persecution of Bro. and Sister Wolfe, publishers of John-Three-Sixteen at Gwenndale, Indian Territory, for exposing Masonry and the "ways that are dark and the tricks that are vain" which distinguish the "mystic tie," was given to the readers of the Cynosure several months ago. Briefly recalled, it is as follows: While Bro. and Sister Wolfe's paper is set up in their own printing office by willing hands, they were obliged to hire their press-work done at an office owned by a Freemason. The attention of the latter having been called to an exposure of Masonry in the paper, while going through the press, the representative of Hiram Abiff not only refused to print any more copies, but destroyed those that had just been printed. This affair cost Bro. and Sister Wolfe a vexatious delay and much trouble before they were enabled to issue their paper. A new printer was finally secured, and since then John-Three-Sixteen has been regularly sent to its patrons. A movement is also on foot to provide for Bro. and Sister Wolfe a press of their own.

Bro. and Sister Wolfe also control an orphanage for Indian children and youth, and to the best of their ability are bringing up these waifs in the fear and admonition of the Lord, and training them in habits of industry and sobriety. Among the products of their orphanage is corn-meal, raised and ground by the inmates, put into bags and sold to dealers. After the trouble about printing John-Three-Sixteen, some of the "benevolent" Masonic grocers refused to buy the meal put up in bags bearing the labels of the orphanage, thus establishing a practical boycott against the Wolfes.

Nor was this all. The Chieftain, a newspaper printed at Vinita, I. T., controlled by Masons, has been very severe in its abuse of the Wolfes. In a recent letter to this office, Bro. Wolfe relates an interesting incident in this connection, as follows:

"The last article they had in the Chieftain, was so outrageously malicious, and so false, that Mrs. Wolfe and her good mother went in and interviewed the editor and publisher; and finally, before leaving their sanctum, knelt down in prayer for them. Milford (the publisher) ran out of the room, and the other (the hireling editor) had to remain. If ever a pair of harpies had to take a good old-fashioned lecturing, they had to, and strictly from a Christian standpoint, too. Mrs. Wolfe's father had been a leading Mason—he died some ten years ago—and she and her mother got a heavy leverage on the gentleman by insisting that they had wronged a Master Mason's wife and daughter by slandering them. Mrs. W. and her mother have not the least bit of use for Masonry, they having experienced much of the evils of the lodge in the past."

Certainly, it was a timely and fitting rebuke, as well as an ingenious one. Masonry is best fought with its own weapons.

DESTRUCTION, NOT MITIGATION.

The works of Satan are not to be mitigated but destroyed.

A recent writer, in speaking of the triumphs of Christianity, says that it has done much, and is designed to do more, for the mitigation of the horrors of war.

Fifty years ago it was proposed to publish a tract on the abuses of American slavery. It was held that if these abuses could be eliminated, the condition of the slave would be greatly improved.

Much has been written, of late years, about purifying the theatre, and perhaps it is not as corrupt as it has been in the past.

To our objections to Freemasonry and the whole lodge system, the most constant reply is, that there are doubtless many bad lodge-members, and that if the lodges would be more careful in the selection of their material, and in the conduct of their affairs, the general conditions of society would be improved.

Dr. Rainsford and some others, when pressed with the evils of the drink-traffic, propose to take it under the wing of the church, and so mitigate its abominations.

Away with such nonsense! Christ came not to mitigate, but "to destroy the works of the devil." For, though it is true that the progress of Christianity has done so much to diminish the horrors of war, so that now in civilized lands we no longer torture prisoners, nor sell them as slaves, yet war exists, and is countenanced and practiced by men who call themselves Christians. War is the work of Satan. We daily pray, "Thy kingdom come," and in that kingdom there can be manifestly no war, no slavery, no theaters, no lodges and no saloons. Any concession to the rightful existence of any of these practices, and any support, direct or indirect, that we may give them, is a manifest inconsistency with our prayers and our hopes. If we would be one with Christ, we must hate sin and seek to destroy it.

THE LAWLESS ONE.

The extensive prevalence of crime, and especially of mob violence—an example of which was the recent dragging from a court of justice of a criminal in Iowa, and hanging him to the railing of the stairway that led to the court-room—shows that no section of our land has any special preeminence, and that our entire nation, if not the entire world, is approaching the condition described by the apostle in Paul's second epistle to the Thessalonians, in which he says, "For the mystery of lawlessness doth already work..... And then shall be revealed the lawless one, whom the Lord Jesus shall slay with the breath of his mouth, and bring to naught by the manifestation of his coming." 2 Thess. 2: 7, 8, Revised Version.

"The lawless one" is Satan, and this spirit of lawlessness is the manifestation of his power. There is but one consoling fact, namely, that his time is short; for he who was manifested that he might destroy the works of the devil will surely bring to naught all his devices. Meantime, the workers of lawlessness, whom Satan is using to execute his desires, are assuredly bringing on themselves, and on the nation, the indignation of the Almighty.

No political changes afford any good ground for a hope of improvement. Nothing but the power of God can avail. Were it not that this general condition of our country and of the world is in fulfillment of prophecy—a prophecy of the day of darkness that is to precede the millennial glory—we should be utterly cast down. Let us rather "lift up our heads," "for your redemption draweth nigh." Luke 21: 28.

"THE DECEIVABLENESS OF UNRIGHTEOUSNESS."

One of the characteristics of "the lawless one" is, that his "coming is with all deceit of unrighteousness for them that are perishing." (2 Thess. 2: 10.—Rev. Ver.) Our Saviour, too, in speaking of the dangers of the last days, said that false influences should prevail, so that, "if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect." (Matt. 24: 24.) Probably there is no form of deception more widespread and injurious than that which comes through the secret lodge system. Satan comes, as of old, like an angel of light. As he deceived our first parents by appealing to their love of knowledge, a principle most commendable in itself, so now he appeals to the philanthropy and love of temperance to persuade people to join the secret temperance orders. He appeals to love of country, comradeship, and "the memories of the war," to get men into the G. A. R. Then he puts on an air of great horror of Romanism, concern for our religious liberty, and regard for our free school system, and so induces good people to unite with the A. P. A., whose very name is a deceit. The Christians thus drawn into these associations, though they may not be otherwise injured, have at least consented to cease all opposition to other and more malignant forms of lodgery.

Then there is a host of secret orders that have for their professed objects mutual insurance, good fellowship, and aid to each other.

Others have a marked religious element, and appeal strongly to man's devotional nature and his hope for a happy immortality.

In all these forms of secretism there is uniformly a tempting bait, an appeal to some praiseworthy object, which lures but to destroy, and, in the end, tends to subvert, rather than promote, the declared purpose. For, manifestly, the only real power that can lift man from the degradation of intemperance, reform society, make people patriotic in the best sense of the word, secure to them true brotherly love, save our nation from the corrupting and despotic influences of Romanism, and inspire us with true reverence for God and well-grounded hopes of heaven, is the Gospel of Christ.

Nor are any of these devices of Satan to be regarded as stepping-stones to Christianity. The Gospel plan needs no stepping-stones, nor does it admit of any. It knows naught of an intermediate state between faith and unbelief. It invites all men to come at once to Christ. All that is preliminary is sinful, for "whatsoever is not of faith is sin." Then, too, we have no right to seek the promotion of a good cause by unrighteous methods; for though God may overrule the acts of wicked men to promote his glory, yet the nature and tendency of all sinful means is to bring about evil ends. "The wrath of man worketh not the righteousness of God."

Organized secrecy is not one of the divinely-appointed methods of promoting holy purposes. Especially are falsehood and hypocrisy, which are the legitimate fruit of the secret lodge system, destructive both of individual character and the public good.

The A. P. A. has, through its agents, invented, told, and caused to be believed, some malicious slanders about the Roman Catholics, which, in the long run, will do far more to injure the men who have told them than those against whom they were told. The blessing of God cannot rest on such endeavors, and Christians do well to remember that all such devices of Satan are a part of that "cunning craftiness whereby they lie in wait to deceive." (Eph. 4: 14.)

NOTES AND NEWS FROM BUSINESS LETTERS.

"I feel greatly encouraged in the progress of the reform (opposition to the secret lodge empire) out here, by the efficient labors of Bro. P. B. Williams."—S. M. Neff, Conconully, Wash.

"The Christian Cynosure has been a welcome visitor to our reading-room. It was read by our students with much interest and appreciation."—Librarian Northwestern College, at Naperville, Ill.

"Our little Church of Christ in Everett, at its regular weekly meeting this evening, was edified by the account, in this week's Cynosure, of Stephen Merritt's faithful testimony concerning lodge-religion, which I had read. They voted to send $2 out of their deep poverty for use in the work of the Cynosure."—Wm. F. Davis, Mt. Washington, Chelsea, Mass., Dec. 8.

"Long may the Cynosure live to oppose the lodge system and the corruptions flowing therefrom, and thereby be a blessing to our sin-cursed world. Such papers as faithfully antagonize the sins of our age of the world are the ones that Christian people should sustain and zealously encourage by their financial support."—Rev. Evans Thompson, Senecaville, Ohio.

"I can hardly do without your paper..... Times are very hard here. I have a large field, and am all alone in the advocacy of non-secrecy. As a consequence I have but few friends to hold up my hands in support of the stand I have taken. But thanks be to God, I have come nearer to the Friend of all friends, and the light I now have is satisfactory to the soul; it cometh from above, through the Son of God. I need no little tallow-dips. I have broken the cable-tow—I have liberty in Christ."—(Rev.) A. W. Austin, Rosston, Tex.

—The trial of Prendergast, for the murder of Mayor Harrison, is in progress.

—We expected to receive the program of the New England Association's convention for this issue, but it failed to reach us. We are, however, promised Miss Flagg's report at an early date. It will be looked for with interest.

—The Gospel Banner, the organ of the Mennonite Brethren in Christ, published at Berlin, Ont., and edited by Eld. Hallman, says of the Cynosure that "it is always straight on the questions of reform. It is an able advocate of the anti-secrecy question. Ministers especially, and all others who are troubled with secret societies, should subscribe for it." Thanks for these kind words. Eld. Hallman, himself an unflinching reformer, knows the value of such a paper as a helper in his work.

—By a special message to Congress, last Monday, President Cleveland transfers to that body, for settlement, the troublesome Hawaii affair. Late news from the island shows that the provisional government is prepared to contest the restoration of the queen by force of arms, if necessary, although it is admitted, in some quarters, that annexation to the United States is at present impracticable. Congress should relieve our government from any undue interference in this attempt to wrong a peaceable sovereignty.

—The antagonism between the Roman Catholic authorities and the anti-Catholic secret orders of the United American Mechanics and the A. P. A., at Orange, New Jersey, has resulted in an open denunciation by the Catholic members of those societies, who are called "ignorant blatherskites" and similar names. The Catholics also print the oath of the A. P. A. (recently published in the Cynosure), and have ordered a boycott of its members. A bitter sectional strife prevails in that community, which may result in serious hostilities.

—A brother writes to know whether Odd-fellowship rejects Christ from its religious teachings and worship, and whether it eliminates his name from its Scripture quotations. We answer that the name of Christ is omitted in all the authorized forms of prayer. By the authority of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, "Christianity is a sect," and it is "unlawful to make prominent reference to it in lodge work." In the edition of Grosh's Manual of Odd-fellowship, 1869, the name of Christ is eliminated from Heb. 11:26. In later editions the entire quotation is changed; but nowhere can Christ be found.

—The New York Voice, speaking of the recent action of the Minnesota Grand Lodge of Knights of Pythias in voting to bar liquor-dealers from admittance to their order, grows facetious: "We don't know whether the liquor-dealers are excluded on moral grounds or social grounds, but if on moral grounds the action is a piece of Pecksniffian hypocrisy. So long as the Knights of Pythias is composed chiefly of those who vote to sustain and protect the business by law and to receive part of the profits into the public treasury, they have no moral right to turn up their noses at the man behind the bar. They are silent partners, and they ought to get out of the business themselves before they run down their partners." Precisely so.

—The series of International Sunday-school lessons for 1894, the first of which will appear in next week's issue of the Cynosure, embraces Old Testament history (Genesis 1 to Exodus 14), and the life of our Lord from the four Gospels. Those for 1895, comprise a continuation of the life of Jesus from the four Gospels, concluding with studies in the Old Testament (Exodus to 1 Samuel). The selection of these lessons by the committee had a two-fold object: 1. To exalt God's Word and to unite all Christians in all parts of the world in the study of the same passages of the Bible. 2. To present a scheme of lessons fitted for general Sunday-school work for all, without note or comment, leaving it to others to explain, expound and illustrate.

—As we go to press on Tuesday morning, Chicago is in the throes of a municipal election—the choice of a mayor to fill the unexpired term of Carter H. Harrison, deceased. John P. Hopkins, the Democratic candidate, is reported to be a member of the murderous secret order of the Clan-na-Gael (camp 41), and does belong to the Catholic Order of Foresters, the Catholic Columbus club, and the Catholic Knights of America. George B. Swift, candidate of the Republicans, is notoriously the friend of Roman Catholics, although he would probably deny the charge. From what we can learn, there is also an A. P. A. ticket in the field, which may develop unexpected strength in the returns, since this order, like the Jesuits, does not go about the streets heralding its purposes before the battle. It seems impossible to elect a public officer in Chicago who is not prejudiced by partisanship or sectarianism. For years the writer, in voting for city rulers, has been obliged to follow the old adage—"Of two evils choose the least," because no good men ever were running—and that is the experience of every fair-minded, honorable voter in Chicago.

—Among the measures that are likely to occupy much time and discussion in Congress, after the holiday recess, are bills for the admission to Statehood of Arizona, Utah, and New Mexico. The principal motive appears to have its origin in partisan politics, and Congress will do well to go slow in pressing this matter. In New Mexico, particularly, where the people are mostly of Mexican character and habits and speak the Spanish language, it is doubtful whether their accession would be desirable; and as for Utah, the polygamous element will require strong national restriction to keep it within bounds in a self-governing commonwealth. To annex Utah to the State of Nevada, as proposed, would be far better, and tend to avert several disagreeable contingencies.

—The Bloomington (Ind.) World, on the 7th inst, issued a fine anniversary number of twenty-four pages, in which the principal men and institutions of the city receive special attention, illustrated with portraits. Among others we observe the genial countenance of Rev. M. A. Gault, who is now pastor of the Covenanter church of Bloomington. The following sketch of his career, from the same paper, we doubt not, will be read with interest: "Rev. M. A. Gault was born May 5, 1845, in Colraine, Ireland, and is the second son in a family of four boys. The oldest son is a lawyer in Chicago, the third is a farmer in Iowa, and the youngest is a pastor in Mansfield, Ohio. The subject of this sketch received his early education at Waukesha, Wis. He graduated at Monmouth College in 1870, and from the Allegheny Theological Seminary in '74. He was pastor in Iowa for eight years, and for ten years his time was wholly occupied as secretary of the National Reform Association. Last year he was president of the National Christian Association opposed to secret societies, during which time he labored in the States of Nebraska, Iowa, Wisconsin and Illinois. He is an uncompromising foe to all kinds of secret orders. Last June he became the pastor of the Covenanter church of Bloomington, where he hopes to labor during the remainder of his life."

—Some time ago we learned, with deep regret, of the untimely death of Pres. J. C. Price, of Lincoln College, at Salisbury, N. C. He was, perhaps, the most eminent of colored orators. We recall one of his inimitable anecdotes, which well illustrates the folly of excessive care not to offend those to whom we are religious teachers. In a certain town in North Carolina, there was a church that had just secured the services of a new minister, and was exceeding anxious that he should please the people. They told him that there was a leading family in their community, named Ransom, on whom they were greatly dependent for financial support. They wished, therefore, that he would be very careful not to offend them. So, on the first day he was to preach, he waited long for the distinguished family to seat themselves in their usual places. Then he proceeded to begin the services with the familiar hymn:

> Blow ye the trumpet, blow,
> The gladly solemn sound;
> Let all the nations know,
> To earth's remotest bound,
> The year of jubilee has come,
> Return, ye ransomed sinners, home.

To his great surprise, the Ransom family all arose and left. To be called sinners and sent home was more than they could endure. Moral: "He that hath my word, let him speak my word faithfully," whether men will bear or forbear it.

—Fong Loy, a Chinese laundry-man at Pittsburgh, Pa., was recently found hanging by the neck and dead. At first it was surmised that as a Highbinder, or Mason, he had fallen a victim to lodge malice, but evidence showed that he did not belong to that murderous fraternity. Some testimony indicated that he was a suicide; but another theory was that he had greatly angered his countrymen by refusing to join the Highbinders, and that they had killed him for that reason. In this respect the Highbinders' lodge appears to be more despicable than Freemasonry, which does not "Masonically dispose" of those who refuse to pollute their consciences with its horrible obligations, but reserves its malice for its recalcitrant brethren.

—It is not enough for "believers" to accept Christ as their Saviour and consider themselves saved, unless they are willing to put away the sins which so easily beset them before confessing Christ. A missionary in Central Africa tells the story of two of the native chief men who had long listened to the Gospel of Christ and had mentally received its truths. They came to visit the missionary and announced themselves as believers; "but," says the missionary, "I knew too well that they knew but little concerning a change of heart from their own actual experience." In the course of the conversation he was constrained to ask how many wives each had, and how many slaves. Were they going to continue buying slaves? How about the "beer-drinks" and all the ceremonies connected with them? How about consulting the fetich doctors, etc.? "Well," he adds, "the result was about the same as with the young man in Luke 18: 23. The old men went away 'very sorrowful,' for they had many wives and slaves, their old-time superstitions were ingrained in their very being, and their souls dearly loved their tribal customs." They were not converted. What a warning!

REFORM NEWS (Continued from 5th page.)

step the bounds of the church in claiming to prepare men for "the grand lodge above." It is inimical to the church, because it is Christless and robs the church of its male members.

He proved Masonry to be no more benevolent than an insurance company.

The address was considered by the audience as a masterpiece of thoroughness in force and logic. Rendered in a kindly spirit, it created a profound impression. Serious and earnest in style, it had marked advantage over the Mason's speech, which was characterized by rude jokes, ludicrous comparisons, and sophistry to conceal and not reveal; a vain attempt to attack, with sarcasm and jesting, what was proof against fair argument.

The address of Rev. Mr. Acheson has had a powerful effect upon the many young men who heard it.

GUTHRIE.

FROM REV. WILLIAM FENTON.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 15, 1893.

DEAR CYNOSURE:—After twenty years' study of Freemasonry, I will say that if Freemasons are not "crucifying to themselves the Son of God afresh, and putting him to an open shame," then that sin never has been, and never can be, committed. And if Jonathan Blanchard said in his heart concerning the Freemasons that call themselves ministers of Christ and Christians, "Ye serpents, ye generation of vipers, how can ye escape the damnation of hell?" he was in that thought Christ-like and worthy of the black-mail of Masonic publications and the ostracism of a denomination that plays the harlot with Freemasonry. Even so Christ Jesus is worthy of the malignant hate of Satan as manifested by the Masonic claim that his resurrection was a legend and that inferior to the scandalous Masonic lie about the Bible, wherein Freemasonry teaches resurrection and immortality by the assertion that Hiram, the architect of King Solomon's temple, was raised from the grave by King Solomon.

I write this as a tribute of respect to the late Rev. Jonathan Blanchard and to the honor of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

WILLIAM FENTON.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE offers to either an old or new subscriber, until the 1st of February, 1894, any book for sale by the National Christian Association at 25 per cent discount from retail rates, when ordered in connection with a yearly or six months' subscription to the Cynosure.

A special offer is made of the Christian Cynosure, one year, and "BETWEEN TWO OPINIONS," by Miss E. E. Flagg, 389 pages, cloth, price $1. The two, worth $2.50, will be sent for only $1.75 and four 2-cent stamps to pay postage on the book.

THE HOME.

THE GREATEST.

I hold him great who, for love's sake,
Can give with generous, earnest will;
Yet he who takes for love's sweet sake,
I think I hold more generous still.

I bow before the noble mind
That freely some great wrong forgives;
Yet nobler is the one forgiven
Who bears the burden well, and lives.

Great may be he who can command,
And rule with just and tender sway;
Yet is diviner wisdom taught
Better by him who can obey.

Blessed are they who die for God,
And earn the martyr's crown of light;
Yet he who lives for God may be
A greater conqueror in his sight.

—Adelaide Anna Proctor.

SANCTITY OF THE HUMAN BODY.

We shall never have that Christian character that the world needs till we recognize the sanctity of the human body.

The great controlling thought of God seems to have been man-building, since everything on earth and in heaven is adapted to building up the physical and mental man, while at the same time God has made ample provision for the development of the complete and perfect spiritual man. Manhood is so glorious in the sight of God that he became a man and dwelt among us to give us a pattern of the perfect man.

God's first man started well. We are told that he was made in the image and likeness of God. Sin came into the world, and the image and likeness were defaced and destroyed. Christ came to teach us how it might be restored. When you believe in Christ and accept him as your Saviour he sets to work to bring you back to the condition which God designed for you. When the Holy Ghost removes the curtain from the future he shows us the image and likeness perfectly restored. Spiritual sin wrought out spiritual and physical death. When spiritual life is restored physical health will also be restored. God's salvation is a complete salvation. He will not let the devil glory over a scrap of victory. The battle with sin is not to be a compromise or a drawn battle, but a complete victory. Christ will destroy the works of the devil in my body as well as my soul.

The body is very important; we cannot get rid of it either here or hereafter; and when we have accepted Christ our bodies belong to him, for they are "bought with a price." They are not ours to do as we please with them, but they are Christ's, and become the members of his body, the temples of the Holy Ghost. The temple, to the ancient Jew, was a very sacred place. Its chief characteristic was its purity. Everything about it must be pure and the sacrifices offered upon its altars must be without blemish of any sort. Jesus came to the temple and found them buying and selling, and using it for unlawful purposes, and he drove them out with great indignation; and we are told in regard to these living temples of the Holy Ghost, "If any man defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy: for the temple of God is holy, which temple we are." The Holy Ghost claims our bodies as a living sacrifice. Every man is presenting his body as a sacrifice somewhere, to mammon, to Bacchus, to lust, to fashion; but we are implored to present our "bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable to God," because this is a reasonable service.

The call to Christians is imperative to a complete separation from the world to holiness, and they are to be judged at the last for the things done in this mortal body, whether good or bad. We get mixed, sometimes, in our thought about these things; we think we must take care of the soul, but we may do as we like with our bodies. We think the body is for ourselves, for our business or pleasure; but the body is for God, and God for the body. The chain that binds us to God binds our bodies as well as our souls. How careful Christians ought to be about the prenatal and postnatal influence which they give to their children; that they do not give them bodies so handicapped that they will be worsted in every battle of life.

When a man comes to realize that his body is a member of Christ's body, he does not pour whisky down his throat, or take Christ's body into a saloon. He is very careful what he looks on with Christ's eyes, or listens to, or speaks, or sings.

What shall I do with this body? Keep it pure—a temple for the Holy Ghost. Do only what you feel Christ would want to have done with his body. "Yield your members servants to righteousness and true holiness." Do not dare to use it in any way out of harmony with the thought and purpose of God. Let your light so shine that men and women will grasp this vital truth and get sanctified bodies.—Anonymous.

TEMPTATION IN THE HOME.

Once when my field of labor in this Gospel temperance work was in one of the interior towns of one of the Middle States, I met on the principal avenue a young female, a former pupil in the Sunday-school in a distant village. A moment's conversation showed how the cruel vulture had done its ghoulish work. I prayed that I might be able to turn her wayward feet. The purity of blessed childhood's days and scenes, associations sweet and sacred, hallowed memories, early playmates—all, all, were presented in the brilliant color of hope and trust. A mist filled her eyes.

"Come, I'll take you home. In less than a day we will be there. How glad your parents will be to see you! Surely you do not forget the love of father and mother, and you want to see them again, don't you, Mary?"

Straightening herself up to her full height, her face white, her form rigid and strained, in a voice whose tone conveyed hate, mingled with utter despair, she answered; "Yes, I do remember them. They taught me to drink wine at the family board. I was told to 'drink it like a lady.' Under its influence the bottle drained, brain reeled, the world was torn from under my feet, the sky became all brass. To-day I am eating the ashes of the apples of the Dead Sea. There is nothing left worth living for. I can't fight against the odds much longer. Every hand pushes me nearer the bottom; then comes the end. Some day I must stand at the bar of God, and I tell you I shall be a true witness against those who taught me to 'drink wine like a lady.'" Father, mother, what answer? For there will come a time when that question will be asked, and must be answered.—Unknown Author.

SOMETHING TRUE ABOUT FRIENDLY NEIGHBORS.

It was a good many years ago, before ever a steamer ploughed its way up the largest river in Maine, that my father took his family and built a home in the woods, near Mat-a-wam-keg.

The Penobscot Indians were our nearest neighbors. They built their huts of hemlock bark in the forest in sight of our clearing. Friendly and neighborly they were. No terror thrilled our childish hearts at the sound of their midnight songs. We peeped slyly into the low, fan-shaped door of their wigwams, and now and then had a sail on the river in their birch bark canoes.

My father preached sometimes in the villages on the islands, and the Indians knew that he was called a "Quaker" or "Friend" by white settlers. It was well known, too, that he carried no firearms. He would not shoot so much as deer that often drank at the brook where he watered the cows.

Strangers wondered that my mother should allow a "squaw" to come in her kitchen and borrow a tiny pail of molasses, or a small quantity of flour, with which to bake a breakfast in the ashes of the lodge fire. But mother always shared, even though her own supply was often small.

At times, some Indians in need would come in the night, and creeping close up to the window, cry, "Mr. Friend, Mr. Quaker, give us matches; give us bread."

Hospitable themselves, and generous to a fault, they never dreamed of asking too much, nor did my parents ever complain.

One time in mid-winter my father was called twenty miles away to attend a funeral, and my mother went with him. The morning was bright, but before night there came a dreadful storm. The snow drifted over everything, and the roads were impassable. Our parents were snowed in at Molunkus, and we children were snowed under at home. But there was wood in the shed, and potatoes in the cellar, and flour in the barrel. The first day we were happy, the second day we were lonesome, and the third day we were impatient.

Just at nightfall an Indian voice outside called out, "Little Friends, little Quakers, open door."

We did open the door, and in tumbled a big drift of snow. Then appeared two Indians on snowshoes, who carried, one, a haunch of freshly-killed bear meat, and the other a venison ham. Game was plenty then; and knowing we were little prisoners behind icy bars, these red-skinned neighbors of ours had remembered us.

No smoking roast since then has tasted half so luscious as did that slice of bear steak broiled on the coals at the great open fire; though I have heard many people declare that "bear is poor eating."

When our parents returned, and we told our story, my father said to mother, "Thee sees we have good neighbors. The Lord takes care of his children."—Our Little Men and Women.

A TENDER TRIBUTE.

The following beautiful sketch is from the pen of one of our "Youth and Beauty" band—a loving tribute to her dear old grandmother that will glow in many hearts:

In some far-away lands the twilight lingers longer than with us; the evening glow pauses upon the hill-tops, lies lovingly upon sea and shore, fades slowly and is lost in star-lit night. So it has been ordained that some lives should pass into long twilight; into sunset beauty that softened and mellowed with a touch of the divine all things it shone upon. Did you chance to see her at her window—our grandmother? It faced the western sky, and she could see the river's sweep, the willows on the other side dipping their feet in its waters, the yellow cornfields stretching to the broken line of trees, with the gold and crimson evening over all. In these quiet times her hands, those helpful hands, lay folded in her lap, the glasses were under her white cap, and she rested there in the radiance. Her dear old face, that passing years had touched so gently, was transfigured as she watched. Watched the fading light alone? I think not. Often for her the gates of the new Jerusalem must have been in those clouds of glory, and her heart have been full of the joy she looked for.

Sometimes I think she saw upon the river's bank a tiny girl, who went to school and learned to weave and work, and heard of Indian cruelty and border war and knew the hardy healthful life of simple folk. And then there was the brown-eyed maiden, scarcely grown, who early found her love and with him started forth upon the long journey. They "clambed the hill thegither," most times in sunshine, sometimes in the shade. Many children came to bless their home; the narrow walls grew always wider. The stranger came to tarry for a day and lingered on for years. The helpless, the feeble, were welcome there. Young folks filled the house with laughter. The room where she stayed was always the heart of the household, and a great heart it was. The servants came to Old Miss for comfort and for care. Did her sympathy and patience never fail? Was there a store sufficient for all the demands upon it? If it failed none ever knew. There was small time for work outside the wide home-circle; who will say the influence was less great and less far-reaching? The years passed on and crowned her sweet face with white roses; the golden wedding came and went.

Then there came a dark shade in the gathering twilight; she was alone and the night came on so slowly in her loneliness. Her room was bright with the sunshine and all that loving hands could offer. A worn old Bible, black, covered with big print, lay always on her table. Oftenest she read His words, the Psalms, and the vision from Patmos. It was grandmother's room and we loved her and loved to gather by her fireside; but I think we did not know that God had left with us one of his own until the big chair was empty and the blessed presence had passed into a blessed memory.

The resurrection song was in the air when the long twilight for her had ended and she lay in eternal sunshine. A rare and wondrous legacy did she bequeath to us to whom was given to know and love her. An ideal she gave us. A star is set in our firmament to guide us ever upward. It is an ideal of unselfish, beautiful womanhood, of trusting, simple faith, of high hope and patient endeavor. God help us to move toward the star, to keep always in our hearts its golden gleaming.—Words and Works.

THOUGHTS FOR THE THOUGHTFUL.

I wasted time, and now doth time waste me.—Shakespeare.

Where there is shame there may in time be virtue.—Johnson.

What we know is but little; what we do not know is immense.—La Place.

Even in war moral power is to physical as three parts out of four.—Napoleon.

You cannot dream yourself into a character; you must hammer and forge yourself into one.—J. A. Froude.

Where there is much pretension, much has been borrowed; nature never pretends—Lavater.

Wise men never sit and wail their loss, but cheerily seek how to redress their harms.—Shakespeare.

Nobody is exceedingly wicked all at once. The devil is too cunning to startle men.—Bishop Wilson.

I never knew any one interfere with other people's disputes but that he heartily repented of it.—Lord Carlisle.

The temperate are the most truly luxurious. By abstaining from most things it is surprising how many things we enjoy.—Simms.

He that defers his charity until he is dead is, if a man weighs it rightly, rather liberal of another man's goods than his own.—Bacon.

If God hath made this world so fair, where sin and death abound, how beautiful beyond compare will paradise be found!—Montgomery.

Physicians mend or end us; but though in health we sneer, when sick we call them to attend us, without the least propensity to jeer.—Byron.

Bad temper is its own scourge. Few things are more bitter than to feel bitter. A man's venem poisons himself more than his victim.—Charles Buxton.

I could never divide myself from any man upon the difference of opinion, or be angry with his judgment for not agreeing in that from which, within a few days, I might dissent myself.—Sir Thomas Browne.

Repentance hath a purifying power, and every tear is of a cleansing virtue; but these penitential clouds must be still kept dropping; one shower will not suffice; for repentance is not a single action, but a course.—South.

Promptitude is not only a duty, but is also a part of good manners; it is favorable to fortune, reputation, influence, and usefulness; a little attention and energy will form the habit, so as to make it easy and delightful.—C. Simmons.

I have been more and more convinced, the more I think of it, that, in general, pride is at the bottom of all great mistakes. All the other passions do occasional good; but whenever pride puts in its word, everything goes wrong; and what it might really be desirable to do, quietly and innocently, it is mortally dangerous to do proudly.—Ruskin.

The father and mother of an unnoticed family, who, in their seclusion, awaken the mind of one child to the idea and love of goodness, who awaken in him a strength of will to repel temptation, and who send him out prepared to profit by the conflicts of life, surpass in influence a Napoleon breaking the world to his sway.—Channing.

WHO WAS THE GENTLEMAN?

One cold winter day an Italian stood at a street corner grinding from his organ some doleful music. A group of children, large and small, were gathered around him. Among them were several good-sized boys, who seemed disposed to make sport of the organist. One of them said to the others, "Boys, I'm going to hit the old fellow's hat." In a moment he had a snowball in his hand, and he threw it so violently that it knocked the Italian's hat off, and it fell in the gutter.

What do you suppose the organ-grinder did? Strike the boy, knock him down, shake his fist at him, curse him, swear at him? Some men would have done this after being treated in that way. But he did nothing of the sort. He stooped down and picked up his hat, knocked the snow from it, and put it on his head. He then turned to the rude boy, bowed gracefully, and said, "Now I'll play you a tune to make you merry." Who was the gentleman, the boy or the Italian?—Ram's Horn.

ANSWERED.

I thought to find some healing clime
For her I loved; she found that shore
That city whose inhabitants
Are sick and sorrowful no more.

I asked for human love for her;
The loving knew how best to still
The infinite yearning of a heart
Which but infinity could fill.

Such sweet communion had been ours,
I prayed that it might never end;
My prayer is more than answered; now,
I have an angel for my friend.

I wished for perfect peace to soothe
The troubled anguish of her breast;
And, numbered with the loved and called,
She entered on untroubled rest.

Life was so fair a thing to her,
I wept and pleaded for its stay;
My wish was granted me, for lo!
She hath eternal life to-day.

—Phoebe Cary.

TEMPERANCE.

THE BOTTOMLESS JUG.

I saw it hanging up in the kitchen of a thrifty, healthy, sturdy farmer in Oxford county, Me.—a bottomless jug! The host saw that the curious thing caught my eye, and smiled.

"You are wondering what that jug is hanging up there for with its bottom knocked out," he said. "My wife, perhaps, can tell you the story better than I can; but she is bashful, and I ain't, so I'll tell it.

"My father owned this farm before me. He lived to a good old age, worked hard all his life, never squandered money, was a cautious trader and a good calculator; and, as men were accounted in his day and generation, he was the youngest boy; and when the old man was ready to go, and knew it, the others agreed that since I had staid at home and taken care of the old folks, the farm should be mine, and to me it was willed. I had been married then three years.

"Well, father died—mother had gone three years before—and left the farm to me, with a mortgage on it for fifteen hundred dollars. I had never thought of it before. I said to Mollie, my wife:

"'Mollie, look here. Here, father's had this farm for years, with all its magnificent timber, and his six boys, as they grew up, equal to so many men, to help him; and he worked hard, worked early and late, and you look at it! A mortgage of fifteen hundred dollars! What can I do?'

"And I went to the jug—it had a bottom to it then—and took a good stiff drink of something much stronger than water.

"I noticed a curious look on the face of my wife just then, for I supposed she was thinking of what I had been talking about, and so she was, for she said:

"'Charles, I have thought of this a great deal, and I have thought of a way in which I believe I can clear this mortgage off before five years are ended.'

"Says I, 'Mollie, tell me how you'll do it.'

"She thought for awhile, and then said, with a funny twinkle in her blue eyes—says she:

"'Charley, you must promise me this, and promise me solemnly and sacredly. Promise me that you will never bring home for the purpose of drinking for a beverage, at any time, any more spirits than you can bring in that old jug—the jug your father has used ever since I knew him, and you have used since he was done with it.'

"Well, I knew father used once in awhile, especially in haying time and in winter when we were at work in the woods, to get an old gallon jug filled; so I thought that she meant that I should never buy more than two quarts at a time. I thought it over, and after a little while told her that I would agree to it.

"'Now mind,' said she, 'you are never to bring home any more spirits than you can bring in that identical jug.'

"And before I went to bed that night I took the last pull at that jug.

"'We'll have the old brown jug filled to-morrow.'

"And then I went off to bed. And I have remembered ever since that I went to bed that night as I had done hundreds of times before, with a buzzing in my head that a healthy man ought not to have.

"Well, I got up the next morning and did my work at the barn, then came in and ate my breakfast, but not with such an appetite as a farmer ought to have, and I could not think that my appetite had begun to fail. However, I ate breakfast, and then went out and hitched up the old mare; for to tell the plain truth, I was feeling the need of a glass of spirits, and I hadn't a drop in the house. I was in a hurry to get to the village. I hitched up and came in for the jug. I went for it in the old cupboard and took it out and—

"Did you ever break through the thin ice on a snapping cold day, and find yourself over your head in freezing water? Because that is the way I felt at that moment. The jug was there, but the bottom was gone. Mollie had taken a sharp chisel and hammer, and with a skill that might have done credit to a master workman, she had clipped the bottom clean out of the jug; and then she burst out. She spoke—oh! I had never heard anything like it! No, nor have I heard anything like it since. She said:

"'Charles, that's where the mortgage on the farm came from! It was brought home in that jug—two quarts at a time! And there's where your white, clean skin and your clear eyes are going. And in that jug, my husband, your appetite is going, also. Oh, let it be as it is, dear heart! And remember your promise!'

"And then she threw her arms around my neck and burst into tears, She could speak no more.

"And there was no need. My eyes were opened as though by magic. In a single minute the whole scene passed before me. Sitting on a bench outside the door, I saw all the mortgages on all the farms in our neighborhood; and I thought where the money had gone. The very last mortgage father had ever made was to pay a bill held against him by the man who had filled this jug for years! Yes, I saw it as it passed before me—a flittering picture of rum! rum!—debt! debt! debt! And, in the end, death. And I returned to my Mollie, and, giving her a kiss, said:

"'Mollie, my own, I'll keep the promise! I will, so help me heaven!' And I have kept it. In less than five years, as Mollie had said, the mortgage was cleared off; and now we have a few hundreds at interest. There hangs the old jug—just as we hung it on that day; and from that time there hasn't been a drop of spirits brought into the house for a beverage which the bottomless jug wouldn't hold.

"Dear old jug! We mean to keep it and hand it down to our children for the lesson it can give them—a lesson of life—of a life happy, peaceful, prosperous and blessed!"

And, as he ceased speaking, his wife, with her arms drawn tenderly around the neck of her youngest boy, murmured a fervent "Amen."—Selected.

PROHIBITION NOT DEAD IN IOWA.

The Iowa prohibitory law will not be repealed or seriously modified. The State Senate stands 32 Republican and 18 Democratic, and the House 76 to 79 Republican and 21 to 24 Democratic. At least 54 Republicans in the lower House are prohibitionists who have not bowed the knee to Beer, and are pledged in one way or another to stand by our law and resist license in any guise. Fifteen probably are anti-Prohibitionists, and several are doubtful. It is probable, therefore, that the Prohibitionists will have a majority of from 5 to 8 over the antis, Republican and Democratic combined, in the lower House. The tidal wave which swept so many Republicans into the Legislature and the Citizens' Prohibition Movement which secured pledges from so many of them and braced up the party generally on prohibition, have saved the law for two years longer, though the danger is not yet wholly past. A desperate effort will be made by the party managers to carry out the pledge of the 13th plank to the whisky towns and counties, and some minor modifications may get through the Legislature, but the friends of the law are assured that it will not be seriously impaired. With a much weakened public sentiment in the State we scarcely dare hope for improvement in the law, though it is greatly to be desired.—John C. Scott, in the Christian Instructor.

BIBLE LESSON.

FOURTH QUARTER—QUARTERLY REVIEW.

LESSON XIV.—SUBJECT:—Studies in the Epistles.—December 31, 1893.

GOLDEN TEXT.—The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.—Rev. 21: 22.

[Open the Bible and read the lesson.]

DAILY READINGS.—M.—Matt. 2:1-11. T. Rom. 3: 19-26. W.—Rom. 5: 8-11. T.—Eph. 4: 20-32. F.—Col. 3: 12-25. S.—James 1: 16-27. S.—1 Peter 1: 1-12.

LESSON I.—The Power of the Gospel.—Romans 1: 8–17. Golden Text.—I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ; for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth.—Rom. 1: 16. Points of Interest.—The wide-reaching power of faith; Why Paul longed to visit Rome; The Christian a debtor to the world; The character of justifying faith. Central Truth.—Christ is the power of God unto salvation, and by our faith in him we are saved.

LESSON II.—Redemption in Christ.—Romans 3:19–26. Golden Text.—Being justified freely by his grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus.—Rom. 3: 24. Points of Interest.—How we cannot obtain salvation; The way of salvation by faith; How Jesus saves us. Central Truth.—All men are sinners, but can be saved by believing in Christ and forsaking sin.

LESSON III.—Justification by Faith.—Rom. 5: 1–11. Golden Text.—While we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.—Rom. 5: 8. Points of Interest.—Faith brings peace, and peace, joy; The fruit of tribulation; The exceeding love of God and his Son for sinners; The largeness of our salvation. Central Truth.—Many and rich are the fruits of justification.

LESSON IV.—Christian Living.—Rom. 12: 1–15. Golden Text.—Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.—Rom. 12: 21. Points of Interest.—Character of Christian consecration; The duty of humility; Virtues of diligence; The practice of Christian virtues. Central Truth.—The true Christian life bears fruit in holy and beautiful living.

LESSON V.—Abstinence for the Sake of Others.—1 Cor. 8: 1–13. Golden Text.—We then that are strong ought to bear the infirmities of the weak, and not to please ourselves.—Rom. 15: 1. Points of Interest.—Love is the great teacher; The danger of abusing our Christian liberty; Total abstinence the true principle. Central Truth.—The Christian should deny himself for the good of others.

LESSON VI.—The Resurrection.—1 Cor. 15: 12–26. Golden Text.—Thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.—1 Cor. 15: 57. Points of Interest.—Belief in the resurrection of Christ is essential to a belief in our own; Christ's resurrection is the basis of our Christian hope; Christ is risen and become the earnest of our immortal life through him; Death was destroyed by Christ's resurrection. Central Truth.—By the resurrection of the dead, through the resurrection of Christ, the righteous are assured of eternal life and glory.

LESSON VII.—The Grace of Liberality.—2 Cor. 8: 1–12. Golden Text.—He became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich.—2 Cor. 8: 9. Points of Interest.—The spirit of true giving inculcated; Where the Christian graces abound there will also be abounding liberality; The example of our Saviour should be followed; A willing mind is the first requisite. Central Truth.—God loveth a cheerful giver.

LESSON VIII.—Imitation of Christ.—Eph. 4: 20–32. Golden Text.—And be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you.—Eph. 4: 32. Points of Interest.—The true knowledge defined; Things which pertain to the old man, of sin. Central Truth.—The Christian should be like Christ, in inner spirit and in outward conduct.

LESSON IX.—The Christian Home.—Colossians 3: 12–25. Golden Text.—I will walk within my house with a perfect heart.—Psalm 101: 2. Points of Interest.—Description of a perfect Christian character; How to attain this perfection of character; The duties of the family relation set forth. Central Truth.—The spirit of Christ carried into daily life will make the Christian home a foretaste of heaven.

LESSON X.—Grateful Obedience.—Jas. 1: 16–27. Golden Text.—We love him, because he first loved us.—1 John 4: 19. Points of Interest.—All good things come from God; Angry controversy is forbidden; Hearing and doing are the two halves of a perfect Christian character; Pure religion described. Central Truth.—"Pure religion," etc.; see James 1: 27.

LESSON XI.—The Heavenly Inheritance.—1 Peter 1: 1–12. Golden Text.—Giving thanks unto the Father, which hath made us meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the saints in light.—Col. 1: 12. Points of Interest.—Peter's brotherly greeting to Christian Jews and Gentiles; The true believer's glorious inheritance outlined; The invisible yet present Christ commended; Salvation was prophesied of old. Central Truth.—The child of God inherits from his Father his care, his love, his nature, his possessions, and his home.

LESSON XII.—The glorified Saviour.—Rev. 1: 9–20. Golden Text.—Wherefore God hath highly exalted him, and given him a name which is above every name.—Phil. 2: 9. Points of Interest.—How, when and where this revelation was made to John; The glorified Saviour made visible; The Saviour's instructions to John and the church on earth. Central Truth.—The once crucified Jesus is now the glorious, all-powerful King, able to help his people in every time of need.

LESSON XIII.—The Birth of Jesus.—Matt. 2:1–11. Golden Text.—Thou shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save his people from their sins.—Matt. 1: 21. Points of Interest.—The humble birth of Jesus the promised Saviour; Coming from afar to seek Jesus; Our hindrances, if we earnestly desire to find Jesus, are changed into helps; When the Saviour is found, we shall evermore love and worship him. Central Truth.—As our best Friend, Jesus has a right to our lasting love and devotion.

LESSON XIV.—This Review.—Throughout the lessons of this quarter we have been taught many glorious truths, the sum of which is: All truths, all duties, all hopes, center in Jesus Christ, without whom we can do nothing, but by whose help we, with Paul, CAN DO ALL THINGS.

LITERATURE.

AN OLD LOVELETTER—1817. Published by Mrs. Caroline E. K. Davis, Mt. Washington, Chelsea, Mass., pp. 14.

The publisher of this pretty booklet is the wife of the esteemed New Englaad evangelist, William F. Davis, known to Cynosure readers by his pious contributions to our columns, and the persecution which came upon him for preaching the Gospel in Boston Common. The "old love letter" is a true copy of the original, which was written by Mrs. Davis' father to her mother, on the eve of their marriage. Mrs. Davis appropriately dedicates it "to the young men and maidens who, in the coming years, are to be the makers of our American homes." To the mature and long-married, it will bring tender memories, and inspire them by its revelation of a true conjugal love that spurns deceit and wickedness, and rejoices in a fidelity and union of interests that only death can mar. The two silhouette likenesses of the happy bride and groom give additional interest to this quaint but delightful memento of two happy lives.

In this connection, it will be appropriate to say that Mr. Davis, who has hitherto refused to furnish his photograph for general circulation among his many friends, has yielded his prejudice in this direction to assist a young Armenian who was received into the Davis Training-school, and came to this country about two years ago with a strong desire to obtain a thorough education. For his sake, and in order to help him in his studies so that he may become a useful missionary in a land where Eden once bloomed, Mr. Davis consented to have his photograph taken, and has given the student the right to sell it to all who care to purchase it. It is furnished in either plain or enameled finish, and mailed to any address, postpaid, for either 25 or 35 cents each. Send orders to Dikrau D. Nalchajian, Mt. Washington, Chelsea, Mass.

FUNK AND WAGNALL'S STANDARD DICTIONARY.

Volume I. of the two-volume edition of the Funk & Wagnall's Standard Dictionary of the English language was issued on December 16th. This volume has been four years in making; two hundred and thirty-eight editors and specialists have been employed upon it; and the cash outlay has been about a half million dollars. The advance orders for the work mount up into the tens of thousands.

The following letter was received by the publishers from a well-known gentleman, prominently identified with the late World's Fair at Chicago:

Mines and Mining Building, Jackson Park, Ill.

MESSRS. FUNK & WAGNALLS,

Gentlemen: "I am pleased to inform you that the Standard Dictionary has been granted an award (diploma and medal) in group No. 150. The exact wording of all the awards will not be announced for probably three or four weeks.

The Dictionary exhibit consisted of a number of proof sheets, as the work was only part in type—this fact makes the award more significant. The award of diploma and medal is the only class of awards granted. A gentleman who was present during the examination informs the publishers that the judges devoted nearly three hours to a critical inspection of the sheets (it was a very unusual thing to devote so much time to the examination of any exhibit), comparing the definitions with those of other dictionaries, and that they frequently expressed themselves as highly pleased and in favor of the features of the Standard. At the close of the examination, one of the judges remarked: "I have the best of other dictionaries, but this work has desirable features that others have not. I must possess a copy when it is published."

The vocabulary of the Standard is extraordinarily rich and full, that of no other dictionary nearly equalling it, although great care was taken to throw out all useless words.

The following is an actual count of words and phrases recorded under the letter A:

Stormonth Dictionary, total terms in A.....	4,692
Worcester Dictionary, total terms in A.....	6,983
Webster (International) Dictionary, total terms in A.....	8,358
Century Dictionary, total terms in A.....	15,621
The Standard Dictionary, total terms in A...	19,736

The full number of words and terms in these dictionaries for the entire alphabet is as follows: Stormonth, 50,000; Worcester, 105,000; Webster (International), 125,000; Century (six volumes, complete), 225,000; STANDARD, 300,000.

CURRENT PERIODICALS.

The Social Economist for December deals with weighty questions of interest to the great bulk of American citizens who desire to keep step with the progress of national and social events. On these subjects its contributors are men of thought and sagacity, and we believe, in general, the tenor of their articles are not misleading. The following are its principal papers: The Meaning of the Fall Election; The Rebuilding of New York—an architectural view; Economics of Dynamic Society—a study of wages and profits; The Incidence of Tariff Taxation—who pays the duty? A Review of the English Coal-miners' Strike—the remedy for these outbreaks outlined; Tobacco and Clothing Workers—statistical and instructive; Is there a New South?—a reply to Mr. Mayo's proposition that in one sense there is, and in another there is not—showing that it is still the same old South; A Reply to "Labor's Claims on Organized Christianity." The "Editorial Crucible" is an interesting summary of current events and opinions. Published by the School of Social Economics, 34 Union Square, New York City. Price, 25 cents.

McClure's Magazine for December (beginning its second volume) appears in gay holiday dress—an illuminated cover, a charming galaxy of art engravings, and a host of contributions, the variety and interest of which will attract attention and commendation. The illustrations are numerous. Its leading papers are as follows: Archdeacon Farrar—A visit to his home; "Human Documents"—Portraits of W. T. Stead, Whitelaw Reid and Gov. Wm. McKinley at different periods of their lives; A Visitor and His Opinions—A story of the seen and unseen, by Mrs. Oliphant; The Weather of the World—a poem; Tennyson's Friendships; Was it the Good Bear? by Octave Thanet; "My God Said to Me"—a poem, from the French; Manliness in boys—By a new process, by Prof. Henry Drummond; Gov. Wm. McKinley—What he is, and what he stands for; Jerusalem—Some notes of a recent journey, by Chas. A. Dana, of the New York Sun; The Adventure of the Final Problem, etc. Published by S. S. McClure (Ltd.), 743 and 745 Broadway, New York. Price, 15 cents.

Historia, the fascinating youth's magazine of historical stories, for December, maintains its spirited features of real adventures. In it we have the story of "Long Tom;" Napoleon's Prussian and Russian Campaigns; The Baron of Pentagoet (concluded); Running from Raiders; The Gunpowder Plot; The Taking of Jerusalem—a poem; Henry Bernard—a tale of the French Revolution; How a Kingdom was Won, and The Heights and the Valley—a poem, by Eben E. Rexford. Published by the Historia Co., 20 Times Building, Chicago. Price, 10 cents.

Standard Works

—ON—

SECRET SOCIETIES

FOR SALE BY THE

National Christian Associat'n

221 West Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois

TERMS:—Cash with order, or if sent by express C. O. D. at least $1.00 must be sent with order as a guaranty that books will be taken. Books at retail prices sent postpaid. Books by Mail are at risk of persons ordering, unless 10 cents extra is sent to pay for registering them, when their safe delivery is guaranteed. Books at retail ordered by express, are sold at 10 per cent discount and delivery guaranteed, but not express paid. Postage stamps taken for small sums. ☞A liberal discount to dealers.

ON FREEMASONRY.

Freemasonry Illustrated. A complete exposition of the seven degrees of the Blue Lodge and Chapter. Profusely illustrated. Complete work of 640 pages, in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 75 cents. First three degrees (376 pages), in cloth, 75 cents. Paper covers, 40 cents.

Knight Templarism Illustrated. A full illustrated ritual of the six degrees of the Council and Commandery. A book of 341 pages. In cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.

Scotch Rite Masonry Illustrated. The complete illustrated ritual of the entire Scottish Rite, in two volumes, comprising all the Masonic degrees from 3rd to 33rd inclusive. The first three degrees are common to all the Masonic Rites, and are fully and accurately given in "Freemasonry Illustrated." Vol. I. of "Scotch Rite Masonry Illustrated" comprises the degrees from 3rd to 18th inclusive. Vol. II. of "Scotch Rite Masonry Illustrated" comprised the degrees from 19th to 33rd inclusive, with the signs, grips, tokens and passwords from 1st to 33rd degree inclusive. Price per volume, paper cover, 65 cents each. In cloth, $1.00 each.

Hand-Book of Freemasonry. By E. Ronayne, Past Master of Keystone Lodge No. 639, Chicago. Gives the complete standard ritual of the first three degrees of Freemasonry. New edition, 274 pages. Bound flexible cloth covers, 50 cents.

Freemasonry Exposed. By Capt. William Morgan. The genuine old Morgan book republished. 25 cents each.

Allyn's Ritual of Freemasonry by Avery Allyn contains the fully Illustrated Ritual of the Blue Lodge, Chapter Council and Commandery, 11 of the Scotch Rite Degrees, Several Masonic side degrees and what is termed a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, the Orange and Odd-fellows Societies. Price in cloth $5.00.

Duncan's Masonic Ritual and Monitor. Profusely illustrated with explanatory engravings, and containing the ritual and work of the order for the seven degrees, including the Royal Arch. Though extensively used as an Instruction Book and one of the best in the market it is not as accurate as "Freemasonry Illustrated," the first book on catalogue. Price in cloth, $2 50.

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry. Containing the ceremonies of Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated. Although extensively used in conferring the higher degrees, it is not only very incomplete but inaccurate especially as regards the first seven degrees, and as to the higher degrees it gives but a description and general idea of the degrees rather than the full ritual. Price in cloth, $1.25; Paper covers, 75c.

Look to the East. A Ritual of the first three Masonic Degrees by Ralph Lester. Price in cloth $2.00. Notwithstanding the high price this book is very inferior in every way to Freemasonry Illustrated or The Handbook of Freemasonry at a quarter the price.

Ecce Orienti. The Complete Standard Ritual of the First Three Masonic Degrees in Cypher, with complete Floor Charts of Initiating, Passing and Raising a Candidate. Pocket size, Full Roan, Flap, $2.50.

Cabala. The Complete Standard Ritual of the Chapter Masonic Degrees; 4th to 7th inclusive, in Cypher. Giving the degrees of Mark Master, Past Master, Most Excellent Master and Royal Arch, Pocket size, Full Roan, Flap, $2.50.

Council of the Orient. The Complete Standard Ritual of Council Masonic Degrees in Cypher, 8th to 10th inclusive. Giving the Degrees of Royal Master, Select Master and Super Excellent Master. Pocket size, full Roan, flap, $2 50.

Knights of the Orient. The complete Ritual of the Commandery Masonic Degrees, Knights of the Red Cross, Knight Templar and Knight of Malta, 11th to 18th degrees. Pocket size, full Roan, flap, $2.50.

The Mystic Shrine Illustrated. An Illustrated Ritual of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. This is a Side Masonic degree conferred only on Knights Templar and on Thirty-two degree Masons. 15 cts. each.

Light on Freemasonry. By Elder D. Bernard. In cloth, $1.50 each. Paper, 75 cents each.

Adoptive Masonry Illustrated. A full and complete illustrated ritual of the five degrees of Female Freemasonry, by Thomas Lowe. 20 cents each.

Finney on Masonry. The character, claims and practical workings of Freemasonry. By Pres. Charles G. Finney, of Oberlin College. President Finney was a "bright Mason," but left the lodge when he became a Christian. This book has opened the eyes of multitudes. In cloth, 75 cents. Paper cover, 35 cents.

The Master's Carpet, or Masonry and Baal Worship Identical, explains the true source and meaning of every ceremony and symbol of the lodge. Bound in fine cloth, 420 pages, 75 cents.

Masonic Oaths Null and Void: OR FREEMASONRY SELF-CONVICTED. This is a book for the times. The design of the author is to refute the arguments of those who claim that the oaths of Freemasonry are binding upon those who take them. 207 pages. Postpaid, 40 cents each.

Judge Whitney's Defense before THE GRAND LODGE OF ILLINOIS. Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the lodge when S. H. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry. 15 cents each.

General Washington Opposed to SECRET SOCIETIES. This is a re-publication of Governor Joseph Ritner's "Vindication of General Washington from the Stigma of Adherence to Secret Societies," communicated to the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania, March 8, 1837, at their special request. To this is added the fact that three high Masons were the only persons who opposed a vote of thanks to Washington on his retirement to private life—undoubtedly because they considered him a seceding Freemason. 10cts each.

Morgan's Exposition, Abduction AND MURDER, AND OATHS OF 33 DEGREES. Composed of "Freemasonry Exposed," by Capt. Wm. Morgan;" "History of the Abduction and Murder of Morgan;" "Valance's Confession of the Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan;" "Bernard's Reminiscences of Morgan Times," and "Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees." 300 pages; cloth, $1.00.

Mah-Hah-Bone; comprises the Hand Book, Master's Carpet and Freemasonry at a glance. Bound in one volume. In cloth, 589 pages, $1.00.

Oaths and Penalties of Freemasonry, as proved in court in the New Berlin trials. The New Berlin trials began in the attempt of Freemasons to prevent public initiations by seceding Masons. These trials were held at New Berlin, Chenango Co., N. Y., April 13 and 14, 1831, and General Augustus C. Welsh, sheriff of the county, and other adhering Freemasons swore to the truthful revelation of the oaths and penalties. 10 cents each.

Masonry a Work of Darkness, adverse to Christianity, and inimical to republican government. By Rev. Lebbeus Armstrong (Presbyterian) a seceding Mason of 21 degrees. 15 cents each.

Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the INITIATE? By Rev. L. A. Post. 5 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. J. Day Brownlee. In reply to a Masonic Oration by Rev. Dr. Mayer, Wellsville, Ohio. 5 cents each.

Masonic Outrages. Compiled by Rev. H. H. Hinman. Showing Masonic assault on lives of seceders, on reputation, and on free speech; its interference with justice in courts, etc. Postpaid, 20 cents.

Grand Lodge Masonry. Its relation to civil government and the Christian religion. By Pres. J. Blanchard. The un-Christian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is proved from the highest Masonic authorities. 5 cents each.

The Broken Seal; or Personal Reminiscences of the Abduction and Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan. By Samuel D. Greene. In cloth, 75 cents. Paper covers, 40 cents.

The Mystic Tie, or Freemasonry a LEAGUE WITH THE DEVIL. This is an account of the church trial of Peter Cook and wife, of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a reverend Freemason. 15 cents each.

History of the Abduction and Murder OF CAPT. WM. MORGAN. As prepared by seven committees of citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan. 25 cents each.

The Anti-mason's Scrap-Book, consisting of 53 "Cynosure" tracts. In this book are the views of more than a score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of secret societies. Postpaid. 25 cts.

Reminiscences of Morgan Times. By Elder David Bernard. This is a thrilling narrative of the incidents connected with Bernard's Revelation of Freemasonry 10 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. James Williams, Presiding Elder of Dakota District Northwestern Iowa Conference M. E. Church—a seceding Master Mason. 10 cents each.

Oaths and Penalties of the 33 Degrees OF FREEMASONRY. To get these thirty-three degrees of Masonic bondage, the candidate takes half-a-million horrible oaths. 15 cents each.

Thirteen Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong. 5 cents each.

Freemasonry Contrary to the ChrisTIAN RELIGION. 5 cents each.

Hon. Thurlow Weed on the Morgan ABDUCTION. This is the legally attested statement of this eminent Christian journalist and statesman concerning the unlawful seizure and confinement of Capt. Morgan in Canandaigua jail, his removal to Fort Niagara and subsequent drowning in Lake Ontario. 5 cents each.

Freemasonry a Fourfold ConspirACY. Address of Pres. J. Blanchard. This is a most convincing argument against the lodge. 5 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. W. P. McNary, pastor United Presbyterian church. 5 cents each.

ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP.

Revised Odd-fellowship Illustrated. The complete revised ritual of the Lodge, Encampment and Rebekah (ladies) degrees, profusely illustrated, and guaranteed to be strictly accurate; with a sketch of the origin, history and character of the order, over one hundred foot-note quotations from standard authorities, showing the character and teachings of the order, and an analysis of each degree by ex-President J. Blanchard. This ritual corresponds exactly with the "Charge Books" furnished by the Sovereign Grand Lodge. In cloth, $1.00; paper cover, 50cts.

Odd-fellowship Judged by its own utterances; its doctrine and practice examined in the light of God's Word. By Rev. J. H. Brockman. This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. In cloth 50cts; paper covers, 25cts.

Sermon on Odd-fellowship and other secret societies, by Rev. J. Sarver, pastor Evangelical Lutheran church. This is a very clear argument against secretism of all forms, and the duty to disfellowship Odd fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications. 10cts each.

Odd-fellowship: ITS HISTORY AND ITS WORK. By President J. Blanchard. A neat pamphlet with cover. Postpaid. 5 cts.

OTHER RITUALS.

Revised Knights of Pythias Illustrated. An exact copy of the new Official Ritual Adopted by the Supreme Lodge of the World, with the Secret work added and fully Illustrated. In cloth 50 cts. Paper cover 25 cts.

Knights of the Orient Illustrated. The full Illustrated Ritual of Ancient Order of the Orient, or the Oriental degree, This is a side degree conferred mostly in Knights of Pythias lodges. 15 cts each.

Good Templarism Illustrated. A full and accurate exposition of the degrees of the lodge, temple and council. 25cts each.

Exposition of the Grange. Edited by Rev. A. W. Geeslin. Illustrated with engravings. 25 cents each.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the REPUBLIC, with signs of recognition, passwords, etc., and the ritual of the Machinists' and Blacksmiths' Union. (The two bound together.) 10 cents each.

United Sons of Industry IllusTRATED. A full and complete illustrated ritual of the secret tradesunion of the above name, giving the signs, grips, passwords etc. 15cts each.

Rituals and Secrets Illustrated. Composed of "Temple of Honor Illustrated, "Adoptive Masonry Illustrated," "United Sons of Industry Illustrated," and "Secret Societies Illustrated." $1.00 each.

Temple of Honor Illustrated. A full and complete illustrated ritual of "The Templars of Honor and Temperance," commonly called the Temple of Honor. By a Templar of Fidelity and Past Worthy Chief Templar. 25cts each.

Knights of Labor Illustrated ("ADELPHON KRUPTOS.") The complete illustrated ritual of the order, including the "unwritten work." 25cts each.

MISCELLANEOUS.

History Nat'l Christian Association Its origin, objects, what it has done and aims to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought, the Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association. 25cts each.

Folly, Expense and Danger OF SECRET SOCIETIES. By Pres. C. A. Blanchard. This booklet of 32 pages is a general discussion of the secret orders, whether religious, political, industrial, insurance or social. Postpaid, 5 cents.

Disloyal Secret Oaths. By Joseph Cook, Boston. He quotes the law of Vermont which makes the administration of the Masonic oaths illegal. Joseph Cook's address is a national treatment of a national subject, and very valuable for reference. Postpaid, 5 cents.

Are Secret Societies a Blessing? An address by Rev. B. Carradine, D. D., pastor of the Centenary M. E. church, St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 4, 1891. W. McCoy writes: "That sermon ought to be in the hands of every preacher in this land, and every citizen's, too." A pamphlet of 20 pages and cover. Postpaid, 5 cents.

A Booklet of 107 pages, which includes "The Martyr's Own Monument," by Rev. J. E. Roy, D. D., Western Secretary of American Missionary Association; "Christian Politics," by Rev. J. Blanchard, late President Wheaton College, and Editor Christian Cynosure; "The Mysterious Machine: Was it Lawn-mower, Town-pump, Balloon, Wheel-barrow,—or what?" by Prof. E. D. Bailey, of the Civil Service Dept. U. S. Government. Postpaid 25 cts.

Jonathan Blanchard's Sermons and Addresses. Select discourses of the first editor of the Cynosure. Lectures, sermons and speeches given from 1834 to 1892 in leading cities of the United States, discussing topics of living reform, Secret Societies, The Sabbath, Temperance, National Reform, Christian Education, Christian Socialism, The Bible, etc. A book everybody should read. 12mo. Fine photogravure portrait. Price, 75 cents.

American Handbook and Citizen Manual By Manlove N. Butler. Contents: Bible and Secretism; Masonic Religion; Masonic Sun Worship; Masonic Government; Unwritten History; Grand Lodge Masonry; Public Opinion; Lodge and Saloon; The American Movement. Over 200 pages. Paper, single copy, 40c.

Image of the Beast: A Secret Empire; or, Freemasonry a Subject of Prophecy. By Rev. Richard Horton. Third edition. 200 pages. Cloth. Price, 60 cents.

Secret Societies Illustrated. Containing the signs, grips, passwords, emblems, etc., of Freemasonry (Blue Lodge and to the fourteenth degree of the York rite), Adoptive Masonry, Revised Odd-fellowship, Good Templarism, the Temple of Honor, the United Sons of Industry, Knights of Pythias and the Grange, with affidavits, etc. Over 250 cuts, 99 pages, paper cover. 25cts each.

Eminent Men on Secret Societies. Composed of "Washington Opposed to Secret Societies," "Judge Whitney's Defence," "The Mystic Tie," "Narratives and Arguments," the "Anti-mason's Scrap-Book" and "Oaths and Penalties of Freemasonry as Proved in the New Berlin Trials," 328 pages, cloth, $1 00.

College Secret Societies. Their customs, character and the efforts for their suppression. By H. L. Kellogg. Containing the opinions of many prominent college presidents and others, and a full account of the murder of Mortimer Leggett. 25cts each.

Sermon on Secretism. By Rev. Theo. Cross, pastor Congregational church Hamilton, N. Y. This is a very clear array of the objections to all secret societies, and to Masonry especially, that are apparent to all. 5cts each.

Ex-President John Quincy Adams' LETTERS on the Nature of Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties. Price, cloth, $1.00. Paper, 35 cents.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret SOCIETIES. A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons in the Christian church. 10 cents each.

Sermon on Secret Societies. By Rev. Daniel Dow, Woodstock, Conn. The special object of his sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the character of secret societies, no matter what object such societies profess to have. 5 cents each.

Secret Societies. A discussion of their character and claims by Rev. David McDill, Pres. J. Blanchard and Rev. Edward Beecher. In cloth, 35cts each; paper covers, 15cts each.

Secret Societies, Ancient and ModERN. Table of Contents: The Antiquity of Secret Societies, The Life of Julian, The Eleusinian Mysteries, The Origin of Masonry, Was Washington a Mason? Fillmore and Webster's Deference to Masonry, A Brief Outline of the Progress of Masonry in the United States, The Tammany Ring, Masonic Benevolence, The Uses of Masonry, An Illustration, The Conclusion. 50cts each.

Pres. H. H. George on Secret Societies. A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian churches to disfellowship secret societies. 10cts each.

Secrecy vs. the Family, State and CHURCH. By Rev. M. S. Dury. The antagonism of organized secrecy to the welfare of the family, state and church, is clearly shown. 10cts each.

Narratives and Arguments, showing the conflict of secret societies with the Constitution and law of the Union and of the States. By Francis Semple. The fact that secret societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of law is here clearly proved. 15cts each.

Anti-masonic Sermons and AdDRESSES. Composed of "Masonry a Work of Darkness;" the Sermons of Messrs. Cross, William M'Nary, Dow and Sarver, the two addresses of President Blanchard, and the addresses of President H. H. George, Prof. J. G. Carson and Rev. M. S. Drury; "Thirteen Reasons Why a Christian cannot be a Freemason," "Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion," and "Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the Initiate?" 287 pages; cloth, $1 00.

Holden with Cords. OR THE POWER OF THE SECRET EMPIRE. By E. E. Flagg, author of "A Sunny Life," etc. This is a thrillingly interesting story, accurately true to life because mainly a narration of historical facts. In cloth, $1.00; in paper, 50 cents.

HOME AND HEALTH.

A NEW USE FOR ORANGES.

The housewives in Florida have found a new use for oranges. They scrub the floors with them. Go into almost any town in the orange-growing districts and you will see the women using the luscious fruit exactly as our housekeepers use soap. They cut the oranges in halves, and rub the flat, exposed pulp on the floor. The acid in the oranges doubtless does the cleaning, but at any rate the boards are as white as snow after the application. It is thought that lemons would be better than oranges for this purpose, because of their greater acidity.

RIGHT WAY TO BOIL RICE.

These are the directions for boiling rice sent out by the Louisiana Rice Exhibit at New Orleans. Pick your rice clean and wash it in two cold waters, not draining off the last water till you are ready to put the rice on the fire. Prepare a saucepan with water and a little salt. When it boils sprinkle in the rice gradually so as not to stop the boiling. Boil hard for twenty minutes, keeping the pot covered. Then take it from the back of the fire and pour off the water, after which set the pot on the back of the stove to allow the rice to dry and grains to separate. Remember to boil rapidly from the time you cover the pot until you take it off; this allows each grain to swell to three times its normal size, and the motion prevents the grains from sticking together. Don't stir it, as this will cause it to fall to the bottom and burn. When properly boiled, rice should be snowy white, perfectly dry, soft, and every grain separate.

NOTES.

A pleasant change from the usual tart cranberry sauce, is to cook raisins with the cranberries. Use about one-third raisins to two-third cranberries. When nearly done, season with sugar to taste. Much less sugar than usual will be required.—Ellinor French.

Lady Tennyson has always been a notable housekeeper. Early in his married life the late poet laureate said, jestingly, that should literature fail, his wife could keep the family from poverty by her culinary skill.

With but little care and no trouble, the beard and mustache can be kept a uniform brown or black color, by using Buckingham's Dye for the Whiskers.

Alcott's Little Women only 4 cents

for three days' reading, proportionately for longer time, through your Bookseller, country Postmaster or direct. Deposit the price ($1.35) and on return get any book you want to borrow or want to buy, of the same value.

Books sold at the lowest prices ever known. Any book supplied. Catalogue, 160 pages, 2 cents.

Address JOHN B. ALDEN, Manager,
Mention this paper. 57 Rose St., New York.

MY EXPERIENCES
WITH
SECRET SOCIETIES
BY A TRAVELER.
With a Key to Masonry Illustrated

A new edition, greatly enlarged, has been issued, embracing chapters on the Language of Numbers, Secret Empires, and Good Men, containing more Experiences, and affording a deeper insight into the Hidden Language and Workings of Secret Clans, and of the counterfeit pretences of good men, than ever before published. The Key is an exposition, explanation and verification of modern Baalism, with which all should be thoroughly acquainted. The price of the new edition is

Fifteen Cents,

but copies of the first edition will be forwarded for Ten Cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison St. Chicago.

Mr. L. B. Hamlen,

Of Augusta, Me., says: "I do not remember when I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla; it was several years ago, and I have found it does me a great deal of good in my declining years.

I am 91 Years

2 months and 26 days old, and my health is perfectly good. I have no aches or pains about me.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

regulates my bowels, stimulates my appetite, and helps me to sleep well. I doubt if a preparation ever was made so well suited to the wants of old people." L. B. HAMLEN, Elm Street, Augusta, Me., Sept. 26, 1891.

HOOD'S PILLS are a mild, gentle, painless, safe and efficient cathartic. Always reliable.

SEVEN YEARS AMONG THE FREEDMEN.
Revised and Enlarged.
BY MARIA WATERBURY.

Finely Illustrated 196 Pages.....75cts.

The first edition of this book has "gone like hot cakes," and a second edition with more of the same sort has been loudly called for and is now ready for delivery. The press, the pulpit, the educator, the reformer, the masses, have bidden it welcome and Godspeed. We quote a few good words from sundry sources: EARNEST CHRISTIAN: "Publish the book for the good it will do."

Dr. Talmage, in the Christian Herald and Signs of our Times, for February 11th, says: "A helpful little volume, just out, for the workers is, 'Seven Years among the Freedmen,' by Miss M. Waterbury, Polo, Ill.,—a teacher well known to many in Illinois—detailing the quaint and thrilling scenes of her experience—'truth stranger,' oftimes, 'than fiction. One day the chore-man came to Miss M. Waterbury, to be taught a prayer; all the scholars had a prayer to say and he wanted one. John was past middle life and very ignorant. The teacher began the Lord's Prayer, a sentence at a time, explaining as the lesson progressed. 'Thy kingdom come' was all right. 'Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors.' 'What dat mean?' said he. 'That you must forgive everybody, or God will not forgive you.' 'Stop, teacher, can't do dat,' and he went away. After vacation he appeared, saying: 'Now go on wid de prayer. I dun forgive him. Old massar once gib me five hundred lashes, and hit me wid a crow bar, an' t' row me out fur dead, and I met him down de street, an' wouldn't speak at him, but to-day I met him an' aid 'How d'ye?' Now go on wid dat prayer'!"

Inter Ocean: "A Splendid Book. Seven Years Among Freedman is a volume of 494 pages by Miss M. Waterbury, of Polo, Ills., who has spent seven years as a teacher among the freedmen in Mississippi and Alabama. It is a series of sketches telling very simply and graphically the life led by Northern teachers in the South. It bears all the evidences of truthfulness and if it fails to impress the reader with the manhood and dignity of the old ruling class of the South, it is perhaps because the whole truth is told. One reading the book will stop to ask, Why not send missionaries to the white people of the South? They seem to need it more than the blacks."

Journal, Freeport, Ills.: "We are indebted to Mrs. Lila L. Buckley, of this city, for a copy of this interesting volume. The efforts made to elevate the freedmen of the South is one of the most important and deserving charities of the present time, far excelling any effort to elevate the heathen of foreign lands, and it should have the aid of all charitable people in this country. ....The proceeds of sales is devoted to the work of elevating the freedmen of the South, and we trust that every one to whom Miss Waterbury applies will purchase a copy of the book, which is in itself fully worth the price. Miss Waterbury's grandfather, Rev. Calvin Waterbury, was the first Presbyterian minister in Freeport, and it was by his efforts that the First Presbyterian church in Freeport was established.

Polo, (Ills.,) Press: "Seven Years Among the Freedmen. Our townswoman Miss Maria Waterbury, the past winter, prepared for publication an account of some of her singular experiences in the "sixties" among the freedmen of Mississippi. Miss Waterbury and Miss Ford, both of this place, did grand work in those years and deserve no small mead of praise for their heroic sacrifices.

CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

The Nonesuch Professor,

In his Meridian Splendor. By William Secker (Puritan). With an introduction by Theo. L. Cuyler, D. D. 16 mo, $1.00.

"It is a mine of sparkling gems."—Presbyterian Observer.

"A sheaf of golden grain, ripened by grace, and sweet with the flavor of rare simplicity and holy wisdom."—N. Y. Observer.

"It is a searching book."—Christian Intelligencer.

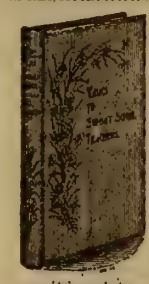
"This is a wonderful book. At whatever page you open it, your eye lights upon pithy aphorisms that combine the sententiousness of Benjamin Franklin with the sweet, holy savor of Samuel Rutherford. It contains hundreds of bright seed thoughts."—Rev. T. L. Cuyler, D. D.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison St Chicago, Ill

Talks to Sunday-School Teachers.
By Rev. J. G. Terrill. 12mo, 200 pages, bound in fine cloth.....75



This book is the result of twenty-five years of experience in Sunday-school and treats of: 1. The Sunday-school organization and management. 2. Methods of work. 3. Studies in human nature. 4. Rules of Interpretation as applied to the Bible. 5. Illustrative exercises for primary classes and children's meetings. In the style of presentation, subject matter and price of the book, the wants of the officers and teachers of the ordinary Sunday-school are kept in view.

S. S. Times:—A very comprehensive book. N. Y. Independent:—A sensible manual for the average Sunday-school teacher. Evan. Mess.:—We have been very favorably impressed with the book, because it is so intensely practical. The subject is systematically treated, and leaders of teacher's meetings can not do better than adopt it as a text-book and devote half an hour of each session to teaching the theory and practice of teaching as here systematized. Christian at Work:- Any school that will adopt this book generally and carry forward its work or doctrines here laid down will not be long in developing into a model school and reaping the harvest of a rich fruitage. Herald and Presbyter:—These Talks are well attested in their profitableness and excellence. Buffalo Advocate:—A plain, practical, common sense book on a very important subject. The author has had wide experience in this field of work. He knows thoroughly the ground over which he would lead others, and possesses the happy faculty of packing a great deal of valuable information as to matter and manner of teaching into this little hand-book. We commend it to the attention of all Sunday-school workers. Religious Telescope:—We are pleased with the plan and treatment of the subjects throughout, and are sure that the diligent Sunday-school teacher who longs for more thorough equipment, will find in this book a helper of great value. Illustrated Christian Weekly:—The author talks from observation and experience, and talks well.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W Madison St. Chicago.

Love, the Supreme Gift:
THE GREATEST THING IN THE WORLD.

The Perfected Life;
THE GREATEST NEED IN THE WORLD.

Both by Prof. Henry Drummond. Bound in chaste white vellum paper, each 20 cts.

These are not to be judged by the size, unless rubies are counted for the weight thereof. The first has been very largely circulated, the second is now only just published and deserves the same wide reading—both are gems such as are only found at rare intervals. If you have not read them, do so at once, you will be a better man or woman for the reading.

The Blue Bell.

The Mountain Daisy.

Daily Text books for a year. Dainty little souvenirs, only 1½ inches square, elegantly and neatly bound in leather, with silk marker, gilt edges, round corners, each net 25
Illuminated paper covers, each 10

Birthday Memorial Text-Book.
An Autograph Text-book. Text for each day and space for autographs. 32mo., Cloth..... 25

Daily Comfort in Four Fold Links.

The most popular Wall Roll published, and deservedly so. Every page is an effective sermon.

The striking character and particular value of this new Wall Roll is in the remarkable arrangement and selection of the Scripture Texts.

A constant monitor in the Christian household.

A silent teacher for the school.

A comforting messenger for the sick-room, as well as being suitable for the office, the store or the shop.

Printed in beautiful large, clear letters, easily discernible at a distance of 10 to 15 feet. Mounted on rollers, with cord, to hang up in usual style. 31 pages, size 14x22 in. 75

The Secret of Success; or

Finger Posts on the Highway of Life, by John T. Dale; introduction by Hon. John V. Farwell. 416 pages, 12mo., full cloth.....$1.50

A book for the aspiring. Written in a fascinating style and full of incidents and illustrations which hold the interest of the reader spell-bound.

"It may be true, as has been said, that 'books are sold, not bought:' but this, at any rate, is a book which, if brought to one's attention, he will wish to own. * * * Such a book in every intelligent family in the land—how much (in showing so clearly, so wisely, so persuasively the secret of success,) it might do toward helping to solve the countless aching, burning questions of the time."—The Advance.

Prof. Henry Drummond's Booklets.

The Perfected Life. (The greatest need of the world.) Bound in chaste style, vellum paper..... 20

Love the Supreme Gift. (The greatest thing in the world.) Uniform with Perfected Life. 20

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

A BOOKLET.
107 pages, 5x7 inches.
Paper Cover, Postpaid, 15 Cents
—o:o—

The following addresses form part of the contents of this booklet:

THE MARTYR'S OWN MONUMENT, by Rev. J. E. Roy, D. D., Western Secretary of American Missionary Association.

CHRISTIAN POLITICS, by Rev. J. Blanchard, late President Wheaton College, and Editor Christian Cynosure.

THE MYSTERIOUS MACHINE: was it Lawnmower, Town-pump, Balloon, Wheel-barrow,—or what? by Prof. E. D. Bailey of the Civil Service Dept. U. S. Government.

This booklet includes other interesting matter connected with the unveiling of the Morgan monument at Batavia, N. Y. Address

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

THE
Folly, Expense & Danger
OF
SECRET SOCIETIES.
BY
CHARLES A. BLANCHARD.
(President Wheaton College.)

5 Cts per Copy; $3 per Hundred

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chica

Sermons of Rev. John McNeill,
12mo. cloth, 416 pages, $1.50.

The fame of this Scottish Spurgeon, as he is very generally called, is becoming as wide-spread as the English tongue. The secret of his power over the masses, has been discussed on both sides of the Atlantic. If one may judge from these printed sermons the seeret lies in a homely and pointed putting of the old truths of the Gospel in plain Anglo-saxon. There is evidence of study, but more the study of human nature, and particularly the human heart, than that of books, other than the Book of books—with this volume Mr. McNeill is evidently in love. With unquestioned faith he believes the writen word, and preaches it with an earnestness born of conviction.

"Best" Marriage Certificate. Size 14x 17½. Price postpaid 25 cents; per dozen, $2.50.

This superb certificate meets a popular demand, and is rapidly becoming the favorite. Read what the people say of it: BRO. BEST: My attention having been called to your marriage certificate, I must pronounce it the neatest in design and execution of any I have seen. Rev. E. P. HART. E. C. BEST—Dear Brother: I am well pleased with the specimen copy of your marriage certificate, and shall use them hereafter. They are in good taste, well executed, on good material, and at a very reasonable price. Yours, M. V. CLUTE.

Sunday School Publications.

The Pearl (Mo.)	Pr. Qr. 3c.	Sunshine (Mo.)	Pr. Qr. 3 "
The Lily	" " 3 "	Pure Words	" " 3 "
Light & L	Scholar's Qrly. 3 "	Light & L	Inf Cl. wk. 4 "
" "	Teacher's " 5 "	" "	Lesson Leaf " 1½ "
Golden Treasures	1 "	L.&L.-Primary	Qrly 4 "

SINGLE SUBSCRIPTIONS.

The Pearl, The Lily, Pure Words, & Sunshine, each	Pr. Yr. 25c	Teacher's Quarterly	Pr. Yr. 25c
		Scholar's " "	20c
The four to one address	" 75c	L & L Infant Class, weekly,	25c

Struck by Lightning.

A true and thrilling narrative of one who was struck by lightning; with incidents, experiences and anecdotes for old and young. By Rev. E. Owen.

With Striking Illustrations.

Beautifully bound in cloth, with title stamped in gold on side and back.....50c.
Paper cover.....30c.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

Plan for Evading the Judgment—Request to be Whipped to Death—Learning to Swear—Alarmed by a Rattlesnake—Fall from a Building—Struck by Lightning—Converted—Sanctified—Called to Preach—First Effort—Casting out a Devil—Protracted Meeting on "Satan's Premises"—First Circuit—Revival in "Raying"—S. Hill Revival—Sisters' Quarrel Settled—Accused of Fortune-Telling—Souls Saved—Dreams—Too near Hell to Spend Time with—A Sceptic Awakened—Public Talk with a Universalist—A Chair Thrown at the Minister—Revival in Berlin—A Methodist Church of Baptist Converts—A Noisy Stage Passenger Quieted—Preaching on the Deck of a Steamboat—A Pleasure Trip Two Overboard—Revival by Torch-light—A Fiddler Saved—A Slanderer Humbled—Bar room Discussion—Saved by Expulsion from the Church—Dancing with the Devil—Answering a Fool According to his Folly—Raps for Spirit Rappings—Short Debate with a Restorationist—"Open Rebuke"—An Unspeakable Blessing.

COMMENDATIONS.

American Wesleyan: "Thrilling as a romance, and true to the last syllable. No private library or Sunday-school should be without a copy."

Phonographic Monthly, N. Y.: "Calculated to throw light into the dark places of orthodoxy."

Earnest Christian: "A true narrative of instructive events."

Lay Evangelist: "Quite entertaining and neatly gotten up."

Free Methodist: "Meeting with universal favor. Intensely interesting. We have read, laughed and cried, and shall try it again."

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

FARM NOTES.

POULTRY RAISING.

"M. R." writes to the New York Weekly Witness, from Waterloo, Mich.:

If you have never made the attempt, you will be surprised at the pleasure that you will derive from poultry raising as well as the cash that will fill your pocketbook. If the business is new to you, I would advise you not to raise turkeys the first year, as they are more delicate than chickens and ducks. Now I will tell you my way: I have a small hen-house, and keep Plymouth Rocks, as they are the best for an all-purpose fowl. They are good layers of eggs that are large and of a nice color. The early chickens make good broilers, for which you will receive from fifty to sixty cents a pair; the later chicks I sell in the fall, alive, to the shippers at eight cents a pound. Do not put too many chicks with one hen as they will not grow so fast. I put two rows of coops facing each other, then take wire netting and make a pen in the center of the ground between the coops, leaving room enough for the chicks to get under; then, when it is time to feed, I throw the food in so the hens that are running at large cannot get at it. This saves time for yourself and is a saving of feed, as the hens do not need feeding as often as you feed the chicks.

The best food is corn, wheat and oats in equal parts ground together, and mixed with sour milk or water, making sure that it is not sloppy. I give the family all the eggs they can eat and chickens cooked in any form they desire.

I will give you a good recipe for keeping things free from lice, for which you must be on the watch all the time. Take one quart hot soap suds, two quarts kerosine oil, stir thoroughly until it makes an emulsion. Take one quart of this, put it in a pail of hot water and spray eveything in the hen-house. Do this three or four times a year and you will not be bothered with lice.

When your hen-house needs cleaning, do not ask somebody else to clean and spray it, but put on an old dress and felt hat with a wide brim and do it yourself. Then in the afternoon, when you are rested and have your white apron on, invite the men folks out to see your property, and they will say: "Well, little woman, you are business and no mistake."

United Presbyterians among our readers will be glad to learn that the Midland of Omaha is about to remove to Chicago. This will answer the most common and seemingly only objection to it—"too far west." The Midland is newsy, spicy and sound, liberal and loyal and patriotic and progressive; it excels in giving the news of its own denomination, in supporting the reforms of the day and in advocating home missions. Send for a free sample copy. Address the Midland Publishing Co. Its regular price is $1.50, but to one of our old subscribers who becomes a new subscriber to the Midland, both papers will be sent by us for $2.50. To one who becomes a new subscriber to both, the Cynosure and Midland, the papers will cost for one year only $2.00. Address, Christian Cynosure, 221 W. Madison street.

JONATHAN BLANCHARD'S

—]-oo-[—

SERMONS AND ADDRESSES.

Select discourses of the late editor of the Cynosure and leader in our reform. Lectures, sermons and speeches given from 1834 to 1892 in leading cities of the United States, discussing topics of

LIVING REFORM.

Secret Societies,
The Sabbath,
Temperance,
National Reform,
Christian Education,
Christian Socialism,
The Bible, Etc., Etc.

A BOOK EVERYBODY SHOULD READ

12mo. Fine Photogravure Portrait.

Price, 75 Cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

For Stomach

Bowel,
Liver Complaints, and Headache, use

AYER'S

CATHARTIC PILLS

They are purely vegetable, sugar-coated, speedily dissolved,
and easy to take.
Every dose

Effective

AMERICAN HANDBOOK
AND
CITIZEN MANUAL.
BY
MANLOVE N. BUTLER.

CONTENTS:—Bible and Secretism; Masonic Religion; Masonic Sun Worship; Masonic Government; Unwritten History; Grand Lodge Masonry; Public Opinion; Lodge and Saloon; The American Movement; Real Prohibition; Poor Man's Bible, and All-Around Reformers. Over 200 pages

Paper, single copy 40c.; per doz. 35c.

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
WM. I. PHILLIPS, Treasurer,
221 W. Madison St., Chic

THE TWO-FOLD GIFT
of the Holy Ghost,
BY REV. THOS. K. DOTY,
Author of Lessons in Holiness.

240 pp. Price postpaid.....65cts.

The design of this book is, in plain language, to designate the place of the Holy Ghost in both the Godhead and the work of Salvation. Especially to show that Entire Santification is wrought in the heart by the Baptism of Holy Ghost; and that the Epoch of the Baptism is identical with that of his Advent in his Indwelling Personalty. The agency of the Holy Ghost in the Life, and in carrying on the work of the Gospel, is given particular attention.

TITLES TO THE CHAPTERS:

1. A Summary. 2. The Holy Ghost a Person. 3. The New Testament Designating Terms. 4. The Scriptural View. 5. The Holy Ghost is God. 6. Blasphemy Against the Holy Ghost. 7. The Triunity of God. 8. The Apostolic Benediction. 9. The Worship of the Holy Ghost. 10. The Dispensations. 11. The First Dispensation. 12. The Second Dispensation. 13. Holiness—Sinning. 14. "The Sin of the World." 15. Final Deliverance from Sin. 16. The Day of the Holy Ghost. 17. Jesus and the Holy Ghost. 18 and 19. The Epoch of the Holy Ghost. 20. The Anointing. 21. The Baptism of the Holy Ghost. 22. The Baptism of Fire. 23. The Two-Fold Experiences of the Holy Ghost. 24. Fellowship of the Holy Ghost. 25. "In the Spirit." 26. Several Scriptural Terms Considered. 27. Pentecost. 28. Inspiration—Prophecy. 29. Spiritual Leading and Teaching. 30. The Gifts of the Spirit. 31. "Praying in the Holy Ghost." 31 and 32. Power.

This book is creating quite a stir in religious circles. The original, bold and convincing manner of presenting the subject, has forced the press to comment upon the book, either adversely or favorably, generally the latter. We give a few OPINIONS:

Bible Standard and Gospel Record: "This book is very compact, scarcely a superfluous sentence in the whole book. The manner of treating the questions involved is both clear and scriptural. .....The effect of the book will be to deepen thought and increase knowledge and, in the end, deepen piety."

Evangelical Messenger: "Brother Thomas K. Doty has written a book which we take pleasure in commending to all devout readers who enjoy all spiritual things. The subject is so important, and the treatment of it so timely, that we may be pardoned for calling attention to it thus prominently. We, at least have been greatly interested, and gratefully acknowledge that we have also been decidedly profited by perusing it .....Brother Doty writes with an incisive pen, in a clear, lucid style, often epigrammatical and with great force. He is evidently deeply impressed with the truth of what he writes and demands the respect even where he does not gain the intellectual assent of his readers. Withal the book is written in a kindly, candid spirit, rather didactic than polermical, and is calculated to help the reader and not to rouse his opposition, as is the case with so many books which have been written upon this and kindred subjects. The theological views expressed are orthodox, and in some cases the argument is fresh in matter, and certainly fresh in form throughout."

Christian Cynosure: "His book is one of the most excellent, instructive and practical of any that have come to our knowledge. The exposition of the Scriptures concerning the personality and work of the Spirit is very clear, able and comforting. There is much dogmatizing on these topics by Christians who never fully felt the power of the Spirit's work, or are not living in gracious fellowship with him. To all such and to those who have not yet learned what gifts the Lord is waiting to bestow on his people we heartily commend the careful reading of this volume."

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

RECENT PUBLICATIONS
OF
FLEMING H. REVELL.

Modern Ideas of Evolution.

As related to Revelation and Science. By Sir William Dawson, L. L. D., F. R. S., etc. 12 mo, cloth, $1.50.

In popular style, a testing by scientific facts and principles, the validity of that multiform and brilliant philosophy of the universe, which has taken so deep a hold of the science and literature of our times.

The New World of Central Africa

By Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness; with a history of the first Christian mission on the Congo. Maps, Portraits and numerous engravings. 537 pages, 12 mo, $2.00.

This comprehensive volume is as fascinating as the most entertaining romance. Its vivid portrayal of the dark side of African history makes one's blood tingle, while its earnest appeals create an inspiring sympathy with the effort to evangelize its teeming millions.

Power From on High.

By Rev. B. Fay Mills. White vellum paper, 20 cents.

This little work, revised from stenographic notes of Mr. Mills' address before the National Convention of the Y. P. S. C. E., is exceedingly effective.

Matthew Henry's Commentary.

An entirely new large type edition of this inimitable Commentary, in six large 8vo. volumes, fine cloth, $15.00; or, in half Morocco, $18.00.

"Biblical students who are most familiar with the very best commentaries of this generation are most able to appreciate the unfading freshness, the clear analysis, the spiritual force, the quaint humor, and the evangelical richness of Matthew Henry's Exposition of the Old and New Testaments."—New York Observer

"First among the mighty for general usefulness we are bound to mention the man whose name is a household word—MATTHEW HENRY. He is the most pious and pithy, sound and sensible, suggestive and sober, terse and trust worthy."—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

The Present Tenses of the Blessed Life.

By Rev. F. B. Meyer. 32 mo, 50 cents.

"It is sufficient to say its one direct aim is the present enjoyment of the precious promises. Mr. Meyer's earnest and persuasive teaching in this direction is admirably condensed in these brief chapters."

BY THE SAME AUTHOR:

Christian Living. Cloth, 32 mo, 50 cents.

"A more suggestive and helpful volume it would not be easy to name."—Christian Leader.

The Shepherd Psalm. Cloth, 32 mo, 50c.

"This is a gem"—Illustrated Christian Weekly

"It is a little book which hundreds of devout hearts will enjoy,"—Congregationalist.

Power From on High.

By Rev. B. Fay Mills. White vellum paper, 20 cents.

This little work, revised from stenographic notes of Mr. Mills' address before the National Convention of the Y. P. S. C. E., is exceedingly effective.

OTHER WORKS BY C. H. SPURGEON:

Feathers for Arrows; Or, Illustrations for Teachers and Preachers. 12 mo, $1.

"This work covers a wide range of subjects. The metaphors are always striking and frequently brilliant, while the truths that they illustrate are such as have always formed the staple of Mr. Spurgeon's discourses. A choicer collection of illustrations we do not know."—Freeman.

Spurgeon's Gems. Being a selection of brilliants from his discourses. 12 mo, $1.

The Golden Alphabet. Being a Devotional Commentary on the One Hundred and Nineteenth Psalm. 12 mo, $1.00.

"Mr. Spurgeon brings out the truths and beauties of this wonderful Psalm so as to set a rich feast before the reader. As a practical commentator on the Psalms, Spurgeon has no equal."—Presbyterian Banner.

"This commentary is written in quite the happiest vein of its popular author, and the devotional spirit throughout is intense and elevating."—Occident.

Gleanings Among the Sheaves. 18 mo, 60c.

All of Grace. An earnest word with those seeking the way of life. 16 mo, paper, 30 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

According to Promise; Or, the Lord's Dealings with His chosen People. 16 mo, paper, 30 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Christmas Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve New Year Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Sermons on the Resurrection. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth. 50 cents.

"Preachers may get aid in preparing Easter or funeral sermons from this volume. Good to present to those who have lost loved ones."—National Baptist.

Twelve Striking Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Soul-Winning Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Selected by Mr. Spurgeon as the twelve sermons under which there has been the most marked and permanent success.

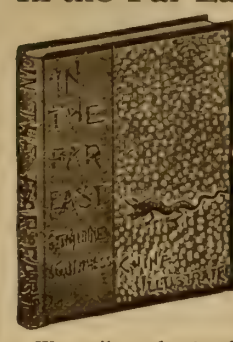
NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison st., Chicago.

The New World of Central Africa.

By Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness, with a history of the first Christian mission on the Congo. 12mo., 530 pages with maps, portraits and numerous illustrations, $2.00

"A conscientious piece of work, and gives a very clear account of what has been done by the Protestant missions to evangelize the barbarous races of Central Africa. * * * He who wants to know what missionary effort means in these days may well learn from this volume. * * * The reader who goes carefully through will have a good bird's eye view of recent events in Africa, with all the results of modern travel. * * The work contains solid information of use to all who are interested in the future of this wonderful country. The many illustrations throw light upon savage customs and costumes."—Graphic.

In the Far East.

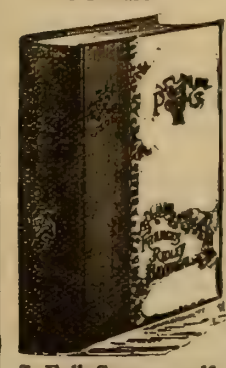


Letters from China by Geraldine Guinness, edited by her sister, with introduction by Rev. J. Hudson Taylor. Very fully illustrated. Quarto cloth, ...$1.50

This book was scarcely written—it was lived; for the breath of life is in it from cover to cover. * * * We have never read so wonderful an account of successful missionary effort.—Presbyterian

We easily understand how this edition is the fifteenth thousand. It is a very remarkable book.—The Golden Rule.

Frances Ridley Havergall's Poems.



Author's edition complete. The only unabridged authorized edition published in America.

1. 12mo., 880 pages, cloth, beveled....2.00
2. Beveled boards, full gilt.....2.50
3. Half white vellum, gilt top, uncut edges, ...2.50
4. French morocco padded, roll red under gold edges...4.00
5. Persian calf, padded and embossed, gilt roll and r. g. 5.00
6. Crushed levant, elegant.....6.00
7. Full German calf, padded, elegant, gilt, rd. cors.....7.50

Miss Havergall stands without peer in the English language in the department of religious poetry.

"The book in paper and binding is all that could be desired."—Publishers' Weekly.

Small Books by Miss Havergall.

Bound in elegant illuminated board covers.

Kept for the Master's Use. 20

My King; Daily Thoughts for the Lord's Children.....30

Works of Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

Sermon Notes. Covering all the Bible from Genesis to Revelation. 4 vols.....4.00
Feathers for Arrows. A volume of Choice Extracts, 12mo., cloth.....1.00
Twelve Striking Sermons...... 50
Twelve Soul Winning Sermons, ... 50
Twelve Sermons on the Resurrection 50
Twelve New Year Sermons..... 50
Twelve Christmas Sermons..... 30

Notes by C. H. M.

On Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy.

Mr. D. L. Moody says of these books: "They have been to me a very key to the Scriptures."

Deuteronomy is issued in two volumes, the others complete in one volume each.

Separate volumes may be had if desired.

The complete set in six volumes, covering over 2,300 pages, is offered at the reduced price of 75c per vol. or $4.50 per set

A. L. O. E. Intermediate Library.

Selected from the numerous productions of this world-renowned writer as being those of rare merit. 12 vols., 12mo., cloth elegant, each 75c; set.....9.00

An Eden in England.	Life in Eagle's Nest.
Ned Franks.	White Bear's Den.
Sheer Off.	Fairy Spider's Web.
Braid of Chords.	Lake in the Woods.
Silver Keys.	Seven Perils Passed.
Grace Vernon.	Hartley Brothers.

The Jessica Series. By Hesba Stretton. 6 vols., handsome bindings, cloth 50c each, or per set 2.10

Jessica's First Prayer.	Friends till Death.
No Place Like Home.	A Miserable Christmas
Under the Old Roof.	A Night and a Day.

A. L. O. E. Junior Library. Adapted to the young folks. 7 vols., 12mo., cloth each 60c; the set. 4 20

Claremont Tales.	A Wreath of Smoke.
Christian Conquests.	Pomegranates from
Tales Illustrative of Parables.	Punjab.
	Little Bullets from
The Battle of Life.	Batala.

The Hesba Stretton Series. 8 vols., elegant cloth bound, per set.....4 80

Cassy.	King's Servant.
Lost Gip.	Alone in London.
Max Kromer.	Little Meg's Children
Storm of Life	Crew of the Dolphin.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
221 W. Madison St., Chicag

Royal Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength. — Latest United States Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO.,
106 Wall St., N. Y.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

CHICAGO.

George H. Painter, sentenced to be hanged last Friday, was respited by Governor Altgeld until Jan. 12.

Cashier Robertson, of the stamp department at the postoffice, was sandbagged in his private office and about $10,000 taken.

As the result of a conference with Editor Stead, clergymen have decided on aggressive work in municipal affairs.

Money continues to accumulate in the banks, but rates do not go down as rapidly as was expected.

Banks continue to complain of the slack demand for money. Even the inquiry for the bonds is falling off.

Retail implement and vehicle dealers will petition the Illinois railroad and warehouse commission to reduce maximum rates.

Vice-President Modica and Secretary Marston are charged with conspiring to swindle stockholders of the American Building and Loan Society.

Eighteen youths, forming two gangs of pickpockets that have long evaded the police, are under arrest.

Milwaukee and Chicago breweries earned about 16 per cent on ordinary shares, according to the annual report.

Officers are at sea as to the identity of the man who sandbagged Cashier Robertson and robbed the postoffice.

Lake street L officials are after a down town loop. If right of way is granted electricity will become the motive power.

Groceryman S. N. Clifford worsted three men who tried to rob his store. He killed one and wounded another.

John Goodrich, alias Jack Norton, has been arrested for the murder of Mrs. Cron at Willmette several weeks ago.

Stored in Chicago elevators were 21,000,000 bushels of wheat, an amount unprecedented in warehouse records.

Nicholas T. Nilsson, a Chicago man, has invented a preparation which when applied to all kinds of wood renders it fireproof. It will be available in the building of passenger coaches, making the fire that follows many collisions impossible.

COUNTRY.

A receiver has been appointed for the Wisconsin Iron and Lumber and Railway companies.

Receivers were appointed for the immense agricultural implement establishment of C. Aultman & Co., at Canton, Ohio.

Report of the St. Louis breweries makes a sorry showing. No dividends will be paid even on preference shares.

Owing to increased acreage the corn yield of Illinois this year was 32,500,000 bushels larger than in 1892.

Influenced by another sweeping reduction by the Erie, east-bound lines have agreed to restore rates Jan. 1.

Charles Clement, of Rutland, Vt., was 86 years old when he died the other day. He was one of the twenty-five men who defended Lovejoy's printing office in Alton, Ill., when it was attacked by a mob during the so-called Owen Lovejoy riot.

Receiver Trumbull has opened offices and assumed control of all the property of the Union Pacific, Denver and Gulf.

Two of the three men who held up an Illinois Central express train at Mayfield, Ky., have been captured.

Owing to failure of the government to pay overdue lease money the Kaw Indians are said to be starving.

Influenced by a dream, Mrs. Radie Hewitt, of Mount Summit, Indiana, refused to marry William Norton on the wedding day.

Residents of Beaver county, Oklahoma, formerly known as "No Man's Land," are said to desire annexation to Kansas.

A foreclosure suit for $9,000,000 has been filed against the Toledo, St. Louis and Kansas City by the bondholders.

Rev. T. B. Lyman, Episcopal bishop of North Carolina, died at Raleigh. He was born at Boston in 1815.

New York's board of health declares consumption to be contagious and has asked for a hospital for its exclusive treatment.

Auditor Gore's report shows an increase of eighty building associations in Illinois. More than $65,000,000 is loaned.

Appointment of a commission to revise Iowa's school laws is recommended by Superintendent Knoepfler.

Destruction of the distillery at Hammond, Ind., is believed to have been the work of an incendiary. It was an anti-trust concern.

Chiefs of railroad organizations met in St. Paul to consider grievances against the Northern Pacific and Great Western.

At Champaign, Ill., the corner-stone of the engineering department of the State university was laid.

Patrons of Husbandry of Illinois took Governor Altgeld to task for failure to appoint a farmer to the railroad commission.

Four Negroes were lynched in Dallas county, Alabama. They attempted to break into the house of Mrs. Jones.

FOREIGN.

Lobengula, the king of the Matabeles, has been captured by the British force under Major Forbes.

By a majority of twenty-four the German reichstag adopted the commercial treaty with Roumania.

A revulsion of feeling against socialism has spread throughout France as a result of the bomb-throwing in the chamber.

Half a million pilgrims from all portions of Mexico participated in the feast of Guadalupe, the great Catholic event.

Mexican soldiers were defeated by revolutionists near Calnia, Juarez. A hundred regulars were killed and twenty-five rebels.

Carrying black and red banners, the unemployed of London marched the streets until the police took their flags.

Search of the Paris police for anarchists will probably result in the expulsion of many foreigners from France.

Four bills directed against the anarchists were introduced in the French chamber. Those injured by the bomb are doing well.

Eight persons were killed in the tax riots at Partenico, Sicily. Heads of the sheriff and his wife were paraded on poles.

At San Jacinto, Honduras, an American resident was flogged by order of the commandant and $250 ransom secured.

SUBSCRIPTION LETTERS.

The following have made remittances of money to the Cynosure from Dec. 11 to Dec. 16:

George Hoskins, Mrs A P Martin, H E Hunter, M R Dunn, Mrs H C Smith, G Shryock, A W Gage, G McKerrow, Miss M E Bonnett, W Slosson, R D Wilson, S E Clark, S S Finley, G F Albrecht, Mrs L C Andrews, W T Peters, J S Baldwin, Mrs M McDowell, N Callender, Mrs J R Johnson, W Hodge, J W Moss, Mrs T S Couch, Mrs M Gaddis, A B Milner, P H Parker. S R Wright, Rev C C Potter, J Moore, J A Knettle, T McClure.

People who have tried it, say that there is no better medicine for dyspepsia than Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It may not give one the stomach of an ostrich, but it so strengthens the alimentary organs that digestion of ordinary food becomes easy and natural.

CLUBBING RATES.

Your attention is called to the reading notice in another column of the the Midland, (U. P.) Chicago and Omaha.

The Christian Cynosure and The Cosmopolitan magazine, New York, each one year, for only $2.50. Any paper or magazine furnished in connection with the Cynosure at a rate that may save you money. Send in the list of papers and magazines that you wish to take for 1894, and we will give you their cost including the Cynosure for one year.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO.

Wheat—Spring No. 2		62½@
Winter No. 2		60 @	63
Corn—No. 2		35½@	35¾
Oats—No. 2		32 @	30⅜
Rye—No. 2		45¾@	47¼
Bran per ton	12 00	@12	25
Hay—Timothy	10 50	@11	00
Butter, medium to best		19 @	27½
Cheese		07 @	12
Beans	1 30	@ 1	55
Eggs		18 @	24
Seeds—Timothy (100 lbs)	3 85	4	25
Flax	1 30½	@ 1	31½
Clover (100 lbs.)	9 25	10	25
Broom corn (per ton)	30 00	@75	00
Potatoes, (new, bu.)		54 @	60
Hides—Green to dry flint		02½@	06
Lumber—Common		@15	50
Wool (unwashed)		15	19
Cattle—Choice to extra	3 40	@ 6	00
Common to good	1 25	@ 3	15
Hogs	5 05	@ 5	20
Sheep	1 00	@ 3	50

NEW YORK.

Wheat No. 2		67¼@	67⅝
Corn No 2		45¼@	46½
Oats		38½@	40
Rye		50 @	57
Eggs		24 @	26
Butter		17 @	28½
Wool		09 @	25

KANSAS CITY.

Cattle	1 50	@ 4	10
Hogs	4 95	@ 5	17½
Sheep	1 00	3	75

Babies

ought to be fat. They are sickly when thin and thin when their food does not nourish them.

Scott's Emulsion

the cream of Cod-liver Oil and hypophosphites, makes babies fat and well, strengthens growing children and nourishes mothers. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.

Don't be deceived by Substitutes!

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists.

THE IMAGE OF THE BEAST

A Secret Empire;

Or, Freemasonry a Subject of Prophecy.

By Rev. Richard Horton.

Third Edition. 200 pages. Cloth.

Price, 60 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W Madison St. Chicago.

AN OLD LOVE LETTER

HOLIDAY EDITION

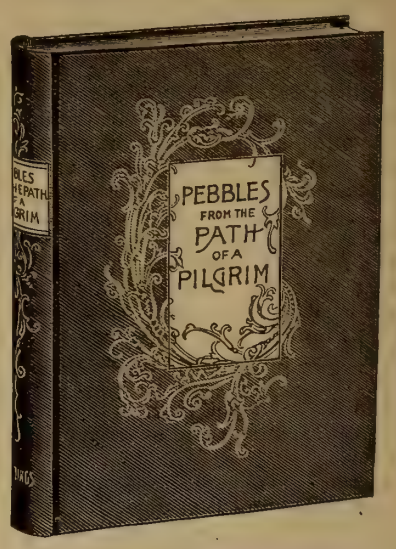
Will be sent, postpaid, to any address on receipt of 35 cents.

CAROLINE E. K. DAVIS,
Mt. Washington, Chelsea, Mass.

Pebbles from the Path of a Pilgrim.

—BY—

MRS. H. L. HASTINGS.



This remarkable collection of stories from the eventful life of a Green Mountain girl has been pronounced "more fascinating than any romance." A member of Congress writes: "'Pebbles' has been read by me with great interest. The introductory chapter has followed me into dreams. My copy is read to pieces by the family, and borrowed to death by the neighbors." An editor says: "Surely the faith that 'obtained promises, wrought righteousness, and stopped the mouth of lions,' must have been given in large measure to the writer of this truly remarkable book....No family library should be without it." "'Pebbles,'" says the Christian Cynosure, "is such a book as Christian parents are always glad to put on their center-tables."

"Pebbles from the Path of a Pilgrim" is a large and beautiful book of over 300 pages, printed on heavy book paper, from clear open type, and is profusely illustrated. It is artistically bound in handsome cloth, with fancy panels, and specially attractive side and back cover designs. Price, $1.50.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Between Two Opinions: OR THE QUESTION OF THE HOUR. By Miss E. E. Flagg, author of "Little People," "A Sunny Life," etc., etc. Everyone who loves to read a good story, chaste and elegant in expression, pure in thought, interesting in narrative, should read this book upon the power of secret societies in politics, and the remedy. 389 pages; cloth, postpaid, $1.00.

Stories of the Gods. By I. R. B. Arnold. Brief sketches from the mythology of Rome, Greece, Egypt, India, Persia, Phrygia, Scandinavia, Africa and America, showing the relations and unity of past and present systems. The idolatrous worship of the Masonic lodge is thus clearly seen and understood. Postpaid, 10 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison S Chicago, Ill

DO YOU WANT

To receive, read, distribute and otherwise aid in the circulation of a large number of Holiness and Reform papers and magazines? If so, send me a SILVER dime, and your name and address will be printed on the Holiness and Reform Mail Exchange List, which is sent to all publishers of holiness and reform literature, who will mail you sample papers and magazines. Write name and address PLAINLY. Address, J. H. PADGETT, Printer. Ennis, Texas.

Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the Intimate. By Rev. L. A. Post. 5 cents each.

Christian Cynosure.

"IN SECRET HAVE I SAID NOTHING."—Jesus Christ.

VOL. XXVI., No. 16 CHICAGO, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1893. WHOLE No. 1,235.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION,

221 West Madison Street, Chicago.

SUBSCRIPTIONS PER YEAR..... $2.00
IF PAID STRICTLY IN ADVANCE..... 1.50

☞No paper discontinued unless so requested by the subscriber, and all arrearages paid.☜

Address all letters for publication to EDITOR CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE, CHICAGO. Writers' names must always be given. No manuscript returned unless requested and postage enclosed.

Make all drafts and money orders payable to the Treasurer, W. I. PHILLIPS, 221 WEST MADISON STREET, CHICAGO. When possible make remittances by express money order. Currency by unregistered letter at sender's risk. When writing to change address on Cynosure list always give the former address.

[Entered at the Postoffice, Chicago, Ill. as Second Class Matter.]

CONTENTS.

EDITORIAL:
Notes and Comments.... 1
Is Civil Government a Failure?..... 8
Tyranny of Odd-fellowship..... 8
Boxing as a Christian Grace 8
Our Work in India 8
A Change of Sentiment . 8
CONTRIBUTIONS:
Anti-secrecy at Bloomington, Ind 1
That Tramp—A True Story.....10
SELECTED:
Facts from Washington. 2
Christians Ought to Rebuke Sin..... 3
The Week of Prayer..... 3
WASHINGTON LETTER..... 4
LODGE NOTES..... 7
A Skirmish With a Mason 4
Both Sides Presented . . . 4
Reform Work on the Pacific Coast..... 5
CORRESPONDENCE:
Some Pertinent Suggestions; National League for the Protection of American Institutions. 5
AGENTS AND LECTURERS.... 7
THE N. C. A 7
Secret Societies Condemned..... 9
THE HOME.....10
TEMPERANCE.....11
BIBLE LESSON.....12
LITERATURE.....12
RELIGIOUS NEWS.....12
HOME AND HEALTH.....14
FARM NOTES.....15
NEWS OF THE WEEK.....16
MARKETS.....16

Next week we expect to print a full and interesting report of the proceedings of the New England District Association, auxiliary to the National Christian Association, from the graphic pen of Miss E. E. Flagg, its secretary.

Under date of Dec. 7, in reply to a letter from the editor of the New York Independent, Cardinal Gibbons writes: "The circular which has appeared in some papers, alleging my action in presenting a claim for State aid for parochial schools, did not emanate from me and was not published with my authorization. Neither have I signed any petition to the legislature for the purpose, and I am sure that Mgr. Satolli has not. Moreover, the paper in question is not something new. It appeared about a year ago, without my sanction and it has again appeared without my knowledge and consent."

The government of Italy, finding the murderous and secret bands of assassins known as the Mafia becoming intolerant and a menace to the welfare of the nation, has declared war upon them. This is the secret society which, in New Orleans, murdered a police officer, and was summarily punished by mob violence—eleven members of the order, under arrest, having been lynched by the angry populace. However just the indignation aroused on that occasion, the lynching of these culprits was without excuse, and the city was rightly made responsible for their sudden "removal."

The material of the A. P. A. and its promoters is receiving due attention. "The organizers of the A. P. A.," says the Milwaukee (Wis.) Citizen, "are not much above its lecturers in character. One of the Wisconsin organizers is the son of a bum English saloon-keeper; another Milwaukee organizer, who is seeking to spread the virus in the police department, is an ex saloon-keeper of a low-down variety theater, and one of the managers of the freak lecturer department is a red-headed adventurer, who holds a diploma from the Keeley institute." How soon such individuals find their level and satisfy their ambitions when they join the secret empire!

The recent "confederation of labor unions," in session in this city, re-elected Samuel Gompers for the eleventh year to preside over its affairs. It is to be regretted that a body which claims respect for its greatness and uprightness should have favored the promotion of anarchy by commending Governor Altgeld's pardon of the Haymarket conspirators. But the ways of the secret lodge system are seldom the ways of God-fearing, law-abiding citizens.

Last week's election of a Mayor for Chicago, to fill the unexpired term of Carter H. Harrison, deceased, developed the usual amount of partisan falsification and dishonesty, and resulted in the choice of John P. Hopkins, a Roman Catholic politician and a member of several secret societies fostered by that church. Unless the defeated candidate can successfully contest the election in the courts, to which he has appealed on account of alleged bare-faced frauds, the advancement of morality and Christianity will receive but little encouragement in Chicago within the ensuing fifteen months.

The Cynosure, this week, must be accepted as a special testimony against the secret lodge system. Not only does it present its ordinary anti-secrecy features in sentiment and incident, but a large space is given to the opinions of many great and good men—ministers of the Gospel, educators, and statesmen—concerning the lodge as a promoter of evil in society. These testimonies are worthy of preservation and widespread distribution, and no excuse for giving them prominence on this occasion is at all necessary. They should be "read, marked and inwardly digested," as a valuable contribution to the wisdom of the closing nineteenth century.

The evidence in the trial of Coughlin for murdering Dr. Cronin continues to confirm the testimony offered in the previous trial, and the proofs of the prisoner's participation as a principal agent in the hands of the Clan "triangle" are of a character to bring him nearer to a felon's grave. The testimony of Mrs. Hoertel, who overheard the cries of Dr. Cronin while in the hands of the assassins, made a deep impression on the jury by its directness and her resistance to all attempts by the defense to lead her into a maze of contradictions. As one remarked, she was a "perfect memorandum-book for dates and circumstances." Nothing could swerve her from her first position.

President Cleveland, finding the complications of the Hawaii affair too onerous for his decision, has wisely turned it over to Congress with the following judicious comment: "I am convinced that the difficulties lately created, both here and in Hawaii, and now standing in the way of a solution through executive action of the problem presented, render it proper and expedient that the matter should be referred to the broader authority and discretion of Congress, with a full explanation of the endeavor thus far made to deal with the emergency, and a statement of the considerations which have governed my action. I suppose that right and justice should determine the path to be followed in treating this subject. If national honesty is to be disregarded and a desire for territorial extension or dissatisfaction with a form of government not our own ought to regulate our conduct, I have entirely misapprehended the mission and character of our government and the behavior which the conscience of our people demands of their public servants." Before Mr. Cleveland entered upon his second term as President, the proposition to annex Hawaii to the United States had occupied the attention of Congress, and it is fitting, now, that Congress should consider and determine the subject in all its phases.

Why do young men join the Freemason's lodge? To help them in business; out of curiosity; for the society to which it will admit them; because several of their friends belong to it; because it is popular; that they may publicly wear regalia and plumes; that they may write "32" after their names; that they may ride a camel; wear a fez and ape the heathen in the Mystic Shrine, and make a good show in a procession. This is practical Masonry. Theoretically, it is because Masonry is "benevolence," "improving," "progressive;" but these advantages, which have no existence in fact, in the lodge, seldom offer any inducements to candidates, who, before initiation, are taught to declare (whether truly or not) that they desire to become Masons "unbiased by the improper solicitation of friends, and uninfluenced by mercenary motives." What is this but influencing men to lie?

The court of justice in Maine which handed down a decision that Freemasonry is not a benevolent institution had a rare appreciation of equity. The Masonic creed is that a man once a Mason is always a Mason; that is, his obligation holds him, from his initiation to the grave, in allegiance to the fraternity; he may leave the lodge and may neglect to pay his dues, but "he must ever conceal and never reveal" the secrets of the lodge; in other words, he cannot voluntarily set aside his Masonic character, and assume the right of private judgment, without incurring the hatred of his fellow-Masons, however irreproachable may be his private life. So much for the lodge member; how about the lodge to which he belongs?

A man may belong to the Masonic fraternity for twenty years, or more, during which time he regularly pays all his lodge dues, and answers every call made upon him by the lodge for personal charity, for the benefit of poor Masons, their widows and orphans. Circumstances overtake him that require the exercise of unusual economy in his business and family. He neglects to meet his lodge dues for a year. Before he can attain sufficient income to resume the payment of his dues—not more than ten dollars, perhaps—he dies, leaving his widow and fatherless children sadly straitened in their finances, and without means of support, and without relatives who are under obligations to provide for their necessities. They apply to the lodge for assistance, remembering the many hard-earned dollars that the husband and father has paid into the treasury of the fraternity, without withdrawing a penny of it for his own benefit. But the lodge turns a deaf ear to this call for—not benevolence, but—common justice, and the sufferers are told that "the husband and father has neglected his obligations, and by the non-payment of his dues for only a year, has forfeited his claims upon the fraternity!" The Maine court was right.

ANTI-SECRECY AT BLOOMINGTON, IND.

BY REV. M. A. GAULT.

There has recently been considerable agitation of the secret society question here. It began by an attempt to organize an A. P. A. The United Presbyterian pastor, Bro. S. R. Lyons, came out, the next day, with the following letter in the daily paper:

EDITOR TELEPHONE:—Your notice yesterday of the organization of a branch of the American Protective Association gives me both surprise and pain. I desire to say through your columns that as a citizen of Bloomington I have no sympathy with either the purposes or methods of this organization. I had hoped—I still hope that the time has gone by when sectarian prejudice shall be appealed to as a force in our political or religious life.

It is because I regard this movement as contrary to and subversive of the spirit of Christ, that I am pained by its presence here in our midst.

If my church or any other church seeks to grasp more than its share of political influence, let it be defeated in open field at the polls—the field of honor in our political life, but let us not go back to the spirit and methods of the dark ages. S. R. LYONS.

We admired the courage which led Bro. Lyons to thus speak out; yet many of us did not sympathize fully with his motive, which was not so much opposition to secret societies as a large amount of charity for the Romish church. He thinks the A. P. A. is publishing much that is untrue in regard to Romanists. But not wanting Bro. Lyons to stand alone in his protest, I came out the day after with this letter in the daily:

EDITOR TELEPHONE:—Personally and in behalf of our South Walnut Street church, we wish to enter our protest, along with Bro· Lyons, against the organization of a branch of the American Protective Association in our city. However good some of its objects may be, yet its secret tactics are contrary to the spirit of Christ, who in secret said nothing, but ever spake openly, and was never found in the secret chambers of a lodge. We believe with General U. S. Grant, who said, "All secret-bound political parties are dangerous to any nation, no matter how pure or how patriotic the motives and principles which first bring them together." In the same connection we also testify against the Order of United Workmen recently organized here. The testimony of our church is similar to that of the United Presbyterian church on this question, which says, "That all associations, whether formed for political or benevolent purposes, which impose upon their members an oath of secrecy or an obligation to obey a code of unknown laws, are inconsistent with the genius and spirit of Christianity, and church members ought not to have fellowship with such associations." M. A. GAULT.

This letter brought, a few days afterwards, the following from a leading secret society man of the city:

EDITOR TELEPHONE:—In answer to the communications of Mr. Gault in the Telephone, in regard to the so-called "oath-bound secret societies," allow me to give some advice—in fact, a "pointer" to Mr Gault, and others, who thinks as he does; and if the said advice is followed I have no doubt that it will be more effective in stopping the growth of the societies complained of, than any means that has yet been tried by the church.

Go to work and reform the churches, and have them treat their members, as do these societies, whose members are not fit to be associated with by church members, as Mr. Gault seems to think. When a member is sick, furnish constant watchers at his bedside, and be he poor or rich, pay him weekly benefits of from five to fifteen dollars according to the contract made with the church when he joined it, so long as he is sick.

If a member dies, pay all reasonable funeral expenses. If a poor widow is left, care for her, so that she may not suffer for food, raiment, or a place to rest her weary head; and if she have helpless children, see that money is provided to feed and clothe them, and provide books that they may go to school.

Have a large and carefully-guarded orphan fund, so that when orphans are left, all their wants may be provided for, and a fatherly care be kept over them so long as they may need it. These things, and more, are done for their members by the secret societies that have an established footing in this country. Does any church in the land do as much for their members, or even one-half as much? No.

If the church in times past had done as much for their members, these secret societies would not have existed; and even now, if the church will do as much, or more, most of them will die, as surely as the flood subsides when the rain ceases. There are as many good, conscientious, Christian men belong to secret societies as any that are out of them, none excepted.

W. B. SEWARD.

To which I replied in the daily as follows:

EDITOR TELEPHONE:—In reply to Bro. W. B. Seward, I wish to say that while I appreciate his friendly admonition to the churches to care more for their poor and suffering members, yet, if he investigates, he will find what I have found by long observation, that cases are rare indeed in which churches allow their members to suffer when truly in need. They bury their dead, watch by the bedside of their sick, and provide food for their helpless and hungry. Their charity is different from that of the lodges, whose benefits cease when a member fails to pay up his dues. For example, I notice in the proceedings of the 56 the semi-annual communication of the Grand Lodge of I. O. O. F. of Indiana, held at Indianapolis last May 17th, published in the June "Oddfellows' Talisman," such decisions as these: "A brother became delinquent on dues. Paid up, and during the thirteen weeks he was non-beneficial, died." It was decided, "he was not entitled to funeral benefits." Another case was, "a brother pays his dues up to Dec., 1892; is taken sick January 10th, 1893, having paid no more." It was decided, "he is not entitled to benefits." Now, what would you say of a church that would publish such rulings? I find from the Grand Secretary's report of the I. O. O. F. of Indiana, that they have in active membership in this State 39,706. They paid out for relief and charity during the term ending Dec. 31st, 1892, $68,745.17. But their total expenses for the term was $148.636 87. That means that it cost the fraternity more than $2 to give away $1 for charity. If our churches did that way what would you think? You will find from the United States statistics of 1883, that a fraternity numbering 550,000 members received $5,000,000; $2,000,000 of that were given to the poor and the sick, and it took over $3,000,000 to meet their regular expenses, so that it cost that fraternity $3 to give away $2 for charity.

And is not that a fair sample of the charity of most of the secret orders? M. A. GAULT.

Bro. Seward made no further reply to this, but it caused much street discussion, pro and con. And soon Bro. L. T. Van Cleve, pastor of the Campbellite church, announced that he would preach Sabbath evening on the subject of Secret Societies. Though he was a United Workmen, yet he had expressed opposition to the lodge. He had a crowded house. The following are a few extracts from his sermon as printed in the Telephone:

"I believe in the church of Christ, with all my heart, now and forever."

"I believe it would be better for Christians to do all their charity work in the church in the name of Christ.

"What is the church? (1.) Its founder is Jesus Christ, whom the rankest infidels proclaim to be the world's only perfect man. (2.) Its purpose is to care for both body and soul. (3.) Its principles, 'Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and thy neighbor as thyself.' 'Do good to all men.' (4.) Its members, the man with his millions and the man without a cent. (5.) Its social feature, the whole family together before God.

"What is the lodge? (1.) Its founder, an imperfect man. (2.) Its purpose, to care for the body. (3.) Its principle, love your brother. (4.) Its members, the men who are able to pay their initiation fees and dues. (5.) Its social feature, a gathering of men, with wife, sisters and children at home.

"The church has most for man, and, having all the necessary facilities for carrying on charity work in any community, it is a needless waste of the means with which God has entrusted us to equip and sustain a number of lodges in every community to do the same work. It is said, 'The church does not care for its sick and needy ones like the lodge.' Suppose a church with one hundred men in it. Let fifty of the wealthiest of these belong to from one to three lodges, pay all dues promptly, and how much money will they have left for charity in Christ's name in the church? And how can the remaining fifty do much when they are poor and many of them in need?

"The churches whose members do all their charity work in the church seldom let their needy suffer."

Here Bro. Van Cleve paid a high compliment to the Covenanter church of Bloomington, which he said opposed all secret orders and did all its charity work through the church, and you do not find any of their poor neglected. He said: "The man who cares for the sick and feeds the hungry in the lodge could do the same thing in the church. What think you of the man's Christianity who, when asked to sit up with the sick in Christ's name, gives some excuse; and when asked in the name of the lodge, goes? His lodgeanity is better than his professed Christianity. He has no real Christianity, because James says, 'Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, to visit the widow and fatherless in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world.'

"A person connects himself with the church because his Creator has commanded it. He does it because God requires obedience in order to have salvation from sin, and he must secure this or all is lost forever. Once in the church, if he is a true Christian, he will do all the charity work that his Saviour would have him do. A man joins a lodge, not because God commands it; not because it is essential to salvation; not primarily, in most cases, I apprehend, to do charity work. He joins it because he hopes, in some way, to receive as much, or more, from his fellow-men as he gives them.

"I am a member of one lodge, the A. O. U. W. Why did I join it? The one point in this order is $2,000 life insurance. I insured this way rather than in a regular insurance company because my premiums would go to the widow and the orphan rather than to a rich corporation. I did not join it especially to help the widow and the orphan, though it helps them. I can do all the purely charity work in the church that my means will allow; and God commands me to come into his church, and says do all things in his name. Here, then, I both obey God and do charity work. Where does the lodge get its highest inspiration for unselfish work? From Jesus Christ. 'I am in the lodge for society.' If a man would attend all the services of the church he would have society enough. 'But there are hypocrites in the church?' How about the lodge? Are there no hypocrites in the lodge?"

Bro. Van Cleve's sermon stirred up the people. A group of lodge-people closed around him as he came down from his pulpit. If the A. P. A. is yet alive, we are unable to ascertain who are its members. Several times literature has been distributed on our door-steps, but it has been done after dark. Romanism is weak in Bloomington, and we suspect that the A. P. A. was introduced in order to rope the unwary into the lodge.

Joseph Cook said to me, the next morning after he lectured here: 'Did you know that they were distributing in the audience, last night, my address on Secret Societies?" "Yes," said I, "the boys got 500 of them and put them in the hands of all as they passed out of the chapel." "I expect it will make me rather unpopular with the Masons," he replied. "You do not feel like going back on it?" I said. "No, sir," he replied with emphasis. "I am determined to live and die by that."

FACTS FROM WASHINGTON.

BY ONE WHO KNOWS.

The statements published in this number of The Envelope Series are furnished us by one who, as a resident of Washington, knows whereof he affirms. They could be greatly multiplied, but are sufficient, it is believed, to call the attention of patriotic men of all parties to a condition of things that the next Presidential election should make impossible of continuance, if it is not corrected by the present administration or by Congress.

These facts are not sent out for the purpose of stirring up sectional strife, or awakening partisan feelings, or religious bigotry, but that Protestants may see that Romanism here, as in Italy, Germany and France, is a great political machine, and that it allies itself with any party that will give it power, and for the time that such party will further its interests.

The greed of public moneys has ever possessed Rome; and in every country where she has directly or indirectly ruled she has built up her influence, both by public funds and by impoverishing the masses, with the well-known result in such Catholic lands as Mexico, Italy and France, of being in the end stripped by the government of her ill-gotten gains for the public good.

CHURCH WEALTH AND POWER IN WASHINGTON.

The Roman Catholics have twelve million dollars' worth of property in the city of Washington, largely secured since the Civil War. Fully two-thirds of this represents contributions by Protestants: gotten from government clerks by a system of beggary, with more or less of coercion in it, and from the government by appropriations which are regularly made to some of their institutions. All of the Protestant holdings in this city do not approach in value half of this amount. This immense ecclesiastical power has now become a menace of frightful proportions. There are in this city one Presbyterian, one Lutheran, one Episcopal and one Methodist church of fine architectural proportions. Then there is one Baptist, one Congregational, and one Episcopal church, large, but plain, and without architectural ornamentation. The reason for this paucity and poverty of the Protestant churches is found in the fact that the members are mostly government clerks of small incomes. There is no city in the country, of equal population, with so many vast marble and granite Roman Catholic churches, of almost cathedral pretensions and proportions, costing from a quarter of a million to a million dollars each. Satolli and his retinue are referred to by the daily press of this city as the papal legation. This is by Roman Catholic direction or approval, of course, as nothing goes into the press which has not the approval of the Roman Catholic church.

The Civita Cattolica, the organ of the Propaganda in Rome, interprets the reception of Satolli, the place given Cardinal Gibbons and other Romanist prelates in the Exposition, and especially the late letters of President Cleveland to Leo XIII., as an indication that the American people are becoming more favorable to the Roman Catholic theory of government; and the European press refer to the presence of Satolli here as to the presence of a recognized papal legate. The effort of the Vatican is to have relations with this Republic as an independent power, and they may be expecting the President to favor this. As an example of European press notices, take this:

LONDON, Sept. 29.—The Roman correspondent of the Central News says: "The report is confirmed that the Vatican has instructed Archbishop Satolli to influence Catholic members of Congress in Washington in favor of America's sending a diplomatic representative to the Vatican."

GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS AND CIVIL SERVICE.

Government officials do their work under a Jesuit surveillance that puts the whole governmental system practically under the eye of the Romish priesthood. I am familiar with facts which plainly convince me that the papal power in many of our departments here exceeds that of the heads of the departments themselves. Have the American people any right to express their judgment as to the way in which their government is being perverted by sectarian interference?

Some time ago I had a talk with a member of the cabinet, in which I called attention to the regular monthly visits of so-called nuns and sisters of charity, who solicit money, during the business hours, from nearly all the clerks of the different divisions, contrary to the rules, plainly posted, forbidding all persons from entering the different rooms for such purposes during these hours. I said to him: "Mr. Secretary, I am perfectly candid with you; I want to know if you will answer my questions, and I wish to use publicly what you say. How is it that every month these nuns come into your department and go into almost every room and to almost every desk? Here is a department which gets two million dollars annually. The clerks are expected to pay money over to the nuns. How is this?"

He said: "I am sure this does not go on in my department."

"Yes, sir, it does. And how is it," I asked, "that the chief clerks and private stenographers are so often, if not quite generally, Roman Catholics?"

"My chief clerk and private stenographer," he answered, "are Protestants."

"No, sir, your stenographer is a Roman Catholic, has become such since appointed, and is in that position for a purpose. All you propose about removals from office is reported, so that you may be led to appoint Roman Catholics as clerks. Do you not know that there are clerks in your department who will lose their positions if they do not pay over their money to the Roman Catholics? I know a faithful clerk who has been here a number of years, and he goes out when the nuns come in, for he will not pay money to them. Now, I don't feel disposed to mention this department, but have you anything to say, or any authority, as to what is done here?"

The result was that he sent out an order that this begging should be stopped; but whether it has been I do not know. It ought to be, not only in Washington, but all over the land, by statute enactment that is not a dead letter because administered by Romanists or officials who fear the Roman Catholic vote, but a law enforced, and with penalties that would make it effective.

In the civil service examinations the Roman Catholics always have the advantage. The Protestant young men and women have the advantage of a higher standard of education than that of the Romanists, but the latter always succeed better, because they can get, in advance, the questions of the examination.

In one division all the clerks were given a furlough of a week; before the furlough was over a number were dismissed, but no Catholics. Clerks in this division understand that it militates against them to be Protestants; and it is a general fact that, of the clerks dismissed, the Protestants preponderate, while of the new appointments, the major part are Catholics. Why should this be? Romanists are not over a seventh of the population; their voters are not over a tenth of our voting population; and their illiteracy, foreign spirit, and birth would make their just proportion in official positions a mere handful. Why do they preponderate in Washington?

In the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, a few weeks ago, twenty-one promotions were made in one day, nineteen of which were of Roman Catholics.

A man lost his position, and could not find anything else to do. One day his wife, who was a Roman Catholic, asked him why he did not see the priest. He went to him, and the priest told him he could not do anything for him; but said that if he would join his church, he could get him work. He joined that church, and almost immediately received a position. The priest was sure to get a part of his salary when he went for it. There are government clerks who thus pay regularly from ten to twenty-five per cent of their wages for the purpose of holding their positions.

PAY-DAYS.—PROMOTIONS.—REMOVALS.

On pay-days in the Pension-Bureau, as the clerks receive their pay, they file out between two nuns, who stand on either side, with boxes extended. Many of the clerks throw in quarter and half-dollar pieces. At the last pay-day it took two hours and a half for all these clerks to pass out, during which time these nuns stood there and received their money. The Commissioner of Pensions is a Roman Catholic; so also is his first assistant; and it may not be amiss to add that the Chairman of the House Sub-Committee on Pensions is of the same faith.

The following instance has recently come to my notice, and I have verified it. A one-legged soldier in the Pension Bureau had been promoted, on merit alone, during a series of years, until he occupied a very important place in the bureau; but only the other day he was reduced four hundred dollars in annual salary, and an Irish Roman Catholic, who saw but four months' service in the army, was put in his place.

Six government clerks in one room in the Pension Bureau, and, strange to relate, all members of a certain Protestant church, were lately reduced in pay, from three hundred dollars to five hundred dollars each per annum. Five of these are old soldiers. Their reduced pay was immediately given to six other persons, five of whom were Roman Catholics. In this particular room nine-tenths of the clerks are now Romanists. It was in this bureau that Cardinal Gibbons persistently urged the appointment of a Roman Catholic for chief clerk.

One division in the Agricultural department has been recently abolished. Seventy-eight per cent of the clerks were Roman Catholics. After it was abolished, many of the Romanists were given other positions, but this was not the case with the Protestants.

Does it disqualify for official position to be an American and Protestant at the capital, as it does in Rome-ruled New York?

[To be concluded.]

CHRISTIANS OUGHT TO REBUKE SIN.

Ye have oftentimes heard that God hath instituted and ordained two sorts of preaching in the world: One is when the Word of God is preached, which saith thou shalt have no other gods before me; thou shalt not kill; thou shalt not commit adultery; thou shalt not steal," etc. (Exodus 20.) It also threatens that he who doth not keep these precepts shall die. But that preaching doth justify no man. Although a man be thereby compelled to show himself godly outwardly before men, yet, notwithstanding, he is offended at the law in his heart, and had rather there were no law.

The other ministry of the Word is the Gospel, which shows where is to be received that which the law requireth. It neither urgeth nor threateneth, but allureth men gently. It showeth them what they must receive and take, whereby they may become righteous: Behold, here is Jesus Christ; he directeth them.

These (two sorts of preaching) disagree one with another, as much as to receive and give, as to exact and reward. This difference should be well understood and explained.

To hardened and untractable men, who feel not the Gospel, the law is to be preached, and they are to be urged till they begin to feel mollified and humbled and acknowledge their disease; then is the time to preach the Gospel.

These two sorts of preaching were instituted and ordained by the Almighty. Besides these, there are others which were not ordained of God, but are traditions invented by men—ordained by the Pope and his prelates—wherewith they have perverted the Gospel. These are not worthy to be called shepherds or hirelings, but they are those whom Christ calleth thieves, robbers and wolves. If we would guide men in the right way, it must be done by the Word of God; if it be not so done we surely labor in vain.—Martin Luther's Sermon on the Good Shepherd.

THE WEEK OF PRAYER.

Topics suggested for the Week of Prayer by the Evangelical Alliance for the United States January 7–14, 1894.

A large number of sub-topics are given only by way of suggestion. It is expected that each leader will make selections.

Sunday, January 7.—Sermons. Pentecostal power.—Acts 11: 1–4.

Monday, Jan. 8.—Humiliation and Thanksgiving. Confession: Of sin.—1 John 1: 8, 9; Psalms 32: 1–5; 2 Sam. 12: 13. Prayer: For grace to put away whatever hinders the progress of Christ's kingdom in the heart and in the world; for consecration to a holier life.—Heb. 12: 1, 2; Phil. 3: 7–14. Praise and Thanksgiving: For God's gift of his Son, for the presence of his Spirit; for the blessings of the past year; for improved moral tone; for a larger apprehension of the relations of the church to society.—2 Cor. 9: 15; 1 Chron. 29: 10–14; Isa. 65: 17–25.

Tuesday, Jan. 9.—The Church Universal. Prayer: For the whole church of Christ, that the power of the Holy Ghost may be manifested.—Acts 2: 1–18; that the unity of believers in Christ may be more fully apprehended.—John 17: 20–23; that error, superstition and unbelief may be removed.—2 Tim. 4: 3, 4; Heb. 3: 12.

Wednesday, Jan. 10.—Nations and their Rulers. Prayer: For all in authority.—1 Tim. 2: 1, 2; for peace.—Isa. 2: 4; for the persecuted.—Matt. 5: 10–12; for the abolition of the slave, opium and strong drink traffic.—Exodus 21: 16. Psalm 72: 4; for all needed reform,—temperance.—Hab. 2: 15, 12; Sabbath.—Neh. 13: 15–22; industrial,—Jer. 22: 13; social.—1 Cor. 6: 18–20; and political.—1 Sam. 2: 36 and 8: 3.

Thursday, Jan. 11.—Foreign Missions. Prayer: For the conversion of the world; for societies and their missionaries, for native churches, secret disciples, for the removal of hindrances, for such co-operation as becomes the members of the body of Christ.—Isa. 35; Rom. 10: 11–15; Isa. 40: 3–5; Eph. 4: 11–16.

Friday, Jan. 12.—Home Missions. Prayer: For the evangelization of city, country and frontier.—Luke 10: 1, 2; for increased co-operation in the work.—Lev. 26: 8; and for a greater sense of personal responsibility.—Mark 13: 34.

Saturday, Jan. 13.—The Family. Prayer: For parents, children and servants; for Sunday-schools and all Christian Associations for young people; for all educational institutions.—Eph. 6: 1–9; Col. 3: 18–25; Prov. 8: 32–36; Prov. 2: 1–9.

Sunday, Jan. 14.—Sermons. The second coming of our Lord.—Rev. 22: 12.

"There is no Christianity in the Blue Lodge. I used to pray in the name of Jesus in their meetings. But the Jews said: No Jesus! Jews, deists, free-thinkers fill the lodges. Christ has no part or lot among them. They don't do good as he commanded. Their own goodness is all that is required in the order. A Musselman is as good a Mason as anybody else. There is no true idea of Christianity in the lodge. Some writers make it appear that there is. They say much about Christ outside, but not when inside. Rob Morris was one of these. I can't understand how such men as he get confused. They carry water on both shoulders."—Stephen Merritt, once a Mason of 138 degrees.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 20, 1893.

"The Lord loves a cheerful giver." The people of Washington have their faults, like the rest of mankind, but many of them are proving, as they have often done before, that they are cheerful givers. One of them gave $100,000 to the proposed Methodist University a few days ago, and was so modest as to decline to allow his or her name to be made public; and thousands of them, from the wealthy to the poorest school children, are liberally giving according to their means for the alleviation of the sufferings of the unemployed. Our churches and our newspapers are all engaged in raising charity funds. Last night a mass meeting of our prominent citizens was held, for the purpose of systematically relieving the suffering in our midst, and a large amount of money was pledged to the good work. To-night a grand concert is to be given for charity by the U. S. Marine Band, and present indications are that $5,000 or more will be realized. Every ticket sold will be net profit, as everybody's services and the mammoth convention hall in which the concert is to be given are furnished gratis.

The President's message on Hawaii, the reporting of the new tariff bill, and the publication of the annual report of the Secretary of the Treasury, which has never before been delayed beyond the first week of the session, have served to make the week interesting in Congress; but the nearness of the Christmas recess and the absence of many Senators and Representatives has prevented the actual transaction of any important business in either the Senate or House of Representatives. It is just as well, perhaps, that the holiday recess shall be devoted to a study of these important matters before they are taken up for action by Congress.

A native Armenian, at present doing business in Washington, has written a long letter to President Cleveland, thanking him for having called attention in his annual message to Congress to the troubles of the Armenians. He says of his people: "Here is a Christian nation of some three millions that has preserved its faith through fourteen centuries of ceaseless persecution—a nation of peaceful and industrious farmers, skilled artisans (the so-called Turkish carpets are nearly all the handiwork of Armenians), and keen traders, a nation thirsting for education, endowed (according to the testimony of all travelers) with the finest natural gifts, and striving with might and main to take its place in the community of civilized nations. 'You shall not do it,' says the Turkish government to the Armenians, and proceeds to let loose upon them the Koords and Circassians, evidently with the intention to exterminate the Armenian Christians or force them to become Mohammedans. And all around stand four hundred millions of Christians of Europe and America, with twenty millions of trained soldiers, all looking calmly on, while their Christian brothers suffer extreme outrages at the hands of a foe whom Christendom could crush as a man's foot crushes a worm."

The people of Washington are just now being given an object-lesson showing what may be accomplished by determined and courageous officials, even under laws that admit of doubtful construction. A lot of gamblers, who were driven out of the State of New Jersey, came here and announced their intention to have daily horse-racing during the winter, for no other purpose than to furnish the vicious and corrupting pool-rooms in all the large cities with a means for fleecing the gullible people who patronize them. The chief of police recommended that they may be refused a license, but the Commissioners, under advice of their attorney, decided that they had no authority to withhold the license, although they did refuse to grant them a liquor license which they applied for. Accordingly the races began last week and were continued two days. Then the courageous U. S. District attorney stepped to the front and announced his intention to arrest every man who took part in any race in any capacity, and every man who made a bet on any race, under the gambling laws of the District. His determined attitude has frightened the gamblers, and there have been no races this week, and it is earnestly hoped that the gamblers will be driven away for good and all. If the District of Columbia had three Commissioners of the same caliber as District Attorney Birney, there would be a wonderful improvement in the morals of the national capital in short order. Our officials, present and past, have been entirely too ready to give gamblers and liquor men the benefit of any existing doubt as to our laws. *

A SKIRMISH WITH A MASON.

On Sunday, Dec. 17, Rev. J. P. Stoddard lectured at Worcester, Mass., in the Second Advent church, on "The Lodge and its Religious Aspects."

The Worcester Telegram of the 18th reports the meeting as follows:

He (Mr. Stoddard) denounced all secret orders, and especially Masonry and Odd-fellowship. He took the position that all societies which required an oath or pledge as a condition of membership, are opposed to the Christian religion. He claimed that Masonry is a religious system, and that Christ is excluded from its authorized forms of worship. By the use of a chart he illustrated what he termed the true and the false religion, saying that the first recorded act of false worship was at Cain's altar, and the first recorded act of true worship was at Abel's altar, and traced the two—the one ending in the lake of fire, and the other in the new heavens and the new earth.

He gave his exposition of the manner in which a man takes the first degree in Masonry. He said: The candidate is divested of his clothes and furnished with a pair of drawers. He is blindfolded, his left leg, his left arm and his left breast are bared, and there is a cable placed about his neck. In that condition he is taken into the lodge. The question is asked, when admission is wanted, "Who is there?" and the reply is given, "A blind candidate, who has been in darkness and now wants to come to the light." He then swears ever to conceal and never to reveal any of the secrets of Masonry, under no less a penalty than having his throat cut from ear to ear and his tongue torn out from the roots, and himself buried in the rough sands of the sea. Mr. Stoddard claimed that to enter a secret lodge a man has to surrender three things—first, his right to private judgment; second, the liberty of speech, and third, the freedom of the press.

At the close of the meeting, an animated discussion took place between Rev. Mr. Stoddard and a Mason, Samuel E. Alden. About fifty ladies and gentlemen surged up to the front of the pulpit, where the debate took place, while others, to get a better view of the disputants, stood on the pulpit platform.

[Notice how very evasively Mr. Alden replied to Mr. Stoddard's pungent remarks. It is the usual thing in all such controversies for Masons to equivocate or make point-blank denials. It is a part of the lodge system.]

Mr. Alden denied some of the statements made by Mr. Stoddard, and then the following dialogue took place:

Mr. Stoddard—My friend (putting his hand on Mr. Alden's shoulder), if you want to go to heaven will you want to be led there by a rope?

Mr. Alden—A man never went into a Masonic body of any kind, but he heard a prayer. It is just as good to pray in a Masonic temple as in a church, and I am ready to bet $1,000 if what I have said is not true.

Mr. Stoddard—Why don't you take your wife to the lodge?"

Mr. Alden—She don't want to go.

Mr. Stoddard—If it was my wife she would want to be there.

Mr. Alden—I wouldn't have such a wife. I have taken eighteen degrees, and there is nothing in any of them that could not be preached in the pulpit. We have a lodge where the ladies go.

Mr. Stoddard—Isn't it correct that a Jew can call you to order in the lodge and have you expelled if you persist in praying in the name of Christ?

Mr. Alden—I know a good Mason, Henry Jerome, who conducts religious meetings, and there is nothing that prevents him from going down on his knees and calling upon Christ in his prayers. I have taken eighteen degrees in the Scottish rite, and I have met nothing to shake my belief in Jesus Christ.

Mr. Stoddard—Well, you have been in a body different from any other man.

Samuel A. Pratt then entered the debate and said, "I know that Rev. A. B. Kendig, who used to be pastor of Trinity church and had taken thirty-three degrees, said that the order used to be one of the great hindrances to the religion of Christ."

Mr. Alden—Is there any person here who can tell me of a member of the order who is in want?

There was no reply; and then he said he could tell of many church members who were in want.

This ended the discussion, and Mr. Alden walked down the aisle and left the church.

BOTH SIDES PRESENTED.

THE COOPERSBURG (PA.) "SENTINEL" EDITOR ACCUSES OUR EASTERN AGENT OF HAVING "A DISEASED BRAIN."

A Mr. Stoddard lectured in the Mennonite meeting-house last evening. The whole discourse was an accumulation of wrath, caused by imaginary wrongs impressed upon by a diseased brain, which he directed at old and well-founded secret organizations. He utterly failed to offer, in any way, a reasonable cause why these organizations were not well-founded and directed; but like the defeated politician or healer, imagines everybody is wrong and he is right, and with this idea thoroughly impressed upon his brain (?) seeks to spend the spleen of his morbidness by pouring out his wrath whenever an opporunity offers itself, which acts as a stimulant to the patient. One of the things young men must have is social recreation, and to this end seek membership in our secret orders, which prove a blessing. He meets good company, which improves him in many ways. He is taught lessons of self-control, self-reliance, self-sacrifice, and how to hold his tongue. His ideas are broadened, and his views on the brotherhood of man are markedly developed. He is taught the value of discipline, and how to submit to it. The work of a lodge also becomes an educational factor, not merely objectively as a hearer and onlooker, but subjectively as a worker and an actor. Ambition to take part in the work of the lodge is kindled, which spurs many a young man to an intellectual improvement that often leads to honor even out of the lodge-room. The young man profits on the outside also by the new associations he has made, whose influences are elevating and their incident restraints good. These are facts that Mr. Stoddard cannot deny.—Coopersburg (Pa.) Sentinel.

MR. STODDARD'S REPLY.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 18, 1893.

DEAR SIR:—A copy of your paper, issue of December 14, has been kindly sent me. In it I find reference to the lecture I recently gave in the Mennonite church of your town. I am always glad to know what impression I make on the minds of my hearers, and so have read your article with interest.

It is not often that I find newspaper-men willing to express their views on the lodge question as freely as yourself. You will please allow me to ask a few questions as to the views you hold, and as to how you arrived at the belief expressed so forcibly in this article.

You say you believe me to have a "diseased brain." This is an exceedingly unfortunate condition for a man to be in who is speaking to audiences every night in the week, and three times on the Sabbath. Surely you would have great pity for such an one. Let me inquire how you came to express your belief in your paper. Being, as you doubtless believe, a judge of "diseased brains," you would see the importance of not pronouncing a man in this unfortunate condition without a long and careful consideration of the matter. You know that to destroy the good name of a man is to destroy all that he has of great value in this life.

Was it after a long and careful study that you arrived at this conclusion? Did you get down on your knees before God, and ask his guidance? Was it after long deliberation, with tears in your eyes, and an aching heart, feeling the great responsibility upon you as an educator, that you reluctantly decided to show your readers the disease of my brain, that they might thus be guarded and not believe what I might tell them?

Your statement that I "utterly failed to offer, in any way, a reasonable cause why these organizations were not well-founded and directed," is something of a surprise. As you may possibly have forgotten a few of the "causes" I mentioned "why these organizations were not well-founded and directed," allow me to refresh your memory.

1. A religion is taught which is not Christian. Jews, Deists, Unitarians and others not receiving Christ as the Son of God, engage in their worship. There is but one way to heaven. Christ says: "I am the way, the truth, and the life." A rejection of Christ should "cause" the Christian to keep out.

2. A false brotherhood is taught. "Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers." Bible.

3. The oaths administered are blasphemous. Those who administer these have no divine authority for so doing.

4. The ceremonies are often very degrading. When a man takes the first or Entered Apprentice degree in Masonry, for instance, his clothing is removed, a pair of lodge-drawers and lodge-shirt is furnished. A blind-fold is placed over the eyes, and a cord, called a cable-tow, about the neck. The left leg of the drawers is rolled to the knee, and the left breast is made bare. In this condition the candidate first enters the Masonic lodge. Having never made your acquaintance, I know not whether you are a Mason or not; if one, you need no information regarding this ceremony.

5. Persons are shut in with evil-minded men. Crime always seeks concealment. "Men love darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil." Bible.

6. The lodge and saloon are often connected. In Quakertown, where I have just spoken five times, I found that at least four of these organizations had regular times of holding the lodge over the stable of the Bush House saloon. If evidence is desired as to the effect of staying out to lodge suppers until after midnight on the young men who participate, plenty is to be obtained from wives in Quakertown, and elsewhere, who sit up until the return of their husbands. Many men are willing to testify that they have been induced to drink by lodge associates.

You will doubtless recall that these were among the "causes" I gave "why these organizations were not well-founded and directed." Will you kindly insert them in your paper, that your readers may see you are right in pronouncing my "brain diseased?" Surely you will recognize that to substantiate such a grave charge you will need all the evidence you can get.

You say "young men must have social recreation." A "diseased brain" man would scarcely deny that. Is it not a pity all do not know "social recreation" may be found in a hundred places without going to the highest part of the barn owned by a saloon-man, and shutting the door to all ladies, as they do in Quakertown?

I would not say that a man might not meet "good company" which would "improve him in many ways." For instance, he might find the Sentinel editor there, and learn to be an expert on "diseased brains." It is exceedingly important that he be "taught lessons of self-control." If he is unable to control himself, his condition is deplorable, as the invitation is to dissipation.

In writing of his learning "how to hold his tongue," you perhaps have in mind the Masonic jewel: "a silent tongue and a listening ear."

If by the "brotherhood of man" you refer to the idea that all men are brethren, whether they believe in Christ or not, I agree with you.

You say: "He is taught the value of discipline, and how to submit to it." Here we agree again. Rather remarkable, isn't it, how near we think alike? The man must obey his superiors in the lodge. "Right or wrong, the mandates are not to be questioned." Private judgment surrendered, does not the man become a sort of slave? Please put this in your next article.

Should you see fit to enlighten a "diseased brain" further, I should be glad to consider any weighty argument you may present. Should you, during your journalistic pursuits, write an encyclopedia on "diseased brains," please send me notice.

Trusting that you may be happy in this life, and that to come, I remain your friend,

W. B. STODDARD.

215 4½ St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

The liquor traffic is the staunch friend of anarchy. It breeds anarchists much faster than the State can punish them. It overrides all law, and in this way encourages men to defy the State law.

REFORM WORK ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

PHILOMATH, Ore., Dec., 1893.

The Pacific Coast Association opposed to secret societies is now but a year and a half of age, so far as organized effort is concerned.

We have enrolled nine hundred and fifty-two persons, whose hearts are true, whose purposes are fixed to serve God untrammeled, and whose lives are consecrated to the work of saving their fellow-men from the snares of the devil.

We ought to have thousands more on this list before our next convention, nine months hence. We can have them if those already enrolled will do their duty. Every United Brethren, Free Methodist, Wesleyan Methodist, United Presbyterian, Evangelical Association, and thousands of others can be enlisted by a small effort on the part of those interested.

What an influence for good can be wrought by those already enlisted! Let each one bring to this worthy cause the very best consecration possible. I hope that hundreds of those already enrolled will feel, like the writer, that this good work must not lag, but go on, till every city, village, hamlet and rural district shall feel the good influence, and every lodge, from Freemasonry down to the last organized, shall have surrendered to King Jesus.

I have now in mind many noble men and women whose consciences are as steady as the needle to the pole, who are hitting hard blows against organized secrecy. Rev. Jas. C. Scott, of the Free Methodist church, gives the gospel of anti-secrecy no uncertain sound. He lectured recently at Goldendale and Pomeroy, Washington. At the latter place, the hall was so packed that they brought chairs from the court house and filled every vacant space; still many stood in the doors and windows for two hours and a half while he poured the hot shot into the ranks of the hoodwinked and cable towed. Our anti-secrecy friends think that great good was accomplished in behalf of our cause. Oh, that we had many more such fearless men as Bro. Scott.

In order to insure continued and ultimate success, we must have the Cynosure in many more homes of this Territory as an educator of the people. There is a great lack of knowledge on this subject. Very many people who are opposed to the lodge evil lack, in many instances, the information sufficient to give intelligent reasons for their opposition; and very many who are now the advocates of the lodge, with proper information would give them up and be as earnestly opposed to the orders.

"Knowledge is power," and the Christian Cynsure is a potent agency for good in giving knowledge of the wickedness of organized secrecy, and every other abominable sin. By circulating this paper, we can learn what the association is doing, as well as the needs of the cause. Thus we will become more and more united in feeling, sentiment and purpose to push forward the interests so dear to our hearts. The writer has sent out a large number of papers gratuitously, for six months, mostly in Oregon, hoping that many would become permanent subscribers, and thus aid themselves, their families, and the cause of righteousness.

It is evident that something must be done, and that soon, to bridge over the tide of hard times which

(Continued on 8th page.)

CORRESPONDENCE.

SOME PERTINENT SUGGESTIONS.

MONTROSE, Pa., Dec. 14, 1893.

EDITOR CYNOSURE:—It is to be hoped that Rev. Dr. Barrows, in his forthcoming work, "The Parliament of Religions," will include the Masonic system (in one chapter, at least), since Masonry claims to be a universal religion, embracing and inculcating those tenets in which all men agree. In this connection, it is obvious that the prayers of the order are, and must be, of such a character as the whole, wide-spread fraternity can endorse and participate in. Since the Scriptural quotations used in the lodge eliminate the name of Christ, inasmuch as Christianity is declared to be a "sectarian religion;" and since, in different countries the religious, or so-called "sacred, books," of each land find a place on Masonic altars, along with the indispensable symbols—the square and compasses—it will surely be an omission to be regretted should Dr. Barrows pass by this much vaunted and trusted system of salvation.

The Bible, says Masonry, is a symbol of the will of the G. A. O. T. U., however it may be expressed. The Ten Commandments, or their equivalent, found in other systems, constitute the basis of the Masonic creed. So says Rob Morris, the eminent Masonic lecturer. "The book of the law" for the fraternity is that which is deemed authoritative by the people of any country in which the lodge is held.

Masonry claims to enlighten men, to renew them, to purify them, to free them from sin, to furnish all the soul needs, to guide them through their earthly journey, and to bring them to "the grand lodge above;" therefore a system so effective, and having so many adherents, ought surely to find a presentation in so complete a work as "The World's Fair Parliament of Religions."

All the points referred to in the foregoing summary can be corroborated by Morris, Sickels, Macoy, Mackey, Webb, and other standard authors of the Masonic empire, which Rev. Nathaniel Colver fitly styled "Satan's masterpiece."

The suggestion of Bro. J. S. Hickman in your issue of Nov. 30 is very important, viz.: "To aim to have a local agent for the Cynosure in every county of all the States in the Union." It is sad to know that in thousands of localities young men are being drawn into the lodges for a want of information concerning their evils. In fact, a majority of the people are unenlightened and unwarned on this vital subject. The testimonies of seceders, of prominent divines, educators and statesmen should be published in cheap form, and scattered by millions through the agency of friends, on slips and fly-sheets. On one side print the testimonies of one class, at a time, and, on the other side, an advertisement of your paper and your anti-secrecy books; or, let both sides of each sheet contain testimonies only. The circulation of these would awaken thought, lead to examination, deter very many from entering the lodges, and also prompt and encourage many to forsake and renounce these unholy orders. It is through the ignorance of the people that the lodges thrive, and the unwary are misled. One of the strange things of our strange humanity is, that men will connect themselves, for life, to organizations without a proper understanding of their motives and effects.

The secret orders prefer darkness to light, and, so far as they can, prevent free discussion on the platform, in the press and in the pulpit. But the conflict is irrepressible, and, as the final issue, the right will prevail.

I wish you had an increased publication fund, so that samples of your paper might be sent to hundreds of intelligent and influential persons who have never seen it. Yours, J. W. RAYNOR.

NATIONAL LEAGUE FOR THE PROTECTION OF AMERICAN INSTITUTIONS.

"THE METROPOLITAN," 1 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK, Dec. 15, 1893.

EDITOR CYNOSURE:—Accept my thanks for your letter of inquiry of the 12th inst.

I send you herewith some documents which will advise you fully as to our principles and lines of work. Permit me to say briefly, that THE NATIONAL LEAGUE HAS NO SECRETS. WE DESIRE THE WIDEST PUBLICITY FOR ALL WE DO AND SAY; and we antagonize no man's religious faith or political affiliations.

Some newspapers have recently confounded us with the A. P. A.; but while we are familiar with the character of their work, and see no reason to find fault with it, our organization stands free from connection with any other. We shall be glad to give you any further information desired, and hope to have you notice our work in your journal. Sincerely, JAMES M. KING, General Secretary.

The National League for the Protection of American Institutions was incorporated under the laws of the State of New York, December 24, 1889.

ITS OBJECTS.

The objects of the League are to secure constitutional and legislative safeguards for the protection of the common-school system and other American institutions, and to promote public instruction in harmony with such institutions, and to prevent all sectarian or denominational appropriations of public funds. The National League is absolutely unsectarian and non-partisan in character. It is proposed to secure an amendment to the United States Constitution prohibiting sectarian legislation by the States. The amendment, in form as submitted by the law committee, has been adopted by the board of managers.—Article II. of its Constitution.

The following is the proposed form of the XVI. Amendment to the United States Constitution:

"No State shall pass any law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or use its property or credit, or any money raised by taxation, or authorize either to be used, for the purpose of founding, maintaining or aiding, by appropriation, payment for services, expenses, or otherwise, any church, religious denomination or religious society, or any institution, society, or undertaking, which is wholly, or in part, under sectarian or ecclesiastical control."

The work in which the National League is engaged is as follows, and thus far in its history a large measure of success has attended it:

1. Show the necessity for the XVI. Amendment, and press it on the attention of Congress and of the American people.

2. Form State leagues in all the States as rapidly as opportunity affords, and seek the amendment of State constitutions wherever they are defective in their provisions for protecting religious liberty and the schools.

3. Use every legitimate means within its power to protect and perfect the American free common-school system.

4. Gather and publish statistics concerning sectarian appropriations by the National and State governments, and expose the peril of such action.

5. Strenuously resist every effort to consummate the union of church and state on educational or any other lines.

6. Keep the public apprised of the sources of our peril, and organize the patriotic sentiment of the country among native-born and naturalized citizens for the defense of our distinctively American institutions.

Should the proposed XVI. Amendment become a part of the organic law of the nation, it is confidently believed that the following beneficent results will issue:

1. The American free common-school system will be securely intrenched.

2. Religious controversy will be eliminated from political questions and issues.

3. Essential separation of church and state will be secured and perpetuated.

4. The intimidating power of ecclesiasticism over both citizenship and statesmanship will be destroyed.

The following are the officers of the National League:

William H. Parsons, President; James M. King, General Secretary; William Fellowes Morgan, Treasurer; John McLellan, Office Secretary; William Allen Butler, Dorman B. Eaton, Cephas Brainerd, Henry E. Howland, Law Committee.

Communications from our loyal and earnest countrymen touching the organization of the League throughout the republic; the co-operation of the various associations already formed to defend American institutions, or any information or suggestions in regard to attempts to pervert the common-school system, to divert its funds or to substitute for American principles and methods those of a foreign and un-American civilization, or on any kindred topics, may be addressed to JAMES M. KING, General Secretary.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE offers to either an old or new subscriber, until the 1st of February, 1894, any book for sale by the National Christian Association at 25 per cent discount from retail rates, when ordered in connection with a yearly or six months' subscription to the Cynosure.

A special offer is made of the Christian Cynosure, one year, and "BETWEEN TWO OPINIONS," by Miss E. E. Flagg, 389 pages, cloth, price $1. The two, worth $2.50, will be sent for only $1.75 and four 2 cent stamps to pay postage on the Com.

CYNOSURE OFFER!

Any of the Books sold by the N. C. A. in this paper, ordered, with subscription to the Cynosure, at one-fourth off from list price, sent postpaid.

The New Volume of Pen and Pencil Series.

WELSH PICTURES Drawn with Pen and Pencil.

By D. Lewis Jones, Morris Jones, Edward Ffoulkes, H. Elvet Lewis, D. Tyssil Evans, D. Davies and O. M. Edwards. Edited by Richard Lovett, M. A. With many Illustrations. Imperial 8vo, cloth, gilt edges, boxed..... 3.20

"'Welsh pictures' is the work of ten Welshmen, among whom illustrating the beauties of Wales has been parcelled out according to the special familiarity of each. The result is a pleasing volume."—London Times.

THE EARTHLY FOOTPRINTS OF OUR RISEN LORD, Illumined.

A continuous narrative of the Four Gospels according to The Revised Version, with introduction by Rev. John Hall, D. D. Illustrated by 113 full-page half tone re-productions. Small 4to, cloth.....net 1.50
Gilt edge, with silk book mark, boxed.....net 2.00
Full morocco, flexible, gilt edges, round corners, boxed.....net 3.75

Pictures reflecting the best in sacred art from Raphael to the present day are scattered profusely through the book.

"To many the life of the Christ will be a new book in this form. Though beyond the introduction it contains no word except what is found in the four Gospels, yet when read continuously, without the breaks necessarily made by the different stories of the four evangelists, the narrative takes on new force and lifelikeness. The very fact that this is not, our usual method of reading the Word will give it a new reality."—Golden Rule.

A GIFT OF LOVE, and Loving Greetings for 365 Days.

By Rose Porter. Long 18mo. Paper cloth..... 1.00
White cloth, silver top, in box..... 1.25
Decorated silk, silver top, in box..... 1.75

"'A Gift of Love' is the work of a loving heart. It contains a text of Scripture for every day of the year with the addition of an appropriate thought in poetry of prose all bearing on the theme of love. The work must have called for a great amount of patient toil. But it has not been spent in vain, for the volume will prove a blessing to many a soul. To use it day by day for a year thoughtfully and prayerfully, must result in a rich growth in love on the part of the user. The author is well known and esteemed for her previous works' sake."—The N. Y. Observer.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE SERIES.

By Rev. F. B. Meyer, containing CHRISTIAN LIVING, THE PRESENT TENSES OF THE BLESSED LIFE, ANDTHE SHEPHERD PSALM. 3 vols. in box. 18mo, cloth..... 1.50
White vellum cloth, silver top, in box..... 1.75

D. L. Moody says: "Few books of recent years are better adapted to instruct and help Christians than those of this author. He is a man mighty in the scriptures, saturated with Bible facts and truths."

PRAYERS FROM THE POETS.

By Martha Harger. 16mo, two colored cloth, gilt top..... 1.00
Leatherette, boxed..... 1.50

"This volume is admirable. The Prayer are better suited to some of our moods than formal Litanies and are selected from excellent sources. The book will be a dear treasure to many hearts."—The Churchman.

KIN=DA=SHON'S WIFE.

An Alaskan Story. By Mrs. Eugene S. Willard, Home Missionary of the Presbyterian Board of America to Alaska. With illustrations. 8vo, cloth..... 1.50

"Being a close observer and in deep sympathy with the native population in their struggles towards a Christian Civilization, Mrs. Willard has gained a more intelligent knowledge of their character, of their needs and hindrances, than perhaps any other person."—Dr. Sheldon Jackson.

HEROES OF THE GOODWIN SANDS.

By Rev. Thomas Stanley Treanor. With many illustrations. 8vo, Cloth..... 1.50

"It is a book of most engrossing interest, and as stimulating as it is readable."—The Record.
"The deeds of daring are thrilling in the extreme. Suitable for the public library or for the home."—Times.

THE GREAT LONDON DAILIES.

By H. W. Massingham. Profusely illustrated. 12mo, cloth..... 1.00

Very welcome to all who like to look behind the scenes and see how the great London dailies are worked.

New Editions.

The Prayer Meeting and Its Improvement.

By Rev. LEWIS O. THOMPSON. Eighth edition, cloth, $1.25.

"Most heartily do we wish this work a wide circulation, both among pastors and people, and we hope it may do much toward the lifting of the prayer-meeting into that higher place which it ought to hold among the grand instrumentalities in the kingdom of the Master'—Congregationalist.

"We do not remember to have met with a work so suggestive, and we heartily commend it to both pastors and private members."—Baptist Weekly.

The Crisis of Missions. By Rev. ARTHUR T. PIERSON, D. D. Cloth, $1.25; paper, 35c.

"We do not hesitate to say that this book is the most purposeful, earnest, and intelligent review of the mission work and field which has ever been given to the church."—Christian Statesman.

The Christian's Secret of a Happy Life.

By HANNAH WHITALL SMITH. One hundredth thousand. Issued in fourteen styles, from 50c. to $2.50. Send for circular.

"To commend this work would seem almost superfluous; and yet to young Christians who may not know it, we cannot refrain from saying, Buy this book, and keep it with your Bible for constant study, until you have thoroughly mastered, in your own experience, the 'secret' of which it tells. It will transform the dark days of your life, as it has transformed those of thousands before you, into days of heavenly light."—New York Evangelist.

The Topical Text Book. Fourth edition.

16 mo., cloth, 60c.

This little volume is a worker's most useful tool. It collates all Scripture passages under their topical headings, and for this reason proves far more helpful in studying a subject than the best concordance.

"I find one of the very best ways to study the Scripture is to study topically."—D. L. Moody.

Stalker's Life of Christ. Twelfth edition.

Stalker's Life of St. Paul. Fourth edition.

12 mo., cloth, each, 60c.

These works by Professor James Stalker, M. A., are unique in their compact putting of these lives into such condensed form without injurious brevity. They are being taken up as text books by Biblical classes in all parts of the country, thus proving their practical value.

Grace and Truth under Twelve Different Aspects. By W. P. MACKAY, M. A. Paper, 35c.; cloth, 75c. Two hundred and fiftieth thousand.

This remarkable sale can only be attributed to the very practical character of this work as a guide to the inquirer and a work of helpful instruction for the immature Christian. It is of this volume Mr. D. L. Moody said: "I know of no work in print better adapted to place in the hands of the inquirer."

Notes and Suggestions for Bible Readings.

By S. R. BRIGGS. Sixtieth thousand. 8 vo, cloth. $1.00; flexible, 75c.

Edition after edition of this work has been called for until it would seem the demand must be supplied. The sales however, increase rather than otherwise.

Feathers for Arrows. By Rev. C. H. SPURGEON. 16 mo., cloth, $1.00.

Few preachers have made such effective use of pointed illustrations as the well known pastor of the great Metropolitan Tabernacle. Here he has given us a large cluster of his best with liberty to enjoy and employ.

Revell's Record for Church Treasurers.

SIZE NO. 1, $1.50; SIZE NO. 2, $2.00.

Popular because practical—valuable because time saving—the only record for weekly envelope system that reduces the treasurer's work to the minimum.

For sale by the

National Christian Association,

221 West Madison Street, Chicago, Ill.

LODGE NOTES.

The resolution to exclude saloon-keepers from the Knights of Pythias in Missouri was laid upon the table by the Grand Lodge.

An exchange relates how the joke was turned on a council of a secret order in Virginia. They were recently conferring upon a Swede a side degree taken from one of the burlesque rituals. The Grand Assistant Mogul asks the question: "Have you ever been in an insane asylum?" The candidate shaking his head innocently replied: "Not till I came in here."—Ex.

Of the new (present) working ritual of the Knights of Pythias, the Knight says; "The new ritual was adapted to the old work and assimilated with such perfectness that but slight changes were necessary in order to make perfect work. The lodge that possessed an elaborate paraphernalia for working the old should easily adapt it to the new, thus making the beautiful work more beautiful."

"The Grand Order of the Orient" belongs to no special order as an adjunct, but is an independent organization, conferred upon the "tenderfoot" for what there is in it. Separated from some of the "extremes," added by "the boys," there should be no harm in it. As conferred in some quarters it is objectionable and is prohibited from our castle halls. Recently, at Greensburg, Indiana, the members of this organization had a street parade, headed by a band, the "Princes" being dressed in every conceivable variety of fantastic costume, no two of them being alike. "The citizens turned out en masse to see them," says an exchange, and all seemed to enjoy the fun and novelty of the performance." It appears to have been a revival of "The Burial of the Golden Fleece" of the great "Sons of Malta" days.—Pythian Knight.

The importance of keeping the liver and kidneys in good condition cannot be overestimated. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a great remedy for regulating and invigorating these organs.

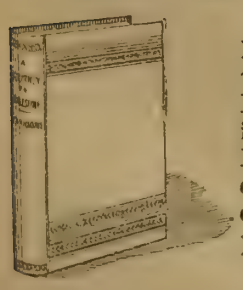
Hood's Pills act easily, yet promptly and effectively, on the liver and bowels. 25 c.

"Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething" softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain and cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

A Journey to Palestine.

BY REV. B. CARRADINE, D. D.

—oo—



Revised and Illustrated Edition. 500 pages. Eighteen beautiful half-tone Engravings, including portrait of Author. Cloth postpaid, $1.50. Address

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

THE MYSTIC SHRINE
Illustrated.

THE FULL

ILLUSTRATED RITUAL
OF THE

Nobles of the Mystic Shrine

PRICE 15 CENTS, EACH.

For sale by the

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

DO YOU WANT

To receive, read, distribute and otherwise aid in the circulation of a large number of Holiness and Reform papers and magazines? If so, send me a SILVER dime, and your name and address will be printed on the Holiness and Reform Mail Exchange List, which is sent to all publishers of holiness and reform literature, who will mail you sample papers and magazines. Write name and address PLAINLY. Address, J. H. PADGETT, Printer, Ennis, Texas.

LEAVES.

That's what Sick Headache does, when Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are taken. These tiny, sugar-coated, anti-bilious granules cure it completely. They're the smallest, the easiest to take, and the most natural remedy. No disturbance, no unpleasantness, no reaction afterward. One little Pellet at a dose regulates the whole system. Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, Dizziness, and all derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels are prevented, relieved, and permanently cured.

They're the cheapest pills you can buy at any price, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. You pay only for the good you get.

Things that seem to help Catarrh may be doing harm. Poisonous, irritating snuffs and strong, caustic solutions only drive it from the head to the lungs. Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy cures Catarrh. It's mild, soothing, cleansing, healing. Its proprietors promise $500 or a cure.

MY WIFE CANNOT SEE HOW YOU DO IT AND PAY FREIGHT.

$10.50 Buy the Oxford Improved SINGER Sewing Machine, with a complete set of attachments and guaranteed for 10 years. Shipped anywhere on 30 days' trial. No money required in advance. 75,000 now in use. World's Fair Medal awarded. Buy from factory, save dealers' and agents' profit. Write to-day for our LARGE FREE CATALOGUE. Oxford Mfg. Co., 342 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WHEATON COLLEGE,

WHEATON, ILL.

A School for Men and Women.

WINTER TERM OPENS TUESDAY JANUARY 2ND.

For Catalogue, address

CHAS. A BLANCHARD, Pres.

IF YOU
WANT WORK

that is pleasant and profitable, send us your address immediately. We teach men and women how to earn from $5 per day to $3,000 per year without having had previous experience, and furnish the employment at which they can make that amount. Capital unnecessary. A trial will cost you nothing. Write to-day and address,

E. C. ALLEN & CO.,
Box 1001. Augusta, Me.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained, and all Patent business conducted for Moderate Fees.

Our Office is Opposite U. S. Patent Office, and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A Pamphlet, "How to Obtain Patents," with names of actual clients in your State, county, or town, sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.
Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

PROPHECY:
A STUDY.

BY REV. S. F. PORTER,

A Study of Christ's Comings.

Paper Cover, 100 Pages.

Single copies, postpaid..... 25 cents.
Per 100 copies, postpaid..... $20.00.

For sale by the

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

The St. Louis Sermon

Are Secret Societies a Blessing or a Curse?

An Address by Rev. B. Carradine D. D., Pastor of the Centenary M. E. Church, St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 4, 1891.

W. McCoy writes: "That sermon ought to be in the hands of every preacher in this land, and every citizen's too."

A pamphlet of 20 pages and cover.

Sent postpaid 25 copies $1.00. Single copy 5 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

ANTI-SECRECY TRACTS.

The following numbers are in stock, and can be had at the wholesale price of 25 cents per pound:

1. National Christian Association.
1½. Testimony of Statesmen.
4. Freemasonry in the Family.
7. To the Boys who Hope to be Men.
8. Modern Heathenism.
9. Ministers at Rival Altars.
10. A Pastor's Confession.
15. Secrecy and Sin.
16. Selling Dead Horses.
17. History of Masonry.
19. Freemasonry a Christ-excluding Religion.
22. Extracts from Masonic Oaths and Penalties as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.
28. Dr. Nathaniel Colver on Masonry.
30. Masonic Oaths Null and Void.
37. Why a Christian should not be a Freemason (German).
38. Masonic Oaths and Penalties.
39. Should Freemasons be Admitted to Christian Fellowship?
41. Freemasonry a Religion.
45. Ought a Seceding Mason to Keep his Lodge Oath?

Families, Churches, Senates, Juries and Camps.

The above are the only tracts in stock in large quantities. There are a few of several other numbers. Remember that these are being retailed at wholesale prices—25 cents per pound. Keep a package of Anti-masonic tracts for use in letters.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

AGENTS AND LECTURERS.

NEW ENGLAND DEPARTMENT.—Rev. J. P. Stoddard, Agent, 218 Columbus Ave., Hotel Howland, Boston.

EASTERN DEPARTMENT.—W. B. Stoddard, Agent, No. 215, 4½ St., Washington, D. C.

NORTHERN DEPARTMENT.—Rev. W. Fenton, 74 South Robert St., St. Paul, Minn.

PACIFIC DEPARTMENT.—Rev. P. B. Williams, Philomath, Oregon.

COLLEGE AGENT, Rev. S. F. Porter Cynosure office.

OTHER LECTURERS.

C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
Rev. H. H. Hinman, Oberlin, O.
Nathan Callender Montdale Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
H. A. Day, Brighton, Mich.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
A. Mayn, Bloomington, Ind.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
W. M. Love, Osceola, Mo.
J. K. Glassford, Phoenix, Arizona.
Wm. Fenton, St. Paul, Minn.
J. S. Perry, Thompson, Conn.
Rev. E. Mathews, Ft Wayne, Ind.
E. Barnetson, Haskinville, N. Y.
D. A. Richards, Brighton, Mich.
A. W. Parry, Chicago, Ill.

Disloyal
SECRET OATHS

ADDRESS OF

JOSEPH COOK,

OF BOSTON,

AT THE

Conference of Christians

CHICAGO, 1890.

No better document of its size for general distribution has been printed. Joseph Cook's address is a national treatment of a national subject, and very valuable for reference.

Single Copies 5 cents, or 12 copies for 50 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the Initiate. By Rev. L. A. Post. 5 cents each.

THE N. C. A. BUILDING
(The gift of Philo Carpenter)
—AND OFFICE OF—
THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. MADISON STREET, CHICAGO.

The National Christian Association

PRESIDENT—Rev. A. J. Gordon, D. D., Boston, Mass.

VICE PRESIDENT—Charles A. Blanchard, President Wheaton College Ill.

GEN'L SEC'Y and TREASURER—W. I. Phillips, 221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

REC. SECRETARY—Amos Dresser, Jr. Wheaton, Ill., Box 367.

DIRECTORS—T. B. Arnold, C. A. Blanchard, E. A. Cook, J. M. Hitchcock, A. G. Johnson, J. P. Richards, E Whipple, E. R. Worrell, Edgar B. Wylie W. M. Howie, H. F. Kletzing.

The object of this Association is:

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the churches of Christ from being depraved, to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform.

STATE AUXILIARY ASSOCIATIONS

NEW ENGLAND.—Pres., Rev. J. M Foster, Boston, Mass.; Sec'y, Miss E. E Flagg, Wellesley, Mass.; Treas., L. E. Lincoln, Boston,

CONNECTICUT.—Pres., J. A. Conant, Willimantic; Sec., David J. Ellsworth, Windsor; Treas., C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.—Pres., Rev. R. W. Chesnut Marissa; Sec., Rev. J. R. Wylie, Coulterville; Treas., Rev. W. I. Phillips, Cynosure office, Chicago.

IOWA.—Pres., Rev. J. A. Greer, Columbus City; Sec., Rev. T. H. Acheson, Hopkinton; Treas., Rev. L. Mendenhall, Fairfield.

KANSAS.—Pres., Rev. C. H. Strong, Lawrence; Vice-Pres., Rev. J. L. Countermine Hiawatha; Sec., Rev. D. H. Coulter, Winchester; Treas., Joseph A. Torrence, Denison.

NEBRASKA.—Pres., Rev. W. I. Brooks Pawnee City; Vice Pres., Rev. C. G. Widen Mead; Sec., Howard P. Young, Wahoo Treas., Rev. T. H. Dabney, Hooper.

MAINE.—Pres., ——— ———, ——— Sec., I. D. Haines, Dexter; Treas., H. W Goddard, West Sidney.

MASSACHUSETTS.—Pres., S. A. Pratt; Worcester.

MICHIGAN.—Pres., D. A. Richards, Brighton; Sec., H. A. Day, Brighton; Treas Geo. Swanson, Jr., Bedford.

MINNESOTA.—Pres., S. B. Sjoblom, Fergus Falls; Cor. Sec., Wm. Fenton, St. Pau Rec. Sec., Mrs. M. F. Morrill, St. Charles Treas. Wm. H. Morrill St. Charles.

MISSOURI.—Pres., J. F. Beauchamp, Denver; Sec., M. N. Butler, Darlington; Treas. Rev. C. G. Cox, Grant City.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—Pres., Robt. A. Frohock, Alton; Sec., S. C. Kimball, New Market; Treas., James F. French, Canterbury.

NEW YORK.—Pres., Rev. S. R. Wallace Syracuse; Sec., Rev. W. H. Clark, Binghamton; Treas., Lucius Woodruff, Binghamton.

OHIO.—Pres., J. W. Martin, Mt. Perry; Rec. Sec., A. T. Vestal, Senecaville; Cor Sec. and Treas., E. Thomson, Senecaville

OREGON.—Pres., Rev. Wm. Dillon, D.D., Salem; Sec., Rev. P. B. Williams, Philomath; Treas., Samuel Terry, Canby.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Pres., Samuel S. Collins, Allegheny; Sec., J. S. T. Milligan Beaver; Treas., R. C. Wylie, Wilkinsburg.

WISCONSIN.—Pres., J. B. Galloway, Poynette; Sec., Isaiah Faris, Vernon; Treas. J. W. Wood, Baraboo.

The Christian Cynosure.

HENRY M. HUGUNIN - - - Editor.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 28, 1893.

IS CIVIL GOVERNMENT A FAILURE?

Next to the horrible question, "Is marriage a failure?" is the suggestion that civil government has failed of its purpose, and that both of these institutions must be supplanted by some human invention.

Both of these institutions are of divine origin, and are manifestly essential to civil society; yet both have been perverted to unholy purposes, and made the occasion of crime and oppression. The great multitude of divorces that occupy the time of our courts, and arrest public attention by their scandalous details, speak plainly enough of the abuse of the marriage relation, while the prevalence of crime, of mob-violence and lynchings, is a terrible attestation that civil law has been greatly perverted and largely failed of its legitimate purpose.

Statistics of crime are not pleasant and are often unprofitable reading. One feels to blush, not simply for his country but for humanity itself, when he sees the continued growth of human wickedness and the failure of both law and Gospel to arrest its progress, or even hold it in check.

The following statistics illustrate what we mean: In 1889 there were in the United States 3,568 murders; in 1890, 4,290; in 1891, 5,908; in 1892, 6,790. The following are the number of lynchings, respectively, for these years: In 1888, 144; in 1889, 175; in 1890, 126; in 1891, 193; in 1892, 235; in nine months of 1893, 167. Total of five years and nine months, 1,043.

These statistics show (1) a rapid increase of crimes against life; (2) great inefficiency in the enforcement of law; (3) a great increase in the number of lynchings, but with no effect to diminish the number of murders and other crimes which have grown with the general demoralization of society.

The practical inference for those who would make civil government a blessing, and make anarchy odious, is: 1. That we seek, first of all, to diminish the incentives to crime. Among them are the lodge and the saloon. 2. That we insist on a more careful, conscientious and rigid enforcement of civil law. 3. That we forever denounce all resorts to lynching, as not only wholly ineffective as a means of repressing crime, but as well calculated to bring civil law into disrepute, and thus sap the foundations of civil society.

TYRANNY OF ODD-FELLOWSHIP.

We are sure that Cynosure readers will be greatly interested in a recent case of lodge tyranny that has come to our notice.

It is the statement of a trustworthy informant concerning the proceedings of a lodge of Odd-fellows in connection with the burial of its dead members. In a prominent New England town a pastor had attended to providing watchers for the superintendent of his Sunday-school, who was dangerously ill. These he had selected from among members of his church, not leaving that matter to the Odd-fellows' lodge to which the sick man belonged. The sickness resulted in death. The funeral services were conducted by the pastor, and the pall-bearers were fellow-members of the deceased in the church. Then the Odd-fellows were displeased because they were not recognized either in his sickness or his burial.

Later, they had their revenge. Another family, identified with the same church, was invaded by disease and death. Representatives of the same lodge of Odd-fellows demanded that they have exclusive control of the funeral services, and the bereaved widow, not being willing to forfeit her lodge-benefits, yielded to an arrangement by which the services should be held in the meeting-house of another church whose pastor was an Odd-fellow, but whose place of worship was never visited by any of the sorrowing family or their relatives. Here two ministers of other denominations than that to which the family belonged were to officiate, and no recognition of their pastor was to be allowed.

The widow desired that prayer might be offered at her home before going to the meeting-house, and engaged her pastor for this service. He was just leaving his house to go to the house of mourning, when he received a note from the widow, stating that this privilege was refused, and that a minister of another denomination, an Odd-fellow, and a stranger to her, must be allowed to officiate as demanded by the tyranny of the order.

These are facts. Church members were not allowed to engage the services of their own pastor, but required to have strangers officiate at the burial of their dead.

Private judgment and Christianity are not recognized by the tenets of the lodges.

BOXING AS A CHRISTIAN GRACE.

In our excellent contemporary, the Young Men's Era, we observe three articles (two communications and one editorial) on the question whether the art of boxing should be introduced and cultivated in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasiums. Our astonishment is, that there should be more than one opinion respecting the matter. Especially are we astonished that a Christian man should advise that the ablest instructor in this art should be employed to give lessons. Whether such teacher should be either Corbett, Sullivan or Mitchell, the author does not say.

Do these writers forget that Jesus said, "I say unto you that ye resist not evil: but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also?" The terrible prevalence of pugilism and its deplorable consequences on public and private morals, should lead us to carefully avoid all things that tend, directly or indirectly, to this pernicious practice.

OUR WORK IN IOWA.

Under the head of "A Masonic Minister Routed," in last week's issue, honorable mention was made of the recent address of Rev. T. H. Acheson on secret societies, in the Reformed Presbyterian church at Hopkinton, Iowa, and the promptitude with which he overcame the objections of a Masonic minister to charges against the fraternity. Another correspondent, referring to Mr. Acheson's address, writes: "It was one of the best lectures to which I ever listened. The church was filled, but not a Mason was present. The Methodists gave up their services so as to attend, and most of the Presbyterians were there, except those who were Masons. The general opinion was, it was the best lecture they ever heard. The effect must be for good.

"We had such a grand convention here, the Masons seemed to think they would get a man here who would undo all that the Anti-masons had done, but they could have done no better had they been trying to help us. Rev. Mr. Geiger's lecture did not amount to anything, only as it gave Mr. Acheson a good chance to expose the fraternity and its false religion."

Mr. Acheson is a recent accession to our reform ranks, and promises to become a stalwart defender of the truth as against the secret powers of darkness.

A CHANGE OF SENTIMENT.

What ails the New York Catholic Review, that in its issue of the 24th inst. it makes these remarkable concessions? Evidently the effect of the present vigorous anti-Catholic movement is being felt:

"No legislation in favor of adopting denominational schools as part of the state system can be had unless our Protestant fellow-citizens are willing parties to it. It rests with them. They have fifty millions to our ten. If they do not wish to consent to this just solution of the school question, there is an end to hope. They need not get excited or become enraged against us. We are only a small minority of the inhabitants of the Republic. But if they are satisfied with the secular system, they could have it for all eternity, so far as we are concerned, even if we were in the majority; why, then, can they not equally respect our convictions?"

Doubtless the Roman Catholics have a right to promote denominational schools; so has any other sect. But what we protest against is the taxation of the whole people for the benefit of a part.

"Unfortunately reading parents are very scarce among our Catholics. There are many well understood causes for this fact which it is not necessary to discuss. It is a fact, however, that the great majority of Catholics in this country who were born in a generation preceding this were lacking in opportunities of education, and of course not much can be expected of them in the way of fixing upon their children's lives a habit they have themselves never had. Now it is for the children of these parents, that is to say, for the great majority of the rising generation of Catholics, that something must be done, if we want to have our Catholic people distinguished, as they ought to be, for something else than a merely mechanical profession of faith."

It was to meet the exigencies of just such parents and children that our early government established the free public school and arranged for its support by the taxation of the whole people. Their wisdom is manifest in the thousands of eminent and good men who enjoyed the advantages of these public schools, and no other, and yet have left their names and examples as incentives for the hopeful advancement of all generations through this humble but effectual medium of instruction.

—In Congress, recently, Representative McGann introduced a measure calling for an exhaustive investigation into labor abuses. It extends to every form of labor and abuse.

—Rev. A. Sims, of Uxbridge, Ont., desires to exchange, on equal terms, his anti-secrecy tracts with any of our readers for postage stamps of foreign countries, or of the United States if of very old issue; the present or late issues are not wanted.

—In the list of pastors at Aurora, Ill., a single one adds to his name the letters of "B. T. H." As he is the only pastor in the city who glories in Masonry, and works the lodges for all they are worth, the question is suggested, whether these initials are for a sign to lodge men. What do they mean?

—"Carl Schrooger" (editor of John-Three-Sixteen, Gwenndale, I. T.), gives his readers this good advice: "If the reader wants true light let in on Masonry and other secret orders, let him read the Bible and subscribe for the Christian Cynosure, Chicago. If he wants a good little supplement to that paper, why, take John-Three-Sixteen." Bro. and Sister Wolfe are working faithfully against the lodge, and undergoing the true reformer's experience—persecution.

—The brutality and lack of sense attending the popular game of foot-ball is briefly but pointedly shown in the fact, made public by the London (Eng.) Lancet, that within the year 1892, in England, 102 injuries were received by players, so serious that they required hospital treatment. In this country, says the Christian Instructor, the casualties have been numerous, and a number of deaths were reported within a few weeks. The injuries are attributed to evolutions in the manner of playing; but at its best, it appears to be an amusement to be carefully avoided. It is not conducive to Christian living.

—The progress of the universal peace movement, introducing a general system of arbitration between hostile nations, is seen in the action of important councils. The International American Conference proposed the settlement of all difficulties in this manner. At its last session the Parliament of Great Britain expressed a hope that the government would co-operate in securing a system of arbitration for the adjustment of national disputes; and President Cleveland, in his recent message, favored this proposition, expressing a desire that international quarrels should, if possible, be settled by honorable arbitration. To say nothing of the intrinsic wickedness of war, no other movement is so important, as an economic question, as international arbitration.

REFORM ON THE PACIFIC COAST (Continued from 5th page).

is striking us at this juncture, so as to keep an agent in the field.

Our good brother, W. I Phillips, of Chicago, will take the matter in hand, and devise a plan, which we hope will receive the most hearty approval and co-operation of all the members and friends of the Pacific Coast Association."

Any person desiring a copy of the paper can address the Christian Cynosure, 221 West Madison street, Chicago, or the writer,

P. B. WILLIAMS.

SECRET SOCIETIES CONDEMNED

BY GREAT MEN IN THE CHURCH.

PASTOR FISCH, of Paris, 1873:—The church in America must stand as one man against Masonry or be destroyed.

REV. JOEL SWARTZ, D. D, a renouncing Mason:—Its (Freemasonry's) religion is anti-Christian ... Its prayers are blasphemous. ... Its use of the Bible is sacrilegious. ... The whole is a compound of Judaism and paganism.

MOSES STUART, Professor in Andover Theological Seminary, Mass, 1834:—For a long time I neither knew nor cared about the subject; but recent attention to it has filled me with astonishment; and as to somethings contained in it, with horror. The trifling with oaths and with the awful name of the ever blessed God, is a feature which I cannot contemplate but with the deepest distress.

JOHN WESLEY, June, 1773:—I went to Ballymena and read a strange tract that professes to discover "the inmost recesses of Freemasonry," said to be "translated from the French original lately published at Berlin." I incline to think it is a genuine account. Only if it be, I wonder the author is suffered to live. If it be, what an amazing banter upon all mankind is Freemasonry.—N. Y. Christian Advocate, February, 1884.

ALEXANDER CAMPBELL:—I know no Temperance, Odd-fellow or Freemason fraternity that does not recognize a brotherhood with the world. "They are of the world, they speak of the world and the world heareth them." Christians, though in the world, are not of it. Any union, then, for moral purposes with the world that brings us to commune religiously with it, by the laws and usages of the institution itself, is opposed to the law and kingdom of Jesus Christ.

CHARLES G. FINNEY.—God demands and the world has a right to expect, that the church will take due action and bear a truthful testimony in respect to this institution. She cannot now innocently hold her peace. The light has come. Fidelity to God and to the souls of men require that the church, which is the light of the world, should speak out, and shoud take such action as will plainly reveal her views of the compatibility or incompatibility of Freemasonry with the Christian religion.

NATHANIEL COLVER, former pastor Tremont Temple, Boston:—I am free to say that it is my deliberate opinion that the vicious character of Masonry and its guilt-concealing and barbarous oaths are such, as not only to release all from their bonds, but also to lay upon them the solemn obligation to tear off its covering and expose its enormity. I regard it as Satan's masterpiece, a terrible snare to men. It sits at this moment as a nightmare on all the moral energies of our government, and utterly paralyzes the arm of justice.

DWIGHT L. MOODY:—Give them the truth anyway, and if they would rather leave their churches than their lodges the sooner they get out of the churches the better. I would rather have ten members who were separated from the world than a thousand such members. Come out from the lodge. Better one with God than a thousand without him. We must walk with God and if only one or two go with us it is all right. Do not let down the standard to suit men who love their secret lodges or have some darling sin they will not give up.

HENRY TATEM, an eminent Baptist pastor, Providence, R. I., 1832:—It was about fourteen years ago that I was first initiated into the lodge Within a few months after, I advanced to the Royal Arch degree, and sometime after I took the degrees of Knighthood, as they are called. I well remember the horror of my feelings when the bandage was taken from my eyes and I found myself partly naked, with men standing around me pointing at me the implements of death, and a human skull was handed me to drink from, and I was required to repeat words, awful in themselves, and which I cannot distinctly recollect, but which I believe to have been the same I find given in the explanation of that ceremony in Bernard's Light on Masonry. From that time I absented myself from the lodge and chapter. My mind was afterwards led by degrees to an examination into Masonry, which I am now satisfied is repugnant to the spirit of the religion of Christ.

JOSEPH COOK:—I do abhor the selfish, clannish spirit of secret societies.

WILLIAM OTTERBEIN, founder of the church of the United Brethren in Christ:—A Freemason cannot be a Christian.

BISHOP WARBURTON:—Each of the heathen gods, beside the worship paid to him in public, had a secret worship to which none were admitted but those who were prepared by previous ceremonies.

RICHARD S. STORRS, D. D., pastor of the Church of the Pilgrims, Brooklyn.—My judgment and feeling are both strongly opposed to the secret lodge system. I heartily agree with what Dr. Howard Crosby has so forcibly said about it.

CARDINAL MCCABE, Dublin:—Secret societies, which seem to possess a fatal charm for our people, have from time to time drawn thousands of misguided youths within the fatal circle from which there is no escape.

REV. LEBBEUS ARMSTRONG:—Among the various stratagems of Satan in opposition to God and holiness, and for the purpose of destroying the souls of men, the institution of speculative Freemasonry holds a pre eminent rank.

HENRY G. LUDLOW, pastor Spring St Presbyterian Church, New York, 1829:—I can hardly think that any candid and intelligent Master Mason can seriously assert that Masonry should be kept up. For my own part I have ever been disgusted with its nonsensical ceremonies, and ashamed of myself for submitting to them.

GEORGE F. PENTECOST, D, D., pastor of Tompkins Avenue Congregational church, Brooklyn, editor of "Words and Weapons."—I would do almost anything in my power to help on the work of rescuing all Christian men from the "grip" of Masonry and all other secret and unchristian societies. I believe that Masonry is an incalculable evil and essentially anti-Christ in its principles and influence.

H. L. HASTINGS.—Freemasonry is the one institution of this country that will not bear investigation. Schools are inspected; churches throw their doors open and invite the strictest scrutiny; political parties are examined, searched and riddled if anything like corruptness is seen or suspected in connection with them; all these institutions simply ask a fair field and no favor.

REV. J. E. ROY, D. D., Secretary American Missionary Association:—A man is not fit to be a juryman who has taken these Masonic oaths and holds to them. Such a man is not competent to be a constable or a justice of the peace. He has disqualified himself practically and really, for he has by these oaths perjured himself for the one side or the other, and so is unable to do justly in his official relation between man and man.

REV. JAMES H. BROOKES, D. D, editor of the "Truth," and pastor of Washington Avenue Presbyterian church St Louis:—It would give me pleasure to aid you in your work of seeking to bring Christians out from entangling alliances with secret societies. It seems to me that the positive injunction of the Holy Ghost, "Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers," applies particularly to those disciples of our Lord who have been led into such societies.

THE BISHOP OF BIRMINGHAM, ENGLAND:—Freemasonry is built upon the basis of a natural religion having for its foundation the honor and worship of the Supreme Architect of the Universe, but excluding the divine Incarnation and the mysteries of human redemption. Whilst using the sacred Scriptures, as Freemasonry it ignores the divine doctrines of the Christian faith. Pretending to a special and progressive illumination, it resembles, and through several of its writers even claims descent from the secret societies of Pagan Egypt, Greece and Samothrace.

REV. HENRY JONES:—On what then does the whole superstructure of Freemasonry rest but a base fabrication of wicked men, who in some dark and apostate age of the world, have risen up, united into a secret society and darkly handed down their inventions to flatter us to believe that their institution is good as having originated among wise and good men; and being ignorant of the manner in which their false pretensions would be exposed, have told us that it was establishde on certain specified facts and events, which by looking at them carefully, and comparing them with our Bible, we find never had existence?

SECRET SOCIETIES CONDEMNED

BY EMINENT EDUCATORS.

PRESIDENT F. H. M. HENDERSON, Bowdon College, Ga.:—I regard all secret societies as extremely liable to be perverted.

PRESIDENT NOAH PORTER, Yale College:—That there are serious evils connected with them cannot be questioned; that they accomplish some good is equally clear.

PRESIDENT HITCHCOCK, Amherst College:—These, at different periods, have been fruitful sources of excitement, jealousy, and heart burning among the students.

JOSEPH MOORE, President Earlham College:—The fact that Freemasonry often thwarts every effort to enforce the law against an offender who is of the fraternity, shows it to be an obstacle to moral and civil progress.

HOWARD CROSBY, D. D., Chancellor University, New York:—Thirty years ago I was a member of a college secret society, and while I had upright fellow-members, and we encouraged literary culture, I found the association was chiefly a temptation to vice.

PROF. J. R. JACQUES, Illinois Wesleyan University:—Among college students, at an age when most susceptible, secret societies tend to breed that secretive disposition which is the very opposite of the truly candid, generous, and magnanimous character.

DR BEYSCHLAG, Professor in the University of Halle:—Never entertain the idea to join the lodge for popularity's sake. It is utterly degrading to imagine pastors, men who have to deal with Christianity, the most universal and open thing in the world, wrapped up in the mummeries of Freemasonry.

PRES. J. BLANCHARD:—There have been civil and ecclesiastical pests ever since there was a government and religion; and Freemasonry is one of those pests. The Cains of humanity have rejected Christ and worshiped nature, and Nimrods have denied justice and practiced oppression, But both are combined in the lodge.

PROF. J. R. W. SLOANE, D. D., Reformed Presbyterian Theological Seminary:—But my strongest opposition to Masonry is because of its rivalry with religion. It steps in before the church, and is a false, an idolatrous religion, a religion without a Saviour and, therefore, a delusion and a snare to all who engage in it, or rest their hope upon it.

PROF. BURT G. WILDER, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.:—I am willing to hazard my position....upon the truth of the proposition that secret societies are unknown in heaven, but that they form a prominent and essential feature of life in the other locality. Light versus darkness; openness versus mystery; mutual confidence versus suspicion and distrust.

PROF. S. C. BARTLETT, D. D., Chicago Theological Seminary:—There are certain other wide spread organizations, such as Freemasonry, which, we suppose, are in their nature hostile to good citizenship and true religion, because they exact initiatory oaths of blind compliance and concealment, incompatible with the claims of equal justice toward man and a good conscience toward God.

PROF. J. G. CARSON, D. D., Xenia, Ohio:—These associations are inconsistent with the genius of Christianity, because the secrecy which they effect, and to which they bind their members by promise or oath, is unnecessary and so unwarrantable, dangerous, and ensnaring to the conscience, and, therefore, utterly opposed to that openness and publicity which Christ enjoins on his disciples both by example and precept.

PRESIDENT C. G. FINNEY, of Oberlin, 1868:—We have, then, the implied testimony of Freemasons themselves, that the Christian church ought to have no fellowship with Freemasonry as thus revealed, and that those who adhere intelligently and determinedly to such an institution have no right to be in the Christian church. In our judgment we are forced to the same conclusion, we cannot escape from it, we wish it were otherwise, we therefore sorrowfully but solemnly pronounce this judgment."

REV. WM. M. BROOKS, Pres. Tabor College.—Our faculty is a unit in opposition to secret societies, not excepting those formed for literary culture.

PRES. L. H. HAMMOND, Lebanon Valley College.—My conviction is firm that the influence of Freemasonry is baneful in whole and in part; that, religiously, it is a stumbling-block; and that, socially and politically, the benefaction it offers to one is a robbery of others.

PRES. E. K. HILL, Washington University.—I have long regarded the secret conclaves as unnecessary to any good cause, and dangerous from their irresponsibility. Especially do I think that Freemasonry, from its nature, record and prevalence, is an enemy to the political purity and social morality of our country.

PRES. H. H. GEORGE, D. D., Geneva College.—No man can, at the same time, be a lover of Christ or a Christian, and a sworn member of a Christ-dishonoring and disowning fraternity, provided he know the true character of that fraternity. No man can be innocent in going into such a fraternity without knowing its true character.

PRESIDENT J. H. FAIRCHILD, Oberlin:—The tendency to organize in secret bodies, political, social, religious and literary, seems to indicate distrust of the ordinary institutions of society, and will surely generate the distrust from which it seems to spring. The very idea of a secret combination implies a barbarous age, or a state of social anarchy in which such arrangements are necessary for safety. There is no place for it in a Christian civilization.

REV. JOSIAH BRADLEY, Principal of Rock Spring Seminary, Illinois, 1829:—Masonry is a human, and cunningly formed system of deception. Is it not rightly named "Speculative Freemasonry?" Millions have been drawn within its veil, and led away captive by its false pretensions and exhibitions of morality, charity and brotherly love. And many may still rejoice for a season in their delusions, despise reproof, and perish without remedy.

PRES. L. N. STRATTON, D. D.—One other fact worth naming is, that the oaths and secret workings of Freemasonry are out and well-known to the world. They are published in the reports of several State legislatures, and in Wendell's Supreme Court Reports of the State of New York, Vol. XIII, pp. 9–26. Their oaths are no less murderous than those taken by the Mollie Maguires, for obedience to which latter twenty-one have been tried and hung in the State of Pennsylvania.

LEONARD WOODS, D.D., Professor in Andover, 1829:—Now I have never seen or heard of any evidence, of any kind or degree, in support of the pretended antiquity of Freemasonry; and I suppose the same is true of all others. What then can we do, consistently with reason and common sense, but to withhold our belief. As to probable evidence; it would be very proper to inquire, whether it can be reconciled to the acknowledged character of Solomon, and of the twelve apostles to suppose, that they belonged to a society, established on the principles and practicing the rites of Freemasonry. If these principles and rites are what the community at large understand them to be, and what Freemasons themselves understand them to be, an answer to this inquiry would be no very difficult thing.

PRES. TIMOTHY DWIGHT, D. D., in a Fast Day Sermon, Yale College.—These [the doctrines of Illuminism] were: that God is nothing; that government is a curse, and authority an usurpation; that civil society is the only apostasy of man; that the possession of property is robbery; that chastity and natural affection are mere prejudices, and that adultery, assassination, poisoning and other crimes of a similar nature are lawful and even virtuous. A large branch of the Masonic Societies in Germany and France had already adopted the same objects, as the great and controlling ones of all their personal and united labors. Here secrecy furnished the most advantageous opportunities for the formation of every design and the most advantageous opportunities for its successful execution.

James Madison: "From the number and character of those who now support the charges against Masonry, I cannot doubt that it is at least susceptible of abuse, outweighing any advantages promised by its patrons."

THE HOME.

THE LOVE OF GOD.

As flows the river calm and deep
In silence toward the sea,
So floweth ever and ceaseth never
The love of God to me.

What peace he bringeth to my heart,
Deep as the soundless sea!
How sweetly singeth the soul that clingeth,
My loving Lord, to thee!

How calm at even sinks the sun
Beyond the clouded West!
So, tempest-driven into the haven,
I reach the longed-for rest.

—Selected.

THAT TRAMP—A TRUE STORY.

BY MRS. VICTORIA ALEXANDRA STONE.

I am not advocating the cause of tramps. I am well aware that thousands of the miserable wretches who infest the country are practically outlaws. But the case in question which I am about to relate is full of pathos. I doubt if there are many others like it. Doubtless among the vast army of tramps there are many warm hearts and noble natures; but, as a general thing, the opposite is the rule. Holy Writ saith, "Who is my neighbor?" "Am I my brother's keeper?" The tramp-question is a difficult one, and has puzzled the heads of the wisest men of the country. But I must not stop to moralize, but must go on with my story.

It was the fall of 1879. My father had died only a short time before. An old friend and schoolmate invited me to spend a few months with her. "I am in such a hurry about my sewing," she said, "and you can help me." We had tenants living in the house with us, and I knew mother would not be lonely, and so I concluded to go. I had been with Fannie but a few hours before she told me of a man who had been working for them. "He is a tramp," she said, "and he came from the South. Jimmy" (her husband) "likes him, and he is the best workman I ever saw. He is a gentleman, too, and well-educated. I don't know what he is tramping about the country for. But you will see him to-night, and then you can judge for yourself."

Sure enough, when Jimmy came home that night, the tramp was with him; and after Fannie's description of him I looked upon him with interest. He was slender, of medium height, smooth-shaven, with dark hair, and wore dark-cloth pantaloons, a U. S. military cap, and a soldier's dress-coat, buttoned to the chin.

He said his name was Robert Morgan. It might have been a fictitious name; most likely it was. He never gave any account of his past life, except that he had been in the army. He was always pleasant, cheerful and happy. The children liked him; he told them stories, and read and sang to them. He was a good singer, and I well remember how, one evening, he sang "The Grave of Bonaparte" with such power and pathos that my enthusiasm was kindled to a degree that I resolved, on going home, to look up and read the Life of Napoleon, which I had not read since I was a child.

I had been there nearly two weeks, when, one morning, I found Fannie and the baby both ill. I could not do all the housework, and told Fannie so. "I believe I will go home to-morrow," I said. She raised her eyes slowly from the sewing-machine where she was sitting and said, "I would not wonder if that tramp went away to-day." "What are you going to send him away for?" I said. "Because we cannot keep him," she said; "we cannot afford to hire him." I said no more, but my heart ached for the poor fellow, who, notwithstanding his hard lot, was so happy and joyous. He was pleasant and sociable at dinner, waited on the children, and made himself so useful that I wondered how Jimmy could have the heart to send him away. But after dinner, as if by a preconcerted signal, every one left the room; and a few moments afterward Jimmie entered the room with Robert. He sat down and said: "Well, Robert, I guess I shall have to discharge you. Here is a satchel to put your clothes in. You have done pretty well by me, but I cannot keep you." "I will work all winter for my board," said Robert. "Will you?" said Jimmie; "that's good; but I cannot keep you; and now good bye." He shook hands with him and went out.

Poor Robert the tramp sat for a moment as if dazed and stunned; and then, dropping his face upon his hands and bowing them upon his knees, I never witnessed such a perfect passion of grief as was his. His shoulders heaved with sobs, and the tears trickled through his fingers to the floor. At last he raised his head and cast a long, shuddering, despairing look about the room. Poor fellow! doubtless he recalled the many happy evenings he had spent in that room, which were now, alas! gone forever.

At last he stooped, and with almost feverish haste began to crowd his scanty wardrobe into the satchel. Although I had never spoken to him except to exchange the merest civilities, yet I could not refrain from speaking to him then, in his sore trouble and distress. So I went to him, and I said, "I am very sorry for you," scarcely above a whisper. He heard me, and did not look up, but I saw two large tears plash upon the floor. "Do you know where you are going?" He shook his head. "Have you no friends, no one who can help you?" Another shake, and he dropped his face upon his hands and again his shoulders heaved with sobs. I went into the room where Fannie was, with a feeling of pain and injustice in my heart.

"Why, Fannie," I said, "that tramp is crying." She looked up from the sewing-machine where she was sitting, and said, "I cannot help it; we cannot keep him." "But you say he does more work than Will." "Well, we have hired Will for the year." "But he says he will work for his board." "We cannot keep him," she said; "Jimmie won't let him stay."

I went back to the kitchen. Robert had finished packing his satchel and had risen to go. He cast another long, shuddering glance around the room where he had spent so many happy hours, and then turned to the door. As he reached it he raised his sorrowful, tear-stained face to mine, nodded, lifted the fingers of his right hand to the visor of his cap, like a military salute, and passed out. I saw him pass slowly through the mill-yard, and then I saw him no more.

This was in January, and I went home soon afterwards. February departed amid driving snows and biting frosts. March swept itself away amid wailing winds and pouring rains, and it was once more April. One sweet sunny spring morning I sat by the south window where the lilac buds were swelling, reading the local paper, when suddenly my eyes fell upon an item which caused my heart to beat quickly. This is what it was: "Drowned in the Allegany River.—The body of an unknown man was found floating in the Allegany river early last Sunday morning. He could not be identified. He was of medium height, slender, smooth-shaven, with dark hair, wore dark pantaloons, and a military dress-coat buttoned to the chin."

My eyes involuntarily filled with tears. "And so he is at rest at last," I said. "Poor Robert! poor unfortunate boy!"

I saw Fannie not long after that, and spoke to her of the item. Yes, she had read it. "What do you think?" I said; "don't you think that was Robert?" She raised her eyes slowly from the sewing-machine, where, it seemed to me, she was always sitting, and said, "Well, I think it was." "Think it was? I know it was."

Many years have passed since then, yet often at the still hour of midnight a sad, sorrowful face rises before me, and I think whatever may have been his lot, whatever he may have suffered from friendlessness, hunger and cold, only God knows what was the fate of poor Robert the tramp.

Steamburgh, N. Y.

A NEW DEGREE.

In a recent prayer-meeting, a brother arose, saying that he knew very little about theology, that he was no D. D., but he was an "S. S.—a sinner saved," and that he desired to be "a soul-saver." This certainly is one of the best gifts which we are exhorted earnestly to covet. Every disciple of Christ should be not only a "sinner saved," but a "soul-saver." The first being secured, the second should engage his most earnest thought. To become a winner of souls is a most praiseworthy ambition. Among the many objects which men seek this should hold a prominent place. It should be the great inspiration of their lives. They should strive for excellence in this divine science. They should study to show themselves approved unto God, workmen that need not be ashamed. They should seek proficiency in this with an ardor more intense than that evoked by any lower pursuit. Wealth, intellectual honors, and political successes grow pale and lose their attractiveness before the transcendent glory of saving men. "They that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars forever and ever."

THE SILENT WOMAN.

As we live in a progressive age and God in his divine wisdom has called the "weaker vessels" to the front, both in the church and moral reform, (which has puzzled the scientific world,) and thousands of men who only know a few passages of Scripture, among the most prominent in their memory is "Let your women keep silence in the churches."

All will admit that singing breaks silence, and a congregation would be startled were a minister to say in the opening service, "Now, brethren, you sing, but sisters, you must be silent." We fancy we would hear our good sisters say, Why, singing is the employment of the redeemed in heaven, and did not Christ pray, "Thy will be done on earth as it is done in heaven?" The great Head of the church in his divine arrangement has different departments in his service for the promotion of his cause, and all are ready to admit that the male portion of the church are more experienced and better adapted to attend to the finance and governmental portion of the church than females, who are generally busied with their family cares and household duties. But in Christ Jesus "there is neither male nor female." Gal. 3: 28.

Therefore in the service of God they are on an equality with their brethren to sing, pray, exhort and preach. And for scholarship, piety and zeal they frequently excel the brotherhood, and, judging from a human standpoint, more of the feminine sex will reach the celestial city than the masculine. But as to their duty and privileges, let us refer to the "Law and Testimony," as our infallible guide, for by it we stand or fall. After God had led the children of Israel safely over the Red Sea, "Miriam, the prophetess, the sister of Aaron, took a timbrel in her hand and all the women went out after her with timbrels and with dances, and Miriam answered them, Sing ye unto the Lord, for he hath triumphed gloriously, the horse and his rider hath he thrown into the sea." Ex. 15: 20, 21.

Deborah, the prophetess, who judged Israel, went in front of ten thousand men and victory came through a woman. Judges 4: 4–7.

The prophet speaks, "Rise up ye women that are at ease and tremble." Isa. 11: 33.

Six hundred and forty-one years before the birth of Christ, when the Book of the Law had been lost for a time and found in the house of the Lord by Hilkiah the High Priest, who with other prominent men in Israel were directed by the King to go to Huldah, the prophetess, and "inquire of the Lord for me and for the people and for all Judah" (2 Kings 22: 8–14, and Judges 4: 4, 5), surely that was a great honor conferred on the "weaker vessel," who spake by inspiration of the Holy Ghost.

Joel the prophet declared that in the latter days God "shall pour out of his Spirit upon all flesh, and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy." Joel 2: 28, 29. This was clearly exemplified eight hundred years following, on the memorable day of Pentecost. Acts 2: 16–18.

At the resurrection of Christ the angel said unto the women, "Come, see the place where the Lord lay, and go quickly and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead. And as they went to tell his disciples, behold, Jesus met them, saying, All hail, and they came and held him by the feet, and worshiped him. Then said Jesus unto them, Be not afraid; go tell my brethren that I go into Galilee, and there shall they see me." Matt. 28: 6–10. Here evidently the first resurrection sermon was preached by those noble women, and who can deny it.

We have a short sketch of Anna, the prophetess, "a widow of about fourscore and four years, who departed not from the temple, but served God with fastings and prayers night and day. And at the age of eight days the babe Jesus, being brought into the temple to be circumcised, and Anna coming in at that instant, gave thanks likewise unto the Lord, and spake of him to all them that looked for redemption in Jerusalem." Luke 2: 37, 38.

After the ascension of Christ, that noble band of one hundred men and women "went up into an upper room. These all continued with one accord in prayer and supplication with the women, and Mary, the mother of Jesus." Acts 1: 13, 14. Who that believes the divine record would venture to say that those women were silent while waiting for the baptism of the Holy Ghost?

"Philip, the evangelist, had four daughters which did prophesy." Acts 21: 9.

Paul commended Phœbe to the church at Rome and called her the servant of the church. Rom. 14: 1. And to the church at Philippi he charged them to "help those women who labored with me in the gospel, whose names were written in the book of life." Phil. 4: 3.

For some time the writer has been impressed to write a communication in vindication of the sisterhood in the church, thousands of whom in the so-called churches with their brilliant talents and zeal for God are suppressed and held in bondage by their leaders, and not suffered to pray in the congregation, neither speak of what Jesus has done for their souls, neither exhort or preach. To such we would inquire in the language of the inspired apostle, "Whether it be right in the sight of God to hearken unto men more than unto God?" Acts 4: 19.

The position we have taken in this article is, in our opinion, so clearly set forth in the Bible to convince the most skeptical men and women that God approves of women declaring the story of the cross as well as men, so he that readeth may understand.—Rev. John Fohl, in the Earnest Christian.

OBEYING THE WIFE.

A Scotch clergyman, just as he had told the bridegroom to love and honor his wife, was surprised to hear the man interject the words "and obey." The clergyman was going on with the service, when the groom again interposed, with emphasis, "ay, and obey, ye ken!" A few years afterward the clergyman met the man. "D'ye mind, sir, yon day when ye married me, and when I wad insist upon vowing to obey my wife? Well, ye nay now see that I was in the right. Whether ye wad or no, I have obeyed her; and, behold, I am the only man that has a two-story house in the hale toun!" The Scotchman went even further than Franklin, who said: "The man who would thrive must ask his wife."

OLD JACK IN A SNOW-STORM.

Some years since a party of surveyors had just finished their day's work in the northwestern part of Illinois, when a violent snow-storm came on. They started for their camp.

The wind was blowing very hard, and the snow drifting so as to nearly blind them. When they thought they had nearly reached their camp, they all at once came upon tracks in the snow. These they looked at with care, and found, to their dismay, that they were their own tracks.

It was now plain that they were lost on the great prairie, and that if they had to pass the night there in the cold and the snow, the chance was that not one of them would be alive in the morning. While they were all shivering with fear and with cold, the chief surveyor caught sight of one of their horses, a gray pony known as "Old Jack," and said: "If any one can show us our way to camp in this blinding snow, Old Jack can do it. I will take off his bridle and let him loose, and we will follow him. I think he will show us the way to our camp."

The horse, as soon as he found himself free, threw his head in the air, as if proud of the trust. Then he snuffed the breeze and gave a loud snort, which seemed to say, "Come on, boys. Follow me: I'll lead you out of this scrape."

He then turned in a new direction and walked off, and the men followed him. They had not gone more than a mile when they saw the cheerful blaze of their camp-fires. They all gave a loud hurrah at the sight.

They felt grateful to God for their safety, and threw their arms around Old Jack's neck to thank him for what he had done. I know this is a true story, for my father was the chief of the party on the occasion. And we know the parties and that it is true.—Editor of our Dumb Animals.

MY FATHER KNOWS.

In one of the public schools of a large city, while the school was in session, a transom window fell out with a crash. By some means the cry of "fire" was raised, and a terrible panic ensued. The scholars rushed into the street, shrieking in wild dismay. The alarm extended to the teachers, also, one of whom, a young lady, actually jumped from the window. Among hundreds of children with whom the building was crowded, was one girl, among the best in the school, who, through all the frightful scene, maintained entire composure. The color, indeed, forsook her cheeks; her lips quivered; the tears stood in her eyes; but she moved not. After order had been restored, and her companions had been brought back to their places, the question was asked her how she came to sit so still, without apparent alarm, when everybody else was in such a fright. "My father," said she, "is a fireman, and knows what to do in such a case, and he told me if there was an alarm of fire in the school, I must just sit still." What a beautiful illustration of faith! "My father told me so, and my father knows!"

This is the gist of the whole matter—implicit, unfaltering trust in our heavenly Father.—Lutheran Observer.

A CHILD'S PRAYER OF CONSECRATION.

Jesus, bless a little child,
Make me useful, make me mild;
Let me, every day I live,
Something to thy service give.

Lord, I have a pair of hands,
They shall do thy blest commands;
Here also a pair of feet,
They shall run thy ways complete.

Sanctify also my eyes,
Let them not thy laws despise;
Then, O Lord, behold my tongue,
Help me bridle it while young.

Bless my ears and let them hear
Of thy mercy and thy fear;
Take the seat of life (my heart),
And thy love to it impart.

Let my voice thy praises sing,
As the happy birds of spring;
Let my deeds be good and right,
Let me walk in heavenly light.

Take my sister and my brother,
Take my father and my mother,
Take my money, all my toys,
Take my playmates, girls and boys;
Take them all and let them be Consecrated, Lord, to thee.

—Rev. C. P. Jones, in "Hope."

TEMPERANCE.

THE DEVIL'S INCUBATORS.

Most people know something of the modern way of hatching out chickens by machinery. It is an ingenious way of saving time, and hatching large numbers of fowls at any season of the year. Satan also has his pet methods of hatching out drunkards, and shows his usual wily nature in the many kinds of such methods. He does not stop at one or two kinds, but he has room in hell for all the drunkards he can make, and he just goes at the business by the wholesale and multiplies his incubators everywhere.

The army of drunkards is recruited from the ranks of the children. There is the place where Satan's arts are most displayed, and most terrible are the results. We heard once of a man who found a small egg in the woods and from curiosity put it in the incubator with hens' eggs. When it hatched it was a serpent, that began at once to slaughter the helpless little chickens and caused some trouble until it was killed.

So the devil's incubators are hatching out fiends who destroy all they come in contact with and are more dangerous to life than any serpent or wild beast. In cities and towns the saloon is the worst tool the devil uses to destroy.

In St. Louis the groceries which sell beer and wines for family use are on almost every street. Children are sent to these places daily and become accustomed to seeing and handling the dangerous stuff. The practice prevails in some such places of giving a small treat to children who buy something. This is to encourage custom.

We have been informed of a grocery saloon in Chicago which issues tickets, giving one to each child when they buy something, and these tickets call for a drink of some kind. The child that gets the largest number of tickets in a given time has a premium of a number more of free tickets entitling them to so many drinks of beer! This may go on without the parents' knowledge. It is unsafe to send a child into any place where liquor is sold. Even drug stores are sometimes dangerous. Then the prevalent habits of people in general of taking soda water and other light drinks on every occasion encourage strong drinks and help form the habit of buying something stronger than water. Patent medicines and homemade wines come under the head of the devil's incubators, and great is the number thus destroyed.—Vanguard, St. Louis.

NUGGETS.

Medical men are becoming more and more alive to the important fact that many men are now dying of drink who were never drunkards, and possibly were never once drunk. The moderate use of alcoholics produces undue stimulation and irritation of the brain, the stomach and other organs, and thus brings about disease and death.

The white ribbon shall float, the white cross shall gleam, the white shield shall be held up, and our souls shall be saved. Our sons shall be purified, our daughters shall be held in reverence. God shall bless us, and all the ends of the earth shall fear him.—Frances E. Willard.

So long as the saloon door stands ajar at every corner of the street, the affairs of cities will probably be managed by men who are not above purchasing the privilege from the breweries. It is not a cheerful outlook even for the most confident optimist.

Fifty thousand persons last year endorsed the petition to abolish the smoking compartment of the palace cars. Mrs. E. B. Ingalls, National Superintendent of Narcotics, has had it bound in book form, and will present it to Messrs. Webb and Pullman.

The thirty-fifth report of the Reformatory and Refuge Union states that in Great Britain and Ireland 145,000 persons are every year committed to prison as drunkards, of whom 112,000 are men and the rest women.

Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage says: "Put into my hand the money wasted in tobacco in the United States of America, and I will clothe, feed, and shelter all the suffering poor on this continent."

The temperance club and coffee-house movement in England took active shape in 1871. Strange to say, the idea was suggested by the American evangelist, Dwight L. Moody.

"Let whisky alone and it will let you alone," is an old saying, but there never was a greater falsehood put in so few words.—Los Angeles (Cal.) Prohibitionist.

A significant fact is shown by the latest census, that the States where crime is not increasing faster in proportion than the population are prohibition States.

When your old party friend tells you he is opposed to the liquor traffic, ask him what he has done to prove his opposition.—Greenville (O.) Transcript.

During the year ending in July, 1892, there were forty-four cigarettes manufactured for every man, woman and child in the United States.

Horace Greeley said: "Show me a drinking man who does not use tobacco, and I will show you a white blackbird."

Thirty-four States and the District of Columbia have laws forbidding the sale of tobacco to all persons under sixteen.

A teacher of long experience testifies that she believes seven out of every ten boys smoke before they are fourteen.

Two prominent tobacco dealers said recently that they sold more cigarettes to girls than to boys.

BIBLE LESSON.

STUDIES IN THE BOOKS OF MOSES.

LESSON I.—First Quarter, 1894.—January 7.

SUBJECT.—The First Adam.—Genesis 1: 26-31, and 2: 1-3.

GOLDEN TEXT.—So God created man in his own image.—Gen. 1: 27.

Open the Bible and read the lesson.

DAILY READINGS.—M.—Gen. 1: 26-31; 2: 1-3. T.—Gen. 1: 1-25. W.—John 1: 1-14. T.—1 John 1: 1-10. F.—Rev. 1: 4-20. S.—Ps. 90: 1-17. S.—Psalm 8: 1-9.

COMMENTS BY E. E. FLAGG.

1. The creation of man—vs. 26–28. "And God said, Let us make man in our own image." The plural here gives us a hint of the doctrine of the Trinity. The first and second chapters of Genesis evidently contain two separate accounts of the creation of man, taken from different sources. Some have thought that the first had reference to the pre-Adamite races. But science has not as yet presented us with any actual proof that men had any existence before Adam, and it is better for the purposes of our lesson to pass by these disputed points and think of the whole history as one account. 'In our image" implies several things. (1) A moral likeness. Paul speaks of being renewed after the image of God in knowledge, righteousness and true holiness, by which we see in what that image consisted before it was obliterated by sin. Knowledge of our Creator; of his character and of his laws. Righteousness, which is that knowledge put into everyday practice. True holiness, the great distinguishing attribute of deity, which we must possess if we would be like him on earth, or gaze upon his glorious face hereafter. (2) Dominion over the earth and the animal kingdom, as God's vicegerent, having in a limited sphere something of the same power which he exercises over the whole universe. (3) It follows that this was intended to be a merciful and beneficent rule, for one made in the likeness of God could not rule any other way. Humane societies and bands of mercy are doing more than the simple checking of cruelty to animals. They are helping to restore in our fallen humanity some of those Godlike lineaments which were in the first Adam, when he and the brute creation dwelt in peace and harmony:—he as their lord and ruler, and they as his docile subjects. Such harmony existed between the poet-naturalist Thoreau and the wildest denizens of the wood, so that the squirrels played familiarly about him and fed from his hand; and travelers tell us that in unexplored regions where no hunter's gun has ever been heard the birds have no fear of man. (4) This was a joint rule. "Male and female created he them." God's blessing was to both, without distinction of sex. Their equality was lost in the fall, but restored through the second Adam. Gal. 3: 28. We find no more warrant in this old Mosaic chronicle for requiring of women either a higher standard of purity than her brother-man, or for putting her on an inferior footing as regards her rights and privileges.

2. The vegetable world.—vs. 29–31. "Behold, I have given you every green herb bearing seed." Contrast these words with verse 3 of chapter 9, and we shall see that the antedeluvian race were vegetarians. This may be one cause of their greater longevity. Savage races live by hunting. As they grow civilized they begin to till the ground and eat of its fruits. The tendency is always as men reach the highest civilization to depend less on meat and substitute a vegetable diet in its place. There is no doubt that such a diet tends to reduce intemperance, to give better health, clearer brains, purer blood and longer lives; and in that state of perfect civilization to which we look forward as the millenium, there is reason to think that in the matter of food, as well as in other things, the human race will revert to these early primal conditions.

3. The Sabbath instituted.—vs. 1–3. When God made man, the work of creation was finished. "And he rested on the seventh day from all his work which he had made." Science confirms the divine record, for no new species has ever been known to come into existence of either plants or animals since this closing act in the great drama of creation. God's work as Creator has ceased so far as this world is concerned, and we are now living in his Sabbath of rest. "And God blessed the seventh day and sanctified it." He knew the needs of his creatures, and therefore set apart one day in seven for the recuperation of his physical nature, and to allow time for meditation, for reading his Word and communion with him. The Sabbath is the oldest of all existing institutions. On its preservation intact rests the safety of the state and the family. It is where this day is best observed that we find the most stable governments, the highest standard of morality, and the widest diffusion of intelligence. The infidel leaders of the French Revolution tried substituting one day in ten, but the experiment failed, and it was thus practically proved that one day in seven is the right proportion. It is a singular fact that even tools and machinery will last the longer and do better work if allowed sabbatical periods of rest. To the workingman the Sabbath is a boon of inestimable price, and he is no friend of labor who desires the introduction of the continental Sunday. If he begins when a young man, he can obtain a liberal education by the time he is forty or fifty, if he eschews the Sunday newspaper, and devotes his one day in seven to the most elevating and instructive reading he can find, giving the Bible, that compendium of the oldest and grandest literature in the world, the first place. Rev. Wilbur F. Crafts has pointed out this fact, and very truly called the Sabbath "the poor man's college." Let us guard jealously as patriots every movement which would tend to rob our country of her Sabbaths.

LITERATURE.

READINGS FOR LEISURE MOMENTS: A Collection of Miscellanies. By H. L. Hastings, editor of the "Christian." One vol., pp. 382. Boston: Published by H. L. Hastings, 47 Cornhill. Price $1,00.

The spirit of the book is found in its earnestness, devotion and practical application to the affairs of common life. It consists of nearly 200 short essays, distinguished for their pungency and wisdom. Plaindealing with the foibles of human nature, with valuable bits of counsel, are prominent features. In any home where it is carefully read, its influence must be highly salutary. Christianity has, in such works as this, a firm support and the young an excellent monitor. It should be widely circulated.

CURRENT PERIODICALS.

The holiday issue of the Cottage Hearth presents several seasonable stories. The opening tale, Kane of the Southern Star, by Flora Haines Loughead, pictures the uncertainties as well as the pathos of life in Western mining camps, and is followed by a poem appropriate to the season from the pen of Sara King Wiley. Lieut. H. P. Whitmarsh describes an illustrated visit to Vesuvius and Kilauea. The Vicarious Popularity of Prof. Max Stevens is an amusing account of mistaken identity. The Money Club's Christmas Tide gives an insight into the lives of the other half, about whose lives we know so little. Mag, by Minnie Quinn; a poem, I Love You; Marjorie's Scheme, by Kate D. Sweetzer; an article on the Dead Letter Office Museum, and the last part of Trouble in Dark Hollow, by Will Allan Dromgoole, complete this excellent number. The regular departments are of interest to all housewives. Many practical hints may be found on the pages devoted to Odds and Ends from Everywhere. W. A. Wilde & Co., Boston. Price, 15 cents.

RELIGIOUS NEWS.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL.

—Devoted managers of Desplaines Camp-meeting Association are early in the field with their dates for next year. The camp-meeting will open on Thursday evening, July 20, and close on the second following Sunday night. The grounds will be fenced, and a small admission fee will be asked on secular days of the week only, the gates being freely opened on Sunday. Drs. Jackson and Burns will superintend the meetings.

—There are signs of steady progress toward an organic union of the different Methodist bodies in Australia. An outline of the constitution, published in the South Australian Register, says: "It is proposed that the church shall be called 'The Methodist Church of Australasia,' to be governed by general and annual conferences."

PRESBYTERIAN.

—The Presbyterians report a decrease of more than forty thousand dollars in their mission collections during the present year.

MISCELLANEOUS.

—Never before have the colored ministers and churches taken such an active interest in aiding to reduce the number of liquor saloons in Washington as they are doing at this time. A special sermon was preached by one of their ministers on the subject last Sunday, in which he correctly told his hearers that the liquor-dealer, whose character, he declared, is no better than the thieves who robbed the travelers between Jerusalem and Jericho, is the worst foe the colored man has.

WHAT PATRIOTS AND CHRISTIANS SAY.

CHIEF JUSTICE MARSHALL was the intimate friend and biographer of Washington, and was himself a Freemason in his youth. Marshall left the lodge in 1793. He had then for some sixteen years been acquainted with Washington, who died six years later. Marshall wrote to Hon. John Bailey from Richmond, Oct. 18, 1833, of Washington and Freemasonry: "I do not recollect ever to have heard him utter a syllable on the subject."

GEORGE WASHINGTON, to Friends in 1794, Quoted by Myron Holley: "The real people occasionally assembled in order to express their sentiments on political sentiments, ought never to be confounded with permanent, self-appointed societies, usurping the right to control constituted authorities, and to dictate to public opinion. While the former was entitled to respect, the latter was incompatible with all government, and must either sink into general dis-esteem, or finally overturn the established order of things."

JOHN MARSHALL: "I never did utter the words ascribed to me, nor any other words importing the sentiment they convey. 'I never did say, 'Freemasonry is a jewel of the utmost value, that the pure in heart and life can only appreciate it fully, and that in a free government it must, it will be sustained and protected.' The fact mentioned in the resolution, that I have been in a lodge but once, so far as I can recollect, for nearly forty years, is evidence that I have no disposition to volunteer in this controversy, as the zealous partisan which this language would indicate."—Letter to Hon. John Bailey, Oct. 18, 1833.

HON. SAMUEL DEXTER, in an Open Letter to the Grand Master of Mass., 1798: "If there be no very important reason for upholding Masonry at a moment like the present, there is a reason against it. The system of the destroyers of human virtue and happiness is to undermine in the dark the castle that cannot be carried by storm. Secret agency has overthrown all the republics of Europe, and an extended, secret, leveling, self-created society, without any valuable object of pursuit, and embracing bad characters as well as good, cannot be the subject of approbation of an anxious patriot."

GEN. HENRY SEWELL, a Companion of Washington: "I was initiated an Entered Apprentice to the Masonic rites in October, 1777, at Albany, soon after the capture of Burgoyne, being then an officer in the American army..... I was led by the influence of this 'Perfect Rule of faith and practice,' during the year 1784, to view speculative Masonry in a shape still more deformed. Its character appeared to be selfishness, because restricted to its own members; its religion, deism, because entirely devoid of the Gospel. Its history appeared fabulous; its claims to antiquity, unsustainable; its titles, tulsome; its rites, barbarous and absurd; its oaths, extra-judicial, unlawfully imposed and blindly taken; and the penal sanctions annexed, horrid and impious."

HON. WILLIAM H. SEWARD, Speech in the Senate: "Secret societies, sir? Before I would place my hand between the hands of other men, in a secret lodge, order, class or council, and bending on my knee before them, enter into combination with them for any object, personal or political, good or bad, I would pray to God that that hand and that knee might be paralyzed, and that I might become an object of pity and even the mockery of my fellow men. Swear, sir! I, a man, an American citizen, a Christian, swear to submit myself to the guidance and direction of other men, surrendering my own judgment to their judgments, and my own conscience to their keeping! No. No, sir. I know quite well the fallibility of my own judgment, and my liability to fall into error and temptation. But my life has been spent in breaking the bonds of the slavery of men. I, therefore, know too well the danger of confiding power to irresponsible hands, to make myself a willing slave."

GOVERNOR RITNER, in response to a communication from the Legislature of Pennsylvania, prepared a vindication of General Washington from the stigma of adherence to secret societies, in which he proves from authentic documents:

1. That in 1768 Washington had ceased regular attendance on the lodge.

2. That in 1798, shortly before his death, his opinions were the same as thirty years before when thirty-six years old.

3. That he was never "Grand Master" or "Master" of any particular lodge.

4. That in 1781, as appears by the record of King David's lodge, Newport, Rhode Island, it was not agreeable to Washington to be addressed even as a private Mason.

5. That all the letters said to be written by Washington to lodges are spurious.

Standard Works

—ON—

SECRET SOCIETIES

FOR SALE BY THE

National Christian Associat'n

221 West Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois

TERMS:—Cash with order, or if sent by express C. O. D. at least $1.00 must be sent with order as a guaranty that books will be taken. Books at retail prices sent postpaid. Books by Mail are at risk of persons ordering, unless 10 cents extra is sent to pay for registering them, when their safe delivery is guaranteed. Books at retail ordered by express, are sold at 10 per cent discount and delivery guaranteed, but not express paid. Postage stamps taken for small sums. ☞ A liberal discount to dealers.

ON FREEMASONRY.

Freemasonry Illustrated. A complete exposition of the seven degrees of the Blue Lodge and Chapter. Profusely illustrated. Complete work of 640 pages, in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 75 cents. First three degrees (376 pages), in cloth, 75 cents. Paper covers, 40 cents.

Knight Templarism Illustrated. A full illustrated ritual of the six degrees of the Council and Commandery. A book of 341 pages. In cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.

Scotch Rite Masonry Illustrated. The complete illustrated ritual of the entire Scottish Rite, in two volumes, comprising all the Masonic degrees from 3rd to 33rd inclusive. The first three degrees are common to all the Masonic Rites, and are fully and accurately given in "Freemasonry Illustrated." Vol. I. of "Scotch Rite Masonry Illustrated" comprises the degrees from 3rd to 18th inclusive. Vol. II. of "Scotch Rite Masonry Illustrated" comprised the degrees from 19th to 33rd inclusive, with the signs, grips, tokens and passwords from 1st to 33rd degree inclusive. Price per volume, paper cover, 65 cents each. In cloth, $1.00 each.

Hand-Book of Freemasonry. By E. Ronayne, Past Master of Keystone Lodge No. 639, Chicago. Gives the complete standard ritual of the first three degrees of Freemasonry. New edition, 274 pages. Bound flexible cloth covers. 50 cents.

Freemasonry Exposed. By Capt. William Morgan. The genuine old Morgan book republished. 25 cents each.

Allyn's Ritual of Freemasonry by Avery Allyn contains the fully Illustrated Ritual of the Blue Lodge, Chapter Council and Commandery, 11 of the Scotch Rite Degrees, Several Masonic side degrees and what is termed a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, the Orange and Odd-fellows Societies. Price in cloth $5.00.

Duncan's Masonic Ritual and Monitor. Profusely illustrated with explanatory engravings, and containing the ritual and work of the order for the seven degrees, including the Royal Arch. Though extensively used as an Instruction Book and one of the best in the market it is not as accurate as "Freemasonry Illustrated," the first book on catalogue. Price in cloth, $2 50.

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry. Containing the ceremonies of Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated. Although extensively used in conferring the higher degrees, it is not only very incomplete but inaccurate especially as regards the first seven degrees, and as to the higher degrees it gives but a description and general idea of the degrees rather than the full ritual. Price in cloth, $1.25; Paper covers, 75c.

Look to the East. A Ritual of the first three Masonic Degrees by Ralph Lester. Price in cloth $2.00. Notwithstanding the high price this book is very inferior in every way to Freemasonry Illustrated or The Handbook of Freemasonry at a quarter the price.

Ecce Orienti. The Complete Standard Ritual of the First Three Masonic Degrees in Cypher, with complete Floor Charts of Initiating, Passing and Raising a Candidate. Pocket size, Full Roan, Flap, $2.50.

Cabala. The Complete Standard Ritual of the Chapter Masonic Degrees; 4th to 7th inclusive, in Cypher. Giving the degrees of Mark Master, Past Master, Most Excellent Master and Royal Arch, Pocket size, Full Roan, Flap, $2.50.

Council of the Orient. The Complete Standard Ritual of Council Masonic Degrees in Cypher, 8th to 10th inclusive. Giving the Degrees of Royal Master, Select Master and Super Excellent Master. Pocket size, full Roan, flap, $2.50.

Knights of the Orient. The complete Ritual of the Commandery Masonic Degrees, Knights of the Red Cross, Knight Templar and Knight of Malta, 11th to 18th degrees. Pocket size, full Roan, flap, $2.50.

The Mystic Shrine Illustrated. An Illustrated Ritual of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. This is a Side Masonic degree conferred only on Knights Templar and on Thirty-two degree Masons. 15 cts. each.

Light on Freemasonry. By Elder D. Bernard. In cloth, $1.50 each. Paper, 75 cents each.

Adoptive Masonry Illustrated. A full and complete illustrated ritual of the five degrees of Female Freemasonry, by Thomas Lowe. 20 cents each.

Finney on Masonry. The character, claims and practical workings of Freemasonry. By Pres. Charles G. Finney, of Oberlin College. President Finney was a "bright Mason," but left the lodge when he became a Christian. This book has opened the eyes of multitudes. In cloth, 75 cents. Paper cover, 35 cents.

The Master's Carpet, or Masonry and Baal Worship Identical, explains the true source and meaning of every ceremony and symbol of the lodge. Bound in fine cloth, 420 pages, 75 cents.

Masonic Oaths Null and Void: OR FREEMASONRY SELF-CONVICTED. This is a book for the times. The design of the author is to refute the arguments of those who claim that the oaths of Freemasonry are binding upon those who take them. 207 pages. Postpaid, 40 cents each.

Judge Whitney's Defense before THE GRAND LODGE OF ILLINOIS. Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the lodge when S. H. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry. 15 cents each.

General Washington Opposed to SECRET SOCIETIES. This is a re-publication of Governor Joseph Ritner's "Vindication of General Washington from the Stigma of Adherence to Secret Societies," communicated to the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania, March 8, 1837, at their special request. To this is added the fact that three high Masons were the only persons who opposed a vote of thanks to Washington on his retirement to private life—undoubtedly because they considered him a seceding Freemason. 10cts each.

Morgan's Exposition, Abduction AND MURDER, AND OATHS OF 33 DEGREES. Composed of "Freemasonry Exposed," by Capt. Wm. Morgan;" "History of the Abduction and Murder of Morgan;" "Vallance's Confession of the Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan;" "Bernard's Reminiscences of Morgan Times," and "Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees." 300 pages; cloth, $1.00.

Mah-Hah-Bone; comprises the Hand Book, Master's Carpet and Freemasonry at a glance. Bound in one volume. In cloth, 589 pages, $1.00.

Oaths and Penalties of Freemasonry, as proved in court in the New Berlin trials. The New Berlin trials began in the attempt of Freemasons to prevent public initiations by seceding Masons. These trials were held at New Berlin, Chenango Co., N. Y., April 13 and 14, 1831, and General Augustus C. Welsh, sheriff of the county, and other adhering Freemasons swore to the truthful revelation of the oaths and penalties. 10 cents each.

Masonry a Work of Darkness, adverse to Christianity, and inimical to republican government. By Rev. Lebbeus Armstrong (Presbyterian) a seceding Mason of 21 degrees. 15 cents each.

Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the INITIATE? By Rev. L. A. Post. 5 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. J. Day Brownlee. In reply to a Masonic Oration by Rev. Dr. Mayer, Wellsville, Ohio. 5 cents each.

Masonic Outrages. Compiled by Rev. H. H. Hinman. Showing Masonic assault on lives of seceders, on reputation, and on free speech; its interference with justice in courts, etc. Postpaid, 20 cents.

Grand Lodge Masonry. Its relation to civil government and the Christian religion. By Pres. J. Blanchard. The un-Christian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is proved from the highest Masonic authorities. 5 cents each.

The Broken Seal; or Personal Reminiscences of the Abduction and Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan. By Samuel D. Greene. In cloth, 75 cents. Paper covers, 40 cents.

The Mystic Tie, or Freemasonry a LEAGUE WITH THE DEVIL. This is an account of the church trial of Peter Cook and wife, of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a reverend Freemason. 15 cents each.

History of the Abduction and MurDER OF CAPT. WM. MORGAN. As prepared by seven committees of citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan. 25 cents each.

The Anti-mason's Scrap-Book, consisting of 53 "Cynosure" tracts. In this book are the views of more than a score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of secret societies. Postpaid. 25 cts.

Reminiscences of Morgan Times. By Elder David Bernard. This is a thrilling narrative of the incidents connected with Bernard's Revelation of Freemasonry 10 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. James Williams, Presiding Elder of Dakota District Northwestern Iowa Conference M. E. Church—a seceding Master Mason. 10 cents each.

Oaths and Penalties of the 33 DeGREES OF FREEMASONRY. To get these thirty three degrees of Masonic bondage, the candidate takes half-a-million horrible oaths 15 cents each.

Thirteen Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong. 5 cents each.

Freemasonry Contrary to the ChrisTIAN RELIGION. 5 cents each.

Hon. Thurlow Weed on the Morgan ABDUCTION. This is the legally attested statement of this eminent Christian journalist and statesman concerning the unlawful seizure and confinement of Capt. Morgan in Canandaigua jail, his removal to Fort Niagara and subsequent drowning in Lake Ontario. 5 cents each.

Freemasonry a Fourfold ConspirACY. Address of Pres. J. Blanchard. This is a most convincing argument against the lodge. 5 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. W. P. McNary, pastor United Presbyterian church. 5 cents each.

ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP.

Revised Odd-fellowship Illustrated. The complete revised ritual of the Lodge, Encampment and Rebekah (ladies) degrees, profusely illustrated, and guaranteed to be strictly accurate; with a sketch of the origin, history and character of the order, over one hundred foot-note quotations from standard authorities, showing the character and teachings of the order, and an analysis of each degree by ex-President J. Blanchard. This ritual corresponds exactly with the "Charge Books" furnished by the Sovereign Grand Lodge. In cloth, $1.00; paper cover. 50cts.

Odd-fellowship Judged by its own utterances; its doctrine and practice examined in the light of God's Word. By Rev. J. H. Brockman. This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. In cloth 50cts; paper covers, 25cts.

Sermon on Odd-fellowship and other secret societies, by Rev. J. Sarver, pastor Evangelical Lutheran church. This is a very clear argument against secretism of all forms, and the duty to disfellowship Odd fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications. 10cts each.

Odd-fellowship: ITS HISTORY AND ITS WORK. By President J. Blanchard. A neat pamphlet with cover. Postpaid. 5 cts.

OTHER RITUALS.

Revised Knights of Pythias Illustrated. An exact copy of the new Official Ritual Adopted by the Supreme Lodge of the World, with the Secret work added and fully Illustrated. In cloth 50 cts. Paper cover 25 cts.

Knights of the Orient Illustrated. The full Illustrated Ritual of Ancient Order of the Orient, or the Oriental degree, This is a side degree conferred mostly in Knights of Pythias lodges. 15 cts each.

Good Templarism Illustrated. A full and accurate exposition of the degrees of the lodge, temple and council. 25cts each.

Exposition of the Grange. Edited by Rev. A. W. Geeslin. Illustrated with engravings. 25 cents each.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the REPUBLIC, with signs of recognition, pass words, etc., and the ritual of the Machinists' and Blacksmiths' Union. (The two bound together.) 10 cents each.

United Sons of Industry IllusTRATED. A full and complete illustrated ritual of the secret tradesunion of the above name, giving the signs, grips, passwords etc. 15cts each.

Rituals and Secrets Illustrated. Composed of "Temple of Honor Illustrated, "Adoptive Masonry Illustrated," "United Sons of Industry Illustrated," and "Secret Societies Illustrated." $1.00 each.

Temple of Honor Illustrated. A full and complete illustrated ritual of "The Templars of Honor and Temperance," commonly called the Temple of Honor. By a Templar of Fidelity and Past Worthy Chief Templar. 25cts each.

Knights of Labor Illustrated ("ADELPHON KRUPTOS.") The complete illustrated ritual of the order, including the "unwritten work." 25cts each.

MISCELLANEOUS.

History Nat'l Christian Association. Its origin, objects, what it has done and aims to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought, the Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association. 25cts each.

Folly, Expense and Danger OF SECRET SOCIETIES. By Pres. C. A. Blanchard. This booklet of 32 pages is a general discussion of the secret orders, whether religious, political, industrial, insurance or social. Postpaid, 5 cents.

Disloyal Secret Oaths. By Joseph Cook, Boston. He quotes the law of Vermont which makes the administration of the Masonic oaths illegal. Joseph Cook's address is a national treatment of a national subject, and very valuable for reference. Postpaid, 5 cents.

Are Secret Societies a Blessing? An address by Rev. B. Carradine, D. D., pastor of the Centenary M. E. church, St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 4, 1891. W. McCoy writes: "That sermon ought to be in the hands of every preacher in this land, and every citizen's, too." A pamphlet of 20 pages and cover. Postpaid, 5 cents.

A Booklet of 107 pages, which includes "The Martyr's Own Monument," by Rev. J. E. Roy, D. D., Western Secretary of American Missionary Association; "Christian Politics," by Rev. J. Blanchard, late President Wheaton College, and Editor Christian Cynosure; "The Mysterious Machine: Was it Lawn-mower, Town-pump, Balloon, Wheel-barrow,—or what?" by Prof. E. D. Bailey, of the Civil Service Dept. U. S. Government. Postpaid 25 cts.

Jonathan Blanchard's Sermons and Addresses. Select discourses of the first editor of the Cynosure. Lectures, sermons and speeches given from 1834 to 1892 in leading cities of the United States, discussing topics of living reform, Secret Societies, The Sabbath, Temperance, National Reform, Christian Education, Christian Socialism, The Bible, etc. A book everybody should read. 12mo. Fine photogravure portrait. Price, 75 cents.

American Handbook and Citizen Manual. By Manlove N. Butler. Contents: Bible and Secretism; Masonic Religion; Masonic Sun Worship; Masonic Government; Unwritten History; Grand Lodge Masonry; Public Opinion; Lodge and Saloon; The American Movement. Over 200 pages. Paper, single copy, 40c.

Image of the Beast: A Secret Empire; or, Freemasonry a Subject of Prophecy. By Rev. Richard Horton. Third edition. 200 pages. Cloth. Price, 60 cents.

Secret Societies Illustrated. Containing the signs, grips, passwords, emblems, etc., of Freemasonry (Blue Lodge and to the fourteenth degree of the York rite), Adoptive Masonry, Revised Odd-fellowship, Good Templarism, the Temple of Honor, the United Sons of Industry, Knights of Pythias and the Grange, with affidavits, etc. Over 250 cuts, 99 pages, paper cover. 25cts each.

Eminent Men on Secret Societies. Composed of "Washington Opposed to Secret Societies," "Judge Whitney's Defence," "The Mystic Tie," "Narratives and Arguments," the "Anti-mason's Scrap-Book" and "Oaths and Penalties of Freemasonry as Proved in the New Berlin Trials," 328 pages, cloth, $1.00.

College Secret Societies. Their customs, character and the efforts for their suppression. By H. L. Kellogg. Containing the opinions of many prominent college presidents and others, and a full account of the murder of Mortimer Leggett. 25cts each.

Sermon on Secretism. By Rev. D. Theo. Cross, pastor Congregational church Hamilton, N. Y. This is a very clear array of the objections to all secret societies, and to Masonry especially, that are apparent to all. 5cts each.

Ex-President John Quincy Adams' LETTERS on the Nature of Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties. Price, cloth, $1.00. Paper, 35 cents.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret SOCIETIES. A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons in the Christian church. 10 cents each.

Sermon on Secret Societies. By Rev. Daniel Dow, Woodstock, Conn. The special object of his sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the character of secret societies, no matter what object such societies profess to have. 5 cents each.

Secret Societies. A discussion of their character and claims by Rev. David McDill, Pres. J. Blanchard and Rev. Edward Beecher. In cloth, 35cts each; paper covers, 15cts each.

Secret Societies, Ancient and ModERN. Table of Contents: The Antiquity of Secret Societies, The Life of Julian, The Eleusinian Mysteries, The Origin of Masonry, Was Washington a Mason? Fillmore and Webster's Deference to Masonry, A Brief Outline of the Progress of Masonry in the United States, The Tammany Ring, Masonic Benevolence, The Uses of Masonry, An Illustration, The Conclusion. 50cts each.

Pres. H. H. George on Secret Societies. A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian churches to disfellowship secret societies. 10cts each.

Secrecy vs. the Family, State and CHURCH. By Rev. M. S. Dury. The antagonism of organized secrecy to the welfare of the family, state and church, is clearly shown. 10cts each.

Narratives and Arguments, showing the conflict of secret societies with the Constitution and law of the Union and of the States. By Francis Semple. The fact that secret societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of law is here clearly proved. 15cts each.

Anti-masonic Sermons and AdDRESSES. Composed of "Masonry a Work of Darkness;" the Sermons of Messrs. Cross, William M'Nary, Dow and Sarver, the two addresses of President Blanchard, and the addresses of President H. H. George, Prof. J. G. Carson and Rev. M. S. Drury; "Thirteen Reasons Why a Christian cannot be a Freemason," "Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion," and "Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the Initiate?" 287 pages; cloth, $1.00.

Holden with Cords. OR THE POWER OF THE SECRET EMPIRE. By E. E. Flagg, author of "A Sunny Life," etc. This is a thrillingly interesting story, accurately true to life because mainly a narration of historical facts. In cloth, $1.00; in paper, 50 cents.

Mrs. William Lohr

Of Freeport, Ill., began to fail rapidly, lost all appetite and got into a serious condition from Dyspepsia She could not eat vegetables or meat, and even toast distressed her. Had to give up housework. In a week after taking

Hood's Sarsaparilla

She felt a little better. Could keep more food on her stomach and grew stronger. She took 3 bottles, has a good appetite, gained 22 lbs., does her work easily, is now in perfect health.

HOOD'S PILLS are the best after-dinner Pills. They assist digestion and cure headache.

SEVEN YEARS AMONG THE FREEDMEN.
Revised and Enlarged.

BY MARIA WATERBURY.

Finely Illustrated 196 Pages.....75cts.

The first edition of this book has "gone like hot cakes," and a second edition with more of the same sort has been loudly called for and is now ready for delivery. The press, the pulpit, the educator, the reformer, the masses, have bidden it welcome and Godspeed. We quote a few good words from sundry sources: EARNEST CHRISTIAN: "Publish the book for the good it will do."

Dr. Talmage, in the Christian Herald and Signs of our Times, for February 11th, says: "A helpful little volume, just out, for the workers is, 'Seven Years among the Freedmen,' by Miss M. Waterbury, Polo, Ill.,—a teacher well known to many in Illinois—detailing the quaint and thrilling scenes of her experience—'truth stranger,' oftimes, 'than fiction. One day the chore-man came to Miss M. Waterbury, to be taught a prayer; all the scholars had a prayer to say and he wanted one. John was past middle life and very ignorant. The teacher began the Lord's Prayer, a sentence at a time, explaining as the lesson progressed. 'Thy kingdom come' was all right. 'Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors.' 'What dat mean?' said he. 'That you must forgive everybody, or God will not forgive you.' 'Stop, teacher, can't do dat,' and he went away. After vacation he appeared, saying: 'Now go on wid de prayer. I dun 'orgive him. Old massar once gib me five hundred lashes, and hit me wid a crow bar, an' I' row me out for dead, and I met him down de street, an' wouldn't speak at him, but to-day I met him an' aid 'How d'ye?' Now go on wid dat prayer'!"

Inter Ocean: "A Splendid Book. Seven Years Among Freedman is a volume of 494 pages by Miss M. Waterbury, of Polo, Ills., who has spent seven years as a teacher among the freedmen in Mississippi and Alabama. It is a series of sketches telling very simply and graphically the life led by Northern teachers in the South. It bears all the evidences of truthfulness and if it fails to impress the reader with the manhood and dignity of the old ruling class of the South, it is perhaps because the whole truth is told. One reading the book will stop to ask, Why not send missionaries to the white people of the South? They seem to need it more than the blacks."

Journal, Freeport, Ills.: "We are indebted to Mrs. Lila L. Buckley, of this city, for a copy of this interesting volume. The efforts made to elevate the freedmen of the South is one of the most important and deserving charities of the present time, far excelling any effort to elevate the heathen of foreign lands, and it should have the aid of all charitable people in this country. ....The proceeds of sales is devoted to the work of elevating the freedmen of the South, and we trust that every one to whom Miss Waterbury applies will purchase a copy of the book, which is in itself fully worth the price. Miss Waterbury's grandfather, Rev. Calvin Waterbury, was the first Presbyterian minister in Freeport, and it was by his efforts that the First Presbyterian church in Freeport was established.

Polo, (Ills.,) Press: "Seven Years Among the Freedmen. Our townswoman Miss Maria Waterbury, the past winter, prepared for publication an account of some of her singular experiences in the "sixties" among the freedmen of Mississippi. Miss Waterbury and Miss Ford, both of this place, did grand work in those years and deserve no small mead of praise for their heroic sacrifices.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

The Nonesuch Professor,

In his Meridian Splendor. By William Secker (Puritan). With an introduction by Theo. L. Cuyler, D. D. 16 mo, $1.00.

"It is a mine of sparkling gems."—Presbyterian Observer.

"A sheaf of golden grain, ripened by grace, and sweet with the flavor of rare simplicity and holy wisdom."—N. Y. Observer.

"It is a searching book."—Christian Intelligencer.

"This is a wonderful book. At whatever page you open it, your eye lights upon pithy aphorisms that combine the sententiousness of Benjamin Franklin with the sweet, holy savor of Samuel Rutherford. It contains hundreds of bright seed thoughts."—Rev. T. L. Cuyler, D. D.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
221 W. Madison St., Chicag

HOME AND HEALTH.

HEATING THE HOUSE.

So many otherwise sensible people as regards domestic affairs are manifestly ignorant of the proper heating of their houses, to the detriment of health and general comfort, because an erroneous idea prevails among them that economy in fuel can be injudiciously exercised until the actual appearance of winter makes its constant use a necessity, while they remain apparently ignorant of the fact that by such false economy they are surely inviting either malaria, weak eyes, or dangerous attacks of catarrhal and pulmonary diseases.

It is during the raw, chilly months of both spring and autumn, when the temperature of both day and night is so changeable, that a fire is needed in sleeping and sitting apartments of our Northern homes to insure the health and comforts of their inmates.

This is a matter worthy of serious consideration by all who value their health and wish to avoid pulmonary diseases and unnecessary doctors' bills at such critical seasons of the year.—Annie M. Toohey.

FOR INKY FINGERS.

A little girl I know has made a wonderful discovery, which she thinks all other little schoolboys and girls should know too.

"It's so useful, mamma," she says. "All boys and girls get ink on their fingers, you know."

"Surely they do, and on their clothes as well," said her mother.

"I can't take the spots out of my clothes, but I'm sorry when they get there," responded the little girl. "I try very hard not to. But I can get the ink spots off my fingers. See!"

She dipped her fingers into water, and while they were wet she took a match out of the match safe, and rubbed the sulphur end well over every inky spot. One after another she rubbed, and one after another the spots disappeared, leaving a row of white fingers where there had been a row of inky black ones.

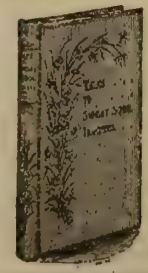
"There!" said the little girl, after she had finished. "Isn't that good? I read that in a housekeeping paper, and I never knew they were any good before. I clean my fingers that way every morning now. It's just splendid!"

So some other schoolgirls and boys might try Alice's cure for inky fingers.—Harper's Young People.

A person is prematurely old when baldness occurs before the forty-fifth year. Use Hall's Hair Renewer to keep the scalp healthy and prevent baldness.

Talks to Sunday-School Teachers.

By Rev. J. G. Terrill. 12mo, 200 pages, bound in fine cloth.....75



This book is the result of twenty-five years of experience in Sunday-school and treats of: 1. The Sunday-school organization and management. 2. Methods of work. 3. Studies in human nature. 4. Rules of Interpretation as applied to the Bible. 5. Illustrative exercises for primary classes and children's meetings. In the style of presentation, subject matter and price of the book, the wants of the officers and teachers of the ordinary Sunday-school are kept in view.

S. S. Times:—A very comprehensive book. N. Y. Independent:—A sensible manual for the average Sunday-school teacher. Evan. Mess.:—We have been very favorably impressed with the book, because it is so intensely practical. The subject is systematically treated, and leaders of teacher's meetings can not do better than adopt it as a text-book and devote half an hour of each session to teaching the theory and practice of teaching as here systematized. Christian at Work:—Any school that will adopt this book generally and carry forward its work or doctrines here laid down will not be long in developing into a model school and reaping the harvest of a rich heritage. Herald and Presbyter:—These Talks are well attested in their profitableness and excellence. Buffalo Advocate:—A plain, practical, common sense book on a very important subject. The author has had wide experience in this field of work. He knows thoroughly the ground over which he would lead others, and possesses the happy faculty of packing a great deal of valuable information as to matter and manner of teaching into this little hand-book. We commend it to the attention of all Sunday-school workers. Religious Telescope:—We are pleased with the plan and treatment of the subjects throughout, and are sure that the diligent Sunday-school teacher who longs for more thorough equipment will find in this book a helper of great value. Illustrated Christian Weekly:—The author talks from observation and experience, and talks well.

Sunday School Publications.

The Pearl (Mo.)	Pr. Qr. 3c.	Sunshine (Mo.)	Pr. Qr. 3 "
The Lily "	" 3 "	Pure Words "	" 3 "
Light & L. Scholar's Qrly.	3 "	Light & L. Inf. Cl., wk.	4 "
" " Teacher's "	5 "	" " Lesson Leaf	1½ "
Golden Treasures	1 "	L. & L. Primary Qly	4 "

SINGLE SUBSCRIPTIONS.

The Pearl, The Lily, Pure Words, & Sunshine, each Pr. Yr. 25c
The four to one address " 75c
Teacher's Quarterly Pr. Yr. 25c
Scholar's " " 20c
L. & L. Infant Class, weekly, 25c

CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

BRAIN-BURNISHER NO. 1.
•R••••NT
What many politicians, political orators, and others would like to be

BRAIN-BURNISHER NO. 2.
•R••S
That for which women fond of showy attire often spend too much money.

BRAINS
—TO THE—
FRONT
IT COSTS
NOTHING TO TRY.

BRAIN-BURNISHER NO. 3.
•EA•TY
Desirable for all women, and especially for those with plain faces.

BRAIN-BURNISHER NO. 4.
•I•HT
Desired in their "business" by pugilists Corbett, Mitchell, Dixon and others.

$20 Reward

TO ANY MAN OR WOMAN,

Youth or maiden, between the ages of 10 and 70, who can supply the full list of winning answers to the four brain-burnishing Skeleton Word-studies printed above, or a PROPORTIONATE REWARD for a single winning answer to ANY ONE of the four.

EXPLANATION.—The black circles in each Study represent omitted letters. In seeking winning answers, try to think of words which when fully spelled will fit our definitions and contain as many letters as you find circles and letters in above puzzles. COSTS NOTHING TO TRY.

Observe This Point.

While every applicant will naturally try to send the winning answers to all four of the Studies, yet such answers are not all required to be correct in order to win a portion of the full $20 reward. Your answers may be fully correct for three of the Studies and fail for the other one, in which case you would win $15, or three-fourths of a full $20 reward. Two winning answers will win twice as much as one, and in the same ratio for the complete list. In strict justice the Answer Committee will award a proportionate amount of the full $20 reward for a single winning answer to ANY ONE of the four Studies, no matter if the answers to the other three be all wrong, and so on for all four of the Studies.

FREE

You are not required to send a penny of money with your answers, not even return postage on the Awarding Committee's SEALED report to you—we pay that. Simply write out what, after careful study, you believe are the answers required to win; and don't forget that if your answers are only partially right you will still win a just proportion of the full $20 reward. Then write your name and address underneath your answers and send them to us. Remember, it costs nothing to try.

If You Fail

To send a single winning answer, or if the Awarding Committee's report is in any manner unsatisfactory,

Then Stop.

Send your answers TO-DAY to American Pub'g Co.
Entry Desk 343
Jersey City, N. J.

The New World of Central Africa.

By Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness, with a history of the first Christian mission on the Congo. 12mo., 530 pages with maps, portraits and numerous illustrations. $2.00

"A conscientious piece of work, and gives a very clear account of what has been done by the Protestant missions to evangelize the barbarous races of Central Africa. * * * He who wants to know what missionary effort means in these days may well learn from this volume. * * * The reader who goes carefully through will have a good bird's eye view of recent events in Africa, with all the results of modern travel. * * The work contains solid information of use to all who are interested in the future of this wonderful country. The many illustrations throw light upon savage customs and costumes."—Graphic.

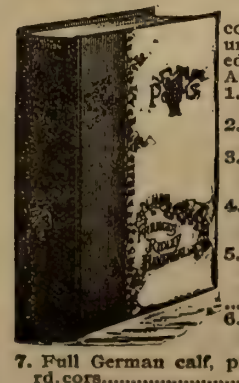
In the Far East.

Letters from China by Geraldine Guinness, edited by her sister, with introduction by Rev. J. Hudson Taylor. Very fully illustrated. Quarto cloth, ...$1.50

This book was scarcely written—it was lived; for the breath of life is in it from cover to cover. * * * We have never read so wonderful an account of successful missionary effort.—Presbyterian

We easily understand how this edition is the fifteenth thousand. It is a very remarkable book.—The Golden Rule.

Frances Ridley Havergall's Poems.



Author's edition complete. The only unabridged authorized edition published in America.

1. 12mo., 880 pages, cloth, beveled....2.00
2. Beveled boards, full gilt.....2.50
3. Half white vellum, gilt top, uncutedges, ...2.50
4. French morocco padded, roll red under gold edges...4.00
5. Persian calf, padded and embossed, gilt roll and r. g. 5.00
6. Crushed levant, elegant.....6.00
7. Full German calf, padded, elegant, gilt, rd. cors.....7.50

Miss Havergall stands without peer in the English language in the department of religious poetry.

"The book in paper and binding is all that could be desired."—Publishers' Weekly.

Small Books by Miss Havergall.

Bound in elegant illuminated board covers.

Kept for the Master's Use. $0

My King; Daily Thoughts for the King's Children..... 50

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W Madison St. Chicago.

Works of Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

Sermon Notes. Covering all the Bible from Genesis to Revelation. 4 vols.....4.00
Feathers for Arrows. A volume of Choice Extracts, 12mo., cloth.....1.00
Twelve Striking Sermons..... 50
Twelve Soul Winning Sermons, ... 50
Twelve Sermons on the Resurrection 50
Twelve New Year Sermons..... 50
Twelve Christmas Sermons..... 50

Notes by C. H. M.

On Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy.

Mr. D. L. Moody says of these books: "They have been to me a very key to the Scriptures."

Deuteronomy is issued in two volumes, the others complete in one volume each.

Separate volumes may be had if desired.

The complete set in six volumes, covering over 2,300 pages, is offered at the reduced price of 75c per vol. or $4.50 per set.

A. L. O. E. Intermediate Library.

Selected from the numerous productions of this world-renowned writer as being those of rare merit. 12 vols., 12mo., cloth elegant, each 75c; set.....9.00

An Eden in England.	Life in Eagle's Nest.
Ned Franks.	White Bear's Den.
Sheer Off.	Fairy Spider's Web.
Braid of Chords.	Lake in the Woods.
Silver Keys.	Seven Perils Passed.
Grace Vernon.	Hartley Brothers.

The Jessica Series. By Hesba Stretton. 6 vols., handsome bindings, cloth 50c each, or per set 2.10

Jessica's First Prayer.	Friends till Death.
No Place Like Home.	A Miserable Christmas
Under the Old Roof.	A Night and a Day.

A. L. O. E. Junior Library. Adapted to the young folks. 7 vols., 12mo., cloth, each 60c; the set.....4.20

Claremont Tales.	A Wreath of Smoke.
Christian Conquests.	Pomegranates from Punjab.
Tales Illustrative of Parables.	Little Bullets from Batala.
The Battle of Life.

The Hesba Stretton Series. 8 vols., elegant cloth bound, per set.....4.80

Cassy.	King's Servant.
Lost Gip.	Alone in London.
Max Kromer.	Little Meg's Children
Storm of Life	Crew of the Dolphin.

Sermons of Rev. John McNeill,

12mo. cloth, 416 pages, $1.50.

The fame of this Scottish Spurgeon, as he is very generally called, is becoming as wide-spread as the English tongue. The secret of his power over the masses, has been discussed on both sides of the Atlantic. If one may judge from these printed sermons the secret lies in a homely and pointed putting of the old truths of the Gospel in plain Anglo-saxon. There is evidence of study, but more the study of human nature, and particularly the human heart, than that of books, other than the Book of books—with this volume Mr. McNeill is evidently in love. With unquestioned faith he believes the writen word, and preaches it with an earnestness born of conviction.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Oaths and Penalties of the 33 DEGREES OF FREEMASONRY. To get these thirty-three degrees of Masonic bondage, the candidate takes half-a-million horrible oaths. 15 cents each.

The Kind of medicine

you need is the old reliable tonic and
blood-purifier,

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA

It can have no substitute.
Cures others,

will cure you

AMERICAN HANDBOOK
AND
CITIZEN MANUAL.
BY
MANLOVE N. BUTLER.

CONTENTS:—Bible and Secretism; Masonic Religion; Masonic Sun Worship; Masonic Government; Unwritten History; Grand Lodge Masonry; Public Opinion; Lodge and Saloon; The American Movement; Real Prohibition; Poor Man's Bible, and All-Around Reformers. Over 200 pages

Paper, single copy 40c.; per doz. 35c.

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
WM. I. PHILLIPS, Treasurer,
221 W. Madison St., Chic

THE TWO-FOLD GIFT
of the Holy Ghost,
BY REV. THOS. K. DOTY,
Author of Lessons in Holiness.

240 pp. Price postpaid.....65cts.

The design of this book is, in plain language, to designate the place of the Holy Ghost in both the Godhead and the work of Salvation. Especially to show that Entire Santification is wrought in the heart by the Baptism of Holy Ghost; and that the Epoch of the Baptism is identical with that of his Advent in his Indwelling Personalty. The agency of the Holy Ghost in the Life, and in carrying on the work of the Gospel, is given particular attention.

TITLES TO THE CHAPTERS:

1. A Summary. 2. The Holy Ghost a Person. 3. The New Testament Designating Terms. 4. The Scriptural View. 5. The Holy Ghost is God. 6. Blasphemy Against the Holy Ghost. 7. The Triunity of God. 8. The Apostolic Benediction. 9. The Worship of the Holy Ghost. 10. The Dispensations. 11. The First Dispensation. 12. The Second Dispensation. 13. Holiness—Sinning. 14. "The Sin of the World." 15. Final Deliverance from Sin. 16. The Day of the Holy Ghost. 17. Jesus and the Holy Ghost. 18 and 19. The Epoch of the Holy Ghost. 20. The Anointing. 21. The Baptism of the Holy Ghost. 22. The Baptism of Fire. 23. The Two-Fold Experiences of the Holy Ghost. 24. Fellowship of the Holy Ghost. 25. "In the Spirit." 26. Several Scriptural Terms Considered. 27. Pentecost. 28. Inspiration—Prophecy. 29. Spiritual Leading and Teaching. 30. The Gifts of the Spirit. 31. "Praying in the Holy Ghost." 31 and 32. Power.

This book is creating quite a stir in religious circles. The original, bold and convincing manner of presenting the subject, has forced the press to comment upon the book, either adversely or favorably, generally the latter. We give a few OPINIONS:

Bible Standard and Gospel Record: "This book is very compact, scarcely a superfluous sentence in the whole book. The manner of treating the questions involved is both clear and scriptural. .....The effect of the book will be to deepen thought and increase knowledge and, in the end, deepen piety."

Evangelical Messenger: "Brother Thomas K. Doty has written a book which we take pleasure in commending to all devout readers who enjoy all spiritual things. The subject is so important, and the treatment of it so timely, that we may be pardoned for calling attention to it thus prominently. We, at least have been greatly interested, and gratefully acknowledge that we have also been decidedly profited by perusing it .....Brother Doty writes with an incisive pen, in a clear, lucid style, often epigrammatical and with great force. He is evidently deeply impressed with the truth of what he writes and demands the respect even where he does not gain the intellectual assent of his readers. Withal the book is written in a kindly, candid spirit, rather didactic than polemical, and is calculated to help the reader and not to rouse his opposition, as is the case with so many books which have been written upon this and kindred subjects. The theological views expressed are orthodox, and in some cases the argument is fresh in matter, and certainly fresh in form throughout."

Christian Cynosure: "His book is one of the most excellent, instructive and practical of any that have come to our knowledge. The exposition of the Scriptures concerning the personality and work of the Spirit is very clear, able and comforting. There is much dogmatizing on these topics by Christians who never fully felt the power of the Spirit's work, or are not living in gracious fellowship with him. To all such and to those who have not yet learned what gifts the Lord is waiting to bestow on his people we heartily commend the careful reading of this volume."

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison st., Chicago

FARM NOTES.

RAISING GEESE.

Mrs. E. M. Baldwin, of Bristolville, O., writes to the N, Y. Witness: I see by the many letter-writers for the Witness that a goodly number are in favor of chickens for a side-show on the farm to coin money with, but my experience has not been very satisfactory with them, as I have always been conscious of the cost of feed. I have had neighbors who raised chickens for market and for eggs, and thought it paid, but they only counted the money received, never the cost, for they have access to well-filled grain-houses and never measured or counted the cost. I have experimented with all kinds of fowls for the last twenty years, and have come to the conclusion that chickens do not pay very well; neither do turkeys, unless they have access to your neighbors' grain-fields or orchards, and you do not have to pay anything for what they destroy. We gave up three acres of buckwheat and the best apples in the orchard one season to our neighbors' turkeys. They thought it paid to raise them, and so it did that time, but we have received no pay yet. I have raised geese and found them less troublesome and more profitable than chickens or turkeys, as they are not subject to so many diseases. They mature in a few weeks, and are as easily controlled as sheep. A spring gosling can be plucked twice before winter, and when dressed for market it will sell for as much as a turkey.

As I had a pasture with a stream running through it I bought four geese and turned them into it, putting boxes in sheltered nooks for their nests. They began to lay early in the spring while it was too cold to leave the eggs in the nest over night, and when they wanted to set I returned the eggs to them, and at the end of four weeks the nest was full of baby geese. I fed them a few days on bread and milk, and when they were two weeks old they received soft feed, made of corn meal. When four weeks old they went with the old geese and lived on grass, and by mid-summer I had twenty-five that cost me next to nothing to raise, and the flock would have been larger if the creek had not been so full of turtles.

I would advise my country friends who have streams and ponds, to raise geese, as the feathers will never be out of fashion; neither will roast goose.

United Presbyterians among our readers will be glad to learn that the Midland of Omaha is about to remove to Chicago. This will answer the most common and seemingly only objection to it—"too far west." The Midland is newsy, spicy and sound, liberal and loyal and patriotic and progressive; it excels in giving the news of its own denomination, in supporting the reforms of the day and in advocating home missions. Send for a free sample copy. Address the Midland Publishing Co. Its regular price is $1.50, but to one of our old subscribers who becomes a new subscriber to the Midland, both papers will be sent by us for $2.50. To one who becomes a new subscriber to both, the Cynosure and Midland, the papers will cost for one year only $2.00. Address, Christian Cynosure, 221 W. Madison street.

JONATHAN BLANCHARD'S
—]-oo-[—
SERMONS AND ADDRESSES.

Select discourses of the late editor of the Cynosure and leader in our reform. Lectures, sermons and speeches given from 1884 to 1892 in leading cities of the United States, discussing topics of

LIVING REFORM.

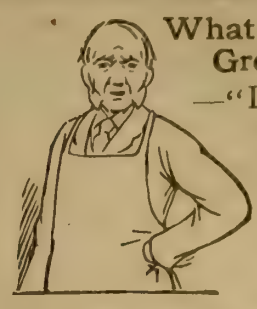
Secret Societies,
The Sabbath,
Temperance,
National Reform,
Christian Education,
Christian Socialism,
The Bible, Etc., Etc.

A BOOK EVERYBODY SHOULD READ

12mo. Fine Photogravure Portrait.

Price, 75 Cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago



What one Grocer says: —"I hire clerks who can sell the goods that I tell them to sell—and of course I tell them to sell the goods on which I make the most money. If they can't do it, I won't have them. That's what I hire them for." This is an actual fact related by a grocer to our salesman—and it's a common fact; we have it daily. So, when they tell you that some washing-powder is "the same as" or "as good as" Pearline, it's because it pays a larger profit. Too large, altogether, if clerks can be hired to make people take things they don't want and know nothing of, instead of a tried and proved article like Pearline. 391

THE GUIDING HAND;
—OR—
PROVIDENTIAL DIRECTION.
-——)o(——

Illustrated by authentic instances of Relief and Deliverance in times of Trouble and Perplexity; of Direction through Dreams and Mental Impressions, and of Providential Guidance, resulting in Conversion. Recorded and collected by

H. L. HASTINGS,
(Editor of "The Christian.")

This striking work is divided into three parts as follows:

(1) Providences in Relief and Deliverances. (2) Dreams and Impressions. (3) Conversions.

The "Guiding Hand" contains nearly 400 pages. It is really a handsome book, printed on heavy book paper, from large open type, good for the eyes, and artistically and durably bound in fine cloth, with fancy panels. Price, $1.50.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison S Chicago, Ill

THE
Folly, Expense & Danger
OF
SECRET SOCIETIES.
BY
CHARLES A. BLANCHARD.
(President Wheaton College.)

5 Cts per Copy; $3 per Hundred

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chica

RECENT PUBLICATIONS
OF
FLEMING H. REVELL.

Modern Ideas of Evolution.

As related to Revelation and Science. By Sir William Dawson, L. L. D., F. R. S., etc. 12 mo, cloth, $1.50.

In popular style, a testing by scientific facts and principles, the validity of that multiform and brilliant philosophy of the universe, which has taken so deep a hold of the science and literature of our times.

The New World of Central Africa

By Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness; with a history of the first Christian mission on the Congo. Maps, Portraits and numerous engravings. 537 pages, 12 mo, $2.00.

This comprehensive volume is as fascinating as the most entertaining romance. Its vivid portrayal of the dark side of African history makes one's blood tingle, while its earnest appeals create an inspiring sympathy with the effort to evangelize its teeming millions.

Power From on High.

By Rev. B. Fay Mills. White vellum paper, 20 cents.

This little work, revised from stenographic notes of Mr. Mills' address before the National Convention of the Y. P. S. C. E., is exceedingly effective.

Matthew Henry's Commentary.

An entirely new large type edition of this inimitable Commentary, in six large 8vo. volumes, fine cloth, $15.00; or, in half Morocco, $18.00.

"Biblical students who are most familiar with the very best commentaries of this generation are most able to appreciate the unfading freshness, the clear analysis, the spiritual force, the quaint humor, and the evangelical richness of Matthew Henry's Exposition of the Old and New Testaments."—New York Observer

"First among the mighty for general usefulness we are bound to mention the man whose name is a household word—MATTHEW HENRY. He is the most pious and pithy, sound and sensible, suggestive and sober, terse and trustworthy."—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

The Present Tenses of the Blessed Life.

By Rev. F. B. Meyer. 32 mo, 50 cents.

"It is sufficient to say its one direct aim is the present enjoyment of the precious promises. Mr. Meyer's earnest and persuasive teaching in this direction is admirably condensed in these brief chapters."

BY THE SAME AUTHOR:

Christian Living. Cloth, 32 mo, 50 cents.

"A more suggestive and helpful volume it would not be easy to name."—Christian Leader.

The Shepherd Psalm. Cloth, 32 mo, 50c.

"This is a gem."—Illustrated Christian Weekly

"It is a little book which hundreds of devout hearts will enjoy."—Congregationalist.

Power From on High.

By Rev. B. Fay Mills. White vellum paper, 20 cents.

This little work, revised from stenographic notes of Mr. Mills' address before the National Convention of the Y. P. S. C. E., is exceedingly effective.

OTHER WORKS BY C. H. SPURGEON:

Feathers for Arrows; Or, Illustrations for Teachers and Preachers. 12 mo, $1.

"This work covers a wide range of subjects. The metaphors are always striking and frequently brilliant, while the truths that they illustrate are such as have always formed the staple of Mr. Spurgeon's discourses. A choicer collection of illustrations we do not know."—Freeman.

Spurgeon's Gems. Being a selection of brilliants from his discourses. 12 mo, $1.

The Golden Alphabet. Being a Devotional Commentary on the One Hundred and Nineteenth Psalm. 12 mo, $1.00.

"Mr. Spurgeon brings out the truths and beauties of this wonderful Psalm so as to set a rich feast before the reader. As a practical commentator on the Psalms, Spurgeon has no equal."—Presbyterian Banner.

"This commentary is written in quite the happiest vein of its popular author, and the devotional spirit throughout is intense and elevating."—Occident.

Gleanings Among the Sheaves. 18 mo, 60c.

All of Grace. An earnest word with those seeking the way of life. 16 mo, paper, 30 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

According to Promise; Or, the Lord's Dealings with His chosen People. 16 mo, paper, 30 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Christmas Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve New Year Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Sermons on the Resurrection. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth. 50 cents.

"Preachers may get aid in preparing Easter or funeral sermons from this volume. Good to present to those who have lost loved ones."—National Baptist.

Twelve Striking Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Soul-Winning Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Selected by Mr Spurgeon as the twelve sermons under which there has been the most marked and permanent success.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison St. Chicago.

Royal Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength. — Latest United States Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO.,
106 Wall St., N. Y.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

CHICAGO.

On condition that it be shown entire the Pennsylvania railroad has given its Fair exhibit to the Columbian Museum.

Official figures of the canvassing board give John P. Hopkins a plurality for mayor of about 1,100.

Five hundred applicants were put to work cleaning the streets. Only men who work will be fed and lodged.

Clever shoplifters carried away a tray of diamonds valued at $2,500 from the store of C. D. Peacock.

Mrs. Foy's safety is threatened. Judge Tuthill has appointed a guard for this most important witness against Coughlin.

Statements of Chicago national banks show in almost every instance an increase in deposits.

Proceedings to wind up the American Building Society will be begun if it is not at once put on a sound basis.

An emergency association to look after destitute women and children has been formed by charitable societies composed of women.

Mayor-elect Hopkins will retain Chief Brennan and Commissioner of Public Works Jones.

Three masked thieves robbed the faro bank at 14 Quincy street at the points of as many revolvers.

The savings banks combination to pay 3 per cent on deposits after Jan. 1 has gone to pieces.

The University of Chicago publishes a magazine similar to the Century, and representative of the thought and tendency of the West. It is called the Lakeside Magazine.

Free public lodgings will be closed. Only 574 of the "unemployed" wanted breakfast bad enough to work for it.

FOREIGN.

Replying to attacks in the Commons, Gladstone declared the situation of Britain's navy is not one of danger.

Lawyer Wolff, wife and daughter, were hurt and their house ruined by a dynamite bomb outrage near Prague.

Jose Cordina, anarchist, arrested at Barcelona, Spain, has confessed to throwing the bomb in the Lyceum Theater.

Secretary Asquith announced in Parliament that England could not prevent the landing of French anarchists.

Statistical reports place the losses by the recent English coal miners' strike at over $150,000,000. Over 8,000,000 persons were thrown out of employment, and over 3,000,000 suffered by it.

Crispi has returned to power in Italy, and become premier.

The London St. James' Gazette says the cabinet, yielding to public opinion, has decided to strengthen the British navy. It is believed that about $40,000,000 will be expended in the construction of new ships.

The famine at Erzeroum, Armenia, and in the vicinity of that city is becoming more and more serious. Bread is now selling at twelve times its usual value. The grain is in the hands of the speculators, many of whom are Ottoman officials. Piteous but fruitless appeals have been made to the Sublime Porte for assistance. Hundreds of the poor are threatened with starvation.

Documents bearing upon the Italian bank frauds will be printed. Prominent men are implicated and sensations are likely.

Intermitent firing continues between the contending factions at Rio. Much damage has been done to the forts in the harbor.

Dispatches from Pernambuco say that Rio de Janeiro has fallen into the rebels' hands and that Peixoto is a prisoner.

On the authority of the Vatican it is denied that Mgr. Satolli has been recalled and made archbishop of Bologne.

M. Reynal, French Minister of the Interior, has advised police prefects to watch the meetings of the socialists.

Senator Charles Guinot, who had been a prominent figure in French politics for thirty years, is dead at the age of 66.

A severe storm has been raging along the southern coast of England. A number of vessels have been wrecked.

Edward Stanhope, Secretary of State for War in the Salisbury cabinet, died suddenly at the residence of his brother in England.

COUNTRY.

James H. Dowling, late cashier of the United States mint at New Orleans, has been indicted for stealing $25,000.

In reply to President Cleveland's message on Hawaii ex-Minister Stevens charges the executive with usurpation of power.

Sixty thousand persons are said to be out of employment in New York, the majority of them heads of families.

Business shows signs of improvement, Money is in better demand, principally by manufacturers.

Three new States are likely to be admitted by the present Congress. They are Arizona, Utah and New Mexico.

Representative members of the Ways and Means Committee attack the tariff bill in a minority report.

Frank Gordon, of Chicago, was murdered for his money by Mexicans in Presidio county, near Rio Grande.

Pedestrian Weston walked to Albany from New York City. He claims to be as good as twenty-five years ago.

Mrs. Farrell, widow of an inebriate, is suing Saloon-keeper McCormick at Elwood, Ind., for $2,000 damages.

Seven hundred men started out from Minneapolis on a wolf hunt. They returned without a scalp.

Three hundred men made a wonderful escape from a coal mine fire near Peoria, Ill., caused by a careless employe.

Treasury officials are worried by the decrease in the cash balance, which is now but $90,589,737.

Fourteen men were killed and four seriously hurt by a cave-in at the new Carnegie mill at Homestead, Pa.

Teller Hill, of the St. Nicholas Bank, New York, was found to be short $42,000. He was at once arrested.

SUBSCRIPTION LETTERS.

The following have made remittances of money to the Cynosure from Dec. 18 to Dec. 22:

E Walker, S M Nelson, S M Neff, Mrs E A Rawley, J Stahl, J Craig, S Faber, J Park, J K McFarland, A L Bell, J S Hitchcock, Amos Ellis, T Sussex, A Arend, Rev F E Tilly, W Heldman, B Casey, J H Murray, J Harley, J A Stegner, S D Moses, E Brakeman, J S Perham.

"A snake in the grass" is all the more dangerous from being unsuspected. So are many of the blood medicines offered the public. To avoid all risk, ask your druggist for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and also for Ayer's Almanac, which is just out for the new year means strength to withstand chronic ailments, coughs, colds and disease. Sound flesh is essential to health.

Flesh

Scott's Emulsion

the Cream of Cod-liver Oil, enriches the blood, builds up flesh and fortifies the system against sickness and chronic ailments. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.

Don't be deceived by Substitutes!

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists.

The Christian Witness

Is an eight-page undenominational monthly; the official organ of the New Hampshire Christian Association, opposed to secret societies. It advocates Bible Holiness, Church Purity, Sound Morality and Temperance.

Terms: 50 cents a year, or three years for $1.00.

Send stamp for sample copy.

Address Box 277. S. C. KIMBALL, Newmarket, N. H.

MY EXPERIENCES WITH SECRET SOCIETIES

BY A TRAVELER.

With a Key to Masonry Illustrated

A new edition, greatly enlarged, has been issued, embracing chapters on the Language of Numbers, Secret Empires, and Good Men, containing more Experiences, and affording a deeper insight into the Hidden Language and Workings of Secret Clans, and of the counterfeit pretences of good men, than ever before published. The Key is an exposition, explanation and verification of modern Baalism, with which all should be thoroughly acquainted. The price of the new edition is

Fifteen Cents,

but copies of the first edition will be forwarded for Ten Cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison St. Chicago.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO.
Wheat—Spring No. 2	60⅛	@	61¼
Winter No. 2	61	@	61⅛
Corn—No. 2	34¼	@	35¼
Oats—No. 2	27⅝	@	35⅛
Rye—No. 2	45⅛	@	48⅛
Bran per ton		@12	25
Hay—Timothy	9 00	@10	50
Butter, medium to best	17	@	27⅛
Cheese	08	@	12⅛
Beans	1 30	@ 1	55
Eggs	18	@	22
Seeds—Timothy (100 lbs)	3 90	4	40
Flax	1 33	@ 1	33⅛
Clover (100 lbs.)	9 50	10	25
Broom corn (per ton)	30 00	@75	00
Potatoes, (new, bu.)	40	@	60
Hides—Green to dry flint	02⅛	@	06
Lumber—Common		@15	50
Wool (unwashed)	15		19
Cattle—Choice to extra	4 50	@ 5	30
Common to good	3 70	@ 4	30
Hogs	4 90	@ 5	30
Sheep	1 00	@ 3	50
NEW YORK.
Wheat No. 2	66	@	67⅝
Corn No 2	43	@	43¾
Oats	33⅛	@	34⅛
Rye	50	@	57
Eggs	18	@	25
Butter	18	@	28⅛
Wool	10	@	26
KANSAS CITY.
Cattle	2 00	@ 5	40
Hogs	4 30	@ 5	10
Sheer	1 00	3	75

Our High Grade List and Bargain Book sent to any address on receipt of a 2-c stamp.

LORD & THOMAS,
NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING
45 RANDOLPH STREET,
CHICAGO.

AN OLD LOVE LETTER

HOLIDAY EDITION

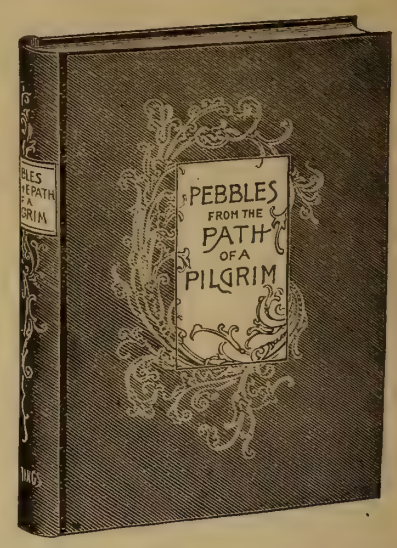
Will be sent, postpaid, to any address on receipt of 35 cents.

CAROLINE E. K. DAVIS,
Mt. Washington, Chelsea, Mass.

Pebbles from the Path of a Pilgrim.

—BY—

MRS. H. L. HASTINGS.



This remarkable collection of stories from the eventful life of a Green Mountain girl has been pronounced "more fascinating than any romance." A member of Congress writes: "'Pebbles' has been read by me with great interest. The introductory chapter has followed me into dreams. My copy is read to pieces by the family, and borrowed to death by the neighbors." An editor says: "Surely the faith that 'obtained promises, wrought righteousness, and stopped the mouth of lions,' must have been given in large measure to the writer of this truly remarkable book.... No family library should be without it." "'Pebbles,'" says the Christian Cynosure, "is such a book as Christian parents are always glad to put on their center-tables."

"Pebbles from the Path of a Pilgrim" is a large and beautiful book of over 300 pages, printed on heavy book paper, from clear open type, and is profusely illustrated. It is artistically bound in handsome cloth, with fancy panels, and specially attractive side and back cover designs. Price, $1.50.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

A BOOKLET.

107 pages, 5x7 inches.

Paper Cover, Postpaid, 15 Cents

The following addresses form part of the contents of this booklet:

THE MARTYR'S OWN MONUMENT, by Rev. J. E. Roy, D. D., Western Secretary of American Missionary Association.

CHRISTIAN POLITICS, by Rev. J. Blanchard, late President Wheaton College, and Editor Christian Cynosure.

THE MYSTERIOUS MACHINE: was it Lawnmower, Town-pump, Balloon, Wheel-barrow,—or what? by Prof. E. D. Bailey of the Civil Service Dept. U. S. Government.

This booklet includes other interesting matter connected with the unveiling of the Morgan monument at Batavia, N. Y. Address

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison st., Chicago

Stories of the Gods. By I. R. B. Arnold. Brief sketches from the mythology of Rome, Greece, Egypt, India, Persia, Phrygia, Scandinavia, Africa and America, showing the relations and unity of past and present systems. The idolatrous worship of the Masonic lodge is thus clearly seen and understood. Postpaid, 10 cents.

Christian Cynosure.

"IN SECRET HAVE I SAID NOTHING."—Jesus Christ.

VOL. XXVI., No. 17. CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JANUARY 4, 1894. WHOLE No. 1,236.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION,

221 West Madison Street, Chicago.

SUBSCRIPTIONS PER YEAR..... $2.00
IF PAID STRICTLY IN ADVANCE..... 1.50

☞No paper discontinued unless so requested by the subscriber, and all arrearages paid.☜

Address all letters for publication to EDITOR CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE, CHICAGO. Writers' names must always be given. No manuscript returned unless requested and postage enclosed.

Make all drafts and money orders payable to the Treasurer, W. I. PHILLIPS, 221 WEST MADISON STREET, CHICAGO. When possible make remittances by express money order. Currency by unregistered letter at sender's risk. When writing to change address on Cynosure list always give the former address.

[Entered at the Postoffice, Chicago, Ill. as Second Class Matter.]

CONTENTS.

EDITORIAL:
Notes and Comments.... 1
Secrecy as a Basis of Organization..... 8
Hiram Abiff as an Imposter..... 8
England's New African Territory..... 8
CONTRIBUTIONS:
The Nature and Grounds of our Opposition to Secrecy (Continued)..... 1
Satan Opposes the Kingdom of Christ..... 2
SELECTED:
Facts from Washington (Concluded)..... 2
What Think ye of "Christ?"..... 3
Greek Fraternities..... 3
Facts and Figures that will not Lie..... 4
WASHINGTON LETTER..... 4
The New England Convention..... 4
LODGE NOTES..... 7
REFORM NEWS:
The Eastern Agent in Pennsylvania..... 5
CORRESPONDENCE:
The Utica Anti-mason Convention and the Free Methodists—An Explanation; Greek Fraternities in Colleges; A Letter from Rev. Francis J. Davidson 5,6
AGENTS AND LECTURERS.... 7
THE N. C. A..... 7
Secret Societies Condemned..... 9
THE HOME.....10
TEMPERANCE.....11
BIBLE LESSON.....12
LITERATURE.....12
What Patriots and Christians Say.....12
HOME AND HEALTH.....14
FARM NOTES.....15
NEWS OF THE WEEK.....16
MARKETS.....16

We give place this week to the proceedings of the New England Christian Association, opposed to secret societies, and working in harmony with the N. C. A. in this momentous reform. It appears to have been a success in most respects, and its expressions of loyalty to the cause were encouraging. Of the addresses delivered, we have in hand, for publication, Rev. J. M. Foster's address of welcome and Rev. M. D. Freeland's paper on the relations of "Secrecy and Christianity." Next week we expect to print some of the excellent testimonies presented.

A papal encyclical letter, recently given to the public through the Roman Catholic press, enjoins the priests to study the Bible, and to make themselves proficient in Oriental languages, so as to be able to read the Scriptures in the original. The principal motive urged for this study is that the priests may be able to refute the arguments of those who oppose their church. Commenting on this subject, the New York Witness thinks that it is not possible that the many sincere men among the priests of Rome, and in her colleges, can study the Bible earnestly without imbibing some of the spirit of evangelical religion; for "the Word of God is living, and active, and sharper than any two-edged sword, and piercing even to the dividing of soul and spirit, of both joints and marrow."

The threatened strike of railway employes of various classes along the line of the Northern Pacific is bringing the legal aspects of the right to strike into prominence. On the 26th of December, at St. Paul, a document was placed in the hands of the United States Marshal, intended to deter the engineer, firemen, conductors, trainmen, and telegraph operators of the Northern Pacific railway from striking. It was issued by Judge Caldwell of the United States Circuit Court and is in effect an injuction to keep the men from striking. It forbids them in any way to injure the property of the company, under penalty, or in any way to interfere with the legal rights of the company, or in any way interfere with men hired to take any places of strikers, or to delay passenger travel over the line of said railway. The order caused great indignation among the dissatisfied employes. If this order can be sustained in Minnesota, it can in all other States, and will provide a new solution of the strike question.

Another year of labor, of sorrow, of joy, has passed by, and we enter upon a new one, yet untried, trusting in the strong arm of him who made and rules the seasons for his own glory and for the blessing of his people. The time is favorable for self-examination, new resolves, new energy. The Lord hath placed every man's work before him, and will give grace, skill and wisdom to the workers. May our hearts and minds be in harmony all this year with David's when he wrote Psalm 125.

When the second trial of Dan Coughlin for participation in the murder of Dr. Cronin began, opposing counsel in the case had a conversation, in which the lawyer for the defense is reported to have remarked: "The Clan-na-Gael is not on trial." "No," was the answer, "we are trying a man for murder." Last week a witness was questioned as to what extent "Camp 20" of the Clan was involved in certain details relating to the murder; and the court immediately barred out all such testimony. This may be right for a staid tribunal, under the circumstances; but public opinion never has, and never can, honestly sever the connection of this tyrannical murderous society with the crime for which Coughlin is on trial.

"Schools of American type are not likely to be supplanted in this republic by schools of the Jesuit type. But a severe contest is impending between those who favor and those who oppose a sectarian division of the public school funds" So writes Joseph Cook, in Our Day for December. It is noticeable that since public opinion is thus shaping itself among true Americans, Cardinal Gibbons, of Baltimore, has ordered his priests and teachers in Maryland to stop their agitation of the school question and the further distribution of the sectarian circulars which have raised such a storm of protests from Protestant denominations. Yet true Americans, who love their country and our free common school system should continue to advocate and defend it. But its defense should not be carried on by dark-lantern, Jesuitic methods. The open, manly principles of the National League for the Protection of American Institutions (printed in the Cynosure of Dec. 28) provide a proper basis for this special work.

There is more than ordinary importance attached to the recent official report of Inspector D. F. Daniels to State School Commissioner Carson of Ohio, concerning sub-district No. 1, Marion Township, Mercer county, in which it is charged that in this school for fifteen years Catholic readers, Catholic church history, and the Catholic catechism have been taught by teachers paid with public money. For many years the local priest has had charge for a quarter of every Thursday, and exercised and reviewed the school exactly as though it had been Catholic. This leads the inspector to say: "After a careful investigation, I believe the charges laid against the management of said district are true; that a considerable portion of the money expended for tuition has been misapplied as alleged; that abuses exist in said district that call for immediate correction; that the real welfare of the children, irrespective of sectarian affiliation, requires a complete divorce of church and school, and a rigid enforcement of the same laws to which the people elsewhere accord a ready obedience." This counsel should have a wider following than it will receive in Marion township. It concerns every school district in the Union.

The Utica (N. Y.) anti-secrecy convention was held Nov. 14, 15. Writing in relation to it, a few days afterwards, Rev. H. L. Kellogg and Rev. J. P. Stoddard (whose letters were printed in the Cynosure of Nov. 30) implied that Rev. O. M. Owen, presiding elder, or district chairman, of the Free Methodist church in the Utica district, had not only refused to allow the convention to be held in his church, but that he had also united with a secret "patriotic" society. Letters from Rev. O. M. Owen and Rev. M. H. Kendrick, pastor of the Utica church, in explanation of the course of the former, state that while individual members of the official board encouraged Bro. Kellogg to believe that the church might be had for that purpose, yet when the board assembled in official session they deemed it unadvisable, for several reasons, to allow it. That the board had a perfect right to render such a decision seems very reasonable; and the N. C. A. does not believe that it has a right to demand that any society should open its doors to its lecturers. On the contrary, it considers it a favor to lecture in any church to which its agents are invited. Our lecturers have frequently received such invitations from pastors of Free Methodist and other churches, and they have been thankfully accepted. Whatever was said or implied in the letters of Bros. Kellogg and Stoddard had its origin in good faith. The N. C. A. deems it a duty, on all occasions, to expose whatever of evil distinguishes the secret empire, and to rebuke those who encourage or practice it. At the same time it desires to be impartial in its judgment, and hence, on another page, we give place to a letter of explanation from Rev. O. M. Owen, the district chairman of the Utica district.

THE NATURE AND GROUNDS OF OUR OPPOSITION TO SECRECY.

BY WILBUR N. COFFEE.

[The following paper was read before the Iowa State Christian Association, at its annual convention, held at Hopkinton, Iowa, Nov. 14, 15, and was ordered sent to the Cynosure for publication.]

(Continued.)

I once enjoyed the hospitality of a Frenchman, who lived with three wives; one white woman and two squaws. I never feel that I am an enemy to that man when I oppose polygamy.

I am told that there is a wealthy gambler in Chicago, who has made his wealth by gambling. An orphan himself, thrown out upon the charity of an unfeeling world, he has taken it upon himself to be a kind and generous benefactor to orphaned children; but shall we therefore cease to oppose gambling? Certainly not, you will say; his benefactions do not justify gambling.

Apply these arguments to secrecy, and you will see how it is possible for us to esteem a friend and oppose his alliances. Certain it is that secrecy shall not secure immunity from the light, through the personal friendship of her members.

3. Again, our opposition is in the nature of a defense, and herein lie the grounds, also, of our opposition. The nature and the reason of our course are so closely related that we shall not try to separate them. In all our opposition to secrecy, we have been defending ourselves against an enemy. Even when we have been aggressive, we have acted in defense of our true and proper interests. Does this statement seem a paradox? I will explain: During the war of the rebellion the Northern army, in defense of the nation, invaded the South. Was not this defense? To my mind, it was the only feasible defense. What seemed to be McClellan's policy was wholly impracticable. It must be obvious that aggressive defense is the truest defense.

It is a singular thing that any could be offended because one endeavors to defend himself; yet so it is, and some will not allow you to do it. Corporations deny you the right of defense. If, under their jurisdiction, the lines fall to you in pleasant places, well and good; but if they should not, and you raise a remonstrance, you are reduced until you learn that your right to challenge has been revoked. Secret societies, where they can, assume to dictate to those who perhaps have no alliance with them. I am acquainted with men who, this year, are shut out of business because they would not conform to the regulations laid down by secret societies. We do not object to a lodge's control of its own membership; but we do strenuously object when its government is extended to those who have no affinity with it. Yet such objection is taken as a personal affront, and it only calls forth abuse.

Last winter, in the town where I live, there were numerous attempts at robbery by footpads; and some of them were successful. An acquaintance of mine was knocked down and robbed. He plead with his assailants to let him go and not to take his earnings. They told him to keep still, and, to silence him, beat him over the head until he lay upon the ground senseless and was nearly frozen before he came to himself. The city was indignant over the affair, and why not? But is not this just the policy pursued by secrecy all over this land?

Plans are laid by secretists for the promotion of their own interests, and too often the execution of these plans is at the expense of the community at large. But if we make any noise about it, we are dealt with more severely.

(1.) It is a defense of the state. Though we are in the minority, we disclaim ambitious pretenses when we presume to defend the state. An old shoemaker and one other man subscribed themselves, "We, the people." The question arises, "Who on earth are the people?" This question can be answered by reiterating with emphasis the first word—"WE."

As component elements of a great commonwealth, there is granted to every man who is properly a subject of the government a degree of individual sovereignty, and this does not conflict with the doctrine of "The greatest good to the greatest number." Again, though we who actively oppose this evil are in the minority, compared with those whom we oppose, yet, together with those who are not allied to the lodge, and whom we represent, and for whose interests we plead, we constitute a majority. And while we plead for fairness in the legislative, executive and judicial departments of our government, for the benefit of the men, women and children of our country, we may claim to be acting in defense of the state.

We believe that secrecy is a growth upon the state not designed by the organizers of this government; and that it is proving to be a troublesome excrescence upon the body politic. When one has a troublesome foreign growth upon his body, he consults his physician, and, should it be diagnosed as malignant, he commences a course of radical treatment, which, if in the "old school," is also "heroic" treatment. This is but ordinary discretion; a proper observance of the first law of nature.

Now we feel that by the massing together in secret conclave of any portion of a community, the inalienable rights of the other citizens of that community are jeopardized; that while that community is in the enjoyment of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, there is nevertheless a growth upon that society which, in the nature of things, is an infringement upon its right to wholesome legislation; a growth that jeopardizes the moral and civil well-being of the community. There are secret conclaves of men found in almost every community in the the United States, and, as a consequence, justice is perverted, local politics are controlled, offices and their emoluments travel around in a "ring." Positions of trust and influence are filled by persons no more competent than others, simply because they "stand in" with "the ring." Who says that it is not high time to inaugurate a thorough course of "heroic" treatment?

"But has not the lodge a constitutional right of existence?" No! "Well; does not the Constitution provide that one may do as he pleases when he has risen to dignity and power?" This is the interpretation of the Constitution by large combines, by saloonists, and by houses of prostitution; but it is not the true interpretation. Men plead constitutional sanction for almost every evil under the sun. Constitutional right was plead for enslaving over four million human beings; and not until this government wrote upon the records of the nation her own interpretation in ink of blood and spelled it out with human lives did men cease to plead constitutional sanction for this manifest evil.

It is not the design of good government to foster evil; but men are found who under the best government would create an evil out of self-interest and plead for its existence. Institutions spring up, here and there, professedly in the interest of certain classes until the state is fairly honeycombed by secret organizations. Freemasonry, Odd-fellowship, Laborers' Unions, Clanna-Gael and communistic and socialistic organizations find a place under the government. Some of these societies arrogate to themselves the high functions of the judiciary of the state; e. g., Freemasonry in the administration of its oaths, and also the execution of Dr. Cronin by the Clan-na-Gael.

These organizations trample under foot the laws of the state and even kill the officers of the law. Witness the killing of Matthias J. Degan at the Haymarket riot, May 4, 1886.

I do not suppose every secret society would resist law and order to this extent; but the tendency is to take to themselves the administration of civil law; and in communistic lodges we often find the attempt to carry to a logical sequence the principles of the institution of secrecy. If it be said that some secret institutions are organized for worthy purposes, we reply that, like unfortunate "Tray," they are keeping bad company. Why should men love darkness rather than light, unless "their deeds are evil?" Jesus, the most benevolent of all men and the greatest benefactor to mankind, says: "In secret have I said nothing."

We are waging war upon secrecy. We cannot stop to discriminate between bad evils and good evils. When we make war upon wolves we do not hold a council to ascertain which have committed depredation; we wage war indiscriminately because of the nature of the animals. We are directing our opposition against the lodge wherever found and of whomsoever composed, because of its nature. This we believe to be our right and duty as citizens of this great commonwealth.

[To be concluded.]

SATAN OPPOSES THE KINGDOM OF CHRIST.

BY REV. J. M. FOSTER.

He does this through organizations. He uses the government of Pharaoh, to oppress Israel in Egypt. He used the empire of the Chaldeans, to enslave the Jews for seventy years. He used pagan Rome, to persecute the early Christians, and papal Rome, to afflict the Waldenses and the Albigenses, the Israel of the Alps. He used the prelatic establishment of Henry VIII. of England, to persecute the witness of England and the Covenanters of Scotland. He used the system of slavery, to cruelly entreat 4,000,000 of human beings in this land. And he is, to-day, using the secret empire, entrenched in the secular forms of the social order, to accomplish his works of darkness.

The binding of Satan is the destruction of his party. In the overthrow of pagan Rome, he was cast out into the earth. In the final destruction of the papal system and the secret empire, he will be bound, just as Napoleon Bonaparte was practically a prisoner in the defeat of his army at Waterloo.

This binding of Satan is to be accomplished by the testimonies of Christ's witnesses. They overcame by the blood of the Lamb and by the word of their testimony. The witnesses have power to bring down fire on the earth; their testimony is the torment of the world.

The National Christian Association was organized to unite the friends of Christ of every name, who desire to bear witness to the truth and to testify against the unfruitful works of darkness. The New England Christian Association was formed for the purpose of making an assault upon the fortifications of secrecy in Boston, the Athens of America, where Satan hath his seat; and through the New England States, in every one of which secret, oath-bound societies dominate both church and state.

[Let the noble gathering of the friends of Christ at the recent convention of the New England Christian Association—the report of which is printed on another page of this issue—stand as the handwriting on the wall, recording the sentence of secretism.—EDITOR CYNOSURE.]

FACTS FROM WASHINGTON.

BY ONE WHO KNOWS.

(Concluded.)

A few months ago an investigation showed that one-half of the one hundred and fifty clerks in a certain division of the Agricultural department were Roman Catholics. There are more there now. Are we to learn agriculture from Ireland?

In the Land Office there is but one chief of a division, appointed under Harrison, who retains his place thus far in the present administration, and he is a Roman Catholic. In the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the assistant superintendent, who is an active Roman Catholic, has contrived to retain his position, like many other Romanists in prominent positions, under both Democratic and Republican administrations, while it was a noticeable fact that all Protestant Democratic officials, ranking above the highest civil service clerkships, were promptly dismissed upon the respective changes in administration.

In one division in the Printing Office where there are fifty clerks, forty are Romanists. In one room in the Treasury of eight clerks, four are Roman Catholics. Why is this?

In a bureau in the Agricultural department an old and faithful clerk, who always avoided giving to the nuns, and who was outspoken in his Protestant sympathies, was summarily dismissed—he overheard a Chief of Division complaining very bitterly against some opposition that was being made against Roman Catholic influence in the department, and connecting his name with it. The dismissal followed. Is this the land of the free?

If there is one of the leading departments not visited by the sisters of charity, so called, I am not aware of it. Some bureaus seem entirely subject to the order of the priests. Cases like these are known. There are four members of one family in government employ, and one of the daughters is in one of these priest-controlled bureaus. When some one remarked that they must earn a good deal of money, she said: "No; we have to pay a good deal of it over to the Roman Catholic church, in order to hold our positions."

A lady could not give to her own church because she was giving fifty cents a month to the Roman Catholic church, and she was dismissed. She said: "One day when the collector came I did not have any change with me, and this provoked the nun, and I gave her nothing the next time she came. A week after I had a letter which requested me to resign."

A lady who had long been a clerk there was asked how many Protestants she knew among the twenty-five hundred clerks employed in that particular department, and she was positive of but five Protestants. This is a department of the government that for years has simply been a feedingstation for the Roman Catholic church.

Up to the time when General Rosecrans resigned, it was notorious that the clerks had to pay money regularly to the priests and nuns.

The following was related to me by one who knew. There was a young man who was clerk, stenographer, and chief clerk all in one, to himself apparently. He did nothing but read the papers and trashy novels, and draw his pay. The facts leaked out through an old man whom he employed as his messenger, and his case was investigated. Asked who was his superior? He had none. To whom did he report? To no one. What service did he render the government? His answers were equally unsatisfactory, and he was requested to send in his resignation.

At this point the influence of a cardinal was brought into requisition, and the young man was retained. This kind of interference is tolerated for the simple reason that votes are believed to be behind it. Is there not sufficient warrant for patriots rising up all over the land, and as one man, regardless of party affiliations, uniting to put down all this intermeddling by foreign-allied ecclesiastics with the men whom we elect to administer our affairs?

THE INDIAN SERVICE.

As is well known, the Roman Catholic church maintains an Indian Bureau at Washington. All of us remember how a committee of Roman prelates endeavored to prevent the confirmation by the Senate of a man who was the choice not simply of the President, but all who believed in Indians being educated in government schools and made intelligent citizens. All of us know what a determined effort was made for four years to prevent the carrying out of plans that were approved by Democrats and Republicans alike. Who supports this Roman Catholic Bureau in its contention with the American people? The United States Treasury, of course; for are not hundreds of thousands of dollars paid annually to the Romanists for their contract schools—inferior in every respect to government schools? Are not all the Catholic teachers in these schools under a vow of poverty? Who has their salaries? And think of the following facts, but two out of many that we might adduce to show how this church works in the capital of the nation.

I was told by the late Commissioner of Indian Affairs that the chief clerk reported the facts from the Indian department to the Roman Catholic Bureau before he reported them to the United States Government.

As an example of the manner in which the business of the government is in the hands of Rome, take this fact told me by General Morgan. In the Indian reservation in the State of Minnesota, under the ecclesiastical jurisdiction of Archbishop Ireland, was a priest who was creating much disturbance, and was consequently objectionable to the government. The Indian Commissioner urged that the priest be removed, and Ireland promised it should be done. Not long afterward the Archbishop wanted a favor of the Commissioner, and General Morgan telegraphed to the Indian agent: "Is Father So-and-So on the reservation?" desiring to know whether Archbishop Ireland had kept his word. Naturally you would suppose the agent would have telegraphed an answer to his official superior, but the Commissioner heard not a word until Thomas Carter, chairman of the National Republican Committee, telegraphed General Morgan to this effect: that it was better not to make any fuss about that priest while the election was pending.

This meant that the Indian agent had reported, directly or indirectly, to Archbishop Ireland, and that Ireland, who poses as a Republican, had laid his hand upon the Roman Catholic who was running the Republican campaign, and he, in turn, put his hand on the Indian Commissioner, and advised him to leave the unworthy priest in his place.

All friends of the Indian, save those who are Romanists and believe with them, view with growing alarm the movements and rulings of the present Indian Commissioner. His chief clerk, we are told, is a Roman Catholic, and is really the power to-day in Indian affairs.

THE COURT OF APPEALS—HARRISON—CLEVELAND.

The Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, organized this year, may be said to be entirely composed of Roman Catholics. The Chief Justice, Alvey, of Maryland, while not attached to any church, is the son of a Roman Catholic mother; Judge Martin F. Morris, who was a leading Jesuit lawyer, is an ardent Roman Catholic; and Judge Shepherd, of Texas, is also a Roman Catholic. This is the court of last resort in this District, the only appeal from its judgments being to the United States Supreme Court. If you would like to know how judicial a mind Judge Morris has, read his address at the Catholic Congress on "The Independence of the Holy See," and then recall to memory the facts as known to every student of history and observer of the times. Are we to have Jesuits for judges?

Why did President Harrison, at the bidding of Archbishop Ireland, make concessions to please the Roman Catholics as such—not as American citizens, but as subjects of the Pope?

Why, with a Presidential election pending, did the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury send a United States vessel to meet the Pope's agent, Mgr. Satolli? SIMPLY FOR POLITICAL EFFECT.

President Cleveland has Cardinal Gibbons come to the White House for conference. Following those conferences, appointments were made of chiefs to departments or bureaus distributing large amounts of money, and controlling large lists of clerical appointments; and Irish Roman Catholics were appointed.

And, more significant still, these conferences were closely followed by the letter of Cleveland to the Pope, and the offer of his state papers to Leo. XIII., in a letter which astonished the country. Why is this done? FOR POLITICAL EFFECT.

Why were Roman Catholics placed at the head of the National Campaign Committees of both the great political parties in the past Presidential campaign? FOR POLITICAL EFFECT ALONE.

Are there not able Protestants, in either the Democratic or Republican parties, who can be entrusted with these high duties? Is it not about time that presidents and cabinets and congresses were called to strict account for pandering to a church that has been the assassin of liberty in every land where she has obtained foothold? Are we to follow the lead of less than ten thousand, mostly foreign-born, ecclesiastics, and that part of the Roman Catholic church which they control? or are the nearly sixty million Protestants and their intelligent American Catholic fellow-citizens, who are at one with them, as against all this Old World ecclesiasticism, to be held in honor by those who are at the capital of the nation, as our representatives?

"WHAT THINK YE OF CHRIST?"

"What think ye of Christ? Whose son is he? They say unto him, the Son of David."

How many get no farther than this, in understanding who this Son of David is? And they go on, taking him as a beautiful example of a perfect human life, expecting by imitation to work out their own salvation. And some, on this plan, do work out beautiful human lives; but they are lives which have their root, bud, flower, and fruitage in this life, and therefore do not take hold of the life eternal.

Some of these are the "good," for whom some would even dare to die; though the blood of "the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world" has never been applied to their cleansing. While every good deed is sure of reward according to its measure, these verily have theirs; but it is not the eternal life promised only to those who believe on him who is not only the Son of David, but declared to be the Son of God with power, according to the spirit of holiness, by the resurrection from the dead.

One sees and hears so much that is crude in statement, and confused in order, regarding the kingdom of heaven; promoted by the humanitarian cry of the universal Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man; which the church seems to be unwittingly echoing, and which proposes a universal religion, that shall include the whole fraternity, regardless of the only name given under heaven among men by which any human soul can be saved from sin and its consequences.

Did anybody see the hand of the lodge in gathering together that motley abomination, called a Parliament of Religions, at the Columbian Exposition? Did they see the effort to establish a Masonic religion as wide as the world, by subscribing to a league based on the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man; wide enough to include any form of idolatry and paganism, the followers of the beast and of the false prophet, into one conglomerate mass, to be called a universal religion?

Has the time arrived when, in the unfolding of God's providence, the man of sin is to be revealed, that son of perdition, who is to exalt himself "above all that is called God or that is worshiped, establishing himself in the temple of God, and showing himself that he is God." Otherwise, what means this dropping out of the name of Christ, this vain expectation of salvation without the regenerating power of the Holy Spirit; this galvanized Christianity, commending itself to the world by the cry of progress, inspired by the subtle enemy, who transforms himself into an angel of light, and prates of knowledge, the more effectually to deceive? Are the last days indeed upon us, when men "shall not endure sound doctrine, but heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears?" the time when "men shall love the creature more than the Creator who is God over all and blessed forever?" Else what means the flagrant violation of the commands of Christ—the wanton desecration of the Lord's day; the fading out of the common mind of the sense of sin; the reckless disregard of the sacredness of human life, so that the earth is polluted with the blood of suicides and the victims of the murderer; when the moral stamina of the people seems lost, so that many fail to resist the temptation to steal when the chance comes to them in any place where they are trusted?

If all these things had not been foretold, we might despair for the race, and conclude that after nearly two thousand years the god of this world had triumphed.

But all these things must come to pass before the Lord shall come into his kingdom. So let us look upon them as steps which bring us nearer to the glorious consummation; when the Holy Spirit shall have finished his ministrations, and the sacramental host of God's elect shall be complete, and the Lord himself shall come as King to glorify his saints, both living and dead, and to be admired in all them that believe; when the church need no longer pray "Thy kingdom come." Oh, blessed hope! Let the followers of Christ, the few among the many, possess their souls in patience, for their redemption draweth nigh. Even so, come Lord Jesus!

A. E. KELLOGG.

Denver, Col.

GREEK FRATERNITIES.

These organizations among students are in the opinion of some educators a serious menace to modern education.

Their chief object is to promote the social standing of their members and afford them avenues of pleasure, I cannot say improvement, which others cannot have.

Greek fraternities have been given the great leverage of secrecy and select membership. The result is that now they only dictate the social affairs of students in most American colleges, but use the same power in some instances towards faculties and trustees. It is almost needless to say that this dictatorship is invariably used in the direct interests of the fraternity and to promote the welfare of its members; the good of the entire school being incidental and of secondary importance.

The evils which have arisen from this social system have rightly called forth the following objections:

Fraternities have created a false aristocracy and caste among students which divides entire schools into rival factions, create general disorder and make many personal enmities, which ought not to be. Those who are not invited to join naturally feel indignant that a fellow-student should look down on them because fortune has not favored them with enough of wit or money to become a "frater," and they feel that they are discriminated against in a subtle and unjust manner in those things which go so far to relieve the tedious routine of study.

Fraternities cultivate in their members, who are young and have no definite conception of the fundamental principles which should govern the social relations, an unseemly pride and a narrowness in friendship which is detrimental to the cultivation of Christian character and antagonistic to broad-minded and liberal citizenship.

The drain upon the time and money of the average student who fulfills his fraternity obligations infringes very seriously upon his regular duties and needful expenses.

The good objects of the school fraternity can be much more easily obtained and be open to all without the intervention of select cliques. Therefore it would seem that the manifest evils of the Greek system of social training should at once banish that system from every thoroughly Christian school.

It is plain injustice to all students to subject them on the one hand to the temptations of the fraternity, and on the other to the disadvantages and discriminations against which the uniniated constantly struggle.

A student goes to college rightfully expecting impartial and elevating advantages of social culture which are quite as necessary to success as mental discipline. A college should give such advantages, if it pretends to be a Christian institution, but the fraternity system makes this impossible. Universalist schools, professing before all the world to be founded upon principles of universal brotherhood, admit into their halls a system which could not exist for one moment if not for its partialistic principles. How this can be done and our educational institutions fulfill their mission to society is a problem which demands the earnest and prayerful consideration and decisive action of those who have charge of our educational interests.—Gospel Banner.

FACTS, AND FIGURES THAT WILL NOT LIE.

"For the following significant statistics of lodges, as compared with churches, in various cities," writes the author of "The New Era; or, The Coming Kingdom," page 128, "I am indebted to Dr. Graham Taylor. They were compiled from city directories:

		Population,	Churches,	Lodges.
Buffalo	1888-9	240,000	144	218
New Orleans	1888-9	2'6,090	178	270
Washington	1888-9	203,450	181	316
St. Louis	1888-9	450,000	220	729
Worcester	1888-9	85,000	54	88
Boston	1890	448,477	243	599
Brooklyn	1890	853,945	355	695
Chicago	1890	1,099,850	384	1,088

To which figures may aptly be added the following testimony of Dr. Josiah Strong, the general secretary of the Evangelical Alliance for the United States, on secret societies: "The Masonic order, the Odd-fellows, and the thousand other brotherhoods for insurance, industrial advantage, and the like, are attempts to supply what the organization of society does not afford. In these, men are blindly feeling after that which Christ sought to establish when he laid down his second law, viz., a real brotherhood of man, based, not as these organizations are—on self-interest—but on love."

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 27, 1893.

One of the most remarkable documents ever prepared has been presented to President Cleveland and Secretary Gresham. It is a memorial to the rulers of the world, asking them to pledge themselves to the adoption of international arbitration. The memorial, which has attached, in addition to the signatures of many prominent Americans, the autographs of the commissioners of the forty nations which participated in the World's Fair, reads as follows: "To the governors of the world: The undersigned, citizens of many countries, gathered at the World's Columbian Exposition in Chicago, in the United States of America, recognizing the advantages accruing to those nations which have pursued the policy of arbitrating international disputes, and desiring that like benefits may in the future be enjoyed by all nations, and deeming this a fitting opportunity, do hereby join in this memorial to all our various governments, praying that they will unitedly agree, by mutual treaties, to submit for settlement by arbitration all such international questions as shall fail of satisfactory solution by the ordinary peaceful negotiations. And for this the petitioners will ever pray. It is requested that a copy of this memorial shall be presented to each of the governments of the world." Both the President and Secretary Gresham assured Mr. William E. Blackstone, of Chicago, who had the honor of presenting the memorial on behalf of the World's Columbian Commission, of their sympathy with the sentiments expressed therein, and, further, that as soon as fac similes of the memorial can be prepared they will be formally delivered to the rulers of every nation by representatives of the United States government. The moral effect of this memorial, officially approved by the government of the United States, cannot fail to be great. It is through such agencies that the hideous monster, war, will eventually be banished from the earth.

The crusade of the temperance people against the use of intoxicating liquors at New Year's receptions, while it has not banished liquor altogether upon those occasions, has gradually lessened the number of those who set it before their guests. The work is still being kept up in that line; and in addition to personal appeals a public meeting of the W. C. T. U. adopted the following: Resolved, That we, the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, deprecate the custom of offering wine or any other intoxicating liquor, either on the day on which we celebrate the birth of the Prince of Peace, or at New Year's receptions, and that we most earnestly and lovingly plead with our sisters, of whatever station in life, that they do not put this snare in the way of fathers, brothers, husbands, and sons of our city."

It is always interesting to hear a missionary relate his experiences among the far-away heathen, and it was doubly so to hear Mr. William H. Shepperd, a Negro born in Virginia, who has spent four years in missionary work among the cannibalistic tribes of Central Africa. Mr. Shepperd, who was introduced to his first Washington audience by Senator Morgan, of Alabama, has, in addition to his missionary work, made discoveries in Africa of sufficient importance to have caused him to be elected a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society of England. He gave vivid descriptions of the changes which the missionaries have brought about in the men who were only a few short years ago ferocious cannibals. After each address Mr. Shepperd distributed samples of African-made cloth and exhibited a collection of knives and weapons also made by the natives of that country. He will return to Africa at the close of a short lecture tour in this country and resume missionary work.

There are fewer Christmas entertainments in Washington Sunday-schools this year than for a long time, and very much less money has been spent upon those that have been given than has usually been devoted to this purpose. The reason is that the money has been devoted to relieving the distress existing among the unemployed people of the city. It is creditable to the children that they have in many Sunday-schools themselves suggestsd that no entertainment be given and that the money intended for that purpose be given to the poor.

The gamblers who are trying to establish daily horse racing here, thought that District Attorney Birney was not in earnest when he threatened them with arrest if they attempted to race again. They raced yesterday, and true to his word the District Attorney had them arrested. The churches are taking action to show their appreciation of the efforts of the District Attorney to suppress this gambling scheme. At a meeting of the board of trustees of the Gurley Memorial church a resolution was adopted commending the action of the District Attorney and appealing to all Christians and moral people to aid him maintain the law and banish this pernicious influence from our midst. The outcome is anxiously awaited by Washington people.

THE NEW ENGLAND CONVENTION.

HELD IN THE BROMFIELD STREET M. E. CHURCH, BOSTON, DEC. 20 AND 21, 1893.

The second convention of the New England Christian Association, dating from its incorporation, was held in the Bromfield M. E. church, under the bluest and brightest of winter skies. December seldom favors us with two such rarely beautiful days in succession. So, in spite of numerous disappointments at the outset, we felt that the good hand of our God was on us, and still more, at its close, do we now feel that he has overruled even those things which seemed most untoward, so that we can now look back on the convention which has just closed with thankful hearts as a successful one, and the best in many respects that has yet been held.

A MEETING OF THE CORPORATE BODY

was held at 2 P. M., Dec. 20., President J. M. Foster in the chair.

After reading of the minutes, Rev. J. P. Stoddard reported. More has been done by personal work than in any other way. The tract work had been especially successful. The pressing need of the reform in New England is a home. We need to be better located, where we can have more room, be able to hold meetings, and reach young people and Christian workers who desire instruction on the subject of anti-secrecy. He advised that a committee be appointed to look up a suitable place and see what terms could be made. To the inquiry if any buildings had been looked at, he stated that there were more places for sale than in prosperous times. There was one on Columbus Avenue.

A committee of five business men, consisting of E. T. McIntire, E. D. Conant, E. E. Slocum, S. A. Pratt, and J. P. Stoddard, were then appointed for this purpose.

A committee of three was appointed by the chairman to nominate officers; viz.: J. A. Conant, S. C. Kimball, and Philip Bacon. Their nominees were: For President, Rev. J. M. Foster; Vice-president, Rev. D. B. Gunn; Recording Secretary, E. E. Flagg; Corresponding Secretary, J. P. Stoddard.

For Board of Directors: Rev. J. M. Foster, E. T. McIntire, Mrs. A. A. Rockwood, Samuel A. Pratt, E. E. Slocum.

After a brief speech of acceptance from the President and the General N. E. agent, the meeting adjourned till 1 P. M. the next day.

THE FIRST EVENING SESSION

began at 7:30 with devotional exercises, conducted by Mrs. A. J. Gordon, who spoke very eloquently and earnestly from our Saviour's words to his disciples: "As the Father hath sent me, so send I you into this world."

There was very great and general disappointment at the unavoidable absence of Mrs. H. J. Bailey, Superintendent of Peace and Arbitration in the World's and National W. C. T. U., who was called to the sick-bed of her mother.

Our second speaker on the program, Rev. Hezekiah Davis, was also absent on account of illness.

President Foster, after introducing Mrs. M. E. A. Gleason to fill the chair, made a statement of the principles of the N. E. C. A. from a personal standpoint. Mrs. M. E. A. Gleason then spoke on the Evils of Masonry, and the duty of Christian women to antagonize the lodge, after which she introduced Miss Flagg, who read a paper on "How Women can Learn about Masonry."

Being obliged to leave, she then called on Mrs. A. E. Stoddard to take the chair. After remarks from S. C. Kimball and J. P. Stoddard, the meeting closed.

THE FOLLOWING DAY, THE MORNING SESSION

was opened by devotional exercises, led by Rev. J. M. Foster, who read the 37th chapter of Ezekiel, and talked of the work of the Spirit, and the preaching of the Gospel. Several offered prayer.

Committees were then appointed as follows: On Resolutions: S. C. Kimball, J. P. Stoddard, F. M. Foster. Finances: J. A. Conant, L. E. Lincoln, E. T. McIntire. Plan of Work: S. C. Kimball, Mrs. A. E. Stoddard, D. B. Gunn.

Bro. Stoddard explained the necessity of other officers to act at the meetings. Acccordingly J. A. Conant was chosen President of the Association, S. C. Kimball, Vice-president, D. B. Gunn, Secretary.

The Committee on Plan of Work then reported. The report was accepted. After remarks from several, the first item was adopted and the time of the annual meeting changed from December to October. The rest was laid over.

The Committee on Finance then reported.

Mrs. A. E. Stoddard then read a most eloquent and interesting paper on "The Attitude of Freemasonry in its Relation to Temperance." It was an address bristling with unanswerable facts, and which, if it could be heard by every W. C. T. U. in the land, could not fail to convince the most skeptical that the saloon and the lodge are most intimately connected.

Remarks were made by Rev. L. F. Beecher and Rev. W. E. Barton. The benediction was then pronounced by Rev. J. P. Stoddard.

The afternoon session was opened by devotional exercises, led by Rev. Geo. W. Coon. The unfinished business was then taken up, and the resolution offered by S. C. Kimball, that "frequent three-days' meetings should be held with the country churches," was amended by leaving it to the discretion of the Board.

Pres. J. A. Conant spoke briefly in favor of such meetings.

AT THE AFTERNOON SESSION,

President Conant being temporarily absent, Vice-president Kimball took the chair.

Brief testimonies were then called for.

The chairman gave an account of his own experience in the Good Templar Lodge. This was followed by Dea. D. T. Daniels, Rev. Mr. McNaugher, Howes of Newton, Burlin of Boston, S. A. Pratt, E. T. McIntire, and Rev. Geo. W. Coon. The latter paid a glowing tribute to the Christian Cynosure, after which a little time was taken up by Rev. J. P. Stoddard in presenting the claims of the paper as one of the very best that can enter the family circle, and indispensable to everyone who wishes to keep informed regarding the lodge and the movement of the N. C. A. against it.

L. E. Lincoln then related his experience with adhering Masons.

Wm. F. Davis then read a challenge from a Mason to meet him in debate.

Bro. Stoddard then gave a chart talk.

Dr. Gordon spoke a few words, expressive of his pleasure and the instruction he had received from the chart talk, and emphasizing the necessity of separation. He was followed by H. L. Hastings on the same general line.

The following resolution was adopted:

"Resolved, That we maintain and reaffirm our distrust of all associations to antagonize wickedness and promote reform that require a pledge or oath to conceal the doings and methods of said assemblies a condition of membership, whether such associations profess to be benevolent, patriotic or religious; believing that the principle is unsafe, un-American and un-Christian, and, however plausible as a means to attain a desirable result, it will in the end prove a snare and a delusion, defeating the purpose of those who honestly seek to promote reform by such un-Scriptural methods."

THE SECOND EVENING SESSION

opened at 7:30 with a devotional exercise conducted by Rev. Y. A. McElwin.

A very logical and incisive address on Masonic Oaths was then given by Rev. F. M. Foster. Rev. M. D. Kneeland followed, and spoke eloquently on the subject of "Christianity and Secrecy."

Mrs. A. A. Rockwood was then called upon for a few words; and the convention closed with the benediction by Rev. J. P. Stoddard.

AMONG OUR OTHER DISAPPOINTMENTS,

the absence of our solo singer, Miss Ella Carter, who was ill with a cold, was not one of the least. But the remark was very generally heard at the close of the meeting that this had been a grand convention. I heard many say that they had been greatly instructed by the testimonies and the chart talk, and that they had felt the Spirit of the Lord very sensibly present in the harmony and sweetness which had characterized all the proceedings.

The addresses will appear in the Cynosure, according to a vote of the convention; and this report will next week be supplemented (D. V.) by some of the pithy and pointed words of testimony which cannot be given now for lack of space and time. ELIZABETH E. FLAGG.

—The Prince of Wales is reported to be forming a secret society for the purpose of carrying on historical researches into the records of old English families. The element of secrecy is explained by the scandalous character of many of the expected discoveries. The object of the prince in thus uncovering the misdoings of the friends and acquaintances of his forefathers is also a secret, and should remain one, since no possible good can result from such a work. It certainly is not a very dignified avocation for Great Britain's highest nobleman and prospective sovereign.

REFORM NEWS.

THE EASTERN AGENT IN PENNSYLVANIA.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 21, 1893.

DEAR CYNOSURE:—After a little more than two weeks' hard work in the field, I again return for a little to the "haven of rest"—home.

I spoke every evening last week and three times on Sabbath.

At the time of my last writing I expected to spend Sabbath at Pen Argyle, but Providence ordered otherwise. Friends at that point were not quite ready, and Quakertown was all ready. The attendance at the Quakertown meetings was all that could be expected. Judging from what I learned of the store and street-corner talks, somebody was very angry. Language was used very uncomplimentary to the writer. The argument sometimes presented by lodge advocates in the shape of decaying eggs was suggested, but not presented so far as I know. At least one gentleman who had thoughts of uniting with the lodge decided not to do so after listening to my lecture. He will read the Cynosure hereafter.

If every one receiving our paper would circulate it, they might save many young men from uniting with the lodge.

The man keeping the hotel with saloon and lodge attachments listened to my address on Saturday evening [I spoke five times in Quakertown]. It would naturally displease him to have the attention of his fellow-townsmen called to the fact that he understood what would make his liquor business prosper, and hence had established four lodges [the Red Men and Eagles among them] above his stable. What a pity that white men, pretending to be red men, should partake of the "fire water" which he offers them! Is it not perfectly natural that men filled with liquor should prefer a stable as a place to lodge? Surely no man who is in the least decent would want to intrude himself on respectable people when thus acting like an ignorant red man.

I trust we shall hear more of the work in Quakertown.

A very pleasant evening was spent with Mennonite friends at Hatfield. A good audience gathered in response to an invitation extended by the pastor, Rev. M. A. Zyner, to hear me on Thursday evening. Though the depression in money matters is felt in the section I last visited, as elsewhere, there has been a manifest disposition to aid us with what the friends could spare. The collections nearly met the traveling expenses, and a good list of Cynosure subscriptions was obtained. I have sent Bro. Phillips Cynosure subscriptions as follows: Reading 7, Allentown 14, Bethlehem 5, Coopersburg 3, Hatfield 4, Center Valley 2, Quakertown and Richland Center 15—50 in all. So the light of the "Pole Star" will be seen in this section, I trust, for years to come. Will not each one newly receiving our paper try to get some one else to take it, and thus cause the light to shine farther?

Returning to Philadelphia, I consulted friends as to time, and the most suitable place, to hold the next Pennsylvania State Convention. The time will (D. V.) be the latter part of February. The pastor of the First United Presbyterian church would be pleased to invite us to occupy the church of which he is pastor, if agreeable to session. Strong speakers will not be wanting. Bro. Jordan, the former agent of the N. C. A. in the South, is now pastor of the Union Baptist church of Philadelphia. He is superintending the erection of a fine church edifice, to cost, when completed, not less than $45,000. He will, of course, speak and do what he can to swell the number at the convention.

I almost forgot to mention an important item. Bro. John G. Stauffer, whose address is Quakertown, Pa., publishes a monthly paper called The Manna in English and German. It is intended especially for Sabbath-schools. The price is 20 cents per year for single copy; 10 cents when ten or more copies are ordered. Bro. S. is true blue on the anti-secrecy question, having taken the Cynosure twenty years. Send for sample.

W. B. STODDARD.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE UTICA ANTI-MASON CONVENTION AND THE FREE METHODISTS—AN EXPLANATION.

GLEN'S FALLS, N. Y., Dec. 19, 1893.

In a late issue of the Cynosure, Rev. J. P. Stoddard says concerning the Utica Convention:

"The assistance and co-operation so confidently expected from the Free Methodists like the 'ashen apples of Sodom' proved fallacious and deceptive. My information may be prejudiced, and the inference unwarranted, but it looks like a desertion of the church's standard on secret societies for which Elder Owen is largely responsible. If I am not in error, we may note this as another instance in which the judgment of a trusted leader has been warped by connection with a movement to checkmate the papacy and defeat the devil by employing his own pet methods of division and secretism against him."

In the same issue H. L. Kellogg says of the American Protective League: "Yet because of its ostensible purpose to oppose Romanism, some who by church profession are against all secretism are led into the inconsistency of supporting this lodge by speaking publicly for it and by membership."

The italics in the above are our own. We presume Bro. Kellogg refers to the American Patriotic League. This league, the American Protective Association, and National League for the Protection of American Institutions, are all separate institutions. Bro. K. has got things a little mixed.

So far as my name is concerned, I care but little about the foregoing unkind fling. My own reputation is with the Lord. However, it would seem proper and a duty to correct false statements that neither the church nor the individual should be placed in any untrue light.

1. Bro. Kellogg, the agent of the N. C. A., wrote Bro. M. H. Kendrick and myself in reference to having the State convention the Utica F. M. church. On referring the matter to the official board, they, for reasons of their own, voted unanimously not to allow the church to be used at that time, and appointed Bro. Kendrick and myself as a committee to communicate the matter to Bro. Kellogg, which we did as agents for said board, and are not ashamed of doing the same. But even this did not seem to satisfy Bro. Kellogg, who even after a square refusal of the church seemed unwilling to abide the decision of the board. Surely the church had a right to control its own property, and refuse to let the building, without being branded as having "deserted" her "standard" on the secret society question, or compared to the "ashen apples of Sodom."

A general quarterly meeting was coming soon after the State convention, for which the society had to provide entertainment, and the church officials did not feel like opening the edifice, providing entertainment for the visitors, and footing the bills, excepting, of course, the gas bills, which the N. C. A. agent kindly offered to pay if he could have the use of the church; but I am informed did pay, or was to pay, $25 for the use of the Welsh M. E. church. Our churches have been opened time after time to the N. C. A. Most every reform movement that is launched forth lights upon the F. M. societies, and they are expected to open their churches, take care of the people who come, give them a big collection and ask them to come again; and because one society claims the right to say whether they will or will not be dictated to by the anti-secret reformers, they must be advertised as "deserters," etc. Why do not these N. C. A. brethren, who are so desirous of shedding light in a reform church where it is not needed, come out from membership with lodge-ridden churches? It is a sin for a reform church once to assert its right over its own church property, but no sin to remain in church-fellowship with the very evil they are fighting. Is that it? The F. M. church has the matter incorporated in the discipline, and it is made a test of membership; whereas most of the members of the N. C. A. are in church-fellowship with Masons, and if their own statements are true, some of them are members of a Congregational association where the Masons are in the majority and have the rule. Now, why not "heal thyself?"

2. It was stated by one man at the convention that Bro. Owen had joined one of the secret orders. Strange that the said Bro. Owen was not present when initiated. He is not a member of any secret order. He has his own opinion of the A. P. A. and similar organizations, and claims the right of private judgment concerning them.

O. M. OWEN.

GREEK FRATERNITIES IN COLLEGES.

GALESBURG, Ill., 1893.

EDITOR CYNOSURE:—I send to you by this mail a marked copy of the Gospel Banner, containing an article which I wrote upon the subject of secret societies among students.

It is here, I think, that an incalculable and undreamed-of amount of mischief, and serious and lasting injury, is done to young people who are subject to the influences of these "secret chapters." If you will kindly republish the article marked, I will take considerable pleasure in placing as many copies as you send me where they will do the most good.

I saw Mr. Stoddard at the Fair, and he gave me much encouragement to continue the work against these secret and select organizations among students; a work which, I think, is at present subject to many disadvantages.

The fraternity students greatly outnumber those outside of their lodges, and young people, as a rule, are so selfish in social affairs that they become thoughtless and anxious to "join" the first fraternity that invites them.

The school which I attend (Lombard University) has long been subject to all the evils of the fraternity system; and since I have been here more than one-half or three-fourths of the students were among the initiated, so that for an "outsider" to do much, or enjoy much social freedom, has been out of the question.

I like your paper, so far, very much and believe that it is doing much good for the cause which you advocate, and I hope that still greater success awaits all those who oppose the secret system of cliques and clubs which at present rend and derancinate the social state.

Very truly yours, HENRY L. F. GILLESPIE.

[The article referred to in this letter will be found on the third page of this issue of the Cynosure.—EDITOR.]

A LETTER FROM REV. FRANCIS J. DAVIDSON.

NEW ORLEANS, December, 1893.

EDITOR CYNOSURE:—Doubtless you and many of your readers would like to hear something from "away down South, in Dixie," where the sun shines brightly in mid-winter. Well, praise the Lord! we are yet amongst the living. As we look back over eight years' entire separation from the lodge, and six years' of active reform work in this hotbed of lodgeism, rumism and Catholicism, being persecuted, defamed and blackmailed, we can yet praise the Lord, because "his mercy endureth forever." We have, at times, been almost persuaded by the tempter, when the clouds hung heavily, and the lightning flashed severely, to cry out: "I yield; I cannot hold out longer;" but it seemed as though an unseen voice would whisper in my ears: "Be of good cheer; I have overcome the world." Then I would take courage and press forward. Thrice I had entirely made up my mind to give up my pastoral work here, and abandon this field of labor; and thrice the Lord seemed to say to me: "Oh, thou of little faith." "Tarry ye at Jericho until thy beard be grown."

So, thank God! through many trials I have thus far firmly stood. The St. Matthew Baptist church, of which I am pastor, is doing as well as can be expected under the circumstances. Our active membership is about forty. We have ceiled our church inside, built a nice altar, and are now building a baptistry. We have felt the stroke of financial depression very severely; and again we have had much serious sickness among our members, several of whom are now sick; but, thank God! we have much to rejoice for. We have done away entirely with church entertainments to raise funds for expenses; the lodge is still opposing me, but not as daring as they were some time ago.

I was chosen president of the American Mercantile company a few months ago. The secretary and another very prominent secretist resigned and sacrificed their stock, claiming that as I was opposed to secret societies it would ruin the corporation. I am doing all I can to make the corporation a gradual success.

The President's message to Congress was quite a disappointment to many Democrats here. As long as our national legislature is controlled and run by Masons and other secretists, rumites, Catholics, and gigantic corporations, we must expect financial depressions and other embarrassments. What we need is more backbone and manhood in our representatives, to see and oppose evil. The Gospel ministry and the Christian church must stand as a unity in opposition to all sin. Pray for me in my effort to do work for the Master. Yours in the work, (Rev.) FRANCIS J. DAVIDSON.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE offers to either an old or new subscriber, until the 1st of February, 1894, any book for sale by the National Christian Association at 25 per cent discount from retail rates, when ordered in connection with a yearly or six months' subscription to the Cynosure.

A special offer is made of the Christian Cynosure, one year, and "BETWEEN TWO OPINIONS," by Miss E. E. Flagg, 389 pages, cloth, price $1. The two, worth $2.50, will be sent for only $1.75 and four 2-cent stamps to pay postage on the book.

CYNOSURE OFFER!

Any of the Books sold by the N. C. A. in this paper, ordered, with subscription to the Cynosure, at one-fourth off from list price, sent postpaid.

The New Volume of Pen and Pencil Series.

WELSH PICTURES Drawn with Pen and Pencil.

By D. Lewis Jones, Morris Jones, Edward Ffoulkes, H. Elvet Lewis, D. Tyssil Evans, D. Davies and O. M. Edwards. Edited by Richard Lovett, M. A. With many Illustrations. Imperial 8vo, cloth, gilt edges, boxed..... 3.20

"'Welsh pictures' is the work of ten Welshmen, among whom illustrating the beauties of Wales has been parcelled out according to the special familiarity of each. The result is a pleasing volume."—London Times.

THE EARTHLY FOOTPRINTS OF OUR RISEN LORD, Illumined.

A continuous narrative of the Four Gospels according to The Revised Version, with introduction by Rev. John Hall, D. D. Illustrated by 113 full-page half tone re-productions. Small 4to, cloth.....net 1.50
Gilt edge, with silk book mark, boxed.....net 2.00
Full morocco, flexible, gilt edges, round corners, boxed.....net 3.75

Pictures reflecting the best in sacred art from Raphael to the present day are scattered profusely through the book.

"To many the life of the Christ will be a new book in this form. Though beyond the introduction it contains no word except what is found in the four Gospels, yet when read continuously, without the breaks necessarily made by the different stories of the four evangelists, the narrative takes on new force and lifelikeness. The very fact that this is not our usual method of reading the Word will give it a new reality."—Golden Rule.

A GIFT OF LOVE, and Loving Greetings for 365 Days.

By Rose Porter. Long 18mo. Paper cloth..... 1.00
White cloth, silver top, in box..... 1.25
Decorated silk, silver top, in box..... 1.75

"'A Gift of Love' is the work of a loving heart. It contains a text of Scripture for every day of the year with the addition of an appropriate thought in poetry of prose all bearing on the theme of love. The work must have called for a great amount of patient toil. But it has not been spent in vain, for the volume will prove a blessing to many a soul. To use it day by day for a year thoughtfully and prayerfully, must result in a rich growth in love on the part of the user. The author is well known and esteemed for her previous works' sake."—The N. Y. Observer.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE SERIES.

By Rev. F. B. Meyer, containing CHRISTIAN LIVING, THE PRESENT TENSES OF THE BLESSED LIFE, AND THE SHEPHERD PSALM. 3 vols. in box. 18mo, cloth..... 1.50
White vellum cloth, silver top, in box..... 1.75

D. L. Moody says: "Few books of recent years are better adapted to instruct and help Christians than those of this author. He is a man mighty in the scriptures, saturated with Bible facts and truths."

PRAYERS FROM THE POETS.

By Martha Harger. 16mo, two colored cloth, gilt top..... 1.00
Leatherette, boxed..... 1.50

"This volume is admirable. The Prayer are better suited to some of our moods than formal Litanies and are selected from excellent sources. The book will be a dear treasure to many hearts."—The Churchman.

KIN-DA-SHON'S WIFE.

An Alaskan Story. By Mrs. Eugene S. Willard, Home Missionary of the Presbyterian Board of America to Alaska. With illustrations. 8vo, cloth..... 1.50

"Being a close observer and in deep sympathy with the native population in their struggles towards a Christian Civilization, Mrs. Willard has gained a more intelligent knowledge of their character, of their needs and hindrances, than perhaps any other person."—Dr. Sheldon Jackson.

HEROES OF THE GOODWIN SANDS.

By Rev. Thomas Stanley Treanor. With many illustrations. 8vo, Cloth..... 1.50

"It is a book of most engrossing interest, and as stimulating as it is readable."—The Record.
"The deeds of daring are thrilling in the extreme. Suitable for the public library or for the home."—Times.

THE GREAT LONDON DAILIES.

By H. W. Massingham. Profusely illustrated. 12mo, cloth..... 1.00

Very welcome to all who like to look behind the scenes and see how the great London dailies are worked.

New Editions.

The Prayer Meeting and Its Improvement.

By Rev. LEWIS O. THOMPSON. Eighth edition, cloth, $1.25.

"Most heartily do we wish this work a wide circulation, both among pastors and people, and we hope it may do much toward the lifting of the prayer-meeting into that higher place which it ought to hold among the grand instrumentalities in the kingdom of the Master'—Congregationalist.

"We do not remember to have met with a work so suggestive, and we heartily commend it to both pastors and private members."—Baptist Weekly.

The Crisis of Missions. By Rev. ARTHUR T. PIERSON, D. D. Cloth, $1.25; paper, 35c.

"We do not hesitate to say that this book is the most purposeful, earnest, and intelligent review of the mission work and field which has ever been given to the church."—Christian Statesman.

The Christian's Secret of a Happy Life.

By HANNAH WHITALL SMITH. One hundredth thousand. Issued in fourteen styles, from 50c. to $2.50. Send for circular.

"To commend this work would seem almost superfluous; and yet to young Christians who may not know it, we cannot refrain from saying, Buy this book, and keep it with your Bible for constant study, until yon have thoroughly mastered, in your own experience, the 'secret' of which it tells. It will transform the dark days of your life, as it has transformed those of thousands before you, into days of heavenly light."—New York Evangelist.

The Topical Text Book. Fourth edition.

16 mo., cloth, 60c.

This little volume is a worker's most useful tool. It collates all Scripture passages under their topical headings, and for this reason proves far more helpful in studying a subject than the best concordance.

"I find one of the very best ways to study the Scripture is to study topically."—D. L. Moody.

Stalker's Life of Christ. Twelfth edition.

Stalker's Life of St. Paul. Fourth edition.

12 mo., cloth, each, 60c.

These works by Professor James Stalker, M. A., are unique in their compact putting of these lives into such condensed form without injurious brevity. They are being taken up as text books by Biblical classes in all parts of the country, thus proving their practical value.

Grace and Truth under Twelve Different Aspects.

By W. P. MACKAY, M. A. Paper, 35c.; cloth, 75c. Two hundred and fiftieth thousand.

This remarkable sale can only be attributed to the very practical character of this work as a guide to the inquirer and a work of helpful instruction for the immature Christian. It is of this volume Mr. D. L. Moody said: "I know of no work in print better adapted to place in the hands of the inquirer."

Notes and Suggestions for Bible Readings.

By S. R. BRIGGS. Sixtieth thousand. 8 vo, cloth. $1.00; flexible, 75c.

Edition after edition of this work has been called for until it would seem the demand must be supplied. The sales however, increase rather than otherwise.

Feathers for Arrows. By Rev. C. H. SPURGEON. 16 mo., cloth, $1.00.

Few preachers have made such effective use of pointed illustrations as the well known pastor of the great Metropolitan Tabernacle. Here he has given us a large cluster of his best with liberty to enjoy and employ.

Revell's Record for Church Treasurers.

Size No. 1, $1.50; Size No. 2, $2.00.

Popular because practical—valuable because time saving—the only record for weekly envelope system that reduces the treasurer's work to the minimum.

For sale by the

National Christian Association;

221 West Madison Street, Chicago, Ill.

LODGE NOTES.

The Independent Order of Foresters has a reserve fund of $778,000.

Last year fifty-four Odd-fellow encampments in Missouri failed to make their reports to the Grand Encampment or elect officers.

Insurance Commissioner Hollingsworth, of Texas, is after the bond investment companies that are doing business in that State, and proposes to drive them out.

In 1831 the Royal Purple degree was made a necessary qualification for the representatives in the Grand Lodge of the United States, now the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd-fellows.

The Royal Arcanum now has nearly 150,000 members; more than 15,000 are in Massachusetts and 10,000 in New Jersey. Number of Grand Councils, 20; subordinate councils, 1,536.

The A. O. U. W. celebrated its silver anniversary in October. Starting in 1868, it was the pioneer of fraternal orders of the death benefit class. Its growth has been steady and it has 325,000 members.

There lived in Macon, Ga,, a few years ago a man named Schwade. In his will he left a sum of money to Macon Lodge in trust, the interest of which is to be used each year on his birthday for a banquet, to which every Mason in the city is to be invited.

July 1, 1893, the American Legion of Honor had 62,303 members, being an increase of 1,400 for the six months. It also had on hand funds to the amount of $999,994.75, against which there were drafts outstanding to the amount of $216,500. The American Legion of Honor was organized Dec. 18, 1878.

Somebody has written that "the time is approaching when the regalia of the order [of Odd-fellows] will make way for a simple badge or jewel," and that "this subject will receive consideration at the next annual session of the Sovereign Grand Lodge," etc. "This subject" was considered by the Sovereign Lodge, and was laid away in the relic garret.

If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla, do not be persuaded to take any other. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, which possesses peculiar curative power.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills, biliousness, jaundice, indigestion, sick headache.

"Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething" softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain and cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

JONATHAN BLANCHARD'S

]-oo-[

SERMONS AND ADDRESSES.

Select discourses of the late editor of the Cynosure and leader in our reform. Lectures, sermons and speeches given from 1834 to 1892 in leading cities of the United States, discussing topics of

LIVING REFORM.

Secret Societies,
The Sabbath,
Temperance,
National Reform,
Christian Education,
Christian Socialism,
The Bible, Etc., Etc.

A BOOK EVERYBODY SHOULD READ

12mo. Fine Photogravure Portrait.

Price, 75 Cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

THE IMAGE OF THE BEAST
A Secret Empire;

Or, Freemasonry a Subject of Prophecy.

By Rev. Richard Horton.

Third Edition. 200 pages. Cloth.

Price, 60 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

Our High Grade List and Bargain Book sent to any address on receipt of a 2-c stamp.

LORD & THOMAS,
NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING
45 RANDOLPH STREET,
CHICAGO.

DON'T BE IMPOSED UPON, when you ask for Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Go to a reliable dealer. He'll sell you what you want. The ones who have something else to urge upon you in its place are thinking of the extra profit they'll make. These things pay them better, but they don't care about you.

None of these cheap substitutes is "just as good" as the "Discovery." That is the only blood-cleanser, flesh-builder, and strength-restorer so far-reaching and so unfailing in its effects that it can be guaranteed. In the most stubborn Skin, Scalp, or Scrofulous Affections, or in every disease that's caused by a torpid liver or by impure blood—if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Nothing else, at any price, is really as cheap. You pay only for the good you get.

There wouldn't be any cases of chronic Catarrh if all used Dr. Sage's Remedy. That's positive. Its proprietors will pay $500 reward for an incurable case.

MY WIFE CANNOT SEE HOW YOU DO IT AND PAY FREIGHT.

$10.50 Buy the Oxford Improved SINGER Sewing Machine, with a complete set of attachments and guaranteed for 10 years. Shipped anywhere on 30 days' trial. No money required in advance. 75,000 now in use. World's Fair Medal awarded. Buy from factory, save dealers' and agents' profit. Write to-day for our LARGE FREE CATALOGUE. Oxford Mfg. Co., 342 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WHEATON COLLEGE,

WHEATON, ILL.

A School for Men and Women.

WINTER TERM OPENS TUESDAY JANUARY 2ND.

For Catalogue, address

CHAS. A BLANCHARD, Pres.

IF YOU
WANT WORK

that is pleasant and profitable, send us your address immediately. We teach men and women how to earn from $5 per day to $3,000 per year without having had previous experience, and furnish the employment at which they can make that amount. Capital unnecessary. A trial will cost you nothing. Write to-day and address,

E. C. ALLEN & CO.,
Box 1001. Augusta, Me.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained, and all Patent business conducted for Moderate Fees.

Our Office is Opposite U. S. Patent Office, and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A Pamphlet, "How to Obtain Patents," with names of actual clients in your State, county, or town, sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.
Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

PROPHECY:
A STUDY.

BY REV. S. F. PORTER,

A Study of Christ's Comings.

Paper Cover, 100 Pages.

Single copies, postpaid..... 25 cents.
Per 100 copies, postpaid..... $20.00.

For sale by the

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

The St. Louis Sermon

Are Secret Societies a Blessing or a Curse?

An Address by Rev. B. Carradine D. D., Pastor of the Centenary M. E. Church, St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 4, 1891.

W. McCoy writes: "That sermon ought to be in the hands of every preacher in this land, and every citizen's too."

A pamphlet of 20 pages and cover.

Sent postpaid 25 copies $1.00. Single copy 5 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

ANTI-SECRECY TRACTS.

The following numbers are in stock, and can be had at the wholesale price of 25 cents per pound:

1. National Christian Association.
1½. Testimony of Statesmen.
4. Freemasonry in the Family.
7. To the Boys who Hope to be Men.
8. Modern Heathenism.
9. Ministers at Rival Altars.
10. A Pastor's Confession.
15. Secrecy and Sin.
16. Selling Dead Horses.
17. History of Masonry.
19. Freemasonry a Christ-excluding Religion.
22. Extracts from Masonic Oaths and Penalties as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.
28. Dr. Nathaniel Colver on Masonry.
30. Masonic Oaths Null and Void.
37. Why a Christian should not be a Freemason (German).
38. Masonic Oaths and Penalties.
39. Should Freemasons be Admitted to Christian Fellowship?
41. Freemasonry a Religion.
45. Ought a Seceding Mason to Keep his Lodge Oath?

Families, Churches, Senates, Juries and Camps.

The above are the only tracts in stock in large quantities. There are a few of several other numbers. Remember that these are being retailed at wholesale prices—25 cents per pound. Keep a package of Anti-masonic tracts for use in letters.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

AGENTS AND LECTURERS.

NEW ENGLAND DEPARTMENT.—Rev. J. P. Stoddard, Agent, 218 Columbus Ave., Hotel Howland, Boston.

EASTERN DEPARTMENT.—W. B. Stoddard, Agent, No. 215, 4½ St., Washington, D. C.

NORTHERN DEPARTMENT.—Rev. W. Fenton, 74 South Robert St., St. Paul, Minn.

PACIFIC DEPARTMENT.—Rev. P. B. Williams, Philomath, Oregon.

COLLEGE AGENT, Rev. S. F. Porter Cynosure office.

OTHER LECTURERS.

C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
Rev. H. H. Hinman, Oberlin, O.
Nathan Callender Montdale Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
H. A. Day, Brighton, Mich.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
A. Mayn, Bloomington, Ind.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
W. M. Love, Osceola, Mo.
J. K. Glassford, Phoenix, Arizona.
Wm. Fenton, St. Paul, Minn.
J. S. Perry, Thompson, Conn.
Rev. E. Mathews, Ft Wayne, Ind.
E. Barnetson, Haskinville, N. Y.
D. A. Richards, Brighton, Mich.
A. W. Parry, Chicago, Ill.

Disloyal
SECRET OATHS
ADDRESS OF
JOSEPH COOK,
OF BOSTON,
AT THE
Conference of Christians
CHICAGO, 1890.

No better document of its size for general distribution has been printed. Joseph Cook's address is a national treatment of a national subject, and very valuable for reference.

Single Copies 5 cents, or 12 copies for 50 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the Initiate. By Rev. L. A. Post. 5 cents each.

THE N. C. A. BUILDING
(The gift of Philo Carpenter)
—AND OFFICE OF—
THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. MADISON STREET, CHICAGO.

The National Christian Association

PRESIDENT—Rev. A. J. Gordon, D.D., Boston, Mass.

VICE PRESIDENT—Charles A. Blanchard, President Wheaton College Ill.

GEN'L SEC'Y and TREASURER—W. I. Phillips, 221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

REC. SECRETARY—Amos Dresser, Jr. Wheaton, Ill., Box 367.

DIRECTORS—T. B. Arnold, C. A. Blanchard, E. A. Cook, J. M. Hitchcock, A. G. Johnson, J. P. Richards, E Whipple, E. R. Worrell, Edgar B. Wylie W. M. Howie, H. F. Kletzing.

The object of this Association is:

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the churches of Christ from being depraved, to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform.

STATE AUXILIARY ASSOCIATIONS

NEW ENGLAND.—Pres., Rev. J. M Foster, Boston, Mass.; Sec'y, Miss E. E Flagg, Wellesley, Mass.; Treas., L. E. Lincoln, Boston,

CONNECTICUT.—Pres., J. A. Conant, Willimantic; Sec., David J. Ellsworth, Windsor; Treas., C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.—Pres., Rev. R. W. Chesnut Marissa; Sec., Rev. J. R. Wylie, Coulterville; Treas., Rev. W. I. Phillips, Cynosure office, Chicago.

IOWA.—Pres., Rev. J. A. Greer, Columbus City; Sec., Rev. T. H. Acheson, Hopkinton; Treas., Rev. L. Mendenhall, Fairfield.

KANSAS.—Pres., Rev. C. H. Strong, Lawrence; Vice-Pres., Rev. J. L. Countermine Hiawatha; Sec., Rev. D. H. Coulter, Winchester; Treas., Joseph A. Torrence, Denison.

NEBRASKA.—Pres., Rev. W. I. Brooks Pawnee City; Vice Pres., Rev. C. G. Widen Mead; Sec., Howard P. Young, Wahoo Treas., Rev. T. H. Dabney, Hooper.

MAINE.—Pres., ——— ———, Sec., I. D. Haines, Dexter; Treas., H. W Goddard, West Sidney.

MASSACHUSETTS.—Pres., S. A. Pratt; Worcester.

MICHIGAN.—Pres., D. A. Richards, Brighton; Sec., H. A. Day, Brighton; Treas Geo. Swanson, Jr., Bedford.

MINNESOTA.—Pres., S. B. Sjoblom, Fergus Falls; Cor. Sec., Wm. Fenton, St. Paul, Rec. Sec., Mrs. M. F. Morrill, St. Charles, Treas. Wm. H. Morrill St. Charles.

MISSOURI.—Pres., J. F. Beauchamp, Denver; Sec., M. N. Butler, Darlington; Treas. Rev. C. G. Cox, Grant City.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—Pres., Robt. A. Frohock, Alton; Sec., S. C. Kimball, New Market; Treas., James F. French, Canterbury.

NEW YORK.—Pres., Rev. S. R. Wallace Syracuse; Sec., Rev. W. H. Clark, Binghamton; Treas., Lucius Woodruff, Binghamton.

OHIO.—Pres., J. W. Martin, Mt. Perry; Rec. Sec., A. T. Vestal, Senecaville; Cor Sec. and Treas., E. Thomson, Senecaville

OREGON.—Pres., Rev. Wm. Dillon, D.D., Salem; Sec., Rev. P. B. Williams, Philomath; Treas., Samuel Terry, Canby.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Pres., Samuel S. Collins, Allegheny; Sec., J. S. T. Milligan Beaver; Treas., R. C. Wylie, Wilkinsburg.

WISCONSIN.—Pres., J. B. Galloway, Poynette; Sec., Isaiah Faris, Vernon; Treas., J W. Wood, Baraboo.

The Christian Cynosure.

HENRY M. HUGUNIN - - - - Editor.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JANUARY 4, 1894.

SECRECY AS A BASIS OF ORGANIZATION.

Organized effort for the promotion of commendable objects has the sanction of experience, and the approval of the Christian Scriptures; but that the basis of such associations should be a common pledge of concealment is neither in harmony with the Gospel of Christ, nor the dictates of true expediency. This is evident from the following considerations:

1. It is selfish. The world, it is true, is full of selfishness; and yet there are some manifestations of this unholy principle that are always regarded with public disfavor. All men recognize the obligations of giving to others the treasures of wisdom that we have received. One of the great objects of acquiring knowledge is, that we may tell it to others. This is especially true of religious knowledge. The Lord Jesus was at once the greatest Teacher and the greatest Philanthropist. His command to "go into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature" applies to all valuable truth, and is imperative and pressing in proportion as the truth is valuable. Nor is this obligation limited by any self-imposed covenant, or any bound of race, sect, or order. To enter into a covenant to conceal what God has commanded us to publish, is an additional sin. It is organized as well as individual rebellion. Limiting our communications to an order is just as selfish as to hide them in our hearts.

Nor is there any real difference in principle, whether the concealed truth is real and valuable, or merely a pretense. The only difference is, that in the latter case there is the added sin of false pretension. All truth is from God, and is the heritage of humanity. To conceal any valuable knowledge is a sin against God, and a crime against mankind.

It follows, therefore, that the Masonic landmark that falsely affirms that Masonry teaches "piety, morality, and science," and yet makes secrecy the primary obligation of every Mason, stamps the fraternity as not only intensely selfish, but supremely fraudulent.

2. To make secrecy the basis of organization is also wrong, because it cultivates one of the baser impulses of our nature, one that needs repression rather than development. Secrecy and sin are always intimately associated. Sin first begot concealment, and concealment has ever been its shield. In barbarous nations the practice of secrecy is cultivated. In civilized society it becomes the exception. We have, indeed, our privacies; but absolute and binding concealment always carries with it a suspicion of wrong. "He that doeth evil hateth the light. He that doeth truth cometh to the light, that his deeds may be manifest that they are wrought in God." (John 3:19, 20.) One of the most marked characteristics of Christianity is frankness and simplicity. Paul's rejoicing was, "that in simplicity and godly sincerity we have had our conversation among them that believe." (1 Cor. 1:12) It follows, then, that to cultivate concealment and "cunning craftiness, whereby they lie in wait to deceive" (Eph. 4:14), must have a pernicious influence, not only on individual character, but on the general interests of society.

3. A third reason why secrecy ought not to be the basis of organization is, that it leads directly to the habit of dissimulation and falsehood. A promise "always to conceal" carries with it a covenant to deceive—to make something appear to be true which is untrue, and something to be false which is known to be true. Thus Freemasonry, which has long since been fully revealed, professes to be a profound secret to all who are not initiated. Every Freemason is supposed to endorse this position. He may not positively affirm anything, but his inability to admit the truth amounts to a practical denial. As a matter of fact, the great majority of Freemasons have conspired to deceive the public mind, and to secure the toleration of oaths and ceremonies that, if practiced openly, would never be permitted in a Christian community. But truthfulness is the very foundation of morality. Whatever tends to make men less truthful, or to justify dissimulation, tends to disintegrate and destroy the social fabric. So, too, the multiplication of extra-judicial and often blasphemous oaths tends to impair all sense of sacredness and of binding obligation in the civil oath, and to weaken one of the strongest bulwarks of civil government.

4. Secrecy, as a basis of organization, tends to develop a corporate, instead of an individual, conscience. Secrecy largely takes away the restraints of public opinion. Many persons will do, under the seal of secrecy, what they would be ashamed to do under the full light of public observation. Men will often do in a corporate capacity what they would think utterly criminal as individuals. Thus the secret trades-unions have practical every form of mob-violence, not only against the property of capitalists, but against the persons and lives of non-union men—crimes committed and justified in the name of the union. Such a transfer of conscience, it is needless to say, is fatal to individual morality.

5. A fifth reason why secrecy should not be made the basis of organization is, that it tends to injure the community of interests, and to array class against class. The very idea of a republic (res publica) is that the interests of one are the interests of all. In an ideal republic there will be no division between capital and labor; for capital will realize the necessity of, and ask the aid of labor, while labor will be only another name for so much capital. In the ideal community, when "one member suffers, all will suffer with him, or if one member be honored, all the members will be honored with him." (1 Cor. 12:26.) It is quite evident that this ideal unity of the body can never exist where society is divided into sects and orders, and separated by covenants of sworn concealment. Such a state of society is the forbidden "schism in the body" against which the apostle so earnestly contends. The present secret lodge system could never exist in an ideal society, and must be destroyed before this ideal can be realized.

There are many other reasons why secrecy should not be made the basis of organization; but it is sufficient to add that the divine model is that state of society in which "there is nothing hidden but what shall be revealed," and the model man is He who said; "I spake openly to the world. .....In secret have I said nothing." (John 18:20)

HIRAM ABIFF AN IMPOSTER.

Our correspondent, "Jubelum" writes to us that "the Hiram Abiff Masons are 3,000 years behind time;" and, in support of this statement, quotes as follows from Dr. George Oliver's great "Historical Landmarks of Masonry," volume 2, page 341, as follows. Dr. Oliver, it will be remembered, was a doctor of divinity and a Past Deputy Grand Master in Masonry:

"Bro. Aarons" (a Masonic authority) "says that the knowledge of certain secrets were withheld from Adam in consequence of his sin. The Freemasonry of Adam being thus perverted by the serpent's triumph, he was expelled from his bower of delight into a world polluted by his disobedience, and from the signal and merited punishment of our first parents, originated a series of significant signs, which are perpetuated in Freemasonry, to preserve the recollection of this melancholy event."

"Jubelum" thinks that if "this melancholy event" has to be preserved by Freemasonry, it is still more melancholy, and poor Adam has this sin charged to his account. It was thought that Adam's cup of bitterness was already full, with every passing generation looking back to him as the source of all their troubles; but if he has to bear the odium of having foisted upon the world the additional evils of Freemasonry, "Jubelum" thinks he would better never have been created.

The question naturally arises, who initiated Adam? Quite as naturally it occurs that (if Bro Aarons is correct) Adam could not have been the first Freemason, but must have been initiated by the devil, as there was no one else qualified to do it. It is quite reasonable, therefore, to believe that Satan was the first Grand Master in the fraternity, instead of Hiram Abiff or King Solomon, as modern Freemasonry asserts.

We have known (continues "Jubelum") that the devil is ever present when the Masonic lodge is opened, and has a heavy claim upon the fraternity; but we never dreamed that he is a Past Grand Master. According to Bro. Aarons, Hiram Abiff was nothing but an everyday imposter, and his Freemasonry might, after all, be "spurious."

As between the devil and Hiram Abiff, the origin of Masonry may be settled by the example of the two English noblemen who claimed the greatest antiquity for their respective families. One traced his genealogy in a direct line from Adam. The other, not to be outdone, claimed priority by several hundred years, since on the margin of the family record some ancestor had written—"About this time the world was created."

ENGLAND'S NEW AFRICAN TERRITORY.

The dethronement and subjugation of King Lobengula of the Matabele country in South Africa, and the slaughter and expulsion of his people by armed British forces, places Great Britain in possession of a large share of new territory, to be civilized and developed into a powerful accession to "the mother country."

The war, from the first, seemed to have for its main object the result that has been achieved—the conquest of Matabele-land. A chartered company, having the sanction of Great Britain (and resembling that which obtained vast possessions in East India by similar methods), under the leadership of Sir Cecil Rhodes, was the active agent in routing the natives from the coveted soil. To obtain a sufficient invading force, it is alleged, the chartered company induced persons to join in the hostilities by offering them large bounties of land with mineral and other claims and half of the spoils.

It is true, these wild savage owners of the coveted territory were "niggers," black, uncouth and ignorant people, which, according to the experiences of the Negro in America, was a fit excuse for robbing and murdering them. Probably, had they been white, educated and prosperous in all the arts and sciences, they would have remained unmolested; but "cursed be Canaan"—that old slave-holders' slogan for subjecting Negroes to hard labor, ignorance and misery—appears to have found its way into Africa after it had lost its influence in this country—and Lobengula has fallen.

But Sir Cecil Rhodes has accomplished the ends for which his company was chartered, and another successful crime is added to the long calendar of man's inhumanity to man.

—Again we present the readers of the Cynosure with many more valuable testimonies against the lodge from men of undoubted excellence.

—A series of revival meetings lately closed at Poland, Herkimer county, N. Y., in the Free Baptist church of which our brother, Rev. Isaac Hyatt, is pastor. There was a blessed manifestation of God's Spirit, and some twenty to thirty were brought into the kingdom. Miss Bessie Conway, who has been connected with the Christian Alliance of Utica, assisted in the meetings. She is an evangelist of very precious spirit and earnest zeal.

—Walter Damrosch, the well-known orchestra leader, was about to begin a concert in New York, the other evening, when his union musicians refused to play, because he insisted on retaining his German violoncellist, who had not been in the United States long enough to join the union. The concert had to be abandoned on account of the strike. This is not a solitary instance of the tyranny of the labor unions, and the public is beginning to tire of their supremacy over the private judgment and personal and business affairs of employers. The recent decision of the Minnesota United States Court that strikes are illegal and punishable is a step in the right direction.

—A trustworthy correspondent, referring to the article on page 5 of the Cynosure of December 21—"A Masonic Minister Routed" by Rev. T. H. Acheson, at Hopkinton, Iowa, thus refers to the subject: "I see by to-day's Cynosure that Rev. J. W. Geiger is now a Congregational minister and a Mason. Is it possible? He started in the East as a U. B. minister;.....turned up an Episcopalian minister,.....and turned up I know not what all since, and now a Congregational!.... If he is not a different man in character from what he was East, he will be routed not only by Rev. Mr. Acheson of Hopkinton, but by the 'Judge of all the earth'....John Wesley Geiger—once a U. B.—now a high Mason! What a fall."

SECRET SOCIETIES CONDEMNED.

BY GREAT MEN IN THE STATE.

George Washington, in a letter written a year before his death: "I preside over no lodge, nor have I been in one more than once or twice during the last thirty years."

President Millard Fillmore, J. C. Spencer and others: "The Masonic fraternity tramples upon our rights, defeats the administration of justice, and bids defiance to every government which it cannot control."

Chief Justice John Marshall: "The institution of Masonry ought to be abandoned as one capable of much evil and incapable of producing any good which might not be effected by safe and open means."

John Quincy Adams: "I am prepared to complete the demonstration before God and man, that the Masonic oaths, obligations and penalties cannot by any possibility be reconciled to the laws of morality, of Christianity, or of the land."

General A. W. Riley:—I hold that the difference between the Christian and a heathen religion is, that one has morality and the other has not. And when our churches refuse to speak of such subjects as slavery, liquor-selling and secret societies, they are becoming heathen religions; that is, religions without morals.

Charles Francis Adams: "Every man who takes a Masonic oath forbids himself from divulging any criminal act, unless it might be murder or treason, that may be communicated to him under the seal of fraternal bond, even though such concealment were to prove a burden upon his conscience and a violation of his bounden duty to society and to his God."

Charles Sumner: "I find two powers here in Washington in harmony, and both are antagonistical to our free institutions, and tend to centralization and anarchy—Freemasonry and Slavery; and they must both be destroyed if our country is to be the home of the free, as our ancestors designed it."

Disraeli, Lord Beaconsfield; In conducting the governments of the world there are not only sovereigns and ministers, but secret orders to be considered, which have agents everywhere—reckless agents, who countenance assassination, and, if necessary, can produce a massacre."

Hon. Seth M. Gates, ex-Mason:—Profoundly convinced by long experience and observation that Freemasonry is an evil and pernicious institution. I wish once more in my advanced age to lift my warning voice publicly against it and all kindred organizations, and to beseech Christian men to have no connection or fellowship with them. Jesus is not, and cannot properly be recognized in Freemasonry. He must be ignored in the lodge-room, in its lectures, instructions, and in its prayers.

Hon. Heman Lincoln, ex-Governor, Mass:—Freemasonry, as a distinct, independent government within our own government, and beyond the control of the laws of the land, by means of its secrecy and the oaths and regulations which its subjects are bound to obey under penalties of death, has occupied much of the attention of the committee. . . . We believe, in the language of the Edinburgh Review, that all secret societies are justly deemed odious, wherever the government is tolerably free, and can only be excused where the existence of arbitrary power, foreign or domestic, leaves no other means of escaping from hopeless slavery.

Gen. Henry Sewall, a companion of Washington:—I was initiated an Entered Apprentice to the Masonic rites in October, 1777, at Albany, soon after the capture of Burgoyne, being then an officer in the American army. . . . I was led by the influence of this "perfect rule of faith and practice," during the year 1784, to view speculative Masonry in a shape still more deformed. Its charity appeared to be selfishness, because restricted to its own members; its religion deism because entirely devoid of the Gospel. Its history appeared fabulous; its claims to antiquity unsustainable; its titles fulsome; its rites barbarous and absurd; its oaths extra-judicial, unlawfully imposed and blindly taken, and the penal sanctions annexed, horrid and impious.

Charles Francis Adams: "A more perfect agent for the devising and execution of conspiracies against church and state could scarcely have been conceived."

Thaddeus Stevens: "By Freemasonry, trial by jury is transformed into an engine of despotism and Masonic fraud."

Judge Pliny Merrick (a seceded Mason):—If ever a Chapter or a lodge shall establish laws in conflict with those of the state the Masonic requisition is obedience to the lodge and conflict with the state; and if a member hesitates at this humiliating obedience, his heart must be "torn from his bosom," his "vitals plucked from his body," and Masonic vengeance, not satisfied with this bloody immolation, denies a resting place to the motionless remains, but they are to be "burnt to ashes and scattered to the winds."

Samuel C. Pomeroy, in an address, 1883:—"There may be a broad distinction between the good and the bad in secret societies, but as they all alike have oath bound obligations to complete oblivion of all they do or say, I have no means of judging the good from the bad. So I turn away from them all to the great Teacher who said, "In secret have I said nothing."

Judge Daniel H. Whitney, (renouncing Mason): While professed ministers of the Gospel and members of churches are permitted to associate themselves with these organizations, the task to apply a remedy will be a hopeless one; and just so long will the declaration made to me not long since by a high Mason and a worthy man prove true, that "a Masonic lodge is the strangest medley of priests and murderers—deacons and whoremasters—church members and gamblers—decent men and loafers—drunkards and rowdies, that the All Seeing-Eye ever looked down upon."

Hon. Samuel Dexter, in an open letter to the Grand Master of Mass., 1798: "If there be no very important reason for upholding Masonry at a moment like the present, there is a reason against it. The system of the destroyers of human virtue and happiness is to undermine in the dark the castle that cannot be carried by storm. Secret agency has overthrown all the republics of Europe, and an extended, secret, leveling, self-created society, without any valuable object of pursuit, and embracing bad characters as well as good, cannot be the subject of approbation of an anxious patriot."

General J. W. Phelps:—All secret organizations are links of one and the same chain which binds men to evil and not to good. The Masonic lodge is the parent source from which all similar modern organizations have emanated and this lodge is now in active operation in every city and considerable village of the country swaying our parties and churches; filling our offices, secular and divine, with its partisans; shaping our political destinies; and teaching a spurious and corrupting morality subversive both of the Christian religion and of free institutions.

Thurlow Weed: "I now look back through an interval of fifty-six years with a conscious sense of having been governed through the Anti-masonic excitement by a sincere desire, first to vindicate the violated laws of my country, and next to arrest the great power and dangerous influences of secret societies."

A. M. Sullivan, Irish Leader: I had not studied in vain the history of secret, oath-bound associations. I regarded them with horror. I knew all that could be said as to their advantages in revolutionizing a country, but even in the firmest and best of hands they had a direct tendency to demoralization and are often on the whole more perilous to society than open tyranny."

Hon. Edward Blake, leader in Canadian Parliament, March, 1884: "I am not in favor of State recognition of any secret societies. I have never joined one, though many of my best friends are members of secret societies. But I believe the tendency of secrecy itself to be injurious. I believe that it brings with it the possibility of evil; I believe that it involves a certain amount of sacrifice of individuality and independence, and gives very great facilities for the misleading of members by designing leaders—very great and mischievous facilities for that purpose." "I believe that a great deal of the trouble, social and political, that has occurred in those countries [Europe and America] is due to secret societies."

SECRET SOCIETIES CONDEMNED

BY GREAT MEN IN THE CHURCH.

REV. JOHN TODD, Pittsfield, Mass.:—Unhesitatingly I give my decided disapprobation of what I deem secret societies in college and elsewhere. I have never known any good results from them which could not have been attained in some other more appropriate way, and I have known great evils resulting from them.

HOWARD CROSBY, Chancellor University of New York, 1870:—We have no hesitation in writing secret societies among the quackeries of the earth.

Idem, 1886:—The secret lodge system belongs to despotisms and not to democracies. Whatever in it is not babyish is dangerous.

REV. MATTHEW L. R. PERRINE, D.D., Auburn Theological Seminary, REV. JOEL PARKER and REV. CHAUNCEY EDDY:—Having formerly associated with Freemasons, we deem it our duty, publicly to declare that the system of Freemasonry is in our judgment, of a tendency on the whole pernicious to the moral habits, and dangerous to the civil and religious institutions of our country.

REV. LEVI CHASE, Fall River, Mass.:—The question has been asked by Masons, who wish to asperse the characters of those who have renounced Masonry, "Why did not they renounce it before?" For one, I will give them the reason why I did not. The Masonic oaths locked my tongue in silence—death, in all its horrid shapes and frightful forms, stared me in the face—I considered the oaths binding.

REV. C. D. BURLINGHAM, in history of the Genesee M. E. Conference, 1860:—This new element of discord (Odd fellowship) began to introduce itself in our church, professedly as a mutual insurance company against temporal want, and a newly discovered and remarkably successful Gospel appliance for bringing the world, reformed and saved into the church. But our people very naturally looked upon it with suspicion, dreading its power as a secret agency acting through affiliated societies, and doubting its utility as a financial scheme. They feared it would drag the church, debased and corrupted, into the world.

REV. JOEL MANN, a renouncing Mason:—Although portions of the Gospel are interwoven with its forms, I conceive that Masonry presents false grounds of hope; leads men to depend on their own defective righteousness;—to expect the favor of God without the interposition of a Redeemer, and even without repentance; and thus has a most injurious influence on their eternal interests. Under the most favorable circumstances, which in any place, have attended Masonry, it has occasioned a great waste of time and money, which might and ought to have been employed for better purposes. And furthermore, it interferes materially with domestic religious duties.

REV. AARON LELAND, formerly Lieut.-Governor of Vermont and Deputy Grand Master of the Masonic Grand Lodge (to a Baptist association):—He stated that the first objection which presented itself to his mind was the practice of praying for the soul of a brother Mason after he had been dead two, three, and sometimes four days—that he persisted in the practice for a short season to the injury of his conscience—that it was a Romish custom, and he never would preach at the burial of a Mason when Masonic forms and customs were attended to—that he never would preach to a lodge of Masons as such, and that he was ashamed that he had ever participated in the principles and practices of the institution.

ELDER DAVID BERNARD:—I solemnly renounce all fealty to Masonry, and do most earnestly beseech my brethren in Christ Jesus, of every name, to come out and bear unequivocal testimony against it. Think, O think, dear Christians, that hundreds and thousands of precious and immortal souls will be lost forever, unless they return and repent, but that the name of the precious Jesus is rejected, your Saviour, your precious and adorable Saviour taken away—the cause of your bleeding Redeemer injured—the hands of the wicked strengthened, and the Almighty God dishonored! And O, let me entreat you in the mercy and bowels of Jesus Christ, to reflect that you have to answer for the blood of those who shall find also, when it shall be forever too late, that Masonry is not a Saviour!

CHARLES C. FOOTE:—What would the introduction of Christ into Mohammedanism be, but its annihilation? And thus would it be with Masonry.

REV. THOMAS H. STOCKTON, D.D.:—Religion is as open as the sky and bright as the sun. As a man, an American, and a Christian, I love true manhood, true Americanism and true Christianity too well to approve of secret institutions of any kind.

L. L. HAMLINE, Bishop M. E. church, in his diary, 1848: "North Ohio Conference has progressed very rapidly till this time, but Masonry and Odd-fellowship have arrested us." At another time: "I have enjoyed and suffered much during its session. Masonry and Odd-fellowship, a bane in the midst of us, have done us much evil."—Life, pp. 323, 4.

A. M. MILLIGAN, D.D.:—Thus I have shown that Masonic oaths and obligations are not obligatory; that God has no part in them; that they are a profanation of his ordinance of the oath, and a usurpation of the prerogative of government under the wrath of an insulted God and the ban of outraged society: a great sin to make them but no sin to break them.

REV. J. P. LYTLE, D.D.:—We could fill a volume with extracts of the same tenor, showing, as these have shown, that Freemasonry is a distinct and positive religion with a promise of salvation; yet rejecting and denying the Lord Jesus; a religion which claims to have borrowed its principles and rites from those heathen institutions so abhorrent to God and corrupting to men.

REV. JOSHUA BRADLEY, a renouncing Mason:—A lying spirit is abroad, and speaks through all Masonic presses, and this spirit influences all who hate the truth, and will make them wax worse and worse, till sudden destruction shall overwhelm those workers of iniquity, to the astonishment of every beholder. Then Masonry will rise no more to trouble Zion, and spread delusion and death amid civilized nations.

C. B. WARD, missionary in India:—When men get saved out here they get out of the lodge of necessity. We are personally acquainted with a barrister, a doctor, a locomotive fireman, a station-master on a railway, a principal of a high school, a commissary officer, a military officer, and others who when saved at once quit the lodge for Christ's sake without any one saying much to them. The evil of the institution is too apparent to need pointing out in India.

JOSEPH S. CHRISTMAS, Pastor Bowery Presbyterian church, New York, 1830:—If these remarks should meet the eye of any follower of the Redeemer who still worships at the altar of Masonry, I beg him once more to consider whether, imposed on by the mock solemnities of the lodge and the pompous pretensions of the craft, he is not really attempting to effect a concord between Christ and Belial; and whether he does not owe it to the souls of Masons, to the honor of the church of Christ, and to the good of mankind, to come out and be separate.

DRS. LEONARD WOODS, EBENEZER PORTER AND THOMAS H. SKINNER, Professors at Andover to the Massachusetts Legislature:—Praying for a full investigation into the nature, language, ceremonies, and form of rehearsing extra-judicial oaths in Masonic bodies; and if found to be such as the Memorialists describe them, that a law may be passed prohibiting the future administration of Masonic, and such other extra judicial oaths, as tend to weaken the sanctions of civil oaths in courts of justice; and pray also for the repeal of the charter granted by this Commonwealth to the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts.

REV. MOSES THATCHER:—Our Saviour declared to the Jewish high priest, "I spake openly to the world; and in secret have I said nothing." What now would be thought of the church if she should "style" her doors, impose obligations in secret, and place a perpetual seal upon the lips of her members? Would it any longer be believed that her sole object is to promote the religion of the Gospel? Now if the church, which is the purest body on earth, could not and would not be trusted as a secret society, who can blame conscientious and judicious men for drawing the conclusion that any secret society, of whatever description, is altogether unnecessary and cannot exist without becoming an object of suspicion, if not an engine of wickedness.

THE HOME.

A SONG OF YOUTH.

Early seeking, early finding,
Happy, happy we!
Looking up in life's sweet morning,
Looking up to thee!
We begin our children's days,
Lord of glory, with thy praise.

Early asking, early getting,
Happy, happy we!
We would daily, blessed Jesus,
Find our all in thee.
In thy fullness is the store
Of the life forever more.

Early knocking, early opening,
Happy, happy we!
By thy holy gate we enter,
Lord, to dwell with thee.
In the city of the blest—
In the home of heavenly rest.

Early loving, early trusting,
Happy, happy we!
Looking upward, pressing onward,
Day by day, to thee;
Leaving this poor world behind,
All in thee, O Christ, to find.

—Rev. H. Bonar, D.D.

WHY ONE WOMAN WANTED TO VOTE.

"And now, Mrs. Juliet, you wish me to tell you why I think that I ought to vote?"

The speaker was a lady of not less than fifty years' experience in the trials of life. Feminine in form, feature and manners, mild and pleasant in voice, she retained traces of the beauty which had won so much of admiration in the days of her youth. There were wrinkles of care, however, in her face, and a slow, resigned character in her movements, as if she had "seen an end of all perfection," had borne her sorrow in middle life without flinching, and had become reconciled to existence, loving not the world for its own sake, but for the sake of making it tolerable to others. Her companion might have been the bride of Shakspeare's Romeo, she seemed so gentle, modest, loving and trustful—for she was a newly-made wife, and the dark side of the honeymoon had not dimmed the force of her affection for the husband whom she loved with her whole heart. Bright as the future looked to her, she wondered why the friend to whom she came for counsel could wish to grapple with the wrongs of society, in which she, so inexperienced, had never learned to believe.

"I would, indeed."

"You shall. At twenty, young, loving and gay, I, like you, was married to the man of all others whom I had set apart as my ideal of the sterner sex. Such thoughtless happiness as yours I enjoyed for a season. It may have been one year, or two—no matter now. My husband was kind, very kind, and when our little boy came, there was not a more quiet, happier home than ours. But the seeds of decay were planted with the roses that bloomed when my child was born. My husband, never rich in property, nor strong in will, had been a moderate drinker for years. Crosses in business led to increased indulgence in strong drink. Ill-temper and recklessness followed. Another year and he was hooted at as a common drunkard. I strove to reform him, but I had lost the power of affection over him; and the law bound me to him, even when disgust had usurped the throne of connubial love. I would have saved his property from waste, but I had no right in law to do so. The law adjudged him sane, and the master—no longer the protector—of his family.

"Kindness, meekness, on all occasions, I yielded to him, even when his drunken abuse made my heart ache with pain, and my lips quiver with suppressed emotions. It was the old story. From bad to worse, from manhood to maudlin imbecility. His property went to destruction, and mine with it, for what right had I? Was I not his wife? Was he not my husband? Did not the law, on the day of our marriage, put my little fortune into his possession, never more to be reclaimed by me, but to be forever holden for his debts, his support, subject to his whims? It all went the same road. We were poor. Sympathy I received, such as it was—the offer of a job of washing, a dozen shirts to make for a pittance, a ticket of admission to the county poor-house. I did work, not that I cared to live, but for a tyrant, who was once my husband in all things, but now only in name, and my little boy, who was known only in the neighborhood as 'the beggar brat.' I could have supported myself and him in decency and quietness, but my evil husband lived upon my earnings, and poured them down his throat. I strove and strove to better my condition, to save us from the poor-house, or the brothel, to which my 'protector' (in law) openly advised me to seek for wages.

"After that the law, to which I had yielded obedience under my marriage vows, had no more power over my feelings, whatever it might have retained over my person, had I not fled to another city with my boy, fearful of the future, for I felt that my life was no longer safe in the presence of my tormentor. For two years I heard nothing from him. Steadily I sought employment, and found it, earning by my hands more comfort for my boy and myself, as outcasts, than we had found in the enjoyments of the laws which bind all families together. I found friends among my sex; insulters among that of my husband; but I maintained my respectability with zealous care, trying to bring up my son in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. I had found consolation in the Gospel, and it led me to days of peace, if not of worldly happiness. One day I looked into a stray newspaper, and saw there the details of the execution of my drunken husband, for killing a former companion in cold blood, at a moment when his senses were less steeped in liquor than usual. I did not faint; I did not weep; for he had died an impenitent brute, a victim to those laws in whose spirit he had lorded it over me for years.

"I was free again—in law—and if I did not marry again it was owing to my terror of those laws under which I had so nearly perished. My boy grew, and his earnings, added to mine, kept us in comfort, but I could not afford to educate him. He was not a bad child in any respect. My affection for him was all that a mother's should be, but I was poor; and beyond reading, writing and primary portions of mathematics, which I taught him in the intervals of labor, he learned nothing outside of his practical life, except from an occasional volume that he borrowed from a fellow-workman. But I taught him to love and revere morality, and to do what I thought would benefit him; and he, so tractable and affectionate, became the apple of my eye, the sole object of my life. I saw other women in misery, as I had been. I saw the laws make brutish men destroy the tempers, affections, property and hopes of women and children. I saw women sneered at for daring to wish for rights which even slaveholders respect in their servants, and in this I learned bitterness, but in all else I strove to cultivate piety and cheerfulness. I wished to see women and men made equal in law, in rights, in property.

"In this mood I went to a Woman Suffrage Convention one day. There I heard words that made my heart burn within me. There I found the sympathy which I could find nowhere else. Again and again I have been to these meetings; and when I heard Anna Dickinson, and Mrs. Livermore, and Mrs. Stanton daring to say all that I had so long felt in secret, I felt that Mr. Greeley's 'good time coming' was at hand. And it is. My boy is a son of a murderer. I am the widow of a drunken brute. But I care not. I am responsible only for my actions. My heart and my conscience tell me so. And the law tells me so. But the law tells me also, I may not vote; I may not aid in choosing law-makers; I may not hire men and women to do my work for a less sum than the trades unions see fit to pay, even if those whom I hire have no other method of earning a livelihood; I may not speak in defence of woman's rights without heaping contumely upon my head for being a 'strong-minded woman'; I have no rights beyond the 'dower' of infamy for deserting my brutal husband and of sharing in the curse attached to his name.

"Do I wish to vote? I do. I wish to place myself and my sex on a level with men in all matters of law, equity, education, labor and independence. And every true woman who has 'the spunk of a caterpillar' in her composition will give her sympathy; while those who in their 'devotion,' or blind love, yield up everything but life itself to the will of irreligious, sensual husbands, will continue to oppose their sisters in releasing themselves from unjust and obnoxious laws.

"You know now why I wish to vote, and I trust that others like you will not longer hesitate to say, 'God speed the right!'"—H. M. Hugunin.

MANHOOD IN EDUCATION.

Manhood, true, strong and symmetrical, is the highest ideal at which the best education aims. What is manhood? It is being a man, a man intelligent, developed, full-orbed. All true education must have this end in view.

Whatever the character of the education may be, whether academic or professional, whatever the system, co-educational or co-operative, the same end is sought—the fullest possible development of the noblest character and qualities. How is such education to be acquired? Some think it may be had by reading merely. Some literary men ever confuse acquaintance with books with education. This is a serious mistake. Books may widen and deepen intelligence if one is already educated, but no amount of reading of itself will give real intelligence and culture. Extensive reading, on the contrary, may detract from mental development and the power to think. President Thwing wisely says the purpose of education is "to teach one to think, to weigh evidence, promote power, to enrich life, to foster strength and refinement, to secure clearness and comprehensiveness of mind and vision, to aid in subjecting impulse to volition, and volition to proper intellectual guidance, to infer accurately, to act wisely." Education as here described implies both the discipline and the enrichment of the mind; and these ends can only be attained by patient study and thorough training.

Dr. Thwing, in discussing the education of the sexes, says: "The nobility of womanhood is not measured by its approach to manhood, nor is the nobility of manhood measured by its approach to the highest type of womanhood. The noblest woman is the most womanly; the noblest man is the most manly."

To make manly men and womenly women has led the church to project and foster Christian institutions of learning. Christianity is the friend of education. It seeks the development of the whole man, all his powers, unto perfection. It aims at manhood. The close relation existing between religion and learning became apparent in the days of Paul and Apollos. It was clearly demonstrated in the Christaian schools of Alexandria and Antioch. The leaders in reform and in aggressive Christian effort have been promoters of education. They have seen how that manliness, in its highest development, was only reached by the wise and careful training of the whole man with reference to the glory of God.

Christian education aims to secure Christian manhood—the highest possible development of Christian character and abilities. Men everywhere are needed. They are the greatest need of the age. David's charge to Solomon, his son, was, "Show thyself a man." "Quit you like men" was the earnest advice of Paul to the men of Corinth. The best education aims at this highest and best manhood—Christian manhood. If men are made by our schools, full-rounded, physical, mental, spiritual men, there will be no trouble about the progress of the world in purity and civilization. To gain these ends a high type of manhood, only secured by Christian education, is imperatively needed.—Religious Telescope.

STRUCK BY A HMMN.

J. H. Weber, a converted Catholic, the "Revival Tornado" evangelist, describes his conversion as follows:

"I went to Cincinnati, and if ever a man tried hard to be a devout Romanist, I tried. No Sunday ever came but you could see me wending my way to the Bank Street Romish church. When I would behold those poor people agonizing in the same way I was, bowing before images and anointing themselves with holy water, yet going away with sorrow and sadness and the load of guilt on them, my poor heart would yearn for relief, but none came.

"Day by day my heart would cry out, 'Oh, that I knew where to find him!' One Sunday, being lonesome and troubled, I wended my way over the Rhine, amid the saloons, dance-halls, and variety theaters. Hearing the patter of the feet of the ballet dancer, I went in and ordered a bottle of mineral water. Before, these things charmed me, but now I longed for something better. I did not remain there long, but went to Washington Park, and while there I saw a large crowd gathered. Curiosity attracted me to the crowd, and while there, I cannot remember the text or a particle of the sermon; but when they began to sing 'Almost Persuaded,' the music charmed me. I was riveted to the spot. The minister lined the hymn, and when he reached the last four lines, he said:

"'Almost persuaded now to believe;
Almost persuaded Christ to receive.'

"Still I was not moved much. He read:

"'Almost cannot avail,
Almost is but to fail.
Sad, sad this bitter wail,
Almost, but lost.'

"When he said 'lost,' I never had anything pierce my heart through as that did. It seemed as though a dagger had pierced my heart, and for a moment I quivered; but with lightning thought I raised my eyes to heaven and my heart to God and said:

"'I will not be lost, I'll be saved.' As if tons of weight had been lifted, my burden was gone, my sin-sick soul was free. I was enraptured with joy indescribable. The song went on, the meeting dismissed, but I stood transfixed, riveted to the spot. The preacher, Joseph Emery, city missionary, came and asked me to go to the Christian Association. Then the tears came streaming down my cheeks. My soul was filled, I was free. Praise the Lord!"—Selected.

BEWARE OF POISONS.

People who are squeamish about eating their "peck of dirt" do not hesitate to take their bushel of poison. They chew tobacco, drink rum, eat salt, saleratus, soda, baking powder, adulterated spices, sauces, and condiments, until it is a wonder that they have any stomachs, livers or kidneys left. Then when sick, they swallow quarts of drugs of which they know nothing, and sometimes drink whisky, turpentine, petroleum, and what not, until it seems only by the intervention of a "mysterious providence" that they are allowed to remain among the living. Besides these things there are new processes and patent methods of preserving food, and poisonous canned goods, adorned with showy labels, which cut down some who escape the lesser perils we have mentioned. The Woman's Journal says:

"The health of the household finds a new menace in the rapid increase in the use of powerful drugs, especially salicylic acid and boracic acid, in the preservation of food. Manufacturers of mince-meat, put up wet in cans or jars, are using as much as ten grains of salicylic acid to the pound. Great quantities are used in cider, fruits, vegetables, pickles, preserves, etc. Among the recipes claiming to be patented and guaranteed to be perfectly harmless, which are sold by thousands to private families and manufacturers, are the following: For small fruits, as currants, strawberries, raspberries, etc., 18 grains salicylic acid to one quart of water; for hard fruit, as peaches, pears, watermelons, etc., 35 grains; for vegetables, as beans, peas, green corn, asparagus, etc., 52 grains to one quart."

This drug, prepared from phenol, a product of coal tar, is probably a healthy thing to let alone. It is like the boy's pins, which had saved a good many lives by persons not swallowing them.

It is now understood that the processes of decay are due to the activity of living germs or microbes, which are charged with the work of breaking up and destroying organic matter when it is dead and needs to be swept away. Anything that will kill these little microbes will arrest decay. In the far north the Scandinavian fishermen dry their fish without salt, the cold having doubtless destroyed the germs of decay. Great cold or intense heat arrests decomposition by destroying the germs which causes it.

Most antiseptics, as a rule, may be regarded as poisonous. Salt prevents decay by destroying all the microbes which cause it. Arsenic is used to embalm the dead; and when a gallon of solution of arsenic is poured into a dead body, of course there can be no more decay; and as an undertaker once remarked: "If the body were not dead, the embalming would kill it; it will not be buried alive."

It needs to be understood that most of the articles used to prevent decay are deadly, and are only effective because they are deadly. Fruits, after being heated, can be preserved from decay by the exclusion of the germ-laden air, but any mixture which prevents decay is presumably deadly, though in the case of perfumes and aromatics they may not always be deadly to man. But that which does not kill outright, may injure health, and finally destroy life. "Everybody uses it," say some, when cautioned about using some unhealthful drug. Yes, and "everybody" is sick, and groaning, and dosing, and doctoring, and dying before the time. "Everybody" is a poor guide to follow in matters which involve life and health, peace and prosperity. One man who knows what to do, and why to do it, and who preserves his health and strength and vigor, is a better guide than a thousand people who swallow drugs and poisons, and are ailing and dosing, and go to their graves in their brown hair.—The Safeguard.

THE CONVERTED CATHOLIC.

The way was dark and thorny;
Fear was on every side,
And superstitious penances
For peace I vainly tried.

I groped along in blindness
Of knowledge of the Lord,
And prayed to "things created,"
Forbidden in God's Word.

Thus wandering on dark mountains,
And perishing with cold,
An angel found and led me
For shelter to the fold.

I found him; yes, I found him,
"Among ten thousand chief!"
He died for me—me seeking
Came forth to my relief.

'Tis simply turn, and trust him,
He only can forgive!
And you shall have free pardon—
In him begin to live.

To Jesus, the Good Shepherd,
I give my trusting heart,
And pray that from his keeping
I never may depart.

I follow in green pastures,
And by the waters still;
'Tis peace and joy where'er he leads,
Blessed to do his will!

—Emily C. Pearson in Primitive Catholic.

TEMPERANCE.

WHISKY AND TOBACCO.

Looking over the report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue for the year ending June 30, 1893, one finds in its 200 pages, and more, of "cold hard facts" and "figures that won't lie" much food for thought calculated to interest the philanthropist and the statesman. Among these we have selected the following, which afford us a little insight into the manners and customs of our country at large, and the character of some of our more important national productions:

The report shows that the receipts from all sources of Internal Revenue have increased from $116,902,869 for the fiscal year 1886 to $161,004,989 in 1893. The estimates of the last Commissioner of Internal Revenue were that the receipts of 1893 would reach $165,000,000, but owing to the general business depression, the present Commissioner says this amount was not realized. He estimates that the receipts for the fiscal year will be $150,000,000. The receipts for the year 1892 were $153,857,544.

The receipts for the year 1893 were made up as follows: Spirits, $94,720,260, an increase of $3,410,276 over the previous year; tobacco, $31,889,771, an increase of $889,218; fermented liquors, $32,548,983, an increase of $2,511,530; oleomargarine, $1,670,643, an increase of $404,317,—and miscellaneous, $175,390, a decrease of $67,898.

The receipts from Internal Revenue for the first three months of the fiscal year 1894 have been $36,874,402, a decrease of $5,519,143 as compared with the first three months of the fiscal year 1893. Of this decrease $3,830,858 has been in the taxes on spirits, and $1,828,882 on tobacco. The cost of collecting the revenue during 1893 was $4,219,769.

The expenses for the previous fiscal year were $4,315,946, being 2.80 per cent of the collections. The estimated expenses for 1895 are $4,498,580.

In the division of distilled spirits, the report shows that the number of distilleries operated during the year was 4,743, a decrease of 1,182 as compared with 1892, but this decrease occurred wholly in the class of fruit distillers. The quantity of grain used for the production of spirits during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1893, was 29,030,409 bushels, an increase of 2,540,582 bushels over that used in the preceding fiscal year, and is 7,217,180 bushels more than the average (21,813,229 bushels) for the last ten years. The number of gallons of spirits produced from grain during the year—126,545.017 gallons—shows an increase of 18,732,294 gallons over the product of the year 1892, and is 34,694,804 gallons more than the average produced for the last ten years. The spirits gauged during the last ten years amounted to 311,821,533, as compared with 352,726,202 during 1892.

Tables are given containing statements in taxable gallons of operations in distillery warehouses during the fiscal year 1893 and the months of July, August and September, 1893, and of spirits in the hands of wholesale liquor dealers and retail dealers. The quantity of spirits in taxable gallons in warehouses in July, 1892, was 187,576,339. The quantity deposited in distillery warehouses during the fiscal year 1893, aggregated 128,651,782 gallons. The quantity of spirits, 128,561,728 gallons, produced and deposited in distillery warehouses during 1893, is an increase of 13,882,874 gallons over the previous year. The items of increase were: Bourbon whisky, 11,818,076 gallons; rye whisky, 3,265,413 gallons; rum, 150,447 gallons; gin, 85,875 gallons; miscellaneous, 1,101,203 gallons. Total increase, 16,421,012 gallons.

The quantity of distilled spirits in the United States, except what may be in customs bonded warehouses, on the 1st day of October last, was 188,525,773 gallons.

The spirits remaining in warehouses at the close of the fiscal year were 147,894,694 gallons. The production of spirits during July, August and September of the current fiscal year amounted to 7,670,417 gallons, and the amount withdrawn, 18,705,470 gallons. There were 134,288,665 gallons of spirits remaining in distillery warehouses Oct. 1st, and 1,821,800 gallons had been removed for export during these months.

The quantity of manufactured tobacco in bond actually exported during the year was 15,821,686 pounds, the cigars exported amounted to 2,233,405, and the cigarettes to 397,826,260. The increase of exportations as to cigarettes continues large, having grown from 4,001,500 in 1882 to 397,826,260 in 1893.

When it is remembered that spirits and tobacco are staple productions, which form the basis of our heaviest internal revenue, we may well stand aghast, and ask, whither are we tending?

NUGGETS.

A saloon was to have been opened in Ossian, Indiana, on Thursday, but the previous night the building was almost totally demolished by dynamite.

A new temperance movement called the Christian Men's Union for Total Abstinence has been organized in New York City. It is non-sectarian and non-partisan. Among the active leaders are the Rev. B. Fay Mills, Colonel Evans, of the Salvation Army, and C. N. Crittenton.

Fifteen dollars a day represents the average amount paid into every saloon in the United States. This multiplied by 250,000, the number of saloons, and that result by 365 days, gives the total of $1,268,750,000, which amount represents the drink bill for one year. No wonder there are hard times for workingmen and their families!—Presbyterian Messenger.

In a late number of the Leisure Hour, Mr. W. J. Gordon writes of "Our Floating Hotels," an article giving many interesting details concerning such magnificent modern ocean steamers as the Majestic, Campania and others. In speaking of the extensive supplies of food and drink provided by these great steamers, he places among other items, the average per vessel of about 50,000 bottles of beer, 20,000 bottles of mineral water, 3,000 bottles of spirits and 5,000 bottles of wine.

BIBLE LESSON.

STUDIES IN THE BOOKS OF MOSES.

LESSON II.—First Quarter, 1894.—January 14.

SUBJECT.—Adam's Sin and God's Grace.—Genesis 3: 1–15.

GOLDEN TEXT.—For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive.—1 Cor. 15: 22.

[Open the Bible and read the lesson.]

1. The Temptation.—vs. 1–5. "Now the serpent was more subtle than any beast of the field." This charcteristic of the serpent is also alluded to in Matt. 10: 16. The reference in the passage is not so much to an inherent quality of the serpent as to the quality which it exhibited on the present occasion. That it was a real serpent is evident from the plain and artless style of the narrative and from the references made to it in the New Testament. (John 8: 44; Rev. 12: 9; 20: 2) It was the instrument, and not the agent, of temptation. "He [serpent] said unto the woman." The serpent speaks. The lack of surprise on the part of Eve in regard to its speaking may easily be referred to her ignorance, as yet, of the capabilities of the animal creation. Of itself it could not have spoken, and therefore some higher power than itself must have used it as a means of communication. The cunning of the serpent is shown in dealing with the woman separate from her husband. If both had been together, they could have helped each other. (Eccl. 4: 9, 10.) "Yea, hath God said?" Is it indeed true? Can it be possible? The question suggested doubt of God's goodness, made him appear unjust,—as if God was unreasonable in his demands. Satan was trying to sow the seeds of discontent. "And the woman said unto the serpent." Eve, like many to-day, made the first mistake of parleying with the tempter, and her willingness to argue or make reply shows that the suggestion of the evil one had already found a lodgment. The tree forbidden was the tree of knowledge of good and evil. (Gen. 2: 9, 17.) It was placed in the garden as a necssary moral test. "The serpent said unto the woman, ye shall not surely die." Satan boldly denies the truth of God's declaration, thus showing himself to be the "father of lies." How cunningly he proceeds. That Eve continued to listen to Satan's blasphemous suggestions implies that her faith in God's word was weakening. "For God doth know," etc. "Your eyes shall be opened." It does not mitigate the falsehood that, in one sense, his words were true (v. 7), but not in the sense in which he intended them to be understood, and in which the woman did understand them.

2. The Fall.—vs. 6–13. Learning to distrust God's truth and goodness through temptation, and with an awakened desire for the forbidden sin, she was already experiencing the ill effects of parleying with Satan. "The woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was pleasant to the eyes, and a tree to be desired to make one wise." The temptation was addressed to her sensuality, pleasure and ambition,—"the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eye, and the pride of life." The threefold appeal of the tempter to these infirmities of our nature may be traced also in the temptation of Christ, the second Adam, who "was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin." "She took of the fruit thereof, and did eat." And straightway she became a sinner; and the sinner became a tempter. And she "gave also unto her husband with her; and he did eat." And thus the fatal deed was done which brought all our sin and sorrow into the world. It was an awful deed! The greatest event in the history of the world is the fall of man. One rarely commits sin alone. The disposition is to involve others along with one's self. The one who has trangressed almost always tries to justify his own act by getting some one else to repeat it. "And the eyes of them both were opened," etc. Just as the tempter had predicted, but not in the way that they were expecting. Instead of a vision of wisdom and glory, for which they were looking, "they knew that they were naked." They were increased in knowledge, but it was in a knowledge of their own guilt and shame.

3. The Curse.—vs. 14, 15. "And the Lord God said unto the serpent, Because thou hast done this, thou art cursed," etc. The serpent was first cursed as being the most guilty. The curse is dual—partly upon the animal-tool, and partly upon the Prince of Evil by whom it was directed. The judgment passed upon the serpent is cymbolical of the condemnation of the devil. Adam and Eve, as Satan's instrument and type, are doomed to an accursed and degraded life. "I will put enmity between thee and the woman." In contrast to their recent over-friendly intimacy. The proof that such a curse was spoken is evidenced by the fear, loathing, and enmity that universally is felt by man toward the serpent family. "It (or he) shall bruise thy head, and thou shalt bruise his heel." Man, who walks uprightly, is wounded only in his heel, but the serpent, which crawls in the dust, is to be crushed in his head. Thus shall it be finally with the author of evil. In the curse inflicted upon the serpent there is a gleam of hope for sinful man which becomes brighter and brighter in the subsequent history of redemption, until in the person of the great Redeemer the seed of the woman crushes the serpent's head.

LITERATURE.

THE SYRIAC NEW TESTAMENT; or, The Book of the Holy Gospel of Our Lord and Our God, Jesus the Messiah. A Literal Translation from the Syriac Peshitto Version. By James Murdock, D. D. One vol. 8vo. pp. 507. Boston: H. L. Hastings, 47 Cornhill. Bound in half morocco: Price $2.50.

The age of the original Syriac New Testament is unknown, but there is every reason for believing that it was copied from the early Greek manuscripts older than those from which we derive our authorized version of the New Testament. The resemblance in the translations of the two is very strong. The greatest interest which clusters about the Syriac text is the knowledge of the many works wrought in Syria by our Lord during his ministry, and the faith which he found among the people of that region.

The lucid historical and biographical Introduction to this work, contributed by Rev. H. L. Hastings, and the numerous marginal notes, in the Syriac language will commend it to all students of the Bible, and ministers, especially, will find it of much value, and this value is enhanced by the carefully classified appendix furnished by Isaac H. Hall, Ph. D.

The translation is, as near as is practicable, a literal rendering into modern English of the language spoken in Syria at the time of our Saviour. The arrangement of the several books, chapters and verses correspond with those of the ordinary English version of the New Testament.

Orders for this work will be received at this office if accompanied with the price.

CURRENT PERIODICALS.

The December Cosmopolitan is mostly devoted to special papers relating to the World's Fair and illustrated with nearly 200 half-tone and other engravings of scenes and incidental appendages of the Exposition. Among other matters of general interest is a story by Mark Twain and his travels with a reformer. This number of the Cosmopolitan has been very popular, the first and second editions bringing the total publication up to 400,000 copies—200 tons—94,000,000 pages—enough to fill 200 wagons with 2,000 pounds each; in a single line, in close order, this would be a file of wagons more than a mile and a half long. This means not less than 2,000,000 readers, scattered throughout every town and village in the United States. The course of the Cosmopolitan for the past twelve months may be compared to that of a rolling snowball; more subscribers mean more money spent in buying the best articles and best illustrations in the world; better illustrations and better articles mean more subscribers, and so the two things are acting and re-acting upon each other until it seems probable that the day is not far distant when the magazine publisher will be able to give so excellent an article that it will claim the attention of every intelligent reader in the country. On another page will be found our terms of clubbing the Cosmopolitan and the Cynosure at a remarkably cheap rate.

Worthington's Magazine for January begins its third volume. It is a remarkably attractive number, and is, throughout, bright, clean and instructive. The opening article, "Forests of California," by Charles H. Shinn, is finely illustrated, conveying a good idea of those magnificent forests. Gen. Thomas E. Rose, the originator and leading spirit in the plan, contributes "A Celebrated Escape"—a reliable and detailed account of the digging of the famous Libby Prison tunnel, through which, in 1864, 109 Union officers made their exit. Mrs. Livermore continues her serial story of "One of the 49ers," founded on the rush to the gold-fields of California, and tells it gracefully. The essays of the month and the contents of the several regular departments, which form a breezy feature of this magazine, are varied and choice in quality. Mary Bradley and others contribute short stories of a pleasing character, and several poems by Clinton Scollard, Elizabeth Akers, etc, serve to give zest to this really excellent number. Published by A. D. Worthington & Co., Hartford, Conn. Price, 25 cents.

WHAT PATRIOTS AND CHRISTIANS SAY.

JOHN MARSHALL, Chief Justice, in a Letter to Edward Everett, July 22, 1833, said of Freemasonry: "That the institution ought to be abandoned, as one capable of producing much evil, and incapable of producing any good which might not be effected by safe and open means."

"God's Word prohibits the believer from forming alliances with the ungodly in society. Whenever the Christian surrenders himself to the society of the unbelieving world, his heart will be led away from God. This is especially true of thousands of Christian men who have deliberately yoked themselves up with unbelievers in all manner of secret societies. This course of false alliance is doing more mischief to individual Christian men by turning their hearts away from God and his service, and to the church by depleting and robbing her of her male membership, THAN ANY OTHER ONE ENEMY OF CHRIST. There never was a time when the cry, 'Come out from among them and be ye separate, saith the Lord,' was more needed than now."—From Dr. George F. Pentecost's Bible Studies, 1889, p. 389.

"We have, then, the implied testimony of Freemasons themselves, that the Christian church ought to have no fellowship with Freemasonry as thus revealed, and that those who adhere intelligently and determinedly to such an institution have no right to be in the Christian church. God demands, and the world has a right to expect, that the church will take due action and bear a truthful testimony in respect to this institution. She cannot now innocently hold her peace. The light has come. Fidelity to God and to the souls of men require that the church, which is the light of the world, should speak out, and should take such action as will plainly reveal her views of the compatibility or incompatibility of Freemasonry with the Christian religion."—From Pres. Finney's book, "Character, Claims and Practical Workings of Freemasonry," pp. 260, 263.

"I do not see how any Christian, most of all a Christian minister, can go into these secret lodges with unbelievers. They say they can have more influence for good, but I say they can have more influence for good by staying out of them, and then reproving their evil deeds. Abraham had more influence for good in Sodom than Lot had. If twenty-five Christians go into a secret lodge with fifty who are not Christians, the fifty can vote anything they please, and the twenty-five will be partakers of their sins. They are unequally yoked with unbelievers. 'But, Mr. Moody,' some say, 'if you talk that way you will drive all the members of secret societies out of your meetings and out of your churches.' But what if I do? Better men will take their places. Give them the truth anyway, and if they would rather leave their churches than their lodges the sooner they get out of the churches the better. I would rather have ten members who were separated from the world than a thousand such members. Come out from the lodge. Better one with God than a thousand without him. We must walk with God, and if only one or two go with us it is all right."—Address by Dwight L. Moody in Farwell Hall, Chicago, 1876.

Of all I wish to say of secret societies, this is the sum:

Secret oaths—

1. Can be shown historically to have often led to crime.

2. Are natural sources of jealousy and just alarm to society at large.

3. Are especially unfavorable to harmony and mutual confidence among men living together under popular institutions.

4. Are dangerous to the general cause of civil liberty and just government.

5. Are condemned by the severe denunciations of many of the wisest statesmen, preachers, and reformers.

6. Are opposed to Christian principles, especially to those implied in these three texts:

"In secret I have said nothing."

"Be not unequally yoked together with unbelievers."

"Give no offence in anything, that the ministry be not blamed."

7. Are forbidden in some portions of our Republic by the civil law, and ought to be in all portions. Many European governments hold Freemasonry under grave suspicion as a mask for conspiracies against throne and altar. In Prussia, Poland, Russia and Spain Freemasonry is prohibited by law.

8. Are forbidden to church members by some Christian denominations, and ought to be by all.—From address of Joseph Cook to Christian Conference, April, 1890.

Standard Works

—ON—

SECRET SOCIETIES

FOR SALE BY THE

National Christian Associat'n

221 West Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois.

TERMS:—Cash with order, or if sent by express C. O. D. at least $1.00 must be sent with order as a guaranty that books will be taken. Books at retail prices sent postpaid. Books by Mail are at risk of persons ordering, unless 10 cents extra is sent to pay for registering them, when their safe delivery is guaranteed. Books at retail ordered by express, are sold at 10 per cent discount and delivery guaranteed, but not express paid. Postage stamps taken for small sums. ☞A liberal discount to dealers.

ON FREEMASONRY.

Freemasonry Illustrated. A complete exposition of the seven degrees of the Blue Lodge and Chapter. Profusely illustrated. Complete work of 640 pages, in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 75 cents. First three degrees (376 pages), in cloth, 75 cents. Paper covers, 40 cents.

Knight Templarism Illustrated. A full illustrated ritual of the six degrees of the Council and Commandery. A book of 341 pages. In cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.

Scotch Rite Masonry Illustrated. The complete illustrated ritual of the entire Scottish Rite, in two volumes, comprising all the Masonic degrees from 3rd to 33rd inclusive. The first three degrees are common to all the Masonic Rites, and are fully and accurately given in "Freemasonry Illustrated." Vol. I. of "Scotch Rite Masonry Illustrated" comprises the degrees from 3rd to 18th inclusive. Vol. II. of "Scotch Rite Masonry Illustrated" comprised the degrees from 19th to 33rd inclusive, with the signs, grips, tokens and passwords from 1st to 33rd degree inclusive. Price per volume, paper cover, 65 cents each. In cloth, $1.00 each.

Hand-Book of Freemasonry. By E. Ronayne, Past Master of Keystone Lodge No. 639, Chicago. Gives the complete standard ritual of the first three degrees of Freemasonry. New edition, 274 pages. Bound flexible cloth covers. 50 cents.

Freemasonry Exposed. By Capt. William Morgan. The genuine old Morgan book republished. 25 cents each.

Allyn's Ritual of Freemasonry by Avery Allyn contains the fully Illustrated Ritual of the Blue Lodge, Chapter Council and Commandery, 11 of the Scotch Rite Degrees, Several Masonic side degrees and what is termed a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, the Orange and Odd-fellows Societies. Price in cloth $5.00.

Duncan's Masonic Ritual and Monitor. Profusely illustrated with explanatory engravings, and containing the ritual and work of the order for the seven degrees, including the Royal Arch. Though extensively used as an Instruction Book and one of the best in the market it is not as accurate as "Freemasonry Illustrated," the first book on catalogue. Price in cloth, $2 50.

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry. Containing the ceremonies of Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated. Although extensively used in conferring the higher degrees, it is not only very incomplete but inaccurate especially as regards the first seven degrees, and as to the higher degrees it gives but a description and general idea of the degrees rather than the full ritual. Price in cloth, $1.25; Paper covers, 75c.

Look to the East. A Ritual of the first three Masonic Degrees by Ralph Lester. Price in cloth $2.00. Notwithstanding the high price this book is very inferior in every way to Freemasonry Illustrated or The Handbook of Freemasonry at a quarter the price.

Ecce Orienti. The Complete Standard Ritual of the First Three Masonic Degrees in Cypher, with complete Floor Charts of Initiating, Passing and Raising a Candidate. Pocket size, Full Roan, Flap, $2.50.

Cabala. The Complete Standard Ritual of the Chapter Masonic Degrees; 4th to 7th inclusive, in Cypher. Giving the degrees of Mark Master, Past Master, Most Excellent Master and Royal Arch, Pocket size, Full Roan, Flap, $2.50.

Council of the Orient. The Complete Standard Ritual of Council Masonic Degrees in Cypher, 8th to 10th inclusive. Giving the Degrees of Royal Master, Select Master and Super Excellent Master. Pocket size, full Roan, flap, $2.50.

Knights of the Orient. The complete Ritual of the Commandery Masonic Degrees, Knights of the Red Cross, Knight Templar and Knight of Malta, 11th to 13th degrees. Pocket size, full Roan, flap, $2.50.

The Mystic Shrine Illustrated. An Illustrated Ritual of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. This is a Side Masonic degree conferred only on Knights Templar and on Thirty-two degree Masons. 15 cts. each.

Light on Freemasonry. By Elder D. Bernard. In cloth, $1.50 each. Paper, 75 cents each.

Adoptive Masonry Illustrated. A full and complete illustrated ritual of the five degrees of Female Freemasonry, by Thomas Lowe. 20 cents each.

Finney on Masonry. The character, claims and practical workings of Freemasonry. By Pres. Charles G. Finney, of Oberlin College. President Finney was a "bright Mason," but left the lodge when he became a Christian. This book has opened the eyes of multitudes. In cloth, 75 cents. Paper cover, 35 cents.

The Master's Carpet, or Masonry and Baal Worship Identical, explains the true source and meaning of every ceremony and symbol of the lodge. Bound in fine cloth, 420 pages, 75 cents.

Masonic Oaths Null and Void: OR FREEMASONRY SELF-CONVICTED. This is a book for the times. The design of the author is to refute the arguments of those who claim that the oaths of Freemasonry are binding upon those who take them. 207 pages. Postpaid, 40 cents each.

Judge Whitney's Defense before THE GRAND LODGE OF ILLINOIS. Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the lodge when S. H. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry. 15 cents each.

General Washington Opposed to SECRET SOCIETIES. This is a re-publication of Governor Joseph Ritner's "Vindication of General Washington from the Stigma of Adherence to Secret Societies," communicated to the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania, March 8, 1837, at their special request. To this is added the fact that three high Masons were the only persons who opposed a vote of thanks to Washington on his retirement to private life—undoubtedly because they considered him a seceding Freemason. 10cts each.

Morgan's Exposition, Abduction AND MURDER, AND OATHS OF 33 DEGREES. Composed of "Freemasonry Exposed," by Capt. Wm. Morgan;" "History of the Abduction and Murder of Morgan;" "Vance's Confession of the Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan;" "Bernard's Reminiscences of Morgan Times," and "Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees." 300 pages; cloth, $1.00.

Mah-Hah-Bone; comprises the Hand Book, Master's Carpet and Freemasonry at a glance. Bound in one volume. In cloth, 589 pages, $1.00.

Oaths and Penalties of Freemasonry, as proved in court in the New Berlin trials. The New Berlin trials began in the attempt of Freemasons to prevent public initiations by seceding Masons. These trials were held at New Berlin, Chenango Co., N. Y., April 13 and 14, 1831, and General Augustus C. Welsh, sheriff of the county, and other adhering Freemasons swore to the truthful revelation of the oaths and penalties. 10 cents each.

Masonry a Work of Darkness, adverse to Christianity, and inimical to republican government. By Rev. Lebbeus Armstrong (Presbyterian) a seceding Mason of 21 degrees. 15 cents each.

Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the INITIATE? By Rev. L. A. Post. 5 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. J. Day Brownlee. In reply to a Masonic Oration by Rev. Dr. Mayer, Wellsville, Ohio. 5 cents each.

Masonic Outrages. Compiled by Rev. H. H. Hinman. Showing Masonic assault on lives of seceders, on reputation, and on free speech; its interference with justice in courts, etc. Postpaid, 20 cents.

Grand Lodge Masonry. Its relation to civil government and the Christian religion. By Pres. J. Blanchard. The un-Christian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is proved from the highest Masonic authorities. 5 cents each.

The Broken Seal; or Personal Reminiscences of the Abduction and Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan. By Samuel D. Greene. In cloth, 75 cents. Paper covers, 40 cents.

The Mystic Tie, or Freemasonry a LEAGUE WITH THE DEVIL. This is an account of the church trial of Peter Cook and wife, of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a reverend Freemason. 15 cents each.

History of the Abduction and MurDER OF CAPT. WM. MORGAN. As prepared by seven committees of citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan. 25 cents each.

The Anti-mason's Scrap-Book, consisting of 53 "Cynosure" tracts. In this book are the views of more than a score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of secret societies. Postpaid. 25 cts.

Reminiscences of Morgan Times. By Elder David Bernard. This is a thrilling narrative of the incidents connected with Bernard's Revelation of Freemasonry 10 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. James Williams, Presiding Elder of Dakota District Northwestern Iowa Conference M. E. Church—a seceding Master Mason. 10 cents each.

Oaths and Penalties of the 33 DeGREES OF FREEMASONRY. To get these thirty-three degrees of Masonic bondage, the candidate takes half-a-million horrible oaths. 15 cents each.

Thirteen Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong. 5 cents each.

Freemasonry Contrary to the ChrisTIAN RELIGION. 5 cents each.

Hon. Thurlow Weed on the Morgan ABDUCTION. This is the legally attested statement of this eminent Christian journalist and statesman concerning the unlawful seizure and confinement of Capt. Morgan in Canandaigua jail, his removal to Fort Niagara and subsequent drowning in Lake Ontario. 5 cents each.

Freemasonry a Fourfold ConspirACY. Address of Pres. J. Blanchard. This is a most convincing argument against the lodge. 5 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. W. P. McNary, pastor United Presbyterian church. 5 cents each.

ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP.

Revised Odd-fellowship Illustrated. The complete revised ritual of the Lodge, Encampment and Rebekah (ladies) degrees, profusely illustrated, and guaranteed to be strictly accurate; with a sketch of the origin, history and character of the order, over one hundred foot-note quotations from standard authorities, showing the character and teachings of the order, and an analysis of each degree by ex-President J. Blanchard. This ritual corresponds exactly with the "Charge Books" furnished by the Sovereign Grand Lodge. In cloth, $1.00; paper cover, 50cts.

Odd-fellowship Judged by its own utterances; its doctrine and practice examined in the light of God's Word. By Rev. J. H. Brockman. This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. In cloth 50cts; paper covers, 25cts.

Sermon on Odd-fellowship and other secret societies, by Rev. J. Sarver, pastor Evangelical Lutheran church. This is a very clear argument against secretism of all forms, and the duty to disfellowship Odd fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications. 10cts each.

Odd-fellowship: ITS HISTORY AND ITS WORK. By President J. Blanchard. A new pamphlet with cover. Postpaid. 5 cts.

OTHER RITUALS.

Revised Knights of Pythias Illustrated. An exact copy of the new Official Ritual Adopted by the Supreme Lodge of the World, with the Secret work added and fully Illustrated. In cloth 50 cts. Paper cover 25 cts.

Knights of the Orient Illustrated. The full Illustrated Ritual of Ancient Order of the Orient, or the Oriental degree, This is a side degree conferred mostly in Knights of Pythias lodges. 15 cts each.

Good Templarism Illustrated. A full and accurate exposition of the degrees of the lodge, temple and council. 25cts each.

Exposition of the Grange. Edited by Rev. A. W. Geeslin. Illustrated with engravings. 25 cents each.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the REPUBLIC, with signs of recognition, passwords, etc., and the ritual of the Machinists' and Blacksmiths' Union. (The two bound together.) 10 cents each.

United Sons of Industry IllusTRATED. A full and complete illustrated ritual of the secret tradesunion of the above name, giving the signs, grips, passwords etc. 15cts each.

Rituals and Secrets Illustrated. Composed of "Temple of Honor Illustrated, "Adoptive Masonry Illustrated," "United Sons of Industry Illustrated," and "Secret Societies Illustrated." $1.00 each.

Temple of Honor Illustrated. A full and complete illustrated ritual of "The Templars of Honor and Temperance," commonly called the Temple of Honor. By a Templar of Fidelity and Past Worthy Chief Templar. 25cts each.

Knights of Labor Illustrated ("ADELPHON KRUPTOS.") The complete illustrated ritual of the order, including the "unwritten work." 25cts each.

MISCELLANEOUS.

History Nat'l Christian Association Its origin, objects, what it has done and aims to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought, the Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association. 25cts each.

Folly, Expense and Danger OF SECRET SOCIETIES. By Pres. C. A. Blanchard. This booklet of 32 pages is a general discussion of the secret orders, whether religious, political, industrial, insurance or social. Postpaid, 5 cents.

Disloyal Secret Oaths. By Joseph Cook, Boston. He quotes the law of Vermont which makes the administration of the Masonic oaths illegal. Joseph Cook's address is a national treatment of a national subject, and very valuable for reference. Postpaid, 5 cents.

Are Secret Societies a Blessing? An address by Rev. B. Carradine, D. D., pastor of the Centenary M. E. church, St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 4, 1891. W. McCoy writes: "That sermon ought to be in the hands of every preacher in this land, and every citizen's, too." A pamphlet of 20 pages and cover. Postpaid, 5 cents.

A Booklet of 107 pages, which includes "The Martyr's Own Monument," by Rev. J. E. Roy, D. D., Western Secretary of American Missionary Association; "Christian Politics," by Rev. J. Blanchard, late President Wheaton College, and Editor Christian Cynosure; "The Mysterious Machine: Was it Lawn-mower, Town-pump, Balloon, Wheel-barrow,—or what?" by Prof. E. D. Bailey, of the Civil Service Dept. U. S. Government. Postpaid 25 cts.

Jonathan Blanchard's Sermons and Addresses. Select discourses of the first editor of the Cynosure. Lectures, sermons and speeches given from 1834 to 1892 in leading cities of the United States, discussing topics of living reform, Secret Societies, The Sabbath, Temperance, National Reform, Christian Education, Christian Socialism, The Bible, etc. A book everybody should read. 12mo. Fine photogravure portrait. Price, 75 cents.

American Handbook and Citizen Manual. By Manlove N. Butler. Contents: Bible and Secretism; Masonic Religion; Masonic Sun Worship; Masonic Government; Unwritten History; Grand Lodge Masonry; Public Opinion; Lodge and Saloon; The American Movement. Over 200 pages. Paper, single copy, 40c.

Image of the Beast: A Secret Empire; or, Freemasonry a Subject of Prophecy. By Rev. Richard Horton. Third edition. 200 pages. Cloth. Price, 60 cents.

Secret Societies Illustrated. Containing the signs, grips, passwords, emblems, etc., of Freemasonry (Blue Lodge and to the fourteenth degree of the York rite), Adoptive Masonry, Revised Odd-fellowship, Good Templarism, the Temple of Honor, the United Sons of Industry, Knights of Pythias and the Grange, with affidavits, etc. Over 250 cuts, 99 pages, paper cover. 25cts each.

Eminent Men on Secret Societies. Composed of "Washington Opposed to Secret Societies," "Judge Whitney's Defence," "The Mystic Tie," "Narratives and Arguments," the "Anti-mason's Scrap-Book" and "Oaths and Penalties of Freemasonry as Proved in the New Berlin Trials." 826 pages, cloth, $1.00.

College Secret Societies. Their customs, character and the efforts for their suppression. By H. L. Kellogg. Containing the opinions of many prominent college presidents and others, and a full account of the murder of Mortimer Leggett. 25cts each.

Sermon on Secretism. By Rev. H. Theo. Cross, pastor Congregational church Hamilton, N. Y. This is a very clear arraignment of the objections to all secret societies, and to Masonry especially, that are apparent to all. 5cts each.

Ex-President John Quincy Adams' LETTERS on the Nature of Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties. Price, cloth, $1.00. Paper, 35 cents.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret SOCIETIES. A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons in the Christian church. 10 cents each.

Sermon on Secret Societies. By Rev. Daniel Dow, Woodstock, Conn. The special object of his sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the character of secret societies, no matter what object such societies profess to have. 5 cents each.

Secret Societies. A discussion of their character and claims by Rev. David McDill, Pres. J. Blanchard and Rev. Edward Beecher. In cloth, 35cts each; paper covers, 15cts each.

Secret Societies, Ancient and ModERN. Table of Contents: The Antiquity of Secret Societies, The Life of Julian, The Eleusinian Mysteries, The Origin of Masonry, Was Washington a Mason? Fillmore and Webster's Deference to Masonry, A Brief Outline of the Progress of Masonry in the United States, The Tammany Ring, Masonic Benevolence, The Uses of Masonry, An Illustration, The Conclusion. 50cts each.

Pres. H. H. George on Secret Societies. A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian churches to disfellowship secret societies. 10cts each.

Secrecy vs. the Family, State and CHURCH. By Rev. M. S. Dury. The antagonism of organized secrecy to the welfare of the family, state and church, is clearly shown. 10cts each.

Narratives and Arguments, showing the conflict of secret societies with the Constitution and law of the Union and of the States. By Francis Semple. The fact that secret societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of law is here clearly proved. 15cts each.

Anti-masonic Sermons and AdDRESSES. Composed of "Masonry a Work of Darkness;" the Sermons of Messrs. Cross, William M'Nary, Dow and Sarver, the two addresses of President Blanchard, and the addresses of President H. H. George, Prof. J. G. Carson and Rev. M. S. Drury; "Thirteen Reasons Why a Christian cannot be a Freemason," "Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion," and "Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the Initiate?" 287 pages; cloth, $1.00.

Holden with Cords. OR THE POWER OF THE SECRET EMPIRE. By E. E. Flagg, author of "A Sunny Life," etc. This is a thrillingly interesting story, accurately true to life because mainly a narration of historical facts. In cloth, $1.00; in paper, 50 cents.

HOME AND HEALTH.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

To clean brass lamp-burners and make them good as new, boil in salted vinegar.

To prevent lamp globes from being broken by drafts or accidental sprinklings put on the stove in cold water and let slowly come to a boil.

To clean rust or other stains from the inside of decanters, cruets, or other slender-necked glass vessels slice a potato and use as you would shot grains.

To slide pies with ease give the plate a few careful "flops" when you first take it from the oven and, unless the juice has cooked over the edge, it will loosen at once.

To boil dumplings in the old-fashioned way without a steamer, invert a saucer in the bottom of kettle and, just before the water comes to a boil, drop them in around it.

To beat eggs successfully they should first be thoroughly chilled. In the summer time they should be immersed in ice water or placed in the refrigerator a few moments before using.—Cynthia Dæring in Farm, Field and Fireside.

REGULATING THE SIGHT.

Persons who find it necessary to hold any object nearer than 14 inches from their eyes, and who find that their eyes become dry and aching on reading, need glasses. It is claimed that people under 40 years of age should not wear glasses until the accommodating power of the eye has been suspended, and the exact state of refraction determined by a competent ophthalmic surgeon. The spectacle glasses sold by peddlers generally are hurtful to the eyes of those who read much, as the lenses are made of inferior sheet glass, and not systematically ground. No matter how perfectly the lenses may be made, unless they are mounted in a suitable frame and properly placed before the eye, discomforts will arise from their prolonged use. Persons holding objects too near the face endanger the safety of their eyes and incur the risk of becoming near-sighted. The near-sighted eye is an unsound eye, and should be fully corrected with a glass, notwithstanding the fact that it may need no aid for reading. The proper time to begin wearing glasses is just as soon as the eyes tire on being subjected to prolonged use.

Improper and deficient care of the scalp will cause grayness of the hair and baldness. Escape both by the use of that reliable specific Hall's Hair Renewer.

CLUBBING RATES.

Your attention is called to the reading notice in another column of the the Midland, (U. P.) Chicago and Omaha.

The Christian Cynosure and The Cosmopolitan magazine, New York, each one year, for only $2.50. Any paper or magazine furnished in connection with the Cynosure at a rate that may save you money. Send in the list of papers and magazines that you wish to take for 1894, and we will give you their cost including the Cynosure for one year.

MY EXPERIENCES
WITH
SECRET SOCIETIES.
BY A TRAVELER.
With a Key to Masonry Illustrated

A new edition, greatly enlarged, has been issued, embracing chapters on the Language of Numbers, Secret Empires, and Good Men, containing more Experiences, and affording a deeper insight into the Hidden Language and Workings of Secret Clans, and of the counterfeit pretences of good men, than ever before published. The Key is an exposition, explanation and verification of modern Baalism, with which all should be thoroughly acquainted. The price of the new edition is

Fifteen Cents,

but copies of the first edition will be forwarded for Ten Cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison St. Chicago.

Mr. Chas. N. Hauer

Of Frederick, Md., suffered terribly for over ten years with abscesses and running sores on his left leg. He wasted away, grew weak and thin, and was obliged to use a cane and crutch. Everything which could be thought of was done without good result, until he began taking

Hood's Sarsaparilla

which effected a perfect cure. Mr. Hauer is now in the best of health. Full particulars of his case will be sent all who address
C. I. HOOD & Co., Lowell, Mass.

HOOD'S PILLS are the best after-dinner Pills, assist digestion, cure headache and biliousness.

SEVEN YEARS AMONG THE FREEDMEN.
Revised and Enlarged.
BY MARIA WATERBURY.
Finely Illustrated 196 Pages.....75cts.

The first edition of this book has "gone like hot cakes," and a second edition with more of the same sort has been loudly called for and is now ready for delivery. The press, the pulpit, the educator, the reformer, the masses, have bidden it welcome and Godspeed. We quote a few good words from sundry sources: EARNEST CHRISTIAN: "Publish the book for the good it will do."

Dr. Talmage, in the Christian Herald and Signs of our Times, for February 11th, says: "A helpful little volume, just out, for the workers is, 'Seven Years among the Freedmen,' by Miss M. Waterbury, Polo, Ill.,—a teacher well known to many in Illinois—detailing the quaint and thrilling scenes of her experience—'truth stranger,' oftimes, 'than fiction. One day the chore-man came to Miss M. Waterbury, to be taught a prayer; all the scholars had a prayer to say and he wanted one. John was past middle life and very ignorant. The teacher began the Lord's Prayer, a sentence at a time, explaining as the lesson progressed. 'Thy kingdom come' was all right. 'Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors.' 'What dat mean?' said he. 'That you must forgive everybody, or God will not forgive you.' 'Stop, teacher, can't do dat,' and he went away. After vacation he appeared, saying: 'Now go on wid de prayer. I dun forgive him. Old massar once gib me five hundred lashes, and hit me wid a crow bar, an' t' row me out fur dead, and I met him down de street, an' wouldn't speak at him, but to-day I met him an' aid 'How d'ye?' Now go on wid dat prayer.'"

Inter Ocean: "A Splendid Book. Seven Years Among Freedman is a volume of 494 pages by Miss M. Waterbury, of Polo, Ills., who has spent seven years as a teacher among the freedmen in Mississippi and Alabama. It is a series of sketches telling very simply and graphically the life led by Northern teachers in the South. It bears all the evidences of truthfulness and if it fails to impress the reader with the manhood and dignity of the old ruling class of the South, it is perhaps because the whole truth is told. One reading the book will stop to ask, Why not send missionaries to the white people of the South? They seem to need it more than the blacks."

Journal, Freeport, Ills.: "We are indebted to Mrs. Lila L. Buckley, of this city, for a copy of this interesting volume. The efforts made to elevate the freedmen of the South is one of the most important and deserving charities of the present time, far excelling any effort to elevate the heathen of foreign lands, and it should have the aid of all charitable people in this country. ....The proceeds of sales is devoted to the work of elevating the freedmen of the South, and we trust that every one to whom Miss Waterbury applies will purchase a copy of the book, which is in itself fully worth the price. Miss Waterbury's grandfather, Rev. Calvin Waterbury, was the first Presbyterian minister in Freeport, and it was by his efforts that the First Presbyterian church in Freeport was established.

Polo, (Ills.,) Press: "Seven Years Among the Freedmen. Our townswoman Miss Maria Waterbury, the past winter, prepared for publication an account of some of her singular experiences in the "sixties" among the freedmen of Mississippi. Miss Waterbury and Miss Ford, both of this place, did grand work in those years and deserve no small mead of praise for their heroic sacrifices.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W Madison St. Chicago.

The Nonesuch Professor,

In his Meridian Splendor. By William Secker (Puritan). With an introduction by Theo. L. Cuyler, D. D. 16 mo, $1.00.

"It is a mine of sparkling gems."—Presbyterian Observer.

"A sheaf of golden grain, ripened by grace, and sweet with the flavor of rare simplicity and holy wisdom."—N. Y. Observer.

"It is a searching book."—Christian Intelligencer.

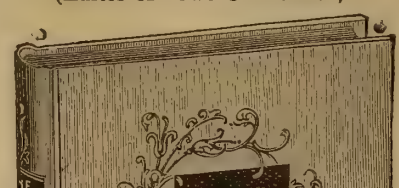
"This is a wonderful book. At whatever page you open it, your eye lights upon pithy aphorisms that combine the sententiousness of Benjamin Franklin with the sweet, holy savor of Samuel Rutherford. It contains hundreds of bright seed thoughts."—Rev. T. L. Cuyler, D. D.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
221 W. Madison St., Chicag

THE GUIDING HAND;
—OR—
PROVIDENTIAL DIRECTION.

Illustrated by authentic instances of Relief and Deliverance in times of Trouble and Perplexity; of Direction through Dreams and Mental Impressions, and of Providential Guidance, resulting in Conversion. Recorded and collected by

H. L. HASTINGS,
(Editor of "The Christian.")



This striking work is divided into three parts as follows:

(1) Providences in Relief and Deliverances. (2) Dreams and Impressions. (3) Conversions.

The "Guiding Hand" contains nearly 400 pages. It is really a handsome book, printed on heavy book paper, from large open type, good for the eyes, and artistically and durably bound in fine cloth, with fancy panels. Price, $1.50.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison S Chicago, Ill

Talks to Sunday-School Teachers.
By Rev. J. G. Terrill. 12mo, 200 pages, bound in fine cloth.....75

This book is the result of twenty-five years of experience in Sunday-school and treats of: 1. The Sunday-school organization and management. 2. Methods of work. 3. Studies in human nature. 4. Rules of Interpretation as applied to the Bible. 5. Illustrative exercises for primary classes and children's meetings. In the style of presentation, subject matter and price of the book, the wants of the officers and teachers of the ordinary Sunday-school are kept in view.

S. S. Times:—A very comprehensive book. N. Y. Independent:—A sensible manual for the average Sunday-school teacher. Evan. Mess.:—We have been very favorably impressed with the book, because it is so intensely practical. The subject is systematically treated, and leaders of teacher's meetings can not do better than adopt it as a text-book and devote half an hour of each session to teaching the theory and practice of teaching as here systematized. Christian at Work:—Any school that will adopt this book generally and carry forward its work or doctrines here laid down will not be long in developing into a model school and reaping the harvest of a rich fruitage. Herald and Presbyter:—These Talks are well attested in their profitableness and excellence. Buffalo Advocate:—A plain, practical, common sense book on a very important subject. The author has had wide experience in this field of work. He knows thoroughly the ground over which he would lead others, and possesses the happy faculty of packing a great deal of valuable information as to matter and manner of teaching into this little hand-book. We commend it to the attention of all Sunday-school workers. Religious Telescope:—We are pleased with the plan and treatment of the subjects throughout, and are sure that the diligent Sunday-school teacher who longs for more thorough equipment, will find in this book a helper of great value. Illustrated Christian Weekly:—The author talks from observation and experience, and talks well.

Sunday School Publications.

The Pearl (Mo.)	Pr. Qr.	3 c.	Sunshine (Mo.)	Pr. Qr.	3 c.
The Lily	" "	3 "	Pure Words	" "	3 "
Light & L	Scholar's Qrly.	3 "	Light & L	Inf Cl. wk.	4 "
" "	Teacher's "	5 "	" "	Lesson Leaf	1½ "
Golden Treasures		1 "	L. & L. Primary	Qly	4 "

SINGLE SUBSCRIPTIONS.

The Pearl, The Lily, Pure Words, Teacher's Quarterly Pr. Yr. 25c
& Sunshine, each Pr. Yr. 25c Scholar's " " 20c
The four to one address " 75c L & L Infant Class, weekly, 25c

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Sermons of Rev. John McNeill,

12mo. cloth, 416 pages, $1.50.

The fame of this Scottish Spurgeon, as he is very generally called, is becoming as wide-spread as the English tongue. The secret of his power over the masses, has been discussed on both sides of the Atlantic. If one may judge from these printed sermons the secret lies in a homely and pointed putting of the old truths of the Gospel in plain Anglo-saxon. There is evidence of study, but more the study of human nature, and particularly the human heart, than that of books, other than the Book of books—with this volume Mr. McNeill is evidently in love. With unquestioned faith he believes the writen word, and preaches it with an earnestness born of conviction.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

"Best" Marriage Certificate. Size 14x 17½. Price postpaid 25 cents; per dozen, $2.50.

This superb certificate meets a popular demand, and is rapidly becoming the favorite. Read what the people say of it: BRO. BEST: My attention having been called to your marriage certificate, I must pronounce it the neatest in design and execution of any I have seen. Rev. E. P. HART. E. C. BEST—Dear Brother: I am well pleased with the specimen copy of your marriage certificate, and shall use them hereafter. They are in good taste, well executed, on good material, and at a very reasonable price. Yours, M. V. CLUTE.

Struck by Lightning.

A true and thrilling narrative of one who was struck by lightning; with incidents, experiences and anecdotes for old and young. By Rev. E. Owen.

With Striking Illustrations.

Beautifully bound in cloth, with title stamped in gold on side and back.....50c.
Paper cover.....30c.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

Plan for Evading the Judgment—Request to be Whipped to Death—Learning to Swear—Alarmed by a Rattlesnake—Fall from a Building—Struck by Lightning—Converted—Sanctified—Called to Preach—First Effort—Casting out a Devil—Protracted Meeting on "Satan's Premises"—First Circuit—Revival in "Haying"—S. Hill Revival—Sisters' Quarrel Settled—Accused of Fortune-Telling—Souls Saved—Dreams—Too near Hell to Spend Time with—A Sceptic Awakened—Public Talk with a Universalist—A Chair Thrown at the Minister—Revival in Berlin—A Methodist Church of Baptist Converts—A Noisy Stage Passenger Quieted—Preaching on the Deck of a Steamboat—A Pleasure Trip—Two Overboard—Revival by Torch-light—A Fiddler Saved—A Slanderer Humbled—Bar-room Discussion—Saved by Expulsion from the Church—Dancing with the Devil—Answering a Fool According to his Folly—Raps for Spirit Rappings—Short Debate with a Restorationist—"Open Rebuke"—An Unspeakable Blessing.

COMMENDATIONS.

American Wesleyan: "Thrilling as a romance, and true to the last syllable. No private library or Sunday-school should be without a copy."

Phonographic Monthly, N. Y.: "Calculated to throw light into the dark places of orthodoxy."

Earnest Christian: "A true narrative of instructive events."

Lay Evangelist: "Quite entertaining and neatly gotten up."

Free Methodist: "Meeting with universal favor. Intensely interesting. We have read, laughed and cried, and shall try it again."

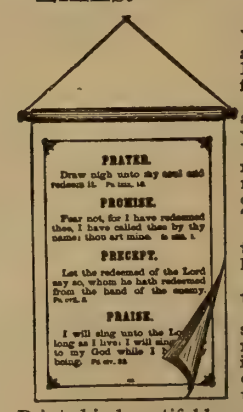
The Blue Bell.

The Mountain Daisy.

Daily Text books for a year. Dainty little souvenirs, only 1½ inches square, elegantly and neatly bound in leather, with silk marker, gilt edges, round corners, each net 25
Illuminated paper covers, each 10

Birthday Memorial Text-Book. An Autograph Text-book. Text for each day and space for autographs. 32mo., Cloth..... 25

Daily Comfort in Four Fold Links.



The most popular Wall Roll published, and deservedly so. Every page is an effective sermon.

The striking character and particular value of this new Wall Roll is in the remarkable arrangement and selection of the Scripture Texts.

A constant monitor in the Christian household.

A silent teacher for the school.

A comforting messenger for the sick-room, as well as being suitable for the office, the store or the shop.

Printed in beautiful large, clear letters, easily discernible at a distance of 10 to 15 feet. Mounted on rollers, with cord, to hang up in usual style. 31 pages, size 14x22 in. 75

The Secret of Success; or

Finger Posts on the Highway of Life, by John T. Dale; introduction by Hon. John V. Farwell. 416 pages, 12mo., full cloth.....$1.50

A book for the aspiring. Written in a fascinating style and full of incidents and illustrations which hold the interest of the reader spell-bound.

"It may be true, as has been said, that 'books are sold, not bought:' but this, at any rate, is a book which, if brought to one's attention, he will wish to own. * * * Such a book in every intelligent family in the land—how much (in showing so clearly, so wisely, so persuasively the secret of success,) it might do toward helping to solve the countless aching, burning questions of the time."—The Advance.

Prof. Henry Drummond's Booklets.

The Perfected Life. (The greatest need of the world.) Bound in chaste style, vellum paper..... 20

Love the Supreme Gift. (The greatest thing in the world.) Uniform with Perfected Life. 20

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

FARM NOTES.

(From Pres. Cleveland's Message.)

Under the sanction of existing legislation there was sent out from the Agricultural Department, during the last fiscal year, enough of cabbage seed to plant 19,200 acres of land; a sufficient quantity of beans to plant 4,000 acres; beet seed enough to plant 2,500 acres; sweet corn enough to plant 7,800 acres; sufficient cucumber seed to cover 2,025 acres with vines, and enough muskmelon and watermelon seeds to plant 2,675 acres. The total quantity of flower and vegetable seeds thus distributed was contained in more than 9,000,000 packages, and they were sufficient, if planted, to cover 89,506 acres of land.

In view of these facts, this enormous expenditure without legitimate returns of benefit ought to be abolished. Anticipating a consummation so manifestly in the interests of good administration, more than $100,000 has been stricken from the estimate made to cover this object for the year ending June 30, 1895; and the Secretary recommends that the remaining $35,000 of the estimate be confined strictly to the purchase of new and improved varieties of seeds, and that these be distributed through the experiment stations. Thus the seed will be tested, and after the test has been completed by the experiment stations the propagation of the useful varieties, and the rejection of the valueless, may safely be left to the common sense of the people.

The exports of agricultural products from the United States for the year ending June, 1892, attained the enormous figure of $800,000,000 in round numbers, being 78.7 per cent of our total exports. In the last fiscal year this aggregate was greatly reduced, but, nevertheless, reached $615,000,000, being 75.1 per cent of all American commodities exported.

A review of our agricultural exports, with special reference to their destination, will show that in about every line the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland absorbs by far the largest proportion. Of cattle the total exports aggregated in value for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1893, $26,000,000, of which Great Britain took considerably over $25,000,000. Of beef products of all kinds our total exports were $28,000,000, of which Great Britain took $24,000,000. Of pork products the total exports were $84,000,000, of which Great Britain took $53,000,000. In breadstuffs, cotton and minor products, like proportions sent to the same destination are shown.

United Presbyterians among our readers will be glad to learn that the Midland of Omaha is about to remove to Chicago. This will answer the most common and seemingly only objection to it—"too far west." The Midland is newsy, spicy and sound, liberal and loyal and patriotic and progressive; it excels in giving the news of its own denomination, in supporting the reforms of the day and in advocating home missions. Send for a free sample copy. Address the Midland Publishing Co. Its regular price is $1.50, but to one of our old subscribers who becomes a new subscriber to the Midland, both papers will be sent by us for $2.50. To one who becomes a new subscriber to both, the Cynosure and Midland, the papers will cost for one year only $2.00. Address, Christian Cynosure, 221 W. Madison street.

The Christian Witness

Is an eight-page undenominational monthly; the official organ of the New Hampshire Christian Association, opposed to secret societies. It advocates Bible Holiness, Church Purity, Sound Morality and Temperance.

Terms: 50 cents a year, or three years for $1.00.

Send stamp for sample copy.

Address S. C. KIMBALL,
Box 277. Newmarket, N. H.

For Colds,

Coughs,
Croup, Influenza, and Bronchitis, use

AYER'S

CHERRY PECTORAL

the best
of all anodyne
expectorants.
Prompt to act,

Sure to Cure

AMERICAN HANDBOOK
AND
CITIZEN MANUAL.
BY
MANLOVE N. BUTLER.

CONTENTS:—Bible and Secretism; Masonic Religion; Masonic Sun Worship; Masonic Government; Unwritten History; Grand Lodge Masonry; Public Opinion; Lodge and Saloon; The American Movement; Real Prohibition; Poor Man's Bible, and All-Around Reformers. Over 200 pages

Paper, single copy 40c.; per doz. 35c.

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
WM. I. PHILLIPS, Treasurer,
221 W. Madison St., Chic

THE TWO-FOLD GIFT
of the Holy Ghost,
BY REV. THOS. K. DOTY,
Author of Lessons in Holiness.

240 pp. Price postpaid.....65cts.

The design of this book is, in plain language, to designate the place of the Holy Ghost in both the Godhead and the work of Salvation. Especially to show that Entire Santification is wrought in the heart by the Baptism of Holy Ghost; and that the Epoch of the Baptism is identical with that of his Advent in his Indwelling Personalty. The agency of the Holy Ghost in the Life, and in carrying on the work of the Gospel, is given particular attention.

TITLES TO THE CHAPTERS:

1. A Summary. 2. The Holy Ghost a Person. 3. The New Testament Designating Terms. 4. The Scriptural View. 5. The Holy Ghost is God. 6. Blasphemy Against the Holy Ghost. 7. The Triunity of God. 8. The Apostolic Benediction. 9. The Worship of the Holy Ghost. 10. The Dispensations. 11. The First Dispensation. 12. The Second Dispensation. 13. Holiness—Sinning. 14. "The Sin of the World." 15. Final Deliverance from Sin. 16. The Day of the Holy Ghost. 17. Jesus and the Holy Ghost. 18 and 19. The Epoch of the Holy Ghost. 20. The Anointing. 21. The Baptism of the Holy Ghost. 22. The Baptism of Fire. 23. The Two-Fold Experiences of the Holy Ghost. 24. Fellowship of the Holy Ghost. 25. "In the Spirit." 26. Several Scriptural Terms Considered. 27. Pentecost. 28. Inspiration—Prophecy. 29. Spiritual Leading and Teaching. 30. The Gifts of the Spirit. 31. "Praying in the Holy Ghost." 31 and 32. Power.

This book is creating quite a stir in religious circles. The original, bold and convincing manner of presenting the subject, has forced the press to comment upon the book, either adversely or favorably, generally the latter. We give a few OPINIONS:

Bible Standard and Gospel Record: "This book is very compact, scarcely a superfluous sentence in the whole book. The manner of treating the questions involved is both clear and scriptural. .....The effect of the book will be to deepen thought and increase knowledge and, in the end, deepen piety."

Evangelical Messenger: "Brother Thomas K. Doty has written a book which we take pleasure in commending to all devout readers who enjoy all spiritual things. The subject is so important, and the treatment of it so timely, that we may be pardoned for calling attention to it thus prominently. We, at least have been greatly interested, and gratefully acknowledge that we have also been decidedly profited by persuing it .....Brother Doty writes with an incisive pen, in a clear, lucid style, often epigrammatical and with great force. He is evidently deeply impressed with the truth of what he writes and demands the respect even where he does not gain the intellectual assent of his readers. Withal the book is written in a kindly, candid spirit, rather didactic than polemical, and is calculated to help the reader and not to rouse his opposition, as is the case with so many books which have been written upon this and kindred subjects. The theological views expressed are orthodox, and in some cases the argument is fresh in matter, and certainly fresh in form throughout."

Christian Cynosure: "His book is one of the most excellent, instructive and practical of any that have come to our knowledge. The exposition of the Scriptures concerning the personality and work of the Spirit is very clear, able and comforting. There is much dogmatising on these topics by Christians who never fully felt the power of the Spirit's work, or are not living in gracious fellowship with him. To all such and to those who have not yet learned what gifts the Lord is waiting to bestow on his people we heartily commend the careful reading of this volume."

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

RECENT PUBLICATIONS
OF
FLEMING H. REVELL

Modern Ideas of Evolution.

As related to Revelation and Science. By Sir William Dawson, L. L. D., F. R. S., etc. 12 mo, cloth, $1.50.

In popular style, a testing by scientific facts and principles, the validity of that multiform and brilliant philosophy of the universe, which has taken so deep a hold of the science and literature of our times.

The New World of Central Africa

By Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness; with a history of the first Christian mission on the Congo. Maps, Portraits and numerous engravings. 537 pages, 12 mo, $2.00.

This comprehensive volume is as fascinating as the most entertaining romance. Its vivid portrayal of the dark side of African history makes one's blood tingle, while its earnest appeals create an inspiring sympathy with the effort to evangelize its teeming millions.

Power From on High.

By Rev. B. Fay Mills. White vellum paper, 20 cents.

This little work, revised from stenographic notes of Mr. Mills' address before the National Convention of the Y. P. S. C. E., is exceedingly effective.

Matthew Henry's Commentary.

An entirely new large type edition of this inimitable Commentary, in six large 8vo. volumes, fine cloth, $15.00; or, in half Morocco, $18.00.

"Biblical students who are most familiar with the very best commentaries of this generation are most able to appreciate the unfading freshness, the clear analysis, the spiritual force, the quaint humor, and the evangelical richness of Matthew Henry's Exposition of the Old and New Testaments."—New York Observer.

"First among the mighty for general usefulness we are bound to mention the man whose name is a household word—MATTHEW HENRY. He is the most pious and pithy, sound and sensible, suggestive and sober, terse and trustworthy."—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

The Present Tenses of the Blessed Life.

By Rev. F. B. Meyer. 32 mo, 50 cents.

"It is sufficient to say its one direct aim is the present enjoyment of the precious promises. Mr. Meyer's earnest and persuasive teaching in this direction is admirably condensed in these brief chapters."

BY THE SAME AUTHOR:

Christian Living. Cloth, 32 mo, 50 cents.

"A more suggestive and helpful volume it would not be easy to name."—Christian Leader.

The Shepherd Psalm. Cloth, 32 mo, 50c.

"This is a gem."—Illustrated Christian Weekly

"It is a little book which hundreds of devout hearts will enjoy."—Congregationalist.

Power From on High.

By Rev. B. Fay Mills. White vellum paper, 20 cents.

This little work, revised from stenographic notes of Mr. Mills' address before the National Convention of the Y. P. S. C. E., is exceedingly effective.

OTHER WORKS BY C. H. SPURGEON:

Feathers for Arrows; Or, Illustrations for Teachers and Preachers. 12 mo, $1.

"This work covers a wide range of subjects. The metaphors are always striking and frequently brilliant, while the truths that they illustrate are such as have always formed the staple of Mr. Spurgeon's discourses. A choicer collection of illustrations we do not know."—Freeman.

Spurgeon's Gems. Being a selection of brilliants from his discourses. 12 mo, $1.

The Golden Alphabet. Being a Devotional Commentary on the One Hundred and Nineteenth Psalm. 12 mo, $1.00.

"Mr. Spurgeon brings out the truths and beauties of this wonderful Psalm so as to set a rich feast before the reader. As a practical commentator on the Psalms, Spurgeon has no equal."—Presbyterian Banner.

"This commentary is written in quite the happiest vein of its popular author, and the devotional spirit throughout is intense and elevating."—Occident.

Gleanings Among the Sheaves. 18 mo, 60c.

All of Grace. An earnest word with those seeking the way of life. 16 mo, paper, 30 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

According to Promise; Or, the Lord's Dealings with His chosen People. 16 mo, paper, 30 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Christmas Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve New Year Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Sermons on the Resurrection. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth. 50 cents.

"Preachers may get aid in preparing Easter or funeral sermons from this volume. Good to present to those who have lost loved ones."—National Baptist.

Twelve Striking Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Soul-Winning Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Selected by Mr. Spurgeon as the twelve sermons under which there has been the most marked and permanent success.

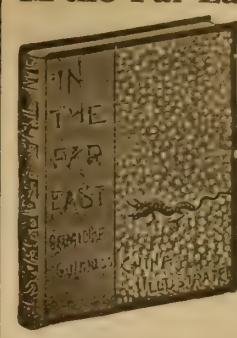
NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chica

The New World of Central Africa.

By Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness, with a history of the first Christian mission on the Congo. 12mo., 530 pages with maps, portraits and numerous illustrations. $2.00

"A conscientious piece of work, and gives a very clear account of what has been done by the Protestant missions to evangelize the barbarous races of Central Africa. • • • He who wants to know what missionary effort means in these days may well learn from this volume. • • • The reader who goes carefully through will have a good bird's eye view of recent events in Africa, with all the results of modern travel. • • • The work contains solid information of use to all who are interested in the future of this wonderful country. The many illustrations throw light upon savage customs and costumes."—Graphic.

In the Far East.



Letters from China by Geraldine Guinness, edited by her sister, with introduction by Rev. J. Hudson Taylor. Very fully illustrated. Quarto cloth, ...$1.50

This book was scarcely written—it was lived; for the breath of life is in it from cover to cover. • • • We have never read so wonderful an account of successful missionary effort.—Presbyterian

We easily understand how this edition is the fifteenth thousand. It is a very remarkable book.—The Golden Rule.

Frances Ridley Havergall's Poems.

Author's edition complete. The only unabridged authorized edition published in America.

1. 12mo., 880 pages, cloth, beveled....2.00
2. Beveled boards, full gilt.....2.50
3. Half white vellum, gilt top, uncut edges, ...2.50
4. French morocco padded, roll red under gold edges...4.00
5. Persian calf, padded and emoossed, gilt roll and r. g. 5.00
6. Crushed levant, elegant.....6.00
7. Full German calf, padded, elegant, gilt, rd. cors.....7.50

Miss Havergall stands without peer in the English language in the department of religious poetry.

"The book in paper and binding is all that could be desired."—Publishers' Weekly.

Small Books by Miss Havergall.

Bound in elegant illuminated board covers.

Kept for the Master's Use. 50

My King; Daily Thoughts for the King's Children.....50

Works of Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

Sermon Notes. Covering all the Bible from Genesis to Revelation. 4 vols.....4.00
Feathers for Arrows. A volume of Choice Extracts, 12mo., cloth.....1.00
Twelve Striking Sermons..... 50
Twelve Soul Winning Sermons, ...50
Twelve Sermons on the Resurrection 50
Twelve New Year Sermons..... 50
Twelve Christmas Sermons..... 50

Notes by C. H. M.

On Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy.

Mr. D. L. Moody says of these books: "They have been to me a very key to the Scriptures."

Deuteronomy is issued in two volumes, the others complete in one volume each.

Separate volumes may be had if desired.

The complete set in six volumes, covering over 2,300 pages, is offered at the reduced price of 75c per vol. or $4.50 per set

A. L. O. E. Intermediate Library.

Selected from the numerous productions of this world-renowned writer as being those of rare merit. 12 vols., 12mo., cloth elegant, each 75c; set.....9.00

An Eden in England.	Life in Eagle's Nest.
Ned Franks.	White Bear's Den.
Sheer Off.	Fairy Spider's Web.
Braid of Chords.	Lake in the Woods.
Silver Keys.	Seven Perils Passed.
Grace Vernon.	Hartley Brothers.

The Jessica Series. By Hesba Stretton. 6 vols., handsome bindings, cloth 50c each, or per set 2.10

Jessica's First Prayer.	Friends till Death.
No Place Like Home.	A Miserable Christmas
Under the Old Roof.	A Night and a Day.

A. L. O. E. Junior Library. Adapted to the young folks. 7 vols., 12mo., cloth, each 60c; the set. 4 20

Claremont Tales.	A Wreath of Smoke.
Christian Conquests.	Pomegranates from
Tales Illustrative of Parables.	Punjab.
The Battle of Life.	Little Bullets from Batala.

The Hesba Stretton Series. 8 vols., elegant cloth bound, per set.....4 80

Cassy.	King's Servant.
Lost Gip.	Alone in London.
Max Kromer.	Little Meg's Children
Storm of Life	Crew of the Dolphin.

CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

Royal Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength. — Latest United States Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO.,
106 Wall St., N. Y.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

CHICAGO.

A million dollars is needed by the Central Relief Association and agents will endeavor to secure it by subscription.

Patrick E. J. Prendergast was found guilty of the murder of Carter Harrison and the penalty fixed at hanging.

Suffering from smallpox, C. W. Sever was driven from suburban police stations and forced to walk the streets all night.

A rehearing in the Kean case by the supreme court is not unlikely. Many millions of dollars' worth of property are involved.

In spite of stories of want and destitution labor agents say applications for employment were never so few.

A rule requiring actual delivery of grain to be made to the buyer is being considered by a Board of Trade committee.

A coroner's jury held Police Officers Michael Healy and Thomas Moran to the grand jury for killing E. A. Nielson.

West Side residents appeal to the courts against special boulevard assessments, claiming they should be general.

The Northwestern Elevated Railroad Company intends to begin work as soon as Mayor Hopkins signs the ordinance.

Slot telephone machines, to head off non-subscribers, is the latest scientific device to add to the company's revenues.

In the presence of an assemblage which filled the council chamber Mayor Hopkins was inducted into office.

Mortgage sharks are doomed. A bank which will loan small sums to persons in need is to be founded shortly.

A deficit of $2,720,914 in the city's finances is shown in the report of ex-Mayor Swift's expert, presented to the council.

A sharp decline in sterling exchange leads to the belief that gold will soon begin to flow this way again.

Lambert Tree is about to present to Lincoln Park the statue "Signal of Peace," exhibited at the Fair.

Rev. O. E. Murray, pastor of the Morgan Park M. E. church, for his strenuous opposition to the saloon element, was hanged in effigy, and his townspeople are indignant.

Sixty days have been granted officers of the American Building and Loan Association within which to restore the assets.

Staid residents of Evanston are alarmed by the discovery that six saloons are running within the four-mile limit.

Further evidence that Dick Edwards and not George Painter killed Alice Martin was received in a letter from Joliet.

Louis Steinberg and two friends bought thirty-five pounds of brass filings, supposed to be pure gold, and are out $4,000.

COUNTRY.

New York's grand jury refused to indict Inspector Williams and Captain Schmittberger on the evidence of Dr. Parkhurst.

William D. Bancker, general superintendent of the American News Company, was found dead in bed at his home in Brooklyn.

Hugh O. Pentecost, ex-preacher, lawyer and political agitator, has been appointed assistant district attorney in New York.

Trunk line presidents at their meeting in New York approved the order for a restoration of rates Jan. 1.

At a banquet in Quebec to Canada's chief commissioner to the Fair the American flag was removed in response to demands.

New York butter dealers allege Armour and others are protected by officials in violations of the oleomargarine law.

Creditors representing $1,000,000 having failed to extend their deposits, reopening of Milwaukee's Marine Bank is doubtful.

FOREIGN.

The greatest destitution prevails among the Indians all over Canada, and from Labrador to British Columbia come tales of suffering. Priests and missionaries are vainly endeavoring in a small way to relieve the misery and suffering which has only commenced with the arrival of cold weather, and the government will be appealed to. One of the Indian towns in the northern part of the province of Quebec has been wiped out by reason of the famine. It is known that four hundred Indians have perished from hunger. It is expected thousands more must inevitably starve before the winter is over.

An anarchist named Vaillant who threw a bomb into the audience room of the Chamber of Deputies in Paris, whose explosion wounded from fifty to eighty persons, lost his nose by the explosion and his head by the guillotine.

The trustees of a Presbyterian church in Canada lately closed the doors of the edifice against a minister who had been sent by the presbytery. For this act the trustees were convicted in the lower court, whose judgment is now reaffirmed by the Supreme court of the province, which holds that the presbytery and members of the session "had complete control over the church, and all the other parties were subservient thereto."

ROYAL HONORS.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER LEADS AS USUAL —IN STRENGTH AND VALUE 20 PER CENT ABOVE ITS NEAREST COMPETITOR.

The Royal Baking Powder has the enviable record of having received the highest award for articles of its class—greatest strength, purest ingredients, most perfectly combined—wherever exhibited in competition with others. In the exhibitions of former years, at the Centennial, at Paris, Vienna and at the various State and Industrial fairs, where it has been exhibited, judges have invariably awarded the Royal Baking Powder the highest honors.

At the recent World's Fair the examinations for the baking powder awards were made by the experts of the chemical division of the Agricultural Department at Washington. The official report of the tests of the baking powders which were made by this department for the specific purpose of ascertaining which was the best, and which has been made public, shows the leavening strength of the Royal to be 160 cubic inches of carbonic gas per ounce of powder. Of the cream of tartar baking powders exhibited at the Fair, the next highest in strength thus tested contained but 133 cubic inches of leavening gas. The other powders gave an average of 111. The Royal, therefore, was found of 20 per cent greater leavening strength than its nearest competitor, and 44 per cent above the average of all the other tests. Its superiority in other respects, however, in the quality of the food it makes as to fineness, delicacy and wholesomeness, could not be measured by figures.

It is these high qualities, known and appreciated by the women of the country for so many years, that have caused the sales of the Royal Baking Powder, as shown by statistics, to exceed the sales of all other baking powders combined.

Do You Cough?

It is a sure sign of weakness. You need more than a tonic. You need

Scott' Emulsion

the Cream of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites, not only to cure the Cough but to give your system real strength. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.

Don't be deceived by Substitutes!

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists.

DO YOU WANT

To receive, read, distribute and otherwise aid in the circulation of a large number of Holiness and Reform papers and magazines? If so, send me a SILVER dime, and your name and address will be printed on the Holiness and Reform Mail Exchange List, which is sent to all publishers of holiness and reform literature, who will mail you sample papers and magazines. Write name and address PLAINLY. Address, J. H. PADGETT, Printer. Ennis, Texas.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO.

Wheat—Spring No. 3	56	@	63½
Winter No. 3	57	@	58
Corn—No. 2	28½	@	31½
Oats—No. 2	27¾	@	35½
Rye—No. 2	45	@	48
Bran per ton	12 60	@12	25
Hay—Timothy	9 30	@11	00
Butter, medium to best	17	@	26
Cheese	08	@	12¼
Beans	1 30	@ 1	50
Eggs	14	@	22
Seeds—Timothy (100 lbs)	4 05	4	40
Flax	1 39	@ 1	40
Clover (100 lbs.)	9 75	10	25
Broom corn (per ton)	30 00	@75	00
Potatoes, (new, bu.)	40	@	60
Hides—Green to dry flint	02¾	@	05½
Lumber—Common		@15	50
Wool (unwashed)	15		19
Cattle—Choice to extra	3 90	@ 6	00
Common to good	3 70	@ 4	35
Hogs	4 90	@ 5	35
Sheep	1 50	@ 4	50

NEW YORK.

Wheat No. 2	65½	@	67
Corn No 2	42½	@	43½
Oats	33⅜	@	35
Rye	50	@	57
Eggs	16	@	25
Butter	17	@	28
Wool	10	@	26

KANSAS CITY.

Cattle	1 50	@ 5	50
Hogs	4 95	@ 5	15
Sheep	1 00	3	75

SUBSCRIPTION LETTERS.

The following have made remittances of money to the Cynosure from Dec. 23 to Dec. 29:

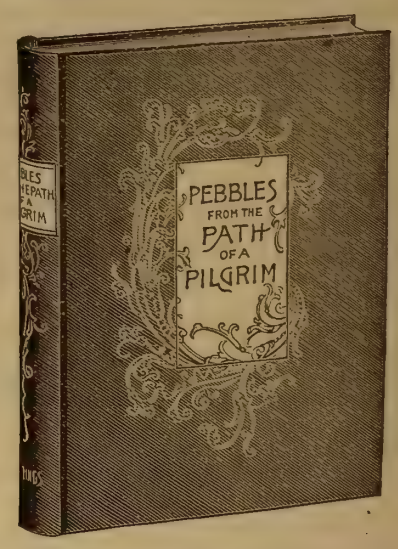
A Aspinall, Mrs M B Park, C Kennicott, Rev J S Amidon, F F French, T B Wilson, C Hedder, J H McGlade, D Owens, R P Brorup, J Shifferly, A Miller, Levi Miller, Rev R S Morton, B Gaddis, Rev H Ph Wille, W M Zearing, J Smith, G Anderson, Mrs L B Streeter, I Sanders, Mrs M A Fowler, Miss J E Whiting, C C Martin, S P Miers, Mrs F Collins, C Follet, Rev W Callen, J C Young, J Lantz, T Kingsnorth, Rev N Callender, W M Beden, A Bonnet, O W Warner, A J Sawyer, Rev J Squier, G Brubaker, J L Burrell, Mrs C Kennebrook, Mrs Mary M Shaw, A Austin, Mrs C K Wood.

During the past half-century—since the discovery of Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the average limit of human life in civilized countries has been considerably lengthened. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is everywhere considered the standard blood-purifier, the Superior Medicine.

Pebbles from the Path of a Pilgrim.

—BY—

MRS. H. L. HASTINGS.



This remarkable collection of stories from the eventful life of a Green Mountain girl has been pronounced "more fascinating than any romance." A member of Congress writes: "'Pebbles' has been read by me with great interest. The introductory chapter has followed me into dreams. My copy is read to pieces by the family, and borrowed to death by the neighbors." An editor says: "Surely the faith that 'obtained promises, wrought righteousness, and stopped the mouth of lions,' must have been given in large measure to the writer of this truly remarkable book....No family library should be without it." "'Pebbles,'" says the Christian Cynosure, "is such a book as Christian parents are always glad to put on their center-tables."

"Pebbles from the Path of a Pilgrim" is a large and beautiful book of over 300 pages, printed on heavy book paper, from clear open type, and is profusely illustrated. It is artistically bound in handsome cloth, with fancy panels, and specially attractive side and back cover designs. Price, $1.50.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

A BOOKLET.

107 pages, 5x7 inches.

Paper Cover, Postpaid, 15 Cents

—o:o—

The following addresses form part of the contents of this booklet:

THE MARTYR'S OWN MONUMENT, by Rev. J. E. Roy, D. D., Western Secretary of American Missionary Association.

CHRISTIAN POLITICS, by Rev. J. Blanchard, late President Wheaton College, and Editor Christian Cynosure.

THE MYSTERIOUS MACHINE: was it Lawnmower, Town-pump, Balloon, Wheel-barrow,—or what? by Prof. E. D. Bailey of the Civil Service Dept. U. S. Government.

This booklet includes other interesting matter connected with the unveiling of the Morgan monument at Batavia, N. Y. Address

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison st., Chicago

THE MYSTIC SHRINE

Illustrated.

THE FULL

ILLUSTRATED RITUAL

OF THE

Nobles of the Mystic Shrine

PRICE 15 CENTS, EACH.

For sale by the

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chica

Christian Cynosure.

"IN SECRET HAVE I SAID NOTHING."—Jesus Christ.

VOL. XXVI., No. 18. CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JANUARY 11, 1894. WHOLE NO. 1,237.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION,

221 West Madison Street, Chicago.

SUBSCRIPTIONS PER YEAR..... $2.00
IF PAID STRICTLY IN ADVANCE..... 1.50

☞No paper discontinued unless so requested by the subscriber, and all arrearages paid.☜

Address all letters for publication to EDITOR CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE, CHICAGO. Writers' names must always be given. No manuscript returned unless requested and postage enclosed.

Make all drafts and money orders payable to the Treasurer, W. I. PHILLIPS, 221 WEST MADISON STREET, CHICAGO. When possible make remittances by express money order. Currency by unregistered letter at sender's risk. When writing to change address on Cynosure list always give the former address.

[Entered at the Postoffice, Chicago, Ill. as Second Class Matter.]

CONTENTS.

EDITORIAL:
Notes and Comments.... 1
Abating a Nuisance..... 8
The Enlistment of Indians as soldiers..... 8
A New Secret Political Society..... 8
"Society of Loyalty and Liberty..... 8
The Cronin Murder Case 8
CONTRIBUTIONS:
The Nature and Grounds of our Opposition to Secrecy (Concluded).. 1
Address of Welcome..... 2
That Letter.....10
SELECTED:
Bishop Coxe to Satolli... 3
A Home Thrust..... 3
The Jesuits in America.. 4
WASHINGTON LETTER..... 4
From the New England Secretary..... 5
CORRESPONDENCE:
The Eastern Secretary in Pennsylvania; Leland, Idaho; Danger of a Divided Allegiance; Christian Unity in Christ.....5,6
IN BRIEF..... 7
AGENTS AND LECTURERS.... 7
THE N. C. A..... 7
THE HOME.....10
TEMPERANCE.....11
BIBLE LESSON.....12
LITERATURE.....12
RELIGIOUS NEWS.....12
HOME AND HEALTH.....14
FARM NOTES.....15
NEWS OF THE WEEK.....16
DONATIONS.....16

It is our purpose to make the issue of the Cynosure for January 25 a strong testimony against the evils of the Greek fraternities in American colleges and the works of darkness performed by them, with, also, some suggestions for their suppression. In this proposed special issue we hope to print several contributions of marked merit and "telling" effect.

At the latest election in Colorado the right of suffrage was bestowed upon the women of that State by a majority of 6,347, and the governor has recently issued a proclamation conceding the privilege to women of voting at all future elections. The male population of the State is 245,247 males and 166,951 females. This new extension of suffrage speaks well for the intelligence of the people and the welfare of the State.

The New York Catholic Review gives publicity to the following, for the truth of which we cannot vouch: "The assertion has been made that in some places employers have appointed members of the American Protective Association to be foremen in shops and factories simply to disrupt the labor organizations existing there, themselves caring no more for Protestants than for Catholics, but knowing that the Know-Nothings would, if possible, discharge the Catholic hands, labor organization or non-labor organization, and that consequently discord would enter into the ranks where there should be only harmony and union."

One of our New York exchanges estimates that 800,000 persons are now out of employment in the United States, and that upon these are dependent nearly 1,400,000 human beings. Never had the possessors of this world's goods such glorious opportunities to give freely and cheerfully of their abundance to the poor. Dean Swift's charity sermon may be aptly quoted in this connection: "'He that giveth to the poor lendeth to the Lord?' My friends, you have heard the text; if you like the security, down with your dust!" The appeal was magical in its effect. Seriously, the realization of the existence of so many poor and needy persons is prompting unusual charity among the well-to-do to meet the emergencies of the case. There should be no cessation of the broadest benevolence during the entire winter.

Reference was made in this paper, a few weeks ago, to Cecil Rhodes' incorporated South African Company (authorized by the British government), and its subjugation of Metabele-land, with the usual episode of slaughtering some 2,000 of the natives who resisted Rhodes' invasion. Later news indicates that Rhodes, having perfected his conquest, threatens to dissolve his relations with Great Britian and set up an independent government. This is a sort of "home rule" that Mr. Gladstone will hardly indorse.

In the recent election for mayor in this city the official count gave the Democratic candidate a plurality of about 1,100. There had undoubtedly been gross frauds at the polls in some of the wards, and these, it seemed certain, were responsible largely for the result of the ballot. The Republicans, however, withdrew their intention of contesting the election. As the new mayor is a Roman Catholic and a member of several secret societies fostered by his church, there is great rejoicing over his success. "The end justifies the means," says the Jesuit.

Governor Peck, of Wisconsin, has written a letter for publication, in which he declares that the American Protective Association is "an organization which ought to be, and will be, condemned by every true American citizen, that it is a revival of the old 'Know-Nothing' party, and that its promoters embrace those who were active in supporting the Bennett school-law" in Wisconsin. Notwithstanding its motives and dark-lantern methods, it is evident that the principles for which it contends will form an important factor in future elections in several States, since it is apparently gaining political influence and causing the creation of "Columbian Leagues" and other similar secret societies in opposition to it.

Raymond Blathwayt, "whose relations with the Roman Catholic hierarchy in Great Britain are very close," sends to the London Chronicle an account of his visit to Cardinal Gibbons in this country, two years ago. During their interview the Cardinal told him that "the church recognizes that labor has sacred rights and that it is the right of the laboring classes to organize. The church, according to the Cardinal, recognized that in this lay the safety of a vast community, such as exists in America, and that the church would help the Knights of Labor when rightly resisting capitalists." Thus the Roman Catholic church, notwithstanding its papal fulminations against secret societies, avows itself, by its prelacy, in favor of secret labor organizations, including, we have reason to believe, the riotous "Molly Maguires," or any other whose members aid in supporting the Church of Rome, and on the slightest provocation war against those upon whom they are dependent for bread.

Austria is just now undergoing a notable experience with the "Omladina," a Bohemian secret society, seventy-eight in number, the membership of which is accused of high treason, insult to members of the imperial family, breaches of the peace, public violence, sedition, concurrence in illegal proceedings, offenses against the laws relating to secret combinations, and insult to recognized religious associations. Among the accused, of whom forty-eight have been arrested, are three journalists, one of them the son of a member of the national parliament. Most of the accused will be defended by one of the Czech representatives. The trial is expected to last three weeks. A recent parliamentary report states that a great part of the seditious antidynastic movement in Bohemia was due to the Omladina. It has been acknowledged by several of its leading members that the association was established for the express purpose of organizing a continuous series of demonstrations which should keep the population in a state of constant excitement, and so prepare the way for an alteration of the form of government by force. It appears from documents found in the possession of its members that the society extends beyond Prague, and has branches in other towns.

The dogmas of Freemasonry are often as marked by diversity as those of theology. For instance, Joseph Robbins, superintendent of correspondence in the Masonic Grand Lodge of Illinois, in his recent report to that body, expresses the opinion that the doctrine of the California Grand Lodge, that the lodge is organized for the purpose of taking care of the families of deceased members, should be "resisted as revolutionary," since it "tends to convert Masonry into a mutual benevolent society, and assumes to lift from its members obligations that pertain wholly to the individual." He denies that "the lodge is organized for the purpose of dispensing alms," and declares that "it is organized to make Masons by laying upon those who come into the fraternity through its portals, the obligations which the coincidence of distress on the one hand, and ability on the other, converts into specific duties. In the very nature of things, where each one is the judge of his own ability, the question of what is duty is one of conscience, and must be settled by the individual who has a conscience, and not by the corporation which has none." This accounts for the meanness of Freemasonry in recent cases of destitution among members of deceased Masons' families—it has no conscience.

THE NATURE AND GROUNDS OF OUR OPPOSITION TO SECRECY.

BY WILBUR N. COFFEE.

[The following paper was read before the Iowa State Christian Association, at its annual convention, held at Hopkinton, Iowa, Nov. 14, 15, and was ordered sent to the Cynosure for publication.]

(Concluded.)

(2) We act in defense of the church. Of all institutions among men the church lays the greatest claim to moral purity. The Decalogue was written as her guide-book. The atonement of Christ is for the moral and spiritual cleansing of every man who enters her doors. Christ knew the moral requirements of his church, and he said: "Strait is the gate and narrow is the way that leadeth unto life." Matt. 7:14. Isaiah tells us of some of these requirements: "Wash you, make you clean; put away the evil of your doings from before mine eyes; cease to do evil; learn to do well; seek judgment; relieve the oppressed, judge the fatherless, plead for the widow;" and, after all this, he says: "Come now and let us reason together, saith the Lord. Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow. Though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool." If these passages do not teach that God requires purity in his church, they have no meaning whetever.

All men expect purity in the church. She is the conservator of the doctrine of the Christian religion. One of the inspired doctrines which are thus preserved, is found in James 1:27:

"Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, to visit the fatherless and the widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world." This means more than to care for lodge-widows and lodge-orphans. It means more than lodge benevolence or lodge purity. It means true benevolence. Christ's illustration was the conduct of the Samaritan who stopped not to inquire of the needy one if he were a Samaritan, but befriended him regardless of his alliances. It means purity in fact, not burning incense to typify "a pure heart, which is always an acceptable sacrifice to the Deity," but that having purified our hearts by faith we should keep ourselves in moral purity, unspotted from the world.

But the lodge, which makes no such requirement of its membership, and which does not necessarily make any pretensions to moral purity, is insinuating itself into the church wherever it can. Where it succeeds it corrupts the church. Members of the church are led into the lodge, to and into fellowship with even enemies of the cross, to spend their evenings in company with worldly-minded men. This influence is pernicious to any Christian, and lodge members come to have but little respect for those professed Christians who subject themselves to it. A minister in the northwest part of this State, who was a Freemason, was passing through the little town of Orange City. One of his lodge-brethren called out to him: "Hello, Cliff! On another bum?" I was acquainted with both of them and heard the salutation. This minister had asked me to allow him to present my name to his lodge, as an applicant for admission. He represented to me that he had a good influence upon the lodge there; that the membership would take off their hats, take their cigars out of their mouths, and stop telling smutty stories when he appeared; but I was able to estimate the strength of the influence which he exerted on the lodge when these two brethren met outside. It is the church that is influenced. No one ever heard of a Christianized lodge. It would be an anomaly.

Again, the lodge, in some places, assumes to dictate to the church. It has come to pass upon some circuits in some denominations, that the lodge determines who shall be their preacher. But a worse evil than this has come to the church.

Through a lodge-loving ministry, the doors of the church are opened to the world more effectually than by any other means that Satan can devise. Within the lodge, the minister meets in fellowship the wicked and the ungodly, the worldly-minded. They are his brethren. He is bound to recognize them as such wherever they meet. He must, as a consequence, have many things in common with them. They are yoked together by the ties of an institution sufficiently religious to command the patronage of the ministry. Is there any good reason why they should not meet on a common footing in that other religious institution, the church? If there is mutual and real fellowship outside the pales of the church, one with another, pray where is the reasonableness in demanding a change in the condition of heart of the one or the other, in order to continue this fellowship within the church? The church has been brought face to face with this condition of things, and, as a consequence, you will find the popular churches of to-day unable to enforce Bible requirements when receiving members into their fellowship. Out of this indiscrimination has grown that pernicious doctrine of "the Fatherhood of God" and the "universal brotherhood of man," which is nothing more or less than stretching charity until it becomes Universalism. It has been possible because of this indiscrimination to have a World's Congress of Religions and the Christian religion, which is unqualifiedly an exclusive religion, made to play the role of hostess to Paganism, Theosophy and Anti-Christ. As Christians, we strenuously oppose the whole lodge system, which, by its universal shibboleth, is able to bring about such dire possibilities.

(3) Our opposition is a defense of the "home." This institution is the pride of Americans. The home is cherished among us fully as much as among any people. Men, everywhere, ought to guard the home. It is a God-ordained institution and was doubtless designed as the chief auxiliary to the church.

Our memories never relinquish their grasp upon the home of our childhood. Our poets have sung the praises of the home. One of the most popular songs the world ever sang was Payne's "Home, Sweet Home." Our sires have bled for the home, its altars and its fires, and we live to guard it.

The lodge is a subtle enemy of the home. It is a complete introduction to the club-room—a system which takes the husband and father or brother from the family the most of his evenings, and deprives the home of his help in cultivating the tastes and talents of his family. Then the company that is kept in the average club-room tends to disqualify a father for a home companion.

Again, the lodge interposes a barrier between a man and his wife. Those who take upon themselves the marriage vow are bound by the closest ties known to man. If language means anything, a man and his wife are one; joined together in "holy bonds." But here is an institution which takes the husband aside from the wife, and occupies his attention from night to night, year after year, with proceedings of which he must not speak to his wife, whose interests are supposed to be in common with his. This is a violation of the marriage covenant and a menace to the home.

The wife has a perfect right to know where and how her husband spends his evenings; and it is a sin against the home for the husband to spend his leisure in such company, and in such a manner as he would be ashamed of before his wife. The lax morality which the lodge system inculcates is a menace to the purity of the home. What, with the company of sporting men, libertines and infidels, can be expected but a loose morality. The requirements of the most religious of all secret orders do not sufficiently guard the home or inculcate true virtue.

In his initiation into the third degree of Masonry, the candidate takes upon himself this vow: "Furthermore, that I will not have illicit carnal intercourse with a Master Mason's wife, mother, sister or daughter, I knowing them to be such, nor suffer it to be done by others if in my power to prevent it." I quote from Hand-book of Freemasonry, by Edmond Ronayne, tenth edition.

Now can any one say this is not lax morality, or can they deny that it is a negative license to destroy the virtue of any other than a Masonic home? Freemasonry is as religious as any of the secret organizations. Can you blame us for claiming to act in defense of the home?

In conclusion, I would say: We do not expect to see the time when men will not meet somewhere in secret to lay selfish plans, but we do hope to discover to the eyes of the youth of this land the snares at their feet. Our work to-day may be in the nature of planting the seed; but God is behind every true moral reform, and we are confident that the fruit of our labors shall be reaped in part by us and in part by future generations in purer morals, better laws and happier homes.

The nature of our opposition we trust is commendable and its grounds just, and therefore we hope by our course to enlist in our work all lovers of pure government, pure religionand pure homes.

ADDRESS OF WELCOME.

[Delivered by Rev. J. M. Foster, President of the New England Christian Association, at the annual convention in Bromfield M. E. church, Boston, Dec. 20, 1893]

As the chief executive officer of the society calling this convention, it is my privilege and duty to bid you all a hearty good welcome. It is generally supposed that the sole purpose of this organization is to educate the people as to the evils of the lodge. But this is only negative and represents rather the effects of our work. We are iconoclasts as to the kingdom of darkness, but we are also builders in the kingdom of light. This Association plants itself upon the great doctrine of Christ's kingship, and proclaims the message that all authority and power in heaven and in earth has been given unto him. All organizations of men and angels—thrones, dominions, principalities and powers—have been put under him. The illegitimate and unlawful organizations of wicked men and evil angels shall be destroyed by him. He will break them in pieces with a rod of iron, as a potter's vessel. But the divinely appointed and lawfully constituted organizations of righteous men and holy angels shall be preserved and perfected by him. We contend for the recognition of Christ, asking for it always and everywhere. He is king in our hearts and lives, king in our homes and schools, king in our markets and stores and counting-rooms, king of our corporations, trusts, syndicates, and commercial and money exchanges; king of our aldermen and mayors, legislators and governors, congressmen, judges and President. He is king of our churches, the congregations, ministers, elders and deacons, boards, conferences, and presbyteries. An acknowledgment of Christ's universal authority and the absolute supremacy of his law, exemplified by a practical obedience to his law as applicable to the various departments of human life in the family, the church and the state, will bring the desired reformation.

But such a life of allegiance to Christ involves separation from all that is evil, and so contrary to the divinely constituted order, and a consistent testimony against the wrong. And this, in turn, includes dissent from and protest against the lodge. In the Lincoln-Douglas canvass for the U. S. Senatorship of Illinois, in 1858, Lincoln said, "If we could first know where we are and whither we are tending, we could better judge what to do and how to do it." We have been in this conflict for a quarter of a century, and secret societies are more numerous, in proportion to our population, and more popular and influential, than ever before. It is also true that those opposed to the lodge are more thoroughly organized, have more extensive information concerning the secret empire, and deeper convictions as to its dangers to society, and the necessity of its extermination, than at any time since their aggressive work began. Lincoln said, "This country cannot continue half slave and half free." Seward said, "There is an irrepressible conflict between slavery and freedom." The conflict between the lodge and God's order is irrepressible. This country cannot exist half secret and half open. A house divided against itself must fall. Either this country must be surrendered to the lodge, or else the lodge must be driven out.

The Jesuits are a secret, oath-bound order, within, but independent of the church of Rome. Their General is called the Black Pope. When a conflict occurs between the General and the Roman pontiff, either the latter must yield or be put out of the way. This order has despatched Popes Sextus V., Clement VIII. and Clement XIV. And Leo XIII. yielded to them to save his life. Their members are sworn to absolute and immediate obedience to their superiors, even though it conflicts with their allegiance to the church or the government of the country where they reside. Their disloyal oaths caused them to be expelled from Prussia, Italy, Spain, and the South American republics. Germany has recently permitted them to return. They have swarmed to the United States. They have full possession of the city governments of Boston, New York, New Orleans, and Washington, D. C. Satolli and Cardinal Gibbons have more power to-day in our national politics than President Cleveland and Secretary Gresham. It will soon be time for us to follow the example of Europe and cast them out. One thing is certain; either we must be rid of them or they will rule us.

The governments of Europe are engaged in fruitless efforts to rid themselves of the Anarchists—a secret order of assassins. France has established a cordon of police on the line between her territory and Spain, and petitioned the Spanish government to co-operate with her, in the effort to keep the Anarchists from crossing from Spain into France.

The Anarchists struck a blow in Chicago, in the Haymarket massacre, that put them under the power of the law. Some were convicted of murder in the first degree and executed. Others were found guilty of manslaughter and imprisoned for life. But the anarchistic governor of Illinois, Altgeld, pardoned out certain of them, thereby sealing his political death from the day that his term of office expires. This country is not ready to surrender to the enemies of our free institutions, to men who would tear down the walls of our republican temple and dig up its foundations to the last stone. Rather let Anarchists perish. Delenda est Carthago.

The Mormon hierarchy is a treasonable order. The Supreme Court of the United States has decided that those taking the Endowment House oaths should be disfranchised, and, if not naturalized, should be refused citizenship. The clamor of Utah for statehood, and the fact that the House of Representatives has passed a bill to this end, naturally awaken the fear that we are to be wedded to polygamy and the priest-rule. The degradation, the pollution, and the imperious lawlessness of the order should prompt all to pray and labor to be delivered from such a calamity.

There is a principle in philosophy that if you have three points not in the same straight line you can make a circle pass through them. Here you have three points, Jesuitry, Mormonism, and Anarchism, all weighed in the balances and found wanting. Through them you can pass the circle of legal prohibition and within that circle include every secret oath-bound order, from the Mafia and Molly Maguires to the G. A. R., the A. P. A. and the Orangemen. The oath that binds to secrecy is the tap-root that must be cut. The axe of the law must be laid to the root of this deadly upas, the branches of which are so numerous and far-reaching. The government must cut off its roots and cast it into the fire. But the church has also a work to do in this matter. The question is mooted in all the churches, Why does not Christianity gain more rapidly? In our own country, with our boasted civilization, more than half the people never darken a church-door. Out of 7,000,000 young men 5,000,000 never go to church. It is true that 75 per cent of our young men never enter the sanctuary, 95 per cent are not church members, and 97 per cent do no work and carry no cross for Christ. Giant evils have grown up in our midst. They threaten the life of the Republic. They are the sons of Anakim. They lived in walled cities. They have chariots of iron. We are in their sight as grasshoppers, and so we are in our own sight.

The church has accomplished much in the foreign field, in translating the Bible into so many languages, multiplying and distributing copies and in gaining converts. This is called the age of missions. And yet the fact confronts us, that while the church has gained 3,000,000 converts during the past one hundred years, the heathen world has multiplied 200,000,000. Dr. James Johnston, secretary of the World's Missionary Conference in London, in 1888, says: "The heathen and Mohammedan world is more by 200,000,000 than it was a hundred years ago, while the converts and their families do not exceed 3,000,000. The increase of the heathen is numerically more than seventy times greater than that of the converts during the century of missions." What is the cause? I answer: 1. Because the churches do not proclaim a full and complete Gospel. There is a willingness to preach Christ as Prophet, to instruct his people and make them wise unto salvation, and as Priest, to atone for their sins and make intercession for them. But how seldom is he proclaimed as King, to whom men must submit in every relation in life? And until the churches are ready to herald Christ as King of nations and call upon all people, nations and languages to bow to his scepter, they will not receive that measure of the Spirit which he as King must give to make the work of bringing the world to Christ a success. 2. Because the churches are in alliance with the kingdom of darkness. Certainly the saloon is an institution of the devil. Church members vote to legalize it. The Sunday newspaper is an instrument of the kingdom of evil. Professing Christians issue this paper for gain. The Sunday mail and Sunday trains are surely in violation of the law of the Sabbath. Church members own and operate the latter and carry on and use the former. The lodge is a department of the kingdom of darkness. Multitudes of Christ's children are in them. And the churches love to have it so. There is no thought of discipline for these flagrant violations of the divine law. Now it is written, "No man can serve two masters." The churches cannot serve Christ and Satan. They cannot have both the world and heaven. And so long as this unholy alliance between Christ's bride and Satan continues, the Spirit will not be poured out in such measure as will make her work a complete success.

Now we raise the question, What is the present duty of the friends of Christ who repudiate the lodge to make their reform complete and secure the blessing of our Saviour King? I answer:

1. They should refuse to hold membership or receive the sacramental feast in any church that permits the members of the lodge to remain in full communion. I would not receive the communion elements from a minister who was a 33d degree Mason, and I would not sit at the Lord's table and receive the emblems of Christ's broken body and shed blood from the hands of a brother who was a 33d degree Mason, or any other degree. "What communion hath light with darkness?" No anti-secret Christian should falsify his testimony against the lodge, by taking the hand of the members of these orders and ascending the mount of ordinances with them, there to appear in the presence of the King and undergo the inspection of his all-seeing eye. It is a dangerous thing to do. The conduct of Moses when Israel made the golden calf should be our model. He was indignant and broke the tables of stone in pieces as a testimony against them. He interceded for the people with such earnestnsss and zeal that he even asked to have his own name blotted out from God's book rather than have his prayer fail. But he was still identified with the organic people and essayed to worship with them. Their corporate sin was his, and God did not hear him. But when the pillar of cloud, the emblem of God's presence, removed from the camp and stood afar off in the wilderness, Moses was convinced that he must separate himself from this idolatrous people. So he removed the tabernacle from the camp and set it up afar off. Those who feared the Lord came out to the tabernacle to worship; and the pillar of cloud overshadowed the tabernacle, and the Lord talked with Moses. Separation from that idolatrous church of Israel was essential before Moses and the faithful could commune with God.

Now the parallel is complete. The lodge worship is idolatry. It is devil-worship. They sacrifice to devils, and not to God. God's people have joined in this devil-worship. The churches that fellowship these devil-worshipers as members and officers and ministers, are parties to this devil-worship. So long as the children of Christ who repudiate the lodge remain in full communion with these churches they are parties with them in this devil-worship, and their testimony is neutralized. The only way in which they can free themselves from complicity in this devil-worship is to separate themselves from these churches. So long as they remain identified with them and their idolatry, God will not hear their prayer to destroy the lodge. They must have faith strong enough to part company with sin and lay hold upon the divine arm, else they cannot have fellowship with him. Hence the significant command of Paul in Hebrews, "Let us go forth therefore unto him without the camp, bearing his reproach."

2. They should refuse to exercise the political privileges of voting and holding office so long as the government makes the lodge its creature by legally incorporating it, and by allowing lodge members to vote and hold office. When the ten spies raised a false report in the camp and began organizing the people to return to Egypt, Caleb and Joshua, the two remaining, protested. They would have nothing to do with this organized rebellion. The ten spies died of the plague, but the two dissenters lived. Then the Lord commanded the people to return to the wilderness for forty years. Now the people are anxious to go up and possess Canaan, and in spite of the remonstrances of Moses, they did go up and were smitten. But Caleb and Joshua would not be identified with them in going up contrary to God's command. They dissented and stood aloof, until the people were willing to go in God's way.

Now the voting body in our land legalizes the lodge, admits lodge members to every political privilege, and makes them eligible to every office and trust. Satan has a larger share of the control of our politics through the secret empire than Christ has through the church. And if the friends of Christ would please him; if they would be the honored instruments in bringing about a reformation; and if they would have his blessing, they must separate from the political body as political dissenters. This frees them from responsibility for the iniquity. In Ezekiel 14 we have an account of Israel's apostasy, and God says, "Though these three men, Noah, Daniel and Job, were in it, they should deliver but their own souls by their righteousness." A reference to the history of these men indicates that they overcame by separation from all evil. Paul required dissent from all forms of sin. "Be not unequally yoked together with unbelievers." This is often taken as having exclusive reference to the marriage relation. It is true that a Christian should not marry a worldling. It is wickedness. But that is not all the truth here taught. It is wrong for Christians to be united with unbelievers in business corporations, in a government constituted upon secular principles, in a church unscripturally established, and in secret societies. The apostle asks five questions in the same connection, and in each uses a different word, and yet in every one teaches the duty of dissenting from wrong. "For what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? And what communion hath light with darkness? And what concord hath Christ with Belial? or what part hath he that believeth with an infidel? And what agreement hath the temple of God with idols?" Our duty is to separate from evil. This makes the evil odious and creates public sentiment against it. The apostles and early Christians made idolatry odious by separation from it. The Reformers of the 16th century made Roman Catholicism odious by separation, and the hierarchy was checked in its mad career. The Covenanters of Scotland made the prelatio establishment odious by separation, and secured the Revolution of 1688. Wendell Phillips and the Garrisonians and the Covenanters made slavery odious by separation from the government that supported that sum of all villainies. And to-day the Covenanters are making the political atheism of the United States Constitution odious by separation from the political body that has accepted of authority under it. Now let the anti-secret society people make the secret empire odious by refusing to have political fellowship in the political body that receives the members of the lodge and legalizes their organization. Delenda est Carthago.

BISHOP COXE TO SATOLLI.

Last Saturday Bishop Cleveland Coxe, of Buffalo, N. Y., made public his fourth letter to Mgr. Satolli. Beginning with a classical reference to the Virgilian tale of the wooden horse of Troy, he says:

"Now at Gonzaga College you talked like Simon, but more adroitly. You said we must pull down our great national bulwarks, the common schools, and accept your machine instead. You made it clear that what we need in your opinion is the constitution according to Sheahan and education according to Satolli."

He then quotes from the revised statutes of the United States that section which declares it a punishable offense to carry on intercourse with foreign powers to defeat the measures of our government. Again reverting to the subject of schools the bishop writes:

"You profess to admire our institutions, but what can we find to admire in any country where you might have copied them? For 400 years the petty island of San Domingo has been under the exclusive control of your ecclesiastics, and what have your schools done for its wretched people, among whom a large proportion are not only heathen but cannibals to-day?

"Why not go where neither schools nor universities exist that are worthy of the name and let us alone, who for nearly three centuries have been teaching everbody to read, and whose schools were not godless till your ecclesiastics forced the politicians to take out of them the Ten Commandments and the Lord's Prayer?"

The bishop concludes his remarks as follows: "You are a stranger alike to our language and the spirit of our laws, and they who sent you on your mission to Washington were guilty of what one of your casuists pronounced worse than a crime, a blunder.

"After your speech at Gonzaga College on your organization of the Jesuit party here at Buffalo, you may as well remember that neither Buffalo nor Washington is in your diocese."

A HOME THRUST.

A story is told of an old Fijian chief and an English earl—an infidel—who visited the islands. The Englishman said to the chief: "You are a great chief, and it is really a great pity that you have been so foolish as to listen to the missionaries who want to get rich among you. No one nowadays would believe in that old book which is called the Bible; neither do men listen to that story about Jesus; people know better now, and I am only sorry for you that you are so foolish." When he said that, the old chief's eyes flashed and he said: "Do you see that great stone over there? On that stone we smashed the heads of our victims to death. Do you see that native oven yonder? In that oven we roasted the human bodies for our great feasts. Now, you! you! —if it had not been for these good missionaries, for that old book and the great love of Jesus Christ, which has changed us from savages into God's children, you! you would never leave this spot! You have to thank God for the Gospel, as otherwise you would be killed and roasted in yonder oven, and we would feast on your body in no time."—The Chronicle.

THE JESUITS IN AMERICA.

The following is the first of two or more articles on this subject. It is wholly historical, and serves to introduce whatever comment may afterward appear in connection therewith. As it stands it possesses interest:

The first Jesuits came to America in 1549, when the government of Portugal sent Thome de Souza to govern Brazil. At that time the city of San Salvador was made the capital of the province, under the name of Bahia.

The first Jesuit mission for the conversion of the natives was established in Florida in 1566. It was afterwards abandoned.

In 1570 the Inquisition was established in America by Philip II. of Spain, but the Indians were exempted from its jurisdiction. The same year, six Jesuits, who had been sent out by Menendez, a Spanish commander, to found a colony on the Potomac in Virginia, were slain by the Indians, and the mission was broken up.

Jesuit missions were opened in Paraguay in 1609, and became powerful.

Pierre Biard and Ennemon Masse, Jesuit priests, having bought an interest in the colony of Port Royal (in New France, now Nova Scotia, Canada), through their desire to obtain a foothold in America, were the first Jesuits to land there, and were considered very unwelcome additions by Pontrincourt, the founder of the colony. This was January 26, 1611. The following year, the government of France granted all North America, from the St. Lawrence river to Florida, to Madame de Guercheville and other Jesuits. This grant was the result of months of scheming, and left Pontrincourt's colony at Port Royal hemmed in by influences disagreeable to him.

In 1613 a vessel sent out by the Jesuits arrived in Nova Scotia, and having taken on board the two priests Biard and Masse at Port Royal, proceeded to Mt. Desert, on the coast of Maine, where the establishment of a colony was begun. That year Capt. Samuel Argall, in the interest of the English colony at Jamestown, Va., sailing north for a supply of codfish, learned from the Indians of the Jesuit colony at Mt. Desert, and proceeded thither and broke up the settlement. Some of the colonists were left to find their way to France and others were taken prisoners to Jamestown. Under orders from Sir Thomas Dale, governor of Jamestown, an expedition, commanded by Capt. Argall, sailed for Port Royal, where they burned the buildings and crops and butchered the cattle. The settlers, homeless and hungry, were left to wander among the Indians during the following winter.

In 1614 the French re-established themselves in Acadia, but the Jesuits made no more direct efforts to colonize in that region.

The first European settlement in Uruguay was made in 1622, by Spanish Jesuits.

Montmorenci, viceroyal governor of Canada, in 1625, transferred his claim to his nephew, the Duke de Ventadour, a Jesuit, and three Jesuit priests—Lallemont, Masse (formerly of Port Royal), and Brebeuf—joined the colony at Quebec. At first they were coolly received, but soon gained a foothold and acquired power. In 1626 Brebeuf established a mission among the Huron Indians, near the shore of Lake Huron. He remained in that region three years, without any special results.

Richelieu, of France, formed a company of one hundred associates, in 1627, to control the trade of Canada, acquiring full power from the government over all the territory from Florida to the Arctic circle, and from the Atlantic to the headwaters of the St. Lawrence, receiving, also, other valuable concessions. Huguenots were forbidden to touch the shores of New France.

In 1629 the Recollet priests were driven out of Canada by the hostility of the Jesuits, who desired to have exclusive control of the province.

Two Jesuit missionaries named Jogues and Raymbault penetrated to the outlet of Lake Superior, in 1641, and preached to the Indians. August 2, 1642, a Huron trading party and four Jesuits (including Father Jogues), were captured on the St. Lawrence river by Iroquois Indians and carried into Central New York. After they had reached the Five Nations Indian reservation, they were horribly tormented and mutilated by their captors.

In July, 1645, a great peace council was held at Sillery, Quebec, between the Iroquois and the French and Hurons. At its conclusion Jogues, the Jesuit priest, returned to the Iroquois country. Jan. 31, 1646, Father de Noue was frozen to death while attempting to reach the French fort on the Richelieu river. This was the first death among the Jesuits in Canada. In 1646–7, Father Druilletes, a missionary, visited Indians along the Kennebec river in Maine and other points in that colony, and returned to Quebec.

The first known mention of Niagara Falls was made in 1648, by Ragueneau, a Jesuit.

In 1649, the Huron towns were destroyed by the Iroquois Indians. Many were killed, together with a number of Jesuits. The Hurons abandoned their territory and were scattered, ceasing from that time to exist as a nation. The remaining Jesuits re-established their mission among the refugees on an island in Lake Huron. On the 10th of June, 1650, this mission was abandoned, and the few Jesuits who were left set out for Quebec, where they lived as a mere remnant. This ended the chief glory of Jesuit missions among the Indians. In September, 1650, Father Druilletes visited Boston on business, and was hospitably received, in spite of the law against the Jesuits, and returned to Quebec. In 1651, he and another emissary were sent to New Haven, Conn., from Canada, to enlist the English colonists against the Iroquois; but the attempt was unsuccessful.

An old Jesuit named Menard, in 1660, attempted to establish a mission on the south shore of Lake Superior, but soon perished in some unknown manner.

In 1666, Father Jacques Marquette, the Jesuit explorer, was sent from France to the missions of Canada, and founded numerous new places of worship.

Feb. 4, 1667, occurred the first ball (dancing party) ever given in Canada. Theatrical entertainments and the growing love of dress and fashion greatly troubled the Jesuit priests.

The Recollet priests who were driven out of Canada by the Jesuits in 1629, were, in 1669, allowed to return.

In 1673 an insurrection occurred in Brazil, under Beckman, whose watchword was "Down with the Jesuits and all monopoly!" It was but short-lived.

Father Marquette died on the eastern shore of Lake Michigan, May 19, 1675.

In 1681, Roman Catholics were disfranchised in Maryland, public offices to be given to Protestants only.

The first Jesuit mission in Old (or Lower) California was founded in 1683 by Father Kino, and was speedily followed by the establishment of fifteen others, which were operated until the Jesuits were expelled from Spain and its provinces, in 1759.

Feb. 8, 1690, a force of French and Indians, from Canada, burned Schenectady, N. Y., and massacred the inhabitants during a violent snowstorm. The French Jesuits were active in instigating the Indians to commit horrible deeds, because of the accession of Protestant William to the throne of England.

In 1691, Maryland was taken from Lord Baltimore and became an English province. The Catholics were disfranchised, and the church of England was made the authorized church of the province.

"Jesuits and popish priests," in 1701, were declared to be "incendiaries" by the laws of New York and Massachusetts, and were threatened with perpetual imprisonment.

In April, 1751, slips of sugar cane from the West Indies were planted by Jesuit fathers at New Orleans, but their culture was not very successful. That country subsequently became the great sugar-producing region of North America. "When the Jesuits were not raising cane, they were raising the devil."

On the 3d of September, 1759, the Jesuits were expelled from Portugal and all Portuguese dominions, by royal edict. This was on account of the great power with which the Jesuits were building up their missions in Portuguese Paraguay (S. A.) and elsewhere.

April 2, 1767, the Jesuits of Spain and all Spanish colonies were arrested simultaneously, by preconcerted action, and expelled. The work was not done with entire success in California, Mexico, or Western South America.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 3, 1894.

Some of the people, so plentiful in every community, who profess inability to see or understand the necessity for constant and persistent agitation in behalf of temperance should have spent New Year's day in Washington, ten years ago, and again on Monday. The contrast would have shown the necessity for temperance agitation, as well as the great reform it has accomplished within that period. Ten years ago, the first day of the year was recognized by thousands of otherwise respectable people as the one day in the year when men might put themselves on a level with beasts, without losing their social standing; in fact, they were persuaded to do so by those who should have been the last to place such temptations before them—the women. It was the rule then, rather than the exception, that the young men, and all too often the middle-aged and elderly men also, should end their New Year's calls in a beastly state of intoxication.

Now look at the other side. It is now considered as disreputable for a man to get drunk while making New Year's calls as at any other time; and the number of women who offer their callers intoxicating liquor in any form is comparatively small and growing smaller each year. This reform has been accomplished by temperance workers, much of it under great difficulties. For instance, one lady who for many years made it a practice to furnish her callers with intoxicating liquors, so resented the request of the temperance people, which she called "an impertinent interference with my affairs," that she became offended with several of her life-long friends who were among them. The rebuffs had no effect; the temperance folk persisted, and although it took them several years they finally succeeded, and that lady not only banished intoxicants from her own house, but became an active worker for temperance and has been instrumental in causing others to do the same. That is the method which has been followed as a rule in working against the New Year orgies in Washington, which investigators have declared to have been reproductions of the saturnalia of pagan Rome. In fact, the social position of the women made personal appeals from some other woman who enjoyed social intimacy with them about the only certain way of reaching them. There are still some who persist in tempting their callers with intoxicating liquors, but the temperance agitators will not cease to plead with them until all have been convinced of their error.

It is not alone in social circles that good results of temperance agitation were perceptible on New Year's day. The custom of the saloon-keepers in distributing free drinks to their customers on that day had filled our streets with drunken men in the past, but this time so few drunken men were seen on our streets that every one was commenting upon their absence. There can be no doubt that it was the temperance workers who brought about this reform, because money was not required to make a man drunk that day. Therefore all honor to the noble men and women who believe in and who keep up a ceaseless agitation in behalf of temperance.

Considerable disappointment is felt here because of the refusal of the government of Chile to extend the time for which the United States and Chilian claims commission, now sitting in this city, was appointed. It was discovered soon after the commission met, last October, that it would be impossible for the commission to act upon all of the claims within the specified time, and application was made to both governments for an extension. The United States consented, but the refusal of Chile will prevent it; and no matter how just the claims may be that will remain unacted upon when the time of the commission expires they can never be brought forward again. What makes it look all the worse for Chile is that nearly all of the claims are by Americans against that country.

By the will of the late Elizabeth Milligan Gulick, of this city, filed with the court this week, the Washington Auxiliary of the American McAll Association, which maintains the well-known McAll Mission in France, gets $500.

Congress reconvened to-day with a fairly good attendance. The first business in the House of Representatives was the new tariff bill, which will, except where other matters are temporarlly taken up by general consent, be kept before that body until it is disposed of. Some think that the rapidly diminishing available cash in the Treasury may cause the tariff to be laid aside until some sort of a financial measure is adopted, but no official statement has been made to that effect.

The Hawaiian investigation, which is being conducted by a sub-committee of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, is not public, but it is known that all of the witnesses who have yet been examined are gentlemen who are in favor of the provisional government of Hawaii and of annexation. The testimony is being taken under oath. It is impossible at this time to say when the investigation will be concluded. *

FROM THE NEW ENGLAND SECRETARY.

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 30, 1893.

A slight indisposition of your New England correspondent will disappoint your readers who are looking for the weekly chapter of news from this center of traditional Puritanism. Reports and addresses from the recent convention here will partially compensate for the disappointment, and give added zest for the "more to follow."

It is a New Yorker, I believe, who has estimated the value of annual Christmas gifts in the United States at one hundred and twenty-five million dollars. Whatever the sum, Boston has paid her full quota, even in these "panicky times." Streets and stores were thronged in anticipation of the advent of "Santa Claus," or Diabolon, personified in this Romanized festival of heathen parentage. In these times when Protesttantism is on a pilgrimage to Rome in quest of attractions, it is refreshing to have the monotony broken by the protest of some one upon whom the mantle of Elijah has fallen. How many pulpits in this city gave a warning against this Romish "mass" day I do not know; but Dr. A. J. Gordon gave it no quarter. He declared that it is without authority from either authentic chronology or Scripture exegesis, and that, like the brazen serpent, in the days of Hezekiah, it has become a snare and an idol, which the church of Christ should assail and break in pieces. There is no valid reason or divine command for observing the day of Christ's incarnation, and the custom ought to be reproved and abandoned by the people of God everywhere, to which many who love the Lord and wait for his appearing respond in hearty amens.

The major part of Boston's Christmas gifts were doubtless from persons who practice very little self-denial in giving to those who could give as much in return; but the hungry poor were not wholly overlooked. Public charities and pressing necessities received crumbs of comfort from tables where the wealthy feasted and "quaffed the flowing bowl," and the giddy danced without a reverent thought of Him who said, "Inasmuch as ye have done it nnto the least of these my brethren ye have done it unto me." Provisions for reaching and relieving the poor in Boston are not surpassed by those of any other city, and no one deserving assistance need suffer if his necessities are known. Rumor has it that the liquor interests are to furnish a volunteer offering of $10,000 to chase the wolf from the poor man's door. Just how this munificent charity is to be meted out I have not learned. If by a more liberal distribution of the commodity in which they deal, it would be a public calamity, entailing a curse of still deeper degradation and sorrow. The fact is, many of Boston's poor have had already too much of this kind of charity from the mills of Grand Master Mason Lawrence, at Medford, and to increase the supply would increase wretchedness and want in the homes and the huts of New England. If the rum and spirit-venders of Boston would benefit the poor, let them close their places of business and cease to "put the bottle to their neighbor's lips," and so put money in the poor man's pocket, comfort in his home, and a joy in his soul. At a mission where I attended, a few evenings since, the experience of one gentleman on the line of saloon-keepers' benevolence was very suggestive. He said:

"One year ago to-night I went into a saloon at North End. I spent all the money I had for drink, and was about to leave, when the bartender handed me a pint bottle of whisky, wishing me 'Merry Christmas.' Before leaving, a second pint was given me, with the remark, 'two pints of whisky surely will give you a "merry Christmas."' I went out and wandered around for a while, but did not know where I went or what happened. When I came to my senses, my whisky was gone, and I was all bruised and battered up. I had a room in a garret, which I reached sometime before morning, and lay there for three days, more dead than alive. I could hear you singing Gospel hymns over here in the mission, and when I got strong enough I came in. Here I knelt and gave my heart to Christ, and became a new man. I yielded once to temptation; but with that single exception I have lived a sober man for one year."

It was no charity to give this penniless, half-crazed man a quart of whisky, after they had taken the last cent he had. If they had refused to take his money or to give him grog of any kind that would have been charity. If the spirit-venders of Boston will cease to disburse distilled death and damnation, they will bestow a charity which will be worthy the name; but so long as they continue to rob the poor of their money, and give their customers a pint or quart of whisky apiece, or return a mere pittance of what they have taken from them "for that which is not bread and which satisfieth not," their offerings are only a shallow pretext by which very few will be deceived, and a less number relieved from wretchedness. JAMES P. STODDARD.

A friend on the Pacific coast—not in Rev P. B. Williams' district, however—sends us the following picture of Masonic malevolence: "Please do not send me the Christian Cynosure next year (1894), as I cannot conveniently subscribe for it. Cause: Masonic revenge and persecution. This place is a perfect hot-bed of these infernal devils. They seem to crush—or try to crush—by criminal means all who oppose them. I often think of a quotation from Edmund Burke: 'When bad men combine, the good must associate, else they will fall, one by one, an empty sacrifice in a contemptible struggle.'" Mr. Burke's advice is sound; but in Rev. J. M. Foster's address before the New England Christian Association's convention (which we print to-day), he commends also entire separation of lodge and church. Separation, combination, and aggressive warfare against the lodge will surely win in the end.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE EASTERN SECRETARY IN PENNSYLVANIA.

STEWARTSTOWN, Pa., January 5, 1894.

DEAR CYNOSURE:—I may not have time to write a report for next week's Cynosure, although there is much that I would like to say regarding the proposed convention in Philadelphia.

I have an appointment to speak at Emmaus, Pa., Jan. 11. I expect, also, to speak again at Coopersburg next week; also at other near points. I am doing nicely in my work here.

Following are extracts from letters received from various correspondents in several places:

"As to your paper (the Cynosure) I am highly pleased with it and enjoy its perusal, for in it is strength for the soul, and a building of reform principles, which I hope and pray the Lord will duly strengthen. May the Master prosper you in your field of labor."—Rev. S. Edgar, Boston.

From the leading Swedish Congregationalist in Philadelphia: "I read the last but one number of the Cynosure with a great deal of interest. The evils of secret societies in the church are especially well set forth in that number. I endorse it, and will sustain that cause to my dying day."—C. O. Lindroth.

"So far as I have seen your paper, I am well pleased, and hope and trust that your labors may be abundantly blessed."—James Caldwell.

"I think that it will be impracticable for me to attend a convention to be held at Philadelphia, although I should be pleased to do so. But enclosed please find two dollars as a small share towards bearing the expenses of the convention. As to getting a hearing for a lecture in this vicinity, I think that the chances would be tolerably good, as there are Wesleyan Methodist churches in this part of the county who are generally in sympathy with the N. C. A. work. But the different secret orders are strongly entrenched, which makes it difficult to get a large attendance at any anti-secret gathering."—David Molyneux, Millview, Pa.

Respecting the work of the N. C. A., it should be known the association is a body of Christians brought together through a common interest—the exaltation of Christ as opposed to the lodge. In its membership are found persons belonging to many denominations. One of its objects is to arouse Christians in all churches to take such steps as they should in opposition to this, their common foe. Its official organ has always taken the position that no Christian church should receive into fellowship those connected with Christ-excluding secret societies. Churches having this rule have been commended. In support of these principles, agents of the N. C. A. have labored. The association having been organized with a specific end in view, and not being a church, but desirous of helping all churches of Christ, it does not require a person working with it to give up his connection with any church. That some who are actively opposing the lodge are connected with churches that fellowship lodge-members, I know. I am glad, also, to know that a majority of those who are aiding our work take what seems to me to be the true position, and sustain those churches which testify against this evil. I do not know all the denominations represented by those who compose our board of directors; but if I am not mistaken the Free Methodist, Congregational, United Presbyterian, United Brethren in Christ, Evangelical, Presbyterian and Baptist are among those thus represented. W. B. STODDARD.

[Bro. Stoddard's presentation of the position of the N. C. A. towards churches loyal to Christ is just, and should be generally understood by those who have not been, up to this time, able clearly to define it. It means, briefly, no compromise with the works of darkness, in or out of the churches.]

LELAND, IDAHO.

PHILOMATH, Ore., Dec., 1893.

EDITOR CYNOSURE:—This new village is situated in what is known as the Potlatch country, and is an enterprising place for one of its age and size.

It has two church-houses, one hotel, a flouring-mill, a number of stores, including dry-goods, groceries, hardware, drugs, etc. One abominable saloon has been admitted to curse the old and young of this fair community.

The Potlatch is one of the richest new countries I have ever seen. The soil is rich and black, growing cereals in abundance. Flax is another product of the soil. Leland, being surrounded by one of the finest farming countries in the world, cannot help growing into considerable of a city in the near future. Any one desiring a home in a new but well-settled country, where the climate is bracing, cannot find a better place than Leland.

Mr. John Bartlett, a staunch anti-secrecy man, who, with his Christian wife, showed no little kindness to your agent, would take pleasure in answering any correspondents of "like precious faith," who would be pleased to locate in such a country. He is an enterprising farmer of intelligence and integrity, and firm as a rock for the right. Your correspondent knew him in the Willamette Valley, and it was a rich treat to renew that acquaintance in his Christian home in Idaho. May he live long to enjoy the fruits of his earliest toil, and bless the world.

P. B. WILLIAMS.

DANGER OF A DIVIDED ALLEGIANCE.

WOODVILLE, N. H., Dec. 26, 1893.

EDITOR CYNOSURE:—I have been a member of secret societies, but cannot, consistently a Christian profession, any longer sanction them. I am not now a member of any, and do not see how any person who professes to love the Lord Jesus Christ with all his heart can retain membership in them. We are enjoined in the Word of God to come out and be separate, and to have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather to reprove them. Nor are we to be unequally yoked together with unbelievers. I believe that membership in secret societies is incompatible with usefulness in the church; and he who attempts to serve God with half his heart, and the lodge with the other half, will find very soon an absence of spirituality in his life. Yours for truth, (Rev.) GEORGE E. NOBLE.

CHRISTIAN UNITY IN CHRIST.

HOLMWORTH, AUBURN,
King's County, N. S., 1893.

EDITOR CYNOSURE:—I enclose for your consideration a platform of unity for Christians devoted to Christ.

I am of opinion that the duty which may be inferred from the latter part of verse 30 of Matthew 12 has been slighted by Christians. Our Lord requires harmony with himself from his united people. But the concord must be real—produced from the Holy Ghost—"the unity of the Spirit;" it cannot be brought about by any arrangement or agreement for uniformity.

The promise in Matthew 18:19 is a perfect symphony in every matter of prayer; not in any single matter of petition, as is erroneously taught. Without concord, there can be no church. (Matt. 18:15–20.) Number and place do not restrict us. But singleness of aim alone can unite us. Even the "two or three" must be collected "unto the Name;" i. e., to follow the character of Christ, and to submit to his teachings.

I am in sympathy with the Christian Cynosure, not only in its conviction that "no man can serve two masters," and that, therefore, the Christian is not at liberty to enter secret societies; but also in its conviction that an undivided allegiance to Christ is the criterion of a true church, and of THE true church. Avowed "loyalty to Christ" is the supreme test of the church of God. Under the teachings of Christ other principles are connected with this. Yours sincerely,

BURNTHORN MUSGRAVE.

THE PLATFORM.

At each of the four corners a support: Conscience, Concord, Conduct, and Concourse.

The platform of the Christian church; alias, of the Catholic Protestant church; alias, of the Congregational church; alias, of the Presbyterian and Methodist church; alias, of the Evangelical church of Christ. 1 Cor. 12:12; Col. 3:17; 1 Cor. 14:36, and Matt. 12:30.

We hold as church principles:

Authority revealed of Christ alone. Matt. 17:5; 10:27, 23:8, 10.

Loyalty avowed to Christ alone. Matt. 6:24; Col. 3:17, 11; John 13:13.

Unity realized in Christ alone. John 14:20; 15:5; 17:11, 21; Gal. 3:28; 1 Cor. 1:10, 13; 10:17.

Vitality imparted by Christ alone. John 10:28; 14:19; 15:1, 5; 5:40; 1 John 5:11,12, Locality occupied for Christ alone. Matt. 28:20; 1 Cor. 1:2; Matt. 18:20.

Responsibility devolved under Christ alone. Rom. 14:12; 1 Cor. 10:32; 1 Pet. 2:5, 9; Matt. 12:49, 50.

Liberty derived from Christ alone. Gal. 5:1, 13; 2 Cor. 3:17; Rom. 14:4; James 1:25.

Catholicity enjoyed through Christ alone. John 15:1, 5; Matt. 12:30; 1 Cor. 12:12, 13; 1 John 3:23.

Finality expected with Christ NOT alone. Rom. 8:38, 39; 1 Thess. 4: end of 17; Heb. 12:23; 2 Thess. 2:1.

[This brother also sends us a magazine article, in fuller explanation of this subject, which is reserved for future publication.—ED. CYNOSURE.]

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE offers to either an old or new subscriber, until the 1st of February, 1894, any book for sale by the National Christian Association at 25 per cent discount from retail rates, when ordered in connection with a yearly or six months' subscription to the Cynosure.

A special offer is made of the Christian Cynosure, one year, and "BETWEEN TWO OPINIONS," by Miss E. E. Flagg, 389 pages, cloth, price $1. The two, worth $2.50, will be sent for only $1.75 and four 2-cent stamps to pay postage on the book.

CYNOSURE OFFER!

Any of the Books sold by the N. C. A. in this paper, ordered, with subscription to the Cynosure, at one-fourth off from list price, sent postpaid.

The New Volume of Pen and Pencil Series.

WELSH PICTURES Drawn with Pen and Pencil.

By D. Lewis Jones, Morris Jones, Edward Ffoulkes, H. Elvet Lewis, D. Tyssil Evans, D. Davies and O. M. Edwards. Edited by Richard Lovett, M. A. With many Illustrations. Imperial 8vo, cloth, gilt edges, boxed..... 3.20

"'Welsh pictures' is the work of ten Welshmen, among whom illustrating the beauties of Wales has been parcelled out according to the special familiarity of each. The result is a pleasing volume."—London Times.

THE EARTHLY FOOTPRINTS OF OUR RISEN LORD, Illumined.

A continuous narrative of the Four Gospels according to The Revised Version, with introduction by Rev. John Hall, D. D. Illustrated by 113 full-page half tone re-productions. Small 4to, cloth.....net 1.50
Gilt edge, with silk book mark, boxed.....net 2.00
Full morocco, flexible, gilt edges, round corners, boxed.....net 3.75

Pictures reflecting the best in sacred art from Raphael to the present day are scattered profusely through the book.

"To many the life of the Christ will be a new book in this form. Though beyond the introduction it contains no word except what is found in the four Gospels, yet when read continuously, without the breaks necessarily made by the different stories of the four evangelists, the narrative takes on new force and lifelikeness. The very fact that this is not our usual method of reading the Word will give it a new reality."—Golden Rule.

A GIFT OF LOVE, and Loving Greetings for 365 Days.

By Rose Porter. Long 18mo. Paper cloth..... 1.00
White cloth, silver top, in box..... 1.25
Decorated silk, silver top, in box..... 1.75

"'A Gift of Love' is the work of a loving heart. It contains a text of Scripture for every day of the year with the addition of an appropriate thought in poetry of prose all bearing on the theme of love. The work must have called for a great amount of patient toil. But it has not been spent in vain, for the volume will prove a blessing to many a soul. To use it day by day for a year thoughtfully and prayerfully, must result in a rich growth in love on the part of the user. The author is well known and esteemed for her previous works' sake."—The N. Y. Observer.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE SERIES.

By Rev. F. B. Meyer, containing CHRISTIAN LIVING, THE PRESENT TENSES OF THE BLESSED LIFE, AND THE SHEPHERD PSALM. 3 vols. in box. 18mo, cloth..... 1.50
White vellum cloth, silver top, in box..... 1.75

D. L. Moody says: "Few books of recent years are better adapted to instruct and help Christians than those of this author. He is a man mighty in the scriptures, saturated with Bible facts and truths."

PRAYERS FROM THE POETS.

By Martha Harger. 16mo, two colored cloth, gilt top..... 1.00
Leatherette, boxed..... 1.50

"This volume is admirable. The Prayer are better suited to some of our moods than formal Litanies and are selected from excellent sources. The book will be a dear treasure to many hearts."—The Churchman.

KIN-DA-SHON'S WIFE.

An Alaskan Story. By Mrs. Eugene S. Willard, Home Missionary of the Presbyterian Board of America to Alaska. With illustrations. 8vo, cloth..... 1.50

"Being a close observer and in deep sympathy with the native population in their struggles towards a Christian Civilization, Mrs. Willard has gained a more intelligent knowledge of their character, of their needs and hindrances, than perhaps any other person."—Dr. Sheldon Jackson.

HEROES OF THE GOODWIN SANDS.

By Rev. Thomas Stanley Treanor. With many illustrations. 8vo, Cloth..... 1.50

"It is a book of most engrossing interest, and as stimulating as it is readable."—The Record.
"The deeds of daring are thrilling in the extreme. Suitable for the public library or for the home."—Times.

THE GREAT LONDON DAILIES.

By H. W. Massingham. Profusely illustrated. 12mo, cloth..... 1.00
Very welcome to all who like to look behind the scenes and see how the great London dailies are worked.

New Editions.

The Prayer Meeting and Its Improvement.

By Rev. LEWIS O. THOMPSON. Eighth edition, cloth, $1.25.

"Most heartily do we wish this work a wide circulation, both among pastors and people, and we hope it may do much toward the lifting of the prayer-meeting into that higher place which it ought to hold among the grand instrumentalities in the kingdom of the Master."—Congregationalist.

"We do not remember to have met with a work so suggestive, and we heartily commend it to both pastors and private members."—Baptist Weekly,

The Crisis of Missions. By Rev. ARTHUR T. PIERSON, D. D.

Cloth, $1.25; paper, 35c.

"We do not hesitate to say that this book is the most purposeful, earnest, and intelligent review of the mission work and field which has ever been given to the church."—Christian Statesman.

The Christian's Secret of a Happy Life.

By HANNAH WHITALL SMITH. One hundredth thousand. Issued in fourteen styles, from 50c. to $2.50. Send for circular.

"To commend this work would seem almost superfluous; and yet to young Christians who may not know it, we cannot refrain from saying, Buy this book, and keep it with your Bible for constant study, until you have thoroughly mastered, in your own experience, the 'secret' of which it tells. It will transform the dark days of your life, as it has transformed those of thousands before you, into days of heavenly light."—New York Evangelist.

The Topical Text Book. Fourth edition.

16 mo., cloth, 60c

This little volume is a worker's most useful tool. It collates all Scripture passages under their topical headings, and for this reason proves far more helpful in studying a subject than the best concordance.

"I find one of the very best ways to study the Scripture is to study topically."—D. L. Moody.

Stalker's Life of Christ. Twelfth edition.

Stalker's Life of St. Paul. Fourth edition.

12 mo., cloth, each, 60c.

These works by Professor James Stalker, M. A., are unique in their compact putting of these lives into such condensed form without injurious brevity. They are being taken up as text books by Biblical classes in all parts of the country, thus proving their practical value.

Grace and Truth under Twelve Different Aspects.

By W. P. MACKAY, M. A. Paper, 35c.; cloth, 75c. Two hundred and fiftieth thousand.

This remarkable sale can only be attributed to the very practical character of this work as a guide to the inquirer and a work of helpful instruction for the immature Christian. It is of this volume Mr. D. L. Moody said: "I know of no work in print better adapted to place in the hands of the inquirer."

Notes and Suggestions for Bible Readings.

By S. R. BRIGGS. Sixtieth thousand. 8 vo, cloth. $1.00; flexible, 75c.

Edition after edition of this work has been called for until it would seem the demand must be supplied. The sales however, increase rather than otherwise.

Feathers for Arrows. By Rev. C. H. SPURGEON.

16 mo., cloth, $1.00.

Few preachers have made such effective use of pointed illustrations as the well known pastor of the great Metropolitan Tabernacle. Here he has given us a large cluster of his best with liberty to enjoy and employ.

Revell's Record for Church Treasurers.

Size No. 1, $1.50; Size No. 2, $2.00.

Popular because practical—valuable because time saving—the only record for weekly envelope system that reduces the treasurer's work to the minimum.

For sale by the

National Christian Association,

221 West Madison Street, Chicago, Ill.

IN BRIEF.

There are 240,000 varieties of insects.

There are 2,754 languages and dialects now spoken.

The lungs of an average man contain about five quarts of air.

Botanists say that there are upward of 50,000 varieties of plants.

The greatest song-writer is Schubert. He produced over 1200 songs.

The longest bridge in the world, over the St. Lawrence, is 9,144 feet.

All animals whose habitat is the Arctic regions turn white in winter.

In one summer the descendants of a single fly will number 2,080,320.

The largest trees are in Australia, some exceeding 400 feet in height.

The catacombs of Rome contain the remains of about 6,000,000 people.

The greatest university is Oxford. It has twenty-one colleges and five halls.

The highest falls in the world are the Ribbon Falls of the Yosemite—3,300 feet.

The highest church steeple in the world is that of the Cathedral of Antwerp, 476 feet.

The Brooklyn bridge, the largest suspension bridge in the world, is, with its approachee, 5,989 feet long, and cost $13,000,000.

A ton of gold is worth $607,799.21; of pure silver, $27,704.84; a million dollars in gold weigh 3,685.8 pounds; of silver, 58,929.9 pounds.

London devours every year 400,000 oxen, 1,600,000 sheep, 500,000 calves, 700,000 hogs, fowls innumerable and 9,800,000 gallons of milk.

It is calculated that on a bright summer day there are raised into the air by evaporation from the surface of the Mediterranean 5,280,000,000 tons of water.

In New York all the old paint brushes are purchased by one individual, who visits all the shops regularly and buys them on the same principle that the ragpicker buys old rags. He takes them to his shop, soaks them in a chemical preparation and bleaches them. He then sells them to the tooth-brush manufacturers, who make them up into tooth-brushes of the finest and most costly brand.

No other sarsaparilla has the merit to hold the confidence of entire communities year after year, as has Hood's Sarsaparilla, It possesses curative powers peculiar to itself.

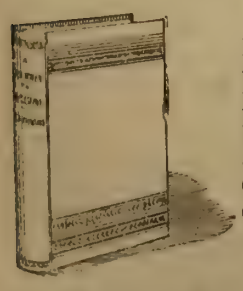
Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, carefully prepared from the best ingredients. 25 cents.

"Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething" softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain and cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

A Journey to Palestine.

BY REV. B. CARRADINE, D. D.

—oo—



Revised and Illustrated Edition. 500 pages. Eighteen beautiful half-tone Engravings, including portrait of Author. Cloth postpaid, $1.50. Address

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

THE

Folly, Expense & Danger

OF

SECRET SOCIETIES.

BY

CHARLES A. BLANCHARD.
(President Wheaton College.)

5 Cts per Copy; $3 per Hundred

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W Madison St. Chicago.

HEALTHY CHILDREN

come from healthy mothers. And mothers will certainly be healthy if they'll take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Nothing can equal it in building up a woman's strength, in regulating and assisting all her natural functions, and in putting in perfect order every part of the female system. It lessens the pains and burdens of child-bearing, supports and strengthens weak, nursing mothers, and promotes an abundant secretion of nourishment.

It's an invigorating, restorative tonic, a soothing and bracing nervine, and a guaranteed remedy for women's ills and ailments. In every chronic "female complaint" or weakness, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Thousands of people, with worse cases of Catarrh than yours probably is, have been permanently cured by Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. That is the reason why its proprietors are willing to promise you $500 if you can't be cured.

MY WIFE CANNOT SEE HOW YOU DO IT AND PAY FREIGHT.

$10.50 Buy the Oxford Improved SINGER Sewing Machine, with a complete set of attachments and guaranteed for 10 years. Shipped anywhere on 30 days' trial. No money required in advance. 75,000 now in use. World's Fair Medal awarded. Buy from factory, save dealers' and agents' profit. Write to-day for our LARGE FREE CATALOGUE. Oxford Mfg. Co., 342 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WHEATON COLLEGE,

WHEATON, ILL.

A School for Men and Women.

WINTER TERM OPENS TUESDAY JANUARY 2ND.

For Catalogue, address

CHAS. A BLANCHARD, Pres.

IF YOU

WANT WORK

that is pleasant and profitable, send us your address immediately. We teach men and women how to earn from $5 per day to $3,000 per year without having had previous experience, and furnish the employment at which they can make that amount. Capital unnecessary. A trial will cost you nothing. Write to-day and address,

E. C. ALLEN & CO.,
Box 1001. Augusta, Me.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained, and all Patent business conducted for Moderate Fees.

Our Office is Opposite U. S. Patent Office, and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A Pamphlet, "How to Obtain Patents," with names of actual clients in your State, county, or town, sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.
Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

PROPHECY:

A STUDY.

BY REV. S. F. PORTER,

A Study of Christ's Comings.

Paper Cover, 100 Pages.

Single copies, postpaid..... 25 cents.
Per 100 copies, postpaid..... $20.00.

For sale by the

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

The St. Louis Sermon

Are Secret Societies a Blessing or a Curse?

An Address by Rev. B. Carradine D. D., Pastor of the Centenary M. E. Church, St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 4, 1891.

W. McCoy writes: "That sermon ought to be in the hands of every preacher in this land, and every citizen's too."

A pamphlet of 20 pages and cover.

Sent postpaid 25 copies $1.00. Single copy 5 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

ANTI-SECRECY TRACTS.

The following numbers are in stock, and can be had at the wholesale price of 25 cents per pound:

1. National Christian Association.
1½. Testimony of Statesmen.
4. Freemasonry in the Family.
7. To the Boys who Hope to be Men.
8. Modern Heathenism.
9. Ministers at Rival Altars.
10. A Pastor's Confession.
15. Secrecy and Sin.
16. Selling Dead Horses.
17. History of Masonry.
19. Freemasonry a Christ-excluding Religion.
22. Extracts from Masonic Oaths and Penalties as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.
28. Dr. Nathaniel Colver on Masonry.
30. Masonic Oaths Null and Void.
37. Why a Christian should not be a Freemason (German).
38. Masonic Oaths and Penalties.
39. Should Freemasons be Admitted to Christian Fellowship?
41. Freemasonry a Religion.
45. Ought a Seceding Mason to Keep his Lodge Oath?

Families, Churches, Senates, Juries and Camps.

The above are the only tracts in stock in large quantities. There are a few of several other numbers. Remember that these are being retailed at wholesale prices—25 cents per pound. Keep a package of Anti-masonic tracts for use in letters.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

AGENTS AND LECTURERS.

NEW ENGLAND DEPARTMENT.—Rev. J. P. Stoddard, Agent, 218 Columbus Ave., Hotel Howland, Boston.

EASTERN DEPARTMENT.—W. B. Stoddard, Agent, No. 215, 4½ St., Washington, D. C.

NORTHERN DEPARTMENT.—Rev. W. Fenton, 74 South Robert St., St. Paul, Minn.

PACIFIC DEPARTMENT.—Rev. P. B. Williams, Philomath, Oregon.

COLLEGE AGENT, Rev. S. F. Porter Cynosure office.

OTHER LECTURERS.

C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
Rev. H. H. Hinman, Oberlin, O.
Nathan Callender Montdale Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
H. A. Day, Brighton, Mich.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
A. Mayn, Bloomington, Ind.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
W. M. Love, Osceola, Mo.
J. K. Glassford, Phoenix, Arizona.
Wm. Fenton, St. Paul, Minn.
J. S. Perry, Thompson, Conn.
Rev. E. Mathews, Ft Wayne, Ind.
E. Barnetson, Haskinville, N. Y.
D. A. Richards, Brighton, Mich.
A. W. Parry, Chicago, Ill.

Disloyal

SECRET OATHS

ADDRESS OF

JOSEPH COOK,

OF BOSTON,

AT THE

Conference of Christians

CHICAGO, 1880.

No better document of its size for general distribution has been printed. Joseph Cook's address is a national treatment of a nationa subject, and very valuable for reference.

Single Copies 5 cents, or 12 copies for 50 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the Initiate. By Rev. L. A. Post. 5 cents each.

THE N. C. A. BUILDING
(The gift of Philo Carpenter)
—AND OFFICE OF—
THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. MADISON STREET, CHICAGO.

The National Christian Association

PRESIDENT—Rev. A. J. Gordon, D.D., Boston, Mass.

VICE PRESIDENT—Charles A. Blanchard, President Wheaton College Ill.

GEN'L SEC'Y and TREASURER—W. I. Phillips, 221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

REC. SECRETARY—Amos Dresser, Jr. Wheaton, Ill., Box 367.

DIRECTORS—T. B. Arnold, C. A. Blanchard, E. A. Cook, J. M. Hitchcock, A. G. Johnson, J. P. Richards, E Whipple, E. R. Worrell, Edgar B. Wylie W. M. Howie, H. F. Kletzing.

The object of this Association is:

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the churches of Christ from being depraved, to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform.

STATE AUXILIARY ASSOCIATIONS

NEW ENGLAND.—Pres., J. A. Conant; Vice-president, S. C. Kimball; Sec'y, D. B. Gunn.

CONNECTICUT.—Pres., J. A. Conant, Willimantic; Sec., David J. Ellsworth, Windsor; Treas., C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.—Pres., Rev. R. W. Chesnut Marissa; Sec., Rev. J. R. Wylie, Coulterville; Treas., Rev. W. I. Phillips, Cynosure office, Chicago.

IOWA.—Pres., Rev. J. A. Greer, Columbus City; Sec., Rev. T. H. Acheson, Hopkinton; Treas., Rev. L. Mendenhall, Fairfield.

KANSAS.—Pres., Rev. C. H. Strong, Lawrence; Vice-Pres., Rev. J. L. Countermine Hiawatha; Sec., Rev. D. H. Coulter, Winchester; Treas., Joseph A. Torrence, Denison.

NEBRASKA.—Pres., Rev. W. I. Brooks Pawnee City; Vice Pres., Rev. C. G. Widen Mead; Sec., Howard P. Young, Wahoo Treas., Rev. T. H. Dabney, Hooper.

MAINE.—Pres., ——, ——, Sec., I. D. Haines, Dexter; Treas., H. W Goddard, West Sidney.

MASSACHUSETTS.—Pres., S. A. Pratt; Worcester.

MICHIGAN.—Pres., D. A. Richards, Brighton; Sec., H. A. Day, Brighton; Treas Geo. Swanson, Jr., Bedford.

MINNESOTA.—Pres., S. B. Sjoblom, Fergus Falls; Cor. Sec., Wm. Fenton, St. Paul, Rec. Sec., Mrs. M. F. Morrill, St. Charles, Treas. Wm. H. Morrill St. Charles.

MISSOURI.—Pres., J. F. Beauchamp, Denver; Sec., M. N. Butler, Darlington; Treas. Rev. C. G. Cox, Grant City.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—Pres., Robt. A. Frohock, Alton; Sec., S. C. Kimball, New Market; Treas., James F. French, Canterbury.

NEW YORK.—Pres., Rev. S. R. Wallace Syracuse; Sec., Rev. W. H. Clark, Binghamton; Treas., Lucius Woodruff, Binghamton.

OHIO.—Pres., J. W. Martin, Mt. Perry; Rec. Sec., A. T. Vestal, Senecaville; Cor Sec. and Treas., E. Thomson, Senecaville

OREGON.—Pres., Rev. Wm. Dillon, D.D., Salem; Sec., Rev. P. B. Williams, Philomath; Treas., Samuel Terry, Canby.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Pres., Samuel S. Collins, Allegheny; Sec., J. S. T. Milligan Beaver; Treas., R. C. Wylie, Wilkinsburg.

WISCONSIN.—Pres., J. B. Galloway, Poynette; Sec., Isaiah Faris, Vernon; Treas. J W. Wood, Baraboo.

The Christian Cynosure.

HENRY M. HUGUNIN - - - - Editor.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JANUARY 11, 1894.

ABATING A NUISANCE.

The Supreme Court of Indiana has decided that the liquor-license laws of that State are constitutional. Suit was brought against the proprietor of a saloon that had been established in a residence district in Indianapolis, on the ground that he was maintaining a nuisance, and that his license was granted under a law that is unconstitutional. On the first hearing the Supreme Court decided against the plaintiffs. They demanded a rehearing and obtained it. On the rehearing the court declared the law constitutional, but gave the plaintiffs damages because it was proven that the rental and market value of their property was decreased by the presence of the saloon. Some points in the decision are of great value. 1. The license is no defense in law in such a case. 2. The legislature cannot give a saloon-keeper the right to damage property in such a manner. Rev. Joseph G. Terrill, commenting on this case in the Free Methodist, says: "The saloon-keepers of the State confess they are helpless. If that is good law in Indiana it is good law anywhere in the United States. Saloons may be driven from the residence districts of our cities. On the same principle they may be driven from the business districts until they must all stay in one place. So far so good. Let the good work go on." With Paul we "consent unto the law that it is good," so far as it goes; but it will require grace and prohibition votes to make the licensing of saloons unlawful.

THE ENLISTMENT OF INDIANS AS SOLDIERS.

It is known to our readers that for several years past the experiment of enlisting Indians in the regular army has been tried, and with varying results. It seems, now, to be a question whether such enlistments shall be continued. A recent circular from the Indian Rights Association favors such a continuance, on the ground that army discipline is supposed to have an excellent effect on Indian character, and that their employment in the army is not inimical to the public welfare.

We are willing to concede that the restraints of army-life may be often useful, nor are we greatly concerned about the efficiency of these recruits. Nevertheless we desire to enter our protest against Indian enlistments.

1. Army-life is not a positive industry, and is therefore not a good school, nor a good example for those who need, most and first, to learn to work. The great fault in the Indian's character is that for many generations he has inherited an aversion to continuous productive industry. It was a wise old Indian who, when asked to define "original sin," said it was "laziness." There can be no improvement in the character and condition of the race, except as they learn to compete with their white brethren in productive labor. Anything that serves to take its place, or divert attention from this "one thing needful," will only retard their prosperity.

2. The profession of arms is so closely akin to the life of savagery in which their ancestors delighted, that it will be to them scarcely a step upward to change from the Indian's to the white man's methods of death and destruction.

This may not seem so to cultivated army officers or ordinary white soldiers, but to those in whom the inherited love of revenge has gone on accumulating through many generations, army-life and possible war will cultivate those instincts that so greatly need to be repressed. Many instances might be cited to show how Indians regard and conduct war, even when acting under the orders of white officers.

3. Mainly we object to making soldiers of Indians because we believe war to be un-Christian, and the army an unfavorable school for Christian culture. Confessedly, there is no hope for the Indian except as he is brought under the influence and power of the Gospel of Christ. We confidently appeal to all history to show any real advancement in Indian civilization, except as he has learned to love and serve the Prince of Peace. Now, without sitting in judgment on the character of those professed Christians who are soldiers, we affirm that there can be nothing so directly antagonistic to the spirit of Christianity as the spirit and practice of war; nor can we conceive how the entrance into the military profession (which always implies a promise to engage in any war to which we may be called, regardless of its character in the sight of God), can be in harmony with a supreme allegiance to Christ.

We should have no objection to the establishment of a great agricultural station, where Indians, under direction of competent officers, should be taught the arts of peace; but to train them in the savagery of war is neither a needful nor a beneficial undertaking.

A NEW SECRET POLITICAL SOCIETY.

Azariah S. Partridge, of Flushing, Michigan, the present president of the order of the Patrons of Industry in that State, and a leading member of the Farmers' Alliance, is also the prime mover in the organization of another secret political society in Michigan. The "national committee" of this institution, which proposes to revolutionize things and lead to the final triumph of the industrial classes over capitalists, was in session at Lansing, Mich., last week to perfect its organization.

In the latter part of December, representatives of industrial and agricultural organizations from thirty-seven different States met secretly at the Palmer House, Chicago. The meeting was the result of letters quietly sent by leaders to all parts of the country. Mr. Partridge took a very prominent part in bringing about the meeting, which was kept a profound secret. The delegates formulated a plan for a vast organization to be known as the "Ancient Order of Loyal Americans." Unlike previous industrial organizations, this is to include men from every calling, provided they are loyal citizens and in good standing. It is proposed to have the Loyal Americans work for the best features of all previous industrial platforms. The Ancient Order is to be a secret institution. A complete ritual has already been adopted. Eight degrees are provided for. There is to be a free circulating library, with headquarters at Washington. The organization is to be controlled by military orders from headquarters. These orders will be transmitted from the head to the State, and ultimately to the cities and townships. Implicit obedience is to be exacted.

The order is to be non-partisan and non-sectarian, but Mr. Partridge admits it will take a prominent part in politics. Its secrecy and military character will, it is believed, do more effective work than has ever been done before. An aggressive course will be taken. Mr. Partridge said it was the intention to have the first general orders sent out at noon, Jan. 15, but he was afraid circumstances would not permit of this.

"SOCIETY OF LOYALTY AND LIBERTY."

This new secret society, which has just been formed at Denver, Col., evidently under the patronage of the Roman Catholic church, for the specific purpose of opposing the American Protective Association, indicates the folly and ruinous policy of one oath-bound order fighting another one on religious or political grounds. Both claim to be loyal to American institutions, and in the interest of true patriotism, but as they differ as widely as the United Order of Hibernians and Orangemen, they both stand opposed to the public peace and general welfare of all the people who do not choose to unite with either.

One of the founders of this new element of political discord is Mr. Irwin Mahon of Denver, who, at great length, presents its claims for Catholic support, although he says he is a Protestant. We say, advisedly, Catholic support, because he addresses himself to the priesthood of the Church of Rome, although he unites Protestants to unite with it. If any one believes that any secret society engineered by either Protestants or Catholics, or both together, can by any means promote religious or political harmony, he can find a fitting precedent in the famous Kilkenny cats.

The constitution of this new society, it is said, provides that any person of good moral character can become a member. That is all that most of the secret orders ostensibly require, although applications from saloon-keepers are seldom rejected in the more important lodges, and probably will not be in this.

THE CRONIN MURDER CASE.

There is a mystery about the second trial of Dan Coughlin for his participation in the murder of Dr. Cronin that suggests more influences than meet the eye of the spectator in the court-room. The evidence introduced by the prosecuting attorneys lacks neither directness, fearlessness, nor condemnation of the prisoner, and some of it is more or less implicative as to the part in the tragedy borne by persons who have never yet figured in the revelations of the crime. It is evident that the influence of the Clan-na-Gael, with whom the guilt of the murder principally rests, is felt by the Judge, the jury and the prosecution. Mysterious attempts to poison the assistant prosecuting attorney (Scanlan) are openly charged; there are intimations that the jury has been tampered with in behalf of the prisoner; yet this imperfect information is all that the public is permitted to know. What may happen any moment during the trial to startle the community no one can guess. It is known that these intervening influences are at work. Whether the "fine hand of the Jesuit," or the sinister magic of the church to which many members of the Clan-na-Gael owe a spiritual allegiance, or both of these, is at work to shield the prisoner cannot now be definitely determined. There was a report, more or less vague, that before the beginning of this trial an emissary was sent to Rome to consult the Vatican powers in reference to certain evidence to be brought into court. This may serve to strengthen the belief that something is wielding an unseen power in Coughlin's behalf which may, or may not, result in another crime worse than that for which is he arraigned.

Another instance of the providence of God in revealing secret crime has just made its appearance in this celebrated case. A hitherto unknown witness has suddenly come into prominence, by whom it is proved that Daniel Coughlin accompanied the mysterious wagon (presumably carrying the corpse of Dr. Cronin to the catch-basin in which it was afterwards discovered), which passed through Lake View and Edgewater on that eventful night of May 4 and 5, 1889.

At that time Mr. Frank Bardeen, now of Otsego, Mich., but then in Chicago, became an unconscious but important witness against the prisoner at the bar. He was then supervising engineer in the electric plant at South Evanston.

During 1887 and 1888 he lived within a few feet of the Chicago Avenue police station, with which Coughlin had a connection as a detective, and from often seeing and hearing much of him had become quite well-acquainted with his appearance. Three days before the Cronin murder, Mr. Bardeen moved to another residence, on School street, while retaining his position at South Evanston. The distance between his home and place of employment, and the necessity of working nights, made his hours at home very irregular.

Leaving his home at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of May 4, he went to South Evanston. At 10 o'clock that night he shut down the works and went to Edgewater, where a friend was engaged as chief engineer in the electric-light plant. His friend was absent from the works, but Bardeen decided to spend the night there and see his friend in the morning. As he sat on the steps of the plant, enjoying the cool night air, at shortly before 2 o'clock, he heard a wagon approaching from the direction of Evanston avenue and going east, but a short distance from the tracks of the Lake Division of the C., M. & St. P. Railway. Wondering at the unusual noise in that quiet spot at that hour of the night, about 100 feet away, he started up and saw a wagon with three men in it. When it reached the railway tracks two of the men jumped out. The driver remained, seated upon what appeared to be a box or chest. One of the men on the ground walked behind the wagon, and soon, in this order, they and the conveyance passed directly in front of the plant. Bardeen, who was familiar with the details of the electric works, having once been employed there, by a switch at hand instantly fired a 32-candle power incandescent lamp in a locomotive headlight above the door of the plant, and turned its rays full upon the moving wagon and its attendants. Walking in the rear of it, with his hand resting upon the box, was Dan Coughlin, and Bardeen, in the brilliant light, at once recognized him. He saw, also, that the box was a large trunk. The two men he did not recognize. As soon as the strong light fell upon Coughlin, he made a spring for the side of the wagon opposite to the light, getting the trunk between himself and Bardeen, who kept the light turned on until the wagon had passed on 200 feet.

Startled by what he had seen, but keeping his own counsel, Bardeen remained in Chicago during the first trial of the Cronin murderers—fearing to offer his testimony, lest he should lose his position, and distress his wife, to whom he had imparted his secret, and who became nervous and apprehensive for his safety if he told his story.

This is the witness who now comes to the front to add another link in the chain that is dragging Coughlin to the gallows.

—Especial attention is directed to the advertisement, on another page, of the "Greek-English Interlinear New Testament."

—Illness prevents the publication of Miss Flagg's usual New England letter this week; but a note from her furnishes us a strong hope of her speedy recovery and unbroken communication with our readers from this onward.

—Rev. J. L. Robinson, of Dalark, Ark., writes: "I have been receiving the Christian Cynosure for eight or ten months, and find it the most valuable paper I ever read, and I shall get up a list of subscribers for it." These are indeed encouraging words. Will other of our friends do likewise?

—It rather startles one to learn that 50,000,000 of the human race in India are on the verge of starvation, not because there is unusual deficiency of food, but because pressure of excessive taxation and the scarcity of money are driving them to suffering and death. They have indeed fallen upon troubulous times.

—One of the daintiest of the New Year calendars is that issued by the proprietors of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It will fully satisfy every expectation as to beauty and utility. "Sweet sixteen" is the head of a beautiful girl, the lovely picture being lithographed in many delicate colors. The pad harmonizes with the exquisite array of color above, while the dates are easily read. Hood's Calendar may be obtained of most druggists or by sending 6 cents in stamps for one or 10 cents for two, to C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

—The Christian Conservator, the organ of the original or conservative United Brethren in Christ, published weekly at Dayton, Ohio, and ably edited by Rev. C. H. Kiracofe, D. D., announces that within a month it is to be enlarged to a 16-page paper, and otherwise improved in appearance and character. It has, in the past, been one of the best of our exchanges, keeping abreast of the times in good words and works, and especially helpful in our reform. We are glad to notice this evidence of its prosperity, and tender our congratulations with our best wishes for its continuance and abundant increase.

—Referring to the increasing observance of Roman Catholic holidays by Presbyterians, the Christian Instructor gives expression to the following bit of wholesome theology: "It is a pandering to the sensual elements. True, as they say, it is not forbidden in express terms. But what is not commanded is forbidden. That is the Protestant principle of worship. God has reserved to himself the right to appoint his own worship, and we have no right to add to or take from what he has authorized and appointed." The scope of this lesson also includes lodge-worship, which is the direct opposite of Christian devotion, and hence becomes paganism.

—The Pope is sometimes styled "the prisoner of the Vatican." The expression has no reference to the personal liberty of the pontiff, who may go wherever he pleases, but to his position as a dethroned sovereign. In 1870, King Victor Emmanuel, after the battle of Gravelotte, notified Pope Pius IX. that "the responsibility of maintaining order in the peninsula, and the security of the Holy See, would be assumed by himself." Very soon afterwards, the papal zouaves, 9,000 strong, marched into the square of St. Peter's Cathedral, where the Pope gave them his blessing. They then retired from Rome, and the temporal power of the Pope was at an end in Italy. Since then the sovereignty of the peninsula has remained in the hands of Kings Emmanuel and Humbert. The restoration of the papacy to temporal power is the favorite dream of the hierarchy.

—The Cynosure's good friend and reform coworker, Josiah Leeds, of Rocouncey, Pa., contributes a long article on secret societies to the West Chester (Pa.) Daily Local News of December 27, in which he cites the cases of E. T. McIntire, Stephen Merritt, Amanda Smith, and others who for Christ's sake have left the lodge, renounced the hidden works of darkness, and freely give their testimony against secret societies. It is the evidence of every true Christian that the lodge is not harmonious with Christianity, and that the association of lodge-members with Christian churches is always hurtful to the spirituality of the latter. It is not the lodges, but the churches, which suffer in such a connection.

—Pamphlets received from a publishing house in Detroit announce that Dr. O. W. Owen of that city has discovered a secret cypher in the writings of Francis Bacon (Lord Verulam), by which it is revealed, as plainly as a tombstone in a moonless night, that this illustrious philosopher wrote not only all of Shakespeare's plays and all of Bacon's acknowledged and attributed works, but also all the plays of Christopher Marlowe, Robert Green and George Peele, Burton's Anatomy of Melancholy, and all of Edmund Spenser's poems. Not satisfied with thus taxing our credulity by this disclosure, Dr. Owen proclaims, besides, the startling information that Bacon was the son of Queen Elizabeth by Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester, to whom she was secretly married. This is a revelation indeed! But some of us will require additional evidence before we can believe so much.

—Rev. Wilbur F. Crafts, leading editor of the Christian Statesman at Pittsburgh, Pa., has resigned his position, giving for this unexpected step the following reasons: "I had rounded out five years of arduous, self-sacrificing, mostly unpaid work for moral reforms, of which Statesman editing was a part, and certain results achieved in legislation, organization and publication made it seem unnecessary, as a recent death in my household made it also undutiful and undesirable, to continue the work in a form that would keep me most of the time on distant lecture tours, which were a necessary adjunct of Statesman editorship in Pittsburgh." Mr. Crafts, in the foregoing, does not overrate his services as an active (not to say irrepressible) reformer. Early and late he has labored earnestly to obtain for the Christian Sabbath its true recognition and observance, and for this, if for nothing else, he deserves the esteem and kind remembrance of every Christian. At present his plans for future reform work are unsettled by circumstances not under his control, but in due time, if properly encouraged, we shall hear from him again. In the mean time he will apply himself to certain Bible studies for publication.

—The Finance Committee of the Central Relief Association of Chicago, of which Lyman J. Gage, President of the First National Bank of this city, is treasurer, urgently request of every man and woman and boy and girl of suitable age in Chicago that they contribute one day's earnings or income to the relief of the destitute in this emergency. The Central Relief Association exists in order: 1. To raise the funds necessary to cope with the present deep-seated distress and ascertain the extent and nature of this distress as early as practicable, relieving well-authenticated cases whenever possible through approved existing agencies. 2. To inaugurate systematic cooperation among all churches, charitable societies, agencies and individuals, so far as the same are willing to join hands in this important work, thereby preventing waste, duplication, and imposition in dispensing charitable funds. 3. To educate the public in charitable methods that are the most truly helpful and elevating instead of pauperizing to the recipients. 4. To unite economy with efficiency in the great work of relieving distress among the worthy poor. Contributions can be made through the various business men's organizations or sent by check direct to Lyman J. Gage, treasurer. All contributions will be duly receipted for, besides being acknowledged in the daily papers.

PROSPECTUS.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE FOR 1894.

A Large 16-page Weekly Journal Devoted to the Anti-secrecy Cause and all Wholesome Religious Reforms. Terms, $1.50 a Year. Evangelical, Earnest, Fearless and Aggressive.

Is Opposed to Every Form of Oath-bound Secret Society as Detrimental to Civil and Religious Liberty.

ITS DEPARTMENTS.

EDITORIAL—Discussing all Phases of the Secret Lodge System and all Public Questions of Timely Interest.

ORIGINAL CONTRIBUTIONS on Various Topics Relating to Social, Political and Religious Happenings, by a Corps of Writers of Acknowledged Ability.

CHOICE SELECTIONS from Other Periodicals, in Harmony with our own Reform Principles.

LETTERS from New England by Miss E. E. Flagg—Clear, Inviting and Pungent, and our Special Correspondent (*) at the National Capital, Filled with Interesting Incidents and Opinions.

REFORM NEWS, Giving Succinct and Fresh Reports of the Work of our Agents in the Field—in New England and the Middle States, the Western Districts, the South, and the Pacific Coast.

☞This we Deem the Most Valuable Department of the CYNOSURE, as it Brings our Readers into Direct Touch with our Work Everywhere and Keeps Them Acquainted with its Progress and Needs from Week to Week.

CORRESPONDENCE, from All Quarters, Filled with Incidents, Good Counsels and Useful Suggestions Relating to our Reform and Kindred Subjects.

LODGE NOTES, HOME AND HEALTH, AND FARM NOTES, each on a Page by Itself, Comprise Extracts from Secret Society Journals, Agricultural Papers, and Trustworthy Hygienic Authorities. IN BRIEF is Another Occasional Department, Containing Selections from Interesting Miscellaneous and Scientific Sources. All these Departments are Attractive Features for Home Reading.

THE HOME, Covering about One and a Half Pages of the CYNOSURE each Week, Embodies Original and Select Stories, Sketches, Essays and Poetry, Designed to Elevate the Social, Moral and Religious Sentiments of our Readers, to Inculcate Approved Methods of Home Training, and to Leave Valuable Impressions upon the Minds of Old and Young.

TEMPERANCE is Advocated in a Department Replete with Facts and Figures, in which All Should Have an Undying Interest.

The Weekly BIBLE LESSON, Taking up the Successive International Series of Sunday-school Lessons, with Reliable and Pointed Comments by Miss Flagg, Appears in every Number, in Connection with Current RELIGIOUS NEWS from Various Denominations.

LITERATURE is Another Department of General Interest, giving Particulars as to Numerous new Periodicals, Books and Pamphlets Received at this Office, thus Keeping our Readers Familiar with Topics of more or less General Importance.

A Limited Number of ADVERTISEMENTS, suitable for a Family Christian Paper, are Admitted into the CYNOSURE for the Benefit of its Subscribers. A Weekly Market Report, and a Summary of Important Secular NEWS OF THE WEEK, Concludes a List of the Numerous Features of each Weekly Issue of the Paper.

THE HOME.

IT PAYS.

It pays to wear a smiling face
And laugh our troubles down,
For all our little trials wait
Our laughter or our frown.
Beneath the magic of a smile
Our doubts will fade away,
As melts the frost in early spring
Beneath the sunny ray.

It pays to help a worthy cause,
By making it our own;
To give the current of our lives
A true and noble tone.
It pays to comfort heavy hearts
Oppressed with dull despair,
And leave in sorrow-darkened lives
One gleam of brightness there.

It pays to give a helping hand
To eager, earnest youth;
To note, with all their waywardness,
Their courage and their truth;
To strive with sympathy and love
Their confidence to win.
It pays to open wide the heart
And "let the sunshine in."

—Good Cheer.

THAT LETTER.

BY MRS. VICTORIA ALEXANDRA STONE.

PART I.

John Marlow was a retired sea-captain. He was on a trip to a small Western town, where a brother lived. He had not met him for many years. Would he recognize him? He hoped so. It was sunset when the train stopped at the little town where his brother lived. To his surprise he learned at the depot that his brother lived nearly two miles from town, near the edge of a forest. "It is a pleasant walk," they told him. "I will walk right over," Capt. Marlow said," for I cannot stay but one night." After receiving a few directions as to the locality he started on his way. When about half a mile from his brother's he left the road and turned into a bridle-path. The sweet perfume of flowers and ferns filled the air, while the pine trees above his head rustled in the summer breeze. A sweet peace seemed to brood in the very air.

Suddenly footsteps sounded in the distance, and a lad of sixteen sprang in front of him. He was flushed, and panting for breath. "Please, sir," he gasped, "have you seen the letter?" "Letter?" said the captain;" "what letter?" "The letter I lost," said the boy; "I was over this road only a few minutes ago. Oh, have you seen it?" "No," said Marlow; "where do you live?" "In the cabin just below here; you passed the house." "We will go back," said the captain," and I will help you to find it." They retraced their steps, examining the ground carefully, but no letter was to be seen. The boy seemed in an agony of terror. He wrung his hands, crying: "That letter belonged to my stepmother, and it contained a large sum of money. Oh, what shall I do? I cannot go home." "Cheer up, my lad," said the captain; "perhaps we can find it yet." The boy still wept; but after a few more encouraging words the captain bade him good night and retraced his steps towards his brother's house in the wood.

It was now nearly dark and Capt. Marlow had nearly reached his brother's house, when he met an old gentleman who was plodding wearily along, leaning heavily upon a staff. He stopped as he met the captain. "Found the letter?" he said. "What do you know about the letter?" asked the captain. "What do I know?" said the old man, his eyes glistening brightly in the darkness; "trust her to find out!" "Do you think the boy has kept it?" "No," said the old man, "the boy is innocent." "I fear the letter is lost," said Marlow; but the old man laughed and passed on.

The next morning, as Capt. Marlow was on his way back to the depot, he met the old gentleman again. "What do you think?" he said to Marlow; "the letter is not found, and Dick has run away." Marlow did not speak for a moment. "Is it possible," he said at length, "that the boy took that money?" "Tne money in the letter?" said the old man; "no, he did not!" The old man paused a moment before replying. "Poor, friendless orphan boy!" he exclaimed; "his sorrowful face will haunt me as long as I live. He did not go back home—dared not go back. You see, his father is dead, and this woman is his stepmother. She promised his father on his deathbed to care for his boy until he was grown to manhood. Care for him! Well, I should think so! This shows how he feared her, for he dared not go back after he lost the letter." "Where do you think he has gone?" "I do not know," said the old man, shaking his head; "he may turn up in a day or two." "Brother glad to see you?" "Oh, yes," said Marlow; "but I could not stop longer; I have business in Cleveland;" and they parted.

PART II.

A year passed away, and again Captain Marlow was treading that bridle-path, on a visit to his brother. It was near sunset; he was just passing the cabin in the glen near which the incident narrated above occurred, when a boyish voice shouted his name. Looking around then, hastening down the path to meet him was the old gentleman he remembered so well, and the boy who ran away!

"And so you came back?" said Marlow, grasping the boy's hand, "and looking well, too," he said, as he regarded the bright face and well-dressed figure of the boy; "and I am glad to see you again." "Yes, I have just come," said the boy; "havn't been here five minutes." "But how about the letter?" said Marlow. "The letter?" said the old gentleman; "oh, that's safe. But come," he said to Marlow; "we want you to see the thing out;" and they entered the cabin.

A dark-faced, care-worn looking woman of fifty, or thereabouts, was sitting beside a table as they entered. She rose as they entered, and placed chairs for them, and they all sat down. After a moment of silence, the woman said: "I am ready to hear what you have to say, Father West. You say you know the whereabouts of that letter that has been missing during the past year?" "Yes, I do," said the old man, rising; "but first I have a few words to say to you and then I will tell you where it is." Pointing his long forefinger towards her, and fixing his keen eyes upon her, he said: "I have seen you rise in conference meeting, woman, and tell how the Word of God was your daily meat and drink. I have heard you tell how your daily chapter was as necessary to you as your daily bread. I have heard you tell how you prayed that your feet might be kept in the right path, and that your heart might be open to the cry of suffering and distress. I have heard you speak thus many times during the past year; and yet, hear me, woman!" he said with a sudden uplifting of the hand; "all this time that letter has lain between the leaves of your own Bible," pointing to the Bible on the table. "I found it lying in the bridle-path that night, on my way home from the postoffice. I came here to deliver it, but no one was here. I opened your Bible at the twenty-fifth chapter at St. Matthew, laid the letter upon the chapter, and it has lain there ever since." The woman sprang to her feet. "That chapter!" she cried. "I have not read that chapter for more than a year! and why? because it has been a standing rebuke to me. Does He not say in that chapter, 'ye have done it unto me?' I did not think Dick stole the money. I knew it was lost. Oh, Father West, don't be so hard on me. I have felt condemned, self-condemned, ever since that night a year ago. You don't know what I have suffered."

The boy rose to his feet, went to the Bible, opened it, turned to the twenty-fifth chapter of Matthew, and found the letter. He took it and placed it in his mother's hand. "I have come back to you, mother," he said, "and have brought you your letter." She laid her hands upon the boy's shoulders and kissed his bright manly face. Father West rose to his feet. "Many years ago," he said, "there lived in a far Eastern city a very old man. He had been all his life a preacher, but he became so feeble at last that he could only utter the words, 'Little children, love one another.' They would carry him into the street, so the legend runs, and he would only speak these words, 'Little children, love one another.' We should take that lesson home to our hearts to-day."

"Amen," said Captain Marlow.

The sun had long set. It was dark, but the stars shone brightly above that little cabin in the glen, while the light that beamed from its windows seemed a type of the peace and happiness within.

Steamburgh, N. Y.

INFLUENCE OF A HYMN.

Phœbe Cary's hymn, "Nearer Home," was written in 1825, in the house of a friend with whom she was staying, one Sunday morning after coming from church. She did not set a high intellectual value upon it, and it was not until within a year or two of her death that she was aware of the great popularity of this most beautiful hymn, which had been sung all over the world, and has cheered the burdened souls of thousands with its "sweetly solemn thought."

The personal responses which many of her poems called forth were often to her the most precious rewards of her labors, and the knowledge that her words had helped another was a source of greatest joy to her, and probably her greatest happiness was realized when, within the last year of her life, she read in the Boston Daily News the incident connected with this hymn:

"A gentleman in China, intrusted with packages for a young man from his friends in the United States, learned that he would probably be found in a certain gambling house. He went thither; but not seeing the young man, he sat down and waited, in the hope that he might come in. The place was a bedlam of noises, men getting angry over their cards, and frequently coming to blows. Near him sat two men, one young, the other forty years of age. They were betting and drinking in a terrible way, the older one giving utterance continually to the foulest profanity. Two games had been finished, the young man losing each time. The third game, with bottles of brandy, had just begun, and the young man sat lazily back in his chair, while the other shuffled his cards. The man was a long time dealing the cards, and the young man, looking carelessly about the room, began to hum a tune. He went on till at length he began to sing the hymn of Phœbe Cary above quoted. The words (says the writer of the story) repeated in such a vile place, at first made me shudder. A Sabbath-school hymn in a gambling den! But while the young man sang, the older stopped dealing the cards, stared at the singer a moment, and throwing the cards on the floor exclaimed:

"'Harry, where did you learn that tune?'

"'What tune?'

"'Why, that one you've been singing.'

"The young man said he did not know what he had been singing, when the older repeated the words, with tears in his eyes. The young man said he had learned them in a Sunday-school in America.

"'Come,' said the elder, getting up; 'come, Harry, here's what I won from you; go and use it for some good purpose. As for me, as God sees me, I have played my last game, and drank my last bottle. I have misled you, Harry, and I am sorry. Give me your hand, my boy, and say that, for old America's sake, if for no other, you will quit this infernal business.'

"It was afterwards learned that the older man had become a hard-working Christian man, while 'Harry' had renounced gambling and all its attendant vices."—Selected.

CONVERSION OF AN INFIDEL.

"I remember," wrote Jacob Knapp, the evangelist, "that a hardened infidel, who had been accustomed to curse ministers and churches, followed me to my lodgings one night, keeping up an incessant tirade of abuse. As I was stepping into the door I remarked: "Well, my friend, I expect to see you on the anxious seat before long.' He turned away exclaiming, 'Never! no, never!' On the evening of the third day after this conversation, whom should I see in the seats before me but this same man. As I approached him he asked, 'What shall I do? I am in deep trouble.' I told him to pray. He said, 'I cannot pray; I dare not pray.' I replied, 'God is merciful; go to Jesus and ask him to forgive you.' He replied, 'I have damned him to his face, and how can I ask him for mercy? It seems to me if I attempt to pray the devil will take me right down to hell.' I told him to begin and keep right on praying, and the devil would not carry him far, for he wanted no praying souls in hell. He knelt and made an attempt to pray. He would open his mouth, and as he was about to speak his courage would fail him and he would sink down again. Throughout that night, and during a part of the next day, he continued in this horrible condition; at length he cried out to God to have mercy upon him for the sake of Christ. God came to his relief, and he broke forth in strains of joy as the consciousness of pardon and of hope beamed on his soul."—Revivalist.

GRACES OF MANNER.

It is the little graces of manner that make up a charming personality. For instance, an exchange remarks that so few people know how to receive a favor graciously. Ask themto render you a service, and they could not be more ready than they are. But try to offer them a courtesy, and see how quickly you will retire from their presence with a feeling of wounded pride and annoyance. Some will refuse outright, and others will accept as if they were bestowing a royal condescension. To accept something that we do not want, for which we have no use, to accept it in such a manner that the one who offers it will feel that he has rendered a desired service, is the height of consideration and good breeding. The strong, capable and able-bodied do not like to be served. It is much easier to serve one's self than to lie back and be waited upon. They truly feel that it is more blessed to give than to receive—blessed, perhaps, because they do not want to receive. But such people would deny to others what they claim most strenuously for themselves—the right to confer a favor or to discharge an obligation, the sense of which sets heavily upon them.—Chicago Standard.

CHRONIC GRUMBLERS.

The deacon was just going out to the barn to fodder his cattle, when Mr. Bunnell came up and said:

"Good morning—if I can call such a cold morning good. Now, deacon, I've just one word to say. I can't bear our preaching. It's not to be endured. I get no good. There's so much that I don't want that I grow lean upon it. I lose my time and pains in listening to it."

"Mr. Bunnell, come in here. There's my cow, yonder. She can teach you a lesson in theology."

"A cow teach theology! I like that, I must confess. What do you mean?"

"Now see. I have just thrown her a forkful of hay, haven't I? Well, just watch her. There now! She has found a stick—you know sticks will get in the hay—and see how she tosses it to one side, and leaves it, and goes on to eat what is good! There again! She has found a burdock, and she throws it to one side, and goes on eating. And there! She don't relish at all that bunch of daisies, and she leaves them, and goes on eating. Before morning she will clear the manger of all, save a few sticks and weeds, and she will give milk. There's milk in that hay, and she knows how to get it out, although there may now and then be a stick or a weed that she leaves. But, mark you, friend Bunnell, if she refused to eat and spent the time in scolding about the fodder, she, too, would 'grow lean,' and the milk would be dried up. Just so with our preaching. Do let the old cow teach you. Get all the good you can out of it, and leave the rest. You will find a great deal of nourishment in it."

Mr. Bunnell was silent for a moment; then he turned away, saying:

"Neighbor, that old cow is no fool at any rate."—Times of Refreshing.

WHY MAMMA COULD TRUST THEM.

I will tell you the reason in very few words. It was because they loved each other, and did everything they could to make each other happy.

She was not afraid to let them take baby with them to the fields or woods, for she knew they would not neglect her for their plays. She felt sure that they would not quarrel and hurt each other when they were out of her sight.

There is nothing more beautiful than to see brothers and sisters kind to each other in all that they do.

I have been reading a nice little story which shows how two little brothers loved each other.

One of them was very lame. One day a gentleman in a street car saw the well boy helping his lame brother into the car. After it had started, he saw the well boy running along behind as fast as he could, keeping up as close as possible to the car. He said to the little lame boy by his side:

"Who is that boy trying to keep up with the car?"

"He is my brother."

"Why does he not ride with you in the car?"

"Because he hasn't any money. It took all he had to pay my fare 'cause you see I am too lame to walk."

And the little boy outside kept running as fast as he could, waving his hand now and then to the lame boy inside, that he might know that he was not far behind. The love of these two brothers for each other touched the heart of the gentleman who asked the questions. And, signalling the conductor to stop his car, he called the little runner to come inside, telling him that he would pay for the ride.

NO.

Somebody asked me to take a drink.
What did I tell him? What do you think?
I told him—No.

Somebody asked me one day to play
A game of cards; and what did I say?
I told him—No.

Somebody laughs that I will not swear
And lie and steal; but I do not care;
I told him—No.

Somebody asked me to take a sail
On the Sabbath day; 'twas of no avail;
I told him—No.

"If sinners entice thee, consent thou not,"
My Bible said, and so on the spot
I told him—No.

TEMPERANCE.

INEBRIETY IN CHILDHOOD.

Inebriety caused by whisky is craving for whisky. The craving is there constantly or periodically, whether the liquor is drunk or not. The terms drunkenness and inebriety are frequently confused. A man who has chronic poisoning from alcohol is an inebriate because he craves liquor. Drunkenness is acute alcoholic poisoning from drinking alcoholic liquor in consequence of a craving for it, or inebriety, writes Dr. Leslie Keeley in the New York World.

Heredity has ulways ranked high as a cause of inebriety. I do not think so. As a cause it ranks among the least. I do not think the craving for drink is transmitted by heredity. I do not think that any other nervous disease ever creates a craving for drink. I do not think any condition of life, mental, moral or physical, ever creates a craving for drink. These things may all lead a person who is not an inebriate to begin drinking and make an inebriate of himself, but they do not cause inebriety in any other way.

In my opinion—and I base my opinion on an induction from facts that no one can dispute and that are known to all people—the heredity of drinking reaches back no further than the cradle. The two great institutions which lead to the disease of inebriety are the saloon and the nursery. The two great conditions of life which lead to drinking and drug-taking are illness and custom.

When an infant is born, some form of alcohol is usually an attendant at the birth. If the infant escapes a whisky bath or a few drops of some stimulant, it is probably through some neglect. It is rare indeed that a child a few days old has not had a hot whisky several times. If the babe feeds on milk and water too early, or if anything goes wrong with the mother or child, the domestic and very likely the professional remedy is whisky.

But the diseases of infancy and childhood create the call for and the use of the drugs that inebriate. Indigestion, too much crying, cholera infantum, measles, scarlet fever and particularly diphtheria are treated by alcohol and opium very largely by the physician.

I do not question the propriety of giving these drugs as remedies. I do not doubt the wisdom or skill of the physicians who find these remedies useful in diseases. But I assert that the soothing syrups and other opiate preparations, the wines and hot slings and large quantities of alcoholic liquors given to children to quiet them or cure them of diseases, cause inebriety.

The stamp of the drug remains on the brain of the infant, even if the drug is no longer given. The misery of babes drugged to inebriety and then very likely suddenly deprived of the accustomed stimulant is without doubt as acute and great as in older people. People who have dosed children with soothing syrup know how difficult it is to wean the child from the drug. But even if the drug is no longer given the inebriety remains. When the babe grows up to the stage of youth, he has the craving without a name or understanding perhaps until for some reason a stimulant or dose of the accustomed drug is taken. There is an immediate and perhaps prolonged debauch, followed by the usual phenomena of inebriety. It makes no difference if the drug is alcohol or opium or both. Both of these inebrieties may exist in the same person, and he may be both a drunkard and an opium-user, and this condition can be and often is the result of opium or whisky inebriety acquired in the cradle and nursery.

Child inebriety is one of the most prevalent diseases. It is co-extensive with the extent of alcohol and opiates given to children for any cause whatever. It is therefore as extensive as the prevalence of the diseases of childhood, because the inebriating drugs are universally used in these diseases. I regard child inebriety as the chief cause of intemperance among all classes. I do not say that every child subjected to the influence of these drugs becomes an active inebriate, but I say that if the history of inebriety is carefully inquired into it will be found that the larger number of inebriates took opiates or alcohol when they were children.

PROHIBITION IN IOWA.

Under the leadership of Col. C. J. Holt, the noted temperance lecturer, the W. C. T. U. of Oelwein, Iowa, are working to close the saloons. They visited the saloons to invite the saloonkeepers and their patrons to come out to the meetings. It caused consternation in the liquor camps. On Friday, the ladies of the W. C. T. U. presented a petition to the members of the city council and the mayor to close the joints, in accordance with the State law, or they and the saloon men be prepared to take the consequences. The council is composed of four non-professed Christians, one of whom is a radical temperance man, and one elder, and one deacon in the Presbyterian church, and a Republican mayor, and every one of them voted to put the petition on the table, not even having the common courtesy to reply to the communication. The ladies are thoroughly aroused, and declare that the saloons will go now, and "go to stay." To show that the women are in earnest, they have issued a separate notice to each "blind pigger" to close his place of business at once, or take the consequences, and they have presented these notices in person at the saloons. They also have a second appeal to the council drawn up, and all the members of the W. C. T. U. have signed it—also many of the best citizens of the city. The saloons will go now. If Col. Holt could be secured by all the towns in Iowa where the law is broken, prohibition would prohibit in earnest.

NUGGETS.

There are in the world 51,000 breweries, Germany leading the list with 26,240.

"If the saloon was in the prayer-meeting, that would be a good place to attack it; but the saloon is in politics, and only votes can settle questions in that realm." "We are told we must not mix religion with politics. Some men's politics would kill their religion, however good."

The whisky war in South Carolina has assumed a new phase. Gibb & Whaley, counsel for the State, have filed a petition in the United States Court, asking Judge Simonton to issue an order to the receiver of the South Carolina railway, forbidding that road to receive any intoxicating liquor for transportation into the State unless it has the official stamp of the State dispensary on it. The question invites an interpretation of the inter-State commerce law. By making the application the State submits the question of the constitutionality of the dispensary act.

BIBLE LESSON.

STUDIES IN THE BOOKS OF MOSES.

LESSON III.—First Quarter, 1894.—January 21.

SUBJECT.—Cain and Abel—Genesis 4: 3-13.

GOLDEN TEXT.—By faith Abel offered unto God a more excellent sacrifice than Cain.—Heb. 11: 4.

[Open the Bible and read the lesson.]

DAILY READINGS.—M.—Gen. 4: 3-13. T.—Gen. 9: 1-17. W.—Num. 32: 1-23. Th. 1.—John 3: 1-15. F.—John 8: 31-44. S.—Heb. 12: 18-25. S.—Luke 11: 45-51.

1. The earliest form of worship.—Sacrifice was the original mode of worship. Was this worship human or divine? In Cain's day it occurs in advance of any known divine command, so that it looks as if the statutes that afterwards were given upon the subject were founded upon an instinct in man rather than upon an arbitrary command originally given for him so to worship. The instinct of worship and the condemnation of sin, operating together, naturally would make men resort to some method of approach to God. Nothing could answer these feelings except the sacrifice of something in their place, and hence, from the remotest ages since the fall, the feeling has obtained that "without shedding of blood is no remission" of sin.

2. Results of Adam's sin.—We now come to study the evil results of Adam's sin. Only good had originally existed, but now the good and the evil begin to develop together, but in opposite lines. The powers of the kingdom of Satan and of the kingdom of God began to manifest themselves in a world-long conflict. Handicraft and art blossom in the Cainitic line, but irreligion is also increasing. Polygamy and freethinking begin. Sin is bringing forth its harvest of evil fruit, but righteousness is also strengthened by the conflict. What we read in Genesis 4:26, when "began men to call upon the name of the Lord," is the beginning of the church. Until the hour of his return to the dust he must "in the sweat of his face" eat bread. The cherubim (precisely what these were no one knows) and a flaming sword which turned every way guarded the way to the tree of life. Cain and Abel are born. Abel was a keeper of sheep, but Cain was a tiller of the ground. The freedom of choice given them led to their divergent employments and equally divergent religious attitudes.

3. The two offerings—vs. 3-5. The fruit of the ground and the first fruits of the flock and the fat thereof. Both were worshipers. Both brought offerings. Both were worshipers in the same way. The words "in process of time" indicate in the original a stated time for worship—possibly the Sabbath. That Cain subsequently "went out from the presence of the Lord" conveys the thought of a special place where they (the brothers) came to worship. Cain brings fruits and grain, but fails thereby to acknowledge—what may have been and doubtless was a positive mandate—man's need of pardon. Abel brings a lamb, a burnt sacrifice, expressing thereby sorrow for sin and the imperative need of pardon—which was doubtless in accord with commands given.

4. The two opposite motives.—Where lies the great difference? Is it in the slain lamb being a better sacrifice than the fruit of the ground? We must not forget that "both" kinds were ordained of God in after ages, nor yet that in each case the offerer brought what was his own to offer—Abel, the shepherd, bringing the lamb; Cain, the cultivator, bringing the fruits. But perhaps there were three differences: certainly two. (a) Abel came to God by faith (Heb. 11. 4), and it is implied that Cain did not. With Cain it was a matter of form and habit; but Abel drew nigh unto God with his heart, believing his promises and seeking his blessing. (b) As a natural result of this, Abel gave to God his best (v. 4), which is not said of Cain. (c) And it may have been that Abel did mean by his offering to express a sense of sin, and of sin's desert, and a faith in the blood-shedding, which, perhaps, had already been divinely appointed; while Cain, though willing to pay a tribute, as it were, did not come as a sinner needing atonement.

5. Cain cursed.—vs 9-13. "Where is Abel thy brother?" Probably Adam and Eve had often asked Cain this question before, in regard to their missing son, but now God makes the inquiry, and adds "thy brother," as if he tried to reach his heart through fraternal affection. "I know not." The appeal was in vain. He had no repentance, but told the Lord an untruth, as if he could deceive the all-knowing One. "Am I my brother's keeper?" "Only Cain-like men can ask Cain's question." I am my brother's keeper. Study the parable of the good Samaritan for a lesson on this subject. "The voice of thy brother's blood crieth," etc. Murder is a crime which cries to heaven for vengeance. Murder will out. "Cursed from the earth." The ground only had been cursed for Adam's sake, but now Cain himself is cursed, like the serpent. "Which hath opened her mouth." The earth which drank in his brother's blood was forced to swallow a most repulsive draught. "When thou tillest the ground." The occupation from which he had hitherto obtained his living. "Her strength." Its productive power. "A vagabond." A wanderer. Cain was now doomed to lead a restless, unsettled life. Without repenting, he only complained of the greatness of his punishment.

LITERATURE.

CURRENT PERIODICALS.

McClure's Magazine for January presents numerous attractions, both in literature and art-embellishment. Francis Parkman, the American historian, whose portrait adorns the frontispiece, forms the subject of a judicious sketch, with illustrations, by Rev. Julius H. Ward. Jules Verne at Home—his own illustrated account of his life and work, reported by R. H. Sherard—will be read with interest. Glimpses of Whittier's Faith and Character, exhibited in extracts from his hitherto unpublished letters, compiled by Charlotte F. Bates, possess a peculiar charm. A new installment of "Human Documents" shows us portraits of Henry Rider Haggard, Dr. Jean M. Charcot, and Francis Parkman, at several ages of each. A vivid sketch, by Cy Warman, recounts a Thousand-mile Ride on the Engine of the Swiftest Train in the World, with nearly twenty illustrations drawn from life. Scarcely less of interest pervades an illustrated Interview with the Inventor of the Maxim Air-ship, by H. J. W. Dam. In the Edge of the Future, by twenty-eight prominent divines, authors and others, will be found a series of predictions and helpful suggestions for the New Year. There is, also, a symposium of a similar authorship, presenting a chapter of Reflections and Mottoes for the New Year—a seasonable collection. In the story line, we have: The Great White Chief, by Gilbert Parker, illustrated; When She was Thirty, by Louise Chandler Moulton, illustrated, and The Sabbath-breaker, by I. Zangwill, illustrated. Arthur Hugh Clough, Walter Savage Landor, and Rare Old Ben Jonson, are drawn upon for the poetry of this issue. Published by S. S. McClure (Limited), 743-5 Broadway, New York City. Price, 15 cents.

Scribner's Magazine begins the new year with a brilliant array of literary and art contributions. The illustrations are numerous and fine. The Actor is a new installment of "Men's Occupations," by John Drew, illustrated; John March, Southerner, Geo. W. Cable's new story, is begun; Constantinople, illustrated, by F. Marion Crawford, is concluded. Other original papers are as follows: The Fifer, from types of contemporary painting by Philip Gilbert Hamerton, with a full-page illustration from a painting by Edouard Manet, and a portrait of that artist; Deep Waters, by W. G. Van T. Sutphen. An Incorrigible Poet, by Bliss Perry; The Wolf at the Door, by Charlotte P. Stetson; A poem, with a French title, on Death; "Whither thou Goest," by Solomon Solis-Cohen; Stories in Stone from Notre Dame, illustrated, by Theodore A. Cook; A Rainy Afternoon, by Geo. A. Hibbard; Sir Joshua Reynolds, by Fred Keppel, with specimens of the artist's works; The Place of the Exodus in the History of Egypt, by A. L. Lewis; Webster's Reply to Hayne, and His General Methods of Preparation, by Hon. Rob't C. Winthrop; Endymion, by Sarah K. Wiley; and Editorials. Published by Chas. Scribner's Sons, New York City. Price, 25 cents.

St. Nicholas for January is portly and brimful of entertainment for children and youth and not without interest for older readers. Recollections of the Wild Life, by Dr. Chas. A. Eastman, Tom Sawyer Abroad, by Mark Twain, and Toinette's Philip are continued, with illustrations. The following are papers that will be read with avidity: Morogli Brothers, by Rudyard Kipling; St. Augustine, by Frank R. Stockton; How Paper Money is Made, by Clifford Howard; Travelers of the Sky, by Harry Fenn; A Birdseye View of the Animal Kingdom, by William T. Hornaday; Palmer Cox and the Brownies, and the Brownies Through the Union, by Palmer Cox; How the Secretary of the Treasury Once Played Santa Claus, by Sarah L. Guerin; The Little People from Java, by W. A. Rogers, and Stamp-collecting, by Crawford Capen. Most of these are copiously embellished with engravings. There is, also, a great variety of poetry, jingles, sketches and comicalities for the younger readers. Altogether it is a capital number. Published by the Century Co., New York City. Price, 25 cents.

The January number of the Review of Reviews begins a new volume auspiciously, as to quality and variety of its contents. The principal contributions include: A Character Sketch of Lord and Lady Aberdeen—the Governor-General of Canada and his wife, with portraits and other illustrations, by W. T. Stead; Relief for the Unemployed in American Cities, by Albert Shaw; Relief Work—its Principles and Methods, by Rev. Washington Gladden, D. D., and the Mission and Destiny of Canada. In the editorial departments, the Progress of the World treats of forty different timely topics, illustrated with about twenty-five portraits of notable persons. The Record of Current Events also possesses interest, and presents portraits of the U. S. Supreme Court Justice, Judge Hornblower, and the late John Tyndall. Fifty-two subjects are treated in the department of Leading Articles of the Month, and embrace most of the topics that have interested the public during the past month. Current History in Caricature, with engravings from American and foreign funny papers, will promote smiles and hilarity. Interest also centers in the reviews and notices of current books and periodicals, which close a a very attractive number. Published at 13 Astor place, New York City. Price, 25 cents.

The Columbia Desk Calendar, which is issued annually by the Pope Manufacturing Company, of Columbia Bicycle fame, is out for 1894, much improved in appearance. It is a pad calendar of the same size and shape as those of previous years, having a leaf for each day, but its attractiveness has been heightened by the work of a clever artist, who has scattered a series of bright pen-drawings through its pages. It also contains, as usual, many appropriate and interesting contributions from people both bright and wise. It may be obtained of the publishers at 214 Columbus avenue, Boston, Mass.

RELIGIOUS NEWS.

SUNDAY-SCHOOLS OF THE WORLD.

—Statistics presented at the Sunday-school convention in St. Louis show that the United States leads, with 123,173 Sunday-schools, 1,305,949 teachers, and 9,718,422 scholars; next come England and Wales, with 37,201 Sunday-schools, 585,457 teachers, and 5,976,537 scholars; Canada, with 8,336 schools, 69,521 teachers, and 576,064 scholars. Finland has 6,853 schools, with 11,534 teachers, and 147,134 scholars; Switzerland, 6,637 schools, 9,916 teachers, and 113,382 scholars; Scotland, 6,275 schools, 62,994 teachers, and 694,860 scholars; Germany, 5,900 schools, 34,983 teachers, and 749,736 scholars; Sweden, 5,750 schools, 17,200 teachers, and 242,150 scholars; Australasia, 4,766 schools, 54,211 teachers, and 586,029 scholars; Ireland 3,584 schools, 27,740 teachers, and 308,516 scholars; West Indies, 2,185 schools, 9,673 teachers, and 110,233 scholars; Holland, 1,560 schools, 4,600 teachers, and 163,000 scholars; Fiji Islands, 1,474 schools, 2,700 teachers, and 42,909 scholars; France, 1,450 schools, 3,800 teachers, and 60,000 scholars. These are all that have over 1,000 schools. Other countries are in the following order: Norway and Central America and Mexico, each 550 schools; Denmark, 506; Italy, 403; Newfoundland and Labrador, 359; South America, 350; Hawaiian Islands, 230; other islands in the Pacific, 210; Austria, 212; Belgium, 89; Spain, 88; Russia, 83; European Turkey, 35; Portugal, 11, and Greece, 4. There are no reports from most of the foreign mission fields—from Africa, India, China, Japan, Asiatic Turkey, and Persia, etc. The total given is 213,824 schools, 2,216,271 teachers, and 19,855,994 pupils.—Independent.

ROMAN CATHOLICS.

—It was declared at the late Baltimore Council that had the Roman Catholics held their own, and had her young not affiliated with the Protestant children at the public schools, the Roman Catholic population would be double its present number; and we believe this to be true. The total Protestant communicants as returned by the several religious denominations is about 13,680,000. Add these to the Roman Catholic 8,632,521 and we have 22,312,521. But this is a nation of 65,000,000. What of the remaining 42,687,479? Does not the Sun know they are mostly Protestants? The Protestant population of the country is generally obtained by multiplying the number of its communicants by three, there being two of Protestant affiliations—mostly men—for every Protestant communicant, the women forming a majority of the membership. This would give a total Protestant population of 54,720,900, giving, with the 8,632,521 Roman Catholics, a total of 63,352,521 Protestants and Roman Catholics, and leaving some 1,600,000 of all shades of belief. These figures are of course not given as being exact, but they are believed to be approximate.

MISCELLANEOUS.

—The Epworth League chapter at Peking, China, is thoroughly organized. Consecration meetings bring from 200 to 300 together.

—It is said there are Protestant churches in seven hundred and eighty-one towns of France.

A year's numbers of the Cynosure would make six good-sized volumes of valuable reform literature, containing 550 pages each.

Standard Works

—ON—

SECRET SOCIETIES

FOR SALE BY THE

National Christian Associat'n

111 West Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois.

TERMS:—Cash with order, or if sent by express C. O. D. at least $1.00 must be sent with order as a guaranty that books will be taken. Books at retail prices sent postpaid. Books by Mail are at risk of persons ordering, unless 10 cents extra is sent to pay for registering them, when their safe delivery is guaranteed. Books at retail ordered by express, are sold at 10 per cent discount and delivery guaranteed, but not express paid. Postage stamps taken for small sums. ☞ A liberal discount to dealers.

ON FREEMASONRY.

Freemasonry Illustrated. A complete exposition of the seven degrees of the Blue Lodge and Chapter. Profusely illustrated. Complete work of 640 pages, in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 75 cents. First three degrees (376 pages), in cloth, 75 cents. Paper covers, 40 cents.

Knight Templarism Illustrated. A full illustrated ritual of the six degrees of the Council and Commandery. A book of 341 pages. In cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.

Scotch Rite Masonry Illustrated. The complete illustrated ritual of the entire Scottish Rite, in two volumes, comprising all the Masonic degrees from 3rd to 33rd inclusive. The first three degrees are common to all the Masonic Rites, and are fully and accurately given in "Freemasonry Illustrated." Vol. I. of "Scotch Rite Masonry Illustrated" comprises the degrees from 3rd to 18th inclusive. Vol. II. of "Scotch Rite Masonry Illustrated" comprised the degrees from 19th to 33rd inclusive, with the signs, grips, tokens and passwords from 1st to 33rd degree inclusive. Price per volume, paper cover, 65 cents each. In cloth, $1.00 each.

Hand-Book of Freemasonry. By E. Ronayne, Past Master of Keystone Lodge No. 639, Chicago. Gives the complete standard ritual of the first three degrees of Freemasonry. New edition, 274 pages. Bound flexible cloth covers. 50 cents.

Freemasonry Exposed. By Capt. William Morgan. The genuine old Morgan book republished. 25 cents each.

Allyn's Ritual of Freemasonry by Avery Allyn contains the fully Illustrated Ritual of the Blue Lodge, Chapter Council and Commandery, 11 of the Scotch Rite Degrees, Several Masonic side degrees and what is termed a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, the Orange and Odd-fellows Societies. Price in cloth $5.00.

Duncan's Masonic Ritual and Monitor. Profusely illustrated with explanatory engravings, and containing the ritual and work of the order for the seven degrees, including the Royal Arch. Though extensively used as an Instruction Book and one of the best in the market it is not as accurate as "Freemasonry Illustrated," the first book on catalogue. Price in cloth, $2 50.

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry. Containing the ceremonies of Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated. Although extensively used in conferring the higher degrees, it is not only very incomplete but inaccurate especially as regards the first seven degrees, and as to the higher degrees it gives but a description and general idea of the degrees rather than the full ritual. Price in cloth, $1.25; Paper covers, 75c.

Look to the East. A Ritual of the first three Masonic Degrees by Ralph Lester. Price in cloth $2.00. Notwithstanding the high price this book is very inferior in every way to Freemasonry Illustrated or The Handbook of Freemasonry at a quarter the price.

Ecce Orienti. The Complete Standard Ritual of the First Three Masonic Degrees in Cypher, with complete Floor Charts of Initiating, Passing and Raising a Candidate. Pocket size, Full Roan, Flap, $2.50.

Cabala. The Complete Standard Ritual of the Chapter Masonic Degrees; 4th to 7th inclusive, in Cypher. Giving the degrees of Mark Master, Past Master, Most Excellent Master and Royal Arch, Pocket size, Full Roan, Flap, $2.50.

Council of the Orient. The Complete Standard Ritual of Council Masonic Degrees in Cypher, 8th to 10th inclusive. Giving the Degrees of Royal Master, Select Master and Super Excellent Master. Pocket size, full Roan, flap, $2.50.

Knights of the Orient. The complete Ritual of the Commandery Masonic Degrees, Knights of the Red Cross, Knight Templar and Knight of Malta, 11th to 13th degrees. Pocket size, full Roan, flap, $2.50.

The Mystic Shrine Illustrated. An Illustrated Ritual of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. This is a Side Masonic degree conferred only on Knights Templar and on Thirty-two degree Masons. 15 cts. each.

Light on Freemasonry. By Elder D. Bernard. In cloth, $1.50 each. Paper, 75 cents each.

Adoptive Masonry Illustrated. A full and complete illustrated ritual of the five degrees of Female Freemasonry, by Thomas Lowe. 20 cents each.

Finney on Masonry. The character, claims and practical workings of Freemasonry. By Pres. Charles G. Finney, of Oberlin College. President Finney was a "bright Mason," but left the lodge when he became a Christian. This book has opened the eyes of multitudes. In cloth, 75 cents. Paper cover, 35 cents.

The Master's Carpet, or Masonry and Baal Worship Identical, explains the true source and meaning of every ceremony and symbol of the lodge. Bound in fine cloth, 420 pages, 75 cents.

Masonic Oaths Null and Void: OR FREEMASONRY SELF-CONVICTED. This is a book for the times. The design of the author is to refute the arguments of those who claim that the oaths of Freemasonry are binding upon those who take them. 207 pages. Postpaid, 40 cents each.

Judge Whitney's Defense before THE GRAND LODGE OF ILLINOIS. Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the lodge when S. H. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry. 15 cents each.

General Washington Opposed to SECRET SOCIETIES. This is a re-publication of Governor Joseph Ritner's "Vindication of General Washington from the Stigma of Adherence to Secret Societies," communicated to the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania, March 8, 1837, at their special request. To this is added the fact that three high Masons were the only persons who opposed a vote of thanks to Washington on his retirement to private life—undoubtedly because they considered him a seceding Freemason. 10cts each.

Morgan's Exposition, Abduction AND MURDER, AND OATHS OF 33 DEGREES. Composed of "Freemasonry Exposed," by Capt. Wm. Morgan;" "History of the Abduction and Murder of Morgan;" "Valance's Confession of the Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan;" "Bernard's Reminiscences of Morgan Times," and "Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees." 300 pages; cloth, $1.00.

Mah-Hah-Bone; comprises the Hand Book, Master's Carpet and Freemasonry at a glance. Bound in one volume. In cloth, 589 pages, $1.00.

Oaths and Penalties of Freemasonry, as proved in court in the New Berlin trials. The New Berlin trials began in the attempt of Freemasons to prevent public initiations by seceding Masons. These trials were held at New Berlin, Chenango Co., N. Y., April 13 and 14, 1831, and General Augustus C. Welsh, sheriff of the county, and other adhering Freemasons swore to the truthful revelation of the oaths and penalties. 10 cents each.

Masonry a Work of Darkness, adverse to Christianity, and inimical to republican government. By Rev. Lebbeus Armstrong (Presbyterian) a seceding Mason of 21 degrees. 15 cents each.

Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the INITIATE? By Rev. L. A. Post. 5 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. J. Day Brownlee. In reply to a Masonic Oration by Rev. Dr. Mayer, Wellsville, Ohio. 5 cents each.

Masonic Outrages. Compiled by Rev. H. H. Hinman. Showing Masonic assault on lives of seceders, on reputation, and on free speech; its interference with justice in courts, etc. Postpaid, 20 cents.

Grand Lodge Masonry. Its relation to civil government and the Christian religion. By Pres. J. Blanchard. The un-Christian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is proved from the highest Masonic authorities. 5 cents each.

The Broken Seal; or Personal Reminiscences of the Abduction and Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan. By Samuel D. Greene. In cloth, 75 cents. Paper covers, 40 cents.

The Mystic Tie, or Freemasonry a LEAGUE WITH THE DEVIL. This is an account of the church trial of Peter Cook and wife, of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a reverend Freemason. 15 cents each.

History of the Abduction and MurDER OF CAPT. WM. MORGAN. As prepared by seven committees of citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan. 25 cents each.

The Anti-mason's Scrap-Book, consisting of 53 "Cynosure" tracts. In this book are the views of more than a score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of secret societies. Postpaid. 25 cts.

Reminiscences of Morgan Times. By Elder David Bernard. This is a thrilling narrative of the incidents connected with Bernard's Revelation of Freemasonry 10 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. James Williams, Presiding Elder of Dakota District Northwestern Iowa Conference M. E. Church—a seceding Master Mason. 10 cents each.

Oaths and Penalties of the 33 DeGREES OF FREEMASONRY. To get these thirty three degrees of Masonic bondage, the candidate takes half-a-million horrible oaths. 15 cents each.

Thirteen Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong. 5 cents each.

Freemasonry Contrary to the ChrisTIAN RELIGION. 5 cents each.

Hon. Thurlow Weed on the Morgan ABDUCTION. This is the legally attested statement of this eminent Christian journalist and statesman concerning the unlawful seizure and confinement of Capt. Morgan in Canandaigua jail, his removal to Fort Niagara and subsequent drowning in Lake Ontario. 5 cents each.

Freemasonry a Fourfold ConspirACY. Address of Pres. J. Blanchard. This is a most convincing argument against the lodge. 5 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. W. P. McNary, pastor United Presbyterian church. 5 cents each.

ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP.

Revised Odd-fellowship Illustrated. The complete revised ritual of the Lodge, Encampment and Rebekah (ladies) degrees, profusely illustrated, and guaranteed to be strictly accurate; with a sketch of the origin, history and character of the order, over one hundred foot-note quotations from standard authorities, showing the character and teachings of the order, and an analysis of each degree by ex-President J. Blanchard. This ritual corresponds exactly with the "Charge Books" furnished by the Sovereign Grand Lodge. In cloth, $1.00; paper cover, 50cts.

Odd-fellowship Judged by its own utterances; its doctrine and practice examined in the light of God's Word. By Rev. J. H. Brockman. This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. In cloth 50cts; paper covers, 25cts.

Sermon on Odd-fellowship and other secret societies, by Rev. J. Sarver, pastor Evangelical Lutheran church. This is a very clear argument against secretism of all forms, and the duty to disfellowship Odd fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications. 10cts each.

Odd-fellowship: ITS HISTORY AND ITS WORK. By President J. Blanchard. A neat pamphlet with cover. Postpaid. 5 cts.

OTHER RITUALS.

Revised Knights of Pythias Illustrated. An exact copy of the new Official Ritual Adopted by the Supreme Lodge of the World, with the Secret work added and fully Illustrated. In cloth 50 cts. Paper cover 25 cts.

Knights of the Orient Illustrated. The full Illustrated Ritual of Ancient Order of the Orient, or the Oriental degree, This is a side degree conferred mostly in Knights of Pythias lodges. 15 cts each.

Good Templarism Illustrated. A full and accurate exposition of the degrees of the lodge, temple and council. 25cts each.

Exposition of the Grange. Edited by Rev. A. W. Geeslin. Illustrated with engravings. 25 cents each.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the REPUBLIC, with signs of recognition, passwords, etc., and the ritual of the Machinists' and Blacksmiths' Union. (The two bound together.) 10 cents each.

United Sons of Industry IllusTRATED. A full and complete illustrated ritual of the secret tradesunion of the above name, giving the signs, grips, passwords etc. 15cts each.

Rituals and Secrets Illustrated. Composed of "Temple of Honor Illustrated, "Adoptive Masonry Illustrated," "United Sons of Industry Illustrated," and "Secret Societies Illustrated." $1.00 each.

Temple of Honor Illustrated. A full and complete illustrated ritual of "The Templars of Honor and Temperance," commonly called the Temple of Honor. By a Templar of Fidelity and Past Worthy Chief Templar. 25cts each.

Knights of Labor Illustrated ("ADELPHON KRUPTOS.") The complete illustrated ritual of the order, including the "unwritten work." 25cts each.

MISCELLANEOUS.

History Nat'l Christian Association Its origin, objects, what it has done and aims to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought, the Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association. 25cts each.

Folly, Expense and Danger OF SECRET SOCIETIES. By Pres. C. A. Blanchard. This booklet of 32 pages is a general discussion of the secret orders, whether religious, political, industrial, insurance or social. Postpaid, 5 cents.

Disloyal Secret Oaths. By Joseph Cook, Boston. He quotes the law of Vermont which makes the administration of the Masonic oaths illegal. Joseph Cook's address is a national treatment of a national subject, and very valuable for reference. Postpaid, 5 cents.

Are Secret Societies a Blessing? An address by Rev. B. Carradine, D. D., pastor of the Centenary M. E. church, St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 4, 1891. W. McCoy writes: "That sermon ought to be in the hands of every preacher in this land, and every citizen's, too." A pamphlet of 20 pages and cover. Postpaid, 5 cents.

A Booklet of 107 pages, which includes "The Martyr's Own Monument," by Rev. J. E. Roy, D. D., Western Secretary of American Missionary Association; "Christian Politics," by Rev. J. Blanchard, late President Wheaton College, and Editor Christian Cynosure; "The Mysterious Machine: Was it Lawn-mower, Town-pump, Balloon, Wheel-barrow.—or what?" by Prof. E. D. Bailey, of the Civil Service Dept. U. S. Government. Postpaid 25 cts.

Jonathan Blanchard's Sermons and Addresses. Select discourses of the first editor of the Cynosure. Lectures, sermons and speeches given from 1834 to 1892 in leading cities of the United States, discussing topics of living reform, Secret Societies, The Sabbath, Temperance, National Reform, Christian Education, Christian Socialism, The Bible, etc. A book everybody should read. 12mo. Fine photogravure portrait. Price, 75 cents.

American Handbook and Citizen Manual By Manlove N. Butler. Contents: Bible and Secretism; Masonic Religion; Masonic Sun Worship; Masonic Government; Unwritten History; Grand Lodge Masonry; Public Opinion; Lodge and Saloon; The American Movement. Over 200 pages. Paper, single copy, 40c.

Image of the Beast: A Secret Empire; or, Freemasonry a Subject of Prophecy. By Rev. Richard Horton. Third edition. 200 pages. Cloth. Price, 60 cents.

Secret Societies Illustrated. Containing the signs, grips, passwords, emblems, etc., of Freemasonry (Blue Lodge and to the fourteenth degree of the York rite), Adoptive Masonry, Revised Odd-fellowship, Good Templarism, the Temple of Honor, the United Sons of Industry, Knights of Pythias and the Grange, with affidavits, etc. Over 250 cuts, 99 pages, paper cover. 25cts each.

Eminent Men on Secret Societies. Composed of "Washington Opposed to Secret Societies," "Judge Whitney's Defence," "The Mystic Tie," "Narratives and Arguments," the "Anti-mason's Scrap-Book" and "Oaths and Penalties of Freemasonry as Proved in the New Berlin Trials," 328 pages, cloth, $1.00.

College Secret Societies. Their customs, character and the efforts for their suppression. By H. L. Kellogg. Containing the opinions of many prominent college presidents and others, and a full account of the murder of Mortimer Leggett. 25cts each.

Sermon on Secretism. By Rev. Theo. Cross, pastor Congregational church Hamilton, N. Y. This is a very clear arra of the objections to all secret societies, an to Masonry especially, that are apparent t all. 5cts each.

Ex-President John Quincy Adams' LETTERS on the Nature of Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties. Price, cloth, $1.00. Paper, 35 cents.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret SOCIETIES. A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons in the Christian church. 10 cents each.

Sermon on Secret Societies. By Rev. Daniel Dow, Woodstock, Conn. The special object of his sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the character of secret societies, no matter what object such societies profess to have. 5 cents each.

Secret Societies. A discussion of their character and claims by Rev. David McDill, Pres. J. Blanchard and Rev. Edward Beecher. In cloth, 35cts each; paper covers, 15cts each.

Secret Societies, Ancient and ModERN. Table of Contents: The Antiquity of Secret Societies, The Life of Julian, The Eleusinian Mysteries, The Origin of Masonry, Was Washington a Mason? Fillmore and Webster's Deference to Masonry, A Brief Outline of the Progress of Masonry in the United States, The Tammany Ring, Masonic Benevolence, The Uses of Masonry, An Illustration, The Conclusion. 50cts each.

Pres. H. H. George on Secret Societies. A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian churches to disfellowship secret societies. 10cts each.

Secrecy vs. the Family, State and CHURCH. By Rev. M. S. Dury. The antagonism of organized secrecy to the welfare of the family, state and church, is clearly shown. 10cts each.

Narratives and Arguments, showing the conflict of secret societies with the Constitution and law of the Union and of the States. By Francis Semple. The fact that secret societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of law is here clearly proved. 15cts each.

Anti-masonic Sermons and AdDRESSES. Composed of "Masonry a Work of Darkness;" the Sermons of Messrs. Cross, William M'Nary, Dow and Sarver, the two addresses of President Blanchard, and the addresses of President H. H. George, Prof. J. G. Carson and Rev. M. S. Drury; "Thirteen Reasons Why a Christian cannot be a Freemason," "Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion," and "Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the Initiate?" 287 pages; cloth, $1.00.

Holden with Cords. OR THE POWER OF THE SECRET EMPIRE. By E. E. Flagg, author of "A Sunny Life," etc. This is a thrillingly interesting story, accurately true to life because mainly a narration of historical facts. In cloth, $1.00; in paper, 50 cents.

HOME AND HEALTH.

TO REMOVE IRON RUST.

Fill a large bowl with boiling water. Have a second bowl filled with hot water. Place the spotted part of the garment over the bowl of hot water. Wet a cork with muriatic acid and touch the iron rust with it. The spot will turn a bright yellow. Dip this in the boiling water, and the stain will disappear. Continue the work until all the stains have been removed. Rinse the garment thoroughly in several waters. In the second rinsing water put one tablespoonful of household ammonia. This will neutralize any trace of the acid that may remain in the cloth. The third and fourth rinsing will clear the fabric of the acid and the alkali. Two ounces of muriatic acid will remove a great deal of iron rust. Muriatic acid, even when closely corked in a bottle, should not be placed near tins, as it ruins them.—Ladies' Home Journal.

BAKED HAM.

Allow for baking twenty-five minutes for every pound. Soak it for twelve hours, trim it nicely, cover the part without skin with a paste made of flour and water, and put it in the dripping pan with water enough to keep it from burning, paste side up. Baste occasionally. When done, pull off the skin and the paste, tie a frilled paper on the bone, and garnish with pickled beets and parsley.

RELIEF FOR THE FEET.

All persons who do much while in a standing posture will find much relief for their "tired feet" by using a soft mat or pad to stand on. They may be made with several thicknesses of old cloth, bagging, carpet lining, or horse blanket stitched together and covered with old carpet or drugget, the edges turned in and overhanded, and the whole then tacked like a comfortable. Hang them up by two loops when not in use, to keep the edges from curling up. They may be used in the counting room at the desk, or in the kitchen at the table. Try one of them and see. Try them especially in the farmer's kitchen.

Do not wear impermeable and tight-fitting hats that constrict the blood vessels of the scalp. Use Hall's Hair Renewer occasionally, and you will not be bald.

CLUBBING RATES.

Your attention is called to the reading notice in another column of the the Midland, (U. P.) Chicago and Omaha.

The Christian Cynosure and The Cosmopolitan magazine, New York, each one year, for only $2.50. Any paper or magazine furnished in connection with the Cynosure at a rate that may save you money. Send in the list of papers and magazines that you wish to take for 1894, and we will give you their cost including the Cynosure for one year.

AMERICAN HANDBOOK
AND
CITIZEN MANUAL.
BY
MANLOVE N. BUTLER.

CONTENTS:—Bible and Secretism; Masonic Religion; Masonic Sun Worship; Masonic Government; Unwritten History; Grand Lodge Masonry; Public Opinion; Lodge and Saloon; The American Movement; Real Prohibition; Poor Man's Bible, and All-Around Reformers. Over 200 pages

Paper, single copy 40c.; per doz. 85c.

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
WM. I. PHILLIPS, Treasurer,
221 W. Madison St., Chic

Between Two Opinions: OR THE QUESTION OF THE HOUR. By Miss E. E. Flagg author of "Little People," "A Sunny Life," etc., etc. Everyone who loves to read a good story, chaste and elegant in expression, pure in thought, interesting in narrative, should read this book upon the power of secret societies in politics, and the remedy. 389 pages; cloth, postpaid, $1.00.

Mrs. Anna Sutherland

Kalamazoo, Mich., had swellings in the neck, or From her 10th Goitre year, causing 40 Years great suffering. When she caught cold could not walk two blocks without fainting. She took

Hood's Sarsaparilla

And is now free from it all. She has urged many others to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and they have also been cured. It will do you good.

HOOD'S PILLS Cure all Liver Ills, Jaundice, sick headache, biliousness, sour stomach, nausea.

"Best" Marriage Certificate. Size 14x17½. Price postpaid 25 cents; per dozen, $2.50.

This superb certificate meets a popular demand, and is rapidly becoming the favorite. Read what the people say of it: BRO. BEST: My attention having been called to your marriage certificate, I must pronounce it the neatest in design and execution of any I have seen. Rev. E. P. HART. E. C. BEST—Dear Brother: I am well pleased with the specimen copy of your marriage certificate, and shall use them hereafter. They are in good taste, well executed, on good material, and at a very reasonable price. Yours, M. V. CLUTE.

CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

MY EXPERIENCES
WITH
SECRET SOCIETIES.
BY A TRAVELER.
With a Key to Masonry Illustrated

A new edition, greatly enlarged, has been issued, embracing chapters on the Language of Numbers, Secret Empires, and Good Men, containing more Experiences, and affording a deeper insight into the Hidden Language and Workings of Secret Clans, and of the counterfeit pretences of good men, than ever before published. The Key is an exposition, explanation and verification of modern Baalism, with which all should be thoroughly acquainted. The price of the new edition is

Fifteen Cents,

but copies of the first edition will be forwarded for Ten Cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison St. Chicago.

THE MYSTIC SHRINE
Illustrated.
THE FULL
ILLUSTRATED RITUAL
OF THE
Nobles of the Mystic Shrine
PRICE 15 CENTS, EACH.

For sale by the
NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chica

DO YOU WANT

To receive, read, distribute and otherwise aid in the circulation of a large number of Holiness and Reform papers and magazines? If so, send me a SILVER dime, and your name and address will be printed on the Holiness and Reform Mail Exchange List, which is sent to all publishers of holiness and reform literature, who will mail you sample papers and magazines. Write name and address PLAINLY. Address, J. H. PADGETT, Printer. Ennis, Texas.

THE IMAGE OF THE BEAST
A Secret Empire;
Or, Freemasonry a Subject of Prophecy.
By Rev. Richard Horton.
Third Edition. 200 pages. Cloth.
Price, 60 cents.
NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

Talks to Sunday-School Teachers.
By Rev. J. G. Terrill. 12mo, 200 pages, bound in fine cloth..... .75

This book is the result of twenty-five years of experience in Sunday-school and treats of: 1. The Sunday-school organization and management. 2. Methods of work. 3. Studies in human nature. 4. Rules of Interpretation as applied to the Bible. 5. Illustrative exercises for primary classes and children's meetings. In the style of presentation, subject matter and price of the book, the wants of the officers and teachers of the ordinary Sunday-school are kept in view.

S. S. Times:—A very comprehensive book. N. Y. Independent:—A sensible manual for the average Sunday-school teacher. Evan. Mess.:—We have been very favorably impressed with the book, because it is so intensely practical. The subject is systematically treated, and leaders of teacher's meetings can not do better than adopt it as a text-book and devote half an hour of each session to teaching the theory and practice of teaching as here systematized. Christian at Work:—Any school that will adopt this book generally and carry forward its work or doctrines here laid down will not be long in developing into a model school and reaping the harvest of a rich fruitage. Herald and Presbyter:—These Talks are well attested in their profitableness and excellence. Buffalo Advocate:—A plain, practical, common sense book on a very important subject. The author has had wide experience in this field of work. He knows thoroughly the ground over which he would lead others, and possesses the happy faculty of packing a great deal of valuable information as to matter and manner of teaching into this little hand-book. We commend it to the attention of all Sunday-school workers. Religious Telescope:—We are pleased with the plan and treatment of the subjects throughout, and are sure that the diligent Sunday-school teacher who longs for more thorough equipment, will find in this book a helper of great value. Illustrated Christian Weekly:—The author talks from observation and experience, and talks well.

Sunday School Publications.

The Pearl (Mo.)	Pr. Qr.	3 c.	Sunshine (Mo.)	Pr. Qr.	3 c.
The Lily	" "	3 "	Pure Words	" "	3 "
Light & L	Scholar's Qrly.	3 "	Light & L	Inf Cl. wk.	4 "
" "	Teacher's "	5 "	" "	Lesson Leaf "	1½ "
Golden Treasures		1 "	L. & L. Primary	Qly	4 "

SINGLE SUBSCRIPTIONS.

The Pearl, The Lily, Pure Words, & Sunshine, each Pr. Yr.	25c	Teacher's Quarterly Pr. Yr.	25c
The four to one address "	75c	Scholar's " "	20c
		L & L Infant Class, weekly,	25c

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

The Great Encyclopedia Britannica, only $19.75.

This offer open till Feb. 1, 1894, only. The genuine, unabridged, illustrated edition, over 20,500 pages, 10,000 illustrations, 200 maps

This is the genuine, unabridged, illustrated edition. The full set is ready for immediate delivery. It is a reprint, in large type, of the last (9th) English edition, over 20,500 pages, including more than 10,000 illustrations and 200 maps.

Size of volumes, 8 3-4 by 10 inches, by 3 1-2 thick; weight, about six pounds each. Size of type shown by these lines.

It is issued in 24 volumes strongly bound in 12 volumes, cloth, price of the set as above. The same bound in half Russia, $4.80 extra. Index volume, if wanted, extra, cloth, $1.00; half Russia, $1.40. By freight or express.

Beware of humbug claims } Investigate.

Whoever has need for an encyclopedia ought to be wise enough to avoid being humbugged by book agents, or by flashy newspaper advertisements.

A Trial Offer.

For $1.00 we will send you by express (50 cents extra if by mail) volumes 17–18 of the Britannica in cloth binding; in half Russia 25 cents extra.

In this you will have a world of knowledge, between Montanabbi and Phthisis, over 1,700 pages and hundreds of maps and illustrations, including Motley.	New Hampshire, New Jersey and New York, (24 pages.)	Palestine.

Mozart.		Paris, (22 pages.)
Music, (30 pages.)		Pathology, (47 pages.)
Mythology, (34 pages.)	Ohio.	Paul, (15 pages.)
Napoleon, (35 pages.)	Oregon.	Pennsylvania.
Norway.	Ornithology, (49 pages.)	Persia, (100 pages.)

Return volume within one month and get money back, if you will. Don't buy any cyclopedia that will not submit to a similar test. It is easy to put merits and claims to the test.

Supplementing the English edition, especially treating American topics and living biography, we publish:

American supplement } Over 3,800 pages.

American Supplement, edited by Howard Crosby, D.D., LL.D., and others, 5 volumes, 3,843 pages, and Index to entire work, 579 pages, the 6 volumes, bound in 3 volumes, cloth, price, $6.00; half Russia, $7.20.

Though the Britannica is complete in itself, this Supplement, from the hands of about 150 American scholars and writers of highest reputation is generally wanted.

Size: some customers at first thought object to the thickness of the volumes of this edition, but when they consider:

Even when bound in 24 volumes they are too large to hold in the hand, and must be consulted on a table; these volumes open just as readily as the others, being more flexible in fact, on account of the thinner paper; the cost of this is about half that of any 24 vol. edition; thus the objection quite disappears.

N.B. The above offer will not be repeated; order AT ONCE.

If you can't well spare the price of the set immediately, you may order the sample volume, or send us $1.00 on account, and we will agree to accept balance of payment for the set on its delivery within three months thereafter.

Any book supplied; the Britannica at one-sixth its former price is a fair illustration of what we are doing for book-buyers all along the line. Our publications not sold by dealers or agents; direct sales make the low prices possible. 160-page Catalogue sent for 2-cent stamp

Please mention this Paper when you write.

JOHN B. ALDEN, Publisher, 57 Rose St., New York.

If You Have

Scrofula,
Sores, Boils, or any other skin disease, take

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA

the Superior
Blood-Purifier
and Spring Medicine.
Cures others,

will cure you

THE GUIDING HAND;

—OR—

PROVIDENTIAL DIRECTION.

-——)o(——

Illustrated by authentic instances of Relief and Deliverance in times of Trouble and Perplexity; of Direction through Dreams and Mental Impressions, and of Providential Guidance, resulting in Conversion. Recorded and collected by

H. L. HASTINGS,
(Editor of "The Christian.")

This striking work is divided into three parts as follows:

(1) Providences in Relief and Deliverances. (2) Dreams and Impressions. (3) Conversions.

The "Guiding Hand" contains nearly 400 pages. It is really a handsome book, printed on heavy book paper, from large open type, good for the eyes, and artistically and durably bound in fine cloth, with fancy panels. Price, $1.50.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison S Chicago, Ill

A. L. O. E. Intermediate Library.

Selected from the numerous productions of this world-renowned writer as being those of rare merit. 12 vols., 12mo., cloth elegant, each 75c; set.....9.00

An Eden in England.	Life in Eagle's Nest.
Ned Franks.	White Bear's Den.
Sheer Off.	Fairy Spider's Web.
Braid of Chords.	Lake in the Woods.
Silver Keys.	Seven Perils Passed.
Grace Vernon.	Hartley Brothers.

The Jessica Series. By Hesba Stretton. 6 vols., handsome bindings, cloth 50c each, or per set 2.10

Jessica's First Prayer.	Friends till Death.
No Place Like Home.	A Miserable Christmas
Under the Old Roof.	A Night and a Day.

A. L. O. E. Junior Library. Adapted to the young folks. 7 vols., 12mo., cloth, each 60c; the set.....4 20

Claremont Tales.	A Wreath of Smoke.
Christian Conquests.	Pomegranates from
Tales Illustrative of Parables.	Punjab.
The Battle of Life.	Little Bullets from Batala.

The Hesba Stretton Series. 8 vols., elegant cloth bound, per set.....4.80

Cassy.	King's Servant.
Lost Gip.	Alone in London.
Max Kromer.	Little Meg's Children
Storm of Life	Crew of the Dolphin.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
221 W. Madison St., Chicag

FARM NOTES.

WORKING AN ABANDONED FARM.

"I began twenty years ago with an abandoned farm, covered with boulders, bushes, weeds, etc. It would keep about forty sheep, three cows and a horse. I have 100 acres all told, twenty-eight of tillage, the rest pasture and woodland. I raised on one acre 340 bushels of potatoes; on four acres, 600 bushels of corn and eight tons fodder, three acres in barley, 180 bushels, three acres oats and peas, 150 bushels, and on five acres of newly stocked ground I cut 18 tons nice clover hay. The stock now consists of twenty milch cows, full blooded Jerseys, and seven yearlings, five calves, one blooded Jersey bull four years old, and a team of horses. I think I have hay and grain enough to carry my entire stock through the winter. Have not hired help on this work; have done it myself with my son, a slender lad of 16, and I am on the shady side of fifty. I cleared my land of stone several years ago, and can now use any improved machine.

"My cows go dry through the month of August; they are stabled every night the year around with some kind of absorbent in the gutter to save all liquids. I have used saw-dust a good deal and have never seen any bad results from it. I use some commercial fertilizer, but not largely. Think it good to give crops a quick start. But it needs the farm manures to back up. I have built a new house and barn, brought water to buildings seventy rods up hill, cleared my land of stones, planted an orchard of seventy-five trees, have a large family to support, and to-day stand even with the world. Have not much interest money, but think I can get a living if I haven't.

"This has been accomplished by hard work and close application to business. I have never had time to sit in the country store and hold down a bench while I was telling my good neighbors that farming didn't pay."—Connecticut Courant.

United Presbyterians among our readers will be glad to learn that the Midland of Omaha is about to remove to Chicago. This will answer the most common and seemingly only objection to it—"too far west." The Midland is newsy, spicy and sound, liberal and loyal and patriotic and progressive; it excels in giving the news of its own denomination, in supporting the reforms of the day and in advocating home missions. Send for a free sample copy. Address the Midland Publishing Co. Its regular price is $1.50, but to one of our old subscribers who becomes a new subscriber to the Midland, both papers will be sent by us for $2.50. To one who becomes a new subscriber to both, the Cynosure and Midland, the papers will cost for one year only $2.00. Address, Christian Cynosure, 221 W. Madison street.

Works of Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

Sermon Notes. Covering all the Bible from Genesis to Revelation. 4 vols.....4.00
Feathers for Arrows. A volume of Choice Extracts, 12mo., cloth.....1.00
Twelve Striking Sermons..... 50
Twelve Soul Winning Sermons, ... 50
Twelve Sermons on the Resurrection 50
Twelve New Year Sermons..... 50
Twelve Christmas Sermons..... 50

Notes by C. H. M.

On Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy.

Mr. D. L. Moody says of these books: "They have been to me a very key to the Scriptures."

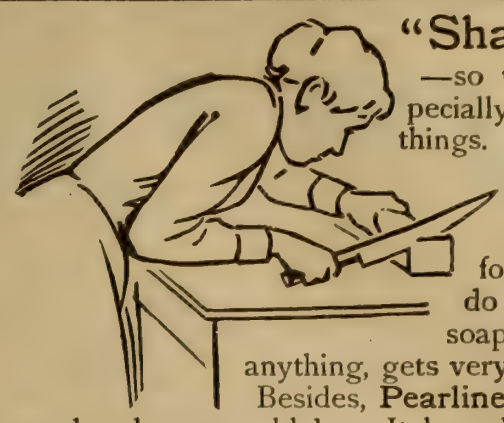
Deuteronomy is issued in two volumes, the others complete in one volume each.

Separate volumes may be had if desired.

The complete set in six volumes, covering over 2,300 pages, is offered at the reduced price of 75c per vol. or $4.50 per set

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Secret Societies Illustrated. Containing the signs, grips, passwords, emblems, etc., of Freemasonry (Blue Lodge and to the fourteenth degree of the York rite), Adoptive Masonry, Revised Odd-fellowship, Good Templarism, the Temple of Honor, the United Sons of Industry, Knights of Pythias and the Grange, with affidavits, etc. Over 250 cuts, 99 pages, paper cover. 25cts each.



"Shave your Soap"

—so the soap makers say, especially if you're washing delicate things. Now, in the name of common sense, what's the use? When you can get Pearline, in powder form for this very reason, why do you want to work over soap, which, if it's good for anything, gets very hard and difficult to cut. Besides, Pearline is vastly better than any powdered soap could be. It has all the good properties of any soap—and many more, too. There's something in it that does the work easily, but without harm—much more easily than any other way yet known.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you, "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, if your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—send it back. 392 JAMES PYLE, New York.

THE TWO-FOLD GIFT
of the Holy Ghost,
BY REV. THOS. K. DOTY,
Author of Lessons in Holiness.

240 pp. Price postpaid.....65cts.

The design of this book is, in plain language, to designate the place of the Holy Ghost in both the Godhead and the work of Salvation. Especially to show that Entire Santification is wrought in the heart by the Baptism of Holy Ghost; and that the Epoch of the Baptism is identical with that of his Advent in his Indwelling Personalty. The agency of the Holy Ghost in the Life, and in carrying on the work of the Gospel, is given particular attention.

TITLES TO THE CHAPTERS:

1. A Summary. 2. The Holy Ghost a Person. 3. The New Testament Designating Terms. 4. The Scriptural View. 5. The Holy Ghost is God. 6. Blasphemy Against the Holy Ghost. 7. The Triunity of God. 8. The Apostolic Benediction. 9. The Worship of the Holy Ghost. 10. The Dispensations. 11. The First Dispensation. 12. The Second Dispensation. 13. Holiness—Sinning. 14. "The Sin of the World." 15. Final Deliverance from Sin. 16. The Day of the Holy Ghost. 17. Jesus and the Holy Ghost. 18 and 19. The Epoch of the Holy Ghost. 20. The Anointing. 21. The Baptism of the Holy Ghost. 22. The Baptism of Fire. 23. The Two-Fold Experiences of the Holy Ghost. 24. Fellowship of the Holy Ghost. 25. "In the Spirit." 26. Several Scriptural Terms Considered. 27. Pentecost. 28. Inspiration—Prophecy. 29. Spiritual Leading and Teaching. 30. The Gifts of the Spirit. 31. "Praying in the Holy Ghost." 31 and 32. Power.

This book is creating quite a stir in religious circles. The original, bold and convincing manner of presenting the subject, has forced the press to comment upon the book, either adversely or favorably, generally the latter. We give a few OPINIONS:

Bible Standard and Gospel Record: "This book is very compact, scarcely a superfluous sentence in the whole book. The manner of treating the questions involved is both clear and scriptural. .....The effect of the book will be to deepen thought and increase knowledge and, in the end, deepen piety."

Evangelical Messenger: "Brother Thomas K. Doty has written a book which we take pleasure in commending to all devout readers who enjoy all spiritual things. The subject is so important, and the treatment of it so timely, that we may be pardoned for calling attention to it thus prominently. We, at least have been greatly interested, and gratefully acknowledge that we have also been decidedly profited by persuing it .....Brother Doty writes with an incisive pen, in a clear, lucid style, often epigrammatical and with great force. He is evidently deeply impressed with the truth of what he writes and demands the respect even where he does not gain the intellectual assent of his readers. Withal the book is written in a kindly, candid spirit, rather didactic than polermical, and is calculated to help the reader and not to rouse his opposition, as is the case with so many books which have been written upon this and kindred subjects. The theological views expressed are orthodox, and in some cases the argument is fresh in matter, and certainly fresh in form throughout."

Christian Cynosure: "His book is one of the most excellent, instructive and practical of any that have come to our knowledge. The exposition of the Scriptures concerning the personality and work of the Spirit is very clear, able and comforting. There is much dogmatizing on these topics by Christians who never fully felt the power of the Spirit's work, or are not living in gracious fellowship with him. To all such and to those who have not yet learned what gifts the Lord is waiting to bestow on his people we heartily commend the careful reading of this volume."

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison st., Chicago

The Christian Witness

Is an eight-page undenominational monthly; the official organ of the New Hampshire Christian Association, opposed to secret societies. It advocates Bible Holiness, Church Purity, Sound Morality and Temperance.

Terms: 50 cents a year, or three years for $1.00.

Send stamp for sample copy.

Address S. C. KIMBALL,
Box 277. Newmarket, N. H.

The New World of Central Africa.

By Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness, with a history of the first Christian mission on the Congo. 12mo., 530 pages with maps, portraits and numerous illustrations.$2.00

"A conscientious piece of work, and gives a very clear account of what has been done by the Protestant missions to evangelize the barbarous races of Central Africa. * * * He who wants to know what missionary effort means in these days may well learn from this volume. * * * The reader who goes carefully through will have a good bird's eye view of recent events in Africa, with all the results of modern travel. * * The work contains solid information of use to all who are interested in the future of this wonderful country. The many illustrations throw light upon savage customs and costumes."—Graphic.

In the Far East.

Letters from China by Geraldine Guinness, edited by her sister, with introduction by Rev. J. Hudson Taylor. Very fully illustrated. Quarto cloth, ...$1.50

This book was scarcely written—it was lived; for the breath of life is in it from cover to cover. * * * We have never read so wonderful an account of successful missionary effort.—Presbyterian

We easily understand how this edition is the fifteenth thousand. It is a very remarkable book.—The Golden Rule.

Frances Ridley Havergall's Poems.

Author's edition complete. The only unabridged authorized edition published in America.

1. 12mo., 880 pages, cloth, beveled....2.00
2. Beveled boards, full gilt..... 2.50
3. Half white vellum, gilt top, uncutedges, ...2.50
4. French morocco padded, roll red under gold edges...4.00
5. Persian calf, padded and emoossed, gilt roll and r. g. 5.00
6. Crushed levant, elegant..... 6.00
7. Full German calf, padded, elegant, gilt, rd. cors.....7.50

Miss Havergall stands without peer in the English language in the department of religious poetry.

"The book in paper and binding is all that could be desired."—Publishers' Weekly.

Small Books by Miss Havergall.

Bound in elegant illuminated board covers.

Kept for the Master's Use. 50

My King; Daily Thoughts for the Lord's Children.....50

Sermons of Rev. John McNeill,

12mo. cloth, 416 pages, $1.50.

The fame of this Scottish Spurgeon, as he is very generally called, is becoming as wide-spread as the English tongue. The secret of his power over the masses, has been discussed on both sides of the Atlantic. If one may judge from these printed sermons the secret lies in a homely and pointed putting of the old truths of the Gospel in plain Anglo-saxon. There is evidence of study, but more the study of human nature, and particularly the human heart, than that of books, other than the Book of books—with this volume Mr. McNeill is evidently in love. With unquestioned faith he believes the written word, and preaches with an earnestness born of conviction

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

Secret Societies. A discussion of their character and claims by Rev. David McDill, Pres. J. Blanchard and Rev. Edward Beecher. In cloth, 35cts each; paper covers, 15cts each.

Royal Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength. — Latest United States Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO.,
106 Wall St., N. Y.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

CHICAGO.

The December statement of the comptroller of the currency shows Chicago banks in excellent condition.

Wage-workers are asked to contribute one day's pay toward relieving the distress of the poor and needy.

Jacob Thein and Benjamin Friedman, who sold merchandise on the club plan, were arrested for violating the lottery law.

Mayor Hopkins is already taking steps toward abolishing the deadly grade crossings in the city limits.

Talk at the banks is daily getting more cheerful. Business, it is declared, is showing improvement.

More than 2,000 applicants were rejected at the Armor Institute for lack of room. There are about 1,000 students.

Stockholders of the First National Building Association applied for a receiver to wind up its affairs.

Workingmen decided at a lively meeting that each branch of toilers should contribute to its own unemployed.

Talk at the banks is more cheerful than it was last month. Demand for money shows improvement.

Foreigners at Jackson Park are having a hard time getting their exhibits shipped from the grounds.

Business interests are earnestly taking up the work of assisting in the relief of the unfortunate.

Stockholders of the Waukegan Sugar Refinery Company charge President Jebb with tampering with the books.

Chairman Madden, of the council finance committee, thinks the budget can be made $500,000 less than last year.

The India World's Fair exhibit was damaged to the extent of $25,000 by a blaze in New York.

COUNTRY.

Isaac T. Vanduzer, one of the oldest contractors in the country, died at St. Paul, Minn.

Marius Schoonmaker, active in the counsels of the whigs, died at Kingston, N. Y. He was 83 years old.

By paying large commissions, the Canada lines are securing immigrant business. The recent pool is endangered.

Two thousand voters of Texas have sent a petition to Congress asking that wool be kept off the free list.

Five-cent restaurants have been established in New York for the benefit of the suffering unemployed.

Unemployed at Indianapolis, Ind., demanded that the city give them work. Trouble is feared by the residents.

Officials of the state and navy department think the situation in Brazil is fast approaching a crisis.

Secretary Carlisle urges immediate action to meet the threatened deficit in the United States treasury.

Warrants are out for forty Akron, Ohio, residents, who witnessed a cock fight in a hotel.

A decrease of 29.7 per cent in sales the last half of 1893 is shown by reports covering various branches of trade.

Sheriff Broward, of Jacksonville, Fla., has taken a hand in the Corbett-Mitchell complication. He will stop the big fight.

The Kansas supreme court has directed the Dodge City, Montezuma and Trinidad to relay its rails recently torn up.

Robbers bound the Delevan, Wis., marshal, blew the postoffice safe, held up a liveryman for a team and escaped.

Bank clearings at American cities for the week show a decrease of 25.8 per cent in comparison with last year.

D. Lathrop & Co., publishers at Boston, Mass., assigned for the benefit of creditors. Liabilities and assets large.

George Maruska, a religious rascal arrested at St. Louis, admitted that he is a forger. He is wanted in Chicago.

Messrs. Wills and Bell, of Sigourney, Iowa, have been arrested for defrauding innocent owners of patent rights.

J. Sterling Morton, secretary of agriculture, says he does not intend to abolish the agricultural experimental stations.

By the report of the secretary of the treasury, the great cost of collecting revenues is shown.

Sol Collins, Spring Creek, Mo., threw powder on the fire. Collins, his wife and four children will die.

In a convention at Columbus the Ohio Farmers' Alliance adopted resolutions demanding there moval of Secretary Morton.

Judge Hatch, of McGregor, Iowa, fell from a bridge and broke both legs about the knees.

Mrs. Mary McGrath, worth $40,000, died an hour after being dug out of the rags and filth in her St. Louis home.

Plans for the Milwaukee public library and museum, to cost $500,000, have been selected by the trustees.

FOREIGN.

Sicily has been declared in a state of siege and General Morra di Livriano has been endowed with full powers.

Europe is storm swept, extending as far as Trieste. The suffering among the poor is terrible.

Spanish demands upon the Sultan of Morocco for the Melilla affair will be moderate, according to ministerial instructions.

President Peixoto, of Brazil, has sent troops to Bage, the town being besieged by insurgents.

Rioters attacked the troops at Marineo, Sicily. Thirty of the mob were killed and fifty wounded.

Archduke Salvator, of Vienna, has perfected a gun that will fire from 450 to 480 shots a minute.

England is to have a new cruiser of the highest class. It will be called the Terrible.

Europe suffered greatly from the blizzard that started Wednesday night. The poor underwent terrible affliction.

DONATIONS.

Current Expense Fund:

Robert Gunn	$ 1 50
A Friend (Penn.)	1 00
Mrs C M Candee	2 00
D D Tower	1 00
N Y H per E G Manter	10 00
C W Sterry	50 00
Eld S Studebaker	1 70
Jos Morris	3 90
B Perrine	50
Geo S Carlisle	3 50
L Gishwiller	3 50
O C Blanchard	5 00
Christian Reformed church, Holland, Mich	10 61
Church of Christ, Everett, Mass	2 00
Mrs E Hinsdale	5 00
Eld I Bancroft	2 00
N Martin	5 00
Philip Kribs	1 00
E Sutton	5 00
Rev I. C. Weidler	50
A J Loudenback	2 00
W R Morley	50 00
Rev John Stahl	5 00
J D Smith	1 00
J L Reber	5 00
D H Harrington	2 00
J H McGlade	1 00
O C M Bates	5 00
Mrs F Collins	1 50
A Friend (Wis)	30 00
T Kingsnorth	3 50
Josiah Shaw	5 00
B Perrine	2 00
Mrs M M Shaw	17 00
R M Stevenson	2 00
Mrs E M Livesay	1 00
W O Percival	25 00
Rev D S Faris	1 00
Walter Lasby	3 50
John Robison	3 50
E G Manter	5 00
E Whipple	60
John Hayes Gray Estate	37 50
	$323 81

World's Fair Fund:

Carpenter estate per Trustees Mrs A A Cheny and Mrs Sarah G Hildretth	$100 00
J Cochran	1 00
Lewis Wood	1 00
Mrs L M Wylie	3 00
	$105 00

Southern Ministers' Fund:

Elder Wm Plant	$ 2 00
R P Brorup	1 00
	$ 3 00

Free Tract Fund:

W C Wilson	$ 1 00
Mrs M B Park	1 00
	$ 2 00

SUBSCRIPTION LETTERS.

The following have made remittances of money to the Cynosure from Dec. 30 to Jan. 6:

R. M. Stevenson, C. Van Epps, W. Chestnut, Mrs. E. M. Livesay, P. K. Drury, J. Robison, A. Holt, W. Patterson, J. Crump, J. H. Finley, J. C. Woodward, J. White, J. T. Buckley, J. R. Millin, J. B. White, W. Smeltzer, Rev. L. Beauchamp, A. Comstock, Rev. M. Wright, J. Levitt, E. Jarvis, D. Callow, Rev. D. O. Tussing, L. M. Lawrence, J. White, L. Landon, C. Quick, O. M. Shipley, Rev. W. Hoverstock, F. A. Noe, W. Northrup, R. Ewell, Rev. J. M. Faris, J. P. Shattuck, Rev. D. W. Wise, J. R. Letts, H. Gillespie, Rev. W. Husemann, Thos. Hodge, Rev. E. Pratt, W. C. Bissel, Rev. J. Telleen, Rev. D. S. Faris, W. Lasby, Henry de Jongh.

The continual succession of boils, pimples and eruptions from which many suffer, indicates an impure state of the blood. The most effective remedy is Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It expels the poison harmlessly through the natural channels, and leaves the skin clean and clear.

Children

will not develop uniformly unless they get sufficient nourishment. They will be thin, weak, hollow-chested.

Scott's Emulsion

the Cream of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites, overcomes the tendency toward thinness and makes children strong and healthy. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.

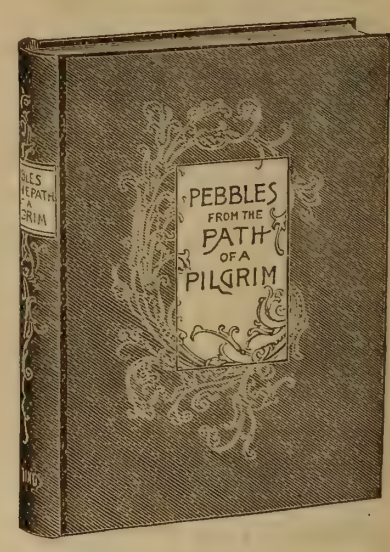
Don't be deceived by Substitutes!

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists.

Pebbles from the Path of a Pilgrim.

—BY—

MRS. H. L. HASTINGS.



This remarkable collection of stories from the eventful life of a Green Mountain girl has been pronounced "more fascinating than any romance." A member of Congress writes: "'Pebbles' has been read by me with great interest. The introductory chapter has followed me into dreams. My copy is read to pieces by the family, and borrowed to death by the neighbors." An editor says: "Surely the faith that 'obtained promises, wrought righteousness, and stopped the mouth of lions,' must have been given in large measure to the writer of this truly remarkable book....No family library should be without it." "'Pebbles,'" says the Christian Cynosure, "is such a book as Christian parents are always glad to put on their center-tables."

"Pebbles from the Path of a Pilgrim" is a large and beautiful book of over 300 pages, printed on heavy book paper, from clear open type, and is profusely illustrated. It is artistically bound in handsome cloth, with fancy panels, and specially attractive side and back cover designs. Price, $1.50.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO.

Wheat—Spring No. 3	62⅛	@	63
Winter No. 2	59	@	63
Corn—No. 2	35	@	35⅛
Oats—No. 2	28⅛	@	30⅛
Rye—No. 2	45⅛	@
Bran per ton	12 75	@
Hay—Timothy	10 00	@	11 00
Butter, medium to best	16	@	26
Cheese	07	@	12½
Beans	1 30	@	1 55
Eggs	14	@	21
Seeds—Timothy (100 lbs)	3 50		4 40
Flax	1 34⅛	@	1 40
Clover (100 lbs.)	9 75		10 80
Broom corn (per ton)	30 00	@	75 00
Potatoes, (new, bu.)	40	@	60
Hides—Green to dry flint	02¾	@	05½
Lumber—Common		@	15 50
Wool (unwashed)	15		19
Cattle—Choice to extra	4 50	@	5 85
Common to good	3 00	@	4 40
Hogs	4 70	@	5 85
Sheep	2 80	@	4 85

NEW YORK.

Wheat No. 2	67⅛	@	69
Corn No 2	42½	@	43
Oats	34⅜	@	35¼
Rye	48	@	57
Eggs	19	@	20
Butter	17	@	28
Wool	10	@	26

KANSAS CITY.

Cattle	1 60	@	5 15
Hogs	4 85	@	5 75
Sheep	1 00		3 75

. Our High Grade List and Bargain Book sent to any address on receipt of a 2-c stamp.

LORD & THOMAS,
NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING
45 RANDOLPH STREET,
CHICAGO.

Christian Cynosure.

"IN SECRET HAVE I SAID NOTHING."—Jesus Christ.

VOL. XXVI., No. 19. CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JANUARY 18, 1894. WHOLE No. 1,238.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION,

221 West Madison Street, Chicago.

SUBSCRIPTIONS PER YEAR..... $2.00
IF PAID STRICTLY IN ADVANCE..... 1.50

☞No paper discontinued unless so requested by the subscriber, and all arrearages paid.☜

Address all letters for publication to EDITOR CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE, CHICAGO. Writers' names must always be given. No manuscript returned unless requested and postage enclosed.

Make all drafts and money orders payable to the Treasurer, W. I. PHILLIPS, 221 WEST MADISON STREET, CHICAGO. When possible make remittances by express money order. Currency by unregistered letter at sender's risk. When writing to change address on Cynosure list always give the former address.

[Entered at the Postoffice, Chicago, Ill. as Second Class Matter.]

CONTENTS.

EDITORIAL:
Notes and Comments.... 1
Prohibition Triumph in Canada..... 8
Testimonies Against the A. P. A..... 8
A Proposed Labor Reform..... 8
"Ancient Order of Loyal Americans"..... 8
"The Light Begins to Shine"..... 8
College Athletics..... 8
Wrong Methods of Religious Opposition..... 9
Buddhism Encouraged in Chicago..... 9
The Pennsylvania Convention..... 9
SELECTED:
Reminiscences of Thurlow Weed..... 3
The Lodge in the Pulpit 3
CONTRIBUTIONS:
Woman and Masonry.... 1
NEW ENGLAND LETTER..... 4
WASHINGTON LETTER..... 4
REFORM NEWS:
The Coming Pennsylvania Convention..... 5
CORRESPONDENCE:
An Open Letter from Masons; Charity in Church and Lodge.... 5
LODGE NOTES..... 7
AGENTS AND LECTURERS.... 7
THE N. C. A..... 7
THE HOME.....10
TEMPERANCE.....11
BIBLE LESSON.....12
LITERATURE.....12
RELIGIOUS NEWS.....12
HOME AND HEALTH.....14
FARM NOTES.....15
NEWS OF THE WEEK.....16
MARKETS.....16

PENNSYLVANIA ANTI-SECRECY CONVENTION.

Intelligence to be found in the letter of Rev. W. B. Stoddard, on another page of this issue of the Cynosure, is full of promise for a rousing convention of the Pennsylvania Christian Association opposed to secret societies, to be held in the First United Presbyterian church, of Philadelphia, the last week in February. The official call, the program, and additional information relating to this convention will be prominently printed in this paper when received. Bro. Stoddard is working faithfully not only to make the convention a success in interest and power, but to welcome and provide for all who desire to attend.

Next week's Cynosure, as has been already announced, will be largely devoted to the subject of secret societies in colleges. Original papers from competent witnesses of the evils of these Greek "social" and "literary" fraternities will be presented, together with trustworthy facts and figures, relating to them, from other sources.

Some statistician announces, through a daily paper, that "the 7,000 saloons of Chicago took in $12,000,000 during the Fair, of which amount $8,000,000 was profit. The same paper suggests that these saloons should now support such of their patrons as are out of employment. But they won't. Like the "benevolence" of Freemasonry, that of the saloon-keeper is limited and one-sided. "What I gives," said a penurious capitalist, "is nothing to nobody;" and this seems to be a practice more general than praiseworthy among certain classes who have more money than Christianity.

A correspondent writes: "Please tell me if Roman Catholicism is a secret society." We answer: There is no more potent secret society than the Church of Rome, wherever you find it. And, worse than all, it is the defender, supporter and promoter of other secret societies more to be dreaded than itself—the Jesuits, the Clan-na-Gael, the United Hibernians, the Molly Maguires and all secret labor organizations whose members belong to its communion. Besides, it is opposed to only one other secret fraternity, and that is Freemasonry. Its hatred of this "twin-sister of religion" is founded alone on the refusal of Freemasonry to submit to the jurisdiction of the church.

Strong intimations are rife that when the prosecution in the Coughlin murder trial rests its case this week, the prisoner will be allowed to testify in his own behalf as to his non-participation in the assassination of Dr. Cronin. It is also intimated that witnesses from the Clan-na-Gael will be called to the stand in support of his testimony. The object of letting Coughlin state under oath whatever he will, it is said, is to deprive any future confession which he may make in the fear of death of its forcefulness, if it does not accord with his story in the witness-box. It is a shrewd plan, and worthy of the murderous secret society by whose orders Dr. Cronin, it seems certain, was doomed to die.

The Municipal League of Philadelphia, with the co-operation of the City Club of New York, has issued a call for a national conference for good city government, to be held in Philadelphia on Jan. 25 and 26. The principal objects of the conference will be to determine, so far as possible, by inquiry and debate, the best means for stimulating and increasing the rapidly growing demand for honest and intelligent government in American cities, and to discuss the best methods for combining and organizing the friends of reform so that their united strength may be made effective. The call has the endorsement of prominent citizens of New York, Chicago, Boston, Brooklyn, Baltimore and other cities.

The State Convention of the Farmers' Alliance met at Minneapolis, Minn., last week, and the opening proceedings were strongly marked by liveliness. Resolutions were introduced that "denounced everthing from the State Supreme Court to the American Protective Association," an institution that one member said was organized simply to fight the "reforms" advocated by the Alliance. President Ignatius Donnelly occupied the chair, and the session was held largely in the interests of the Populists. This mixing up of secret political societies, and their warring against each other, is an element of weakness out of which all true Christian reformers, who despise these works of darkness, will gather strength and hopefulness.

The editor of the Chicago Western Catholic, who claims an experience of thirty years in the Republican party, now warns his readers to shun it, because in it "you are obliged to stand shoulder to shoulder with the A. P. A.—who have sworn a solemn oath to deprive you of every right, and with such comrades (?) fight the Democrats who are your real friends; and after the battle is won, your A. P. A. associate turns round and stabs you in the back in accordance with his oath." He also says: "It is the duty of every Catholic to defend himself against political hornets by retaliation and every other means at his command. Boycott their supporters at every turn." "Whither are we tending?"

A contributor to the New York Observer, for whose veracity the editor of that paper abundantly vouches, charges, on the authority of Presbyterian pastors in Utah, that the Mormons are persecuting Christian and Presbyterian schools, assaulting Presbyterian ministers, and otherwise exhibiting the malevolence that the Mormon church has ever manifested towards other sects. The same correspondent adds: "Utah is very little better fitted for Statehood than it was ten years ago, because it is not true that polygamy has been given up. It prevails extensively all over the Territory." In view of these facts, this correspondent warns Congress to go slow in adding Utah to the Union under existing conditions.

The Review of Reviews presents a different portraiture of the dethroned Queen of Hawaii from that with which the public is familiar. It says: "She has long held a prominent place in Honolulu society, associating with the most cultivated ladies of the capital. She has a perfect use of English, and a good literary and musical culture. She is peculiarly winning in manner, and her bearing is noble and becoming. For some years she has been a member of the Woman's Board of Missions, and an interested participant in its meetings. She has long been a very active patroness of the large seminary for training native girls and is greatly looked up to by teachers and pupils."

The progress of the Coughlin murder trial in this city is slow, largely owing to the unusual strictness with which the character and evidence of every important witness for the prosecution are scanned by the attorneys for the defence. The most irrelevant questions distinguish all their cross-examinations, and witnesses are badgered and insulted to an exasperating degree. This system of tactics, thus far, has done but little to impeach the testimony against the prisoner, much of which is in the highest degree damaging to the accused and his interests. As soon as the evidence for the prosecution is all in, Coughlin is to be put on the stand to testify in his own behalf, and other witnesses, it is said, who belong to the Clan-na-Gael, are to be called to prove that the prisoner was not a participant in the crime on that eventful night. One thing is certain, that if the members of that murderous order can clear him by their testimony in the court, they will do it on the strength of their lodge obligations. An interesting feature of the situation is the authoritative statement that Dr. Cronin was not employed by the British government as a spy. If this is the case, the defence must rely upon some other allegation for the vindication of the Clan in his removal.

WOMAN AND MASONRY.

[Address of Miss Elizabeth E. Flagg at the Convention of the New England Christian Association, Dec. 20, 1893.]

The subject of my address to-night will be, "How Women can Learn the Truth about Masonry."

We women have always been credited with a great deal of curiosity. I don't know exactly why. See what crowds surround the bulletin-boards on the night of a Presidential election! A man can't wait till he gets his morning paper, so eager is he to learn the name of the successful candidate. And, in fact, we shall find as we investigate the subject, that it is to this very passion of curiosity in the masculine nature that Masonry makes her strongest appeal. Does not she pile up her degrees like the tower of Babel on purpose to whet this appetite on the part of her dupes, luring them on from one degree to another in the expectation that these wonderful secrets they burn to know will be imparted further on? I have no doubt that the great majority of young men who join the order do so impelled more by curiosity than any other motive. And why should not women be curious, too?—the more curious because of that Salic law in Masonry that excludes them from ever being initiated into its mysteries? That curiosity increases just in proportion as it is repressed, is a law of human nature, and it applies to one sex just as much as the other.

From Douglas Jerrold down to the cheap wit of the newspaper, this desire on the part of womankind has been the theme for merciless satire. She has been represented as badgering; and Mrs. Candling drives her poor Masonic husband to the verge of distraction, if not suicide, in order to make him reveal to her its secret mysteries; and then when he does what every Mason, by the terms of his oath, is really sworn to do rather than disclose them, she is represented as credulous enough to swallow whole every ridiculous falsehood that he chooses to tell her. It may have been true of women in times past—this readiness to believe anything their lodge friends told them; and I am afraid it is now, to some extent. At an anniversary celebration of the Independent Order of Odd-fellows, held two or three years ago in Malden, Mass., there was a live goat displayed in a druggist's window, bearing the placard, "OUR GOAT, Malden, No. 201." A lady who paused before the window was heard to remark to a companion, "Well, Clara, I used to laugh at John when he told me they had a real live goat in the lodge, but I believe it all now." This was an actual occurrence; and it is humiliating that any woman of ordinary intelligence should thus advertise herself as a simpleton. For she can, if she will, gain all the information she needs to know, and from the most accurate and trustworthy source—even lodge writers themselves. She can learn all about Masonry from men like Mackey, and Morris, and Webb, and Sickels, and Oliver, and Mitchell, and Rebold, who are acknowledged everywhere to be standard authorities.

"What is Masonry, anyhow?"

We will imagine this question to be the first one asked by some woman in search of more light than her Masonic friends are able or willing to impart. She turns to Mackey. She finds, in his Lexicon, that "Masonry is a religious institution;" that it has an "altar," a "ritual," a "chaplain" and a "burial service." Sickels will tell her, if she consults his Monitor (p. 97), that the candidate who has taken the first three degrees is "now complete in morality and intelligence, with the stay of religion added to insure him of the protection of the Deity and guard him against ever going astray. These three degrees thus form a perfect and harmonious whole; nor can we conceive that anything can be suggested more which the soul of man requires." Do you wonder that she is so blinded by such an excess of Masonic light that she begins straightway to wonder why she and her whole sex should be debarred from the privilege of becoming likewise "perfect?" She turns to page 402, and finds that "the religion of Masonry is pure theism." Then it has no Christ in it. Rather startled, she thinks she will make herself sure on this point before proceeding further. So she takes up Webb's Monitor and reads the ritual. Here she makes an astonishing discovery. She finds that in every passage of Scripture read in the lodge where the name of Christ occurs, it is deliberately cut out. She takes up the "Freemason's Guide," by the same author, and reads the burial service. Surely here there will be, there must be, some allusion to Him who brought life and immortality to light through the Gospel. Not a word. But her eye lights on Heber's beautiful hymn with a sense of relief. On these lines, so rich in spiritual comfort, the heart of the mourner will surely be lifted Christward. Judge of her feelings—for I am supposing her to be a Christian woman—when she finds it has been purposely mutilated, so that it shall not contain the remotest allusion to the Redeemer. I will read the first verse as it stands in our hymn-books:

"Thou art gone to the grave, but we will not deplore thee,
Though sorrow and darkness encompass the tomb;
The Saviour has passed through its portals before thee,
And the lamp of his love is thy guide through the gloom."

Amended by the hand of Masonry it stands thus:

"Thou art gone to the grave, but we will not deplore thee,
Though sorrow and darkness encompass the tomb;
The good have passed on through its portals before thee,
And th' acacia blooms greenly to lighten the gloom."

Think of substituting for Christ and his cross a branch of evergreen!

The next stanza reads in our hymn-books thus:

"Thou art gone to the grave; we no longer behold thee,
Nor tread the rough paths of the world by thy side;
But the wide arms of Mercy are spread to enfold thee,
And sinners may hope since the Sinless has died."

The Masonic amender had a rather hard struggle with this stanza; but it comes from under his revising touch as follows:

"Thou art gone to the grave; we no longer behold thee,
Nor tread the rough paths of the world by thy hand;
But the wide arms of Mercy are spread to enfold thee,
And we'll meet thee again in the heavenly land."

The next stanza happens to contain no direct allusion to Jesus Christ, and so it is allowed to stand unaltered. The concluding lines in our hymn-books read thus:

"Thou art gone to the grave, but 'twere wrong to deplore thee,
Since God was thy ransom, thy guardian and guide;
He gave thee, he took thee, and he will restore thee,
And death hath no sting since the Saviour has died."

Masonry changes it as follows:

"Thou art gone to the grave, but 'twere wrong to deplore thee,
When God was thy trust and thy guardian and guide;
He gave thee, he took thee, and soon will restore thee,
In the blest lodge above, where the faithful abide."

She takes notice that Masonry will not tolerate even so slight an allusion to the atonement as the word "ransom" in the second line. It has to be changed for another less obnoxious, or as Masonic writers would say, "less sectarian." By this time she is fully convinced, if she was not before, that Freemasonry is a Christless religion. She thinks of her Masonic pastor, and as she does so, turning over the leaves of Mackey's Ritualist at random, her eye lights on these words, page 22:

"There he stands, without our portals, on the threshold of this new Masonic life, in darkness, helplessness and ignorance. Having been wandering amid the errors, and covered over with the pollutions of the outer and profane world, he comes inquiringly to our doors seeking the new birth."

What a plight, she thinks, for a minister of the Gospel to be in!—in "darkness," "helplessness," and "ignorance," while confident that he is himself "a guide of the blind," "an instructor of the foolish." "Covered over with the pollutions of the profane world," yet handling the elements of our Lord's broken body and shed blood at the sacramental table! Do you blame her if she shudders at the thought of ever receiving them again at his hands?

But she wants to know what kind of ceremonies her pastor went through before he could receive this new birth, and have the great light of Masonry to shine on his darkness. You see that she isn't satisfied. She knows just enough to want to know more. You remember the old woman in that venerable classic of our childhood, Mother Goose, whom even victuals and drink couldn't keep quiet. I think that good old Puritan grandmother of the three-hilled city, who achieved immortality without seeking it, was also in her way something of a prophet without in the least realizing it. She must have seen in dim vision the woman of to-day—two hundred years after—who has found out that she can no more live on bread alone than her brother man; that she has a vital interest in forwarding every scheme for the elevation of humanity, and in putting down every form of moral evil, even though it may not touch her directly. And so, like Mother Goose's old woman, she won't be quiet, much as the rum-seller and his allies in sin desire it. She dons the white ribbon; she reads and she thinks; she gathers statistics; she circulates petitions; she interviews legislatures; and she remains "the ever womanly," just the same. This is the kind of woman whom I am now supposing to be in search of Masonic light. Now I have heard women who were in total and willing ignorance of what Masonry was, say "they didn't care to know anything about it;" but I never heard a woman who had once begun to investigate the subject say that she didn't want to know any more. I am reminded in this connection of Col. Higginson's clever satire, "Shall women learn the alphabet?" It would be a great deal better for Masonry to have this question answered in the negative, for the trouble with the kind of woman I am describing is that she doesn't know when to stop. If she once begins with A, she is sure to want to go on to B and C, and away down to Y and Z.

But, as I said, she wants to know how her Masonic pastor was initiated. She finds that the door is always "tyled" to keep out any profane cowans; that the candidate has to signal, or have somebody do it for him, before he can get in; that he has to have one shoe off, be divested of his outer garment, and deprived of money or "anything about him which has any value." She finds, furthermore, that he is kept in darkness for a time, which could not well be done otherwise than by blindfolding him; that he has a cord or rope put around him called the cable-tow, and that he is led three times around the lodge-room, which is called "the rite of circumambulation;" that at all times this "must be performed with the course of the sun, turning to the right, and having the altar on the right hand," because this is a rite borrowed—so Pierson's Traditions will tell her, page 32—from "the ancient Freemasonry that was practiced in the Mysteries." The candidate, she then finds, receives what is called the "Shock of Enlightenment." Mackey's Ritualist tells her that this is "to preserve the recollection and to embody the idea of the birth of material light by the representation of the circumstances that accompanied it." She has read the first chapter of Genesis, and she knows that the only way by which those circumstances could be represented would be by some one, probably the Worshipful Master, profanely personating Jehovah, and saying, while the hoodwink is suddenly snatched from the eyes of the candidate, "Let there be light, and there was light." So she will find the penalties, and many other of the so-called "secrets" of the order, either actually revealed, or hinted at so plainly, that from simply the writings of Masonic authors themselves one could piece enough together to make a tolerably full expose.

But what were the Mysteries, on which every lodge writer tells her that Masonry is founded? She finds that they were the Egyptian Mysteries, that secret false worship described in the 8th chapter of Ezekiel, where the elders of the house of Israel, with their backs to the temple of the Lord, worship the sun toward the East, and—for there were backstairs degrees in those ancient lodges as well as in modern ones—the women are seen weeping for Tammuz. Mackey tells her in his Manual, page 100, that "Freemasonry is a philosophical development of the ancient system of sun-worship." That is to say, it is founded on heathenism—nothing less nor more. Now she understands, if she did not before, why the temple of Masonry has no place for woman, except as it may graciously permit her a degrading and inferior position in its outer courts. She understands why the cutting out of the name of Christ from the Holy Scriptures is called by Mackey "slight but necessary modifications;" "for what concord hath Christ with Belial?"

She takes up the local paper and runs her eye over the column devoted to secret societies and their doings, and this is a sample of what she finds: "Pagan and Christian, Greek and Jew, all meet upon the level of Masonry, under the blazing star of Masonic light." What does the pagan or the Jew want of Christ? "Masons are erecting a temple in which the God of Israel shall dwell forever." "But what agreement hath the temple of God with idols?" "In beauty, strength, morality, spirituality and godliness, Freemasonry has but one equal, and that is Christianity." She begins to understand why so few young men join the church nowadays. If the lodge is the equal of the church, and just as good, why should they? She begins to understand why the lodge is preferred to the prayer-meeting, and why her Masonic pastor never converts anybody by his sermons.

I told you she was a white-ribbon woman. She finds that the candidate is charged to be temperate for no higher motive than because he may while intoxicated "disclose some of the valuable secrets of the order." Mitchell, in Vol. 2 of his History of Masonry, page 586, answers the question "whether Masons who keep tippling shops shall be expelled." "Formerly," he says, "our brethren made no objection to a candidate's occupation provided it was respectable, and this is the only ground upon which we could claim to stand in making a by-law to exclude the keepers of tippling houses. Has the man thus engaged a respectable standing in society?" He goes on to say that "though a few of our brethren"—only a "few," mind—"viewing his conduct as it deserves, may abhor and detest his true character, society will consider him respectable if he is wealthy; therefore we cannot make a law to shut him out of our sacred retreat." Think of that, my sisters!

Well, she takes up Mackey's Mystic Tie next, and she reads there the story of a pirate who saved the lives of a captain and his crew because the captain gave him the Masonic sign. And then she wonders if her Masonic pastor has read the Mystic Tie, and how he relishes the idea of standing in fraternal relations to pirates. And then she reflects that this same pastor, when he goes to the lodge, meets "on the level" with saloon-keepers—men who do not indeed sail the high seas with a black flag flying at their masthead, but who are robbers and murderers nevertheless. And he calls the rum-seller, to whose dreadful traffic nine-tenths of the nation's crime and pauperism is owing, BROTHER! Then she remembers that this or that man of impure life and unsavory reputation belongs to the lodge. And perhaps she recollects how, two or three years ago, when the U. S courts were trying to get at the secrets of the Endowment House, Woodruff, the President of the Mormon church, indignantly said to a reporter: "You might as well ask why a Mason, if he was placed on the witness stand, should refuse to reveal the rites and signs of the order. I myself am a Master Mason." Rum-sellers, pirates, and Mormons! Curious company for a Christian minister!

Oh, these Masonic pastors and deacons, and church members, who profess to walk in the light, but are in darkness and know not at what they stumble! They are a good deal like the drunken man in a military company who was staggering along, and when reproved by his captain for coming out on parade too drunk to walk, said he wasn't drunk at all, but there was one band ahead playing one tune, and another one behind playing another tune, and he was trying to march to them both. That is what these "good men who belong to the lodge" are trying to do, and I am glad they make such sorry work of it; I am glad they find the laws of nature and grace both against them, and that, however hard they may try to march to the tune the devil is playing behind them, and the strains of the new song as it sweeps from the heavenly shores and the lips of the saints of all ages at the same time, they can never do it.

Mrs. Stowe, in a sketch of the life of Abraham Lincoln, tells us that he became an anti-slavery man, not by reading the Liberator, but the Richmond Inquirer and the Charleston Mercury, with their advertisements of run-away Negroes and slave auctions. For fifteen years, long before his name had anything more than a local celebrity, he subscribed for both these papers, and he and his law-partner, "in their little square office, read every vaunting, cruel word, paid to read it, and educated themselves out of their mutual indignations." That is one thing women can do—they can form themselves into reading clubs for the study of Masonic writers and "educate themselves out of their mutual indignations."

I have been able to give only a bird's-eye view of what may be learned from a Masonic library. I have merely skirted the shores of the deep sea of Masonic literature. But I wish, before I close, to speak of one objection sometimes made to engaging in this study, and that is that it is dull and uninteresting. Well, that depends on the standpoint one takes.

I suppose legal documents are about as dull as anything on earth, but if one was seeking to find his title to some property therein they would grow interesting enough. If you were a mother, and your child was afflicted with some disease that would end in death if you did not find a remedy, how eagerly you would search the pages of the dullest, heaviest medical treatise that promised enlightenment, and you would find it ten-thousand-fold more interesting than the most thrilling novel. Is it—should it be—any less matter when precious souls are at stake?—perhaps your son, your brother, your husband, or at least somebody-else's son or brother or husband for whom Christ died? When you consider that this anti-Christian system is teaching more infidelity than a thousand Ingersolls, and under the cover of secrecy is training our young men to drink and smoke, and thus launching them on that broad road which ends only where the smoke of the pit rolls up its lurid volumes, and the wailing of despair over blighted manhood and lost opportunities alone is heard, ought not the books which tell us what this system is, so that we can warn men and keep some at least out of this cruel snare of Satan, be of intense, of terrible interest?

But Masonry will never be put down. That is what many say and think. It is an evil—but such a stupendous evil!—and so they discourage the hearts of the people. I once heard of a man who was thought to be dying. He roused up and asked one of the doctors in consultation beside his bedside if he could live. No, was the reply. But is there no chance, doctor? Yes; one in a hundred thousand. "Then I'll take that chance." The man recovered. Now if there is one chance in a hundred thousand for righteousness against iniquity, for light against darkness, for God's truth against Satan's lie, I for one will take that chance. Do you think the wise men of Greece and Rome would have allowed to Christianity, in its first feeble beginnings, one chance in a hundred thousand of planting its banner on the crumbling altars of that vast and splendid system of paganism? Would the slave autocrats of the South, when opposed by only a feeble and despised remnant, have allowed that there was more than one chance in a hundred thousand that slavery could be overturned? That is the way the saloon talks. That is the way Masonry talks. We are too big, too strong, too powerful to be overthrown. But slavery has sunk like the millstone which the mighty angel cast into the sea; the saloon is going—and the great secret empire has got to go.

But while I have been speaking particularly of and to women, I want it understood that in reform work I believe man and woman should stand shoulder to shoulder together, and so I cannot close without making my appeal general to both. God is calling you, with a high and holy calling, into the great moral battle-field of the ages.

Two hundred and seventy years ago a band of Pilgrims landed on the bleak, rock-bound shores of New England. The world would say the chances were all against them. They knew better. They had learned, as Faber so boldly and grandly puts it, to "dare to lose with God." Has not their faith been more than justified? You, young men and young women before me, who must carry on the warfare when we who are older have passed forever beyond its noise and strife, I care not whether you are descended by genealogical lines from that brave band who came over in the Mayflower or not; but if the same spirit lives in you that lived in them, you are their true sons and daughters. Stand for God in this conflict with Baal, and when the world says you are engaged in a losing battle, remember who the prince of this world is, and that he is a liar from the beginning. Remember that the one little feeble chance in a hundred thousand is the one God always takes; he can afford to let the devil have the rest, the ninety-nine thousand, nine hundred and ninety-nine, and you can afford to, for "Behind the dim unknown standeth God within the shadow keeping watch above his own." Do as Gideon did, as Deborah, and Paul, and Luther—as all noble and sainted souls have done who now stand palm-crowned and victorious on the heighths of eternity, and take the one chance in a hundred thousand with God; live for it, pray for it, work for it, die for it if need be—for that is always the main chance; that is always the one chance—the chance that you take with God—and you'll win every time.

REMINISCENCES OF THURLOW WEED

I did not personally know William Morgan, who was more than two months writing his book in a house adjoining my residence in Rochester, N. Y. When applied to by Mr. Dyer—my next-door neighbor, where Morgan boarded—to print the book, purporting to disclose the secrets of Masonry, I declined to do so, believing that a man who had taken an oath to keep a secret had no right to disclose it. Although not a Freemason, I had favorable opinions of an institution to which Washington, Franklin and Lafayette belonged.

On my refusal to print the book Morgan removed to Batavia, where he made the acquaintance of David C. Miller, editor of the Advocate, also a Mason, who became his publisher. I pass briefly over a series of facts which were judicially established, embracing the arrest of Morgan, his conveyance to and confinement in the county jail at Canandaigua, from which he was released and conveyed by night, in close carriages, through Rochester, Clarkson, and along the Ridge road to Fort Niagara, in the magazine of which he was confined.

While thus confined, a Knight Templar Encampment was installed at Lewiston; when at supper, the zeal and enthusiasm of the Templars having been aroused by the speeches and the wine, Col. Wm. King, of Lockport, invited four men (Whitney, Howard, Chubbuck and Garside) from the seats at the banqueting table into an adjoining room, where he informed them that he had an order from the Grand Master, DeWitt Clinton, the execution of which required their assistance.

This party was then driven to Niagara, reaching the fort a little before 12 o'clock. Upon entering the magazine, Col. King informed Morgan that his friends had completed their arrangements for his removal to, and residence upon, a farm in Canada. Morgan walked with them to the wharf, where a boat was held in readiness for them by Elisha Adams, an invalid soldier, into which the party passed and rowed away, Adams remaining to warn the boat off by signal, if on its return any alarm had been given. It was nearly 2 o'clock in the morning when the boat returned, having, as Adams expressed it, lost one man, only five of the six being on board when the boat returned.

When the boat reached the point where the Niagara river empties into Lake Ontario, a rope being wound around Morgan's body, to either end of which a sinker was attached, he was thrown overboard.

It is due to the memory of Gov. Clinton to say that Col. King had no such order, and no authority to make use of his name. It is proper also to add that none of these men survives. John Whitney, of Rochester, whom I knew so well, related all the circumstances connected with the last act of this tragedy to me, at Albany, in 1831, in the presence of Simeon B. Jewett, of Clarkson, and Samuel Barton, of Lewiston.—Thurlow Weed, in the N. Y. Herald, August 6, 1875; reprinted in Newman's "America" (1881), pages 436, 437.

THE LODGE IN THE PULPIT.

A correspondent of the New York Christian Advocate (M. E.) recently wrote as follows to that paper:

A Methodist minister recently announced that he would preach a sermon on the following Sunday evening at his church, especially to members of the "Iron Hall," a secret society quite fashionable in his city. The fact is announced through the papers, and all the members of the order are requested to be present. Is this proper; and if not, what ought to be done about it?

The reply of the editor, which we append, is well worth a perusal. The "Iron Hall" has been under a cloud for some months, its affairs having been made public through the press as well as the subject of investigation by a court of justice:

"The Iron Hall is a secret business concern making extraordinary promises. Whether in the end those who are connected with it will rejoice or mourn is as yet uncertain; but if it were as solid as the everlasting hills, to announce it in this way, and to preach a sermon to the members on Sunday, is an outrage upon common sense, an act of gross impropriety on the part of the minister. What are presiding elders for if they allow such things to go on without rebuking the ministers who do it? Actions are frequently performed in connection with Christian services which make it wonderful that the church receives any respect in the communities where they are allowed. Crowds drawn by such announcements are at the expense of the stability and reputation of the denomination. Whatever is enforced upon the attention of a congregation that is not open as the day, and of a nature that all Christians can be expected to sympathize with, is an imposition. As it is unpleasant to criticise adversely, having given our opinion of such proceedings, we will now put the matter in the best light for the brother who has done it, by assuming that perhaps he thought, if he could get the members of the order out, they would come on other occasions to hear the Gospel. This is a delusion; it has not been found that the members of such orders are added to the church as a result. The contrary effect is likely to be produced by a weakening of the sacredness of the associations of the sanctuary, and an elevation in their eyes of the order. Nothing which is not in harmony with reverence for God's house and for his Word can ever permanently help his cause."

NEW ENGLAND LETTER.

Is the New England spirit dying out?—The saloon and the lodges—What ails the churches?—An interesting testimony—Other testimonies—Hopeful signs for the future.

"No man who makes Christ as a dozen and the world as thirteen, has the spirit of a true New England man." This quaint saying of old Col. Higginson, if made the touchstone to-day, would cause a mighty sifting among those who are proud of their New England lineage, yet are but degenerate sons of the ancient worthies whose names they bear. The "true New England man" abhorred priestcraft and kingcraft and lodgecraft; his soul pointed straight to duty, as the magnet to the North Star, counting all personal, selfish interests, weighed against principle, as less than the small dust of the balance. How much of this spirit still survives among her towns and villages and on her rocky hillsides? Our answer to this question is apt to depend on our point of view. The battle may seem lost or gained to the spectator, according to the standing ground from which he views it. After reading our rum and Rome-ruled daily press, or hearing some political orator spout about the tariff as if nothing belonged to the realm of legitimate politics except mere material interests, one may be pardoned for taking a pessimistic view of things and wondering if there is any of this spirit left at all. But I defy any one with a spark of it in his own soul to go into such a convention as our recent annual meeting in Boston, and not feel, as he listened to those earnest, ringing testimonies, that here was the genuine, unsmothered fire that burned through all shams and sophistries and falsehoods, with intensity of devotion to principle, and loyalty to truth.

"In my native State," said Rev. S. McNaugher, "the lodge brings a man into drinking habits as nothing else can, and the secret clubs consume more liquor than the saloons. Young men say to me, 'What shall we join? We have got to join something.' I answer, join yourself in a covenant with the living God, and you will have no need of the lodge."

Rev. Geo. W. Coon's testimony flashes a wonderful light on Dr. L. T. Townsend's famous charge of venality and corruption in the Methodist church, which made such a stir some time ago. "Four leading men in my church have said to me, 'If we have got to give up either the church or the lodge, we had rather give up the church.' I have seen my church deserted time and again because the members have been in the lodge-room. Young men join these orders to get preferment. In the Methodist Conference I have twice been given the Masonic grip by a presiding elder, and have no doubt that had I given it back I should have secured a more desirable appointment."

Pres. J. A. Conant caused "a gentle smile" to ripple through the audience by relating an incident which explained to him the assertion of a Masonic acquaintance, that "Morgan's book was a lie." "I was sitting in my chair when some dispute arose between my little boy and a neighbor's son, who were playing outside. The former soon came running in with the story of his grievance, and immediately after him his little companion, who shouted out, 'Mr. Conant, Georgy has told a lie. He promised not to tell.' I understood then," added Mr. Conant, "how 'Morgan's book is a lie.'"

Said Bro. Howes, a seceding Mason, "Masonry is wrong. There is no Christianity in it. The obligation conflicts with a man's duty to God and his country."

Remarked Rev. W. H. Burton, "I have seen hundreds of young, devoted, consecrated Christian men who were led to join the lodge. They left the class-room, the prayer-room and became pillars of salt. It has been the blight and curse of the Methodist church in Boston, and of every other church. Christians who are Masons associate with men in the lodge whom they would be ashamed to bring into their homes. Fifty years ago the Methodist church was alive. Now it has a dead pew and a pulpit which caters to every popular evil." He closed with a ringing appeal to the young men who had been deluded into joining the lodge to quit at once such unholy alliance, and to the churches to get out of the lodges if they wished to regain their old-time power.

One of the most interesting testimonies was that given by Deacon T. P. Daniels, which was substantially as follows:

"Two weeks ago, in our Bible-class, the question was brought up whether a man could remain loyal to Christ and stay in the lodge. It was argued that there were good men who favored the system. They go into the lodges because they want to get helped in their business, or when they are sick or in misfortune. They should be shown a better way. Get it into people's minds that Jesus has promised to be with those who trust in him in trouble and they won't want to go to the lodges for help.

"I can see but two reasons why good men should stay in the lodge: 1. They have not received the light. 2. They have not the moral courage to come out.

"It takes all the courage a man has to come out from the Masonic lodge. But if they will get hold of God then they will get the courage.

"Twenty-eight years ago I was working in a shop where they were almost all Masons. Persuaded by my companions, I took three degrees. I was there eight years. Under stress of conviction for sin, I found there were some things I could not do and be a Christian; and one was to keep up my connection with Masonry. But the devil came to me and said, 'If you come out you will lose all you put in.' I continued in the lodge three years, paying my dues, but never going. I attended a consecration meeting, where all who were willing to give up everything for Christ were asked to come forward. I started up and was halfway down the aisle when I thought of Freemasonry. I dropped into my seat, and then got up and went out of the meeting. I consulted my Masonic friends, but they had no help for me. I finally wrote a letter to the lodge stating that I could not conscientiously remain therein any longer. The Secretary answered that I might receive a demit, and so get rid of paying dues, but I would not cease thereby to be bound by my Masonic connections, for 'once a Mason always a Mason.' I wrote back that to get rid of paying my dues was not my reason for withdrawing, but because I could not be both a Christian and a Mason, or continue a member of an organization that had no room for my Saviour. To this letter I received no reply."

Deacon Daniels ended by giving this emphatic testimony, that while going through this long and heart-rending struggle to escape from the lodge-fetters and become a free man in Christ Jesus, he would have given almost anything had he never entered the Masonic lodge.

Bro. E. T. McIntire, who made Masonry his religion for thirty-five years, gave his usual brave and convincing testimony, vouching from personal experience to the truth of all which had been said. One statement which he made should be commended to the attention of those good people who are sure that "Masonry can't be such a bad thing because so many ministers belong to it," viz., that when a minister was going to join the Masonic fraternity, it was noised about among the rough element, who always crowded the lodge on that particular evening for the fun of seeing him put through.

H. L. Hastings spoke a few words in his own peculiar and weighty yet incisive manner: "There is no patent on the Gospel. There should be none on the truth. I am glad of light either from the North, South, East or West. If we walk in the darkness there will be an immense amount of scurrying when the light shines in upon us."

Dr. A. J. Gordon spoke in terms of warm appreciation of the interesting and instructive "chart-talk" given by Secretary Stoddard. He emphasized the necessity of separation, and, among other noble sentiments, uttered the following, which it is to be wished might be published so widely as to keep every Christian young man from joining the lodge: "I don't want to put my free will—man's crown-jewel—into the keeping of any organization. I want to keep it for God."

Bros. Kimball and French, from New Hampshire, brought us cheering news from the Granite State.

One very hopeful sign for our reform is the number of young men who are coming forward, especially young ministers.

The fire is spreading. The spirit that will not for any bribe Satan can offer "make Christ as a dozen and the world as thirteen," is far from dying out among the hills and valleys of New England.

ELIZABETH E. FLAGG.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10, 1894.

The excitement over Hawaii took a fresh start in Washington this week, owing to the arrival of the news of Minister Willis having demanded that the provisional government should restore the queen, and having met with a refusal. No official information has been given out, but the Cabinet held a long session yesterday afternoon, at which the news was discussed, and it is expected that President Cleveland will in a few days send another message to Congress, accompanied by the dispatches received by Minister Willis. Ever since Congress met it has been the policy of the cool-headed and conservative men to prevent the hot-headed men in both the Senate and the House rushing into a premature discussion of this matter, but their task is daily growing more difficult. The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations is diligently investigating the subject, among the witnesses examined this week being several naval officers who were in Hawaii when the provisional government was formed, and Hon. James H. Blount, upon whose report the administration based its policy of restoring the queen. That the situation has become more complicated is evident, but the belief that a satisfactory settlement of it will eventually be reached still exists.

There is a feeling of relief now that it has been definitely settled that the new tariff bill will be voted upon in the House of Representatives on the 29th of January, and the relief would be much greater if it could be known when the Senate would vote upon it.

Secretary Carlisle has been in consultation this week with the Senate Finance Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee, for the purpose of devising some immediate legislation for the relief of the Treasury. Authority to sell bonds, or to issue interest-bearing certificates, is what the Secretary wants.

Dr. Sunderland told a little story at a praise-service held to aid the charity fund, that carried a lesson on the art of discriminating in the giving of charity that is just as applicable elsewhere as in Washington. Not long ago a gentleman, with the best intentions, published a letter in a local paper, suggesting that the doors of the churches be thrown open and the shelterless poor be allowed to sleep in the churches. Dr. Sunderland wrote to the gentleman suggesting that he make an experiment by allowing one room in his own house to be used as sleeping-quarters by those who had no homes. He did so, and promptly wrote to Dr. Sunderland giving the results of the experiment. One morning he discovered that one of his lodgers had risen early and milked the cow before departing, and another that his hen-roost had been raided. That was enough for him. It convinced him that making tramp lodging houses of either churches or dwelling houses was not a feasible charity.

This is being observed as a week of prayer in many of our churches, as a sort of preparation for the series of Moody and Sankey meetings, which are to open early in February, and to be continued for four weeks. The topics discussed were: Monday, "Humiliation and Thanksgiving;" Tuesday, "The Church Universal;" Wednesday, "Nations and Their Rulers," and those yet to be discussed are Thursday, "Foreign Missions;" Friday, "Home Missions," and Saturday, "The Family." A large committee, composed of representatives from all the evangelical churches, is hard at work preparing for the meetings, and, notwithstanding the financial stringency, they have succeeded remarkably well in raising the money to meet the large expenses necessarily attendant upon such a series of meetings, and it is expected that all the money needed will be practically assured before the first meeting is held.

Representative Elijah Morse, of Massachusetts, who is always ready to speak for temperance, delivered an address at the last monthly meeting of the Temperance Society of the Fifteenth Street Presbyterian church. After dwelling on the evils of the liquor traffic, which he said he thought was responsible for ninety-nine one-hundredths of the crime and pauperism of the world, he touched upon ignorant suffrage, which he considered one of the dangers menacing this government. As an illustration of this, he said that life and property were safer, justice was more sure and swift, and taxation was less in the city of St. Petersburg than in the city of New York. He told his hearers, nine-tenths of whom were colored people, that a great mistake had been made in the days of reconstruction by the unconditional bestowal of suffrage on the freedmen, and that if an educational qualification had been required as a requisite to suffrage much that is unpleasant would have been avoided, and the colored people would have had a greater incentive towards accumulating property and absorbing education. *

REFORM NEWS.

THE COMING PENNSYLVANIA CONVENTION.

ALLENTOWN, Penn., Jan. 11, 1894.

DEAR CYNOSURE:—I am anxious that the purposed convention to be held in the city of Philadelphia shall be blessed of God in the enlightenment of many souls now in darkness. From what I see, hear and feel, I am led to believe this is to be one of the most telling conventions we have ever held. I have but commenced to work it up. The interest appears to be more than usual. We are favored in our place of meeting. Rev. Wm. J. B. Edgar, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church, Philadelphia, writes: "Our session acquiesce in my willingness to have the next convention of the N. C. A. in our church?"

Bro. Edgar promises the address of welcome. His church is large and centrally located, at the corner of Broad and Lombard streets.

Bro. Samuel Collins, State President, writes from his home in Allegheny, Pa.: "The time—the last week in February—will suit me as well as any." "I will (D. V.) expect to be present." I have reported the engagement of the First church to him. The official call will soon be issued, if it has not been already.

Good speakers and good music will not be lacking. If all is sanctified by the presence and power of the Holy Spirit, great results will follow. That this may be the case let every friend in the State remember this gathering in prayer to God. He will give victory if we have faith and act in harmony with his will. I can now but refer to a few of the good letters I am receiving from friends. Our aged ex-State President writes from his home in Montdale, Lackawanna county: "With regard to my attendance of the pending meeting in Philadelphia, I can only hope, peradventure, I may be there. Hope in God that he may give me the needed strength." "Think our church (Baptist) will appoint delegates."

Bro. J. C. Young, Custer City, Pa., writes: "At our annual conference (United Brethren), Rev. N. R. Luce, of Union City, and Rev. T. S. Bennett, of Eldred, were elected delegates to the Pennsylvania anti-secret convention. A strong resolution endorsing the N. C. A. work was passed by this conference."

Rev. S. G. Reading, pastor of the Erie Avenue Baptist church, Williamsport, Pa., writes: "I should like very much so attend the convention in Philadelphia, and will if I can arrange to do so." This brother will speak, if, as he hopes, he can attend. Of his belief and work Bro. Reading writes: "The Christian conscience of this country and the world needs to be aroused in reference to the perils of the lodge. I find many ministers who begin to realize something of the evils of the lodge, but they are too cowardly to speak out. I am doing what I can. Last week I mailed literature to thirty pastors in this city and vicinity."

When calling on Dr. Jamison, of Guinston U. P. church, York Co., he expressed a wish to meet with us. This church will doubtless appoint delegates. I dropped into the Reading mission night before last and found Bro. Thos. J. J. Wright conducting meetings as usual. I must preach of course. The meetings are largely attended, and many appeared to be under conviction. Bro. Wright consents to let me put his name upon the program. With Sister Wright and several delegates from the mission we expect him to be on hand when the roll is called. We look for delegates from all friendly churches in this section. Every friend reading this, who is within reach of Philadelphia, is hereby requested to ask any church with which he or she is connected, or that they know to be friendly, to appoint delegates. It is the expectation to entertain friends coming from a distance.

I hope to have a grand program arranged in two or three weeks, and shall then want a list of the delegates, that their entertainment be provided. Don't put this matter off, but let each one begin to talk up the convention. Will brethren Parker, of Jersey City, Michael, of Vineland, and Schenck, of May's Landing, New Jersey, consider themselves a committee to see that the attendance from their State is large? You are cordially invited to come over and help us. We shall need a little money immediately.

There are about five hundred ministers of the Gospel in Philadelphia and vicinity who should receive the Cynosure, that they may know what is purposed in their city. I am promised lists of five hundred or more Christians belonging to Christian Endeavor, Epworth League, Y. M. C. A.,

(Continued on 9th page.)

CORRESPONDENCE.

AN OPEN LETTER FOR MASONS.

[A continuation of "Both Sides Presented" in the Cynosure of Dec. 28, 1893.]

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Jan. 8, 1894.

Editor Quakertown "Times,"

DEAR SIR:—I am in receipt of your paper, issue of January 5. Under the heading of "Both Sides Heard," you give an article which appeared in the Coopersburg Sentinel and part of my reply. On the same page I notice another article headed: "The Masonic Banquet." You report a banquet of Quakertown Lodge No. 512, F. and A. M., held in the Bush House banquet hall. You say: "The ladies wore handsome dresses, and many of the gentlemen full-dress suits." A menu was served of "Blue Point oysters on ice, deviled crabs," etc.

Among those whom you report as making speeches, I find the name of Calvin F. Heckler. As C. F. Heckler is advertised as the sole manager of the Times, I suppose this one to be yourself.

Please look again over the printed copy of my reply to the editor of the Coopersburg Sentinel, from which you copied. I remind him, as you will see at a glance, of six causes given at my lecture why secret "organizations were not well-founded and directed." You give but five in what you claim was my reply. "Cause" No. 4 is entirely omitted, and the following "causes" are misnumbered. I believe I understand why you failed to give my reply and thus mutilated my article; but that I make no mistake, please be kind enough to answer the few questions I ask.

The "cause" you so carefully omitted reads: "The ceremonies are often degrading." Under this heading, I give, as an instance, an account of the preparation of the candidate to take the Entered Apprentice degree in Masonry. You either intentionally omitted this, or you did not.

There must be some cause for mutilating a clearly printed letter, by one professing to give "Both Sides." It is not to be presumed that a sober man should unintentionally omit an entire paragraph and change the numbering of others without cause. That I may not misjudge, will you kindly publish the omitted "cause" in your paper as I gave it, and call attention to its omission from the reply you professed to publish? Should you fail in this, those who know "both sides" in your town will naturally conclude you dare not. What can be fairer than to ask a correct statement of facts? Should you neglect this matter, will not your fellow-townsmen think the reason of such neglect is because you have taken an oath declaring that you will not reveal any of the secrets of Masonry, under no less penalty than having your throat cut, your tongue torn out, etc.? [See Entered Apprentice oath.] Should you not show to the contrary, they will feel that the only reason why you should publish all the reply excepting the way that every Mason is prepared to enter the lodge is because you have not learned the folly of trying to conceal what it is impossible for you to conceal. If I am rightly informed, you attended the lectures which I recently gave in your town, and so, of course, you are aware that the so-called secrets of Masonry are made public. Is not such the fact? I am sorry, my friend, that you should belong to an institution which would seem to require you to mutilate an article in trying to hide its folly. One or two more questions may throw light on the matter before us.

Was this Masonic banquet held in the Bush House with a saloon and lodge over the stable attachment? I know of but one Bush House in Quakertown. Was it before or after you had partaken of the "deviled crabs" at the Masonic banquet that you printed the Sentinel article and part of my reply in your paper? If after the banquet, I will overlook your error, if you will now publish the account of the preparation of the Entered Apprentice as I request. I should be greatly rejoiced to hear that you attend prayer-meetings instead of Masonic banquets; that your life is given to Christ in the enlightenment of those around you, instead of vanities so soon fading from view. That God may bless you and lead you to himself is my prayer.

W. B. STODDARD.

Address, 215 4½ St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

CHARITY—IN CHURCH AND LODGE.

RICHBURG, N. Y., Dec. 30, 1893.

EDITOR CYNOSURE:—I want to ask space for a few thoughts suggested by reading in the last Cynosure the comparisons of the church and the lodge in the matter of charities, by Bros. Gault, Seward, Van Cleve, and yourself. The strongest argument of the lodge seems to be, that they take better care of their poor and sick members than the church. On the other hand, one of our strongest arguments against them is that only one-third of their receipts are expended for charity, the rest being used for expenses, regalia, lodge rent, etc. Now the thought that was suggested, more especially by W. B. Seward's reply to Bro. Gault, was this: Why is not the church more effectual in the lines indicated by the brother? What becomes of the money collected in the churches? What proportion of it goes for relief of the poor and sick members? Are such members of the church as well-cared for as members of the lodge? We all, with Bro. Van Cleve, acknowledge they ought to be; but are they? And if not, why not? If we have a weak spot, the best way for us is not to ignore it, and close our eyes to it, but to acknowledge it and make the necessary change.

Of course, we understand that lodge charities, so-called, are only a species of insurance, under pretence of benevolence, and that their real motive is only a little broader form of selfishness. But we, as Christians, acknowledge that we ought to cover the same ground from a higher motive. Now, why don't we? In answering this, we would all agree that the great prime reason is the lack of enough of the Spirit of Christ in us, which is the spirit of self-sacrifice, and which, if we had it, would make us use less of what God gives us on ourselves and distribute more of it to the needy. We give too little according to our ability of both service and money. But what is more especially on my mind now, is what becomes of what we do give in the church? Is it used in the best way to glorify God and build up his kingdom? Suppose a lodge man should turn our argument against them on us, and ask what proportion of the money collected by the church is used for charitable purposes to the sick and poor. Could we answer one-third, or even one-tenth? I am afraid not. Where, then, does it go? Partly to build and support our fine church-houses, our expensive organs, and paid choirs, but mostly to our ministers. Is this altogether right? Did they do it in early apostolic times? History says that for the first two or three hundred years they had no church-houses, but were contented to meet in upper rooms of private houses, or even in the open air, and had no expensive instruments of music, no paid choirs, and no paid ministry. On the contrary, Peter says, in 1 Pet. 5: 1, 2: "The elders which are among you I exhort, who am also an elder, feed the flock of God which is among you, taking the oversight thereof, not by constraint, but willingly; not for filthy lucre, but of a ready mind. Neither as lord over God's heritage, but being ensamples to the flock." Paul says, Acts 20: 34, 35: "Yea, ye yourselves know that these hands have ministered unto my necessities and to them that are with me. I have showed you all things, how that so laboring ye ought to support the weak." This, then, is how the weak are to be supported: first, by the example of the elder, not with money collected from the church, but secured by his own labor, the flock following the example of their leader. Peter tells the elders to be examples, and Paul shows himself as an example. Now, suppose our ministers or elders were to set us such an example of self-support and self-sacrifice, to some extent at least, so that more of the money collected in the church could be used for the poor and sick, even if their sermons were not quite such finished specimens of composition and oratory; does any one believe that the cause of God would suffer thereby? Would not the mouths of lodgemen be stopped, our poor be cared for, and our reproach removed, our church built up, spiritually if not popularly? We naturally look to our elders for examples, and we see them willing to take all we can spare and use it for themselves; sometimes even demanding more than we can give. Is it any wonder that some grow discouraged and join the lodge for their own protection and that of their families? I know the claim is made that it takes all the time and energies of the pastor to do his work properly; but is it really so? I admit that under existing conditions it is too much so, but conditions need to be changed. At present almost all the work of the church is thrown on the pastor, but not so in apostolic times. In 1 Cor. 12, the whole church is represented as a body, the different members of which have each their own work to perform, and every one necessary one to the other; and, for the edifying of the body, Christ is represented as the head of this body and not a pastor. In the 14th chapter is shown how they worked in meetings; but how different now! The pastor is expected to do all the preaching, lead the meetings, do the visiting, etc., etc., while the so-called laymen look on. I see no indications that they had pastors in apostolic times, as we understand the pastor's office now. The elders, which Titus was sent to ordain, were evidently the older, more experienced members of the churches where he was sent, and, as in the church at Ephesus, Acts 20: 17, are spoken of in the plural, indicating a number in the one church not in any sense a paid ministry. Now, if what are called the lay-members would do their part of the spiritual work, as the members of a body do, what are called the pastors, or elders, would be relieved to do something of secular work to supply their own wants and the collections, and could visit the poor and sick; but, even under present conditions, I am satisfied that the average pastor could spend much time that is spent listlessly and uselessly, or in giving the finishing touches to his sermons, in some employment for the partial support of himself without damage to the cause.

A business man realizes the importance of an industrious use of all his time to insure success in business; but, according to my observation of a brother of mine, who is pastor of a church, he spends not over half his time industriously in the service of his church and yet expects and gets full support. If the early Methodist and the evangelist of to-day can preach two or three times on Sunday and every night of the week, besides doing much traveling or visiting, why should it take all the time to do the ordinary work of a pastor? Now, as it is a fact that the people follow their leaders, and "like priests, like people," it follows that the responsibility for conditions as they are rest largely on our ministers. If they set the example, as Paul did, of self-support and support of the weak by his own hand, the flock would follow, and we would have no need of lodges for this purpose, as Bro. Seward says.

WILLIAM KNIGHT.

THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE offers to either an old or new subscriber, until the 1st of February, 1894, any book for sale by the National Christian Association at 25 per cent discount from retail rates, when ordered in connection with a yearly or six months' subscription to the Cynosure.

A special offer is made of the Christian Cynosure, one year, and "BETWEEN TWO OPINIONS," by Miss E. E. Flagg, 389 pages, cloth, price $1. The two, worth $2.50, will be sent for only $1.75 and four 2-cent stamps to pay postage on the book.

CYNOSURE OFFER!

Any of the Books sold by the N. C. A. in this paper, ordered, with subscription to the Cynosure, at one-fourth off from list price, sent postpaid.

The New Volume of Pen and Pencil Series.

WELSH PICTURES Drawn with Pen and Pencil.

By D. Lewis Jones, Morris Jones, Edward Ffoulkes, H. Elvet Lewis, D. Tyssil Evans, D. Davies and O. M. Edwards. Edited by Richard Lovett, M. A. With many Illustrations. Imperial 8vo, cloth, gilt edges, boxed..... 3.20

"'Welsh pictures' is the work of ten Welshmen, among whom illustrating the beauties of Wales has been parcelled out according to the special familiarity of each. The result is a pleasing volume."—London Times.

THE EARTHLY FOOTPRINTS OF OUR RISEN LORD, Illumined.

A continuous narrative of the Four Gospels according to The Revised Version, with introduction by Rev. John Hall, D. D. Illustrated by 113 full-page half tone re-productions. Small 4to, cloth.....net 1.50
Gilt edge, with silk book mark, boxed.....net 2.00
Full morocco, flexible, gilt edges, round corners, boxed.....net 3.75

Pictures reflecting the best in sacred art from Raphael to the present day are scattered profusely through the book.

"To many the life of the Christ will be a new book in this form. Though beyond the introduction it contains no word except what is found in the four Gospels, yet when read continuously, without the breaks necessarily made by the different stories of the four evangelists, the narrative takes on new force and lifelikeness. The very fact that this is not, our usual method of reading the Word will give it a new reality."—Golden Rule.

A GIFT OF LOVE, and Loving Greetings for 365 Days.

By Rose Porter. Long 18mo. Paper cloth..... 1.00
White cloth, silver top, in box..... 1.25
Decorated silk, silver top, in box..... 1.75

"'A Gift of Love' is the work of a loving heart. It contains a text of Scripture for every day of the year with the addition of an appropriate thought in poetry of prose all bearing on the theme of love. The work must have called for a great amount of patient toil. But it has not been spent in vain, for the volume will prove a blessing to many a soul. To use it day by day for a year thoughtfully and prayerfully, must result in a rich growth in love on the part of the user. The author is well known and esteemed for her previous works' sake."—The N. Y. Observer.

THE CHRISTIAN LIFE SERIES.

By Rev. F. B. Meyer, containing CHRISTIAN LIVING, THE PRESENT TENSES OF THE BLESSED LIFE, AND THE SHEPHERD PSALM. 3 vols. in box. 18mo, cloth..... 1.50
White vellum cloth, silver top, in box..... 1.75

D. L. Moody says: "Few books of recent years are better adapted to instruct and help Christians than those of this author. He is a man mighty in the scriptures, saturated with Bible facts and truths."

PRAYERS FROM THE POETS.

By Martha Harger. 16mo, two colored cloth, gilt top..... 1.00
Leatherette, boxed..... 1.50

"This volume is admirable. The Prayer are better suited to some of our moods than formal Litanies and are selected from excellent sources. The book will be a dear treasure to many hearts."—The Churchman.

KIN-DA-SHON'S WIFE.

An Alaskan Story. By Mrs. Eugene S. Willard, Home Missionary of the Presbyterian Board of America to Alaska. With illustrations. 8vo, cloth..... 1.50

"Being a close observer and in deep sympathy with the native population in their struggles towards a Christian Civilization, Mrs. Willard has gained a more intelligent knowledge of their character, of their needs and hindrances, than perhaps any other person."—Dr. Sheldon Jackson.

HEROES OF THE GOODWIN SANDS.

By Rev. Thomas Stanley Treanor. With many illustrations. 8vo, Cloth..... 1.50

"It is a book of most engrossing interest, and as stimulating as it is readable."—The Record.
"The deeds of daring are thrilling in the extreme. Suitable for the public library or for the home."—Times.

THE GREAT LONDON DAILIES.

By H. W. Massingham. Profusely illustrated. 12mo, cloth..... 1.00

Very welcome to all who like to look behind the scenes and see how the great London dailies are worked.

New Editions.

The Prayer Meeting and Its Improvement.

By Rev. LEWIS O. THOMPSON. Eighth edition, cloth, $1.25.

"Most heartily do we wish this work a wide circulation, both among pastors and people, and we hope it may do much toward the lifting of the prayer-meeting into that higher place which it ought to hold among the grand instrumentalities in the kingdom of the Master'—Congregationalist.

"We do not remember to have met with a work so suggestive, and we heartily commend it to both pastors and private members."—Baptist Weekly.

The Crisis of Missions. By Rev. ARTHUR T. PIERSON, D. D. Cloth, $1.25; paper, 35c.

"We do not hesitate to say that this book is the most purposeful, earnest, and intelligent review of the mission work and field which has ever been given to the church."—Christian Statesman.

The Christian's Secret of a Happy Life.

By HANNAH WHITALL SMITH. One hundredth thousand. Issued in fourteen styles, from 50c. to $2.50. Send for circular.

"To commend this work would seem almost superfluous; and yet to young Christians who may not know it, we cannot refrain from saying, Buy this book, and keep it with your Bible for constant study, until you have thoroughly mastered, in your own experience, the 'secret' of which it tells. It will transform the dark days of your life, as it has transformed those of thousands before you, into days of heavenly light."—New York Evangelist.

The Topical Text Book. Fourth edition.

16 mo., cloth, 60c.

This little volume is a worker's most useful tool. It collates all Scripture passages under their topical headings, and for this reason proves far more helpful in studying a subject than the best concordance.

"I find one of the very best ways to study the Scripture is to study topically."—D. L. Moody.

Stalker's Life of Christ. Twelfth edition.

Stalker's Life of St. Paul. Fourth edition.

12 mo., cloth, each, 60c.

These works by Professor James Stalker, M. A., are unique in their compact putting of these lives into such condensed form without injurious brevity. They are being taken up as text books by Biblical classes in all parts of the country, thus proving their practical value.

Grace and Truth under Twelve Different Aspects. By W. P. MACKAY, M. A. Paper, 35c.; cloth, 75c. Two hundred and fiftieth thousand.

This remarkable sale can only be attributed to the very practical character of this work as a guide to the inquirer and a work of helpful instruction for the immature Christian. It is of this volume Mr. D. L. Moody said: "I know of no work in print better adapted to place in the hands of the inquirer."

Notes and Suggestions for Bible Readings.

By S. R. BRIGGS. Sixtieth thousand. 8 vo, cloth. $1.00; flexible, 75c.

Edition after edition of this work has been called for until it would seem the demand must be supplied. The sales however, increase rather than otherwise.

Feathers for Arrows. By Rev. C. H. SPURGEON. 16 mo., cloth, $1.00.

Few preachers have made such effective use of pointed illustrations as the well known pastor of the great Metropolitan Tabernacle. Here he has given us a large cluster of his best with liberty to enjoy and employ.

Revell's Record for Church Treasurers.

Size No. 1, $1.50; Size No. 2, $2.00.

Popular because practical—valuable because time saving—the only record for weekly envelope system that reduces the treasurer's work to the minimum.

For sale by the

National Christian Association;

221 West Madison Street, Chicago, Ill.

LODGE NOTES.

(From secret society papers.)

The next convention of the American Federation of Labor will meet at Denver, Colo.

The grippe is again making itself felt in this country, and fraternal societies will experience an increased death rate in consequence.

Rev. Chas. F. Deems, who died the other day (pastor of the Church of the Strangers in New York City), was a F. and A. Mason and a Prelate of Palestine Commandery of Knights Templar.

Illinois Grand Lodge law forbids a lodge or any member thereof to publish in any newspaper, magazine, pamphlet or circular, or otherwise make public the details or result of any trial therein. Especially, says the Voice of Masonry, "cases of expulsion should not be published."

Mrs. Harlem—"So the Arabians go to lodges and come home as late as you do?"

Mr. Harlem—"I don't know anything about it."

Mrs. Harlem—"Well, there is an item in this paper to the effect that when an Arab enters his home, he removes his shoes and keeps on his hat. That is the way you come home late from the lodge."

After all that has been said and written concerning bond investment swindles, it would seem as if they would be few in number and their "investors" fewer. An investigation by the United States government shows upward of one hundred and fifty concerns of this sort in operation, to the great profit of the managers and a correspondingly small return to the share-holders. All of which proves that time and experience teach to some but little, and that the crop of gullibles will be as large in the future as in the past.

Do not put off taking a medicine. Numerous little ailments, if neglected, will soon break up the system. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla now, to expel disease, give strength and appetite.

Hood's Pills cure constipation by restoring the peristaltic action of the alimentary canal.

"Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething" softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain and cures wind colic. 25c a bottle.

A Journey to Palestine.

BY REV. B. CARRADINE, D. D.

—oo—

Revised and Illustrated Edition. 500 pages. Eighteen beautiful half-tone Engravings, including portrait of Author. Cloth postpaid, $1.50. Address

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

A BOOKLET.

107 pages, 5x7 inches.

Paper Cover, Postpaid, 15 Cents

—o:o—

The following addresses form part of the contents of this booklet:

THE MARTYR'S OWN MONUMENT, by Rev. J. E. Roy, D. D., Western Secretary of American Missionary Association.

CHRISTIAN POLITICS, by Rev. J. Blanchard, late President Wheaton College, and Editor Christian Cynosure.

THE MYSTERIOUS MACHINE: was it Lawnmower, Town-pump, Balloon, Wheel-barrow,—or what? by Prof. E. D. Bailey of the Civil Service Dept. U. S. Government.

This booklet includes other interesting matter connected with the unveiling of the Morgan monument at Batavia, N. Y. Address

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison St. Chicago.

YOU CAN'T STAND the big blundering, old-fashioned pill, probably. And there's no reason why you should. You can get better help, and more of it, with things that are easier to take and easier in their ways—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They're the smallest in size, and the pleasantest remedy, all the way through.

In every derangement of the liver, stomach, or bowels, these tiny Pellets will give you more good. They have a tonic or strengthening effect on the lining membranes of the intestines. This assists and increases the natural action of the bowels, and permanently cures Jaundice, Biliousness, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, and consequent stupor or drowsiness.

For breaking up attacks of Colds, Chills, Fevers, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, and kindred derangements resulting from severe exposure, nothing can equal them.

They're guaranteed to give satisfaction, in every case, or your money is returned. You pay only for the good you get. This is true only of Dr. Pierce's medicines.

What offer could be more business-like?

MY WIFE CANNOT SEE HOW YOU DO IT AND PAY FREIGHT.

$10.50 Buy the Oxford Improved SINGER Sewing Machine, with a complete set of attachments and guaranteed for 10 years. Shipped anywhere on 30 days' trial. No money required in advance. 75,000 now in use. World's Fair Medal awarded. Buy from factory, save dealers' and agents' profit. Write to-day for our LARGE FREE CATALOGUE.
Oxford Mfg. Co., 342 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

WHEATON COLLEGE,

WHEATON, ILL.

A School for Men and Women.

WINTER TERM OPENS TUESDAY JANUARY 2ND.

For Catalogue, address

CHAS. A BLANCHARD, Pres.

IF YOU

WANT WORK

that is pleasant and profitable, send us your address immediately. We teach men and women how to earn from $5 per day to $3,000 per year without having had previous experience, and furnish the employment at which they can make that amount. Capital unnecessary. A trial will cost you nothing. Write to-day and address,

E. C. ALLEN & CO.,
Box 1001. Augusta, Me.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained, and all Patent business conducted for Moderate Fees.

Our Office is Opposite U. S. Patent Office, and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A Pamphlet, "How to Obtain Patents," with names of actual clients in your State, county, or town, sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.
Opposite Patent Office, Washington, D. C.

PROPHECY:
A STUDY.

BY REV. S. F. PORTER,

A Study of Christ's Comings.

Paper Cover, 100 Pages.

Single copies, postpaid..... 25 cents.
Per 100 copies, postpaid..... $20.00.

For sale by the

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

The St. Louis Sermon

Are Secret Societies a Blessing or a Curse?

An Address by Rev. B. Carradine D. D., Pastor of the Centenary M. E. Church, St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 4, 1891.

W. McCoy writes: "That sermon ought to be in the hands of every preacher in this land, and every citizen's too."

A pamphlet of 20 pages and cover.

Sent postpaid 25 copies $1.00. Single copy 5 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

ANTI-SECRECY TRACTS.

The following numbers are in stock, and can be had at the wholesale price of 25 cents per pound:

1. National Christian Association.
1½. Testimony of Statesmen.
4. Freemasonry in the Family.
7. To the Boys who Hope to be Men.
8. Modern Heathenism.
9. Ministers at Rival Altars.
10. A Pastor's Confession.
15. Secrecy and Sin.
16. Selling Dead Horses.
17. History of Masonry.
19. Freemasonry a Christ-excluding Religion.
22. Extracts from Masonic Oaths and Penalties as Sworn to by the Grand Lodge of Rhode Island.
28. Dr. Nathaniel Colver on Masonry.
30. Masonic Oaths Null and Void.
37. Why a Christian should not be a Freemason (German).
38. Masonic Oaths and Penalties.
39. Should Freemasons be Admitted to Christian Fellowship?
41. Freemasonry a Religion.
45. Ought a Seceding Mason to Keep his Lodge Oath?

Families, Churches, Senates, Juries and Camps.

The above are the only tracts in stock in large quantities. There are a few of several other numbers. Remember that these are being retailed at wholesale prices—25 cents per pound. Keep a package of Anti-masonic tracts for use in letters.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

AGENTS AND LECTURERS.

NEW ENGLAND DEPARTMENT.—Rev. J. P. Stoddard, Agent, 218 Columbus Ave., Hotel Howland, Boston.

EASTERN DEPARTMENT.—W. B. Stoddard, Agent, No. 215, 4½ St., Washington, D. C.

NORTHERN DEPARTMENT.—Rev. W. Fenton, 74 South Robert St., St. Paul, Minn.

PACIFIC DEPARTMENT.—Rev. P. B. Williams, Philomath, Oregon.

COLLEGE AGENT, Rev. S. F. Porter Cynosure office.

OTHER LECTURERS.

C. A. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill.
Rev. H. H. Hinman, Oberlin, O.
Nathan Callender Montdale Pa.
J. H. Timmons, Tarentum, Pa.
T. B. McCormick, Princeton, Ind.
E. Johnson, Dayton, Ind.
H. A. Day, Brighton, Mich.
J. M. Bishop, Chambersburg, Pa.
A. Mayn, Bloomington, Ind.
J. B. Cressinger, Sullivan, O.
W. M. Love, Osceola, Mo.
J. K. Glassford, Phoenix, Arizona.
Wm. Fenton, St. Paul, Minn.
J. S. Perry, Thompson, Conn.
Rev. E. Mathews, Ft Wayne, Ind.
E. Barnetson, Haskinville, N. Y.
D. A. Richards, Brighton, Mich.
A. W. Parry, Chicago, Ill.

Disloyal
SECRET OATHS
ADDRESS OF
JOSEPH COOK,
OF BOSTON,
AT THE
Conference of Christians
CHICAGO, 1890.

No better document of its size for general distribution has been printed. Joseph Cook's address is a national treatment of a national subject, and very valuable for reference.

Single Copies 5 cents, or 12 copies for 50 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the Initiate. By Rev. L. A. Post. 5 cents each.

THE N. C. A. BUILDING
(The gift of Philo Carpenter)
—AND OFFICE OF—
THE CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. MADISON STREET, CHICAGO.

The National Christian Association

PRESIDENT—Rev. A. J. Gordon, D.D., Boston, Mass.

VICE PRESIDENT—Charles A. Blanchard, President Wheaton College Ill.

GEN'L SEC'Y and TREASURER—W. I. Phillips, 221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

REC. SECRETARY—Amos Dresser, Jr. Wheaton, Ill., Box 367.

DIRECTORS—T. B. Arnold, C. A. Blanchard, E. A. Cook, J. M. Hitchcock, A. G. Johnson, J. P. Richards, E Whipple, E. R. Worrell, Edgar B. Wylie W. M. Howie, H. F. Kletzing.

The object of this Association is:

"To expose, withstand and remove secret societies, Freemasonry in particular, and other anti-Christian movements, in order to save the churches of Christ from being depraved, to redeem the administration of justice from perversion, and our republican government from corruption."

To carry on this work contributions are solicited from every friend of the reform.

STATE AUXILIARY ASSOCIATIONS

NEW ENGLAND.—Pres., J. A. Conant; Vice-president, S. C. Kimball; Sec'y, D. B. Gunn.

CONNECTICUT.—Pres., J. A. Conant, Willimantic; Sec., David J. Ellsworth, Windsor; Treas., C. T. Collins, Windsor.

ILLINOIS.—Pres., Rev. R. W. Chesnut Marissa; Sec., Rev. J. R. Wylie, Coulterville; Treas., Rev. W. I. Phillips, Cynosure office, Chicago.

IOWA.—Pres., Rev. J. A. Greer, Columbus City; Sec., Rev. T. H. Acheson, Hopkinton; Treas., Rev. L. Mendenhall, Fairfield.

KANSAS.—Pres., Rev. C. H. Strong, Lawrence; Vice-Pres., Rev. J. L. Countermine Hiawatha; Sec., Rev. D. H. Coulter, Winchester; Treas., Joseph A. Torrence, Denison.

NEBRASKA.—Pres., Rev. W. I. Brooks Pawnee City; Vice Pres., Rev. C. G. Widen Mead; Sec., Howard P. Young, Wahoo Treas., Rev. T. H. Dabney, Hooper.

MAINE.—Pres., ——— ———, ——— Sec., I. D. Haines, Dexter; Treas., H. W Goddard, West Sidney.

MASSACHUSETTS.—Pres., S. A. Pratt; Worcester.

MICHIGAN.—Pres., D. A. Richards, Brighton; Sec., H. A. Day, Brighton; Treas Geo. Swanson, Jr., Bedford.

MINNESOTA.—Pres., S. B. Sjoblom, Fergus Falls; Cor. Sec., Wm. Fenton, St. Paul, Rec. Sec., Mrs. M. F. Morrill, St. Charles, Treas. Wm. H. Morrill St. Charles.

MISSOURI.—Pres., J. F. Beauchamp, Denver; Sec., M. N. Butler, Darlington; Treas. Rev. C. G. Cox, Grant City.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—Pres., Robt. A. Frohock, Alton; Sec., S. C. Kimball, New Market; Treas., James F. French, Canterbury.

NEW YORK.—Pres., Rev. S. R. Wallace Syracuse; Sec., Rev. W. H. Clark, Binghamton; Treas., Lucius Woodruff, Binghamton.

OHIO.—Pres., J. W. Martin, Mt. Perry; Rec. Sec., A. T. Vestal, Senecaville; Cor Sec. and Treas., E. Thomson, Senecaville

OREGON.—Pres., Rev. Wm. Dillon, D.D., Salem; Sec., Rev. P. B. Williams, Philomath; Treas., Samuel Terry, Canby.

PENNSYLVANIA.—Pres., Samuel S. Collins, Allegheny; Sec., J. S. T. Milligan Beaver; Treas., R. C. Wylie, Wilkinsburg.

WISCONSIN.—Pres., J. B. Galloway, Poynette; Sec., Isaiah Faris, Vernon; Treas., J W. Wood, Baraboo.

The Christian Cynosure.

HENRY M. HUGUNIN - - - - Editor.

CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JANUARY 18, 1894.

PROHIBITION TRIUMPH IN CANADA.

The vote taken on New Year's day in the Province of Ontario astonished even the most earnest temperance workers by its evidence that the popular sentiment in favor of prohibition is at least very much stronger than that which opposes it. Even the cities gave good majorities for the suppression of the liquor traffic. Those women who availed themselves of the privilege of voting on this question, although they were not as numerous as they might have been, mostly declared in favor of prohibition. The total majority in the province against the manufacture and sale of intoxicating drinks exceeded 10,000, and in the city of Toronto alone over 2,000.

This result is a most encouraging and refreshing testimony as to the vitality of prohibition principles, and will, we doubt not, accomplish vast and permanent good to the people of the province.

In this connection, it is well to remember that of the population of the entire Dominion, which in 1891 was 4,833,239, Ontario had 2,114,175, or nearly one-half. More than one-half of the wealth, talent and political influence is in this province. It means great things for Canada when so important a part of her territory and her people determine to throw off the incubus of the liquor traffic. It means much when a city, like Toronto, of nearly or quite 200,000 inhabitants votes to prohibit the saloon. No more important triumph has been gained for the cause of temperance during the last ten years, than that of our friends over the border.

Prince Edward's Island and Manitoba have also, within the last few months, given majorities in favor of prohibition.

TESTIMONIES AGAINST THE A. P. A.

Letters to a Roman Catholic paper in Milwaukee from Governor Altgeld, of Illinois, and Senator Wm. F. Vilas, of Wisconsin (both Democrats) serve to define their respective opinions of the American Protective Association.

In reply to the question: "What is your opinion of secret proscriptive societies?" Gov. Altgeld writes: "Secret societies meeting in dark places and taking dark oaths to do dark things, have never benefited the world. They are the legitimate children of despotism, and have no place in a republic. The glory of our country is largely due to the fact that we have let sunshine in on every question, every subject and every place, and any proscriptive movement is at variance with our career and antagonistic to free government.....I regard the A. P. A. movement as being unpatriotic and dangerous in character, but I do not believe it can have a long life or meet with much success, because the intelligence of the American people is too great to permit this mediæval spirit to take root in this country..... I do not think that the A. P. A. sentiment is generally diffused among Protestants; they are too intelligent for that. The right remedy against such movements is the most wide and thorough discussion possible; hold the whole subject up to the sun, and it will right itself."

In answer to the query: "In what respect, if any, are Catholics blamable?" the Governor says: "I do not know unless it should be true that they have in cases been offensively aggressive, especially in the matter of securing and holding public offices, and also, perhaps, in not repudiating the sentiments of some of the priests, who openly assail our public school system. The American people believe in the public schools, and are quick to resent any attack upon them."

From the letter of Senator Vilas, we make the following extracts:

"First, I understand it (the A. P. A.) to be an oath-bound secret society formed to consolidate and govern by the secret orders of its controlling authorities the political actions of its members as citizens of our State and country. We are a free people living in republican fraternity, with all our institutions fashioned by a decidedly secure, free, and enlightened self-government in accordance with the will of the majority. To the good sense, integrity, and justice of such a people, every worthy political object is to be addressed, and upon these qualities its promoters may rely.....It is matter for rejoicing that our history has established the entire safety of public judgment when it finally settles to a strong conclusion. To instruct, expand, quicken, and guarantee this exectoral judgment, free, open, sturdy agitation, discussion, and all good terms of education are essential.....To enter a secret, political society, to submit his political freedom to the behest of its authorities, unknown to the laws, means the citizen's surrender of the glory of manhood by self-enslavement. It proves at once the want of a good case thus to plot in hiding, to promote an object which fears the day. It proves want of manly courage, which, in a just cause, gladly challenges the encounter of honest, public debate. Even if done with good purpose, the method is debasing and degrading. It is the way of a criminal in individual conduct. In political affairs it seeks to strike an unseen blow which shall do injury to one's fellow-men."

A PROPOSED LABOR REFORM.

It is not every new scheme born of the exigencies of the times, or partaking of the nature of a reform, that the Cynosure cares to observe; but Kate Field's Washington makes a suggestion for the benefit of wage earners that promises good results if put into operation. It takes the form of a general Labor Exchange established in some central city, and having co-operative branches in every part of the country, the whole to be organized and controlled by the national government.

Such an organization exists in Paris, where it is known as the "Bourse du Travail." On its register are the names of stenographers, dressmakers, nurses, house-servants, boot-blacks, hod-carriers, and members of all trades and occupations. The Jewish Labor Bureau, in New York City, also has a similar register, where the unemployed record themselves and find situations.

The Labor Exchange proposed by Kate Field embraces a larger work than any local labor bureau. It could regularly publish official reports of the relative condition of supply and demand in the labor market throughout the entire country. She argues that "there would be no more difficulty in establishing cordons of labor bureaus than in establishing custom houses and postoffices," and adds, "Would 6,000 skilled workmen rush vainly to New Orleans in search of employment, if a national bureau warned them to stay away" because of no demand for that class of wage earners in that vicinity?

In Kansas, following Miss Field's suggestion, the State has established an employment agency in connection with the labor department, where the name of every wage earner is filed, together with his trade or occupation, salary expected, age, and whether married or single. Employers are also registered; so that business relations may be sooner adjusted, on the basis of supply and demand.

There is one feature of this proposition that we have not yet seen touched upon by those who favor it, and that is, the effect of such a system of labor bureaus upon the secret, oath-bound labor unions, with their autocratic methods. Incidentally it would seem to make them a useless institution, since each laborer and each employer will be free to make their individual private contracts and establish agreeable relations without the aid of "walking delegates" or lodge mandates. If this result can be attained, it will be a long step in advance of the present system.

"ANCIENT ORDER OF LOYAL AMERICANS."

A dispatch from Lansing, Mich., January 10, announcing the organization of a lodge of the "Ancient Order of Loyal Americans" in that city, adds: The members are required to take an oath not to divulge the secrets of the order, to work against monopolies and in favor of the masses, to encourage a semi-military form of the order, to labor against any foreign influence in the affairs of the nation, either political or religious, to break down trusts and to promote liberty. They want absolutely no interference by foreign powers in anything, desire the government to issue enough money for the business of the country, will demand postal savings banks, want all unearned land grants redeemed for actual settlers, the reformation of all legislation, the exclusion of pauper labor and the guarantee of equal rights to all. None but native-born Americans can join. January 22 is set as the day on which the order is to be instituted in all the various States of the Union. An official organ is to be issued first in Lansing and then in Washington, and a broad scale has been adopted. The following are the officers of the grand body: D. A. Reynolds, of Lansing, Mich., Grand Commander; C. Vincent, of Indianapolis, Ind., Grand Adjutant; J. J. England, of Michigan, Grand Quartermaster; Rev. Myron Reed, of Denver, Colo., Grand Chaplain; S. P. Piersol, of West Virginia, Grand Ensign; W. C. Bateman, of Maine, Grand Sentinel.

"THE LIGHT BEGINS TO SHINE."

An occasional correspondent, while ordering some anti-secrecy literature, writes the following encouraging words: "As I do considerable traveling around the country, I am frequently thrown into the society of secret-lodge men, a number of whom I count among my particular friends. I am opposed to secret societies of all kinds, and never let a chance go by, if I can get a word in to let people know it. I have from time to time ordered quite a number of your publications through your Eastern agent. . . . . These I have used with good effect, not only here (Reading, Pa.), but I have loaned and distributed them through different towns and States that I have passed through. On my last trip. . . . . I found more notice and attention shown on this subject than ever before. One young man, who had previously belonged to five different secret societies, had renounced them all; and, as a general thing, many that were unapproachable heretofore sat and reasoned the matter in a calm, deliberate manner, acknowledging that the arguments presented were incontrovertible." It is noticeable that wherever candid men are willing to discuss the evils of the lodge system upon a reasonable basis, the majority of them soon become convinced that our opposition to it is built upon the strongest and surest foundations—upon Christianity and the best interests of humanity.

COLLEGE ATHLETICS.

Education, in its broadest sense, implies the development of the entire man, his mental, moral and physical growth.

During the early part of the present century, and until within a recent period, it was not uncommon to find that the man who had completed a collegiate and professional education had become so enfeebled in body as greatly to impair his comfort and usefulness, if not to shorten his life. To remedy this state of things, and to put an education within the reach of many who were poor, there sprang up a considerable number of manual labor schools, where the student should not only be able to pay at least a part of his expenses, but where, especially, his body should have development as well as his mind.

Prominent among such schools was one Ohio college of excellent reputation, and many of the earlier students struggled as manfully against the forces of nature as others have done in athletic contests and with at least quite as good results, both moral and physical.

But the world has grown populous and rich. There is not now the demand for continuous farm labor, nor for any handicraft, that there was sixty years ago, and there is no such pressing necessity for careful economy. So, to meet present need of physical development, there has sprung up the gymnasium, the athletic park and the inter-collegiate foot-ball contests. But from a simple recreation foot-ball has become a mania, and its inter-collegiate contests are conducted in a manner not only subversive of the interests of education and good morals, but, in numerous instances, destructive of life.

The Ohio college to which we have referred, from being distinguished for good learning, earnest piety and an unselfish devotion to unpopular reforms, has (in the West) come to take the lead in these physical contests. Some of its venerable professors, men who in their early manhood wrestled not only with the hard conditions of a forest life, but always with an unsympathetic and often hostile public sentiment; men who, in spite of all obstacles, helped to make the old college what it now is, are, sad to say, constrained to hold midnight meetings with bonfires, to glory in the achievements of the young men who return sorely wearied and bruised but victorious over a rival team.

We can hardly think that such applause was sincere. At least there must have been an underlying regret that all this expenditure of time, money and vital energy had no better result than sprained ankles, dislocated shoulders and a foolish triumph on the one side, and humiliation on the other. We hardly think that the good men, either here or in Eastern colleges, regard betting on foot-ball as any more commendable than betting on a horse race or a game of cards; nor can it have escaped their attention that thousands of dollars are lost and won in these contests. Now that the season of foot-ball is over, is it not time for colleges to call a halt and take an account of the loss and gain, in morals as well as in physical culture? It is probable that a reaction (none too soon) has already set in, and that the new year will bring greater devotedness to the best interests of humanity, riper scholarship, and less of maddening strife.

WRONG METHODS OF RELIGIOUS OPPOSITION.

Last week in the Kentucky Legislature, Representative Quigley, of McCracken county, introduced a bill prohibiting the organization or continuance of societies whose object is to discriminate between Christians on account of their religion. The penalty is a fine of $500 to $1,000, or imprisonment from six to twelve months, or both fine and jail sentence.

It is a grave question whether the Constitution of the United States authorizes the punishment of any man, or set of men, for opposing any religious denomination, unless that opposition manifests itself in force and arms to influence public opinion. Public opinion is only an aggregation of individual opinion, and under our form of government each individual has a right to think for himself and to proselyte others to his own way of thinking. The prosecutions against Sunday-breakers in Tennessee, because they were Seventh-day observers, have been widely and rightly denounced as attempts to destroy that liberty of conscience which the Federal Constitution secures to all.

Apart from its dangerous secret methods, the A. P. A. has a right to express its preference for the Protestant religion and oppose all others, so long as it does not resort to coercion or outrages against the persons and property of its opponents. So, also, it has a right to vote for whom it will for public officers, upon the same conditions. Probably, if it adopted open methods to carry out its principles, it would find many more adherents and supporters.

To fight it by organizing other secret societies for that purpose is quite as reprehensible and unlawful. The true soldier prefers an open battle field to ambushes and rifle-pits.

BUDDHISM ENCOURAGED IN CHICAGO.

The Independent publishes a letter from Rev. J. L. Dearborn, of the American Baptist mission in Japan, in which he relates the following suggestive news:

The Buddhist representatives from Japan who were in attendance at the Parliament of Religions have returned; and their reports are interesting, as showing what effect the great convention really had upon the representatives of the various religions there assembled, and as showing what the second-hand effect is upon the people who listen to the reports brought back.

At a public meeting the two chief speakers were Bourin Yatsubuchi and Shaku Soyen. The former is a priest of Kamakura, and a graduate of the college of which Mr. Fukuzawa is the head in Tokio, a man well versed in modern learning, and a scholar of no mean ability. He was one of the speakers at the Parliament in Chicago. Shaku Soyen, also one of the speakers at Chicago, is a great scholar, and is regarded as the most talented priest in Kiushiu. Some eight others occupied some time in giving their impressions. Among the statements that were made by the priests were the following:

"When we received the invitation to attend the Parliament of Religions, our Buddhist organizations would not send us as representatives of the sect. The great majority believed that it was a shrewd move on the part of Christians to get us there, and then hold us up to ridicule or try to convert us. We accordingly went as individuals. But it was a wonderful surprise which awaited us. Our ideas were all mistaken. The Parliament was called because the Western nations have come to realize the weakness and folly of Christianity, and they really wished to hear from us of our religion, and to learn what the best religion is. There is no better place in the world to propagate the teachings of Buddhism than in America. During the meetings, one very wealthy man from New York became a convert of Buddhism, and was initiated into its rites. He is a man of great influence, and his conversion may be said to mean more than the conversion of ten thousand ordinary men, so we may truthfully say that we made ten thousand converts at that meeting. Christianity is merely an adornment of society in America. It isdeeply believed in by very few. The great majority of Christians drink and commit very gross sins, and live very dissolute lives, although it is a very common belief, and serves as a social adornment. Its lack of power proves its weakness. The meetings showed the great superiority of Buddhism over Christianity, and the mere fact of calling the meetings showed that the Americans and other Western peoples had lost their faith in Christianity, and were ready to accept the teachings of our superior religion."

THE PENNSYLVANIA CONVENTION.

To United Brethren of Erie Annual Conference: The annual Anti-secret Convention, it is expected, will be held sometime during the last week of February, 1894, in the First United Presbyterian church of Philadelphia. At our last session two delegates were appointed to represent us there, and it is right that we should help bear their expenses. Will you not send such amounts as you feel right to N. R. Luce, Union City, Erie Co., Pa., and T. S. Bennett, Eldra, McKean Co., Pa., the delegates? I also suggest that should either or neither of them be able to go, that the amounts they receive be paid to the treasurer of the convention; or if they receive more than enough to cover expenses the balance be paid to the treasurer of the convention. Trusting all our Pennsylvania brethren feel interested in the success of this convention, we would respectfully urge all, as far as possible, to attend, or to persuade some one to and help defray his expenses.

J. C. YOUNG,
Pastor of U. B. Church, Custer City, Pa.

At the last annual conference to which Bro. Young belongs, held at Custer City, Pa., the following declaration was adopted:

"The Church of Christ is still antagonized by secret societies, one arm of the kingdom of darkness. As a branch of that church we have, since our organization, been opposed to secret societies, one of the most insidious forms of darkness. As years pass by, we still see the baneful effects of organized secrecy on families, churches and communities. As the minister and laymen of the Erie Annual Conference of the United Brethren in Christ, having a zeal for God's cause and the love of souls, we declare ourselves unalterably attached to its principles and will, by God's grace, live to its teachings. We are favorable to the National Christian Association."

—Especial attention is directed to the advertisement, on another page, of the "Greek-English Interlinear New Testament." It supplies a want that many Bible students have long felt, as it helps greatly to illumine the Divine Word.

—A note from Rev. H. H. Hinman at Oberlin, O., assures us that his health was then improving, and that he expected to start on a journey to the South about the 20th inst. He has been a great sufferer from rheumatism, and hopes in a milder climate to find needed relief.

—There is a wealth of convincing testimony against the secret lodge system embodied in our New England Letter to-day, warm from the hearts of delegates to the recent Boston Convention. Their echoes will resound through the corridors of time to the latest ages.

—Prohibition has been carried in Ontario (Can.) by at least 10,000. The great whisky stronghold of Toronto, where the liquor men concentrated all their forces and their effort, goes for prohibition by 2,000 majority. The total vote of Prince Edward's Island on the Prohibition plebiscite, Dec. 13, was 14,006, of which 10,616 were for prohibition. This is cheering intelligence, and a good example for the United States.

—Miss Flagg's clever address—"Woman and Masonry"—delivered before the recent New England convention, is a prominent feature of to-day's Cynosure. It turns a powerful search-light upon the lodge in its social aspect, and reveals its absurdity and uncleanness, as observed by a refined and Christian woman.

—One of the oldest journalists in Chicago, and a profound student of men and events, last week wrote: "The situation of the religious and civil world of to-day presents a striking similarity to the condition of civilization at the birth of the Saviour of mankind. . . . . The tendency to external aims and methods, in both church and state, is so marked that the verbal inspiration of the Word of God is denied; instead we have a religion of so-called humanity, in which the ego of man, whether of the individual or the mob, is enthroned on the seat of Deity; a political life in which the infernal spirit of mobocracy is sapping the very foundations of all spiritual and moral effort and life, because it is destructive of all true order; a commercial life in which the demon of self reigns supreme; a social life in which, among other signs of death, adultery in all its forms is becoming more and more rife, the law actually putting a premium upon it." There is "more truth than poetry" in this view of the situation. There never was a time when the followers of the Lamb had greater occasion to watch and pray without ceasing than in these last days of this dispensation.

—In Bishop A. Cleveland Coxe's last letter to Mgr. Satolli, he warns him that American Catholics do not require the interference or dictation of foreigners and Jesuitical teachers. Certainly American Protestants do not, and will govern themselves accordingly. Bishop Coxe quotes from the late Orestes Brownson, the intelligent champion of the papacy, who, while laboring devotedly in its behalf, "stopped at Jesuitism, and ever laid down the law as to the Constitution in in its bearings upon foreign influence." "Our missions," said Brownson, "are to the foreign colony of Roman Catholics settled here. No doubt a few converts are made, but they number, all told, not a tithe of the perversions" (conversions to Protestantism) "that take place. Besides, ... the majority of these converts join the foreign colony, and become far more assimilated to the foreign colony than Catholic foreigners settled here do to the American people settled here; so that our Catholic progress consists not in Catholicising but in foreignizing the country." Farther on the Bishop writes: "You and Mr. Sheehan, and the faction that now raises a foreign flag on public buildings in the great city of New York, have resolved on 'foreignizing the country.' That is now the national concern. Shall it be decided now, or shall it go on until it breeds a social war; till this nation becomes like Mexico, and perishes in a perpetual fight of factions." The Bishop's candor is admirable.

REFORM NEWS (Continued from 5th page.)

and other like societies. These should know what our paper contains. Will not friends on whose hearts the Lord impresses it, send money to Secretary and Treasurer W. I. Phillips, 221 West Madison St., Chicago, Ill., that may be used in placing the Cynosure in these hands. Twenty dollars or more could be wisely expended in this way. Friends in Pittsburgh and vicinity, some of you who may not get to the convention, can help in this way. I remember how generously you helped in holding the Allegheny convention, and expect you will respond now. Six dollars and a half for the general expense of this gathering has been handed me by friends during the past week.

Brethren Collins and I. Gable, of York Co., gave me much help when at their homes. God bless them. I would like to write of my work there, but space will not permit.

I am billed to lecture to-night in the Emmaus Mennonite church. I plan to visit my friend, the Coopersburg Sentinel editor, and speak again in his town later. Next week I hope to report progress from Philadelphia. Yours for victory,

W. B. STODDARD.

THE HOME.

GREATLY BLESSED.

The man who feareth thee, O Lord,
Is blessed day and night;
And in the precepts of thy Word
He taketh great delight.
Mighty on earth shall be his seed;
The upright race is blest indeed.

Riches and wealth from thine own hand
Within his house appear;
His righteousness doth steadfast stand,
Unchanged from year to year.
Unto the upright in thy sight,
In darkest hours ariseth light.

Kind and compassionate is he,
A righteous, faithful friend;
'Tis well with him who graciously
Doth deal and freely lend.
His justice sought by none in vain,
Shall his own righteous cause maintain.

Unmoved he stands, whate'er betide;
And when this life is passed,
Long shall his memory abide,
A blessing to the last.
Of evil tidings ne'er afraid,
His trustful heart on thee is stayed.

He hath dispersed with liberal hand,
And given to the poor;
His righteousness doth steadfast stand,
And ever shall endure.
Highly exalted, Lord, shall be
The blessed man who feareth thee.

—Edward A. Collier, in N. Y. Observer.

"PAY JOHN WILLIAMS."

At a prayer-meeting "down East," a man noted for his failures to meet business obligations arose to speak. The subject was: "What shall I do to be saved?" He commenced slowly to quote the words: "What shall I do to be saved?" He paused, looked around, and said again: "What shall I do to be saved?" Again with more solemn tone he repeated the question of questions, when a voice from the assembly, in clear and distinct tones, replied: "Go and pay John Williams for that yoke of oxen."

The incident stirs up solemn thought. A great many people before they can be saved, or guide others to the Saviour, will have to "go and pay John Williams" the money they honestly owe him. Shrewd tricksters in the marts of the world are not shrewd enough to be dishonest at heart and retain the favor of God, who "loves purity in the inward parts." Neither can a hope of the world to come be like a sheet anchor in the soul of any one who robs God by being dishonest to his fellow-man.

Thousands read no other Bible than the lives of those who profess to be following its precepts in their daily lives. The greatest need of the church is true, pure, upright living—"living epistles, known and read of all men." The square man is the best shape. The tree is known by its fruit. "Go and pay John Williams."—Mid-Continent.

THE PINE TREE SHILLINGS.

Captain John Hull was the mint-master of Massachusetts, and coined all the money that was made there. This was a new line of business, for, in the earlier days of the colony, the current coinage consisted of gold and silver money of England, Portugal and Spain. These coins being scarce, the people were often forced to barter their commodities instead of selling them.

For instance, if a man wanted to buy a coat, he perhaps exchanged a bear-skin for it. If he wished for a barrel of molasses, he might purchase it with a pile of pine boards. Musket bullets were used instead of farthings. The Indians had a sort of money called wampun, which was made of clam-shells; and this strange sort of specie was likewise taken in payment of debts by the English settlers. Bank-bills had never been heard of. There was not money enough of any kind, in many parts of the country, to pay the salaries of the ministers so that they sometimes had to take quintals of fish, bushels of corn, or cords of wood, instead of silver or gold.

As the people grew more numerous, and their trade with one another increased, the want of current money was still more sensibly felt. To supply the demand, the general court passed a law for establishing a coinage of shillings, sixpences and threepences. Captain John Hull was appointed to manufacture this money, and was to have about one shilling out of every twenty to pay for the trouble of making them.

Hereupon all the old silver in the colony was handed over to Captain John Hull. The battered silver cans and tankards, I suppose, and silver buckles, and broken spoons, and silver buttons of worn-out coats, and silver hilts of swords that had figured at court, all such curious old articles were doubtless thrown into the melting-pot together. But by for the greater part of the silver consisted of bullion from the mines of South America, which the English buccaneers (who were little better than pirates) had taken from the Spaniards and brought to Massachusetts.

All this old and new silver being melted down and coined, the result was an immense amount of splendid shillings, sixpences and threepences. Each had the date, 1652, on the one side, and the figure of a pine tree on the other. Hence, they were called pine-tree shillings. And for every twenty shillings that he coined, you will remember, Captain John Hull was entitled to put one shilling into his own pocket.

The magistrates soon began to suspect that the mint-master would have the best of the bargain. They offered him a large sum of money if he would but give up that twentieth shilling which he was continually dropping into his pocket. But Captain Hull declared himself perfectly satisfied with the shilling. And well he might be; for so diligently did he labor that, in a few years, his money-bags and his strong box were overflowing with pine-tree shillings. This was probably the case when he came into possession of grandfather's chair; and, as he had worked so hard at the mint, it was certainly proper that he should have a comfortable chair to rest himself in.

When the mint-master had grown very rich, a young man, Samuel Sewall by name, came a courting to his only daughter. His daughter—whose name I do not know, but we will call her Betsey—was a fine, hearty damsel, by no means so slender as some young ladies of our own days. On the contrary, having always fed heartily on pumpkin pies, doughnuts, Indian puddings, and other Puritan dainties, she was as round and plump as a pudding herself. With this round, rosy Miss Betsey did Samuel Sewall fall in love. As he was a young man of good character, industrious in business, and a member of the church, the mint-master very readily gave his consent.

"— you may take her," said he in his rough way, "and you'll find her a heavy burden enough!"

On the wedding day, we may suppose that honest John Hull dressed himself in a plum-colored coat, all the buttons of which were made of pine-tree shillings. The buttons of his waistcoat were sixpences; and the knees of his small clothes were buttoned with silver threepences. Thus attired he sat with great dignity in grandfather's chair; and, being a portly old gentleman, he completely filled it from elbow to elbow. On the opposite side of the room, between her bridesmaids, sat Miss Betsey. She was blushing with all her might, and looked like a full-blown pæony, or a great red apple.

There, too, was the bridegroom, dressed in a fine purple coat and gold waistcoat, with as much other finery as the Puritan laws and customs would allow him to put on. His hair was cropped close to his head, because Governor Endicott had forbidden any man to wear it below the ears. But he was a very personable young man; and so thought the bridesmaids and Miss Betsey herself.

The mint-master also was pleased with his new son-in-law; especially as he courted Miss Betsey out of pure love, and had said nothing at all about her portion. So, when the marriage ceremony was over, Captain Hull whispered a word to two of his men-servants, who immediately went out, and soon returned, lugging a large pair of scales. They were such a pair as wholesale merchants use for weighing bulky commodities; and quite a bulky commodity was now to be weighed in them.

"Daughter Betsey," said the mint-master, "get into one side of these scales."

Miss Betsey—or Mrs. Sewall, as we must now call her—did as she was bid, like a dutiful child, without any question of the why and wherefore. But what her father could mean, unless to make her husband pay for her by the pound (in which case she would have been a dear bargain), she had not the least idea.

"And now," said honest John Hull to the servants, "bring that box hither."

The box to which the mint-master pointed was a huge, square, iron-bound oaken chest; it was big enough, my children, for all four of you to play hide-and-seek in. The servants lugged with might and main, but could not lift this enormous receptacle, and were finally obliged to drag it across the floor. Captain Hull then took a key from his girdle, unlocked the chest, and lifted its ponderous lid. Behold! it was full to the brim of bright pine-tree shillings, fresh from the mint; and Samuel Sewall began to think that his father-in-law had got possession of all the money in the Massachusetts treasury. But it was only the mint-master's honest share of the coinage.

Then the servants, at Captain Hull's command, heaped double handfuls of shillings into one side of the scales, while Betsey remained in the other. Jingle, jingle, went the shillings, as handful after handful was thrown in till, plump, and ponderous as she was, they fairly weighed the young lady from the floor.

"There, son Sewall!" cried the honest mint-master, resuming his seat in grandfather's chair, "take these shillings for my daughter's portion. Use her kindly and thank heaven for her. It is not every wife that is worth her weight in silver!"—The Ensign.

AN OBJECT LESSON.

The young people of a certain church in the West had a chance not long since to give an object lesson, and did it well. One of their number who had been long absent from home, soon after her return made an entertainment for her friends; delightful music was to be expected, and some other enjoyments of a special character. The invitations were sent out for Friday evening; to the lady's disappointment, one, and another and another, of those whom she specially wanted politely declined the invitation; they were sorry not to be with her; under other circumstances nothing would give them greater pleasure, but for that evening they had a previous engagement. On being pressed as to what it was, they explained that it was the evening for the regular young people's prayer-meeting. Their friend was so astonished at this reply that she took some trouble to learn whether the young ladies had known of one another's intentions in declining her invitation, and found that each had acted without knowing what the other meant to do. Don't you think that she must have decided that in the minds of some people the prayer meeting was an important place, and the engagement to attend it was not to be lightly broken?—Pansy.

THE POWER OF SINCERITY.

Earnest words should tell. Here are such from the Armory. Let students in the seminary read them and think. Let licentiates read and think. Let all missionaries and pastors read and think and pray.

It is related that when Joseph Hume, the infidel, was taxed with inconsistency on going to listen to John Brown, the godly Scotch minister of Haddington, he replied:

"I don't believe all he says, but he does, and once a week I like to hear a man who believes what he says. Why, whatever I think, the man preaches as though he thought the Lord Jesus Christ were at his elbow."

There is a story of a couple of gentlemen who stopped at an out-door meeting in Scotland, and listened, while some one delivered an elegant and polished address.

"What do you think of that?" said one of them to his fellow.

"I think the man does not believe a word he says," was the reply.

After the first speaker had concluded, John Brown of Haddington rose to preach, and poured out "the rivers of living water" which was welling within his own soul.

"And what do you think of that man?" said the traveler to his companion.

"Think," said he, "I don't know what to think. It seems as if he thought Jesus Christ was standing by his side, and every little while he was saying, 'Now, Lord, what shall I say next?'"

The empty-headed, gabbling world needs now to hear the voice of men who believe that Jesus Christ stands just behind them; who believe his word, "Lo, I am with you always, even to the end of the world!" who are willing to speak as servants and messengers of God, as men who know the blessing and the power of their Master, and who speak the things they do know, and testify the things which they have seen.

Men grow weary of empty talk from empty men, and they long for men who are full, not of learning, or pride, or self-conceit, but who are "filled with all the fullness of God." The words of such men carry conviction to honest hearts, and men feel and know that they believe what they say, and that they must have some grounds for their belief. Let Christian men stand fast in the strength of the Lord, and speak the words which he has given them, in the honesty of upright souls, and their testimony shall be blessed to others, and much people shall be added to the Lord.—Our Banner.

ILL WORDS FLY FAR.

A minister, who lived more than three hundred years ago, was anxious to show a lady in his congregation the evil of slandering others. So he asked her to do a very strange thing—to go to the market, buy a chicken just killed and still covered with feathers, and walk a certain distance, plucking the bird as she went.

The lady did as she was directed, and returned, anxious to know the meaning of the injunction.

"Retrace your steps," said the minister, "and gather up, one by one, all the feathers you have scattered."

"I cast the feathers carelessly away," said the woman, "and the wind carried them in all directions."

"Well, my daughter," the minister replied, "so it is with your words of slander; like the feathers which the wind has scattered, they have been wafted in many directions. Call them back, now, if you can. Go, sin no more."—Selected.

THE SONG OF SALVATION.

Harry and Susie sat frowning over their Bible lesson. The Golden Text was: "Trust ye in the Lord forever, for in the Lord Jehovah is everlasting strength."

"Golden texts are so hard to learn; I don't see the use," said Harry.

"And I'm just a little girl in the primer, too," said Susie, in a grieved tone.

"Come here, dears," said grandma. "Let me tell you how that text was turned to gold for me long ago."

"What do you mean by turned to gold, grandma?" asked Susie.

"Became very precious like gold. Long, long ago—"

"When you were a little girl?" asked Harry.

"Yes. I used to sit on my mother's foot-stool and learn a text every Sabbath afternoon. One day I had this very text, and I learned the words so well that they kept saying themselves over in my mind the next day at school, though I did not think much about their meaning.

"My way home lay through the woods. Perhaps you would call it lonely, but I always found plenty to look at and think about. Indeed, I was so busy that day that I did not see that the sky was growing dark.

"Suddenly there was a roaring sound that made me think of all the lion stories I had ever read. But in a minute I knew that a great wind storm was roaring in the trees, and that I must fly to a safe place.

"Near me was a great rock where I had often played house. I ran under this, and the next minute a great tree blew down across the door of my rock house and shut me in."

"Oh, you poor grandma! Did you get out?" asked Susie, stroking grandma's cheek.

"Yes, dear, but not until I had been shut up a good many hours. But it was in those hours that my text turned to gold. While I sat, pale and trembling, listening to the storm, a voice in my heart said: 'Trust ye in the Lord forever.'

"And when I thought about the heavy tree, and wondered who was strong enough to move it away, the same voice said: 'For in the Lord Jehovah is everlasting strength.'

"You may be sure that I kneeled down and prayed to the Lord Jehovah to help his poor little frightened child.

"It was quite dark and the storm was over when I heard my father calling me, and soon strong men had cut away the tree and I was free."

"But it was God that took care of you, wasn't it, grandma?" asked Harry.—Sunbeam.

THE BELIEVER'S STANDING.

I stand: but not as once I did,
Beneath my load of guilt;
The blessed Jesus bore it all—
For me his blood was spilt.
Oh! bless the Lord! Exalt his name!
He gave himself for me;
He died upon Mount Calvary's cross,
To set poor sinners free.

I stand: but not on Calvary's Mount,
With arms around the cross;
I have been there, and left behind
Earth's pleasures, joys and dross.
Oh! bless the Lord! I do believe
That Jesus died for sin;
That on the cross he shed his blood,
To make poor sinners clean.

I stand: but not beside the grave
Where once my Lord did lie;
The cross and grave are left behind,
And Christ is gone on high.
Oh! bless the Lord! he buried sin!
He left it in the grave;
And he has proved himself the strong,
Who died, and rose to save.

I stand: e'en now where he appears,
In union with my Lord,
In him I'm saved. O wondrous thought!
I read it in his Word.
Oh! bless the Lord! with him I'm one;
In him we are complete;
We live by faith! but soon in sight,
Our coming Christ we'll greet.

—Geo. C. Needham.

TEMPERANCE.

SAFETY ONLY IN TOTAL ABSTINENCE.

That alcohol habitually used will occasion physical disease there is abundant evidence. Alcohol is in itself a poison, and as it is shown thus to affect and inflame the delicate linings of the stomach, so also does it affect injuriously the brain and other portions of the human body. Latterly, the subject of the medical treatment of inebriety has claimed much attention in this country and abroad. Various specifics have been much advertised, and many victims of inebriety have turned to them with more or less of hope and confidence for relief and restoration. Many doubtless have realized benefit, temporarily at least, from many of these cures, but many also have been disappointed, and have again surrendered to the domination of strong drink. That there are antidotes of value to at least modify and alleviate the consequences of alcohol poisoning we have no doubt, but it is beyond the province of drug medication of any kind to reach the seat of the difficulty, the abnormal appetite. It is quite impossible, also, for any treatment to effect a complete and permanent cure excepting on the basis of absolute total abstinence from the use of alcoholic beverages. Any indulgence therein is well-nigh certain to lead rapidly backward again to inebriety, even when temporary relief has been realized.

There is, however, we are fully assured, a possibly way of escape for all from the toils of the drink bondage. It is by turning confidently and reverently to the all-powerful and Divine arm for strength and support. That is a resource which is absolutely to be depended upon. It is within the reach of all; but to be made available there must be a complete and genuine surrender of the individual to the Divine will. Superficial conversion will not avail. There died recently, in a Philadelphia hospital, at the end of a prolonged debauch, a man of brilliant intellect, of fine capacity, who not very long ago was a popular pastor in one of the churches of this city. He became addicted to drink, surrendered himself to its dominion, was the object of much solicitude on the part of many friends, was induced to try the gold cure and other specifics, but nothing availed with him, and he finally died the shocking death of a drunkard. Brilliant and eloquent pastor that he was a season, he fell away from the Divine standard, and when the power of the Gospel no longer held sway with him, he became as the vessel at sea in the furious storm, without pilot or rudder. Absolute wreck and ruin followed as a natural sequence. This spiritual remedy, the only one possible and reliable for the inebriate, itself can be made available only upon the basis of complete and absolute trust and self-surrender. To the end it calls for the utmost watchfulness and care. To those who may think themselves cured and rescued, the admonition is continual: "Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall." Let it also be remembered that prevention is easier than cure. Would that all who are the unhappy victims of the drink habit might have stopped before they began! Abstinence is both preventive and curative.—National Temperance Advocate.

DEATH IN THE CIDER BARREL.

If there is any one drink more deceptive than another it is cider, and if there is any one delusion about drinking weaker than another, it is that a man who drinks cider is in no danger of being a drunkard.

The fact is, that a persistent cider-drinker is the meanest kind of a drunkard. He is not one of the kind who get jolly drunk and are put under the kitchen table out of the way, or one of the kind who on the way home from the village gets as far as the gate of the house and lies outside of the gate all night in company with toads and beetles. But a cider-drinker is cross and mean. He scolds his wife; he makes himself disagreeable round the house to everybody. He talks about being bilious and dyspeptic, when in fact if he would stop his cider he would be all right. And this is one of the delusions that especially trouble men in country towns.

They scoff at the idea of drinking whisky and speak in contempt of the average tipplers, while they themselves will guzzle cider by the quart and knock out their stomachs and digestive organs much faster than would be done by plain whisky or rum.

In the time of year when the cider barrels are being filled, small boys suck the juice through the straw; young men drink it in bulk; but the old cider-drinker is not caught with this new, fresh juice; he goes down cellar to last year's barrel, if perchance there may be any left, and drinks cider a year old, which is as damaging to the man as plain whisky.

Now, these remarks will be challenged. We shall be told that cider is necessary to correct the bile; that it is necessary as a spring medicine. In fact, the same arguments are used for the cider drinker that an old rum soaker uses. It is good to keep out the cold in winter, and good to keep out the heat in summer. Anything for a drink.

It is, therefore, no sentiment merely that leads our temperance workers, and especially women, to insist that young people shall not drink cider. It is but a step from sucking sweet cider through a straw, to drinking old cider out of a spigot, and that is a short step. And the haggard, lean, sunken-eyed man, prematurely gray, cross and generally out of order, is the quick resultant from the young man's oat-straw imbibing.

As a matter of fact, a medical man, if he is honest, will say that among the various articles which men use for a beverage, hard cider is the most destructive. It destroys the mucous membrane in the stomach; it eats out the digestive organs, and has a most peculiar effect upon the brain.

A person connected with a well-known cure made this observation recently, that in his experience of over two years, looking at all classes of drinkers who came for treatment, it was found fully as hard, if not harder, to restore an old cider toper than to care for almost any other diseased man; there was so little to build upon. And the process of recovery was so slow that the insidious effects of cider were not apparent until in many cases it was found to be too late for a recovery.

Now then, young men, look at this fact. Let cider alone. There is as much of the devil in a cider barrel as there is in whisky. It is far more polite and respectable, perhaps, to drink cider, but there is death in the cup in the one case as there is in the other.

Very few men will stop with a cider drink. The idea of something running down the throat gains in power as the practice continues. And it is the honest confession of many a man who is to-day a confirmed toper, that his earliest lessons in intemperance began at the cider-mill, or at the spigot of the cider barrel.—Banner of Gold.

BIBLE LESSON.

STUDIES IN THE BOOKS OF MOSES.

LESSON IV.—First Quarter, 1894.—January 28.

SUBJECT.—God's Covenant with Noah.—Genesis 9: 8-17.

GOLDEN TEXT.—I do set my bow in the cloud, and it shall be for a token of a covenant between me and the earth.—Gen. 9: 13.

[Open the Bible and read the lesson.]

DAILY READINGS.—M.—Gen. 9: 8-17. T.—Gen. 6: 1-22. W.—Gen. 7: 1-24. T.—Gen. 8: 1-22. F.—Deut. 8: 1-14. S.—Ps. 106: 32-48. S.—Matt. 16: 1-4.

COMMENTS BY E. E. FLAGG.

1. God's covenant with Noah.—vs. 8–11. Noah and his family being now the only representatives of the human race, God makes a special covenant with them. It is noticeable that this covenant extends to "every living creature that is with you, of the fowl, of the cattle, and of every beast of the earth." Surely God hath a "care for oxen." "His tender mercies are over all his works." "Behold I establish—firmly fix, make sure—"my covenant," not only with Noah but with all his descendants. God's covenants are with children's children, to the remotest generations of those who love and obey him. After such a terrible experience, our race would have been in constant and very natural terror lest it might happen again, had God not given this gracious promise that he would never again destroy the earth with a flood. The traditions of the Deluge are many and various. The fullest in detail, and one most nearly like the Bible record, is preserved on tablets recovered from the ruins of Nineveh. It minutely records the building of the ark by Khasisatra, and the preservation in it of himself, his family and servants. While it has a wonderful similarity in many respects to the account in Genesis, it lacks the simplicity and directness of the Scriptural narrative. The Greeks have a similar legend. Africa alone, according to M. Lenormant, has no tradition of the flood. Another French writer tells us that in the beginning of the seventeenth century a ship was built by a Dutch carpenter, of the same proportions as Noah's ark, only smaller. When launched, it was found to be able to carry a third more freight than other vessels of the same measurement, required no more hands to manage it, and sailed much faster. Thus the Bible has always justified itself against the sneer of the skeptic.

2. The bow in the cloud.—vs. 12–17. "This is the token of the covenant." Transactions of importance between men are sealed by some outward sign, whereby all may know that the documents are true and authentic. So, as a seal to the covenant he was now making with Noah, God adopts the use of an already familiar sight—the rainbow. It should be "for perpetual generations." Should the human race continue to exist on the earth for countless millenniums, it would still be "the bow of promise" and speak the same language of peace and comfort that it spoke to Noah and his family on the plains of Armenia. The rainbow has many beautiful lessons aside from its original significance. Says Matthew Henry: "The thicker the cloud, the brighter the bow in the cloud. Thus, as threatening afflictions abound, encouraging consolations much more abound." "It shall come to pass when I bring a cloud over the earth that the bow shall be seen in the cloud." God is now afflicting the world with many and sore judgments. His hand is heavy on our own nation in wide-spread suffering and destitution, and the multitudes of the unemployed who have to appeal to public charity for help. While these judgments must necessarily involve the innocent and the guilty alike, there is a vast difference in the way the Christian views them, and the standpoint of the man of the world who puts his trust in the arm of flesh. In Rev. 16: 9, when the fourth angel pours out his vial on the sun and it scorches men with great heat, they only blaspheme the more, and repent not to give him glory. This is the effect on the great mass of the worldly and unbelieving, who do not recognize God's hand in their afflictions; but they who belong to him and have made his eternal arm their trust, though they may suffer just as much, or even more, endure patiently, for they see the rainbow in the cloud. "And the bow shall be in the cloud, and I will look upon it." John, in his vision of the throne of God, sees it encircled by a rainbow—the sign and emblem of that peace which comes through the reconciling blood of Jesus. "And the bow shall be in the cloud, and I will look upon it, that I may remember the everlasting covenant." The bow of promise always shines above the throne, so that we may have courage to present our petition in spite of all our sins and unworthiness. It is "an everlasting covenant." It cannot be disannulled. "Between me and all flesh." This was no secret symbol between God and Noah. It was blazoned on the clouds where all could see it, and the knowledge of it handed down from generation to generation. It is so with God's covenant of grace. Christ's last commission to his disciples was "to go into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature." The very sign of the rainbow, in its openness and universality, emphasizes the vast difference between the dark and secret false worships and that of the true Jehovah.

LITERATURE.

ARE THERE CORRUPTIONS IN THE NEW TESTAMENT? A Condensed Statement of the Facts Regarding the Preservation and Transmission of the New Testament Writings. By H. L. Hastings. One vol. pp. 96, paper. Price 15 cents. Boston: H. L. Hastings, publisher.

The Masons tell us that Freemasonry alone has preserved the Word of God to this generation. It is one of the vilest falsehoods that this Christless institution has ever uttered. If we read authentic history, of which there is abundance, we shall find that God, not needing the services of Freemasonry, provided his own accredited agents with grace and methods to transmit the Bible to us through all the passing ages,—and in its purity.

The Church of Rome, with more of arrogance than Christian meekness, dares to tell us that only through her the Almighty has preserved his Word in its purity, in all ages, as his specially chosen church. But the same unbroken chain of Christian testimony that assures us of the preservation of his Word intact by his own agencies and power, guarantees to us the purity of the Protestant versions.

It is easy to prate of corruptions in the Old and New Testaments; but the time has gone by when these slanders were irrefutable because of man's ignorance. The increase of knowledge, foretold of the last days, though it has brought forth many and vile inventions of sordid men, has also confirmed the truth and excellence of the Holy Scriptures. The watchmen on the walls of Zion have been vigilant in honoring God by honoring his Word, and teaching unwary and corrupt men that the Bible is true.

That errors have crept into the various versions of the New Testament through the weakness and prejudices of its transcribers, those familiar with it have had to acknowledge; but while the fault was human, the Spirit of God has moved upon the minds of competent men, pointed out the errors of diction, and authorized their correction, until we have a great abundance of the strongest evidence that the Word of God is no longer a sealed or mistaken book.

Mr. Hastings' little treatise belongs to this class of evidence. It traces the history of the New Testament, with its vicissitudes and dangers, from the apostles of the first century to the present time. It shows us where the errors originated, in some instances; but, better than all else, it confirms the truth of the original work and the corrections of its errors, and shows us that it is, pure and simple, "the power of unto salsalvation to all who believe." It cannot be too widely circulated or too carefully read and heeded.

A PRACTICAL COMMENTARY ON THE INTERNATIONAL (SUNDAY-SCHOOL) LESSONS FOR 1894. The Light and Life Series. A Comprehensive and Practical Commentary with Illustrations, Blackboard Exercises, Questions, Maps and Class Registers. By Rev. C. H. Rawson, A. M., Mrs. E. L. Hogg, and Rev. A. W. Parry, A. B. One vol. 4to. pp. 238. Price, in cloth, 50 cents; in strong manilla paper, 35 cents. Chicago: Published by T. B. Arnold, 106 Franklin street.

The classification of each of these fifty-two Lessons is excellent. Beginning with a brief introduction, it presents a review of the previous lesson, the home readings for the week, the text of the authorized version, with suggestions from the revised version, the golden text, the topic, and central truth, the time and place of the events recorded, an analysis of the lesson, a comprehensive commentary upon it, with problematic questions to impress the mind of the scholars, and special teachings, illustrations, reflections, and the aid of explanatory lectures. The choicest of Biblical literature has been drawn upon for material to make it one of the very best lesson expositors extant, and in this respect its compilers have achieved flattering success. Its cheapness and its merits entitle it to a general acceptance by Sunday-school workers.

CURRENT PERIODICALS.

Astronomy and Astro-Physics is a finely-executed magazine of 80 royal 8vo. pages, published at Carleton College, Northfield, Minn., in the interest of astronomical science. The editors are Wm. W. Payne and George E. Hale, with a corps of able associates and contributors. The contents of the January issue embrace Telescope Mountings and Domes, by Wm. H. Pickering; The National Argentine Observatory, by John M. Thome; Proper Motions of Double Stars, by S. W. Burnham; The Photographic Chart of the Heavens (including 2,000,000 stars), by the editors; Astronomical Publications, by Wm. W. Payne; The Polar Radiation from the Sun, by Frank H. Bigelow; A New Star in Norma, by Edw. C. Pickering; Recent Progress in Balometer Work at the Smithsonian Astro-Physical Observatory; A New Star in Auriga, by H. C. Vogel; Astro-Physical Notes; Phenomena During 1894; Current Celestial Phenomena, and News and Notes. Those who are interested in astronomy and its progress, will find this magazine sufficiently abreast with the times to insure its trustworthiness and advancement in this glorious science. Published ten times a year. Price, $4.00.

No magazine in America more regularly or better maintains its standard of excellence than the Cosmopolitan. The January issue is replete with interest and positive literary and artistic value. A hitherto unpublished poem by John G. Whittier, and The Wedding at Capri (Sicily), by Paul Heyse, are special features of this number. Other papers, freely and finely illustrated, are as follows: A Bit of Altruria in New York, by W. D. Howells; The Revival of the Pantomime, by T. C. Crawford; Quaint Customs of an Island Capital (Palermo in Sicily), by W. W. Cady-Scott; Long Distance Riding, by Capt. Chas. King; Whittier Desultoria, by Charlotte F. Bates; Our Lady of the James (Pocahontas), by Marion Harland; The Young Man in Business, by Edw. W. Bok; Peckinpaw's Pills, by Frank Crane; God's Will and Human Happiness, by St. George Mivart; Miss Royston's Gloves, by Richard H. Savage; Humor, English and American, by Agnes Replier; In the World of Art and Letters (Reviews), by the editor, and the Progress of Science, a department full of intellectual attraction. We send the Cynosure and Cosmopolitan to one address, one year, for $2.50.

Our Day, beginning with 1894, will be issued as a bimonthly, with six numbers annually, at one dollar a year. The character, ownership and general conduct of the periodical will remain unchanged. A photogravure of some leader of current reform, a Boston Monday Lecture by Joseph Cook, with a prelude on a vital topic, and a Boston Hymn, will appear in each issue. Mr. Cook has urgent invitations from Sydney, Melbourne, Adelaide and Auckland to visit Australia as a lecturer. He will probably accede to this request as soon as the commercial panic in Australia has passed by. But he expects to give this winter his Boston Monday Lectures for their nineteenth year. Our Day has achieved an excellent reputation among students, teachers, preachers, public men and reformers, the special classes to which it has from the first addressed itself. It has championed, and will continue to defend with courage and decision, but always without bitter partisanship or offensive personalities, the whole circle of important reforms. It is honorably quoted at home and abroad. The change in price, it is hoped, will greatly widen its circulation.

RELIGIOUS NEWS.

AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY.

—The stated meeting of the board of managers was held at the Bible House on Thursday, January 4th, 1894, the Hon. Enoch L. Fancher, LL.D., president, in the chair. The religious services were conducted by Secretary McLean. On recommendation of the committee on distribution, grants of Bibles, Testaments and portions were made to the value of about $2,188, including consignments of the Spanish Scriptures to the Society's Mexico and Cuba agencies and grants of the Benga Scriptures to the Presbyterian board for its work in West Africa, and of the Scriptures in the Arabic and English languages to a correspondent in Liberia. The issues from the Bible House in December were 104,210 volumes; issues since April 1st, 1893, 802,607 volumes.

EVANGELICAL.

—Chicago Avenue, generally known as Moody's church, has called the Rev. G. H. C. McGregor, now pastor of the Free church, Aberdeen, Scotland. He came to Chicago last May, and spent two weeks in evangelistic work, leaving an impression that resulted in this call.

—One of Dr. McGlynn's old assistants in St. Stephen's church, New York, Rev. Mr. Bechger, has renounced the Roman Catholic church and embraced Protestantism. On Thanksgiving day he came from Europe to America bound on a mission of evangelization among Catholics.

Standard Works

—ON—

SECRET SOCIETIES

FOR SALE BY THE

National Christian Associat'n

221 West Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois.

TERMS:—Cash with order, or if sent by express C. O. D. at least $1.00 must be sent with order as a guaranty that books will be taken. Books at retail prices sent postpaid. Books by Mail are at risk of persons ordering, unless 10 cents extra is sent to pay for registering them, when their safe delivery is guaranteed. Books at retail ordered by express, are sold at 10 per cent discount and delivery guaranteed, but not express paid. Postage stamps taken for small sums. ☞ A liberal discount to dealers.

ON FREEMASONRY.

Freemasonry Illustrated. A complete exposition of the seven degrees of the Blue Lodge and Chapter. Profusely illustrated. Complete work of 640 pages, in cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 75 cents. First three degrees (376 pages), in cloth, 75 cents. Paper covers, 40 cents.

Knight Templarism Illustrated. A full illustrated ritual of the six degrees of the Council and Commandery. A book of 341 pages. In cloth, $1.00. Paper covers, 50 cents.

Scotch Rite Masonry Illustrated. The complete illustrated ritual of the entire Scottish Rite, in two volumes, comprising all the Masonic degrees from 3rd to 33rd inclusive. The first three degrees are common to all the Masonic Rites, and are fully and accurately given in "Freemasonry Illustrated." Vol. I. of "Scotch Rite Masonry Illustrated" comprises the degrees from 3rd to 18th inclusive. Vol. II. of "Scotch Rite Masonry Illustrated" comprised the degrees from 19th to 33rd inclusive, with the signs, grips, tokens and passwords from 1st to 33rd degree inclusive. Price per volume, paper cover, 65 cents each. In cloth, $1.00 each.

Hand-Book of Freemasonry. By E. Ronayne, Past Master of Keystone Lodge No. 639, Chicago. Gives the complete standard ritual of the first three degrees of Freemasonry. New edition, 274 pages. Bound flexible cloth covers. 50 cents.

Freemasonry Exposed. By Capt. William Morgan. The genuine old Morgan book republished. 25 cents each.

Allyn's Ritual of Freemasonry by Avery Allyn contains the fully Illustrated Ritual of the Blue Lodge, Chapter Council and Commandery, 11 of the Scotch Rite Degrees, Several Masonic side degrees and what is termed a Key to the Phi Beta Kappa, the Orange and Odd-fellows Societies. Price in cloth $5.00.

Duncan's Masonic Ritual and Monitor. Profusely illustrated with explanatory engravings, and containing the ritual and work of the order for the seven degrees, including the Royal Arch. Though extensively used as an Instruction Book and one of the best in the market it is not as accurate as "Freemasonry Illustrated," the first book on catalogue. Price in cloth, $2 50.

Richardson's Monitor of Freemasonry. Containing the ceremonies of Lodges, Chapters, Encampments, etc. Illustrated. Although extensively used in conferring the higher degrees, it is not only very incomplete but inaccurate especially as regards the first seven degrees, and as to the higher degrees it gives but a description and general idea of the degrees rather than the full ritual. Price in cloth, $1.25; Paper covers, 75c.

Look to the East. A Ritual of the first three Masonic Degrees by Ralph Lester. Price in cloth $2.00. Notwithstanding the high price this book is very inferior in every way to Freemasonry Illustrated or The Handbook of Freemasonry at a quarter the price.

Ecce Orienti. The Complete Standard Ritual of the First Three Masonic Degrees in Cypher, with complete Floor Charts of Initiating, Passing and Raising a Candidate. Pocket size, Full Roan, Flap, $2.50.

Cabala. The Complete Standard Ritual of the Chapter Masonic Degrees; 4th to 7th inclusive, in Cypher. Giving the degrees of Mark Master, Past Master, Most Excellent Master and Royal Arch, Pocket size, Full Roan, Flap, $2.50.

Council of the Orient. The Complete Standard Ritual of Council Masonic Degrees in Cypher, 8th to 10th inclusive. Giving the Degrees of Royal Master, Select Master and Super Excellent Master. Pocket size, full Roan, flap, $2.50.

Knights of the Orient. The complete Ritual of the Commandery Masonic Degrees, Knights of the Red Cross, Knight Templar and Knight of Malta, 11th to 13th degrees. Pocket size, full Roan, flap, $2.50.

The Mystic Shrine Illustrated. An Illustrated Ritual of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. This is a Side Masonic degree conferred only on Knights Templar and on Thirty-two degree Masons. 15 cts. each.

Light on Freemasonry. By Elder D. Bernard. In cloth, $1.50 each. Paper, 75 cents each.

Adoptive Masonry Illustrated. A full and complete illustrated ritual of the five degrees of Female Freemasonry, by Thomas Lowe. 20 cents each.

Finney on Masonry. The character, claims and practical workings of Freemasonry. By Pres. Charles G. Finney, of Oberlin College. President Finney was a "bright Mason," but left the lodge when he became a Christian. This book has opened the eyes of multitudes. In cloth, 75 cents. Paper cover, 35 cents.

The Master's Carpet, or Masonry and Baal Worship Identical, explains the true source and meaning of every ceremony and symbol of the lodge. Bound in fine cloth, 420 pages, 75 cents.

Masonic Oaths Null and Void: OR FREEMASONRY SELF-CONVICTED. This is a book for the times. The design of the author is to refute the arguments of those who claim that the oaths of Freemasonry are binding upon those who take them. 207 pages. Postpaid, 40 cents each.

Judge Whitney's Defense before THE GRAND LODGE OF ILLINOIS. Judge Daniel H. Whitney was Master of the lodge when S. H. Keith, a member of his lodge, murdered Ellen Slade. Judge Whitney, by attempting to bring Keith to justice, brought on himself the vengeance of the lodge, but he boldly replied to the charges against him, and afterwards renounced Masonry. 15 cents each.

General Washington Opposed to SECRET SOCIETIES. This is a re-publication of Governor Joseph Ritner's "Vindication of General Washington from the Stigma of Adherence to Secret Societies," communicated to the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania, March 8, 1837, at their special request. To this is added the fact that three high Masons were the only persons who opposed a vote of thanks to Washington on his retirement to private life—undoubtedly because they considered him a seceding Freemason. 10cts each.

Morgan's Exposition, Abduction AND MURDER, AND OATHS OF 33 DEGREES. Composed of "Freemasonry Exposed," by Capt. Wm. Morgan;" "History of the Abduction and Murder of Morgan;" "Valance's Confession of the Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan;" "Bernard's Reminiscences of Morgan Times," and "Oaths and Penalties of 33 Degrees." 304 pages; cloth, $1.00.

Mah-Hah-Bone; comprises the Hand Book, Master's Carpet and Freemasonry at a glance. Bound in one volume. In cloth, 589 pages, $1.00.

Oaths and Penalties of Freemasonry, as proved in court in the New Berlin trials. The New Berlin trials began in the attempt of Freemasons to prevent public initiations by seceding Masons. These trials were held at New Berlin, Chenango Co., N. Y., April 13 and 14, 1831, and General Augustus C. Welsh, sheriff of the county, and other adhering Freemasons swore to the truthful revelation of the oaths and penalties. 10 cents each.

Masonry a Work of Darkness, adverse to Christianity, and inimical to republican government. By Rev. Lebbeus Armstrong (Presbyterian) a seceding Mason of 21 degrees. 15 cents each.

Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the INITIATE? By Rev. L. A. Post. 5 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. J. Day Brownlee. In reply to a Masonic Oration by Rev. Dr. Mayer, Wellsville, Ohio. 5 cents each.

Masonic Outrages. Compiled by Rev. H. H. Hinman. Showing Masonic assault on lives of seceders, on reputation, and on free speech; its interference with justice in courts, etc. Postpaid, 20 cents.

Grand Lodge Masonry. Its relation to civil government and the Christian religion. By Pres. J. Blanchard. The un-Christian, anti-republican and despotic character of Freemasonry is proved from the highest Masonic authorities. 5 cents each.

The Broken Seal; or Personal Reminiscences of the Abduction and Murder of Capt. Wm. Morgan. By Samuel D. Greene. In cloth, 75 cents. Paper covers, 40 cents.

The Mystic Tie, or Freemasonry a LEAGUE WITH THE DEVIL. This is an account of the church trial of Peter Cook and wife, of Elkhart, Indiana, for refusing to support a reverend Freemason. 15 cents each.

History of the Abduction and MurDER OF CAPT. WM. MORGAN. As prepared by seven committees of citizens, appointed to ascertain the fate of Morgan. 25 cents each.

The Anti-mason's Scrap-Book, consisting of 53 "Cynosure" tracts. In this book are the views of more than a score of men, many of them of distinguished ability, on the subject of secret societies. Postpaid. 25 cts.

Reminiscences of Morgan Times. By Elder David Bernard. This is a thrilling narrative of the incidents connected with Bernard's Revelation of Freemasonry 10 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. James Williams, Presiding Elder of Dakota District, Northwestern Iowa Conference M. E. Church—a seceding Master Mason. 10 cents each.

Oaths and Penalties of the 33 DeGREES OF FREEMASONRY. To get these thirty three degrees of Masonic bondage, the candidate takes half-a-million horrible oaths. 15 cents each.

Thirteen Reasons why a Christian should not be a Freemason. By Rev. Robert Armstrong. 5 cents each.

Freemasonry Contrary to the ChrisTIAN RELIGION. 5 cents each.

Hon. Thurlow Weed on the Morgan ABDUCTION. This is the legally attested statement of this eminent Christian journalist and statesman concerning the unlawful seizure and confinement of Capt. Morgan in Canandaigua jail, his removal to Fort Niagara and subsequent drowning in Lake Ontario. 5 cents each.

Freemasonry a Fourfold ConspirACY. Address of Pres. J. Blanchard. This is a most convincing argument against the lodge. 5 cents each.

Sermon on Masonry. By Rev. W. P. McNary, pastor United Presbyterian church. 5 cents each.

ON ODD-FELLOWSHIP.

Revised Odd-fellowship Illustrated. The complete revised ritual of the Lodge, Encampment and Rebekah (ladies) degrees, profusely illustrated, and guaranteed to be strictly accurate; with a sketch of the origin, history and character of the order, over one hundred foot-note quotations from standard authorities, showing the character and teachings of the order, and an analysis of each degree by ex-President J. Blanchard. This ritual corresponds exactly with the "Charge Books" furnished by the Sovereign Grand Lodge. In cloth, $1.00; paper cover, 50cts.

Odd-fellowship Judged by its own utterances; its doctrine and practice examined in the light of God's Word. By Rev. J. H. Brockman. This is an exceedingly interesting, clear discussion of the character of Odd-fellowship, in the form of a dialogue. In cloth 50cts; paper covers, 25cts.

Sermon on Odd-fellowship and other secret societies, by Rev. J. Sarver, pastor Evangelical Lutheran church. This is a very clear argument against secretism of all forms, and the duty to disfellowship Odd fellows, Freemasons, Knights of Pythias and Grangers, is clearly shown by their confessed character as found in their own publications. 10cts each.

Odd-fellowship: ITS HISTORY AND ITS WORK. By President J. Blanchard. A new pamphlet with cover. Postpaid. 5 cts

OTHER RITUALS.

Revised Knights of Pythias Illustrated. An exact copy of the new Official Ritual Adopted by the Supreme Lodge of the World, with the Secret work added and fully Illustrated. In cloth 50 cts. Paper cover 25 cts.

Knights of the Orient Illustrated. The full Illustrated Ritual of Ancient Order of the Orient, or the Oriental degree, This is a side degree conferred mostly in Knights of Pythias lodges. 15 cts each.

Good Templarism Illustrated. A full and accurate exposition of the degrees of the lodge, temple and council. 25cts each.

Exposition of the Grange. Edited by Rev. A. W. Geeslin. Illustrated with engravings. 25 cents each.

Ritual of the Grand Army of the REPUBLIC, with signs of recognition, passwords, etc., and the ritual of the Machinists' and Blacksmiths' Union. (The two bound together.) 10 cents each.

United Sons of Industry IllusTRATED. A full and complete illustrated ritual of the secret tradesunion of the above name, giving the signs, grips, passwords etc. 15cts each.

Rituals and Secrets Illustrated. Composed of "Temple of Honor Illustrated, "Adoptive Masonry Illustrated," "United Sons of Industry Illustrated," and "Secret Societies Illustrated." $1.00 each.

Temple of Honor Illustrated. A full and complete illustrated ritual of "The Templars of Honor and Temperance," commonly called the Temple of Honor. By a Templar of Fidelity and Past Worthy Chief Templar. 25cts each.

Knights of Labor Illustrated ("ADELPHON KRUPTOS.") The complete illustrated ritual of the order, including the "unwritten work." 25cts each.

MISCELLANEOUS.

History Nat'l Christian Association Its origin, objects, what it has done and aims to do, and the best means to accomplish the end sought, the Articles of Incorporation, Constitution and By-laws of the Association. 25cts each.

Folly, Expense and Danger OF SECRET SOCIETIES. By Pres. C. A. Blanchard. This booklet of 32 pages is a general discussion of the secret orders, whether religious, political, industrial, insurance or social. Postpaid, 5 cents.

Disloyal Secret Oaths. By Joseph Cook, Boston. He quotes the law of Vermont which makes the administration of the Masonic oaths illegal. Joseph Cook's address is a national treatment of a national subject, and very valuable for reference. Postpaid, 5 cents.

Are Secret Societies a Blessing? An address by Rev. B. Carradine, D. D., pastor of the Centenary M. E. church, St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 4, 1891. W. McCoy writes: "That sermon ought to be in the hands of every preacher in this land, and every citizen's, too." A pamphlet of 20 pages and cover. Postpaid, 5 cents.

A Booklet of 107 pages, which includes "The Martyr's Own Monument," by Rev. J. E. Roy, D. D., Western Secretary of American Missionary Association; "Christian Politics," by Rev. J. Blanchard, late President Wheaton College, and Editor Christian Cynosure; "The Mysterious Machine: Was it Lawn-mower, Town-pump, Balloon, Wheel-barrow,—or what?" by Prof. E. D. Bailey, of the Civil Service Dept. U. S. Government. Postpaid 25 cts.

Jonathan Blanchard's Sermons and Addresses. Select discourses of the first editor of the Cynosure. Lectures, sermons and speeches given from 1834 to 1892 in leading cities of the United States, discussing topics of living reform, Secret Societies, The Sabbath, Temperance, National Reform, Christian Education, Christian Socialism, The Bible, etc. A book everybody should read. 12mo. Fine photogravure portrait. Price, 75 cents.

American Handbook and Citizen Manual. By Manlove N. Butler. Contents: Bible and Secretism; Masonic Religion; Masonic Sun Worship; Masonic Government; Unwritten History; Grand Lodge Masonry; Public Opinion; Lodge and Saloon; The American Movement. Over 200 pages. Paper, single copy, 40c.

Image of the Beast: A Secret Empire; or, Freemasonry a Subject of Prophecy. By Rev. Richard Horton. Third edition. 200 pages. Cloth. Price, 60 cents.

Secret Societies Illustrated. Containing the signs, grips, passwords, emblems, etc., of Freemasonry (Blue Lodge and to the fourteenth degree of the York rite), Adoptive Masonry, Revised Odd-fellowship, Good Templarism, the Temple of Honor, the United Sons of Industry, Knights of Pythias and the Grange, with affidavits, etc. Over 250 cuts, 99 pages, paper cover. 25cts each.

Eminent Men on Secret Societies. Composed of "Washington Opposed to Secret Societies," "Judge Whitney's Defence," "The Mystic Tie," "Narratives and Arguments," the "Anti-mason's Scrap-Book" and "Oaths and Penalties of Freemasonry as Proved in the New Berlin Trials," 326 pages, cloth, $1.00.

College Secret Societies. Their customs, character and the efforts for their suppression. By H. L. Kellogg. Containing the opinions of many prominent college presidents and others, and a full account of the murder of Mortimer Leggett. 25cts each.

Sermon on Secretism. By Rev. Dr. Theo. Cross, pastor Congregational church Hamilton, N. Y. This is a very clear arraignment of the objections to all secret societies, and to Masonry especially, that are apparent to all. 5cts each.

Ex-President John Quincy Adams' LETTERS on the Nature of Masonic Oaths, Obligations and Penalties. Price, cloth, $1.00. Paper, 35 cents.

Prof. J. G. Carson, D. D., on Secret SOCIETIES. A most convincing argument against fellowshiping Freemasons in the Christian church. 10 cents each.

Sermon on Secret Societies. By Rev. Daniel Dow, Woodstock, Conn. The special object of his sermon is to show the right and duty of Christians to examine into the character of secret societies, no matter what object such societies profess to have. 5 cents each.

Secret Societies. A discussion of their character and claims by Rev. David McDill, Pres. J. Blanchard and Rev. Edward Beecher. In cloth, 35cts each; paper covers, 15cts each.

Secret Societies, Ancient and ModERN. Table of Contents: The Antiquity of Secret Societies, The Life of Julian, The Eleusinian Mysteries, The Origin of Masonry, Was Washington a Mason? Fillmore and Webster's Deference to Masonry, A Brief Outline of the Progress of Masonry in the United States, The Tammany Ring, Masonic Benevolence, The Uses of Masonry, An Illustration, The Conclusion. 50cts each.

Pres. H. H. George on Secret Societies. A powerful address, showing clearly the duty of Christian churches to disfellowship secret societies. 10cts each.

Secrecy vs. the Family, State and CHURCH. By Rev. M. S. Dury. The antagonism of organized secrecy to the welfare of the family, state and church, is clearly shown. 10cts each.

Narratives and Arguments, showing the conflict of secret societies with the Constitution and law of the Union and of the States. By Francis Semple. The fact that secret societies interfere with the execution and pervert the administration of law is here clearly proved. 15cts each.

Anti-masonic Sermons and AdDRESSES. Composed of "Masonry a Work of Darkness;" the Sermons of Messrs. Cross, William M'Nary, Dow and Sarver, the two addresses of President Blanchard, and the addresses of President H. H. George, Prof. J. G. Carson and Rev. M. S. Drury; "Thirteen Reasons Why a Christian cannot be a Freemason," "Freemasonry Contrary to the Christian Religion," and "Are Masonic Oaths Binding on the Initiate?" 287 pages; cloth, $1.00.

Holden with Cords. OR THE POWER OF THE SECRET EMPIRE. By E. E. Flagg, author of "A Sunny Life," etc. This is a thrillingly interesting story, accurately true to life because mainly a narration of historical facts. In cloth, $1.00; in paper, 50 cents.

HOME AND HEALTH.

REMEDIAL USE OF APPLES.

Chemically the apple is composed of vegetable fibre, albumen, sugar; gum chlorophyl, malic acid, gallic acid, lime and much water. Furthermore, the German analysts say that the apple contains a larger percentage of phosphorus than any other fruit or vegetable. The phosphorus is admirably adapted for renewing the essential nervous matter—lecithin—of the brain and spinal cord. It is, perhaps, for the same reason, rudely understood, that old Scandinavian traditions represent the apple as the food of the gods, who, when they felt themselves to be growing feeble and infirm, resorted to this fruit, renewing their powers of mind and body. Also the acids of the apple are of singular use for men of sedentary habits, whose livers are sluggish in action, those acids serving to eliminate from the body noxious matters, which, if retained, would make the brain heavy and dull, or bring about jaundice or skin eruptions and other allied troubles. Some such experience must have led to the custom of taking apple sauce with roast pork, rich goose and like dishes. The malic acid of ripe apple, either raw or cooked, will neutralize any excess of chalky matter engendered by eating too much meat. It is also the fact that such ripe fruits as the apples, the pear and the plum, when taken ripe, and sugar, diminish acidity in the stomach, rather than provoke it. Their vegetable sauces and juices are converted into alkaline carbonates, which tend to counteract acidity.—North American Practitioner.

ODDS AND ENDS.

A simple diet of brown bread and fruits is said to be a cure for obesity.

The mending of kid gloves shows far less if done with cotton thread than it does if done with silk.

To clean knives, cut a small potato, dip it in brick dust and rub them.

When the scalp is atrophied, or shiny-bald, no preparation will restore the hair; in all other cases, Hall's Hair Renewer will start a growth.

United Presbyterians among our readers will be glad to learn that the Midland of Omaha is about to remove to Chicago. This will answer the most common and seemingly only objection to it—"too far west." The Midland is newsy, spicy and sound, liberal and loyal and patriotic and progressive; it excels in giving the news of its own denomination, in supporting the reforms of the day and in advocating home missions. Send for a free sample copy. Address the Midland Publishing Co. Its regular price is $1.50, but to one of our old subscribers who becomes a new subscriber to the Midland, both papers will be sent by us for $2.50. To one who becomes a new subscriber to both, the Cynosure and Midland, the papers will cost for one year only $2.00. Address, Christian Cynosure, 221 W. Madison street.

THE IMAGE OF THE BEAST

A Secret Empire;

Or, Freemasonry a Subject of Prophecy.

By Rev. Richard Horton.

Third Edition. 200 pages. Cloth.

Price, 60 cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

THE

Folly, Expense & Danger

OF

SECRET SOCIETIES.

BY

CHARLES A. BLANCHARD.
(President Wheaton College.)

5 Cts per Copy; $3 per Hundred

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W Madison St. Chicago.

Mr. Joseph Hemmerich

An old soldier, came out of the War greatly enfeebled by Typhoid Fever, and after being in various hospitals the doctors discharged him as incurable with Consumption. He has been in poor health since, until he began to take

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Immediately his cough grew looser, night sweats ceased, and he regained good general health. He cordially recommends Hood's Sarsaparilla, especially to comrades in the G. A. R.

HOOD'S PILLS cure Habitual Constipation by restoring peristaltic action of the alimentary canal.

SEVEN YEARS AMONG THE FREEDMEN.
Revised and Enlarged.

BY MARIA WATERBURY.

Finely Illustrated 196 Pages.....75cts.

The first edition of this book has "gone like hot cakes," and a second edition with more of the same sort has been loudly called for and is now ready for delivery. The press, the pulpit, the educator, the reformer, the masses, have bidden it welcome and Godspeed. We quote a few good words from sundry sources: EARNEST CHRISTIAN: "Publish the book for the good it will do."

Dr. Talmage, in the Christian Herald and Signs of our Times, for February 11th, says: "A helpful little volume, just out, for the workers is, 'Seven Years among the Freedmen,' by Miss M. Waterbury, Polo, Ill.,—a teacher well known to many in Illinois—detailing the quaint and thrilling scenes of her experience—'truth stranger,' oftimes, 'than fiction. One day the chore-man came to Miss M. Waterbury, to be taught a prayer; all the scholars had a prayer to say and he wanted one. John was past middle life and very ignorant. The teacher began the Lord's Prayer, a sentence at a time, explaining as the lesson progressed. 'Thy kingdom come' was all right. 'Forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors.' 'What dat mean?' said he. 'That you must forgive everybody, or God will not forgive you.' 'Stop, teacher, can't do dat,' and he went away. After vacation he appeared, saying: 'Now go on wid de prayer. I dun forgive him. Old massar once gib me five hundred lashes, and hit me wid a crow bar, an' t' row me out fur dead, and I met him down de street, an' wouldn't speak at him, but to-day I met him an' said 'How d'ye?' Now go on wid dat prayer.'"

Inter Ocean: 'A Splendid Book. Seven Years among Freedman is a volume of 494 pages by Miss M. Waterbury, of Polo, Ills., who has spent seven years as a teacher among the freedmen in Mississippi and Alabama. It is a series of sketches telling very simply and graphically the life led by Northern teachers in the South. It bears all the evidences of truthfulness and if it fails to impress the reader with the manhood and dignity of the old ruling class of the South, it is perhaps because the whole truth is told. One reading the book will stop to ask, Why not send missionaries to the white people of the South? They seem to need it more than the blacks."

Journal, Freeport, Ills.: "We are indebted to Mrs. Lila L. Buckley, of this city, for a copy of this interesting volume. The efforts made to elevate the freedmen of the South is one of the most important and deserving charities of the present time, far excelling any effort to elevate the heathen of foreign lands and it should have the aid of all charitable people in this country. ....The proceeds of sales is devoted to the work of elevating the freedmen of the South, and we trust that every one to whom Miss Waterbury applies will purchase a copy of the book, which is in itself fully worth the price. Miss Waterbury's grandfather, Rev. Calvin Waterbury, was the first Presbyterian minister in Freeport, and it was by his efforts that the First Presbyterian church in Freeport was established.

Polo, (Ills.,) Press: "Seven Years Among the Freedmen. Our townswoman Miss Maria Waterbury, the past winter, prepared for publication an account of some of her singular experiences in the "sixties" among the freedmen of Mississippi. Miss Waterbury and Miss Ford, both of this place, did grand work in those years and deserve no small mead of praise for their heroic sacrifices.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

The Nonesuch Professor,

In his Meridian Splendor. By William Secker (Puritan). With an introduction by Theo. L. Cuyler, D. D. 16 mo, $1.00.

"It is a mine of sparkling gems."—Presbyterian Observer.

"A sheaf of golden grain, ripened by grace, and sweet with the flavor of rare simplicity and holy wisdom."—N. Y. Observer.

"It is a searching book. —Christian Intelligencer.

"This is a wonderful book. At whatever page you open it, your eye lights upon pithy aphorisms that combine the sententiousness of Benjamin Franklin with the sweet, holy savor of Samuel Rutherford. It contains hundreds of bright seed thoughts."—Rev. T. L. Cuyler, D. D.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chica

THE GUIDING HAND;

—OR—

PROVIDENTIAL DIRECTION.

—)o(—

Illustrated by authentic instances of Relief and Deliverance in times of Trouble and Perplexity; of Direction through Dreams and Mental Impressions, and of Providential Guidance, resulting in Conversion. Recorded and collected by

H. L. HASTINGS,
(Editor of "The Christian.")

This striking work is divided into three parts as follows:

(1) Providences in Relief and Deliverances. (2) Dreams and Impressions. (3) Conversions.

The "Guiding Hand" contains nearly 400 pages. It is really a handsome book, printed on heavy book paper, from large open type, good for the eyes, and artistically and durably bound in fine cloth, with fancy panels. Price, $1.50.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison S Chicago, Ill

THE MYSTIC SHRINE

Illustrated.

THE FULL

ILLUSTRATED RITUAL

OF THE

Nobles of the Mystic Shrine

PRICE 15 CENTS, EACH.

For sale by the

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Talks to Sunday School Teachers.

By Rev. J. G. Terrill. 12mo, 200 pages, bound in fine cloth.....75

This book is the result of twenty-five years of experience in Sunday-school and treats of: 1. The Sunday-school organization and management. 2. Methods of work. 3. Studies in human nature. 4. Rules of interpretation as applied to the Bible. 5. Illustrative exercises for primary classes and children's meetings. In the style of presentation, subject matter and price of the book, the wants of the officers and teachers of the ordinary Sunday-school are kept in view.

S. S. Times:—A very comprehensive book. N. Y. Independent:—A sensible manual for the average Sunday-school teacher. Evan. Mess.:—We have been very favorably impressed with the book, because it is so intensely practical. The subject is systematically treated, and leaders of teacher's meetings can not do better than adopt it as a text-book and devote half an hour of each session to teaching the theory and practice of teaching as here systematized. Christian at Work:—Any school that will adopt this book generally and carry forward its work or doctrines here laid down will not be long in developing into a model school and reaping the harvest of a rich fruitage. Herald and Presbyter:—These Talks are well attested in their profitableness and excellence. Buffalo Advocate:—A plain, practical, common sense book on a very important subject. The author has had wide experience in this field of work. He knows thoroughly the ground over which he would lead others, and possesses the happy faculty of packing a great deal of valuable information as to matter and manner of teaching into this little hand-book. We commend it to the attention of all Sunday-school workers. Religious Telescope:—We are pleased with the plan and treatment of the subjects throughout, and are sure that the diligent Sunday-school teacher who longs for more thorough equipment, will find in this book a helper of great value. Illustrated Christian Weekly:—The author talks from observation and experience, and talks well.

Sunday School Publications.

The Pearl (Mo.)	Pr. Qr.	3c.	Sunshine (Mo.)	Pr. Qr.	2 c.
The Lily	" "	3 "	Pure Words	" "	8 "
Light & L.	Scholar's Qrly.	3 "	Light & L. Inf. Cl. wk.		4 "
" "	Teacher's "	5 "	" " Lesson Leaf	"	1½ "
Golden Treasures		1 "	L. & L. Primary Qly		4 "

SINGLE SUBSCRIPTIONS.

The Pearl, The Lily, Pure Words, & Sunshine, each	Pr. Yr.	25c	Teacher's Quarterly Scholar's " "	Pr. Yr.	25c 20c
The four to one address	"	75c	L. & L. Infant Class, weekly,		25c

CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

Sermons of Rev. John McNeill,

12mo. cloth, 416 pages, $1.50.

The fame of this Scottish Spurgeon, as he is very generally called, is becoming as wide-spread as the English tongue. The secret of his power over the masses, has been discussed on both sides of the Atlantic. If one may judge from these printed sermons the secret lies in a homely and pointed putting of the old truths of the Gospel in plain Anglo-saxon. There is evidence of study, but more the study of human nature, and particularly the human heart, than that of books, other than the Book of books—with this volume Mr. McNeill is evidently in love. With unquestioned faith he believes the writen word, and preaches it with an earnestness born of conviction.

Struck by Lightning.

A true and thrilling narrative of one who was struck by lightning; with incidents, experiences and anecdotes for old and young. By Rev. E. Owen.

With Striking Illustrations.

Beautifully bound in cloth, with title stamped in gold on side and back.....50c.
Paper cover.....30c.

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

Plan for Evading the Judgment—Request to be Whipped to Death—Learning to Swear—Alarmed by a Rattlesnake—Fall from a Building—Struck by Lightning—Converted—Sanctified—Called to Preach—First Effort—Casting out a Devil—Protracted Meeting on "Satan's Premises"—First Circuit—Revival in "Haying"—S. Hill Revival—Sisters' Quarrel Settled—Accused of Fortune-Telling—Souls Saved—Dreams—Too near Hell to Spend Time with—A Sceptic Awakened—Public Talk with a Universalist—A Chair Thrown at the Minister—Revival in Berlin—A Methodist Church of Baptist Converts—A Noisy Stage Passenger Quieted—Preaching on the Deck of a Steamboat—A Pleasure Trip—Two Overboard—Revival by Torch-light—A Fiddler Saved—A Slanderer Humbled—Bar-room Discussion—Saved by Expulsion from the Church—Dancing with the Devil—Answering a Fool According to his Folly—Raps for Spirit Rappings—Short Debate with a Restorationist—"Open Rebuke"—An Unspeakable Blessing.

COMMENDATIONS.

American Wesleyan: "Thrilling as a romance, and true to the last syllable. No private library or Sunday-school should be without a copy."

Phonographic Monthly, N. Y.: "Calculated to throw light into the dark places of orthodoxy."

Earnest Christian: "A true narrative of instructive events."

Lay Evangelist: "Quite entertaining and neatly gotten up."

Free Methodist: "Meeting with universal favor. Intensely interesting. We have read, laughed and cried, and shall try it again."

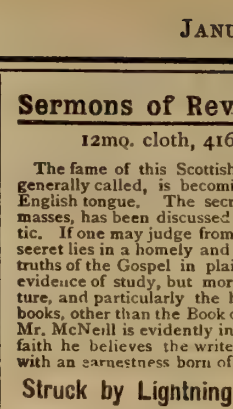
The Blue Bell.

The Mountain Daisy.

Daily Text books for a year. Dainty little souvenirs, only 1½ inches square, elegantly and neatly bound in leather, with silk marker, gilt edges, round corners, each net 25
Illuminated paper covers, each 10

Birthday Memorial Text-Book.
An Autograph Text-book. Text for each day and space for autographs. 32mo., Cloth..... 25

Daily Comfort in Four Fold Links.



The most popular Wall Roll published, and deservedly so. Every page is an effective sermon.

The striking character and particular value of this new Wall Roll is in the remarkable arrangement and selection of the Scripture Texts.

A constant monitor in the Christian household.

A silent teacher for the school.

A comforting messenger for the sick-room, as well as being suitable for the office, the store or the shop.

Printed in beautiful large, clear letters, easily discernible at a distance of 10 to 15 feet. Mounted on rollers, with cord, to hang up in usual style. 31 pages, size 14x22 in. 75

The Secret of Success; or

Finger Posts on the Highway of Life, by John T. Dale; introduction by Hon. John V. Farwell. 416 pages, 12mo., full cloth.....$1.50

A book for the aspiring. Written in a fascinating style and full of incidents and illustrations which hold the interest of the reader spell-bound.

"It may be true, as has been said, that 'books are sold, not bought;' but this, at any rate, is a book which, if brought to one's attention, he will wish to own. * * *

Such a book in every intelligent family in the land—how much (in showing so clearly, so wisely, so persuasively the secret of success,) it might do toward helping to solve the countless aching, burning questions of the time."—The Advance.

Prof. Henry Drummond's Booklets.

The Perfected Life. (The greatest need of the world.) Bound in chaste style, vellum paper..... 20

Love the Supreme Gift. (The greatest thing in the world.) Uniform with Perfected Life. 20

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago.

FARM NOTES.

STOCK AND DAIRY.

Delaware county, Iowa, has forty-one creameries. There are 790 in the State.

Warmth and cleanliness are two great factors in successful wintering of stock.

The principal cause for continued demand for Southdown sheep is that farmers desiring only a small flock are now looking to the mutton instead of the wool-producing qualities.

According to the figures furnished by the different railway station agents in Iowa there were 62,558,867 pounds of butter billed out of the State in the year ending September 30, 1893.

Probably the heaviest sheep at the World's Columbian Exposition was the three-year-old Oxford ram, Keepsake, which weighed 436 pounds. The heaviest yearling ram was probably the Oxford, Heythrope Prince 2nd, belonging to Geo. McKerrow, Sussex, Wisconsin. It weighed 350 pounds.

Did you ever figure how much more it costs to keep a stable or pen clean than it does to let it be so filthy as to make the animal uncomfortable and liable to disease all winter, and then clean the quarters out in the spring? If you have not, our advice is to do the cleaning out every day until you have "worked out the sum."

The sheep interests now need the most careful attention, and breeders and woolgrowers cannot do better than consult with one another. The meetings of the several State associations afford good opportunities for consultation, and this interest will be greatly benefited by a large attendance and full discussions at these conventions.

At the meeting of the New York State sheep-breeders, at Rochester, President S. B. Lusk said that looking at the subject in any way he might, he saw nothing but the certainty of free wool. He said the American Merino is the only sheep that has withstood all importations in this country, and he counseled the careful breeding of that variety, even though it be done at a loss for a time, for it would pay in the end. The American Merino clothes the world, and the world must be clothed in the future as in the past.—Farm, Field and Fireside.

CLUBBING RATES.

Your attention is called to the reading notice in another column of the the Midland, (U. P.) Chicago and Omaha.

The Christian Cynosure and The Cosmopolitan magazine, New York, each one year, for only $2.50. Any paper or magazine furnished in connection with the Cynosure at a rate that may save you money. Send in the list of papers and magazines that you wish to take for 1894, and we will give you their cost including the Cynosure for one year.

The Christian Witness

Is an eight-page undenominational monthly; the official organ of the New Hampshire Christian Association, opposed to secret societies. It advocates Bible Holiness, Church Purity, Sound Morality and Temperance.

Terms: 50 cents a year, or three years for $1.00.

Send stamp for sample copy.

Address S. C. KIMBALL,
Box 277. Newmarket, N. H.

DO YOU WANT

To receive, read, distribute and otherwise aid in the circulation of a large number of Holiness and Reform papers and magazines? If so, send me a SILVER dime, and your name and address will be printed on the Holiness and Reform Mail Exchange List, which is sent to all publishers of holiness and reform literature, who will mail you sample papers and magazines. Write name and address PLAINLY. Address, J. H. PADGETT, Printer. Ennis, Texas.

Your Family

should be provided with the well-known emergency medicine,

AYER'S

CHERRY PECTORAL

The best remedy for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. Prompt to act,

Sure to Cure

AMERICAN HANDBOOK

AND

CITIZEN MANUAL.

BY

MANLOVE N. BUTLER.

CONTENTS:—Bible and Secretism; Masonic Religion; Masonic Sun Worship; Masonic Government; Unwritten History; Grand Lodge Masonry; Public Opinion; Lodge and Saloon; The American Movement; Real Prohibition; Poor Man's Bible, and All-Around Reformers. Over 200 pages

Paper, single copy 40c.; per doz. 35c.

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
WM. I. PHILLIPS, Treasurer,
221 W. Madison St., Chic

THE TWO-FOLD GIFT of the Holy Ghost,

BY REV. THOS. K. DOTY,
Author of Lessons in Holiness.

240 pp. Price postpaid.....65cts.

The design of this book is, in plain language, to designate the place of the Holy Ghost in both the Godhead and the work of Salvation. Especially to show that Entire Santification is wrought in the heart by the Baptism of Holy Ghost; and that the Epoch of the Baptism is identical with that of his Advent in his Indwelling Personalty. The agency of the Holy Ghost in the Life, and in carrying on the work of the Gospel, is given particular attention.

TITLES TO THE CHAPTERS:

1. A Summary. 2. The Holy Ghost a Person. 3. The New Testament Designating Terms. 4. The Scriptural View. 5. The Holy Ghost is God. 6. Blasphemy Against the Holy Ghost. 7. The Triunity of God. 8. The Apostolic Benediction. 9. The Worship of the Holy Ghost. 10. The Dispensations. 11. The First Dispensation. 12. The Second Dispensation. 13. Holiness—Sinning. 14. "The Sin of the World." 15. Final Deliverance from Sin. 16. The Day of the Holy Ghost. 17. Jesus and the Holy Ghost. 18 and 19. The Epoch of the Holy Ghost. 20. The Anointing. 21. The Baptism of the Holy Ghost. 22. The Baptism of Fire. 23. The Two-Fold Experiences of the Holy Ghost. 24. Fellowship of the Holy Ghost. 25. "In the Spirit." 26. Several Scriptural Terms Considered. 27. Pentecost. 28. Inspiration—Prophecy. 29. Spiritual Leading and Teaching. 30. The Gifts of the Spirit. 31. "Praying in the Holy Ghost." 31 and 32. Power.

This book is creating quite a stir in religious circles. The original, bold and convincing manner of presenting the subject, has forced the press to comment upon the book, either adversely or favorably, generally the latter. We give a few OPINIONS:

Bible Standard and Gospel Record: "This book is very compact, scarcely a superfluous sentence in the whole book. The manner of treating the questions involved is both clear and scriptural. .....The effect of the book will be to deepen thought and increase knowledge and, in the end, deepen piety."

Evangelical Messenger: "Brother Thomas K. Doty has written a book which we take pleasure in commending to all devout readers who enjoy all spiritual things. The subject is so important, and the treatment of it so timely, that we may be pardoned for calling attention to it thus prominently. We, at least have been greatly interested, and gratefully acknowledge that we have also been decidedly profited by persuing it .....Brother Doty writes with an incisive pen, in a clear, lucid style, often epigrammatical and with great force. He is evidently deeply impressed with the truth of what he writes and demands the respect even where he does not gain the intellectual assent of his readers. With al the book is written in a kindly, candid spirit, rather didactic than polermical, and is calculated to help the reader and not to rouse his opposition, as is the case with so many books which have been written upon this and kindred subjects. The theological views expressed are orthodox, and in some cases the argument is fresh in matter, and certainly fresh in form throughout."

Christian Cynosure: "His book is one of the most excellent, instructive and practical of any that have come to our knowledge. The exposition of the Scriptures concerning the personality and work of the Spirit is very clear, able and comforting. There is much dogmatising on these topics by Christians who never fully felt the power of the Spirit's work, or are not living in gracious fellowship with him. To all such and to those who have not yet learned what gifts the Lord is waiting to bestow on his people we heartily commend the careful reading of this volume."

NAT'L CHRISTIAN ASS'N,
221 W. Madison st., Chicago

RECENT PUBLICATIONS

OF

FLEMING H. REVELL.

Modern Ideas of Evolution.

As related to Revelation and Science. By Sir William Dawson, L. L. D., F. R. S., etc. 12 mo, cloth, $1.50.

In popular style, a testing by scientific facts and principles, the validity of that multiform and brilliant philosophy of the universe, which has taken so deep a hold of the science and literature of our times.

The New World of Central Africa

By Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness; with a history of the first Christian mission on the Congo. Maps, Portraits and numerous engravings. 537 pages, 12 mo, $2.00.

This comprehensive volume is as fascinating as the most entertaining romance. Its vivid portraval of the dark side of African history makes one's blood tingle, while its earnest appeals create an inspiring sympathy with the effort to evangelize its teeming millions.

Power From on High.

By Rev. B. Fay Mills. White vellum paper, 20 cents.

This little work, revised from stenographic notes of Mr. Mills' address before the National Convention of the Y. P. S. C. E., is exceedingly effective.

Matthew Henry's Commentary.

An entirely new large type edition of this inimitable Commentary, in six large 8vo. volumes, fine cloth, $15.00; or, in half Morocco, $18.00.

"Biblical students who are most familiar with the very best commentaries of this generation are most able to appreciate the unfading freshness, the clear analysis, the spiritual force, the quaint humor, and the evangelical richness of Matthew Henry's Exposition of the Old and New Testaments."—New York Observer

"First among the mighty for general usefulness we are bound to mention the man whose name is a household word—MATTHEW HENRY. He is the most pious and pithy, sound and sensible, suggestive and sober, terse and trust worthy."—Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

The Present Tenses of the Blessed Life.

By Rev. F. B. Meyer. 32 mo, 50 cents.

"It is sufficient to say its one direct aim is the present enjoyment of the precious promises. Mr. Meyer's earnest and persuasive teaching in this direction is admirably condensed in these brief chapters."

BY THE SAME AUTHOR:

Christian Living. Cloth, 32 mo, 50 cents.

"A more suggestive and helpful volume it would not be easy to name."—Christian Leader.

The Shepherd Psalm. Cloth, 32 mo, 50c.

"This is a gem."—Illustrated Christian Weekly

"It is a little book which hundreds of devout hearts will enjoy."—Congregationalist.

Power From on High.

By Rev. B. Fay Mills. White vellum paper, 20 cents.

This little work, revised from stenographic notes of Mr. Mills' address before the National Convention of the Y. P. S. C. E., is exceedingly effective.

OTHER WORKS BY C. H. SPURGEON:

Feathers for Arrows; Or, Illustrations for Teachers and Preachers. 12 mo, $1.

"This work covers a wide range of subjects. The metaphors are always striking and frequently brilliant, while the truths that they illustrate are such as have always formed the staple of Mr. Spurgeon's discourses. A choicer collection of illustrations we do not know."—Freeman.

Spurgeon's Gems. Being a selection of brilliants from his discourses. 12 mo, $1.

The Golden Alphabet. Being a Devotional Commentary on the One Hundred and Nineteenth Psalm. 12 mo, $1.00.

"Mr. Spurgeon brings out the truths and beauties of this wonderful Psalm so as to set a rich feast before the reader. As a practical commentator on the Psalms, Spurgeon has no equal."—Presbyterian Banner.

"This commentary is written in quite the happiest vein of its popular author, and the devotional spirit throughout is intense and elevating."—Occident.

Gleanings Among the Sheaves. 18 mo, 60c.

All of Grace. An earnest word with those seeking the way of life. 16 mo, paper, 30 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

According to Promise; Or, the Lord's Dealings with His chosen People. 16 mo, paper, 30 cents; cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Christmas Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve New Year Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Sermons on the Resurrection. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth. 50 cents.

"Preachers may get aid in preparing Easter or funeral sermons from this volume. Good to present to those who have lost loved ones."—National Baptist.

Twelve Striking Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Twelve Soul-Winning Sermons. 8 vo, 146 pages, cloth, 50 cents.

Selected by Mr. Spurgeon as the twelve sermons under which there has been the most marked and permanent success

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

The New World of Central Africa.

By Mrs. H. Grattan Guinness, with a history of the first Christian mission on the Congo. 12mo., 530 pages with maps, portraits and numerous illustrations. $2.00

"A conscientious piece of work, and gives a very clear account of what has been done by the Protestant missions to evangelize the barbarous races of Central Africa. * * * He who wants to know what missionary effort means in these days may well learn from this volume. * * * The reader who goes carefully through will have a good bird's eye view of recent events in Africa, with all the results of modern travel. * * * The work contains solid information of use to all who are interested in the future of this wonderful country. The many illustrations throw light upon savage customs and costumes."—Graphic.

In the Far East.

Letters from China by Geraldine Guinness, edited by her sister, with introduction by Rev. J. Hudson Taylor. Very fully illustrated. Quarto cloth, ...$1.50

This book was scarcely written—it was lived; for the breath of life is in it from cover to cover * * * We have never read so wonderful an account of successful missionary effort.—Presbyterian.

We easily understand how this edition is the fifteenth thousand. It is a very remarkable book.—The Golden Rule.

Frances Ridley Havergall's Poems.

Author's edition complete. The only unabridged authorized edition published in America.

1. 12mo., 880 pages, cloth, beveled....2.00
2. Beveled boards, full gilt.....2.50
3. Half white vellum, gilt top, uncut edges, ...2.50
4. French morocco padded, roll red under gold edges...4.00
5. Persian calf, padded and embossed, gilt roll and r. g. 5.00
6. Crushed levant, elegant.....6.00
7. Full German calf, padded, elegant, gilt, rd. cors.....7.50

Miss Havergall stands without peer in the English language in the department of religious poetry.

"The book in paper and binding is all that could be desired."—Publishers' Weekly.

Small Books by Miss Havergall.

Bound in elegant illuminated board covers.

Kept for the Master's Use.
.....50

My King; Daily Thoughts for the Little Children.....50

Works of Rev. C. H. Spurgeon.

Sermon Notes. Covering all the Bible from Genesis to Revelation. 4 vols.....4.00
Feathers for Arrows. A volume of Choice Extracts, 12mo., cloth.....1.00
Twelve Striking Sermons...... 50
Twelve Soul Winning Sermons, ... 50
Twelve Sermons on the Resurrection 50
Twelve New Year Sermons..... 50
Twelve Christmas Sermons..... 50

Notes by C. H. M.

On Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers and Deuteronomy.

Mr. D. L. Moody says of these books: "They have been to me a very key to the Scriptures."

Deuteronomy is issued in two volumes, the others complete in one volume each.

Separate volumes may be had if desired.

The complete set in six volumes, covering over 2,300 pages, is offered at the reduced price of 75c per vol. or $4.50 per set

A. L. O. E. Intermediate Library.

Selected from the numerous productions of this world-renowned writer as being those of rare merit. 12 vols., 12mo., cloth elegant, each 75c; set.....9.00

An Eden in England.	Life in Eagle's Nest.
Ned Franks.	White Bear's Den.
Sheer Off.	Fairy Spider's Web.
Braid of Chords.	Lake in the Woods.
Silver Keys.	Seven Perils Passed.
Grace Vernon.	Hartley Brothers.

The Jessica Series. By Hesba Stretton. 6 vols., handsome bindings, cloth 50c each, or per set 2.10

Jessica's First Prayer.	Friends till Death.
No Place Like Home.	A Miserable Christmas
Under the Old Roof.	A Night and a Day.

A. L. O. E. Junior Library. Adapted to the young folks. 7 vols., 12mo., cloth each 60c; the set. 4 20

Claremont Tales.	A Wreath of Smoke.
Christian Conquests.	Pomegranates from
Tales Illustrative of Parables.	Punjab.
The Battle of Life.	Little Bullets from Batala.

The Hesba Stretton Series. 8 vols., elegant cloth bound, per set..... .....4 80

Cassy.	King's Servant.
Lost Gip.	Alone in London.
Max Kromer.	Little Meg's Children
Storm of Life	Crew of the Dolphin.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
221 W. Madison St. Chicag

Royal Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

A cream of tartar baking powder. Highest of all in leavening strength. — Latest United States Government Food Report.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO.,
106 Wall St., N. Y.

NEWS OF THE WEEK.

CHICAGO.

Postmaster Hesing threatens to move his office from the government building unless needed repairs are at once made.

Executive committee of the Illinois W. C. T. U. has decided to remove the State headquarters from Chicago to Bloomington.

Director General Davis is displeased with the design adopted by John B. Thatcher for World's Fair medals, and will urge a change.

Exposition directors have decided to have a history of the Fair written from the standpoint of Chicagoans.

Bleached bones of twenty-eight Chinese, packed in a tin box hermetically sealed, were shipped to the flowery kingdom.

Shut in with smallpox patients and refused food, 100 men quarantined in the Ironsides Hotel threatened to break out.

An alleged investment company, selling lots in "Streeter's Lake Shore drive addition," was refused registry by the recorder.

Representative business and professional interests are responding liberally to the call for aid for the unemployed.

George H. Painter, condemned to die for Alice Martin's murder, was again respited by Governor Altgeld, this time till Jan. 26.

In affirming a judgment against the Lake Shore, Judge Gary held that the railways should make crossings safe.

Editor Stead will publish the names of men, women and religious institutions leasing property for immoral purposes.

Ossian Guthrie says work on the drainage canal is in such shape that it can be completed in three years.

At the banks money is plentiful and about at borrowers' rates where the collateral is first-class.

New bailiffs were put in charge of the Coughlin jury. Detective Flynn testified to finding Cronin's knives on Coughlin.

COUNTRY.

President Andrews, of Brown, has declined the chancelorhip of Chicago University.

Cashier Campbell has made good the loss of $15,600 suffered by the South Bend (Ind.) bank through his carelessness.

Springfield was selected as the permanent site of the Illinois State fair by the board of agriculture.

Armed with a red-hot poker, a New York virago cleared a police court of spectators and officers.

Lewis Redmire has been found guilty of embezzling $103,000 from the Gate City Bank at Atlanta, Ga., and was sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

Burglars raided Courtland, Ala. Every business place was broken into, wagons being used to carry off the plunder.

Rev. Daniel Cook Jacokes, M. A., S. T. D., died at Pontaic, Mich., of paralysis, in the 81st year of his age.

George W. Lyon, head of the Chicago music-house of Lyon, Potter & Co., died at Jacksonville, Fla. He was 69 years old.

Notwithstanding the protests of the students, Murray Briggs will be reappointed a trustee of the Indiana Normal School.

Many prominent politicians and officials of Brooklyn are in danger of indictment for connection with election frauds.

New York banks will advance no more gold for export until an understanding is reached with the Treasury.

Citizens of Deadwood, S. D., have formed a vigilance committee and will stop further interference with non-union miners.

Dun's Trade Review notes a distinct improvement in business, based on actual increase in the production of industries.

Treasury officials have estimated the gold production of the world at nearly $150,000,000 for the year 1893.

The Western immigrant pool is endangered by the competition of the Union Pacific and Canadian lines.

Net earnings of all Nebraska roads show a slight increase for 1893 as compared with the previous year.

Admission of Utah, Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma is favored by the Republican national executive committee.

Hawaii was debated in the Senate. Mr. Turpie denounced ex-Minister Stevens, and Mr. Davis the flag incident.

Secretary Carlisle will be compelled to issue bonds under the law of 1875 unless Congress enacts new legislation.

FOREIGN.

In Spain a bomb with lighted fuse was found on the staircase of the palace of Marquis de Olivas by the son-in-law of the Marquis, who crushed out the fire with his foot. There is no clew to the perpetrator of the outrage.

Late advices from Capetown confirm the report of the massacre of Captian Wilson's force of thirty-four men by the Matabeles, and give the details of the affair.

Another sharp engagement has taken place in the harbor of Rio Janeiro between the rebels on the warships and the land forts. The engagement was hot while it lasted, and the results rather in favor of the government land batteries.

Late news from Honolulu states that the provisional government made known its reply to Minister Willis Jan. 6. President Cleveland has made public the dispatches which passed between Mr. Willis and the government. Minister Thurston, who is at present in San Francisco, in an open letter to the public says that there is no prospect of any radical change in the existing order in Honolulu.

SUBSCRIPTION LETTERS.

The following have made remittances of money to the Cynosure from Jan. 8 to Jan. 13:

W J Connery, J A Chamberlain, W N Perrin, Miss M E Bonnet, J Shelby, L C Livesay, M Bridenbaugh, O Sholes, D L Amspoker, S Stutzman, Mrs. J. Kuns, Miss L H Rublee, B J Butler, W A Davis, W P. King, A O Howell, J F Icke, Elder A Freeman, Ira Green, Eld A McGrew, Rev A Krafft, R H Orr, C G Callison, Rev W Miller, W H Minton, Rev C J Bengston, R Wait, Rev J Brewer, Dr E C Guild, S Heaton, Mrs W H Shepherd, J A Reynolds, Rev J Excell, A H Dornbirer, A M Miller, Rev G W Wilfong, L M Samson, J A Millin, B Doolittle, W Witter, W B Guild, R Moore, F Childs, J Henderson, P F Thurber, J A Torrence, J Knowles, Mrs M E McKee, Ira Dilley, D M Gillespie, H L Woodard, S B McGrew, L A Cole, J Gourley, C M Parker, H F Buffham, T M Weeks, W W Wait, L B Lathrop, J W Collins, E A Washburn, J Palmer.

"Now is the winter of our discontent made glorious summer" by Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This wonderful medicine so invigorates the system and enriches the blood that cold weather becomes positively enjoyable. Arctic explorers would do well to make a note of this.

Skin

diseases are caused by impure or depleted blood. The blood ought to be pure and rich. It is made so by the Cream of Cod-liver Oil. Scrofula and Anæmia are overcome also, and Healthy Flesh is built up. Physicians, the world over, endorse it.

Scott's Emulsion

Don't be deceived by Substitutes!

Prepared by Scott & Bowne, N. Y. All Druggists.

JONATHAN BLANCHARD'S

SERMONS AND ADDRESSES.

Select discourses of the late editor of the Cynosure and leader in our reform. Lectures, sermons and speeches given from 1834 to 1892 in leading cities of the United States, discussing topics of

LIVING REFORM.

Secret Societies,
The Sabbath,
Temperance,
National Reform,
Christian Education,
Christian Socialism,
The Bible, Etc., Etc.

A BOOK EVERYBODY SHOULD READ

12mo. Fine Photogravure Portrait.

Price, 75 Cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
221 W. Madison St., Chicago

MY EXPERIENCES
WITH
SECRET SOCIETIES.
BY A TRAVELER.
With a Key to Masonry Illustrated

A new edition, greatly enlarged, has been issued, embracing chapters on the Language of Numbers, Secret Empires, and Good Men, containing more Experiences, and affording a deeper insight into the Hidden Language and Workings of Secret Clans, and of the counterfeit pre tences of good men, than ever before pub lished. The Key is an exposition, explanation and verification of modern Baalism, with which all should be thoroughly acquainted. The price of the new edition is

Fifteen Cents,

but copies of the first edition will be forwarded for Ten Cents.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASS'N.,
231 W. Madison St., Chicago

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO.

Wheat—Spring No. 3	60	@	61¼
Winter No. 2	60	@	62
Corn—No. 2	34	@	34⅝
Oats—No. 2	26¾	@	29¼
Rye—No. 2	45⅛	@
Bran per ton	12 37½	@
Hay—Timothy	9 00	@11	00
Butter, medium to best	16	@	24⅛
Cheese	06	@	12½
Beans	1 30	@ 1	60
Eggs	10	@	17
Seeds—Timothy (100 lbs)	3 80	3	90
Flax	1 35½	@ 1	36
Clover (100 lbs.)	9 00	10	25
Broom corn (per ton)	35 00	@75	00
Potatoes, (new, bu.)	40	@	60
Hides—Green to dry flint	03¾	@	05⅝
Lumber—Common		@15	50
Wool (unwashed)	15		19
Cattle—Choice to extra	4 85	@ 5	65
Common to good	3 80	@ 4	60
Hogs	4 95	@ 5	40
Sheep	3 00	@ 3	35

NEW YORK.

Wheat No. 2	66¼	@	67⅜
Corn No 2	41⅝	@	42⅛
Oats	33¼	@	35
Rye	48	@	57
Eggs	14	@	21
Butter	15	@	25½
Wool	10	@	26

KANSAS CITY.

Cattle	1 40	@ 4	15
Hogs	4 90	@ 5	25
Sheep	slow and weak

$12 00 to $35.00 a week can be made working for us. Parties preferred who can furnish a horse and travel through the country; a team, though, is not necessary. A few vacancies in towns and cities. Men and women of good character will find this an exceptional opportunity for profitable employment. Spare hours may be used to good advantage. B. F. JOHNSON & CO., 11th and Main Streets, Richmond, Va.

O that this book of yours had been issued 50 years ago when I began my ministry! But it will be worth 10 times its cost the few years I have.—Rev. T. J. Griffiths, Princeton Junction, N. J., Dec. 11, 1893.

Bible classes special rate

LITERAL INTERLINEAR NEW TESTAMENT

The word "love" as everybody knows, should replace "charity" in 1st Corinthians, XIII. There are thousands of similar instances. In all such instances that other word, "the word that illumines," may be found at a moment's notice and on the instant in this book.

"A new search light to illuminate the text."

Divinity Circuit or Teachers' Bible Style, $5.00; Half Leather, $4.00; Cloth, $3.00.

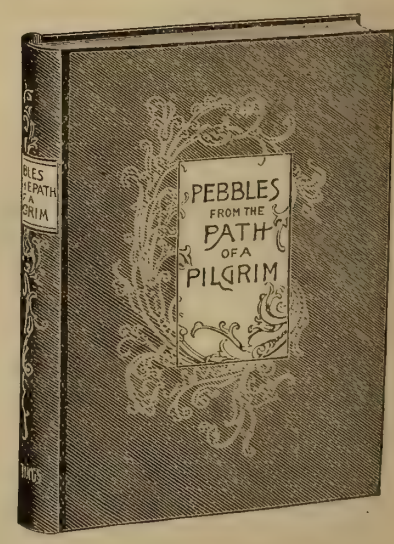
At all book stores, or special reduction if this (Christian Cynosure) ad. is enclosed with order to the publishers.

Arthur Hinds & Co., 4 Cooper Institute, N. Y.

Pebbles from the Path of a Pilgrim.

—BY—

MRS. H. L. HASTINGS.



This remarkable collection of stories from the eventful life of a Green Mountain girl has been pronounced "more fascinating than any romance." A member of Congress writes: "'Pebbles' has been read by me with great interest. The introductory chapter has followed me into dreams. My copy is read to pieces by the family, and borrowed to death by the neighbors." An editor says: "Surely the faith that 'obtained promises, wrought righteousness, and stopped the mouth of lions,' must have been given in large measure to the writer of this truly remarkable book.... No family library should be without it." "'Pebbles,'" says the Christian Cynosure, "is such a book as Christian parents are always glad to put on their center-tables."

"Pebbles from the Path of a Pilgrim" is a large and beautiful book of over 300 pages, printed on heavy book paper, from clear open type, and is profusely illustrated. It is artistically bound in handsome cloth, with fancy panels, and specially attractive side and back cover designs. Price, $1.50.

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION
231 W. Madison St., Chicag

Christian Cynosure.

"IN SECRET HAVE I SAID NOTHING."—Jesus Christ.

VOL. XXVI., No. 20 CHICAGO, THURSDAY, JANUARY 25, 1894. WHOLE No. 1,239.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE

NATIONAL CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION,

221 West Madison Street, Chicago.

SUBSCRIPTIONS PER YEAR..... $2.00
IF PAID STRICTLY IN ADVANCE..... 1.50

☞No paper discontinued unless so requested by the subscriber, and all arrearages paid.☜

Address all letters for publication to EDITOR CHRISTIAN CYNOSURE, CHICAGO. Writers' names must always be given. No manuscript returned unless requested and postage enclosed.

Make all drafts and money orders payable to the Treasurer, W. I. PHILLIPS, 221 WEST MADISON STREET, CHICAGO. When possible make remittances by express money order. Currency by unregistered letter at sender's risk. When writing to change address on Cynosure list always give the former address.

[Entered at the Postoffice, Chicago, Ill. as Second Class Matter.]

CONTENTS.

EDITORIAL:
Notes and Comments.... 1
Student Fraternities.... 8
College Secret Societies. 8
The Secret Lodge System..... 8
The Lord's Hand in our Reform..... 8
Female College Societies 9
CONTRIBUTIONS:
Secrecy and Christianity 1
COLLEGE FRATERNITIES:
A Principle and a Proposition; Our College Fraternities; Why they are not Prohibited; The Opinion of a Sophomore; Testimony from Experience 2,3
NEW ENGLAND LETTER..... 4
WASHINGTON LETTER..... 4
LODGE NOTES..... 7
REFORM NEWS:
The Eastern Secretary —Pennsylvania Convention 5
CORRESPONDENCE:
More "Facts from Washington;" A Blind Preacher and his Work; Free Speech and a Free Press; The Help of the Lodge 5,6
AGENTS AND LECTURERS.... 7
THE N. C. A..... 7
THE HOME.....10
TEMPERANCE.....11
BIBLE LESSON.....12
LITERATURE.....12
RELIGIOUS NEWS.....12
HOME AND HEALTH.....14
FARM NOTES.....15
NEWS OF THE WEEK.....16
MARKETS.....16

PENNSYLVANIA ANNUAL ANTI-SECRECY MEETING.

To the Friends of the Cause of Anti-secrecy in Pennsylvania:—You are requested to assemble in the First United Presbyterian church, corner of Broad and Lombard streets, in the city of Philadelphia, on Monday and Tuesday, February 26 and 27, to hear reports and discuss matters that pertain to the Master's cause as they stand related to the National Christian Association and its work.

The opening session will be on Monday, February 26, at 7:30 P. M.

Rev. W. B. Stoddard, Field Secretary, will arrange and report program, with the advice of friends in Philadelphia.

Perils are imminent—the times auspicious. Let prayer be made for the presence and blessing of the Master of assemblies. Let there be a full rally of godly, praying people, male and female. Wise men will be glad to confer and know what "Israel ought to do" to turn back the tide of this flood which the dragon has sent out to destroy the church and the nation.

Reformers should be aroused!

Statesmen should be warned!

Victims should be saved from this all-desolating flood!

Let this convention inaugurate a new era of activity, zeal and success.

S. COLLINS, Pres.
J. S. T. MILLIGAN, Cor. Sec'y.
Beaver, Pa., Jan. 12, 1894.

From evidence in his possession, a correspondent intimates that in two States, and perhaps in more, an amazing proportion of the members of the bench and bar, and of the government officers, are Freemasons. He adds a suggestion, which we commend to all readers of the Cynosure, that they should endeavor to ascertain how far this condition of the supremacy of the secret fraternities prevails in their several States and report the result to this paper. It is a good idea.

In view of the fact that "college football fights have become practically prize fights between colleges, with all the gambling, betting and other accessories," Geo. T. Angell, President of the American Humane Society, suggests that Harvard should establish a "professorship of pugilism," and nominates John L. Sullivan as the first occupant of the chair. The graduates' degree would be "D. P.—Doctor of Pugilism." This bit of sarcasm is deserved.

In answer to the charge that is sometimes made—evidently with malice aforethought—that the National Christian Association's publications do not correctly represent Freemasonry and other secret societies: As its printed rituals are copied from lodge charge-books and other official sources, and confirmed by seceding members of the lodge, the allegation proves itself unfounded. Other societies may, and do, change their rituals, from time to time, and in our publications the official changes are also made; but as for Freemasonry, in no essential can it be changed. Its grips, permanent passwords, signs and due-guards are as irrevocable as the laws of the Medes and Persians. What they were when Morgan, and Bernard, and Allyn, and Finney wrote about them they still remain, and will until Freemasonry itself shall cease to exist. See "Mackey's Encyclopædia of Freemasonry," page 440.

"Cahenslyism," according to the famous Cahensly Memorial, "affects the interests of the countries from which emigration takes place. Through their emigrants the nations are acquiring in the great republic (the United States) an influence and an importance of which they will one day be able to make great profit. The nations have an immense interest in their emigrants, being represented in the episcopate of the United States by bishops of their own." According to this, Cahenslyism is no better than Jesuitism. "The society of Jesuits," writes Bishop Coxe to Satolli, "is not a church but a conspiracy. While this conspiracy is permitted to assail the dearest rights of Americans, there can be no peace or harmony or good neighborhood among us. Subject them to law or expel the whole society. . . To devour widows' houses, and drain our national and local treasures to their own channels and insatiable jaws—this is Jesuitism." And if we "read between the lines" of the Cahensly Memorial, this, also, is Cahenslyism.

The Washington correspondent of the Inter Ocean notes the fact that non-Catholic Democrats are strenuously opposing the appointment, by President Cleveland, of Martin J. Russell for Collector of the Chicago Federal district, and of Frank Lawler for United States Marshal of Illinois, because they are Catholic. Incidentally it is mentioned that the new postmaster, Hesing, is a Catholic, and the non-Catholics protest against all the important offices being filled by members of one church. In support of their opposition to Russell and Lawler, they have notified the President that the municipal, Federal and State offices in Chicago are already filled by Catholics as follows: The Mayor, Chief of Police, Chief of the Fire Department, Postmaster, State's Attorney, clerks of the Circuit, Probate and Superior Courts, a number of the judges of the several courts, forty-five of the sixty-eight aldermen, ninety-five per cent of the police force, and sixty-seven per cent of the school-teachers. In view of this condition of affairs, the non-Catholic Democrats deemed it necessary to interpose their objections, lest the Federal Government should render itself liable to unpleasant criticism. It is uncertain what action the President will take.

The prosecution in the second trial of Dan Coughlin for participation in the murder of Dr. P. H. Cronin closed its case last week, and the defense will have the floor from this on, beginning on Wednesday. An unusual event, last week, intensified interest in the trial—a letter from Mr. Kickham Scanlan to a daily city paper, in which it was implied that the prosecution had doubts concerning two-thirds of the jury in the case. As Mr. Scanlan is one of the prosecuting attorneys, the attention of the bar and bench was called to his statement, and he was severely scored by Attorney Wing of the defense and the presiding judge. His explanation that his letter was "not intended for publication" hardly atones for his malfeasance. The first witness to be called by the defence is Dan Coughlin, the prisoner at the bar, who will testify in his own behalf. His testimony will undertake to show that he was not a participator in the assassination, because he was elsewhere on that occasion. Other witnesses will be called to sustain his self-evidence; and the defence, it is premised, will endeavor to break down the testimony of all the principal witnesses for the prosecution—principally Mrs. Foy and Frank Bardeen. The Clan-na-Gael may not be on trial in this case, but it evidently intends to make a strong effort to secure the acquittal of Coughlin if hard swearing will do it.

SECRECY AND CHRISTIANITY.

[Address of Rev. M. D. Kneeland before the convention of the New England Christian Association at Boston, December 20, 21, 1893.]

Certain attributes belong exclusively to Deity. In him they are strength and glory, while in man they are weakness and sin. Vengeance is one of them. "Vengeance is mine; I will repay," saith the Lord. Secrecy is another. The infinite Creator has not revealed all wisdom, of which he is the source to the finite creature. In fact, the finite mind cannot grasp "the deep things of God." "Secret things belong to the Lord our God." "It is the glory of God to conceal a thing." Man cannot "by searching find out God." He walks by faith in the presence of many divine mysteries, which increase human modesty, patience and reverence.

The omniscience of Deity makes him also a "Revealer of secrets." "There is nothing hid, or nothing kept secret," from him. "He shall bring into judgment every secret thing." "His eyes are upon the ways of man, and he seeth all his goings." "Nothing is secret that shall not be made manifest." God, therefore, the Omniscient One, as the very necessity of his nature and Godhead, is a concealer and revealer of secrets.

No such necessity exists in man. He has no need of concealment, since he is able to grasp but a small fraction of divine wisdom. His puny efforts at secrecy are opposed to his finite nature and are evidences of his frailty. Our Saviour did not reveal all the mysteries of the Godhead, because man could not bear them. He became a perfect man and set an example to humanity in the frankness and openness of his utterances. "In secret have I said nothing."

While the mysteries of Deity are always spoken of in the Scriptures as an evidence of his superiority, majesty and glory, man's secret schemes are connected with evils against which he is again and again warned. Notice some of the "unfruitful works of darkness." The adulterer "setteth his face in secret." The ungodly indulges in "secret faults," and lurks in "secret places" for rapine and murder. The idolater worships his idol "in the secret place." The "children of darkness love darkness rather than light because their deeds are evil."

Christ reproved Nicodemus, because he was a night-disciple, while he said to his true followers: "Ye are the light of the world." "He that doeth truth cometh to the light."

From this hasty review, we see that God's revealed Word is opposed to the principles and practices of secrecy among men. This Word is the book of Christianity, and hence, secrecy and Christianity are, from their nature, in conflict with each other.

It is only fair to state that secrecy, as developed in different secret lodges, or societies, has in it different grades of evil. All lodges and oath-bound organizations are not equally harmful; but all are opposed to the general spirit and teachings of God's Word and to the ground principles of truth and righteousness.

We are also free to confess that in exceptional periods of human history it has sometimes seemed to be necessary to meet secret foes with secrecy, and thus defend justice, liberty and the old covenant. These possible exceptions, however, do not militate against the general argument. Because it is sometimes necessary to use poison, it is nevertheless a dangerous and destructive thing, and legislation against its use is wise.

We regard the ordinary secret lodge as more or less poisonous in its effect upon its members and society. In answer to the plea that many of these lodges are engaged in some helpful work for humanity, and have just enough secrecy to hold their members together, and keep out intruders, I reply that while we are heartily in favor of all good which they may plan or perform, we are convinced that their secrecy is an element of weakness rather than of strength, and that the benefit which results is much more than overbalanced by the evils which directly or indirectly flow from it. Dropping this objectionable feature, the lodge would win as large and a better following, we believe, in a great majority of cases and would meet with a much greater success.

But our purpose to-night is not to speak of temperance and insurance societies as much as of the great oath-bound organizations, which have become such a potent factor in social and political life. What is their relation to Christianity? We answer:

"They are opposed to the individual liberty of the child of God. They have always endangered civil liberty. The cabals, star chambers, inquisitions, towers and bastiles have been, through the ages, strongholds of tyranny, oppression and persecution. Those who would plot against their fellows and their country, have formed themselves into secret orders, with oaths, masks and "white-caps;" and even though their purpose may sometimes be a good one, they endanger human liberty and are a perpetual foe of law and order.

But limiting our attention to the liberty of the individual soul, what do we find? We find it throttled in the assembly chamber of secrecy. The very first step into that chamber is over the prostrate body of independent judgment. The will is surrendered to the control of the lodge and order. A promise—nay, a solemn vow, with most horrible penalties affixed—is made not to reveal the secret which shall in the future be disclosed to the novice, and to be faithful and obedient to all rules and requirements, before they are made known. Can a more abject surrender of one's individuality than this be conceived? Can a child of God abuse himself more thoroughly than to thus give his conscience, his will, his life, into the hands of any other than his Lord and Master, be he pope or potentate? The novice delivers himself a prisoner to a iron-clad order, with manacles on his wrists and ankles, and chains on his body. From that moment, till his escape or till death, he is no longer a free man. He has voluntarily yielded his manhood. If true to his vows, he dare not breathe his secrets to his wife, and hardly to his God. Henceforth, there is an impassable barrier between himself and his nearest friends. Like a bird fluttering in its cage, his soul-freedom is held in check by secret pledges. He is not able to rise from a low plain of fellowship with God, if, in fact, loyalty to and the bondage of his lodge do not exclude any fellowship whatever with the Most High. As history proves that fealty to the pope at Rome unfits the Jesuit for citizenship in any government, so in the large majority of cases, loyalty to the lodge prevents or weakens one's loyalty to God.

Notice further (2). The secret lodge is opposed to individual Christian growth, i. e., growth in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. The mental powers are seriously contracted by the rites, forms and ceremonies of the lodge. They are engrossing and narrowing, rather than expanding and broadening, in character. They demand much and return little. They promise great things, but beguile the hungry soul with the husks of high-sounding words and pretentious forms. Think of an immortal being—a child and heir of God—spending 50, 100, or 200 nights during the year, as is often the case, in a round of rites and phrases, signs, countersigns, and watchwords,—tickling himself and others with the straws of unmerited names of worth, honor and power. "Most Worthy?" Worthy of what?

Away with such baubles, with their silly paraphernalia, their tinseled gew-gaws and senseless flummery! They are not worthy an earnest soul. They detract from the great issues of living. They stunt spiritual growth and vigor. They fritter away time, which should be given to grand purposes, on trifles.

But the claim is made that forms and ceremonies are only adjuncts of the lodge; the husks which conceal the kernel within.

From a somewhat intimate acquaintance with the facts of the case, and from reliable testimony, I am prepared to state that the ordinary lodge is not so broadening and ennobling in character as to distinctively develop the spiritual side of its membership. On the other hand, it stunts, dwarfs and throttles the immortal nature reaching after God, truth and righteousness; destroying liberty, it makes soul-development impossible. The caged bird cannot soar aloft. The bond-slave cannot lead the hosts of victory.

(To be concluded.)

COLLEGE FRATERNITIES.

COLLEGE FRATERNITIES—A PRINCIPLE AND A PROPOSITION.

"To further others' interests in the pursuit of our own happiness is a playing at virtue which can only lead the conscience to a consciousness of hypocrisy."—Prof. Robert Flint.

No words against fraternities are intended to deprive any student of social pleasures, nor are they prompted by envy or revenge. The object is to make the social side of college life more pleasant and elevating than it now is. This is a need that is felt by all who are conversant with the facts.

Some thoughtful students conscientiously believe in college fraternities. To them this is specially submitted. Granting, for the sake of argument, that the ceremonies of Greek societies are elevating, their religious instruction and secret environments specially uplifting, and that they are honest in their professions to regulate society for the best interests of all, the entire question is left upon this axiomatic proposition, namely: Special development of a self-elected part of society (first object of secret societies), in those things in which all have equal rights (good society and individual happiness), is against Christianity, against liberty, and destructive to every human interest.

Catholic Rome once claimed unquestionable authority because the Roman church declared itself to be more highly developed in religion (upon which good society depends) than the world which it sought to convert and to rule. If Luther was right in defying such authority, and founding that freedom upon which the best institutions now rest, the proposition is true, and educators are indeed presumptuous in remaining blind to the atrocities which are practiced daily in the name of "friendship and charity."

If the American Constitution teaches that this government shall be one of civil and religious liberty; its affairs conducted for the people and by the people, by means of which general welfare is to be promoted and the blessings of liberty established; if the heroes of '76 were justified in staking their lives upon these principles, then by what authority does a self-elected, oath-bound portion of the people attempt to conceal its methods and principles, seek to control politics, either in school or out, and presume to teach or practice the precepts of religion? K. T. L.

Theoretically a college fraternity elevates its members by separation from the world. They are not in touch with their fellow-students, who will never receive their dictates in public affairs. The American public, in school and out, prides itself upon its own ability to conduct its own affairs, and no student with the spirit of freedom coursing through his veins will knowingly humble himself at the feet of a faction claiming to be better than their fellow-students. Then why should school fraternities battle longer against freedom and justice? Is it the selfishness of youth, or the blindness of age?

Salvation, both here and hereafter, rests upon the cultivation in youth of a spirit of world-wide brotherhood; not the narrowness of "fraternal" love which, from the very invitation to "join," is filled with contentions and hypocrisies; not the shallow love of religious mockeries, but the deep love of Christ, that which gives up wealth, home, friends and life, when necessary to reach and teach the world the way of its salvation.

But little more remains to be said.

The question is pre-eminently a moral one of undreamed-of importance to the happiness of students and vital to the progress of society. This age, though an advanced one, is an unthiinking, hurrying one; money is its object, and expediency its watchword. Much depends upon educators. Society asks them not only to teach the stored-up wisdom of ages, but to restrain and direct the impulses of nature for the higher and finer development of the race.

The quotation at the head of this article occurred this winter in a lesson of the senior class of theological students in a certain university. They are endeavoring to learn, and professing to apply, the principles of universal brotherhood; but five-sevenths of them are under what they believe to be most solemn obligations "to further others' interests in the pursuit of their own happiness." Will their future life accord with the teaching of the class-room, or will they continue to pander to an aristocracy of wealth, "social standing," or "congeniality," which for four years, both in school and out, they have put forth their best efforts to sustain? Or will they seek and save that which was lost to whom they cruelly said in school days: "You are ignorant and uncultured, or you are poor; we have no need for such as you."

All honor to Oberlin, to Wheaton, and every school that has given its students a chance for freedom. They are worthy the patronage of the people, and the success which rewards them. Equal honor to those schools which now will make a reform within their own halls and teach their students to go through college and out into the world manfully reliant upon the strength which God has given and filled with a love to man that is not withered by the blight of artificial social distinctions, but is as wide as the whole world.

HENRY L. F. GILLESPIE.

OUR COLLEGE FRATERNITIES.

By our college I mean the one of which I am a member. Having been a student for more than two years, I should be able, by this time, to form a definite opinion upon the subject.

I can but believe that if the college authorities realized, as I realize, what a detriment fraternities are in a school, that they would at once take steps towards their abolition.

In our college we have about one hundred students; and it has been found necessary to organize four "chapters"—two gentlemen's and two ladies'. Two of these were organized because the original two were not doing the right thing.

These four fraternities consist of about three-fourths of the students, thus leaving one-fourth who are more or less contemptuously termed "barbs." That there are so few "barbs" is owing to the intense rivalry between the different fraternities, all of which are anxious to strengthen their forces by every possible means. It should be remarked that in this strife for predominance, two each of the fraternities act together—one gentlemen's and one ladies'. Notwithstanding the intense strife existing between the "chapters," the "barbs" are not deemed worthy to join the fraternities; are not "good enough."

Now, right on these grounds, I most strenuously object to them. Their great contention is, that they are a benefit to the student, both morally and socially. If so (which I deny), why do they deprive the very students who need this culture the most? If they are a good thing, why not extend their advantage to all, especially to those who need it most? But this they do not do. They "spot" the students as they come in from time to time, and select from among them the ones considered "good enough" to join with them. And, further, it does not require a majority vote to determine who is "good enough" and who is not. If simply one of the initiated fancies that such a party is not to his liking, his fancy prevails, despite the wishes of all the others. Too often, in these decisions, personal motives enter. This I claim is very unjust. The idea that one student, by the exercise of an arbitrary power vested in him, may deprive another of certain social and moral advantages, throughout their whole college life, is not only unjust; it is absurd and cruel,—but nevertheless true. Such arbitrary power is not theory; it is exercised right along here in our own college. I can name more than one of our students who have been deprived of membership because one fellow-student "black-balled" them. This information I gained from the members themselves. On these grounds I most strenuously object to secret clubs of every kind. They produce caste distinction among students. They are both un-Christian and un-democratic; un-Christian, because they confer special privileges, while Christ's teachings are for all; un-democratic, because they make an aristocracy among the students which is against equal rights to all. I could develop this much farther, but time forbids.

Permit me to mention one more thing that is to be deplored; that is, the result of fraternities here. They are the occasion of more turmoil, more strife, more hard feeling, more everything that is bad, than all other things that are combined. The faculty is charged, from time to time, by the different "frats" of being partial towards the others. This, and very much more, makes college life far from pleasant to him who loves peace. But this, I am confident, we never will truly have as long as we allow fraternities in our colleges. Few of their number only admit this.

So then, in conclusion, let me sum up this one-tenth of what I should like to have said by saying that my two most serious objections against secret societies in our college are: First, that they produce caste among the students; and, second, that as a result of fraternities, there is an almost continuous clamor for power, causing strife and bitterness among the students.

It is my sincere wish that those interested in education may awaken to the evil resulting from fraternities in colleges, and I feel quite sure that the wish expressed at the opening of this article would be gratified: the wish that the college fraternities of our country may soon be counted as things of the past. CHAS R JONES.

COLLEGE FRATERNITIES—WHY THEY ARE NOT PROHIBITED.

If these secret societies among students are so bad as investigation seems to show, it is asked why they are permitted when but the word of faculties would abolish them.

Many faculties do not know of the wrongs which their students practice and endure. They do not enter into the social life of young people. They are engrossed too much with book-learning. Witness of this is seen in the petition of students for the resignation of a prominent college president, this school year, on the ground of his lack of interest for their social welfare. Many college professors have been tainted by membership in various chapters, and by their oaths (so a "frat" says) are prevented from acting against college fraternities.

Professors may even owe their position, in great part, to secret societies of students, which never hesitate to meddle in secular affairs.

The children of rich parents are practically always members of some "chapter," and threaten to leave school and use their influence against it if their beloved "frat" is ousted.

A secret fraternity is a great inducement to a large and influential class of students, but this inducement is seldom or never offered in catalogues of colleges. The good sense of the American public does not want such things, and educators know it; hence, they leave the secret society "advantage" out of public circulars, to catch the inexperienced, and trust to the fraternity spirit to promulgate that advantage in secret to those whom they wish.

Students do not like to bring the disgrace which a knowledge of secret society influence would bring upon their alma mater. "Frats" tell their parents only of the "good times" and "dear friends" which their fraternity gives them.

"Barbs" are too sensitive and proud to complain of their humiliating condition, or the wrongs and social ostracism which they cannot escape. They prefer to leave school, as they frequently do when possible, and keep their friends from going where they found nothing but discouragement at every turn. Parents seldom know this; teachers, practically, never.

To illustrate: A "barb" girl was cruelly slighted upon some social occasion. She had long been one who was thought not to care for such things, but was this time accidentally discovered in her room weeping bitterly. This is but one instance, but similar ones are taking place all the time where fraternity influence is powerful. The grief which innocent students bear at the hands of those who boast of their "friendship" can never be known, because those who suffer do so alone, and will never reveal to an unsympathetic world what they endure.

The outbreaks of clannish war in "chapter"-ridden schools occur at intervals, between which there is apparent peace. Thus, like the dragon wounded unto death, they still live.

The participants of a "frat" agitation graduate. Trouble ceases for a term or two. New students become imbued with the fraternity spirit, and the same disgrace is again enacted. The public does not know. The faculty does not want to know—and the students suffer on.

Let us have teachers with enough moral courage to say that this thing must cease. Let them love truth and justice more; give them sympathy for the downtrodden, and let them advertise that they tolerate no aristocracy, and give no student any advantage over another. Give, oh, give us faculties who will cease to bow before popularity, wealth and aristocracy. The public wants them; students will respect and love them, and when they graduate they will not deter their friends from going to their alma mater, and will ever strive for justice between man and man.

* * *

COLLEGE FRATERNITIES.—THE OPINION OF A SOPHOMORE.

In the first place, I object to the Greeks because their principles are wrong. I speak from personal observation. I have closely watched the working of the secret fraternities in our university, and I am thoroughly convinced that they are a bad thing for our institutions of learning. They often cause trouble in college, both with the faculty and with the students. Their low quarrels and disgraceful struggles for college honors are plainly seen by the most unobserving students. The "frat" may answer that "our fraternity is founded on the Scripture." I answer, if this be true, you don't adhere to your principles. Why do you say the most disgraceful things about your rival societies to the new student in order to influence him "your way?" Why do you tell him that the expenses of your society amount to very little? Why will you promise him love, honor, friendship, and a standing in society, whether he deserves it or not? Why will you tell him that the faculty itself will look down on him as an inferior, and will not give him justice in respect to his grades? Why do you tell him that even the students will not respect him, if he remains a non-fraternity man? Why do you plot, scheme, and use every unfair means to place your "frat" man in a college office? And then when confronted with all this, you make the nonsensical answer that "the end justifies the means."

Then, again: It has a bad effect upon the young man that joins. It teaches him to spend his money foolishly. It teaches him many bad habits. It teaches him how to plot and scheme secretly to obtain things to which he has no legitimate right. It instills into his young and ambitious heart principles of secretism that our Saviour so forcibly condemns.

Oh, parents! warn your sons or daughters against these most deplorable evils in our colleges. Let them be warned by the open teachings of Christ. Let them be warned by the testimony of some of our most learned educators. Let them nobly pull through college with a conscience that is not seared with secret darkness and a heart that is free from all secret sins; so their after-life will be bright, and have nothing to mar their happiness. SOPHOMORE, '96.

COLLEGE FRATERNITIES—TESTIMONY FROM EXPERIENCE.

During the last decade this country has been visited by boycotts of organization and federation, defying the law and the rights of mankind, all of which have the tendency of bringing back the unjust and extremely demoralizing customs of feudal times. Formerly these boycotts were fathered only by labor organizations, but such has been their progress that the evil is now supreme, where, of all places in the world, it should be unknown, i. e., in the social life of colleges and universities.

For the last five years, in all large cities, it has been well-nigh impossible for a man with a trade or vocation to follow his calling without joining and paying tribute to a labor organization. Should a non-union man find employment, it is only a question of days before he is forced to "join," or resign his position.

This state of affairs is deplorable enough in the laboring world; but when things come to such a pass that a candidate for a college degree is forced to join an organization, or submit to a boycott, is it not time for educators to take a hand in the matter?

From my experience in student boycotts, and what I have witnessed in my college, I feel justified in giving a short description of boycotting at my alma mater.

Four years ago last September I entered the freshman class of ——— University, wholly unacquainted with the "system" which "regulates" the social affairs of student life. Upon joining a literary society, my eyes were, in a measure, opened at its first election of officers. From the beginning it was evident that two spectral forces were desperate in their endeavors to "snow each other under" in office-holding. After elections, these mysterious factions immediately began new lines of work for the next campaign.

During the first year of college life I endeavored to remain neutral; but upon the election of officers for our college paper thereafter I took a hand in company with others of my belief.

The spring of '91 opened another era of degrading strife. The uncouth "barb," hitherto unnoticed as a party and spurned as a fellow-student, entered the political ring. Owing to this unexpected move, a "barb" was elected for editor-in-chief. Hitherto spurned, the "barb" was thereafter hated by the Greeks, whose sole aim during my remaining three years was to subdue "barbarism."

Students, otherwise honorable, hesitated at nothing to crush the influence, and, if possible, drive the audacious "barb" from school, whose only offence was in seeking to obtain his rights. "Social standing," they openly taught, belonged alone to the fortunate Greeks. Merit was out of the question with an allied faction, composed of the the "best students" who had appointed theselves, respectively, to be members of a ladies' and a gentlemen's secret chapter—the Phi Delts and Pi Phis. Since then there has been an eternal clamor and bitterness among the students.

The class of '93 was divided. Two sets of commencement invitations were sent out, and a failure of class-day was the result.

I might fill a volume with the wrongs which I have witnessed; but it would only recall unpleasant memories. Sufficient to say that the attitude of the faculty has been, as a prominent member said, "to remain neutral to all student factions;" but how they can maintain this attitude and give certain students valuable space in the university property, the immense leverage of secret meetings and arbitrarily selected membership of oath-bound fraternities, is something that I don't understand.

In justice to my instructors, whom I respect, I will say that they are divided as to the moral influence of secretism among students.

For justice to students, whose rights and happiness I also respect, I will say that instructors as great as any of mine are unalterably opposed to Greek fraternities, and that wherever a decisive policy has been in force, students have been free from their influence, and colleges have prospered.

I have recognized the source of trouble in my alma mater, and it is for the love of it and for the happiness and morals of her students that I bear this short and incomplete testimony against a system that the best educators and thinkers, as well as experience and history, declare to be wholly false in reason, and always demoralizing to friendship and morals in its application.

G. A. L. ———, '93.

[At this date affairs are unchanged, except that two new members of the faculty have awakened the ire of certain students by joining one of the rival fraternities of the ladies, and that the rival chapters have taken any one who would join. They have also become almost unspeakable friends (literally), and are resorting to every subterfuge which they can devise to maintain their selfish pleasures and appear respectable before the eyes of the public and tolerable to the faculty and trustees of the school.—G.]

NEW ENGLAND LETTER.

Did Massachusetts ever burn witches?—Dr. Parkhurst.—An ignorant W. C. T. U.—The secret orders.—An Armenian paper on Lucy Stone.—Other matters.—Prohibition.—The death of Miss Peabody.

It is about time the foolish lie that Massachusetts burned witches—a thing never done or thought of within her borders—terribly common as such executions then were in European countries, was nailed for good and all. And I, for one, am glad that Massachusetts has a man to represent her—a double emphasis on the word man—like Hon. Elijah Morse, quick to resent the slander when repeated on the floor of Congress by the Mormon Rawlins, of Utah, with the additional and still more startling statements that polygamy was established in Utah by natives of New England, and was a legitimate outgrowth of Puritanism! This sounds enough like Pres. Eliot's famous Mormon speech, to be stolen from it bodily. But how does Harvard's president enjoy the compliment?

Dr. C. H. Parkhurst, whose assaults on her dens of vice have so stirred New York City, was a farmer's boy, and (what is more) a New England farmer's boy—so he told a reporter recently—who struggled through poverty to success with the same Yankee grit that he now shows in fighting the Tammany tiger;—another proof, if any is needed, that New England still keeps her place as the mother of reformers.

